Constitutional Revisions

Among the outcome of last year's special College Council meeting was the establishment of the Constitutional Revisions Committee. The Committee has drawn up 4 proposals which were unanimously referred to this year's council at the May 7 meeting of last year's council. They are:

1. We propose that Council consider setting up a student-administrative-faculty commission to make an in-depth study of all facets of BSC.

2. We propose that Council consider the possibility of writing an all college constitution including the Board of Trustees, President, Student Government, Faculty Senate, Judiciary, etc.

3. We propose that Council appoint representatives to consult with the BSC Faculty Assoc. and the AAUP on the responsibility of student participation in the Faculty Senate which is currently under consideration.

4. We propose that the present CGA constitution be completely rewritten perhaps by a specially elected body, approved by council and voted on by a referendum.

This will be presented at the October 27 meeting of College Council. Please read these proposals; they are very important to your future here at BSC.

Stern is Speaking

Phillip D. Stern was the Director of the Planetarium Museum of Art, Science and Industry in Bridgeport, Conn. He was the designer and builder of this unusual and popular planetarium.

Mr. Stern was an assistant professor at the University of Bridgeport. Prior to going to Bridgeport, he was on the staff at Hayden Planetarium in New York City.

He is a fellow member of the Royal Astronomical Society of London; and a member of several societies including the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Institute of Electronic and Electrical Engineers, the Optical Society of America, and the Connecticut

Academy of Arts and Sciences. He is a columnist, radio broadcaster, and author of numerous magazine articles, and an international consultant on planetary design and programming.

He is at present the President of Planetariums Unlimited, Division, Viewlex Corporation. Mr. Phillip D. Stern is going to present a lecture on the topic: BEYOND THE BEYOND. This lecture will be presented on October 29, 1969 in Hartline Science Center, rm. 134 at 7:00 p.m.

A lecture will be presented on the HISTORY OF ASTRONOMY at 10:00 a.m. in Library 35 on Oct. 29, 1969.

Faculty To Meet

The November meeting of the Bloomsburg State College Faculty Association will be a joint Faculty-student discussion, according to Mrs. Anita Donovan, member of the association's program committee. "It will be in the nature of last years meeting on student rights, although we hope to have a much greater student response."

The program committee is formulating a questionnaire, which will be run in the M&G, to determine what issues students most want to talk about with the faculty. While the committee plans this time to emphasize administrative matters and concentrate on the academic, it has by no means ruled out any area of discussion. The questionnaire will also be asking for suggestions as to which professors and students should appear as speakers or panelists for the November meeting.

"The committee recognized that the feeling about last year's meeting on students' rights was very positive: it was successful because the students felt that they were getting to be heard on some important issues, as well as getting answers to some questions. As for the faculty, it would be the understatement of the year to say it was 'illuminating'. The committee felt that

As a result of the creation of the Department of Sociology at the start of the fall semester it has been necessary to revise the list of advisers assigned to arts and Science students majoring in Sociology and Comprehensive Social Sciences and also those Secondary Education students with a concentration in Sociology. All students in these areas should check with Dr. Ralph R. Ireland, Chairman of the Dept. of Sociology, to determine the name of their present adviser.

Sunshine Goes at Haas

This Thursday, Oct. 23, the Bloomsburg Players are opening up their 1969-70 theatre season with the delightful musical comedy, LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE. This spoofing of oldtime musicals of forty years ago takes place at an inn in the North Woods of the Colorado Rocky Mountains. Captain Warrington, played by Bob Casey, a stalwart leader of the Forrest Rangers, marches his men from the Mexican border in search of a notorious band of Indians who have wantonly ravished the land — but what the forest rangers don't know is that the Indians they have been following are only two in number: an aging Indian Chief called Brown Bear, played by Tony Kohl, and an antique guide called Fleet Foot, portrayed by Alan Klawitter.

In the title role of this talk-off on musical comedies of not so long ago, Velma Avery will portray the girlishly sweet heroine who escapes the perils of the Rocky Mountain terrain where she runs the Colorado Inn, falls in love with the handsome Captain of the Forest Rangers, and carols "The Colorado Love Call" and a bouquet of other assorted numbers.

As Mary's maid, Nancy Twinkle, Karen Freid will also have a prominent singing role. She is surrounded throughout the show by a chorus of ten Eastchester Finishing School girls who sing and dance for a medley of some ten different numbers.

Beth Powlius as Madame Von Liebedich will be seen as a romantically inclined opera singer inexplicably afloat in the North Woods while dreaming of dear old Vienna. As the play progresses we find her becoming attached to a retired General who is the temporary undersecretary, second in charge of Indians affairs, played by James Berkeheiser.

The Director, Mr. Robert Rich-ey, has been drilling the case on the dialogue and dance routines and promises a refreshingly different and enjoyable night of entertainment for the entire family.

Accompanying the singing numbers is Mrs. Charles Jackson, our Musical Director, a woman who has had great patience in working with the motely of different voices found in the cast of nearly thirty. Mrs. Jackson will be supported on nights of the performances by her husband, Mr. Charles Jackson, on the bass fiddle, and her two sons, Jeff on the reed organ, and Keith on the drums. Also accompanying the band will be Mr. Joseph Myers playing the trumpet.

Mr. James McCubbin, Technical Director, has designed and built a colorful and imaginative set of the Colorado Inn in the North Woods. It includes everything from the small cottage inn, to the large evergreen trees, to the teepees and totem poles of the Indian tribe, to a colorful background view of the Rocky Mountains.

All things taken together, this musical comedy will prove to be one of the most fun shows ever presented by the Bloomsburg Players. Everybody is welcome for an hilarious night of entertainment.

Performance dates are Oct. 23, 24, and 25 at 8:15 p.m. in Haas Auditorium.

FORUM...Moratorium Comment

Dear Students,
 The events of October 15 were both encouraging and discouraging. Despite the overwhelming anti-war sentiment that prevailed at the Teach-In (Moratorium if you're anti), an open-minded person could actually LEARN something and solidify his ideas on the matter. Unfortunately there were numerous individuals and groups whose actions did anything but promote their cause.

I caution you that the things to learn were not necessarily the array of facts and opinions (mostly opinions) per se, but the opinions (and facts) as presented by certain individuals, that is, in light of their prejudices and abilities. One may learn much about the conflict of ideas that exists simply by observing the sincerity of the persons holding opposing views. I was especially impressed by two participants.

One, the representative of the New Mobilization amazed me both with his sincerity and his astonishingly one-sided presentation. I fully realize that it was his job to instill anti-war sentiment in our student body, but telling only one side of the story is not a very effective way to influence INTELLIGENT people.

telligent action suggested, to my knowledge, to date.

AWARE OF DISCONTENT

The gist of the president's comment was that he was already well aware of the widespread discontent with the war and knew that, no matter how many people converged on Washington, there were probably many more who were sympathetic. He then firmly stated that he was not the representative of the most active or boisterous, but of ALL the people of the U.S. and went on to recognize not only the right to demonstrate but the DUTY of conscientious Americans to voice their opinions in the most effective means possible.

As you may have noticed by now, I was deeply affected by the Teach-In. I feel that I did more worthwhile thinking on Wednesday than I have done in the entire time spent in the establishing learning process, here at BSC, this year. I really wish all of the profs had as much faith in our ability to accept responsibility as the few who cancelled classes. I do not, however, blame the president for his decision not to suspend classes. He is under greater pressure. Due to classes I missed the outstanding discussion that followed Dr. Warren's impromptu presentation.

KEEP THE FAITH

I, for one, am sick of this place being run by rules to keep in line "the few" who are not ready to accept responsibility in the form of liberty. I hope they enjoyed watching the world series on TV, Wednesday. The Teach-In was an excellent opportunity for those who wanted to learn, to do so, and for those who didn't, to screw around. My congratulations to those who were responsible for and participated in the Teach-In, especially the Philosophy Club which provided an excellent film on Red China, Wednesday evening. Keep the faith, baby, changes in the system can and will occur at BSC if YOU show that you care.

Sincerely,
 Sam Trapane
 P.S. Roses to Bill Sanders and a few others who made some good comments and, in general, helped organize the entire event.

Thornes to those who paraded around with arm bands, like Nazis or Red Guards. The band wagon technique of advertising is effective only on the mindless or the gullible. I'm sure you don't want them supporting your cause.

LETTERS

To the Editor:
 I would like to extend a thank you note to the student body of BSC for allowing me to ride in the Homecoming Parade. I sincerely enjoyed this honor. It was especially pleasing for me to see smiles on the faces of young children, and even some of you, when I had the opportunity to pass out cookies and donuts.

I have always had warm feelings toward the students and staff of BSC. I have worked at the college for the past nine and a half years and I wouldn't trade my job for anything. The students who have attended BSC have been the greatest and this is what makes me like my job here. Thank you again for the opportunity of riding in your parade.

Last Summer

Dear Editor,
 Thank you for including David Rosenblum's review of LAST SUMMER (Oct. 17). It said what I had felt about the movie but couldn't put into words very well. I, too, don't mind a movie that has a preoccupation with breasts but one that has a preoccupation with a PREOCCUPATION with breasts loses me somehow. Along with Rosenblum, I would say that this sophomoric quality was attributed to a curiously "mid-le-aged" viewpoint in the film: it did seem to me a look at the "vicious part of the older generation waiting to grow up." I can only imagine that it is meant to justify the older generation in what often appears to me to be their unreasoning hatred and distrust of the young.

Unlike the "sadistic young and old" who Rosenblum thinks would be comforted by this film, I was not made to feel "less lonely," only more so. Think I'll check my birth certificate - maybe I'm NOT over 30.

Dining Room

Dear Editor:
 Your printing of this will assure me that the members of the dining committee and other influentials are aware of this feeling: Many of us DON'T want family style dinners abolished. Casual wear will soon be permitted for these meals and this indicates to us that family style will stop since it seems kind of incongruous to wear jeans; and have water glasses and men hold the chairs for the ladies, etc.

We'd be pleased to hear that family style dinners are economic for Slater or something equally assuring.

Sincerely,
Linda Ennis

PROPAGANDA

For instance, when relating the incidents following the conference at Geneva between Russia, France, U.S., etc. which included an agreement not to interfere with the Diem government in Vietnam, he preceeded to tell everyone that the U.S. immediately began supplying the gov't with weapons to put down the rebels (pictured as the good guys). No indication was given as to the reason for this seemingly imperialistic action by the U.S. Perhaps it was to counter an infiltration of Russian equipped North Vietnamese guerrillas. At any rate, both representatives of the resistance were guilty of this type of PRESENTATION. (Note: Propaganda is principally defined as the methodical spreading of ideas to promote a cause. Anti-American can be considered as anything tending to lower the image or power of our government.) However, both representatives were just as careful as I am not to say anything nasty (as Mr. Ross would say "use stock words or labels that turn you off") in just that many words.

The second person who impressed me was Dr. Warren. He presented the contents of correspondence between a student and President Nixon concerning the president's statement, in a news conference, that he would not pay any attention to demonstrations in determining our government's policy. I am certainly not a Nixon fan, but the contents of his letter of reply stood out as the result of the most deliberate thought and in-

BSC Treated to Opera

A first for Bloomsburg State College will occur next Monday evening, October 27 at 8:15 p.m. when the red curtain of Haas Auditorium rings up on the first professional opera performance at the college. Under the auspices of the Committee on Artists and Lectures, the TURNAU OPERA PLAYERS will present a performance of Johann Strauss' comic opera, "Die Fledermaus" sung in English.

"Die Fledermaus is known in English as "The Bat" and has been a favorite comic opera with the Metropolitan Opera. Of course, aside from the madly comic libretto (it cannot be sanely summarized) is the lilting melodies of Johann Straus.

The Turnau Opera Players has been organized as a nonprofit, educational institution. It is a pilot attempt to take professional opera into American communities. Another educational function is that of furnishing experience to young singers and production personnel who have completed their artistic training. The company is professional in every sense.

Toured Extensively

The Turnau Opera Players have toured extensively for nine seasons in nearly every part of the United States. To date 80 singers, musicians, and production staff have summered with the company at the Asolo Theatre in Sarasota, Florida. With the season just completed, the Company will have staged over 600 performances of 60 operas, including 7 premieres of contemporary works.

Performances are open to the public for a minimal charge. Teachers are especially urged to bring classes at group rates. For information, call M. J. McHale, extension 207 at the college. The Artists and Lecture Series is supported by the Community Government Association to bring cultural and educational events to the campus.

Tickets will be on sale on the evening of performance in the lobby of Haas Auditorium.

If you like good music, good tunes, and good comedy, then Monday's performance of "Die Fledermaus" is for you.

Don't miss the TURNAU OPERA PLAYERS in their presentation of Johann Strauss' comic opera, "Die Fledermaus" (in English), on Monday evening at 8:15 in Haas Auditorium.

Corrections

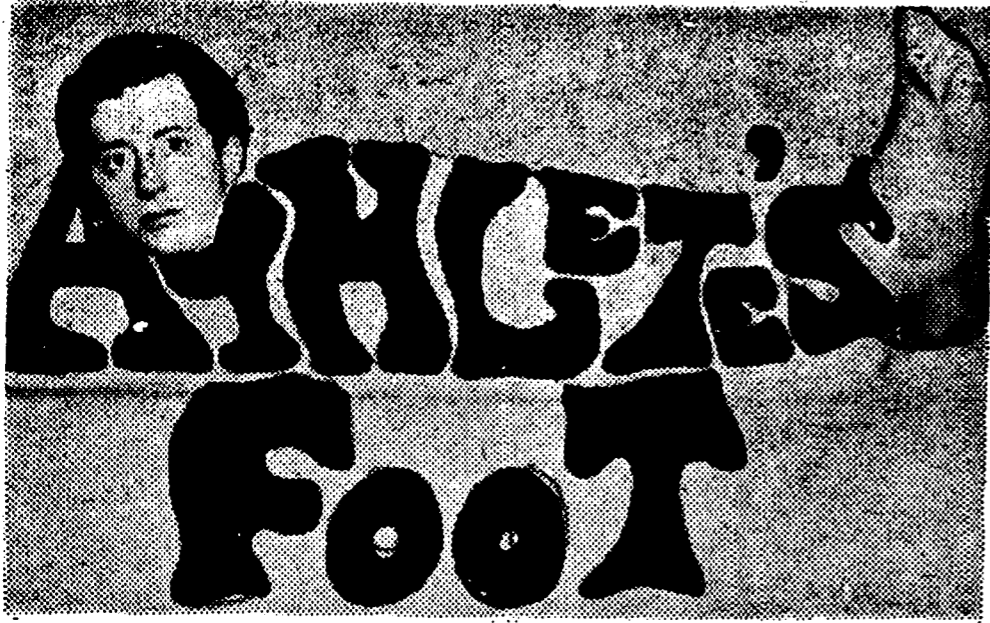

A number of mistakes have appeared on The Feature pages of the M&G since September. A few corrections follow; Dr. Jordan Richman plays the violin. He was reported to have played a flute in the article on the Day Care Center.

Craig Newton did not vote against the history department's resolution "recognizing the significance of the Vietnam Teach-in at BSC."

John Cooper claims that he does not have the dirtiest mouth on campus. He says "that's a f---ing lie."

Errors of any sort are regrettable. We thank those who have corrected us in the past. Any factual errors called to our attention will be corrected, so bear with us and keep the feedback coming.

Huskiettes Defeat MSC 2-1

Monday, October 20, the woman's field hockey team suffered its second loss. Bloomsburg met Mansfield on the country club field and after a hard fought first half, the score stood at 2-1 in favor of Mansfield. Carol Bolton scored BSC's goal.

The Huskies rallied in the second half to tie the score with Carol Bolton scoring twice. Mansfield retaliated in the closing minutes with the winning score. The final score was BSC 3 and Mansfield 4.

The hockey team, under their coach Miss Wray, now have compiled a 1-2 record. The team will meet Susquehanna on Thursday at home and Bucknell on October 29, to conclude the season.

Skrimcousky Hits The Wall

Last week's guest prognosticator, Super J, is fired. Out of the 20 picks, he only managed to correctly pick 11 for 55 per cent. Now admit it, even I can do better than that. So if I'm back in the driver's seat, away we go.

Alabama over Celmsom-Crimson Tide will be out for blood after last week's disaster.

Ohio State over Illinois - No. 1 Buckeyes roll on.

Texas over Rice-Longhorns tree the Owls to remain undefeated.

USC over Georgia Tech - The Yellow Jackets can't stop J.J.

Arkansas over Wichita-Razorbacks to chop up the Shockers.

Penn State over Ohio University-The nittany Lions had a tough time last week, but not so with the Bobcats.

Missouri over Colorado-No 6 Tigers should finish the extinction of the Buffalos.

UCLA over Stanford-The Indians get scalped this time. Louisiana State over Auburn-Bulldogs have a tiger by the tail and are going to get zonked.

Florida over Vanderbilt-The poor Commodores are going to sink into the sunset when the Gators attack.

Notre Dame over Tulane-The Green Wave is going to turn into a gentle ripple.

Oklahoma over Kansas State-Sooners turn the Wildcats into Pussys.

Georgia over Kentucky-What the Wildcats need is a little more Bulldog power.

Wyoming over San Jose State-Spartans are hunting for everything, even players.

Purdue over Northwestern-Boilermakers to roast the hapless, sick Wildcats.

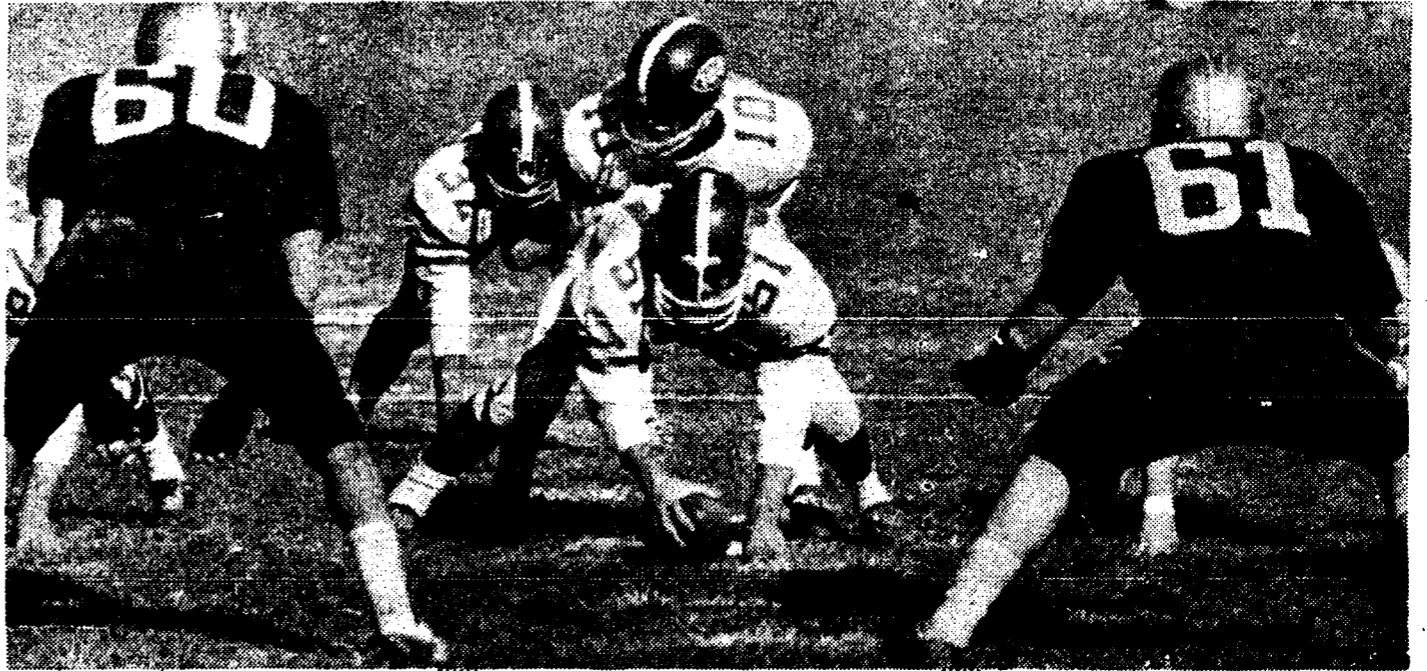

Michigan State over Iowa-Spartans shoot down the Hawkeyes for two in a row.

Mississippi over Houston-Playboy's No 1 Cougars aren't as good as predicted. Rebels run charge to win.

Minnesota over Michigan-Upset of the week. Gophers to bury the skidding Wolverines.

Syracuse over Holy Cross-Orangeman out for red blood after last week's last minute defeat.

Bloomsburg over Cheyney-Two in a row for the rising Huskies.

Bowl Fever — Team Hex

Coaches shudder at the word "bowl" at this stage of the football season. Mention of post-season games has a way of diverting attention from the contest just ahead.

In the case of Pennsylvania Conference powers West Chester and Clarion, however, an eventual bowl bid could hinge on non-conference games this Saturday.

Members of the NCAA Eastern Regional college division bowl committee will be watching closely the results of contests between Delaware (3-1) and West Chester (4-1) and Clarion

(5-0) and Indiana, Penna. State University (4-0).

Ernest C. Casale, Temple athletic director and chairman of the selection committee for the Boardwalk Bowl in Atlantic City, N.J. scheduled for December, said this week that West Chester, Clarion and Delaware were among eight teams being considered for the indoor-post-season game.

West Chester athletic director Robert W. Reese said that his school would accept a bid if tendered. Clarion athletic director Frank Lignelli stated that "we are naturally interested" although his athletic committee would decide.

DON'T WANT A HEX

Lignelli pointed out, however, he thought it a bit early to talk about bowls. "I don't want to put a hex on the team," he said with coachy concern. Lignelli is an assistant to head coach Al Jacks. He is also president of the Pennsylvania Conference.

Indiana, a 31-24 loser to Delaware in a thrilling Boardwalk Bowl opener last year, will not be coming back to Atlantic City this year. The NAIA (National Association of Inter-Collegiate Athletics) to which Indiana also belongs placed the football team on probation a year for participating in the NCAA bowl "without permission".

In Pennsylvania Conference action Casterline leads the league in total offense (1162 yards), passing (89 completions, nine TD's and 55.6 percent accuracy) and scoring (42 points). But East Stroudsburg has just as fine a quarterback in Billy Dukett who is poised in second place ready to take over Casterline's total offense and passing leadership.

Xi Lambda Undefeated

Last Saturday, October 18, Xi Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega traveled to Shippensburg State College to meet the Lambda Chapter for an inter chapter football game. After a tough beginning, Xi Lambda began to show its power, and after everything was over and the dust had cleared, Xi

Lambda came away with a 43-0 win.

This week, Sunday, October 26, Alpha Beta Chapter of Penn State will invade BSC trying to upset the powerful Xi Lambda team which is thus far unscored upon in two games. Earlier they had beat Zeta Psi of BSC, 49-0.

Kappa Delta Pi

Dr. Nossen was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of Kappa Delta Pi, the National Honorary Education Fraternity. Before the meeting Dr. Nossen, and the officers and advisors of the fraternity, dined in the College Commons. Following the meal, the group went to the library for the regular meeting.

Dr. Nossen's message was concerned with the change of Education in society as well as proposed changes at Bloomsburg State. The only two fields that are relatively constant are literature and mathematics. All other fields are undergoing constant change.

There are many changes in store for BSC's educational progress. These changes will require much work and cooperation on the part of BSC students, faculty and administration. There is no doubt that change is needed

Sociology Club

There will be an organizational meeting of the newly established Sociology club at 7:30 p. m., on Tuesday, October 28, in the Library Auditorium. Club membership is not restricted to those Arts and Science students majoring in Sociology or to those in Secondary Education students with a concentration in Sociology. Any student in the fields of Sociology, Anthropology or Social Work is invited to attend.

After the address, the group discussed forthcoming activities. The elementary tutorial program will be continued this year, and in addition, the members would like to begin a high school tutoring program. Mr. Shanoski and Mr. Sylvester, advisors, discussed the possibility of inviting some guest speakers for future meetings. They hope to contact John Holt, famous educator and author of Why Children Fail, as one possibility.

Pre-Cana

Marriage is the subject! Pre-Cana is the name! The Newman Center is the Place! Sunday October 26 is the time!

Couples or individuals who plan to marry in a Roman Catholic ceremony between now and spring 1970 are invited to attend the Pre-Cana Conference, already in progress, at the Newman Center, 329 Iron St., Bloomsburg, at 7:30 p. m.

On October 26 staff member of the Geisinger Medical Center will speak on sexuality in marriage and discuss medical questions.

The Pre-Cana takes the place of the pre-marital instruction expected before a Catholic ceremony. A certificate will be issued upon completion of full attendance at the conferences. This is the last week for you to fulfill these requirements at Bloomsburg, however Pre-Cana will also be held in Lewisburg. Attendance can be made up for those missed here. For more information or if you wish to attend the conferences at the Center, please call Father Petrina at 784-3123. Students of other faiths are welcome to attend.

Fractured Fairy Tales or BSC Revisited

We lay our scene on the desolate and blighted campus of Bloomsburg State College, some thirty odd years ago. Students at this time are in great expectation as to who will succeed his imperial majesty, King Francis of the Haas dynasty. Some say that one of the long established nobles of the college will ascend to the throne, others say they have no idea, and still others say this was all going on, a proclamation from the Diety was handed down stating that an obscure foreign prince from Oklahoma, Harvey Andruss, had been chosen to lead the government of the College. There was little rejoicing among either the students or the faculty, for little was known of this land baron from the far away Mid-West. Despite this, the populace of the college soon accepted him, and in the year of Our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, Mr. Andruss was coronated Czar Harvey the First, Czar of Carver, Waller, Noetling; Grand Duke of Old North Hall, and all the land masses between Penn Street and Lightstreet Road.

During Czar Harvey's colorful reign, one could associate him with some of the most interesting figures in history, such as Ivan the Terrible and Nicholas II of Russia, Franz Joseph of Austria-Hungary, George III of Great Britain, Louis XVI of France, Attila the Hun, and St. Thomas of Obiter. The thirty years of rule under Harvey the First were very peaceful, considering no one would raise an opposition. The only battle of major importance was when the college was invaded by a gang of mad wood-elves from a neighboring forest. The resulting battle was how Bloomsburg lost Noetling Hall. Also, towards the end of his administration, Harvey was faced with a series of outbreaks (dissent within the ranks of the students); but like his predecessors he used the one method of curbing dissent — that is, ignoring those who opposed him.

Harvey the First's government resembled that of the Czarist government after 1905. That is, the country, like the college, had a parliament that did nothing except advise; and no matter what was said, the Czar had the last word.

The beginning of the end came for the era of Harvey I at the close of the 68-69 college year; and, in the summer of 1969 A. D., the era finally closed with the abdication of the aging Czar who had led Bloomsburg through war and brought it to the brink of the nineteenth century.

As Tacitus once said, "C'est la obiter dictum."
