State Budget Could Spell Trouble for CU

by August Corfont

Governor Robert Casey will issue his budget message on Tuesday, February 9.

Speculation is rife that there will be no increases in the appropriation for Pennsylvania's State System of Higher Education for fiscal year 1993, which runs from July 1, 1993 to June 30, 1994.

If such proves to be the case, California University could face serious budgetary difficulties.

CU operates on a budget of approximately $50 million, 48 percent coming from state appropriations, the remaining 52 percent from tuition and fees.

It is the fiscal responsibility of each university within the system to operate on a balanced budget.

Without an increase in appropriations state universities will have to balance their budgets by a combination of expenditure cuts and tuition increases.

Dr. Allan Golden, vice-president of finance at CU, notes that the SSHE Board of Governors is very sensitive to student needs when faced with the prospect of raising tuition and fees, and that increases in these areas are never enough to offset the revenue lost through cuts in appropriations.

Such being the case, some loss of services to students becomes almost inevitable.

The Administrative Council at CU—the president, vice-presidents and deans—has the responsibility of determining where cuts will be made if they become necessary.

Stay tuned for Governor Casey's budget message.

THE KING LIVES

Or at least a reasonable facsimile thereof, when the musical Bye, Bye Birdie comes to Steele on March 2. Tickets for this major entertainment event are on sale now at the Information Center in the Natali Student Center. General admission price is $8; CU students are admitted free with a valid ID.

California Honors Program Offers THIS Internship in Harrisburg

by Johnna Wohlfarth

The Honors Program at California University has announced an internship program which will be available each semester for one student.

The program, called THIS (The Harrisburg Internship Semester), is sponsored by the State System of Higher Education (SSHE) and Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculty (APSCUF), and is administered out of the University Center in Harrisburg.

The director of THIS, a system faculty member, oversees the interns. Possible areas of internship include:

- The Governor's Policy, Council of the Arts, or Communications offices;
- The Senate Office of the Majority Leader, Communications Office, Policy Development and Research Office, or Office of Senator Mellow;
- The House of Representatives

House Education Committee, Republican Caucus Public Information, or the Office of the Deputy Majority Leader; •Community Relations Liaison with the Department of Environmental Resources.

Funding is provided to cover room and board as well as the cost of public transport in Harrisburg. From this program an intern can gain up to 15 credit hours. Qualified students are required to write and speak effectively.

CU's committee—Jay Powell, James Wood, and Carole Waterhouse—is seeking candidates for the fall 1993 and spring 1994 semesters.

Interested students can pick up application forms in 118 Noss, the Honors Program Office.

All parts of the application must be completed and turned in by April 15.

Qualified students who have an interest are encouraged to apply.

IFC Looks to Increase Dues

Interfraternity Council approved a preliminary motion Tuesday that could lead to increased membership dues.

Membership dues now stand at $1 for each active member of each represented organization.

If approved next week, this motion will raise dues to $2 a member.

IFC President Harry Anthony has warned at past meetings that failure to approve this motion will result in mandatory fundraisers to produce sufficient funding for the many events the council sponsors to promote quality Greek life.

IFC also discussed the formation of numerous committees.

Dave Ferris, IFC treasurer, announced the formation of three new committees to evaluate and reshape significant conventions of the CU Greek World. The Constitution Committee, which will be chaired by Ferris, will revise the IFC constitution. The President's Award Committee, which will consist of one representative from each Greek organization, will restructure the entire program for the prestigious annual award for excellence displayed by Greeks. IFC Public Relations Officer Brian English will chair this committee.

The IFC Ethics committee will be similar to the Greek Judicial board. Greeks interested in participating in this committee should contact the office of Greek Development by Tuesday, Feb. 9. An ethics chair has not yet been named.

All fraternities should submit the names and addresses of their president. Associate member programs must be submitted to the Greek De-

IT'S STRICTLY MONKEY BUSINESS

How much do you value the human life? How far do you think we should go to preserve the human race? I think we should go as far as humanly possible.

I get sick of hearing all of these animal activists bitch and moan about the cruelty of animal testing. They think the testing of animals for the advancement of medical research is wrong. Well, they're wrong.

Check this out. If hooking a monkey's brain up to a car battery will save someone from dying of AIDS ten years down the road, then I have two things to say—the red is positive and the black is negative.

There is nothing more precious than human life. Nothing is more important—not a cat's life (hell, they have nine anyway), not a dog's life, not a monkey's life—no life.

If a monkey or a rat has to die to save my life or someone who is close to me, then so be it. I have no qualms about experimenting on animals, and neither should anyone else. The whole purpose of the experiments is to help prolong our lives; so what the hell's the problem?

And don't even think that breaking into the laboratories and stealing all of the animals is going to solve anything. All they will do is go out and get some more animals, while you're stuck with your house looking like Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom.

What would happen, let's say, if the doctor told you that the only way you would live to see next year is if they gave you some medicine derived from the experimentations on monkeys?

What would you say, "I can't. I'd rather die and become a martyr." WRONG!

You would suck up that medicine like it was Kool-Aid. Get a grip on reality, people! These animals don't know what's going on. How do you know what these animals are feeling?

How do you know that the experiments are cruel and inhumane? You don't, so shut up and let science do what they have to do.

Yeah, I know what you're going to say. We are all God's creatures and we have no right to do what we do, right?

Well, regardless of the point, we are the most important race on this planet.

Why? Because we're human.

If I was a monkey, I'm sure I might be a tad bit upset about the whole situation, but I'm not. We have to look out for our own, and if performing experiments on rats and pigs will save the race to which we belong, then let me sign up for the class.

You people cry about the experiments being done in order to help save your lives. If that's not hypocritical, then I don't know what is.

Now, I don't believe in killing animals, but if an animal dies due to an experiment, I'd rather it be a monkey than a human being.

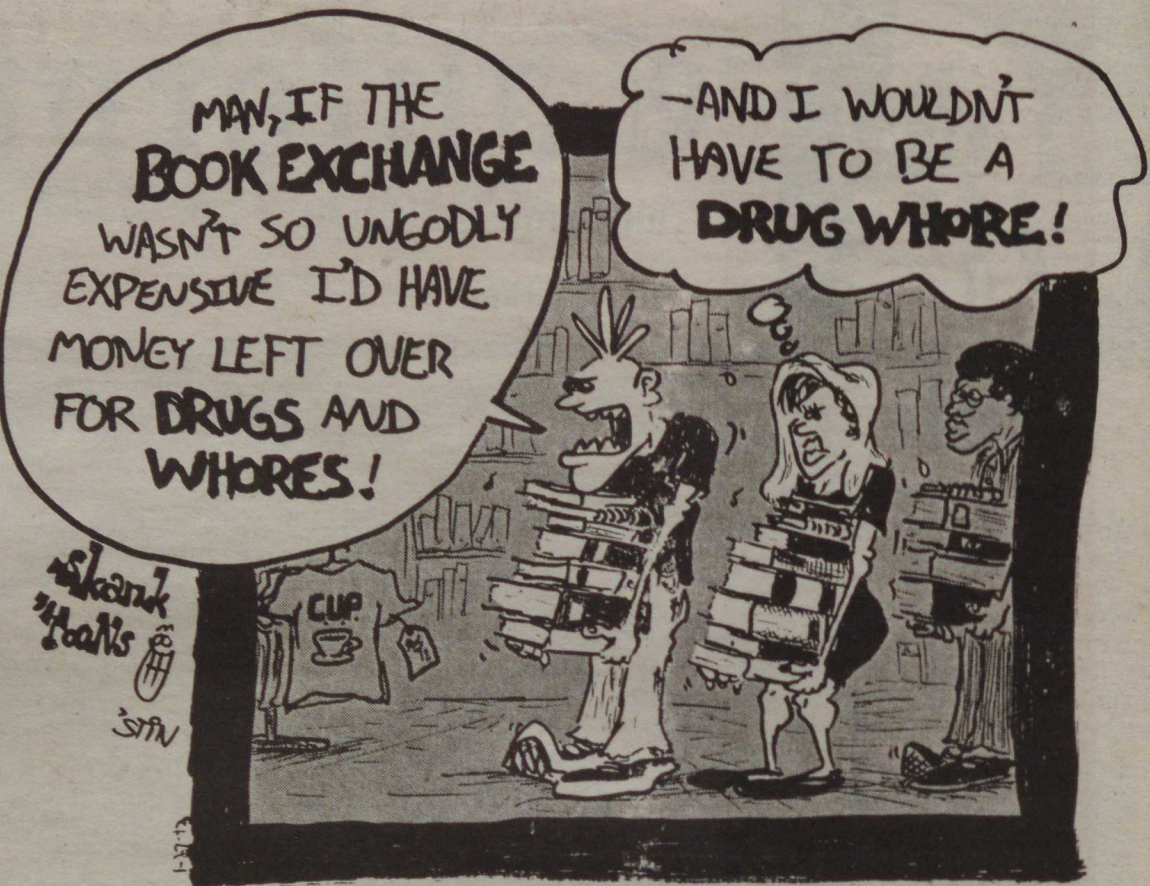

We have to do these experiments on something, and we certainly can't perform them on humans, so we have to do the next best thing.

So quit your crying and let what has to be done be done.

They are doing it for your life, so show some appreciation and quit trying to get in the way of what is really important.

The life that they save, may be yours. And then what would you say?

'School Ties': A Movie Everyone Will Like

Working with Pauly Shore has been proven to cause brain damage. But miraculously, Brendan Fraser, Shore's caveman friend in last summer's timeless classic Encino Man, has somehow avoided this fate in light of his excellent performance in this week's Vulcan Theater movie, School Ties.

Fraser shines, playing David Greene, a Jewish teen who encounters anti-semitism when he is recruited to play quarterback at an elite prep school. I'll be honest here, I rarely enjoy a movie in which there isn't an explosion a minute (Obviously I loved Under Siege), but this film is an exception. Usually in the middle of a film I make a popcorn run, but School Ties kept me so interested that I didn't dare move despite the fact that my chronic popcorn addiction led me to chew my armrest into pieces. My girlfriend even liked this film and she's one of those mutants who hated Star Wars, which is the best movie of all time in my opinion. She hates R2D2 and the Ewoks; need I say more. So, if she likes School Ties you'll like it too because she is very hard to please. I'm very happy to see that the big wigs in Hollywood decided to make this film. It's been a long time coming for a contemporary film about anti-semitism, which is still a major problem in 1993.

High school and/or college graduates can apply for a full-time corps membership. They will be paid a stipend and have basic health insurance coverage. They must commit to one year of service and can serve up to two years. At the end of their year, they will receive a $5,000 post-service benefit which can be used toward higher education or payment of a student loan.

The Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities has launched the Pennsylvania Service Corps (PSC), a training program which will place 125 full-time and 200 part-time corps members in community service settings on college campuses, in K-12 school-based programs, in youth and conservation corps, and in community based organizations. The program will be a Pennsylvania version of VISTA or the Peace Corps.

Dannon's superb acting notwithstanding, Fraser is the shining star of School Ties. I have some free advice for Fraser though. Run for the hills if a producer calls and utters the words, Encino Man II.

Teachers, college students and/or professionals can apply for part-time corps membership. They must commit to serving an average of nine hours a week for three years. They do not receive a stipend. At the end of their service they receive a benefit of $2,000, payable for a higher education, payment of a student loan, or a down-payment on a first home.

The service's ultimate goal is to create an atmosphere of service throughout the Commonwealth which will have broad impacts on

PSC Offers Social Service Training CU Institutes Broadcasting Society

by Transfiguracion Minckler

Most students enter college to pursue a career they will enjoy and that will provide them with a decent income; however, college is expensive.

Even before students get out of college, money they haven't earned yet is already counted towards payment of college loans.

The Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities has launched the Pennsylvania Service Corps (PSC), a training program which will place 125 full-time and 200 part-time corps members in community service settings on college campuses, in K-12 school-based programs, in youth and conservation corps, and in community based organizations. The program will be a Pennsylvania version of VISTA or the Peace Corps.

High school and/or college graduates can apply for a full-time corps membership. They will be paid a stipend and have basic health insurance coverage. They must commit to one year of service and can serve up to two years. At the end of their year, they will receive a $5,000 post-service benefit which can be used toward higher education or payment of a student loan.

At the end of their service they receive a benefit of $2,000, payable for a higher education, payment of a student loan, or a down-payment on a first home.

The service's ultimate goal is to create an atmosphere of service throughout the Commonwealth which will have broad impacts on both participants and community members.

Corps members will spend ten weekends and three full weeks at the beginning, middle and end of their service in a credit-earning training program.

Topics covered will range from the place of service in a democratic society to grant writing and how to run a meeting.

The program is funded by the Commission on National and Community Service, and its aim is "to develop a program with measurable outcomes and demonstrable impacts that will be replicable in other states."

Anyone 17 years or older and who is a U.S. citizen is welcome to apply for the program.

For more information or an application form, come to the Placement and Career Services Department, LRC 229A.

Teleconference Featured as Black History Month Event

As part of California University's celebration of Black History Month, the teleconference Beyond the Dream V: The Writers, The Stories, The Legacy was held in the Vulcan Theatre of the Natali Student Center on Wednesday.

The teleconference, sponsored by the Black Student Union and the Entertaining Arts Committee, was broadcast from Washington, D.C., and was funded by the magazine Black Issues in Higher Education. It was the fifth in a series of annual teleconferences.

The teleconference featured a panel discussion by five contemporary African-American authors: Terry McMillan, Charles Johnson, Nikki Giovanni, Marita Golden, and Houston Baker. Rennee Pous-saint, a correspondent for Prime

Time Live was the host/moderator.

The authors discussed issues facing African-Americans and writing problems, and fielded questions from the nationwide audience watching the program.

One of the questions the panel discussed came from a CU student, Meena Ingram, who asked about the support African-American authors receive from their peers.

IFC MEETING...

development office no later than Friday, Feb. 12. Organizations whose pledge programs are not approved by the Greek Development staff may not take pledge classes.

Spring rosters of active members are due by the February 16 IFC meeting. Organizations not turning in their roster will receive a $10 fine. Monthly reports are due Feb.

9. Late or absent reports will earn their fraternity a $5 fine.

The IFC meets weekly, Tuesdays at 3:15 p.m., in room 206 of the Natali Student Center.

A chapter of Alpha Epsilon Rho, the National Broadcasting Society, has been instituted at California University.

"We're here to basically build a bridge for students who don't know where to look for jobs," said Casey McCrey, president of Alpha Epsilon Rho.

"It gives extra incentives for students to excel in their classes, and it also serves as a link between students and their perspective employers."

Denise Ferguson, chapter secretary, initiated the fraternity's existence at CU last fall. However, the fraternity must wait one year before obtaining recognition by Student Government.

To become a member of Alpha Epsilon Rho, students must attend three consecutive meetings for voting privileges. After the CU chapter becomes a member of the national organization next fall, students are required to have a 3.0 in their majors and a 2.5 overall. Alpha Epsilon Rho is open to all majors.

"Right now, we're not looking at grade point averages as much as finding people who are interested," said McCrey.

The fraternity has two fundraising events for this semester. Members will be selling Subway coupons until Feb. 15 for $3. McCrey said the group also hopes to organize a six-team softball tournament in April.

"I just want to see the organization grow on campus," McCrey said.

Alpha Epsilon Rho meetings are held every Tuesday at 5 p.m. in room 114 in the Watkins Academic Center.

California University Senior Dies

David B. Bucco, 21, a California University senior majoring in applied computer science, was found in his car in Long Branch in the early hours of Saturday, Jan. 23. His death was an apparent suicide.

CU President Dr. Angelo Armenti expressed his sorrow and regret to the family.

Student support services were offered to residents in McCloskey Hall, where Bucco had resided, and other friends of Bucco on campus. The Counseling Center staff and members of the campus ministry were available for individual and group sessions to help students through this difficult time.

An ecumenical memorial service for Bucco is being planned.

Monongahela Hospital Continues Health Series

Monongahela Valley Hospital will continue its ongoing series of Good Health programs at the California Senior Center in February.

On Wednesday, Feb. 10, Paula Ducoeur, R.N. and health educator at the hospital, will present a free educational program, Heart of a Healthy Life, at 11 a.m.

On Feb. 22, the center will host a cholesterol screening from 11 a.m.

to noon. Laboratory personnel from the hospital will administer the tests for $3 per person.

Appointments are necessary and can be made by calling 938-3554.

Both events are among numerous Good Health programs to be presented this year at the senior center. Future programs and screenings will be announced.

International Club Announces Spring Plans

California University's International Club resumed its weekly meetings Wednesday, Jan. 27 with a "Welcome Back" snack party.

Club members discussed plans for the spring semester and new students were introduced to the club.

Some of the International Club plans are a traditional International Dinner on April 3, the annual Spring Break trip to Washington D.C. and Baltimore, several parties and a club skiing or skating excursion.

The club welcomes any new ideas regarding its spring activities.

The weekly club meetings will get more international flavor starting on Wednesday, Feb. 10, when short presentations on different countries will be given, by native students of those countries, followed by question/answer sessions.

Hungary is the main course for those who are hungry for some international experience on Wed. Feb. 10 in the Gold Rush.

Career Services Offers Mock Interviews

Preparation is the key when starting a job search, and now is a good time to take the first step in the preparation process.

It's tough to get a job without going through an interview. The Office of Career Services offers the mock interview program to help students prepare for that important and often stressful process.

This program places a student in a real-life interview situation and, through videotaping, provides immediate feedback on performance.

If you are graduating this semester or have an interview in the near future, we encourage you to begin developing your interviewing skills now.

To get more information or to sign up for a mock interview, visit the Career Services Department in the Learning Research Center or call 938-4413.

Interview sessions are held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Wednesday, and on Thursday from 3:30 to 7 p.m.

Imagine This

The Day Hell Froze Over

Michael Palm

"Bertha, we have a Palm, Michael W. here. He says the computers won't let him register for classes!" the old woman at the desk, who looked as if she was born somewhere in the middle of the sixteenth century, shouted into the back room.

The front office was no bigger than a dorm room. It had a faded couch opposite the door and a worn, orange love seat stashed in the far corner. There was a desk hidden by an overflow of papers, pamphlets and booklets set up perpendicular to the couch and computer, and there was a table placed against the wall to the left. The writing on the ragged piece of scrap paper taped to the computer screen read "System Down! Do Not Use."

"Hold on! Be there in a sec," replied a voice.

The line from the office extended 40 feet down the hall, out the double doors of the Administration Building, around the corner, up the steps and another hundred feet down the main street. It had shortened considerably since this morning, for the students who hadn't dressed for the harsh weather were dropping dead from hypothermia. It was a blustery 15 below with a windchill of -45 degrees.

The valley had just gotten the worst snow storm on record—42 inches with drifts up to nine feet. But school wasn't cancelled. No way. The professors were coming by way of snowmobile—and a few of the philosophy professors by way of monster truck.

I couldn't believe after nine hours, 26 minutes and 13 seconds I was finally in the office—much quicker than last year. I pulled off my seal skin mittens, unzipped my parka and turned off my electric socks.

"What is your social security number Michael?" the old woman shouted.

"189-334-546," I ran off, as if I were giving someone my phone number. I was surprised she hadn't remembered from the two times I gave it to her yesterday and three times the day before.

"So how are the great, great grandchildren doing today," I asked her. Despite the hundreds of times I had been to her desk, I had never asked the woman her name. I never noticed a name plate, but I'm sure it was there, covered by an avalanche of papers.

"Little Bobby is retiring in a week and John, on my husband's side, got his pension check today." Her head, hands, eyelids and I'm sure legs shook furiously as she spoke and gestured. Her hands were arthritic, causing her typing speed to improve.

A tall, thin lady with orange hair emerged from the back room with a pamphlet, three pieces of green paper and a book, and handed them to me.

"Michael, we're sorry, but we seem to have lost or misplaced your SAR's. Fill out the pamphlet I just gave you and bring it back to us as soon as possible. I'm sorry, I can't go into details, but Ruthy, who usually handles this stuff, is away from her desk. So bear with me."

"Away from her desk," I thought. "What exactly does that mean?" Was she out to lunch at the Chinese Wok downtown or was she heading a secret mission to assassinate Saddam Hussein? Which is it?

Clyde (I call her that because of her striking resemblance to the wonderful actor from the old Clint Eastwood movies) reached in her pocket and pulled out a can of mace.

"What's that for?" I asked, taking a step backwards. "What, have you guys resorted to physical as well as emotional torture?"

"No," she smiled. "We're required to carry mace when we tell students that they have been selected for government verification and have to read the book your holding to be able to fill out the green forms I gave you. There was an incident in Michigan where a kid went berzerk and killed everybody in the Financial Aid Office when told this."

"I can't imagine why," I said.

"Oh, before you do any of these other things, your going to have go across the hall to the Revenue Office and get a signature here." She grabbed the paper from me and pointed to the bottom of one of the green sheets.

"Thanks. Is that all?"

"We'll also need your academic transcripts dating back to third grade, a list of all your traffic violations, how many times you have sex a week, and, oh yes," she reached over to the old woman's desk, lifted a stack of papers and grabbed a jar filled with jellybeans, "I need to know how many jellybeans are in this jar."

I conjured up my best Rainman imitation and said, "Definitely 251 beans. Yeah, 251."

I zipped my parka, switched my socks back on, put the book and the papers in a pocket and pulled my seal skin mittens over my hands.

I left the office and turned down the hall, smiling at the line of frost-bitten students. I stepped outside of the building, attached my snowshoes to my boots and began the journey to the end of the Revenue line.

Ambulance people were applying blankets to those students nearest death and CPR to those already gone.

I pulled out the calendar I had stashed in the left lower pocket of my parka and studied it. They were right. It wasn't going to take as long as it did last year. Administration said this year's process would be much speedier than last year's and go much more smoothly.

By God! They were right.

Things got back to normal last week in the Vulcan Battalion. After the long Christmas break, physical training (P.T.) began again.

Four days a week, cadets at California University take part in morning P.T. at 6:30, and at 3 p.m. cadets from our extension centers run an afternoon session.

All cadets in the battalion are encouraged to participate, but only the contracted cadets are required to attend.

After completing the first "easy" session of P.T., most of the cadets couldn't do another push-up to save their lives. Later that week, the juniors, with a little assistance, faced off against the seniors and the cadre in the semester's first basketball match.

Needless to say, the juniors returned victorious, as if there was any doubt. To finish off the week, the battalion took part in the first graded P.T. test of the semester, with most cadets realizing they spent too much time in the Lazy-Boy with the remote control over Christmas.

Also, the battalion began gearing up for the upcoming blood drive last week.

California Army ROTC and the American Red Cross—Johnstown Region—will be conducting a blood-drive on Wednesday, Feb.10, in the Natali Student Center.

The blood drive is a major battalion project for this semester and all cadets will be involved with it in one way or another. A representative from the Red Cross spoke with a large portion of the battalion's contracted cadets, explaining why the demands for blood were so high, the requirements for giving blood, how it is taken, and how it's used.

If you have any questions about donating blood, any at all, please feel free to stop and ask one of us, we'll be glad to talk with you about it.

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF WORLD WAR II
The Battle of the Bulge

As the Allies bludgeoned their way into the border marches of the Reich, Hitler hoarded Germany's last reserves of tanks and infantry for a desperate attempt to reverse the situation in the west.

On December 16, powerful German forces struck the lightly held sector of the First Army front south of Monschau in the Ardennes. German armored spearheads drove toward the Meuse River, aiming at Antwerp.

Aided by bad weather, a variety of deceptive measures and the failure of Allied intelligence to correctly interpret the signs of an impending attack, they achieved complete surprise.

Elements of five U.S. divisions in addition to support troops fell back in confusion. Two regiments of the 106th Infantry Division, cut off and surrounded atop the mountainous Schnee Eifel, surrendered after only brief fighting—the largest battlefield surrender of U.S. troops in World War II.

Partly as a result of the decision to continue attacking throughout the autumn, U.S. forces were spread thin in areas such as the Ardennes, and the Americans had few reserves to meet the attack.

SHAEF immediately ordered available units into the threatened area, sending an airborne division

The focus of instruction in ROTC is leadership development. ROTC is the only place on campus that provides instruction and leadership.

The freshmen and sophomore classes can be taken without incurring any military obligation and into the important communications center of Bastogne.

By December 18, the magnitude of the German effort was clear, and Eisenhower ordered Patton's Third Army to disengage from its offensive toward the Saar and to attack the enemy's southern flank.

Scattered American units, fighting desperate rearguard actions, disrupted the German timetable, obstructing or holding key choke points—road junctions, narrow defiles, and bridges across unfordable streams—to buy time.

Defenders at the town of St. Vith held out for six days; V Corps troops at Elsenborn Ridge repelled furious attacks, jamming the northern shoulder of the enemy advance.

To the south, armored and airborne troops, although completely surrounded and under heavy German attack, held Bastogne for the duration of the battle. German efforts to widen the southern shoulder of the bulge along the Sauer River came to nothing.

Short of fuel, denied critical roadnets, hammered by air attacks and confronted by American armor, the German spearheads recoiled short of the Meuse.

Meanwhile, Patton had altered the Third Army's axis of advance and attacked northward, relieving Bastogne on December 26.

they count as free elective credits. Students involved with ROTC this spring can participate in repelling, caving, skiing, paint gun wars and mountaineering.

For more information about Army ROTC, come to the ROTC building or call 938-4074 or 4134.

On January 3, First and Ninth Army troops and British forces launched attacks against the northern shoulder of the bulge.

Meanwhile, a secondary German offensive, Operation Nordwind, failed in the south. Eisenhower had ordered the Sixth Army Group to fall back, pulling out of Strasbourg. General de Gaulle, the French leader, was enraged.

After heated negotiations, Allied troops remained in Strasbourg, and the German attack lost its momentum.

By the end of January, the Allies had retaken all the ground lost in both German offensives. The Battle of the Bulge was over.

Just as the Allies' August breakthrough had failed to achieve a war-winning decision, so had the German attempt to reenact its victory of June 1940 failed.

The Allies, however, could make good their losses, while Hitler had squandered almost all of his remaining armor and fighter aircraft.

To make matters worse for the Reich, the Soviets on January 12 opened an offensive in Poland and East Prussia which carried their troops to within 40 miles of Berlin.

German forces which survived the Ardennes fighting had to be hurriedly shifted eastward to meet the growing Russian threat.

The Rap According to Shuffle on Back to Buffalo

Tone Cimaglia

In case any of you missed it, in Super Bowl XXVII last Sunday, the Buffalo Bills established themselves as perennial chokers. There's really no other way to describe this team—they're losers.

In an absolutely embarrassing performance, the Bills were crushed by the now World Champion Dallas Cowboys, 52-17.

That is not, I repeat, not a misprint.

Now, don't get the wrong idea. The Cowboys were simply awesome. They dominated in every area of the game. They scored seven touchdowns in a combined time of 3 minutes and 24 seconds. They forced nine turnovers and converted nearly all of them into points.

But that's not the real issue here. The real issue is that the Bills have represented the AFC in the Super Bowl for the past three years, and they have lost all three, with each loss getting worse. If they are the best that the AFC has to offer, then the rest of the conference must really stink.

Forget the fact that they staged the biggest comeback in NFL history by beating Houston in their wild card game. Forget the fact that they won at Pittsburgh and Miami to get the big dance. Forget the fact that they were supposed to win this game because the odds were with them and they had more experience. The only area where they had more experience in was losing.

I'm getting tired of seeing the same thing. I wish Buffalo would go bankrupt and fold from the league. I wish they would go to the Canadian Football League (maybe they could win something there). I wish they could be banned from the Super Bowl, just so someone else could have a chance to lose.

Buffalo has made the biggest sports spectacle in the world a joke.

We sit through 17 weeks of regular season play; four weeks of the playoffs; two weeks of the over-hyped hype, and for what? Just to see them get their asses handed to them year in and year out.

The way I see it, the Bills could have played any of the NFC playoff teams this year (San Francisco, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Dallas, Minnesota, and Washington), and they still would have gotten blitzed.

They're losers—plain and simple. I don't want to hear about how they made it and nobody else did.

Let's not forget, the Bills are in the AFC. They have to play the lowly Jets, Colts and Patriots twice a year. They build a good record off of sorry-ass teams and before you know it—BOO-YA!—they lose another Super Bowl. If you make it three times in a row, play three different teams and you can't win one, then you are a bunch of losers.

If I lived in Buffalo, there is no way in hell I would go to the airport and greet this bunch of bums when they get off of the plane.

No, I take that back. I would go to the airport, but I'd have a nice, big sign that read THANKS BUF-FALO, FOR LETTING US DOWN—AGAIN! YOU JERKS!

Last Sunday's game epitomized the NFC's dominance over the AFC in Super Bowl play (they've won the last nine).

If you look at the two conferences, the NFC has the four best teams in the league—Dallas, San Francisco, New Orleans and Philadelphia. Nobody in the AFC even comes close to being as good as these teams.

The NFC is tougher, stronger and more talented than the AFC. It really didn't matter who Dallas played; they still would have smoked them. The sad thing is that it had to be Buffalo again.

Hey, Buffalo, do me and the entire football world a big favor and lose every game next season. This way you will make sure that you don't go to the Super Bowl again, make everyone think that you are actually good, and then get dissolved by whomever you play.

Actually, I think that Buffalo is trying to become the only team in history to lose a Super Bowl to every team in the NFC.

From what I've seen, it could be true.

Peace! (except to Buffalo)

History Society Discusses Genealogy

The California History Society will center on family history and how to trace it at its meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 10.

The meeting is at the California Public Library, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

An important part of history is personal history—the history of a family line. Usually, a history society is concerned with what could be called formal history—the events of a nation, state, or community.

Usually, it is the latter with the California History Society is also concerned, specifically, with the history of California, Pa.

But, of course, communities are made up of people, and people are part of a family.

Professor Roger Keightley, a retired California University faculty member, will discuss, from his own knowledge, "How to Begin a Family Genealogical Search."

He will discuss and illustrate the how to discovering information about past family generations' history.

Campus Ministry Presents : up Words

Life's Real Heroes

Fr. Bob Connolly

It was an interesting conversation. The high school student I was talking to just found out that his life was significantly changed.

After enjoying good health for a dozen plus years and looking forward to a very healthy future, a sudden hospital trip revealed he had a serious disease.

For the rest of his life, he would have to be treated by diet and medication. It was not an option—failure to follow the program could result in death.

Besides the usual traumatic mess of things young people have to deal with, this young person was now faced with an added burden.

To make things worse, the next few months would be exceptionally difficult as the doctors tried to regulate the medication by a trial-and-error method.

As I spoke to this young person, I was amazed at his positive attitude. There was no hint of the terror that had to be going on inside this person. There was no hint of the burden nature had just handed this kid.

There was verbal recognition of all these things but no indication that he was in any way going to allow this illness to overwhelm him.

He spoke of the nature of the disease and the difficulty of finding the delicate balance of medication. He spoke of the realities of the future. He spoke of the great support it was to have friends visit him in the hospital.

He talked of his fear, his hope, and his faith.

He wondered about his discharge, how good the hospital food was, and how nice they were to him in the hospital.

During our conversation, I thought about another young person who was on television because of a serious illness. I thought of how the cameras and the media expressed their admiration for Mario Lemieux and his courage in the face of illness. I also reflected about how such courage is not really unusual.

As a minister of the Gospel, it is my privilege to talk to courageous people on a regular basis—people faced with catastrophic illnesses, people dealing with overwhelming pain, a sense of loss, or other personal tragedies—and for the most part I am awed by the courage of these people.

People often say there are not a lot of heroes around anymore. As I think of my young friend, and others I have met in my life, I think there are a lot of heroes in our world. The media is so preoccupied with the rich and the famous they rarely have the time to tell us about real heroes.

SEAL Schedules April Events

Student Earth Action League is already planning three days of Earth Day activities in April. SEAL will sponsor concerts, speakers, information tables, vendors and films beginning Tuesday, April 20, and ending on Earth Day, Thursday, April 22. The group will devote one day to human rights, one to animal rights and one to environmental issues. SEAL chose this three-day format because the group works for human and animal rights and for sound environmental practices. Last semester, SEAL sponsored benefit concerts for Greenpeace, People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, and the homeless. SEAL thanks those who volunteered their time and money to make these concerts a success, especially the bands God's Green Apples, Sub Rosa, L.O.D. Posse, Ruggedburn, the Chowdowns and More Bad News. The group raised $75 for Greenpeace, $55 for PETA, and several sacks of canned food for the Salvation Army Food Pantry in Uniontown. Everyone is invited to attend SEAL meetings every Tuesday at 9 p.m. in World Cultures 217.

Vulcans Continuing to Uphold Strong Defense of PSAC-West Title

by Jim Shortz
They have become the PSAC Team of the Decade under head coach Jim Boone and winning has been the one constant for California University's men's basketball team. Last year's 31-2 Dream Season received deserved national attention but the remarkable success achieved so far from the 1992-93 Vulcans could prove to be an even better story.
Predicted not to be a factor in numerous preseason polls, California is again making a serious run at the PSAC-West title and extended play in the mad month of March.
The Vulcans moved into first place in the wild, wild PSAC-West with a tense 91-89 win at Edinboro last Saturday. The two-point win raised Cal's overall record to 15-4 and 4-1 in the division. Streaking Cal has won 13 of its last 15 games and will conclude the first half of PSAC-West play by hosting Lock Haven's Bald Eagles tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Cal's win at Edinboro's McComb fieldhouse capped a perfect 3-0 road week for the Vulcans. Cal won 82-67 at The Rock on Jan. 25 and then clipped Shipp 84-74 on Jan. 27.
The nail-biting, two-point win at Edinboro was Cal's fourth straight win over the Fighting Scots as Boone increased his career mark against the Boro's Greg Walcavich to 6-3.
"That was a very difficult basketball game," said Boone, whose career record at Cal is 145-51. "I'm very proud of the way our guys hung in there and maintained their poise. Edinboro is an extremely tough place to play and we are very fortunate to get out of there with a win."
It was a night that belonged to the officials and the foul line. Cal ended up 21 of 41 from the foul line, while Edinboro was 27 of 36. All told, 49 personal fouls were whistled by Morton and DiFucci.
Cal trailed 46-45 in an offensive first half despite shooting 57% from the floor (16/28).
The talented Scots twice opened up six-point leads in the second half (75-69, 8:27 and 80-74, 7:18) before Cal's comeback.

A three-point bucket by Raymond Gutierrez tied the game at 85 with 3:10 remaining and Gutierrez also gave Cal the lead for good (90-88) with a baseline jumper at 1:22. Edinboro was unable to convert two last-second shots as Cal went to McComb for the second straight year.
Gutierrez, the all-everything student/player from Williamstown, WV, led all scorers with 27 points despite being sidelined for nearly 10 minutes in the second half with a head injury. He was named PSAC Player of the Week after averaging 30 points in the 3-0 week (see elevated story).
Cal's ever-improving post game received strong efforts at Edinboro from juniors Malloy Brown and Chad Scott. Brown scored a career-high 23 points with an incredible 18 rebounds, while the steady Scott added 16 points and 10 boards. Adam Check led the host Scots with 25 points and 13 rebounds.
Junior point guard Darnell "Whizzer" White contributed with 13 points and nine assists, while Todd McLoughlin continued his exceptional all-round defensive play. Freshman Candice Pickens smartly spelled White for 12 minutes and scored three points on the foul line.
Next week, California will return to the road via Bill and Edenfield Stages. Cal will travel to Clarion on Feb. 10 and IUP on Feb. 13. Over the past two years, Cal is 46-6 overall and 16-1 in the west.
The Vulcans have won four of the past six PSAC-West titles and PSAC crowns in 1985, 1988 and 1992.

Junior Vulcan forward Darnell White is rejected by an IUP defender in Cal's 83-79 Hamer Hall loss to the Indians on Jan. 23. White contributed 13 points and nine assists in Cal's 91-89 victory over Edinboro last Saturday at McComb Fieldhouse. With the win, the Vulcans completed a 3-0 week on the road. ## Vulcans Place Sixth at PSAC Championships

by Bill Ding
Sophomore Jay Manson became California University's first PSAC champion since 1991 as he helped the Vulcans to a strong sixth-place team finish at the 1993 PSAC Wrestling Championships which were held at California's Hamer Hall on Jan. 30.
The Vulcans produced a school-record six placewinners en route to a sixth-place finish with 77.50 team points. Lock Haven University won its PSAC-best 17th team title with 129.00 points. Following Lock Haven in the team standings were: Edinboro (121.00), Bloomsburg (108.00), Clarion (103.50), Millersville (78.25), California (77.50), Slippery Rock (31.25), East Stroudsburg (28.50), Shippensburg (23.00), Kutztown (16.50) and Mansfield (7.50).
Cheyney opted not to compete at this year's event while West Chester and Indiana, Pa. do not have wrestling.
"Overall, it was a good tournament," said Cal veteran head coach Robin Ermland after his team hosted the PSAC event for the first time since 1979. "We had the most placewinners we ever had but I would have liked to see some of our guys place higher than they did. We certainly did not get any breaks but our wrestlers have to learn to find a way to win."
California's other placewinners besides Manson were: Ken Porter (158, second), Derrick Robinson (HWT, fourth), Jerry McCoy (190, fourth), Michael Swift (150, fourth) and Kevin Kinane (118, fifth).
Manson, a graduate of Arlington High School in Indianapolis, IN, went 4-0 at the state meet to improve to 29-6 overall. He leads the PSAC in total victories. Manson began the state tournament with a 13-2 major decision over Clarion's Nick Pendolino and advanced to the semifinals with a win by fall (4:24) over Kutztown's Eric Boncher. Manson moved into the finals with a 6-3 decision over Slippery Rock's Dan Krutules and won the 134-pound class with an impressive 15-4 major decision over Millersville's Jeff Witwer.

Porter, a sophomore from Hornell, New York, and Alfredd Almond High School, went 3-1 to finish second at 158. After receiving an opening bye, Porter decided Kutztown's Jarrid Konya 9-6 and advanced to the finals with a 9-6 win over Clarion's Paul Antonio. Porter was defeated by Bloomsburg's Andy Fitzpatrick in the finals, 12-2. Porter is now 20-11 overall.
Robinson, a freshman from Indianapolis, IN, and Lawrence North High School, finished fourth at the heavyweight class. After a bye, Robinson moved into the wrestlebacks after losing 12-4 to Bloomsburg's Brian Keck. In the wrestlebacks, Robinson won by injury default over Slippery Rock's Aaron Armer, major decisioned Kutztown's Robert Walsh (12-4) and decided Lock Haven's Joe Eanton, 5-4. He was defeated 8-1 for third place by Edinboro's Pat Schuster. Robinson's 4-2 PSAC showing improved his overall record to 6-10.
McCoy, a freshman from Hookstown, Pa., and South Side Beaver High School, went 4-2 overall to finish fourth at 190. McCoy received a bye and then lost 7-2 to Bloomsburg's Tyrone Howard. In the wrestlebacks, McCoy recorded wins over Mansfield's Bob Watkins (WBF 3:34), East Stroudsburg's Angelo Borzio (WBF 3:27) and Slippery Rock's Greg Hopkins (6-5 ot) before losing to Edinboro's Bill Friburger (8-3) for third place. McCoy is 23-13 overall.
Swift, a senior from Erie, Pa., and McDowell High School, finished fourth and also went 4-2 to improve to 27-8 overall. Swift opened the tourney with a 22-6 technical fall (6:02) win over East Stroudsburg's Jesse Hull and then lost 13-8 to Bloomsburg's Chad Bailey. In the wrestlebacks, Swift won by disqualification over Kutztown's Jason Kerusz and by disqualification over Mansfield's Vic Gorini. Swift moved into the third-place match with a 3-2 decision over Lock Haven's Pete Ventresca but lost again to Bailey, 7-6.
Kinane, Cal's only NCAA I All-American in 1991-92, went 2-2 to finish fifth at 118. Kinane, who is 27-10 overall, advanced to the semifinals with a 16-4 major decision over Kutztown's Pat Mathuse and a technical fall (5:59) over Millersville's Adam Baran. Kinane was defeated 5-4 in the semifinals by LH's Brian Slates and then lost 8-4 to Clarion's Luke Shocklee. Kinane was awarded fifth by a disqualification of Bloomsburg's Pete Rinella.
California will continue the 1992-93 season by competing at the Lehigh Duals on Feb. 7 with Drexel, Syracuse and host Lehigh.

Flores' Lady Vulcans Return to Hamer Hall After Long Week on the Road

by Glenn J. Lewis

The California women's basketball team has played four away games within a one-week period, which included a 16-point victory at Slippery Rock Jan. 25, and a 79-69 win at Shippensburg Jan. 27. Life on the road then began to take its toll, as Lady Cal lost 77-75 in overtime at Edinboro Jan. 30, and were defeated 96-77 at St. Vincent Feb. 1. Tomorrow evening, the Lady Vulcans will return home to the 'friendly confines of Hamer Hall to face Lock Haven at six o'clock.

At Shippensburg, neither team dominated the beginning part of the first half. With five minutes left, senior forward Corinne Vanderwal made two foul shots, tying the game (23-23) for the fifth time.

Cal then went on a 13-3 scoring run, which gave them a ten-point lead (36-26) with just under two minutes remaining. The Red Raiders were able to shave the Cal lead to six (36-30) before the half.

In the second, the Shipp pulled within two points with four and a half minutes remaining (64-62). Cal then built a ten-point lead with under two minutes left. Clutch foul shooting by junior point guard Lori Richelderfer, who hit four of four in the final minute, helped to ice Cal's third PSAC-West victory in a row.

"We did what we had to do as far as rebounding and running our half-court game," said head coach Paul Flores. "Their inside people couldn't stop (Traci) Cox and Vanderwal."

"With Traci in foul trouble, Dodi (Chapman) stepped in and played well in twelve straight minutes. We need quality minutes from our freshmen," said Flores, who commented on how important the role of newcomers Ashly Pobolish, Sherri Frisco and Erin Tortorice have in the success of the Lady Vulcans this season.

Cox, along with Vanderwal, helped to lead the Lady Vulcan attack scoring 20 points apiece, while hauling in 15 and nine rebounds respectively. Senior guard Annie Malkowiak hit three for four from three-point range, ending with 17 points and downing ten rebounds. Junior guard Lara Thornton had six steals and netted 14 points.

It was off to Edinboro Saturday night, in a battle for second place behind Clarion in the PSAC-West. The first half ended with a 25-24 Cal lead. Neither team shot over 30 percent from the field. The two teams shot a collective 0 for 15 from three-point territory. There were also 31 turnovers.

The second half featured improved overall play. With five and a half left in regulation, the Boro called a timeout after Thornton hit a three-pointer to give Cal a 55-46 lead. Out of the timeout, the Lady Scots hit a layup before Richelderfer nailed a "trei", giving Cal a ten-point lead (58-48) with under five minutes to go.

Within the next minute, Edinboro hit three unanswered baskets, pulling within six (58-54), and Cal called a timeout. Thornton then hit a lay-up, and was fouled with three and a half minutes left. Thornton converted the three-point play, giving the Lady Vulcans a 61-54 lead.

The Lady Scots answered with a three-pointer of their own, and called a timeout with 3:19 on the clock, trailing by four (61-57). The next minute, Cal put Edinboro on the foul line twice. The Lady Scots hit two for four from the stripe, and then hit a three-point shot with under two minutes left, putting Boro up by one, 62-61.

Richelderfer answered back with another three-pointer, followed by a Boro lay-up, and a Thornton three-pointer which made it a 67-64 Cal lead with 46 seconds to go. Following a Lady Scot timeout with 21 seconds left, Malkowiak was sent to line and missed the front end of the one and one. The Boro then hit the game tying three-pointer sending the game into a five minute overtime. Cal was outscored 10-8 in OT.

"We had several opportunities to put this game away," said Flores. "We did what we had to do on defense. (Edinboro forward Jeannie) Jean-Pierre needed 13 (points) for 1,000 and we held her to eight."

That was the first time in her career that Jean-Pierre was held to scoring under double figures. Thornton lead all scorers with 23 points. Cox and Vanderwal hauled in 15 and 13 rebounds, respectively, while both scored in double figures.

The win gave Edinboro a 3-1 PSAC-West record, the Lady Vulcans fell to 3-2.

"8-4 in the PSAC-West is a playoff spot. We know we can compete with everyone in the conference. There's no reason we can't beat Clarion and Edinboro," Flores said.

Monday evening in Latrobe, Cal faced NAIA-power St. Vincent. This foul-plagued matchup saw Vanderwal on the bench with two personals within the first thirty seconds into the game. There were 50 fouls called in the game, including 31 against the Lady Vulcans.

The Bearcats had a 22-11 lead after the first five minutes. Cal then went on a 14-4 scoring run, which included a Cox jump shot, Malkowiak "trei", Vanderwal lay-up and a Thornton three-pointer all in a row, pulling the Lady V's within one (26-25) with six and a half minutes left in the half. A minute and a half later, Cal took the lead after Vanderwal hit two from the foul line.

With under a minute remaining,

St. Vincent hit a "trei", a jump shot, and then went to the line with 8 seconds on the clock and hit both shots for a 43-37 lead.

Malkowiak took the inbound pass and dribbled over center court and hit a straight-on NBA three-pointer as the first half expired. Cal trailed at the half, 43-40.

Opening the second half, St. Vincent built up a nine-point lead (62-53) with under 11 minutes to play. The Lady Vulcans pulled within four (67-63) with eight minutes remaining. After a couple of Cal fouls and Bearcat baskets, the Lady V's found themselves down by 12 (75-63) with 6 minutes on the clock. Vanderwal and Richelderfer each hit two from the foul line. Vanderwal then hit a basket with five minutes left and Cal was within six, trailing 75-69. Cal would not come any closer, and St. Vincent pulled away for the victory.

Vanderwal was the scoring leader for Cal with 23 points.

St. Vincent's overall record improved to 16-6, while the Lady Vulcans fell to 14-5. The Bearcats were the last non-conference opponent Cal will face. Cal will have seven regular season PSAC-West matchups remaining beginning with Lock Haven tomorrow night, and including the Feb. 10 matchup at Clarion.

NOTES: Vanderwal and Cox are number one and two in the PSAC leaders in field goal percentage at 62.7% and 58.9% respectively...Richelderfer is the PSAC assist leader, averaging 8.8 per game...Vanderwal leads the team in scoring with 18.1 points per game and rebounds with 9.8 per game...Other stat leaders include Thornton (17.9 ppg; 5.9 rpg), Cox (15.8 ppg; 8.9 rpg), Malkowiak (14.0 ppg; 6.2 rpg) and Richelderfer (7.7 ppg)...Thornton has 40 steals...Ripken Richelderfer has played every minute in Cal's last seven games, averaging 40.7 minutes per game...All Lady Vulcan games can be heard on WVCS, 91.9 FM. ## Gutierrez is Player of the Week Cal Track Starts Strong at The Rock

by J.B. Anko

For the second time this season, California University's Raymond Gutierrez has been named the PSAC-West's Player of the Week.

In a 3-0 week, Gutierrez averaged 29.7 points, 3.3 rebounds, 2.3 assists and two steals.

He shot 50% from the floor (28/56), 50% from three-point range (19/38) and 93.3% from the foul line (14/15).

He scored 31 points in an 82-67 win at Slippery Rock (Jan. 25) and added 31 more points in an 84-74 win at Shippensburg (Jan. 27).

Gutierrez finished his outstanding three-game road week by scoring 27 points in a 91-89 win at Edinboro last Saturday.

"Raymond is an exceptional player and a quality person," said Cal seventh-year head coach Jim Boone. "He is totally deserving of any awards or honors he receives, but his teammates deserve a lot of credit also for working hard to create scoring opportunities for him."

A pre-med student with a 3.75 cumulative grade-point average, Gutierrez leads the NCAA II in three-pointers with 106 treys and is third nationally in scoring, averaging 27.6 points a game.

The only starter back from last year's 31-2 national Final Four team, Gutierrez has led a young Cal team to a 15-4 overall record and first-place showing in the PSAC-West (4-1).

Cal has won four of the last six PSAC-West titles under Boone (145-51). This season, Cal has won 13 of its last 15 games.

California continues the 1992-93 season by hosting Lock Haven tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Cal Football Signs First Recruit

by Jim Nayseum

California University's football program will have a new head coach by the beginning of February but the Vulcans have already signed their first recruit for the upcoming 1993 season.

Freddie Temoney is a 6-2, 185-pound wide receiver from Washington, DC, H.D. Woodson High School and Montgomery Junior College. Temoney will play wide receiver for the Vulcans and is enrolled at Cal for the 1993 spring semester.

Temoney, who also participated in track in high school, was a two-year football letterman. Playing under head coach Bob Headney, Temoney was an All-Interhigh, all-star selection.

With a squad more than twice the size of last year's, the California University track and field team garnered two first places, a handful of seconds, and some new found respect at the Slippery Rock Indoor Open last Friday.

"For the first meet of the season, we were pleased with the results," said veteran head coach Jack Henck. "This is a departure point for us."

Cal's first places came from sophomore distance runner John Hardick and senior sprinter Rick Hill, two of Cal's returning Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) Championships qualifiers from the '92 season.

Hardick, despite an official's error that led the entire field to run an extra lap of the 220-yard indoor oval, won the 1500 meter dash in a time of 4:17. Hill, running indoor track for the first time after his four-year career on Cal's basketball team, won a very close 220 yard dash in a time of 23.6 seconds.

Hardick and Hill teamed up with talented transfer Fred Temoney and freshman Sean Meetze in the mile relay later in the night, taking second place in a time of 3:46.

"The times in this event and many others were substantially slower than they will be later in the season," said assistant coach Joe Compagni. "But it was good for us to get in a meet and compete well

Bulls Defense Breaks Down in Loss to Detroit

by Adam Burau and
Tone Cimaglia

Last Saturday night at the Civic Arena, the Pittsburgh Bulls dropped a close game with the Detroit Turbos, 18-16, in Major Indoor Lacrosse action.

The Turbos (1-2) broke it open in the fourth quarter by scoring four unanswered goals in a span of 2:36.

After Bulls' forward Jeff Wills scored at 4:01 in the fourth period to put his team up 15-14, Detroit made its run.

The Turbos scored three goals within 38 seconds, the first coming when Ted Dowling stole goaltender Kevin Bilger's outlet pass and flicked in his fourth goal of the game at 5:13, tying it at 15-15.

Twenty-six seconds later, Lyle Shirley gave the Turbos the lead with an unassisted goal, his third of the contest.

Duane Jacobs, assisted by Pete Parke, scored what turned out to be the Turbos' game-winning goal at 5:51.

Detroit's eighteenth goal came at 7:49 when Shirley, assisted by

as a team."

Not to be undone, the women's mile relay (including lead leg freshman Barbara Ritzco, anchor and big sister Brenda Ritzco, Carey Miller, and Nellie Roush) also took second place in a time of 5:01.

Other second places came from junior distance runner Peter Leo in the 3000 meter run (time of 9:28), Cory Lawson in the high jump (clearing 6'6"), and freshman Jennifer King in the 55 yard hurdles (11.7).

Freshman Jeff Otten cruised in for a third place behind Leo in the 3000 with a time of 9:35, while Hill backed up birthday boy Lawson in the high jump with a third place jump of 6'2". Hill's busy night included another third in the 55 yard dash (time of 6.4). Temoney backed him up by running 6.6 seconds for fourth place in the 55 and 24.3 seconds for fourth place in the 220. Relay mates Brends Ritzco and Roush took third and sixth, respectively, with times of 8.0 and 8.2 in the women's 55 yard dash.

Freshman Caroline Kaplan, like a number of Cal's athletes competing in her first collegiate meet, took fourth in the women's 1500 with a time of 5:56. Junior Matt Seibel, another member of the Vulcans' deep distance crew, ran 4:38 in the 1500 and 9:56 in the 3000, while freshman Mark Wassilchak finished close behind him in a personal best 10:01.

Other collegiate bests came from sophomore Christine Czaja in the shot put (36'1", fifth place) and Jim Moore in the long jump (18'7").

In both the women's 440 and the men's 880, Cal entered four athletes who should improve substantially this spring. Barb Ritzco (fifth), Miller (sixth), Brenda Ritzco and King finished well in the 440. In the 880, Otten finished just ahead of three other first-year track team members: Jeff Thompson, Sean Meetze, and Rob Waldem.

Miller also ran her first 880, while the Ritzco sisters teamed up to finish within a second of each other in the 220.

Transfer Pat Ongley, a welcome addition to what should be a strong group of throwers for Cal this year, took seventh in the shot put with a 41'3" effort.

Thinclad Notes: Cal will travel to Robert Morris today for an indoor meet that is expected to be larger and more competitive than the Slippery Rock meet, which featured five teams and a handful of individual competitors...Among the Vulcans' top returning athletes are Cory Lawson for the men, the defending PSAC champion in the high jump, and sophomore school record holder Christine Czaja for the women, who competes in the shot, discus, and javelin.

three times in the contest—twice in the first period (1-0, 3-2) and once to open the fourth period (15-14).

Bilger, who stopped 40 of 58 shots, was disappointed with the loss.

"It's very difficult to lose a game this close," Bilger said. "We have to play a full 60 minutes. We had some mental lapses. It's very easy to second guess yourself in a game like this."

"You have to hand it to Detroit. They never gave up and were shooting very well all night. They bounced back constantly and played a very good game.

"We are a very young team."

There are ten rookies on the Bulls' 26-man roster. Eleven of the remaining 16 players have less than five years experience in the MILL.

NOTES: Detroit's Duane Jacobs won the game's MVP by scoring five goals, including the game winner...Bilger leads the league with 39.0 saves per game...The Bulls' next home game will be Saturday, Feb. 13 against the New York Saints.

"This is a team that doesn't give up 18 goals a game. If we do, we're in trouble."

The Bulls entered the game allowing an average of 14 goals a game.

"We had a solid game plan," said Wey, "but didn't play sound defense off of the ball. It's a matter of execution and communication. We didn't open our mouths."

"Kevin (Bilger) stood on his head tonight. It could have easily been 28-16."

The Bulls (0-3) had the lead only
