Advance Schedule Program Listed

Dean Hoch has announced that advanced scheduling for the second semester will take place from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 2 to 5 p.m., as follows:

Secondary

November 29, 30; December 1-6. Headquarters will be in the offices on the first floor of Navy Hall. Mr. Edwards, Director.

Business

December 6-8. Headquarters in Sutliff Hall. Dr. Martin, Director.

Special Education

December 11-13. Headquarters in the Special Education Center. Dr. Maietta, Director.

Elementary

December 14-19. Headquarters in the Basement of Benjamin Franklin School. Dr. Johnson, Director.

During the scheduling period the Departmental Chairmen, or their chosen representatives, will have their offices in Old North Hall. The change in scheduling procedures has been made to prepare for the eventual change to IBM scheduling.

Separate days will be assigned to each of the classes, starting with the Senior Class. Dean Hoch emphasized that advanced scheduling is the responsibility of the individual student.

Check the bulletin boards for further information.

Busby Addresses BSC Convocation

"As citizens and as individuals, we are certainly being asked to make choices," stated Mr. Jack K. Busby, President of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company. Mr. Busby's "Utilizing Our Natural Resources" was delivered to approximately two thousand students and faculty members at a college convocation held recently. As compared to our governmental resources, Mr. Busby feels that our natural resources must also be used efficiently if we intend to attain our goals.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Busby is a magna cum laude Princeton and Yale University Law School graduate. He was associated with the New York law firm of Simpson, Thatcher, and Bartlett. He joined the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company in 1951 as General Counsel.

Pa. Deans Discuss Problems of Coeds

Miss Ellamae Jackson, Dean of Women; Mrs. Horace Williams, Assistant Dean of Women; and Miss Margaret Egger, Resident Advisor, recently represented BSC at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Women Deans in Hershey. The convention was highlighted by the keynote address by Dr. Kate Mueller, Professor of Higher Education at Indiana University. Discussion groups met to consider topics of Facing Responsibilities, Counseling College Women for Life in the Next Three Decades, Exchanging Ideas on Freshmen Orientation, A New Role for the College-Educated Woman, Adjustment Problems of Students to College Life, and The Role of Deans in These Problems.

Mlle Contest to Award $500 Prize

The editors of Mademoiselle magazine are looking for talented young women for their annual College Board and College Fiction contests.

The College Fiction Contest offers $500 and publication in Mademoiselle to each of two winners. All stories submitted will be judged with the work of other college students. Eligibility for this contest includes being a woman undergraduate and under 26 years of age. An original, previously unpublished fiction story of 2,500 to 5,000 words must be submitted by applicants. Stories that have appeared in undergraduate or alumni publications are acceptable provided they have not been published elsewhere.

The College Board Contest is directed toward students who are interested in magazine work. College Board members are selected on the basis of a tryout assignment. If the tryout assignment is accepted, the applicant then becomes a College Board editor and a reporter for Mademoiselle on her campus. Guest Editorships to 20 outstanding College Board members will be awarded on the basis of an additional assignment to be submitted by February, 1962. The 20 winners spend the month of June in New York, working on salary with the staff of Mademoiselle.

All BSC women who would like to enter either or both of these contests may obtain additional information about them in the Maroon and Gold Office.

New Penna. Law Alters Curricula

Potential program changes in Mathematics, Chemistry, and Physics were the subjects of a recent meeting at Harrisburg attended by Dean Hoch, Mr. Leitzel, Mr. Sgradtman, Mr. Scarpino, and Mr. Shortess. These faculty members will make suggestions as to how the present Mathematics and Science programs at BSC can be enlarged.

The meeting, called by Dr. Charles Boehm, Superintendent of Public Instruction, was necessitated by a new Pennsylvania law which changes the curricula of the state colleges to include programs in the arts and sciences. Representatives from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, University of Pennsylvania, and Franklin and Marshall College discussed the respective Liberal Arts programs in Physical Science. Dr. Neidig, of the Chemical Department of Lebanon Valley College, summarized the discussion and suggested that a good Liberal Arts program includes sufficient library facilities, opportunity for creative study, research facilities, and an adequate staff.

Hoch States Work Is Substance of Everyone's Life

"Work is the main course, the substance of our lives," stated Dean John A. Hoch at the teachers' Cooperative Workshop of Northumberland County. In the course of developing his topic "This Is My Work," Dean Hoch stressed the fact that, by making a simple alteration in their mental view, many of those people who believe they dislike their occupation might find that they could actually enjoy their work.

Two things that can be done to lessen the dullness of a person's day-to-day work were proposed by Dean Hoch. First, it is necessary for one to do more and better work; and second, a person must realize that if he was not compelled to work, the chances are that he would desire to work.

Dean Hoch requested of his audience of teachers that they refrain from apologizing for being teachers. If in a teacher's opinion he is "just a teacher," is it fair to reproach the public for having the impression that the teacher of the public schools of relatively small importance to the community?

Peace Corps Representative To Visit Campus, Nov. 16

Miss Maris Ross, a field representative of the United States Peace Corps, is arriving at Bloomsburg State College, Thursday, November 16, for a one day visit. Her arrival coincides with a nationwide information program conducted by the Peace Corps to explain the purpose of the new agency and the many opportunities it offers for overseas service in the newly developing nations of the world.

In addition to the students of Bloomsburg State College, Miss Ross is interested in speaking with anyone desiring to become a Peace Corps Volunteer. She can be reached through the office of Dean J. Alfred McCauslin between 10:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. The telephone number is ST 4-4600 extension 26. Dean McCauslin has been appointed Peace Corps Campus Liaison.

Any American citizen over 18 may apply. There is no upper age limit. Miss Ross says that many Asian, African, and Latin American countries, and some European countries, are asking the Peace Corps to send them American teachers, agricultural specialists, health and medical personnel, and persons with technical, trade and industrial arts experience. These are the special skills, she points out, that the emerging nations need in their struggle for social, economic, cultural and industrial growth.

Miss Ross has been assigned four student guides: Carol DelVecchio, Terry Bernardi, Dick Lloyd, and Bill Wiser. Following a luncheon with her guides and Dean McCauslin, Miss Ross will address an assembly. She will then be available to answer any questions concerning the Peace Corps that the students' may have.

WAC Officer On Campus Nov. 9

First Lieutenant Rhoda M. Hevner, Procurement Officer for the Women's Army Corps in this area, in a recent assembly, informed junior and senior women students about the Women's Army Corps Direct Commission and College Junior Programs. Senior women students are eligible to apply for Direct Commissions as Second Lieutenants in the U. S. Army upon graduation, thereby starting their Army career as executives. Junior women students are eligible to apply for the new four-week Summer Training Program. In addition to a full month's salary, all expenses of travel, uniforms, food and lodging are provided these women by the U. S. Army. No obligation beyond attending the four-week class is attached to the offer. She addressed a general assembly at 2 p.m.

Dr. Martin Speaks To Area Teachers PSEA Conference

Dr. Thomas B. Martin, Director of Business Education and Graduate Studies, recently addressed the Business Education Sectional Meeting at the Annual Conference of the Northeastern Pennsylvania District of the P.S.E.A. In his discussion entitled "Business Education in the Decade Ahead," Dr. Martin spoke to business teachers throughout the district.

In the future, Dr. Martin is to address the Lancaster Chapter of the National Office Management Association. This meeting will be concerned with education and problems associated with the public school program. Dr. Martin's topic will be "Developing Economic Literacy—the Challenge to Business Education in the Decade Ahead."

"Crucible" To Be Presented By Bloomsburg Players

The "Crucible," Arthur Miller's well-known play will be presented by the Bloomsburg Players on November 16 and 17 at 8:15 p.m. in Carver Auditorium. This play takes place in the Puritan settlement of Salem, Massachusetts, in the spring of 1692 at the outset of the notorious witchcraft trials. The highlight of the play is the trial scene when the young children of the community stir the entire town into an uproar.

German National Spirit Is Powerful

by BILL MARTIN

What is the new German national spirit? How will this new nationalism affect the foreign policy of the United States? Dr. Burdette Gardner, Associate Professor of English at BSC, discussed these questions in a lecture to the English Club recently.

Dr. Gardner said that this new nationalism is becoming incessant in its demands for a unified Germany. The new nationalism, he asserted, is not in tune with the policies of Konrad Adenauer's government. Adenauer does not really want a re-united Germany, nor is this a vital part of his program.

This nationalism, emphasized Dr. Gardner, is not akin to the Nazi nationalism of the 1930's. However, it will die out if nothing is done to reunify Germany in this generation which was born and raised in the Nazi state. The East German Communists are trying to replace this nationalism with communist enthusiasm. So far they have not been successful, and nationalism remains just under the surface in East Germany. Nevertheless, the Communist indoctrinated German youth may soon destroy this nationalism.

In West Germany nationalism is not as strong as it is in East Germany. However, German nationalism is beginning to assert itself there, too, as was seen in the last West German election.

In this election, both Konrad Adenauer's party and Willy Brandt's socialist party failed to receive a majority in the Bundestag because of the gains of the Free Democratic party. This party is the voice of German nationalism in West Germany.

Evidence of German nationalism is also seen in numerous articles of the West German press. One of the most popular books in West Germany today is Erich Kuby's "This Is the German Fatherland." Kuby states the position of the Free Democrats toward unification, and expresses the new nationalism. "A translation of this book," said Dr. Gardner, "should be in the hands of every U. S. policymaker."

The U. S. can best use this new nationalism by not identifying Germany with Adenauer. We must then work toward making a free, unified and neutral Germany. Many Americans are afraid to give up our West German allies. However, there is no chance for a brushfire war in Europe. Professor Gardner declared: any armed conflict there would turn into an all-out war.

Two Wrongs . . . a Right?

Assuming, for the purpose of this article, the Count Basie performance was a disappointment to many in the audience, this fact does not justify the disrespect demonstrated to him. Rarely in the annals of Bloomsburg State College history has such a discourteous exhibition taken place.

How can we as future teachers expect our students to act in accordance with the principles of common decency in their social environment if we ourselves cannot be leaders in this respect? We must convey to our students the principles of good conduct, and in order to do this, we must practice what we preach.

Poor Social Etiquette

The disgraceful conduct displayed at the concert, and on previous occasions, namely the Freddie Houser assembly, indicated discourtesy of a great majority of the BSC community. Our mores and norms demand that a professional performer receive the respect due him. This is required whether you enjoy his type of entertainment or not.

It is poor taste to leave any concert hall while the musicians are performing. An intermission provides ample opportunity for those who are not enjoying the concert to make their exit tactfully.

Appreciated by Minority

Within the various categories of music, each type offers the listener a certain amount of enjoyment. Unfortunately, there were only several people, out of a throng of nearly two thousand, who were able to develop enough interest to find satisfaction in the performers' excellent display of talent.

Just what did you expect? Count Basie and his band are primarily renowned for their musical ability—not their showmanship. Count Basie is noted for his rhythm section, mainly his drummer and his guitarist, both of whom have acquired fame with their respective talents. These two outstanding performers failed to appear the night of our concert and no explanation was given to the audience by Basie. Bill Griffiths, Vice-President of CGA, feels that "if these two men would have been present, the concert would have been greatly improved."

More Interest Needed

Last year, when a student poll was taken, the people who were interested enough in the matter, determined the selection for this semester's concert. When this choice was made, all factors concerning the performer should have been considered; such as the fact that this was to be a musical concert and not a comedy and variety show, as the pattern followed by previous big-name entertainers on campus.

It is hoped that in the future, the members of the BSC community will be courteous toward any and all persons addressing them, no matter what the manner of presentation.

Yes, yes, officer . . . I know it's my fifth parking offense but I've got other business to take care of first.

CGA Approves New Budget

The complete budget of proposed estimates of income and expenditures has been approved by College Council according to the following policy: (1) Each allocation covers every expense for the function served. (2) All balance of Community Activities Fund at the end of the college year revert one-half to the Reserve Fund, while the other half of such balances is to be placed in the Endowed Lecture Fund. (3) The Estimates of Income and Expenditures submitted by all organizations in the spring of 1961 have been the basis for the allocations made.

NOTES and QUOTES

by SUE HALKYARD

The question of incorporating an academic honor system at BSC has been tossed around by students and faculty for some time, but no definitive action has ever been taken on this question. Perhaps one of the reasons for this lack of summary action has been that cheating is regarded as inevitable and that an honor system could never function effectively on this campus. The honor system, however, is not based upon the premise that it can work only where there are no cheaters, even among those colleges where cheating has occurred and even given rise to spectacular results such as the much-publicized West Point scandal of several years ago. The West Point cadets who cheated were dismissed as were others who were only accessories before the fact, but the stain left upon the honor system was felt by many colleges and universities throughout the nation.

What is the issue?

Are we, then, afraid to try this method because the results would not justify the means? There was an attempt to gather the opinions of a cross-section of students and faculty members concerning this question. The response in most cases was one of apathy. It showed that either the students are not really concerned with the principles of this system or they are afraid to voice their opinions in any other way than simply idle talk. One can voice his ideals when protected by anonymity, but it requires much more personal integrity and courage to express these views where they will count for something more than "talk." One of the reasons for this poor response seems to be ignorance.

This is not merely an issue to decide who is honorable and who is not. It is a question of moral integrity. It involves, in its highest connotation the reporting of oneself for cheating as well as others who are guilty of the same offense. Punishment is decided by a governing board of students. Student judgments are often more severe than those of faculty and administration boards. However, there are many varieties of the honor system, and which type would best be suited to the needs of BSC would have to be decided by the trial of one or several variations.

If we believe that we could make this system work, then we must act to foster its establishment and begin proving now that we are mature enough to insure its success at BSC.

Now that the challenge has been proffered we invite those who care to express their viewpoint to do so where it can be seen, and we hope read, by your fellow students and faculty. Now is the time to prove that we are mature enough to think for ourselves rather than reflect the opinions of others.

CLUB NEWS

Debaters Face First Tournament
 The BSC Debaters face their first tournament this week-end at the University of Pittsburgh. This Novice Tournament will have four rounds in which the national debate topic, "Resolved, labor organization should be under the jurisdiction of Anti-trust legislation," will be debated. The members upholding the affirmative are Edward A'Zary and Thomas Pelfer; the members of the negative team are William Mattern and William Martin.

The club meets the first and third Thursdays of each month for business meetings and every Tuesday from 7 to 9 for instruction and practice in Science Hall, Room 8. Dr. Hopkins, the advisor, invites any interested students to attend these meetings.

English Club Plans Movie, Trip
 The English Club has planned a variety of activities for the near future. Some of these plans include the movie, Anna Karenina, which will be shown at the next meeting, November 16. For the week-end of December 2, the club has planned a trip to New York City. This trip will give the members an opportunity to see a variety of stage productions.

Bloomsburg Chess Club Ties Match
 The BSC Chess Club recently gained prestige when it tied a match 4-4 with Kutztown, one of the nation's better-rated teams. A return match will be held late in November or early December.

The team members who traveled to Kutztown were Bill Kuhns, Kurt Koehler, Floyd Walters, Larry Recia, Dan Marks, William Krotchak, Bob Cook, Al Geasey, and faculty advisor Mr. Thomas Haupt.

In the future, the Chess Club will meet the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Bucknell University, and the Sunbury YMCA.

Sportsman Diary

by ED BERLIN

Small game hunting probably provides as much fun and excitement as any other form of outdoor sport. The lazy man's sport is still-hunting for squirrels.

This method of squirrel hunting is widely practiced in our southern states where it is nearly impossible to stalk the bushy-tails due to the heavy undergrowth. I learned about this type of hunting while I was stationed in Georgia. In the past few years I have found it to be just as effective in our own state as it was in the South. The only problem with this type of hunting in the North is trying to keep warm without moving around.

Choose Area Carefully

When planning this type of hunt, the primary ingredient is an area with an abundance of squirrels. If you don't choose your area carefully your hunting will turn out to be nothing more than a long wait in the woods. I have found the largest squirrel populations to be in wood lots that are near corn or grain fields. Old apple orchards and stands of nut bearing trees may also prove to be productive.

Never Shoot At First Squirrel

Squirrels usually begin to move about as soon as the first rays of the sun filter down through the trees. The main rule for this type of hunting is never to shoot at the first squirrel that begins to move in your area. If you remain undetected he will soon begin to chatter and this always seems to be a signal to the other squirrels that the coast is clear. Once the shooting begins, don't become careless, make every shot count. If you shoot and miss, don't try to get off a fast second shot. This only tends to frighten the squirrel more. If you remain hidden and only shoot when you have a clear shot the squirrels will usually remain pretty calm, but the more often you fire the more cautious they'll become. Once you've shot a squirrel and you're sure he's dead, don't go after him. Make a mental note of his position and pick him up when you're done hunting. If you don't do this and you expose yourself to the other nut-munchers in the area your shooting will be over for the day.

Intramurals

Intramural Football

The Raimies wrapped up the intramural football championship last week by downing the Yankees by a score of 7 to 6. The Yankees headed by Don Cole were ahead of the Raimies all through the game, but in the last three minutes of play the Raimies came through with a pass from Daryl Sharpe to Roger Breidinger for the goal. Rich Dopoulos booted the extra point. The defending Champions, the Yankees, scored on an aerial from Cole to one of his team-mates for the goal. The attempt for the extra point failed. The Yankees lost, making the Raimies the new champions.

Intramural Tennis

The intramural tennis match between champion of league A, Jim Holt, and champion of league B, C. W. Henrie, was played on Monday, Oct. 23. The winner and Champion C. W. Henrie.

Intramural Soccer

The Raimies have placed first in the first round of the soccer intramural league. Team standings will be published in next issue.

West Chester Meets BSC In Traditional Rivalry

Rams Regard Huskies "Jinx"
 After dropping two games in a row — their first defeat of the season two weeks ago to Muskingum by a 19-16, and last week defeated West Chester State College meets Bloomsburg tomorrow determined to be victors over their traditional rivals. The Huskies will go into the game riding the crest of a 28-0 win over hapless Cheyney last week. However, the week before, the Huskies were shown a "bark" is worse than a bite, especially if his name is Toby Barkman! Barkman continued his two-touchdown-per-game barrage against the Huskies two weeks ago and continued it this past weekend against Cortland, just to demonstrate his scoring prowess is no fake. West Chester is one of two teams this season Barkman has failed to score twice against, thus showing the defense of the Rams is better than their shallacking last week by Villanova would indicate.

"Jinx Game"

Everything appears to be in West Chester's favor in the contest against Bloom this year. However Coach Jim Bodnar, West Chester's mentor, commented in a telephone interview that the Rams will face "The greatest team in the history of Bloomsburg State College." Not without reason has West Chester come to regard Bloomsburg as a "jinx game." That conviction was strengthened even more after the Huskies' 1959 upset win, which was predicted by no one. Coach Bodnar, refused to accept any thoughts of comparative scores, such as East Stroudsburg 36, Bloom 0; W.C. 28, Stroudsburg 6. His reply was that "comparative scores mean little, and where a 'jinx game' is concerned, they mean nothing."

Weight vs. Speed

Further questioning disclosed that, surprisingly, the Huskies will have a 15 pound per man weight advantage in the line. The Rams' speed is supposed to make up for their lack of size, however, Joe Iacone, a fullback is the man to watch in their backfield. Twenty-two seniors bolster the team, giving it valuable experience.

Injuries Plague Huskies

The Huskies have been plagued by injuries all season. The Blairmen regained the services of stand-out Ed Cocco just last weekend against Cheyney after a several week absence. All in all, the Huskies so-so season may be credited more than any other factor to the injury-bug. Moses Scott and Glen Gruber are two of the latest casualties.

Huskies Down Cheyney State

Big Ed Cocco came off the injured list with a bang last weekend, contributing two touchdowns as the Huskies handed Cheyney State its sixth straight loss.

Dick Rohrer unlimbered the whip twice, striking Clem Bara with a 10 yard TD pass and later hitting Roy Peffer with a 40 yarder. To wrap up the Huskie scoring for the day, old reliable, Moses Scott, put four placements between the up-rights, making a total of nine for Scott on the season.

The Huskies had no trouble with winless Cheyney, rolling up a 21-point margin the first half. Dick Rohrer's two touchdown tosses, raised his total on the season to six.

Glancing at statistics over the season, the Cheyney game contributed as much (if not more) to "fattening" the Huskies figures. Moses Scott leads the team in scoring with 39 points, Ed Cocco is second with 18, while Don English and Ray Pfeiffer are close behind with 12 each.

Ed Cocco is showing the way in rushing with a fine 7.8 yds. average per carry. Don English is also well up on the list with a 4.4 average. In the punting department, Ray Pfeiffer has a 41 yard average in 11 punts and Gary Rupert is averaging 40.4 yards in 23 boots. More yearly statistics will be released following the West Chester game.

German National

To put this plan into effect, the U. S. should first recognize East Germany. This would lead to a loose confederation of East and West Germany. The 50 million West Germans could soon absorb the 17 million East Germans, and a neutral but western orientated Germany would result. This country's prosperity would be an even greater reminder of the superiority of the western economic system over the Communist system than West Berlin is today. This plan would alleviate the Berlin crisis.

Dr. Gardner stressed that the American people must be educated to realize the advantages of such a unification. Until this is done, no administration will attempt the seemly defeatist first measure of recognizing East Germany.

NICKS' NAX

Well, this is it. Those people from West Chester will be here tomorrow. We found out from their coach that no matter how good a team they have or how bad a season we have, they spell Bloomsburg TROUBLE. (See article on interview). Allowing for the fact that no coach wants to appear overconfident, there might still be a grain of truth in this idea that we are a "jinx" game. As Moses Scott told us, "We could lose all of our games and still be up for West Chester!" He stated that the team's attitude is "not too bad." What's hurting the Huskies are injuries. Making their task double difficult is the fact that both co-captains, Mel Montanye and Glen Gruber, will not see action. Moses himself has a broken finger and will probably only kick extra points, but he asserts "we'll be in there all the way."

WAY TO BE UNDEFEATED

Pennsylvania now boasts the college team with the longest unbeaten string in the nation — Albright College won its 19th straight last Saturday, walloping Lebanon Valley, 33-7. Mississippi had been the longest winner, with 21 straight, but LSU knocked them off last weekend, 10-7. Albright has one tie in its streak, as did Ole Miss in its run. The Lions hail from Reading, one of our home towns.

One of our contacts in Selinsgrove sends word that Susquehanna might receive a post-season bowl game invitation. The Tangerine Bowl officials in Orlando, Florida, contacted Dr. Weber, SU President, who indicated definite interest in the possibility. The Crusaders tied Oberlin College last week in a mud-spattered game, 7-7, after copping 10 straight over two seasons. This year's log now reads 6-0-1.

COURT CAPERS

Ernie Beck, former Philadelphia Warrior star, will be performing for the Sunbury Mercuries of the Eastern Professional Basketball League this winter. Coach Stan Novack is looking for an outstanding team with not only Beck, but also other familiar basketball names returning. The other pro veterans include Bob Herdelin, Jim Satterwhite, and Tom Spencer. Satterwhite is an ex-Globetrotter. Included in the rookies who look promising is Bernie Chavez, Villanova grad.
