200 Sit In On Forum

On Tuesday night, Sept. 16, an open forum with President Nossen was sponsored by the Philosophy Club for the entire student body. Before the open forum the President made a statement of his own position. He explained how many forces try to keep his philosophy from working. The president further stated the pressures of his office from different academic groups allowed for a broadening of the basis of decision-making.

When speaking of proposed curriculum changes, Dr. Nossen stated that he felt there should be no more prescribed courses because the "four puny years in front of us" do not allow us to be so general. He also stated that there is a "desirability in reduction of hours in a course." Many of his shorter comments touched on student dissent which he felt was needed for constructive experimentation. He also emphasized that he did not like

Dr. Nossen Speaks...

Dr. Nossen stated that he thought the AAUP Joint Statement was a very sound document and that he would present it to the Board of Trustees in November after review and approval by student, faculty and administratorship except in the case of personal attacks which are often unnecessary. In closing he thanked the students for their questions and told them to feel free to discuss any problem or disagreement with him.

Coalition Organized

Greencastle, Ind. — (I.P.) — A new college organization actively seeking to replace campus violence with campus reason is getting its national and state leadership from two DePauw University students.

John Long and Terry Lester have been named National Coordinator and State Coordinator for The Majority Coalition. The organization was born at the University of Texas last spring. Senator John Tower of Texas and Governor Edgar Whitcomb of Indiana have gone on record to endorse the new national organization.

The Majority Coalition operates on the promise that all points of view on and off campus ought to be represented in some kind of on-going campus forum. "At every campus where violent confrontations have taken place between students and administrators, studies have revealed an appalling lack of communication between those involved," Long emphasized. "This lack of communication can only lead to further polarization of students into extreme rightist and leftist groups."

The form The Majority Coalition takes on each campus is a matter of choice. It may have open membership with representatives of campus clubs and organizations, be an arm of the existing student government, or be a group of student leaders representing all areas of campus life. These would be sup-

Lit-Film Proposes Fund Event

The BSC Literary and Film Society will present a petition to the College Council Sept. 22 for its first fund-raising event, a double feature of underground films from Europe: PRAGUE: SUMMER OF TANKS, made by professional film-makers during the first moments of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, and PARIS: THE RIGHT TO SPEAK, filmed by French students in the heat of the Paris riots of 1968.

Tentative date for these films is October 1. The proposed admission charge - $1.50 general admission, $1.00 student admission.

FALL SCHEDULE

The BSC Literary and Film Society has announced its Fall, 1969 Film Series.

Weds., Oct. 22 — LA DOCE VITA
Weds., Nov. 5 — THE GRAPES OF WRATH
Weds., Nov. 19 — MONIKA
Weds., Dec. 3 — THE LORD OF THE FLIES
Weds., Dec. 17 — NOTHING BUT A MAN
Weds., Jan. 7 — CARTOUCHE

Membership may be obtained by sending name, box number, and a check for $3 (or $5 for two) to BSC Literary and Film Society, Box 306, College Post Office. Membership includes admission to programs, voting privileges, subscription to THE FOOTNOTE. Only Society members may attend film screenings.

plemented by other non-student representatives.

Probably the primary vehicle in the platform is a recommended 19-member committee that could serve as a model for a decision-making body. The committee would include the president of the board of trustees and the president of the university, three administrators, three faculty members, eight student leaders, and three members of the non-university community.

New Policies

Field Trips and Off-Campus Activities
Sponsors of college organizations and coaches of athletic teams are required to file lists of students who will be off campus for field trips, athletic contests, concerts and other activities, with the Dean of Instruction. The Dean of Instruction will send copies of these lists to the Dean of Students, Dean of Men and Dean of Women. Faculty will not receive lists as they have in the past.

Grad Back

John J. Zarski, a graduate of Bloomsburg State College, has been named to the faculty of that institution as assistant professor serving in the capacity of Assistant Dean of Men. Zarski started his new duties at the beginning of the summer post session on August 11, 1969, according to Elton Hunsinger, Dean of Students.

A native of Shenandoah, Pennsylvania, Zarski attended St. Casimir's Elementary School and the former J. W. Cooper High School which is now Shenandoah Valley. He received his bachelor of science degree in secondary education with a major in English from Bloomsburg State College in August, 1966. He then accepted a graduate assistantship at the University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland, where he was awarded his master of arts degree in counseling and personnel services and has completed additional graduate study. Since July, 1968, he has been an Assistant to the Director of Admissions at the University of Maryland. Zarski is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association of the American Association of Higher Education.

Approved Absence Blanks
Approved absence blanks will no longer be used by students to inform faculty of illness or personal reasons for absence. Students will be expected to inform faculty of the reason for their absences, but the absence form is no longer required.

Meeting Procedure

If you plan to use a classroom as a permanent meeting room throughout this coming year, please make initial arrangements with Mr. John Mulka.

If you desire to announce your meeting in the TODAY, the information must be submitted to Mr. Mulka's secretary at least 24 hours in advance of the meeting.

You are also reminded that each organization may sponsor one fund-raising event per semester. This particular reference is incorrectly written in the PILOT. You should review the fund-raising policy on page 2 in the PILOT.

Students and Migrants

Students and Profs Involved in Day Care Center

By Allan Maurer
Many BSC students and Profs gave of their time and talents to the local Migrant Day Care center this summer.

Initiated in 1954 to give protective care and meaningful learning experiences to 3-5 year old migrant laborers, the Day Care program is a community effort funded through state and federal sources and staffed largely by volunteers. Agencies that have become involved include Health & Sanitation, which provides medical and dental examination and center inspections, Department of Surplus foods, which helps the directors provide the children with a balanced diet, and local churches, Boy Scout, Girl Scout, and 4-H Clubs, and in Bloomsburg, the college. The preceding five groups participate through the volunteered services of their individual members.

Students and Profs Involved
Students of BSC have shown interest and given of their time throughout the program according to Mrs. Eileen Sylvester, Center Director.

Mr. William Acerno's children's theatre group put on puppet shows for the Center's children on two separate occasions. His 15 students made their own puppets, and adapted scripts for presentation.

Dr. Richman, Professor of English, enchanted the youngsters with his one-man flute concerts.

Anthony Sylvester, Professor of History, took the children on a field trip to BSC, where they met Tom Funk, Editor of the '70 yearbook and got a view of the student publications offices (don't knock it, they're something to see).

Other projects involving BSC students and faculty are planned, and there is still time to offer individual help, as the Center continues until October. Those interested may contact Mrs. Eileen Sylvester, by phoning 784-2283.

The Photos

A photographer could not ask for a more charming and willing group of subjects than the children at the Center. Most were downright hamish, posing without direction and presenting an almost unnerving naturalness in the face of the camera.

The Moral

A college can be a good thing for a community to have around. When given the opportunity students and faculty alike have contributed their varied talents and valuable time to community projects (not to mention their blood, literally, or the uses their manpower can be put to, such as when throngs of students searched for, and eventually found a missing hospital patient during a cold snowy night last year). Those who see nothing added to a community by a college except a drug problem should cool their belligerence, take a look around, and then ask themselves a few questions.

Relate Violence In Protests To Environments

Three University of Chicago scholars recently related violence in student protests to the frustration over lack of control that students have over their own environments.

Discussing causes of student protests were Joseph J. Schwab, the William Rainey Harper Professor of Natural Sciences in the College and Professor of Education; Dr. Daniel X. Freedman, Professor and Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry, and Charles W. Wegener, Professor in the New and Humanities Collegiate Division.

Schwab asked Freedman on the weekly television discussion program, "The University of Chicago Round Table," if there were any connections between violence in student protests and the tantrums of small children.

"I think there is," Freedman said. "You can get at the tantrum in terms of loss of control by the child over his environment. The trouble with a tantrum is that it escalates. Where structure breaks down, the tantrum is an attention getting and attention-asking discharge."

"Well, then, Schwab said, "that begins to fit in because these kids, by virtue of their fantasies about where power lies and how easy it is to grab it and how easy it is to exercise once you get it, have really never developed much power over the environment."

Wegener: "that's what I meant by saying that they don't know how you get things done. Almost literally, physically, politically, artistically — they don't know how you get any sort of effective control over the environment except in the simplest kind of physical way: They jump up and down and yell."

M&G Interviews President Nossen

Q. In respect to hours, signing in and signing out, and a great many other processes that could be voluntary but are mandatory, like hours for senior girls who happen to be 20 or 21 and must come in at 12:00 nearly every night.

A. My answer, first of all, would be that I have not yet received all of the applicable state laws of the state. And therefore, I am not an expert on saying what can and cannot be done. In so far as I know, there are no state regulations on this, that this is a responsibility of the local institution providing it does not exceed or violate any of the laws applying to conduct of citizens of the state or violate laws that are relevant to conduct on state property. I think that we will review these things and again, I think this kind of change is inevitable.... We have a student personnel staff here that I have to work with, I respect them, they are a good group and they're trying to work for the welfare of the students and I can't dictate to them anymore than I can dictate to you. Nevertheless, changes in hours, in the patterns of student dormitory regulations are changing all over the country, and even if I wanted to assume that Bloomsburg could avoid this kind of change, it would be a naive assumption.

Q. Do You think we have any chance of becoming a university?

A. "Why certainly we...that possibility exists....its in the scheme of things....But I think we have to earn the right to be called this before we assume the title.

Q. You seem to have a considerable interest in updating and reviewing curriculum and instruction at BSC, is there a chance that students may gain more selectivity in their education, and the benefit of innovations that you have yourself mentioned-like pass-fail options?

A. Yes, definitely. I think some of the inevitable consequences of curriculum evaluation will be less prescriptive programs and a greater latitude of choice, however....I expect to do this through due process with the college community and not simply by deciding in this office what should be. I am going to encourage and try to provide that kind of leadership that will lead to these kinds of reforms and considerations. I think they are essential.

Q. You told us that you are opposed to censorship, and that you believe the campus paper should be so open that an underground isn't needed. Would you care to elaborate?

A. I'd add one point, that I said always recognizing the need for good taste....Censorship doesn't work and what it does is force people underground - and that is worse. So I think there has to be freedom of expression - I don't mind being attacked or having decisions questioned in the paper.... But I would mind having my actions or myself described by a series of four-letter words...and it wouldn't accomplish anything, it certainly wouldn't make me feel any more kindly towards anything.

Q. Is there a possibility that student regulations, especially pertaining to conduct will be clarified, so that a student cannot be tried and convicted for "conduct unbecoming a student of BSC."

A. I think we have a responsibility of being more specific. THE MAROON AND GOLD EXPRESSES ITS THANKS TO DR. NOSSEN FOR HIS TIME, OPEN RESPONSE, AND SUPPORT. WE TAKE THIS OPPORTUNITY TO WISH HIM ALL THE LUCK IN THE WORLD.

Grass, Sex and Violence

See you long-haired intellectual types who carry dog-eared copies of Portnoy's Complaint, as well as you crew-cut readers of Mein Kampf, and any sincere students of English literature who may have wandered into our midst are cordially invited to drop in the Olympian office next Thursday, September 25, around 7:30 p. m. to discuss this year's attack on the fertile minds of BSC students. The office is room 230 in Waller Hall, just down from the M&G, and Obiter offices.

Freshmen and other concerned students who wish to become involved in a worthwhile pastime are cautioned not to be overwhelmed or intimidated by any of the aforementioned characters (or the title of this article) we're just plain folks doing our thing.

Coeds Earn Better Grades

Although casual conversation on the campus at Bloomsburg State College has always credited coeds with achieving better grades than Bloomsburg men, no one (until very recently) has submitted any evidence to prove the point. A recent study made by the Office of the Dean of Instruction finally produced statistics which prove that women students on the campus of the "friendly college on the hill" do actually earn higher grades than their male counterparts.

A study of the cumulative quality point averages of 1319 Bloomsburg women at the close of the college year 1968-1969 indicated an average grade point score of 2.56 while 1527 men compiled a quality point average of 2.27.

Owing to this survey we now know that the women at BSC like their rooms more than the men.

Notre Dame: Fighting Irish, Rockne, and 100 Years of College Football

"Outlined against a blue-gray October sky, The Four Horsemen rode again today." Thus spoke Grantland Rice on October 18, 1924. The Four Horsemen he was referring to were Harry Stuhldreher, Jim Crowley, Don Miller, and Elinor Layden, the great backfield of Notre Dame in the early twenties. The headcoach of this team was Knute Rockne, the immigrant boy who became the greatest coach in college football. His name is, was and always will be a legend among college football coaches.

It seems that through the years his knowledge of football has been pushed to the rear as people talk about the fiery Rockne spirit. With his half-time pep talks he could bring his team from the brink of defeat to the beauty of victory. His record speaks for itself, as far as his football know-how is concerned: 105 victories and only 12 defeats in 13 years of coaching.

The story circling around the death of George Gipp is probably the most famous Rockne legend of all. Gipp was probably his most single football player. And as in Rockne's playing days, Gipp spent four years in Michigan pool rooms and bars until he became a pre-law student at South Bend.

Disaster Strikes Gipp
He was a tremendous runner, with speed and deception that made him great. He was also an outstanding kicker, having once drop-kicked a field goal 62 yards. Then disaster struck in 1920. At a banquet in South Bend, Gipp borrowed teammate Chet Grant's handkerchief, mumbled an excuse to Rockne and went to his room. He was suffering from strep throat and without the miracle drugs of today he died of pneumonia on December 14, 1925, at the age of 25.

Eight years after that, Rockne was in the midst of his poorest season at Notre Dame. The "Fighting Irish" had traveled east to play a tough Army team in Yankee Stadium. In the locker room before the game Rockne made his most remarkable speech. He told his players about Gipp's death. He said that on his deathbed, Gipp had made two requests: to join the Catholic church and that someday, "when the boys are up against it and the odds are piled high against Notre Dame, you ask them to win one for the Gipper." Rockne spoke in a low voice, heavy with emotion "All right," he finished. "This is that game."

"One For The Gipper"
The players ran onto Yankee Stadium with tears in their eyes. This may have affected their play because they couldn't push across for a score in the first half. But dry-eyed after the break they drove for two touchdowns, and when the final whistle stopped Army on the Notre Dame one yard line, the Irish had won for The Gipper. The score was 17-6.

But too soon he was dead at the age of 43. A victim of a plane crash in a Kansas field. The phenomenal Knute Rockne was dead, but his legend as the greatest of the great coaches would live on as inspiration to

Red Gypsy Returns

Not since 1955-56 has a team (Oklahoma) swept two successive clear-cut National Championships. But Ohio State is favored by a large margin to repeat that performance. They could become one of the super teams of football and make 1969 the greatest college football season ever.

Tomorrow most of the major colleges in the nation start their schedule, and this year, as during last season, the Red Gypsy is back with his crystal football to predict the winners of the major college and Pennsylvania Conference games. Last year the Gypsy picked 83 per cent of his predictions correctly, so here are the ones to ignite the 1969 season.

Green Men over Passys
Notre Dame over Northwestern — The Fighting Irish have little to work with but the Wildcats are hurting.

Penn State over Navy — Nittany Lions sink the Middies to start a second great season.

Alabama over Virginia Tech — Crimson Tide opens another great season with a win over the Tech boys.

Army over New Mexico — The desert men haven't won a game in a long while and don't figure to beat the Cadets.

Arkansas over Oklahoma State — The Razorbacks are hoping to top last year's 9-1 record.

Florida State over Wichita — Rampaging Seminoles are on the war path to finish undefeated.

Georgia over Tulane — Defeats aren't part of the Bulldogs plans for another great year.

Michigan State over Washington — The Huskies haven't got much to cope with the Rose-minded Spartans.

BSC over Lock Haven — Huskies are looking for first 1969 win.

Lock Haven - BSC Pre-Game Preview

This year's version of the BSC football team will kickoff the 1969 season this Saturday night at Lock Haven. The Huskies traditional rivals will be flying high to bomb the Huskies.

The 1969 Bald Eagles don't do anything fancy, but new head coach Robert Weller has the offense built around the usual fine running game that Lock Haven has a reputation for.

I talked with BSC head coach Jerry Denstorff recently and asked him what he thought of this year's team compared to 1968, his first year at the reins. What he said was that the team is much stronger than last year, but so are most of the other schools in the conference. Because of this the record may not improve much over last year's 3-4-1 mark.

This year's team is more experienced with 21 lettermen returning from last year. But the reserves are thin and too many injuries could seriously cripple the Huskies' hopes. Already BSC has been slowed by two key injuries. The first was to junior Bill Nagy who ruptured a spinal disc lifting weights last summer. Nagy was the largest, and considered by many as the toughest, lineman on last year's club. The other injury was to junior quarterback Terry Lessman, who tore a cartilage playing softball at the beginning of the summer. It is ironic that as good as both these men are, neither has had a full season of experience in college football. Both hobbled as sophomores last year for most of the season.

Coach Denstorff said he was pleased with the performance of the team in the Trenton practice. But, as he stated, "there are still a lot of rough points to be smoothed out. And the team must continue doing well in the areas they did well in the practice."

The latest edition of the BSC starting line-up for the season opener should be as follows:

- Offense: SE—Berger
QT—Newbert
QG—Beishline
C—Harmanos
SG—McCue
ST—Derr
SE—D. Skrimkowski
WB—Warner
TB—Firestine
FB—P. Skirmkowski
QB—Kopacz

- Defense: LE—Skelding
LT—Swan
MG—Lastowski
RT—Sacco
RE—Reity
LLB—Barnhart
RLB—Klock
MLB—Stutzman
LHB—Jones
RHB—Davis
S—Henning

A bus to the game will be provided by the CGA and tickets may be procured from Mr. Mulka.

Dean of Students Dictates New Social Policies

1. The young ladies and gentlemen are not allowed to pause and loiter for intercommunication in the Halls, Society Rooms, Dining Rooms, or Parlors, unless by special permission. Neither are they permitted to walk, ride or correspond with each other.

2. No absence from meals or tardiness on such occasions, is allowed without special permission obtained beforehand. Particular attention to the requirements of table etiquette will be enjoined upon all.

3. Each student is required to be present at evening Chapel exercises, unless excused.

4. In the time intervening between the close of afternoon study hours and the supper hour, the boarding students have the privilege of leaving the grounds and walking in the neighborhood of the school.

5. After evening Chapel exercises, the students are to repair immediately to their rooms for study; the study bell ending only with the ringing of the first retiring bell, at quarter before ten p.m. During this time no visiting of rooms or loud talking is allowed, and no student is permitted to leave his floor without permission from the teacher in charge.

6. The use of tobacco, in any form, is not allowed in the building or on the school premises. Bloomsburg School Catalog 1969 1969

Derelict Cops-Out

El Paso, Tex. — The aging one-legged veteran in the ten-gallon hat sat in his wheel chair on the El Paso corner between two of the hotels serving the 22nd National Student Association (NSA) Congress.

The ruddy-complected man peddled American flags. In the early days of the two-week long NSA meeting the sign strapped to the side of his wheel chair read, "Support our boys—Let's win in Vietnam." But when the days passed by, and so did the potential 1200 student buyers, the flag salesman changed his pitch. "Let's get out of Vietnam now," appealed a new sign on his chair.

College Group Visits France

A contingent of fifteen French students from the Bloomsburg area spent nine weeks in Europe this summer returning September the 4th.

The group under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Eric W. Smithner, won diplomas and certificates in French language and literature at the provincial university of Peau in the Basque Country and enjoyed the luxuries and rigors of sojourns at Biarritz, Sete on the Mediterranean and excursions in the Pyrenees.

The trip was highlighted by an 8 day stay in Paris with side trips to Chartres and Versaille. There were visits to Notre Dame, the Louvre, various boites and theatres and a final banquet in the restaurant of the Tour Eiffel.

In route back to their plane in Madrid the group spent a rainy and reflective day in San Sebastian. A two-day shopping and rest period in Madrid concluded the program and the French students rejoined Spanish classmates from Bloomsburg for the return last week to Kennedy International.

Kury Speaks to Faculty Association

Franklin L. Kury, Representative to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, will deliver the main address at the first meeting of the Bloomsburg State College Faculty Association at Briar Heights Lodge, September 22. His subject will be "The Politics of Conservation," a topic of controversy throughout the nation, as well as Pennsylvania.

A Sunbury High School graduate, Representative Kury achieved Phi Beta Kappa election at Trinity College in 1958, and received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1961. A practicing lawyer in the firm of Kury and Kury, Sunbury, he was elected to the General Assembly from the 108th Legislative District (Montour and Northumberland counties) in 1966. Returned to the legislature in the 1968 election, he has continued his interests in the Committees on Conservation, Local Government, and Business and Commerce.

According to Program Chairman, Prof. Joseph P. Vaughn, a social hour between 7 and 8 p.m. will precede Mr. Kury's presentation. All faculty members, old and new, are invited as guests of the Association.

KAY F. ROSENCRANCE

Assistant Dean Named at B.S.C.

The appointment of Miss Kay F. Rosencrance as Assistant Dean of Women, with responsibilities in the Counseling Center, at Bloomsburg State College has been announced by Elton Hunsinger, Dean of Students.

A native of Elkins, West Virginia, Miss Rosencrance received her early education in the schools of that community. She was awarded her Bachelor of Arts degree in sociology and psychology at West Virginia University and her Master of Arts degree in counseling and guidance from the same institution where she has taken additional graduate study.

Miss Rosencrance has been a graduate instructor at West Virginia University and during the summer of 1968 was a social worker in the West Virginia Department of Welfare. She is a member of the American Psychological Association and Alpha Iota Sorority, international honorary business sorority.

Miss Rosencrance, who was Miss West Virginia in 1964 in the Miss USA Pageant, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Rosencrance, 115 - 16th Street, Elins, West Virginia.

Minimum Grade Raise Proposed

A report on the pass-fail system at St. Olaf College submitted by a sub-committee of the Curriculum and Educational Policies Committee suggests that the minimum grade be raised from a D to a C-.

Under this system "pass fail" would become "satisfactory-unsatisfactory" with "S" including A's through C's and "U" covering a D or an F. Since the U would include a technicaly passing D, it would not count in the grade point ratio. A student would just not receive any credit for a U.
