Challenge Given Members of BSC

Welcome To All Students

With the increase in the enrollment to around the 2,200 mark, a college newspaper has the responsibility of keeping the lines of communication open for all members of the College Community, composed of students, faculty, and administration.

That this newspaper will meet this challenge and that students will read it carefully is the hope of

HARVEY A. ANDRUSS,
President.

IBM Used For Assembly Check

A new method of checking assembly attendance will be instituted this year. In order to save time and insure greater accuracy, IBM cards will be used.

Before every assembly, each student will receive, in his post office box, a card labeled "Assembly Attendance Card." This card will be turned in at the end of each assembly to a waiting faculty member. The cards are then put through the IBM machine and a record is made of attendance. Mr. Reichard will be in charge of these records.

For information on the attendance policy for assemblies, consult The Pilot, page 76. A fine of 50¢ will be charged for the replacement of cards which have been ruined or lost.

12 New Homes For Frosh Women; Advisors Selected

A year ago this fall Waller Hall acquired a "little sister." Hassert House became a residence for women who wished to study at Bloomsburg but for whom there was no room in the dormitory. Now, one year later, the college family has expanded to accommodate 133 freshman girls in twelve new houses.

The houses will have a junior resident advisor who has been carefully selected from applications made last February. The girls chosen have had job experiences in camps and playgrounds and are known for their reliability in other jobs here at school.

The houses and their respective advisors are: Kasner House and Edgar House with Carol Raynock; Eyerly House has Mary Ann Kraowski; Heston House and Cromley House both claim Joyce Anderson; Housenick House has Ann Edwards; Hileman House with Judy Applegate; Hassert II and Harvey House claiming Joan Dahlhosen; Vanditti House with Molly Clugston; Davis House has Judy Brozgal; and the Martin House with Jill Neibauer. Nancy Devore will again be advisor of Hassert House.

Each house has a governing board member attached to it to promote a close college feeling. Dean Jackson made the observation that both the advisors and the girls were enthusiastic about beginning the year in their new quarters and she felt sure that with the capability of the advisors and the cooperation of the girls the houses would be successful.

Tryouts Planned for Little Mary Sunshine

The Bloomsburg Players will hold a special meeting on Tuesday evening, September 17, at 7:00 p.m. in Carver Auditorium.

Plans for tryouts for the musical "Little Mary Sunshine" as well as plans for the year will be announced. All interested are invited.

M&G Ventures Into 'Weekly'

Strange sights and sounds have been reported in the vicinity of the Maroon and Gold office. Papers have been flying in and out of the office; people only enter at their own risk; and one cynical lounge frequenter reported that he actually saw signs of constructive work!

Contrary to popular opinion, the M & G is planning neither to incite a riot nor start a strike. We are, however, going to publish a weekly newspaper for the first time this year. This new venture will bring the BSC community more timely coverage on college events and personalities and provide an outlet for the literary talents of many BSC students.

Cooperation Needed

Publishing a weekly newspaper is a huge task, and the cooperation of both faculty and students is needed. All contributions from all members of BSC are welcome and needed. So the next time your roommate climbs Mt. Everest or your professor discovers a cure for the common cold—it's news. Send your news tips to the M & G office before Monday night each week.

Biemesderfer Speaker First Aug. Graduation

For the first time Bloomsburg State College held summer graduation exercises on August 8. There were 76 candidates for the Bachelor of Science degree and 11 candidates for Master of Education degrees.

Dr. D. L. Biemesderfer, president of Millersville State College, presented the address to the graduates, offering documentary evidence to prove that critics of American education do not present a full and accurate picture when they claim that our system is deteriorating.

Hawaiian Co-Eds Enter Ranks of Freshmen Class

A touch of Hawaii at BSC? Many upperclassmen have been shouting the familiar phrase of "Buttons Frosh" only to be greeted by the two pretty Hawaiian faces of Leatrice Sunaoka and Diane Kam.

Recipient of CGA Scholarship

A native of Haneoke, Hawaii, Leatrice Sunaoka will enter with the class of 1967 as the first American student of foreign ancestry under the sponsorship of the college. Majoring in secondary education, Leatrice is the recipient of the annual scholarship sponsored by the Community Government Association. The pert Hawaiian chose BSC due to its high rating on the college competitive level in Guides to College as well as for its small-college, friendly atmosphere.

A Second Hawaiian Student

Our second Polynesian freshman, Diane Kam, hails from the bustling capital of Hawaii, Honolulu. A student in the Business Education curriculum, Diane indicated that she desired to attend BSC not only because of its high rating, but also because of the excellent recommendation the college received from a member of the faculty of the University of Hawaii, Dr. Bitner, a former graduate of BSC.

Both Leatrice and Diane wish to express their appreciation for the warm welcome they received from BSC faculty, advisors, and students. They are looking forward to the new experience of attending an eastern college—as well as the change in climate!

Dr. Carl Winters To Speak at Convocation

Dr. Carl S. Winters, a modern jet circuit rider, will be the featured speaker at the first general College Convocation next Tuesday, September 17, at 2:00 p.m. in Centennial Gymnasium.

Dr. Winters speaks from a rich background of human experiences as former Crime Commissioner in Michigan; Skid Row Chairman in Chicago; radio minister for twenty-four years, and until September 1, 1959, minister of one of America's greatest churches for twenty years. Dr. Winters is able to delight and enlighten, instruct and inspire his audiences.

He is on the lecture staff of General Motors Corporation, and has given the keynote addresses for more than 800 state, national, and international conventions on four continents in the past few years.

Dr. Buker Heads New Arts Dept.

The Bloomsburg State College Liberal Arts Program will begin this fall. In May of 1962 the Pennsylvania Council of Education authorized BSC to offer a Liberal Arts curriculum leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Eighty-six freshmen have registered in the new program directed by Dr. Allen Buker, former Department of Humanities Chairman from Arizona State University. The title of the newly created position Dr. Buker is filling, will be "Dean of Arts and Sciences." A native of Boston, Massachusetts, Dr. Buker completed his elementary and secondary education there. He later earned his Bachelor and Master of Arts Degrees at Harvard University and was awarded the Doctor of Philosophy Degree from Boston University.

Four Part Program

The Arts program consists of four parts: (1) General Education, 62 semester hours, (2) Core studies in Social Science, Humanities or Science and Math, 46 to 30 semester hours, (3) Restricted Electives, 18 semester hours and (4) Free Electives, 18 to 22 semester hours. The total requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree is thus 128 semester hours.

20 Sequences of Concentration

The College is now prepared to offer sequences of concentration in Business and Economics, Economics, History, Political Science, Sociology and Anthropology, Psychology, Geography, Art, English, Speech and Theater Studies, German, French, Spanish, Music, Philosophy, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Mathematics, and Earth Science.

The required General Education courses are considered the heart of any curriculum in Liberal Arts. Its purpose is to prepare all students, whatever their field of concentration or vocational intentions may be.

BSC Witnesses Student Increase

Approximately 2200 students registered here Tuesday and Wednesday to tabulate the largest enrollment ever at BSC. This figure constitutes an increase of 200 over last year.

New students who make up 788 of the 2200, fall into the following breakdown by curriculum: Arts and Sciences, 86; Business Education, 160; Dental Hygiene, 1; Elementary Education, 205; Secondary Education, 279; Special Education, 49, and Unclassified, 8.

Approximately 1400 students are returning.

The Graduate Department expects approximately 75-100 students to register for the fall semester.

M&G Will Publish BSC Announcements

There will be no regular announcements read this year in assembly. According to Dr. Mary Hornrighous, Assembly Chairman, only special announcements will be read.

In lieu of the familiar crier, the Maroon and Gold will publish a weekly list of club meetings, etc., and the announcements will con-

New Faculty Members Will Fill Vacancies

The faculty of BSC has assumed a new look with the addition of 24 members to replace those who have resigned and also to handle the increased enrollment. The faculty complement now totals 131—129 active and 2 on sabbatical leave.

SCIENCE

Mr. Laverne W. McClure will serve in the science department. He earned his Bachelor's degree at Mansfield State College and his Masters' at the University of South Dakota.

A veteran of two years in the Armed Forces, Mr. McClure served as an instructor and hydraulics specialist with Helicopter Squadron II in San Ysidro, California, before joining the faculty of Corn- ing High School in New York.

PROGRESS THROUGH EDUCATION

It appears that in our modern civilization everything must be bigger and better. For example, airplanes must go faster and faster, space craft must go farther, and cars must be bigger and better. So it goes at Bloomsburg State College.

Education is at the root of all these improvements and it, therefore, must be promoted and cultivated first. Bloomsburg, as well as every institution of higher learning, must constantly stay abreast of the latest developments and then do its best to use these to the advantage of the student and ultimately society.

Witness here at BSC the two new dormitories to house 500 women as part of the constant growth and development. Also notice this year's total enrollment — up about 200 over last year's, the addition of a new curriculum, that of Liberal Arts, and the future plans for a new auditorium to seat 2000 — already outdated!

With all of these improvements comes a constant need to make decisions. This duty rests with the administration of the institution. In their concern for the student, they try to make decisions which will profit both the student and the institution. Although the decision made may sometimes not seem right to the average on-looker, it is the one which the administrators feel right.

In decisions concerning the student, the administration looks to the individuals concern for their views of the problem. Although the administrators may not always see eye-to-eye with the party or parties concerned, we believe that the college administration should be interested in hearing different views. We feel that the administration has shown this interest in the past and hope it will be shown to the same degree in the future.

It is thus through such organizations as the student government and the student newspaper that these views may be expressed. In the student government here at BSC, the class representatives and the other members may present these views to the college. The student newspaper, too, may express varying views through its editorial or letters-to-the-editor.

This representation in government and the freedom to express views in the newspaper is the very foundation upon which our nation is founded. Here at Bloomsburg the same pattern is followed. All that is left is for you the student or faculty member or administrator to use these organizations for the improvement of our community "in the pursuit of excellence."

Oriental Aided by Academic and Social Adjustments of Freshmen

Welcome to BSC, Frosh! During this past, hectic week, you have probably heard this greeting 10⁸ times. Now that "everything is over but the shouting," we of the Maroon & Gold staff would like to increase your welcome by helping you to understand your position at BSC (you really do have one, believe it or not!).

First of all, what is a freshman? Contrary to the opinion of many upperclassmen, a freshman is neither "the lowest type of life on campus" nor "the scapegoat of the collegiate crowd." A freshman is an individual in one of those rare, hectic periods of change. During this transition, the freshman finds that he or she has to make those undefinable, nebulous things called adaptations, or adjustments. What, however, are these freshman adaptations?

The first area of adjustment is an academic one. Despite all the "glory propaganda" and the "rah-rahs," most people come to college to get — of all things — an education! For most of us non-supernatural beings, this means indulging in that controversial practice known as studying. Most well-meaning freshman start off the year with a bang — they buy the required textbooks. Somewhere, however, along the varied, distracting path of college life, they forget how to use them. (Some frosh never do recover from this case of amnesia!)

Studying at college means budgeting time. Freshman will find, at times, that they have to deny themselves such luxuries as television, a Wednesday night dance, or an inviting "bull session" in order to spend an evening with an algebra or literature book. College, on the other hand, is not an "ivory tower." College is life, and the freshman who feels that life is nothing but pure work will find that his four years at BSC will be unbalanced ones. Most frosh will find that there will be times when they will have had their fill of books, papers, etc. When this time comes, they should stop, take a walk, practice a little yoga, or just throw a pillow at their roommates. This will do a lot more good than brooding — and it may save some individuals from spending the remainder of their college years in a straight jacket!

The incoming freshman will find that his second major level of adjustment will be a social one. A college is a community, and an integral part of any community is its people. College is brimming over with people — all with different personalities. Somehow, the freshman must learn to intermesh his personality with those of his acquaintances. This is not an easy task, but neither is it an impossible one if each freshman would learn to meet people halfway, be they roommate, friend, or professor.

Moreover, it is good to learn to accept your contemporaries for what they are. What if your roommate's philosophy is different than your own? Does it really matter if the guy next door wears loud ties? Is that professor's habit of twitching his nose really that annoying? We are all members, recall, of that irrational, incomprehensible mass called humanity. A seventeenth century English poet wrote that "no man is an island." People need people — especially a frequently bewildered freshman.

Writer Publishes Savage's Article

Control of character is considered a most important aspect of writing by Richard Savage, of the BSC English department, in a recent article in The Writer.

Instead of allowing a plot to maneuver character, Mr. Savage maintains that the characters must maneuver the plot, and that this is achieved only after the writer has become so familiar with his characters that he can dare to allow them to speak as individuals. Mr. Savage paradoxically points out: "The more the author appears to stand aside and allow his characters to create their own circumstances, to be masters of their own fate in word and action, the surer his control."

Active in Writing

Mr. Savage has contributed seven short stories and one article to The Saturday Evening Post, and has considerable background in the field of journalism. This experience qualifies him to write for The Writer, the oldest and largest writer's magazine in the country. Mr. Savage's article can be found in the August, 1963 issue.

Summer School Enrollment Gain

Again BSC can boast of its largest summer school in the history of the institution with a total enrollment of 2512. Each session, both graduate and undergraduate, was approximately 50% larger than last year.

In the pre-session there were 812 students enrolled in graduate and undergraduate work.

The total enrollment for the main-session was 1091 with 18 trainees in the program sponsored by the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation.

The total post-session figure reached 612.

Some of the larger colleges represented at the summer sessions include Gettysburg, Juniata, New York University, Penn State, and Susquehanna.

OVERHEARD . . .

near the new girls' dorm:

"Hey, tell that freshman girl hanging on the rafter that the new dorm isn't open yet!"
in the College Book Store:

"... $32.67, and you don't even give green stamps!"

in the College Commons:

"Can't we leave our trays on the tables?"

at Freshman Registration:

"Yes, I'm really from the town of Mincklopecforjan!"
in New North Hall:

"You mean this room can't accommodate my five-speaker, 100-watt stereo!"

In Husky Lounge during a pinochle game:

"... and this year I'm really going to hit the books!"

on Senior Walk:

"What do you mean I have to scrub it with a toothbrush!"

In the midst of these last few days of cheering, proposing to upperclassmen, or expostulating on the sex life of a tsetse fly, freshman should stop and think about these major areas of adjustment. These few minutes of meditation may enable more of the incoming class of 1967 to return next September to say: Welcome to BSC, Frosh!

tinue to be posted on the bulletin boards.

All clubs and organizations are requested to turn in their announcements on 3"x5" cards to Doreen Wright, Post Office Box 536 by 4:00 p.m. every Monday afternoon for publication the following Friday.

Mixed Emotions As Campus Life Is Rejuvenated

"Welcome Back!"

At least that's what the sign in Husky Lounge says. When seeing this, one may assume that somebody is glad we're back, even though that somebody may not necessarily be us. But just to satiate our curiosity, we asked a number of upper-classmen, "Are you truly glad to be back?"

Most people answered in the affirmative, which was very reassuring, inasmuch as it confirmed our suspicions that we had a well-adjusted student body at good old Bloomsburg State. However, these people were truly glad for several different reasons.

For several people, this year is the last lap before freedom. Larry Ikeler said "Glad it's my last year," and Jim Campbell "Just wants to get done."

Others find that it's better than working, if nothing else. Bill Billet, who shares this opinion with Dick James, informed us that college "Beats workin'." Dick James, who elaborated a bit more, stated "I'd rather go to school than work. They sell the same kind of beer, so it doesn't matter."

Dona Sholes and Ernie Shuba were just glad to be back. Dona, when questioned, simply said "Yes!" while Ernie was "glad to be back where there's some people."

One of the more enthusiastic people we questioned, Ray Gross, said that he was "All psyched up for the dances." Birdie Pealer, on the other hand, said "I'm homesick."

Many people, who appeared to be in a category all their own, just looked completely shocked when asked, or slowly collapsed. These were the ambitious individuals who had taken on summer school for all three sessions, and who gave a vague impression that they might possibly like to be elsewhere.

Roth Travels To England's Sights

The itinerary of a June British vacation taken by William C. Roth, a member of BSC's English department, reads like a list of cities frequented by England's giants of literature.

Mr. Roth spent two weeks in London with side trips to Windsor, Eton, Canterbury, and Stratford-upon-Avon, attending the theatres and enjoying Trooping the Color, a spectacular military pageant which annually marks the official birthday of Queen Elizabeth. The latter part of June was taken up by a comprehensive tour of many parts of England, Scotland and Wales. A fast plane returned Mr. Roth to BSC in time to teach during the main summer session.

It seems that the only local talent that is sure of perpetuation is that of the person who wrote the original organization descriptions for the Pilot.

CGA Seeks Help Of Student Body

New CGA Officers

Just as all physical things revolve around a central purpose, so does the student body, and this purpose is revealed in the work of the Community Government Association.

CGA is devoted to combining the talents and abilities of everyone (since everyone on campus is a member in good standing) toward the end of better all-around campus life. Last spring the officers for the 1963-64 school year were elected. They are: Gerry Howard, president; John Knoll, vice president; Bonnie Jean Davey, corresponding secretary; Liz Winter, recording secretary; and Dean Long, treasurer.

The council of CGA wants to make this year the best on record, but will not be able to do so without your help, cooperation and interest.

The Maroon and Gold welcomes all students interested in joining the staff. Organizational meeting Wednesday, September 17 at 4:00 p.m. Watch the window of the office door for place of meeting.

As students note the new trophy case the usual comment is "They finally got it in."

The oldest item on display in the new case is a 1935 baseball trophy; the newest, of course, is the recently acquired mace.

These photographs show the progress of the new women's dormitories now under construction at BSC. These buildings which will house 500 are slated for completion in August, 1964.

In the first photo it appears to be just a pile of steel and concrete mixed together.

The shape of a building appears more real in the second picture.

In the third photo the forms of the rooms are seen and the building begins to look like a dorm.

Finally the latest addition to the construction is the third floor and with this we can see the great undertaking of constructing a building.

In the future plans for BSC, there will be more constructions including dormitories for men, more classroom buildings, and a new auditorium.

Gridders Pre-Season Practice Builds Hopes For Good Year

The Husky Gridders prepare to meet Susquehanna University this afternoon at Selinsgrove. The team has been practicing since August 31.

On August 31, 66 Huskies began extensive football practice on Mt. Olympus. The result of this practice will be seen today at Selinsgrove when BSC meets Susquehanna U. at 2:00 p.m.

Thirty-three upperclassmen returned and were joined by 33 freshmen; twenty veterans have earned letters. Coach Walter Blair considers the crop of freshmen "better than average" and has hopes for several team assets from this class.

Two Weeks of Practice

The team has been drilling for two weeks and has had no serious injuries reported. During "camp," the team was getting between four and five hours of field work plus daily meetings. Generally, the team is in good shape physically and mentally. Though lacking in size, the Huskies have developed very good speed to make up for it. The team's greatest necessity is to find replacements for these '63 grads: John Sills and Trevor Carpenter, guards; Gary Stackhouse and Duke Denick, tackles; Bob Christina, center; Dick Rohrer, quarterback; Moses Scott, halfback; and Ken Robbins, utility back.

Joe Casarella and Larry Tironi will man the center position. Guard slots will be handled by Jack Currie, Lou Ciocca and Bob Letcavage; two sophomores, Butch Greco and John Mulka, will also be making powerful bids for starting guard positions. Bart Wilenski, Gary Barnaba, Mel Max, Neil Mercado and Jack Rankin are all trying for top billing in the tackle department.

Need for Strong Ends

Strong ends are needed and veterans Jeff Ward, Jerry Doto, Gary McManimen, Bucko Davala, and George Cunningham are grooming themselves for the positions.

The task of quarterbacking will rest mainly on the shoulders of Bob "Spats" Kurzinsky. This Husky did a fine job at the end of last year but it remains to be seen whether or not he can take the place of Dick Rohrer and Ken Robbins.

Other Backs

Fred Stoicheff will try to fill Moses Scott's left halfback shoes and it is hoped that Buz Boerner will continue to improve at right half; Gary Sprout will remain as fullback.

The coaching staff has two new members in backfield coach Mr. W. Richard Mentzer and end coach Mr. George Wilwohl. Mr. Eli McLaughlin remains along with Mr. Blair.

Schedule

The Huskies will play eight games; the first will be on Sept.

Street and Smith's FOOTBALL YEARBOOK appears annually on the nation's newsstands, usually in late July or early August. The Yearbook contains complete information on the nation's top teams with top sports editors from the East, deep South, mid-West, Southwest, far West, and the Northwest reporting on the college grid teams in their respective areas. The East is covered by Boston Herald-Traveler sports scribe Tim Horgan.

Mr. Horgan reports on the Ivy League, the Yankee Conference, the Middle Atlantic Conference, the Maine Conference, the Independents, and — to our surprise — the Pennsylvania State College Athletic Conference.

* * *

Besides giving a brief resume of the teams in the PSCAC, Mr. Horgan also predicts the order each team will finish in their respective divisions. For the sake of unenlightened Frosh, the PSCAC is divided into two divisions, the Eastern and the Western. Bloomsburg State is in the Eastern division.

The Bostonian sports scribe figures West Chester State is the power-house of the conference, both divisions. He theorizes that the Rams will win the Eastern division and defeat the Western winners, Indiana State in the playoff for the PSCAC championship on November 16.

* * *

Just where do coach, Walt Blair's Husky gridgers figure in Mr. Horgan's prediction? The Blairmen are slated to finish fourth behind the Rams, East Stroudsburg State, and Mansfield. In his resume of the Husky situation, he figures the loss of nine lettermen, including 21, at Lock Haven which might be tough. On Oct. 5, the first home game will be played against King's College. Homecoming, Oct. 12, will prove very interesting when the Huskies meet a traditionally strong West Chester team. The Stroudsburg game, Nov. 9, is another hard one and will also be at home. For the first time since 1961, the Huskies will have a home game under the lights; this will occur on Oct. 25, when BSC meets Cheyney.

Taking a broad sweep, the football situation at Bloom is better than the last few years and everyone is enthusiastic for a good season.

Fashion Advisor With Wanamaker

Judy Andrews, a BSC Sophomore, played an important part in the John Wanamaker College '68 Thoroughbred Look promotion this summer.

Beginning as a sales clerk in the Jenkintown Branch Wanamaker store, Judy was soon promoted to the head of the Mimi Shop, the section concerned with the junior sizes. Her duties here were to work with the customers and travel to the Philadelphia Wanamaker store weekly to choose stock for the Jenkintown branch.

As a member of the college board chosen from some 14 college student personnel, Judy was busy advising customers on the latest styles which Wanamaker's term, "The Thoroughbred Look." This, she explained, was a more sporty approach with a typical example being an outfit consisting of an ascot, shirt, vest, jacket, skirt, and boots. "Boots," she added, "are the big thing this year."

All this on Judy's first job. Her 1960-61 school year was spent as an exchange student to Germany. At BSC she is an elementary German major, a cheerleader, proctor and a Freshman Orientation Committee member.

Head Coach: Walter Blair

quarterback Dick Rohrer, may hamper the Blairmen. However, he does reveal the possibility of a winning season. After all, Coach Blair has 20 lettermen returning. With linemen like Gary Barnaba, Bart Wilenski, Larry Tironi, and Lou Ciocca in front of backs like Gary Sprout, Dick Boerner, and Fred Stoicheff — a former Big 33 star who just returned from military duty — things can't be so bad for Coach Blair and his staff.

Perhaps the Husky grid machine may not win all the marbles in the PSCAC — although they very well may — but they do not loom as a fourth-place grid squad. Mr. Horgan and we do not see eye to eye. In our humble opinion, the worst the Huskies can do is third. With a little luck and lots of sweat, they could take the "cake."

We may as well stick our neck out and take a GUESS as to how the teams will finish in the PSCAC this season.

In the Eastern division: (1) West Chester, (2) Bloomsburg, (3) East Stroudsburg, (4) Mansfield, (5) Millersville and (6) Kutztown.

In the Western sector: (1) Indiana, (2) Edinboro, (3) California, (4) Slippery Rock, (5) Shippensburg, (6) Lock Haven, (7) Clarion.

It's a wild guess, but that's how we see things. By the end of November 16, we'll know how wrong we were.

Cigarette Ads Banned On Campus

BSC students unable to procure the necessary "wampum" for that pack of cigarettes will no longer be able to drool over, the large, cigarette ads previously published in the Maroon & Gold. Recently, most major cigarette manufacturers have decided to stop advertising in college newspapers.

Smoking for Adults Only

While contending that there is no direct link between smoking and diseases, George V. Allen, president of the Tobacco Institute, stated that collegiate advertisements for cigarettes have been discontinued in order to reaffirm the industry's position that "smoking is an adult custom." Although Mr. Allen declined to specify the companies that would ban cigarette advertising on campuses, he implied that the majority of companies would be involved.
