by Molly Clugston

Tonight from 9 to 12 p.m. Centennial Gymnasium will be the bottom rung of a "Stairway to the Stars," when the newcomers to our campus present the Freshman Hop. Under the direction of their President, Thomas Miller, the frosh have been working for many weeks to make this event one of the most-memorable of the college social calendar.

Speculation is running high as to which lucky girl will be crowned "Co-ed of the Year." On February 20 the entire student body voted for their favorite candidate from among the eight nominees, two representing each class. Senior class candidates were Dorothy Updegraff, Williamsport, and Judy Whaite, Hop Bottom. The Junior class was represented by Dolores Keen, Sunbury, and Mary Zevas, Bethlehem. Patricia Campbell, Malverne, Long Island, New York, and Stephanie Scott, Doylestown carried the Sophomore class banner. The Freshman class nominated Sandra Daskalos, Allentown, and Mary Pursel, Bloomsburg.

Chaperones for the affair will be: Dean and Mrs. John Hoch, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stuart Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. George Stradtman, and Mr. and Mrs. Jon Glasgow.

For the convenience of those who have not already purchased them, tickets will be sold at the door.

Announce Win'ers For Musicians of Spring Weekend

May Day Crowning Set for May 9th

Plans are now underway for the 1962 May Day to be held on Mt. Olympus, May 9. Highlight of the day's festivities will be the crowning of the 1962 May Queen by Myles Anderson, President of the CGA.

The 27 Senior girls selected as candidates for this honor will be introduced to the student body in the assemblies of March 6 to 8 by Mr. Anderson. All candidates were chosen from among those nominated at a Senior class meeting last January. To be eligible for election, those nominated have had a 2.3 cumulative academic average and been in good social standing to be on the final slate.

The entire student body will voice their preferences in a general election to be held on March 20 under the auspices of the CGA. In addition to the May Queen, six attendants and twelve members of the honor court will be chosen; the Queen being that candidate who receives the highest total number of votes and the remainder of the court from the next highest total down until the 19 members are selected. Results of the election will be publicly announced soon after Easter vacation.

Nominees

The nominees for BSC's 1962 May Queen are Connie Allegrucci, Jeannine Ayres, Myrna Bassett, Margaret Bower, Betty Brooker, Shelby Buhrman, Jane Slottie Burns, Joanne Curry, Nancy Engel, Mary Ferner, Suzanne Fisher, Joan Gutesell, Carolee Jones, Penny Harvey Kemler, Sally Layton, Joan Livziey, Joan Petrie, Nellie Purnell, Barbara Sherts, Mary Shuman, Kathy Sinkler, Connie Smith, Rosemary Tolerico, Dottie Updegraff, Judy Whaite, Pat Wittaker, and Hope Wingate.

Mrs. Dorothy J. Evans heads the May Day Committee as chairman, assisted by the following members of the faculty: Nelson A. Miller, Kenneth A. Roberts, Mrs. Virginia Duck, Tobias F. Scarpino, Mrs. Charlotte McKechnie, Gwendolyn Reams, Joanne McComb, Robert G. Zeigler, Thomas A. Gorrey, and Gayle C. Jones. Aiding the committee, as in past years, will be the faculty of the Benjamin Franklin Laboratory School, whose students have always contributed much to everyone's enjoyment of this colorful event.

President Andruss Back from Three Day Chicago Trip

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President of the College, recently returned from the first annual meeting of the Association of State Colleges and Universities held in Chicago. The first general session was held in the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. The theme for the meeting was "The Role of the Association of State Colleges and Universities," 103 colleges and universities in the United States hold membership in this organization.

During his three days in Chicago, Dr. Andruss also attended the National Convention of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and the National Convention of the United Business Education Association of which the National Association for Business Teacher Education is a division.

Bloomsburg State College has held membership in the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education since 1948 and is presently accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Notable Increase in Admission Candidates

To date, approximately 1,000 applications for admission have been completed and returned, 213 of these have met the entrance requirements and will enter BSC next fall. One hundred and fifty have failed to meet the requirements and the remaining applications are in various stages of processing, most requiring interviews to be completed. It is estimated that there will be a freshman class of 600 students in 1962-63.

The 2,570 applications requested and sent out were a 30 per cent increase over the number sent out at this time last year. The 1,000 completed and returned was an increase of 28 per cent.

To help students who either have a very good high school record and low college board examination scores or who have low high school grades and high college board examination scores, the college plans to admit to the 1962 summer sessions a group of probationary freshmen. These students will be offered six weeks summer courses in English 101 and Math 101. If the student earns a "C" or better in both subjects, he will be permitted to enter college in September without restriction. This will favor the entering student since he will attend only six weeks of course work instead of an entire semester to determine his ability to do college work.

Anderson Elected Ivy Day Speaker

At the latest meeting of the Senior class, Myles Anderson was elected Ivy Day Speaker. It was also decided that Ivy Day and Honor Assembly will be held on May 24, but the Ivy Day Committee has not yet decided where the ceremonies will be held.

The Senior Ball will be held May 11 at the Genetti Lodge, Hazleton. Tickets will be sold until March 9; they are $4.00 for members of the class. This amount will be refunded upon arrival at the dance. Those attending other than class members will be required to pay $4.30, which will not be reimbursed.

Senior class dues are being collected outside Husky Lounge by Joanne Hagenbuch, Penny Harvey Komler, and Wayne Moss. Deadline for class dues is March 9.

Seniors are reminded that they must have their forms for caps and gowns returned to Kay Kerlish by March 2.

BSC Adds Special Education Courses to Graduate Program

The administration of BSC has received notification from the State Council of Education that it is now qualified to offer a graduate program in Special Education for the Mentally Retarded and Speech Correction. The announcement from Dr. Harold F. Alderfer, Secretary of the State Council of Education marks the climax of twenty-five years of growth in the field of Special Education at BSC.

The Special Education Program was established in 1937, shortly after Dr. Andruss became Dean of Instruction, as a variant to the Elementary and Secondary education curriculums. Later, as a result of the passage of legislation concerning special class program, Dr. Andruss created the Division of Special Education and appointed Dr. Maietta as the first Director. In 1958, BSC became the first State College in Pennsylvania to establish a student teaching program for Special Education students.

Two years later, a new curricular program leading to a Bachelor of Science degree for teachers of the Educable Mentally Retarded or for Teachers of the Speech and Hearing Handicapped was devised. After the opening of the new Special Education program in Navy Hall, Bloomsburg became the first State College to establish a full-time residential program for adult trainees.

The opening of the graduate program this summer will be another first for BSC. Dr. Maietta, Director of Special Education, reports that the program is presently under development and will be submitted to the Graduate Council of the College for approval. It was also announced that preliminary circulars will be published for distribution to Teachers of Special Education who want to extend their certification to a master's degree in their field.

Englehart Attends State Curriculum Project Meeting

Dr. Ernest Englehart, Director of the BSC Department of Education and Psychology, recently attended a meeting of the Bureau of Curriculum Development, an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction. Dr. Englehart, representing the North Eastern District, was one of twelve area co-ordinators present.

The purpose of the meeting was to consider the curriculum projects that are now being developed by the bureau for the improvement of those presently in use throughout the state.

One of the five projects considered was advanced placement and programs for the gifted child. This does not refer to the method by which a child was advanced a grade in school thus enabling him to graduate at an earlier age; instead, it is a plan to offer high school courses on a college level to those who have the ability to take them.

A second question considered was the introduction of science to students still on the elementary level. This is in conjunction with the modern trend to begin science on a lower level so that the student will have a good background and be better prepared for this study on a high school level.

The establishment of Institutional Material Centers was the third program considered. This consists

BSC Has Announced H.S. Business Contest

Five hundred letters have been sent to Pennsylvania high schools announcing BSC's Twenty-eighth Annual High School Business Education Contest. To date, seventy high schools have requested entry blanks and more are expected. Because of the limited facilities, the College has announced that the number of teams will be limited to sixty.

The contest will include approximately three hundred students who will compete for individual and team honors in Bookkeeping, Business Arithmetic, Business Law, Shorthand, and Typing. In addition to contest, an exhibit of books and the latest machines used in business offices will be open to visitors in Centennial Gym. Twenty-five companies will display books and equipment.

Increase Program On Graduate Level

In 1962 Summer Sessions will offer the widest variety of graduate studies that has been presented to date. There are five special features of the main session, July 2 to August 10.

A workshop, New Horizons in Teaching High School Physics, will be designed primarily for teachers-in-service. Its purpose is to aid them in developing original programs of instruction as recommended by the Physical Science Study Council. A workshop in Analytical Chemistry will offer credits in two of the following courses: quantitative inorganic chemistry and qualitative inorganic chemistry.

A seminar in theory and techniques of teaching modern foreign languages in another feature of the program. A course in methods and organization in the elementary school offers a rich source of new ideas for improving instruction on the elementary level. This class is being offered in response to the request of many teachers-in-service.

The workshop in selected topics in college mathematics will carry credits in two of the following courses: College Algebra, Advanced College Algebra, Trigonometry, and Analytical Geometry.

Officers Elected By Resident Men

Joe Rado, newly elected President of Men's Resident Council.

Joe Rado, a first semester senior, was elected president of the Men's Resident Council in the recent elections. Donald Denick, a junior, will serve as vice president. Secretary is Gary Sprout, a sophomore, and treasurer, Larry Tironi, a sophomore.

Defining Student Leadership . . .

by Myles Anderson

"The trials and tribulations of a student government president are many." As well as having its threatening moments, it has its enhancing ones also. Since I have been a student official at Bloomsburg for the past four years, I find myself involved in the institution itself and in the student personnel program. Therefore, my impressions of the office as a whole might be found artificial and dogmatic. On the basis that I have established myself within the interworkings and interactions of student life both as a student and a student leader over this length of time, I find myself having to be flexibly defensive with the two factions — faculty and students. Now that I have established a general viewpoint of the college community as a whole, I will try to break down my generalizations.

Depressing Element

One of the most depressing elements in a position of this kind is finding a large body of students quite ignorant of and unaware of the governmental functions of the Community Government Association. I have been approached quite frequently by students and asked, "Who is sponsoring this event?" Since CGA sponsors wholly or partly at least 90% of the student activities on this campus, I find that a large majority of our students are not aware of this. Regardless of the amount of information available and the attempt to educate the student to this effect through publications, assemblies, and college orientation programs, we find it impossible to impress upon the students their duty to be informed. I feel the basic weakness is the lack of interest on the part of the student to learn these things himself. From my point of view, I feel that the student takes the student government for granted, but when an element of the activities program is eliminated, then you find critical interest. I certainly realize that the student in higher education today is not interested in his student government or the college as a whole, but rather his or her primary group, and this is the reason for the popularity of social fraternal organizations. Bloomsburg without these social fraternal organizations must rely upon the student government for the creation and construction of student activities; therefore, it is imperative that the student become interested in his student government so that College Council can continue to supply and respond to the student point of view. Evidence proving the lack of interest in student government is that out of an enrollment of 2000, I find only 3% of that number taking an active interest in formulating the end product.

Another aspect is the evaluation of the programs and activities offered. Most student activities are created by a very small minority of the college community. At the same time in creating these activities, we must try to mold them to the interest of the majority. The hardest question to answer is, "Did the students enjoy and find the event adequate?" I am fearful that this lack of enthusiasm and interest in student government will find the student point of view will be narrowly considered. Along with interest in student government as a whole, support of student officials is needed by those individuals involved in government. These people contribute an enormous amount of their time and effort providing the student with a better life.

Are You Appreciative?

Your student leaders are not paid, and most of them have thankless jobs. The unanswered question here is, "Are you appreciative of your student leaders?" Most of these people must construct an inner-motivation and goal when working for you. Motivation is found to be at a minimum, if at all. This is why you, the student, must show more interest in student government to compensate the members because we are unable to pay them. Of course, you must remember that you must elect adequate leaders who will have the willingness, desire, initiative, and energy to carry-out these responsibilities.

My College Council experience has been an education in itself. Quite frankly, it is as if I were getting a second diploma. It is quite a challenge to be able to contribute toward building a wholesome student life.

Student Government Major

As a student official, you must sacrifice and dedicate yourself to your duties if you wish to produce and carry the point of view in every faction of the college community. Many times I feel as if I am majoring in student government. The demands and responsibilities are so great that academic preparation is begun after everyone else has retired. You must be flexible and human as well as all-purpose. For example the student official is a politician, a diplomat, a leader, an organizer, an electrician, a social worker, an auditor, a policeman, a janitor, an information agent, and a counselor, just to mention a few. In all these roles he must protect and preserve his dignity and respect demanded by the position. From my point of view you must have a great capacity for work, because when you have the green light for a specific activity, you must move and carry it to an end immediately regardless of present commitments. The fear of losing the opportunity directs you to quick action.

You are constantly worrying about the acceptance of your product, rarely enjoying the activity. In this way you become a very lonely human insofar as being a student. You must build a thick shield to prevent the constant bombardment of criticism from destroying your "self." But at the same time honor the validity of the criticism. Regardless of these elements, I dearly love it.

'Plain and Fancy' Acclaimed Success

by Liz McDonald

"Plain and Fancy," a musical comedy set in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, was a very commendable achievement by Bloomsburg Players and the College Choraleers in Carver Auditorium recently. The efforts of the many people involved in the production were rewarded by the enthusiastic reception of capacity audience on both nights.

"Plain and Fancy" was a "big" production in terms of the number of people who participated in staging this recent Broadway musical. The orchestra, directed by Dr. Charles Carlson, rendered the lively score. Members of both the Players, and the Choraleers sang and danced in 14 scenes of the two-act play which included 17 musical numbers. Technical crews constructed colorful sets, and made costumes for the large cast.

Required Much Work, Expense

The value of such a production as "Plain and Fancy" lies not only in entertainment but in the experience gained by all those taking an active part on stage or behind the scenes. Technical limitations, encountered when producing a musical show on a small stage, present obstacles in set design and choreography. The presentation indicated several months work and the expenditure of much time and energy. However, both organizations spent more than their time on the stage play. A considerable financial expenditure was also necessary with the needs of a big show. Neither group could expect large box office returns with the free admission of BSC students. They could only derive their reward by the achievement made.

In many respects the staging of "Plain and Fancy" was "professional-like"—notably so, in the successful combination of musical and dramatic talent.

Announce Winners For Musicians of Spring Weekend

septet will present a two-hour concert in Husky Lounge as well as provide music for dancing from 9 to 12 in Centennial Gymnasium that evening. Kai Winding has a wide background as a trombonist, playing with such bands as Stan Kenton, Woody Herman, and Tommy Dorsey before the formation of the J. J. Johnson-Kai Winding team. Winding has held the second-post position as a trombonist in the musician polls held by Playboy Magazine, Downbeat, Metronome, and Esquire over the last decade, only stepping aside from first place honors for his colleague, J. J. Johnson. As a Columbia recording artist, he has produced many of the "most sold" albums of the '60's.

The admission costs for Spring Week-End will be $2.00 per person for each individual event — evening concert — afternoon concert — dance — a total of $6.00. A student week-end ticket will be available at $3.00 per person which includes the entire week-end program when accompanied by an I.D. card.

The Bench Warmer— Animal, Vegetable, Mineral?

by G. H.

As a new feature, the Maroon and Gold, presents the first of a series of articles spotlighting outstanding campus personalities, both individual and collective. This issue we bring you — "The Bench Warmer."

In order to set the proper scene for our discussion, we offer the following from Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary.

"Bench"—a long seat for two or more persons; a platform on which a dog is placed; a seat where the members of each team await their turn at bat" — that's what Mr. Webster has to say. Now for a more careful analysis of the "bench" as it is used at B.S.C.

"Just Waiting"

No one can argue that our benches do not serve a functional purpose. Throughout our buildings, benches are filled with two or more students — waiting for the axe, waiting for advice, and just — waiting. The "just waiting" are found in abundance on the benches in the hall leading to Husky Lounge. Just what they are "just waiting" for is beyond comprehension in most cases. To be sure, in a few situations the occupants of these benches are performing a legitimate function such as selling tickets. However, many hours of the "just waiters'" time are spent in taking up nothing more than time and space, possibly in direct proportion to the vacuum between their ears.

Platform for Dogs

Mr. Webster gives us another basis for comparison in his second reference. The animal beings who pass time on the aforementioned benches are but upright versions of their four-legged brothers. A dog on a platform is generally placed there for show. Much the same is true of our counterparts. They wish to be seen — and heard. And heard they are — by all passers-by, especially of the distaff side! Their colorful verbiage won't be found in any legitimate literature, nor is it easily translatable. It can, however, be fitted under the general terms, "illiterate" and "vulgar." It would appear that the wooden benches are crowned by much larger wooden blocks above them.

The more successful bench warmers are members of an exclusive team. The qualifications for this team membership require more personal sacrifice than most other teams, namely, the complete subjugation of the aspiring individual to the principles of deceit, dishonesty, delusion, deficiency (mental), and disgust.

Observing this team in action is an experience! Their opponents are usually decent, purposeful individuals who must of necessity run the gauntlet in order to obtain a cup of coffee. These innocent beings soon learn that the most adequate de-

Circle K Receives Charter; New Club Is Auxiliary of Kiwanis

The newest addition to BSC's student organizations is the Circle K Club. This group is the college auxiliary of the Kiwanis Clubs.

Circle K initiated its founding at Bloomsburg State College with the presentation of its charter at a combined dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Clubs of Bloomsburg and Berwick held in the college commons. In addition, the club was also presented with a banner, the Canadian and American flags, and a gavel and gong with which to conduct their meetings. Entertainment at the banquet was provided by some of the members of the Wilkes-Barre Shrine, among them the well-known local band leader, Lee Vincent.

One of the first acts of the Circle K Club was the donation of a subscription of the Circle K Bulletin to the college library. This bulletin is published by Circle K International in Chicago and contains reports of the various projects carried on by the clubs throughout the United States and Canada. Two issues of this pamphlet are now in the library.

The Circle K is a service organization and membership is open to all male members of the student body with at least a 2.0 academic average.

The officers of the club are: President, Levi Kishbaugh; Vice President, Terry Riegel; Treasurer, Neil Belles, and Secretary, Norman Heyl.

Treblow Discusses Chess As a Sport

Mr. Mordecai Treblow, a new BSC faculty member, is nationally known as a chess club organizer. He has been president and secretary-treasurer of the U.S. Chess Federation. Presently he is a member of the board of directors of the federation.

In the following interview, Mr. Treblow discussed chess and its place on the college campus today.

Question: Why do you play chess?
As a chemist, do you find chess appropriate to the scientific temperament?

Answer: "Since I use my mind a great deal in my work I find chess relaxing and mentally stimulating. I consider chess the most ingenious game invented by man."

Question: What is the popular understanding of chess in this country?

Answer: "In the past years people thought that chess was very difficult to learn and that it was played only by geniuses. Today many people are taking more interest in chess and it's played by all age groups. Actually, contrary to what many people think, the elements of chess are relatively easy to learn."

Question: Is there a renaissance of chess interest in the United States today?

Answer: "Yes. The membership in the U.S. Chess Federation has doubled in the past four years. Through newspapers, magazines, etc. interest has greatly increased. Another reason would be the success of American players such as Bobby Fischer and the United States Chess team, which recently won the world championship."

Question: Why do the Russians command the chess world?

Answer: "Chess is highly supported in Russia, both financially and spiritually. For instance, when the world champion plays in a tournament the government supports him financially and also sends a team of players along to analyze the games."

Question: You recently helped introduce chess as a varsity sport at Penn State. Do you think chess should be made a varsity sport at all interested colleges and universities?

Answer: "Definitely! Given a place in college life, chess would benefit both the students and the school. Chess develops competitiveness, loyalty, and character in general."

Question: What are your first impressions of chess activity among Bloomsburg students?

Answer: "I am impressed with the progress your chess club has made in one year. I would also like to compliment the faculty members who participate and contribute to the success of the club."

Elementary Students Complete Project Under Student Teachers

Student teachers in the Ben Franklin School, Miss Betty Kane and Miss Carol DelVecchio, are shown with the recently completed project which they helped develop.

A display of coral, shells, sea horses, and a tropical fish aquarium was recently completed by the sixth grade of the Benjamin Franklin School with the aid of student teachers Miss Betty Kane and Miss Carol DelVecchio. The project was a natural outgrowth of a unit in science which the class is studying.

The class, under the direction of its instructor Mr. Kenneth Roberts, has been working on the project since January 27. An aquarium of guppies is part of the display which takes up nearly the entire space in the rear of the room. A pastel drawing with construction paper cut-outs has been mounted on the blackboard of the classroom.

The entire display includes approximately 1500 items.

Chess Club Plans Active Semester

At the last meeting of the BSC Chess Club, the following officers were elected: Richard Rake, president; Larry Martz, vice president and historian; William Kraftchak, treasurer; and Shelley Buhnman, secretary. Dr. Gilbert Selders will be the faculty advisor, and the following faculty members will serve as coaches for the club: Mr. Thomas Haup, Mr. Donald D'Elia, Mr. Mordecai Treblow, and Mrs. William Eisenburg.

Affiliated with the Chess Club is the BSC Chess Team, which is a member of the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference League. The team has a record of three wins over Kutztown State College and Muhlenberg College, and one loss to Lehigh University.

The team members, in order of their current standings, are Bill Kuhns, Bob Cook, Al Geasy, Lloyd Walter, Daniel Marks, Dick Rake, Larry Martz, William Kraftchak, Charles Brown, and Bob Raup.

Plans for the team include return matches with Kutztown, Muhlenberg, and Lehigh, and meets with teams from Shippensburg SC, Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary, Penn State University, and Sunbury, Berwick, and Bloomsburg YMCA's.

Debate Continues Active Schedule

Under the direction of Mr. Melvin Hopkins, Bill Mattern and Bill Martin presented an interesting assembly debate recently.

Tomorrow, February 24, four BSC Debate teams will travel to Bucknell University to engage in two rounds of decision debates with that team.

During the past week, negative teams opposed Saint Cyril Academy, Danville, and the affirmative team debated Kings College in a demonstration presented to the student body and faculty.

Movie, Discussion Highlight Meeting

The movie "Operation Abolition" was shown to members of the Newman Club at a recent meeting held in Marion Hall of St. Columba's Church. It was followed by a discussion on the evils of Communism, presented by Mr. Robert Shuman of Bloomsburg.

Plans for the coming Communion Dinner, which will be held March 26, were also discussed.

The next meeting of the club will be Monday, March 5, at which time a panel discussion on Cardinal Newman (founder of the Newman Club) will be conducted by Miss Helen Kelly, a BSC faculty member. Miss Kelly is also one of the club's advisors.

A "Know Your Faith" lecture series will also be initiated at this meeting.

Zinn Enters Art Exhibit in Show

"The Hand of Fate," a mixed media of gray, white, and pink on black, was recently completed by Edith G. Zinn, Assistant Professor of the BSC Art Department. The picture depicts a tree branched in bud and blossoms which suggests the bony hands of a skeleton with blossoms at the fingertips.

It will be shown at the 1962 Regional Art Exhibition of the Wyoming Valley Art League to be held at the Little Gallery until March 10.

Le Cercle Francais, BSC French circle promoting conversational French, invites all interested students or faculty to join as affiliates. This does not involve being listed as a regular member. Meetings are held every two weeks. The date and time are posted. Several evening sessions are planned which will feature special entertainment including guest speakers, films, and visits from similar organizations on other campuses.

BSC Student Baseball Ace

Gary Johnson

With spring training for the major league baseball teams coming up before too long, anticipation of the diamond sport seems appropriate. Although most Bloomsburg students don't realize it, we have here on campus a young man who has already received quite a bit of attention in the baseball world. Gary Johnson, a 19 year-old sophomore in the Business Curriculum, has received offers from 15 of the 18 major league teams because of his pitching ability. Although tempted by sizeable bonus offers, the young left-hander's intention is to complete his college education first.

Gary first came to the attention of major league scouts while still attending Shamokin High School, where he racked up 16 wins and 2 losses during 4 years of varsity competition. Included in those 16 wins were not less than two no-hitters and four one-hitters. Gary was an all-around sports performer in high school. Although not large in size, Johnson made honorable mention, all-state in football. A guard, he was named to both the United Press and Associated Press teams.

No-Hitters

Using a blazing fast ball and sinkers at varying speeds, Gary continued in the habit of throwing no-hitters after high school. During two years of American Legion ball, he had two more hitless games while with Frackville in the North Schuylkill League and another with Shamokin in the Susquehanna League. In non-legion ball, he recorded two more no-hitters with Shamokin in the Anthracite League to bring his promising career total to an amazing seven.

While in high school, Johnson averaged two strikeouts per inning pitched. In one game in the Anthracite Valley League, he notched an unbelievable 22 strikeouts. It was reported in one of the metropolitan newspapers that the Baltimore Orioles offered him $35,000 to sign, but because of an agreement with the Orioles, he is unable to reveal the actual amount he was offered.

Swimmers Have Win Over Morgan State; Win Is Team's First

The Bloomsburg State College swimming team made exciting history on February 14, when they met the Morgan State swimmers. The Husky mermen whipped the Baltimore team 52-43, for their first win in their three years existence. Putting in a tremendous team effort, the Huskies took 9 first places. Morgan State took the first event, the 400 yard medley relay, but the backstroke was then taken for BSC by Don Watkins. Ron Lazarus then won the breaststroke; Harold Ackerman and Bob Rehkop followed by winning the butterfly and anchor free style respectively. Morgan State won the 220 yard free style which was followed by another BSC win in the 50 yard free style by Don Young. The next three events went to Morgan. Don Young then took another first in the 100 yard free style and the 200 yard backstroke went to Nelson Swarts. A new record was then set by Bill Billet in the 200 yard breaststroke; his time was 3:8.7. In 4:9.5, the 400 yard free style team, composed of Chuck Jasper, Hayden Jones, Swarts and Young, wrapped up the meet. Our swimmers then lost their next meet to Lycoming on February 19.

fence against these blobs of protoplasm is to simply ignore them, thus depriving them of the sadistic satisfaction they derive from getting a retort to their remarks. But what about the strangers who occasionally visit our lounge? Unprepared and unsuspecting, they are often in a state of shock after exposure to our bench welcoming committee. Most females tend to take a whistle as a compliment, but our bench community somehow even manages to make a mockery of the traditional whistle.

Back To the Jungle

What is the solution to this problem? How are we to rid BSC of this insidious menace? Obviously the benches could be removed, but would this resolve the situation? The human element would remain the same irregardless of physical environment, and eliminating their primary offensive line would serve only to encourage them to find a secondary front. The permanent resolution of this plague lies in ridding ourselves of the dregs of humanity which occupy the benches. There is no place in the teaching profession for the ignorant. Our bench warmers might find pre-human ape life or the manufacture of pornographic materials more suited to their unique talents.

mond is the fact that his two no-hitters at Frackville were in consecutive games!

Grapplers Win

The Husky grapplers set their season's record at eight victories and a single loss by defeating Waynesburg (20-5) and Appalachian (22-6) in the past two weeks.

The Waynesburg squad, coached by Bucky Murdock who possesses a fantastic coaching record at the school, was riding the crest of a wave of eight consecutive victories until Bloomsburg applied the skids.

Joel Melitski, who wrestled in place of the injured Billy Hughes, Jerry Wright, Dick Scorese, Dave Steumple, Gene Dixon, and Bill Garson all recorded decision victories. Ed Taylor lost by a decision and Don Poust battled to a draw with Bob Eckley, who was considered the best wrestler on Waynesburg's squad. Poust wrestled the last three minutes of the match with a deep cut over his right eye that required three stitches to close.

USMA

Last Saturday the varsity wrestlers traveled to Boone, N.C. and the junior varsity and freshmen teams traveled to the USMA at West Point. All three teams returned with victories; the varsity won 22-6; the jayvees won 20-8, and the freshmen defeated a highly rated and unbeaten Army frosh team with a score of 19-9.

The victories recorded by our J.V. and freshmen squads indicate that Bloomsburg, besides having one of the top 20 varsity wrestling squads in the country, also possesses one of the top freshman and JV squads in the country.

of dividing the state into districts and setting up within each district a center from which any school in the district could obtain educational aids. In this way the school will have access to material it would not have due to the expense or the need not being great enough under normal conditions.

The development of new units in social studies was also considered. It is felt that there is a need for courses in social studies to be built around fields such as culture, economics, and law rather than mere dates.

BSC Cagers Win Four More; Hope To Stay In Groove

The Bloomsburg State College basketball team has won all of its last four games. Coach Bill Foster's Huskies met Millersville away on February 7, Lock Haven at home on February 12, Cheyney on February 14, and West Chester on February 17. Our next two games will both be at home. Tomorrow we meet Millersville S.C., and on February 27, we play Lock Haven S.C. in our last home game.

Millersville and Cheyney

The Huskies grabbed an early lead at Millersville and stretched it to a 13 point lead by half-time. Millersville players came closest to our lead during the first 10 minutes of the second half, when they closed the gap to 6 points. But the Huskies put on an extra burst of steam and won by a 15 point margin; the final score was 79-64. Bob Herzig, a frosh from Philadelphia, had 18 points in the first half and finished with 26 for the evening. Dick Lloyd was next with 21 tallies. A new record for assists was set during this game by sophomore Gary Rupert. Gary had 10 and the old record was 9. The Husky team also rewrote the school record for total assists with 26 assists during the game, the previous number had been 22. The Husky Pups won their game at Cheyney and by a 37 point margin. The final score was 98-61, as Bob Herzig and Dick Lloyd again set the pace.

Two More Wins

Again, this time at Lock Haven, the Huskies took an early lead. It was held until 14 minutes were left in the first half, but only for a few seconds. Herzig hit with a field goal and regained the Husky lead for the rest of the game. We had an 11 point lead at half-time and also at the game's end as the final score read 70-59. Lloyd had 18 points by the half and finished with 32. Herzig had 14 rebounds and Gary Rupert again trounced the assists record. Rupert broke his previous record of ten and moved it up to 16 assists during the game. The Jayvees won their game with the same score as the varsity, 70-59, and Ben Blue was high scorer for the game with 17 points.

31 Point Margin

The next game played was West Chester; the Rams had defeated BSC three weeks before on their own court. The Huskies went off to a fast start and picked up a lead of 13 points by the half-time bell. In the last ten minutes of the second half, the Huskies stretched their advantage to 31 points. Noting this, the Rams rallied but didn't come within striking distance as the final score read 87-69. Dick Lloyd was again the big man as he grabbed 17 rebounds and 38 points by the end of the evening. These 38 points put him within four points of a new four-year total record in the State College Conference. Dick is averaging 27 points per game during the 11 games played this year. The number he is out to beat is 1,025 which was set by Roger Hotz of California State College during 1955-59. At this point, Dick has a total of 1,212 points but only those tallied in league games count. Fran Curran had a total of 24 points for the game. The Jayvee team met the Bucknell freshmen and lost with a heartbreaking score of 74-73. Bob Kurzinsky again lead the Husky Pups as he scored 21 points.
