Technical Crews Work On Show

Janice Felmster and Luton Houtz will portray two important roles in The Cherry Orchard. Jan, a freshman from Ringtown enrolled in the Liberal Arts Curriculum portrays Anya, the daughter of Madame Ranevskaya. Jan made her first appearance with the Players in "Little Mary Sunshine" when she played Cora, a young lady from Eastchester Fin-

But acting isn't everything in a play. A rather exclusive area called the "Catacombs" is organized to house the creators and builders of the settings for the campus plays of the Bloomington Players. At the present time, a drawing-room setting for The Cherry Orchard is drying flat on the floor as it awaits its short trip to the stage of Carver Auditorium.

Director, Dr. Mary Homrighous, occasionally stops by the shop to check the location of the fireplace, doorways, and arches, but outside of these spot-checks, the students have the sole responsibility for getting the work completed. Mr. Robert Richey, who designed a setting for this play, which is set in Russia at the turn of the century, is casing the library, trying to find out what kind of furniture, windows and fireplaces were in vogue during that era. By the use of these resources, the room is transplanted into stage terms. A combination of lumber, muslin, paint and cardboard becomes an elegant background for the aristocratic Russian family.

Players Work Hard on Props

For members of our student body who never get off the main campus areas, a trip to the scenic workshop will provide an interesting afternoon excursion. In view will be members of the Players at work sawing, painting, cleaning and valiantly trying to restore a Russian samovar. For those who are really interested, left and right-handed tools of every description are available.

Production dates for The Cherry Orchard are February 13th and 14th at Carver Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Members of the student body are admitted free of charge.

Student Enrollment Shows 122 Increase

Bloomington State College opened the second semester of the spring term with 122 new students, comprising a total enrollment of 2,111.

The breakdown shows that 50 of these students are freshman. Transfer students number 24, and there are 39 returnees. The remaining 9 are unclassified students.

Faculty
Four new faculty members, Dr. Robert McCormick, Mrs. Ruth Smeal, Mr. Jorgan Riechman, and Mrs. Elsa Riechel have been added to the staff in order to accommodate continual increase in student enrollment. Consequently, the new number of faculty members is 134.

Preps And Stereos Slated For Spring W'kend Activities

The Community Government Association, as part of Spring Weekend, will present the Four Preps in Concert on Friday, March 13 at 8:30 pm. The Four Preps, one of the best vocal groups now appearing on college campuses, number among their hit records "Dreamy Eyes," "26 Miles," "Big Man," "Down By the Station," "Big Surprise," "More Money for You and Me," and "Cinderella," from the motion picture "Gidget."

Tickets will go on sale Monday, March 2, at 8 am in front of the CGA office. The price of the tickets will be $2.50 for reserved seats and $2.00 for general admission.

On Saturday, March 14, the sophomore class will feature the Stereos, a rock and roll band from Pittsburgh. Coffee House Capers will be the theme; the dress will be casual. Ticket stubs from the Four Preps Concert will admit you to the dance.

Nominate Co-ed Candidates

The following girls were elected by the members of their classes to be candidates for co-ed of the year.

Seniors

Representatives from the senior class are Patricia Campbell, an elementary major from Malverne, New York; and Nancy Davore, a secondary major from Benton, Pa.

Juniors

Sophomores

Joan Salus from Wyoming and Jean Zenke from Scranton, both secondary majors were chosen as candidates by the sophomores.

Freshmen

Freshmen Diane De Francisco, a special education major from Bethlehem; and Donna Schiavo, a secondary major from Jersey Shore, were elected by their class members.

Qualifications for the girls were that they could not be on social probation and that they have attained a 2.3 cumulative point average.

Jaycees Seek Beauty Queen

Bloomington Junior Chamber of Commerce invites all Bloomington area girls, both on the college and high school level, to participate in the "Miss Eastern Pennsylvania" Pageant, which will take place in Bloomington, April 18, 1964.

Winner of the "Miss Eastern Pennsylvania" Pageant then will be eligible to compete in the "Miss Pennsylvania" Pageant.

Nominations will be made by mailing the name and address of the prospective contestant to "Miss Eastern Pennsylvania" Pageant, P.O. Box 101, Bloomington, Pennsylvania. Entry blanks are available elsewhere in this edition of the M&G.

Contest Rules for Candidates

Candidates for the "Miss Eastern Pennsylvania" Pageant must conform to the contest rules which are as follows:

1. Entrant must be a resident of the 4-county area (Northumberland, Columbia, Montour, and Schuylkill). This rule is waived only for contestants whose residence is out of the city, county or territory, but who are college or uni-

Spring Semester Faculty Increase

Four new members have been appointed to the Bloomington State College faculty as of January.

Dr. Robert N. McCormick, who was a member of the Biology Department of Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, has been added as an Assistant Professor of Biology. He was graduated from the Muskingum College, Ohio. His Master of Science degree and his Doctor of Philosophy degree were both earned at the Ohio State University. Dr. McCormick holds membership in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Indiana Teachers Association, National Educational Association, and the Indiana and Ohio Academies of Science.

Mrs. Ruth D. Smeal, a former member of the faculty of the Millville Joint School District, will supplement the professional library staff at BSC as Circulation Librarian with the rank of Instructor. A native of Milton, Pennsylvania, she earned her Bachelor of Science Degree in Education from Bloomington State College and her Master of Science degree in Librarianship from Marywood College. She has taken additional graduate work at Pennsylvania State University. In addition to being a member of the American Library Association of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Smeal was also a member of the State Education Association, and the Department of Supervision and Curriculum in PSEA.

Mr. Jorgen Riechman, assistant professor of English, has come to BSC from the New York City school system in Manhattan Borough. He holds a Bachelors degree from Brooklyn College and a Masters degree from the University of New York where he is completing his Ph.D.

Mrs. Elsa Riechel, an honors graduate of Smith College, has done graduate studies in German at Northwestern University where she served as a Graduate Assistant. Mrs. Riechel is completing the residence requirement for her Ph.D.

Dr. Mary Homrighous, chairman of the assembly committee, wishes to remind students that it is part of their obligation of attending assemblies to make sure that their IBM cards are handed to a faculty member at the close of assembly. A number of students who did not comply with this rule have lost credit for attendance at the convocation held January 30.

versity students in area where Pageant is held.

2. Entrant must be of good character and possess poise, personality, intelligence, charm and beauty of face and figure.

3. Entrant must possess and display talent in a routine not to exceed three minutes. Talent may be singing, dancing, playing a musical instrument, dramatics, art display, dress designing, creative poetry, writing, etc., or entrant may give a three minute talk on the profession she wishes to pursue, including teaching, nursing, law, medicine, business, etc.

4. Entrant must be single and never have been married, divorced, or had marriage annulled.

5. Entrant must be high school graduate by Labor Day in year of competition.

6. Entrant's age on Labor Day in year of competition shall not be less than 18 nor more than 28 years.

7. Entrant may be either professional or amateur performer.

8. College entrant must possess a 2.3 cumulative average and cannot be on social probation.

President and Mrs. Andruss Return From Foreign Trip

Panamanian Crisis Delays Homecoming

Dr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Andruss have returned to the Bloomington State College campus after a tour that was unexpectedly extended when they were delayed by the rioting that occurred in Panama during their visit. The trip covered over 25,000 miles of which 3/4 of the time was spent on board ship.

Begins Tour

October 10, 1963, was the date of Dr. and Mrs. Andruss' departure from Bloomington. They traveled west with a 10 day stop in Minneapolis. From here they continued to Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Reno and Las Vegas where President Andruss met a graduate of BSC who is principal of a special education school for the mentally retarded.

Sailing from San Francisco on November 1, President and Mrs. Andruss arrived at Yokohama, Japan twelve days later and journeyed to Tokyo where they met Henry Marini, the president of the Class of 1953 of BSC, and his Japanese wife.

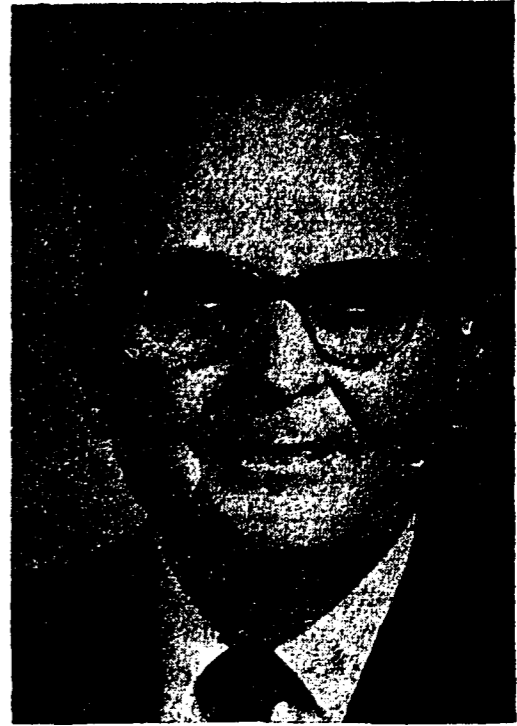

Dr. Andruss noted that on many stops along the way he had the pleasure of meeting former students who are adding to the high prestige of BSC.

The tour then continued to Hong Kong where President and Mrs. Andruss boarded a boat for Manila. It was on shipboard at this time that the news of President Kennedy's death reached Dr. and Mrs. Andruss. Dr. Andruss said that everywhere he travelled there was evidence of the reaction of deep sympathy resulting from President Kennedy's death. The people everywhere seemed to respect and admire him as a friend.

In Manila, Dr. Andruss met a former classmate, Dr. Jose Punsalang who has recently retired as head of the hospital of the Philippine Medical Service.

From Manila the Andruss' returned to Japan via Bangkok, Hong Kong, and Okinawa where they boarded a German ship that returned them to the Western Hemisphere, stopping at San Francisco and continuing on to Ensenada, Mexico. From here they proceeded to Panama.

Dr. Andruss' planned three day stay here was extended to nine days when they were unable to obtain transportation from the area following the rioting that started on January 9.

While in Panama, Dr. and Mrs. Andruss found themselves in the middle of a blackout at the Sky Chef Restaurant along with Panama's ex-president, Dr. Arnaldo Arias, who had been renominated as candidate for President in the next election, two days prior to the incident.

President Andruss discussed the Panamanian situation thoroughly at a convocation held in Centennial Gymnasium on Thursday, January 30, when he spoke on the topic "What Can We Learn From Panama." At that time Dr. Andruss said "I don't think we have learned any thing yet!" he continued "When you have to choose between principles and popularity, I'll take principle." He added the interesting fact that approximately 20 professors at the University of Panama are willing to stand up and be counted as Communists.

Return Voyage

Dr. and Mrs. Andruss obtained passage back to the United States on a ship that passed between San Domingo and Cuba where they were buzzed by USAF planes which is standard procedure in this area.

On return to Bloomington, Dr. Andruss appeared on WHLM and WCNR, the local radio stations, and television appearances on a news broadcast on WBRX and a special half hour panel discussion on WNEP at which time he informed the public about the Panamanian situation.

Memos From Office Dean of Instruction

Dean John A. Hoch has released several announcements concerning student teaching, classroom television, and graduate studies.

To qualify for student teaching, seniors must have a cumulative point average of 2.0 and a successful completion of the following courses: educational psychology, problems of secondary education, audio-visual education, and the teaching—of course.

Classroom TV

The faculty is preparing for an extensive study in the area of classroom television. It is hoped that the study will result in proposals that can be submitted to the Department of Public Instruction for review.

Graduate Studies

Probationary approval for graduate studies in the field of English has been granted by the State Board of Education. The Board has withheld approval on the graduate program in social studies.

Reduction In Rates Announced For Fair

BSC's Office of Public Relations, in cooperation with Allegheny Airlines, is selling tickets to the World's Fair at reduced rates. The $2.00 adult ticket is being sold for $1.35, and the $1.00 child's ticket will be sold for $.68. Tickets can also be obtained at any Allegheny Airline office, but plane transportation is not required of the purchaser in order that he may get the benefit of this discount.

Special air rates have been announced from the Hazleton airport. The Group rate for ten or more people costs $14.00 for a round trip ticket. The weekend excursion, starting Friday midnight and lasting until Sunday midnight, costs $13.05. A forty passenger chartered plane, for organizations only, costs $745 or $18.60 per person.

The deadline for these reduced rates is February 29.

Wave of Welcome Greets President

We take this opportunity on behalf of the BSC population to welcome President Andruss upon his return after a three months tour of the Far East. It is a pleasure to have Dr. Andruss back at BSC.

Many colleges are often accused of being "ivory towers," institutions without any contact with the outside world. With Dr. Andruss' on-the-spot observation of such a critical incident as the Panama Canal crisis, we, of BSC, are given a deeper understanding of the forces which are constantly causing such international upheavals.

Thievery Creates Chaos On Campus

It has come to our attention that it is time for drastic action to be taken against the person or persons who are guilty of stealing on our campus. It is terrible that we must admit this condition, but, nevertheless, it does exist and steps must be taken to curb this evil practice.

We cannot place our coats or books anywhere and still be sure of finding them when we return. One of the more noticeable instances occurs in the Commons. Students who place their possessions on the racks in the lobby are often surprised to find them missing. This "magical" disappearance also occurs on the coat racks in the lounges and in the hall near the post office.

Points Presented for Consideration

We contacted Dean McCauslin about this situation, and he told us that there were several points to be considered in discussing this problem:

- 1) Some people have been quick to report articles as stolen when they only had been misplaced.
- 2) Some of the stealing could have been prevented if people had not been so careless in keeping their rooms unlocked, etc.
- 3) It is very disturbing to think that future teachers are guilty of such a low deed.

Students Responsible for Checking Thefts

Everyone should try to be careful, when possible, to do his part in taking care of his possessions. That is to say, no chances should be given for a person to steal. It is also the duty of everyone to report any information leading to the discovery of this person or persons.

The person responsible for the theft could be mentally disturbed, and it would benefit everyone if he were apprehended. As a result, he could be treated, and the general campus population would be relieved of this embarrassing situation.

A Commendation on Easy Registration

In the last issue of the Maroon and Gold, we stated our disfavor of a fault(s) in the scheduling system. Since that time, another massive student program has taken place — namely, registration.

We would now like to recognize the effective procedure for registration — it was almost a pleasant task. The new idea of paying fees completely before registration served its purpose well. As a result, the actual registration on Monday was so efficient that it only took several minutes to fill out the cards and hand them to the proper person.

Students Hope for Another Easy Registration

This process was for second semester. It should be pointed out that the second semester registration is generally easier and quicker than that of first semester. Many BSC students hope that this same system can be effectively used next September for the benefit of both the student and administration.

Dietterick Directing Public Relations; Basketball 'Pro' For Eastern League

Directing public relations at Bloomsburg, Mr. Bruce C. Dietterick assumed the position in September when Mr. Boyd Buckingham was granted a sabbatical leave of absence for one year. Formerly employed by the Wise Potato Chip Company, Berwick, from 1948 until 1962, he served consecutively as advertising clerk, Assistant to the Director of Advertising Manager of Market Research, and Assistant to the General Sales Manager. His career in sales began with radio station WLTR (now WHLM) in 1947 after receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in journalism from The Pennsylvania State University.

Played Pro Basketball

Mr. Dietterick, a native of Berwick, attended the public schools of that community before enrolling at Temple University. His college career was interrupted by two years of active service with the Army Air Corps in which he served as aviation cadet and in the Air Transport Command. After World War II, he entered Penn State where he became active in Alpha Delta Sigma and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternities and served on the business board of the Daily Collegian. His basketball experience at Penn State led to six years of professional basketball with teams in the Eastern League.

licize the college and its students through the different news media. Mr. Dietterick, since he has assumed his position, has been trying to expand this coverage through the newspaper, radio, and television. He is also trying to expand this coverage to other areas in addition to the usual coverage given to sports and music. It is Mr. Dietterick's request therefore, that any student or member of the faculty who has a personal item of interest which could be publicized in conjunction with the college to contact the public relations department.

Dillon House Causes Hiking Craze; Lovers of Humanities Show Strength

by Kathy Roselli

There's a new member of the BSC community! It's Dillon House, the white domicile turned school house, which is helping to guard the frontier of the campus proper. Little did its former proprietors imagine that their dining room would become a haven for scholars eager to explore the writings of Dostoyevsky, Joyce, or Donne or that the guest room upstairs would accommodate not one weekend visitor but 20 stomping, groaning, loquacious daily invaders.

A Unique Contribution

Dillon House is definitely a

Snowy Slopes Slay BSC Stoic Students

by Luton Houtz

With an abundance of snow and an "away we go," the population of BSC will take a course in the three "S's" of Snow School, skiing, sledding, and skating. After days of looking at the white stuff through classroom windows, we will all get a chance to acquaint ourselves with it. There were, of course, occasionally unexpected contacts with the element especially on College Hill. It sure isn't as soft as it looks.

Liniment Needed

When we desert the campus classroom for the snowy slopes and icy lakes, we won't need the customary books, papers and pencils — just skis, liniment, skates, liniment, sleds, liniment, and above all lots of bandages and liniment. We all better have a moment of silence for those of us who will not return from the fray — in spite of the fact that the college rented several St. Bernards including kegs.

That wintery wonderland looks peaceful and soothing but when we assault the slopes, it's going to fight back. To make it worse, we're practically helpless. After all, what can you do when you are executing a graceful figure 8 and the ice disappears? Answer: keep your chin up and remember swimming class. There are, moreover, always those deceptive trees that step between your skis at the last minute. Another thing about those trees, do not stand under them because that will be the time they choose to shed snow.

New Frugue

It isn't, however, all bad. There is always the chance to pelt your lovable roommate with snowballs or maybe treat him to a ride down the toboggan slide (without the toboggan). Everyone, of course, can look forward to dancing afterwards. It should be interesting. Maybe we could start a new course: How to Frugue on a Crutch. There is also a great outlet for skis, skates, and toboggans (only slightly used). Why, with a little scotch tape, they would be as good as new, almost.

Seriously, BSC students will win the scrimmage of the slopes or crack up trying. Remember, stay out of the way of zooming toboggans and flying peoples. By the way, has anybody seen a drunk St. Bernard around?

unique contribution to the field of education at BSC. Even more unique, however, are the individuals who are able to muster up enough courage to brave the long, tortuous trek to this outpost. These "frontiersmen" can usually be identified by the knapsack they carry on their backs, their sturdy hiking boots, and their purposeful look. Students and professors who encounter these "soldiers of fortune" are asked to bolster their spirits with such words of encouragement as "Remember, you're in pursuit of excellence," or "You're certainly complying with the government's physical fitness program." If the individual is too far gone to appreciate these words, it would be a good idea to guide him to one of the nearest St. Bernard dogs which will be stationed at strategic intervals to provide Dillon House hikers with the proper, professional liquid stimulant—Ovaltine.

Because the majority of these "mountain climbers" are English professors, English majors, or other students enrolled in English courses, the question has naturally arisen as to why the English department was chosen to frequent Dillon House. Why weren't the Science or Math departments given the privilege of engaging in this exhilarating experiment in physical endurance. Certainly, the daily trek to this house would be an ideal time for biology students to make first-hand observations for their botany or their zoology courses. Perhaps, however, the administration realizes that a student or professor of humanities, with their subjective frames of mind, can accept such basic irrationalities of life as Dillon House. Perhaps, an English major is better able to reconcile himself to the fact that every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday he must journey from Noetling to Dillon to Carver and then back to Dillon again. Moreover, an individual who has some conception of the workings of an artistic mind can certainly appreciate the surrealistic beauty of the green and purple color scheme of the powder room in Dillon House.

TIGER ON A STRING

What an unusual pet I chose;
I wish I never had.
A wild, untamed, and unowned
Thing—a tiger on a string.

Savage were my tiger's eyes,
And sharp his treacherous claws.
But, all I saw was beauty,
For love admits no flaws.

They say the more we live, we learn;
Of life I've learned a lot.
I loved that tiger — love is life,
But love was not enough.

Letters To The Editor

(Letters to the editor are an expression of the individual writer's opinion and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper.)

Dear Editor:

I feel some of your readers should check the 17th and 18th words on page 819 of the 1960 edition of Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary. There they will find the definition of sportsman, "a good loser and a graceful winner," and the definition of sportsmanship, "conduct becoming to a sportsman, involving honest rivalry and graceful acceptance of results."

If the wrestling meet Saturday night with East Stroudsburg was an example of graceful acceptance of the results, then we're in dire need of re-examining the dictionary... or ourselves. When the opponent was injured, some fans felt he had no right to be out there on the mats. He was booed and made to feel as though we were actually out for blood! Suppose the tables were turned and our wrestlers were the ones who had the injuries... what then? Would we like the opposing fans booing our wrestlers?

Also, in case some readers didn't realize it, the referee calls the plays as he sees them; he isn't infallible. It's human to be in just one place at a time, even on a mat; so why boo him because he is human?

Let's re-examine our codes of spectator sportsmanship here at Bloomsburg State, or soon we may be labeled "BOOSburg" State.

Sincerely yours,
Betty Girven

Jacket Viewed As Poor Horror Film

by Harry Ackerman

Any student who, like this writer, has been able to tear himself away from his books on one occasion or another during the past few years to see a movie or watch television may agree that a trend seems to be developing in our nation's viewing media. What realm once boasted such drama as National Velvet and Tarzan the Untamed, the cinema, seems to have passed on its melodrama to television and taken up the realism of the European film. A recent exception to this, possible beneficial trend was Strait-Jacket, a psychological shocker, significant only to the discriminating study-dodger.

Legacy of Foreign Film?

We still have our American extravaganzas, Come Blow Your Horn, or Cleopatra, but the foreign film, entertainment's Volkswagen, has invaded our market and marked it. Ingemar Bergman was an early immigrant with "The Seventh Seal" and "The Virgin Spring." More recently, the English "A Taste of Honey" came over. Whether as result, reaction, or purely coincidence, American producers have been following suit, using down-South brutality in Sweet Bird of Youth and psychological drama in the economical but effective David and Lisa, for example, and letting sentimentality to Father Knows Best.

Based On Horror

Strait-jacket is an American attempt at psychological introspection in the Hitchcock manner, but it views simply as a horror story below even Hitchcock's calibre. The plot deals with a woman who returns after 20 years in an asylum for the hatchet-murder of her husband and his lover to live with her brother and her daughter, who, as a child, had witnessed the slaughter. The daughter has fallen in love with a rich young man and fears the effect of a "loony" mother upon their love. For this reason (we are told), she employs the horror which has haunted her for 20 years, attempting to drive her mother crazy again. When they threaten her scheme, she murders a psychologist, a hired hand, and her fiance's parents, wearing clothes and a mask of her mother. At her undoing, she becomes a schizophrenic split between love and hatred for the parent.

Plot Improbable

Where the film falls short is in this very denouement (presented, to boot, by a balanced mother's recollection) which depends not upon the darkness and imbalance of the human mind, but upon its very opposite, human logic and stability. A criminally deranged girl, the film asserts, has planned in advance a simulated appearance of her mother detailed to include a

Carlson Published In Music Journal

Dr. Charles H. Carlson, professor of music at BSC, has had an article published in the January issue of Music Journal. Entitled "The Ephrata Cloister's Music of Yesteryear," the article gives an interesting insight into the unique system of music which was an integral part of the life and religion of a group of Seventh-Day Baptists who settled in Ephrata, Pa. in the early eighteenth century.

Beissel's Harmonic System

The music of the religious sect grew out of their Spartan, monastic way of life. Devised largely by Conrad Beissel, the leader of this group, the music at Ephrata was characterized by a unique harmonic system. Beissel utilized this harmonic system in composing hymns and tunes; for singing was the main vehicle of musical expression at the Ephrata Cloister's common service.

life-mask and a miniature tape-recording of a disturbing nursery rhyme. Furthermore, she has apparently anticipated to the moment her mother's reactions to her action. This is revealed too quickly to be likely or credible, let alone in harmony with the creature the girl turns out to be.

Technique Overpowering

Furthermore, even supposing the denouement believable, the film departs from the horror of the plot to achieve its effects. That is, while we might recoil from the macabre presentation of such human evil, what Strait-jacket presents is a series of startling camera angles (borrowed probably from Psycho) which become longer each time they occur and a spine-tingling music which becomes less harmonious in each scene. These techniques keep us on the edge of our seats, but not for any reason that frightens our minds or any faculties other than emotion.

So, while enjoyable horror stories are seldom logical, Strait-jacket falls short of top, work-shrugging quality. For those who still will procrastinate, I suggest a drive to your local slaughterhouse. Movies are not necessarily better than ever.

Schedule Annual BSC Bloodmobile

A campaign is presently being conducted by the Bloodmobile committee, under the direction of Priscilla Bangor, to secure volunteer donors for the 14th annual visit of the Bloodmobile Unit to the BSC Campus which is scheduled for Thursday, March 5. On that date, the Bloodmobile unit of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Regional Area of the American Red Cross will be in operation in Centennial Gymnasium from 10 am until 4 pm. The student committee has set a goal of 300 pints, which will aid materially in keeping Bloomsburg in the Priority I class for Blood Bank rating.

Form Glee Club This Semester

A new men's glee club, under the direction of Mr. William Decker, is being formed this semester. The first rehearsal produced some results that give much hope to the future of this group.

Informal singing will be stressed and many popular style arrangements will be used, including those of the Kingston Trio and the Bellefonte Singers. Any man who is interested is welcome—he doesn't have to be a good singer. The group is looking for good guitar and accordion players to accompany many of the songs. Rehearsals are in Room C33 of Science Hall, Thursday nights from 7:15 to 8:30.

Wagner Attends Recent Lecture

Zygmunt A. Piotrowski, PhD, professor of clinical psychology at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, recently lectured at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Wilkes-Barre, on "Recent Research Concerning the Meaning of Human Movement; Color and Shading Responses of the Rorschach." This lecture was attended by Dr. E. Paul Wagner of BSC's Psychology Department.

Dr. Piotrowski has spent the major part of his professional career as a research specialist, theorist, and clinical consultant on the Rorschach. He is also, a guest lecturer at Temple University and a consultant to the Veterans Administration.

Winning Huskies in Action

Husky Cagers Beat Edinboro And Cheyney; Lose to MSC

The BSC cagers defeated Edinboro State 74-71, thus avenging an earlier defeat this season at the hands of ESC. Four BSC Huskies placed in double figures for the team victory; they were Ed Beck, Bob Herzig, Ben Blue, and Bob Farina.

Bloombsburg Loses to MSC

In a game which was to decide the sole ownership of first place in the PSCAC, Mansfield State College cagers romped the Huskies, 93-65.

It was a case of MSC doing everything right and BSC not doing anything right. Bloom was constantly being harassed by sloppy ball handling and erratic shooting from the field which contributed to the defeat. The scoring was led by Farina with 14 and Beck and Herzig with 12 points apiece.

After their loss to Mansfield, the BSC Huskies regained the winning stride by defeating the cagers of Cheyney 81-63. After a slow start in the first half, which saw Bloom holding a slight 3-point edge, the Wolverines of Cheyney bounced back to take the lead early in the second half. But Cheyney's lead was short-lived as the Huskies finally began to find the range; they hit for 11 straight points and went ahead to stay. Bob Herzig led the team with 26 points and 21 rebounds.

The Husky pups, under the mentorship of John Bzik, defeated the JV's from Cheyney 84-63. They were led by John Foster with 29 tallies.

BSC CLASS RINGS

Harry Logan

5 W. Main St. Bloomsburg

from the ... SIDELINES

by John Murtin

Well, East Stroudsburg came into Bloomsburg last week with seven straight duel wins, seven undefeated wrestlers and big thoughts of ending BSC's dominance in State College wrestling. When the match ended, Stroudsburg had its first duel loss, and Coach Russ Houk picked up his 64th win against only 7 losses in his seven years as head coach here at Bloom.

I think we can safely say that a number of big hopes, on the part of the Strouds and the other state colleges, were wiped out because of this match. By beating the Warriors so decisively, the Huskies once again established themselves as favorites to cop the PSCAC wrestling Tournament. However, a few others along with Stroudsburg have been showing tremendous potential midway through their seasons. Lock Haven, Clarion, West Chester and Mansfield State Colleges are proving to be the league's strongest. But after looking at schedules and opponents, it looks as though it's between Bloomsburg, Lock Haven, and Stroudsburg all the way.

Without a doubt, this year's State Meet, which will be held here on campus February 28-29, should be one highlighted by fast action and tough competition. We will be looking forward to seeing everyone around the mats to watch the Huskies go for their third straight title.

ESS Defeats BS; Grimm Stands Out

On February 1, although they lost to a very strong East Stroudsburg State College team by a score of 59 to 36, the BSC swimmers gave a strong showing. The team as a whole brought almost all of their times to the lowest they have been all year.

The 440 yard relay team posted the best time they have had all season, 4:25.5.

Grimm Takes First & Second

Floyd Grimm made an outstanding showing by placing first in the 500 yard freestyle and second in

Husky Grapplers Lose to SI; Go on to Defeat RIT and ES

The matmen of Coach Russ Houk, lost their first home match in five years against Southern Illinois. They then regained their winning ways on Jan. 25, against Rochester Institute of Technology. They defeated RIT 22 to 8 on the loser's mats.

In the 123 lb. class Jerry Fortney decisioned Jones 5-2. Bill Robb chalked up another victory in the 130 lb. class by decisioning Lanzifera 11-0.

Ed Taylor remained undefeated in dual competition by pinning his RIT opponent in 1:40. In the 147 lb. class Dick Scorese came through with six takedowns and defeated Ealeo 11-6. Bill Paule won a forfeit in the 157 lb. class. In the 167 lb. class Tom Vargo turned in a very impressive 14-0 victory over Klein.

Losses

In the 177 lb. class Dave Stumpfle took an early lead, but then was matted by Vanderveen. In the unlimited bout Lee Viard lost a 6-5 decision, but gave a very impressive account of himself.

On Feb. 1 the undefeated Warriors of East Stroudsburg State College came to the mats in Centennial Gym and went crawling off on the short end of a 22 to 9 score.

Joel Melitski started things off for the Huskies by defeating Jan Dutt in the 123 pound class, 8-0, to remain unbeaten. In as good a wrestling match as Maroon and Gold fans will see all year, Bob Guzzo of East Stroudsburg won by decision over Bill Robb, 3-2. Guzzo took Robb down in the last 30 seconds of the match to end Robb's unbeaten string in dual competition.

Final Buzzer Decides

The 137 pound match also went down to the final buzzer, with Ed Taylor reversing Fred Peruzzi in the last two seconds of the final period. Taylor won by a point, 7-6. East Stroudsburg bounced back the 200 yard freestyle where he recorded his lowest time of the school year.

Dick Steidel remained undefeated by winning his ninth victory in dual diving competition. Also Mike Fitzpatrick, a freshman, broke the school's 200 yard individual medley record with a time of 2:33.6. Turley also broke an old school record in the 200 yard breaststroke.

The team's next meet at home will be against Howard University on Feb. 16, at 2:00 p.m.

with a win in the 147 pound class, Bud Lawrence decisioning Dick Scorese, 8-7. The Huskies' Bill Paul took command in the 157 and downed Chet Dalgewicz, 5-1.

The Warriors won their last match of the evening when team captain Dick Bell decisioned Tom Vargo 7-3. Getting the first pin of the match was John Owen. Owen, who was scheduled to wrestle in the heavyweight division, pinned his man in 5:34 to win the 177 lb. class.

Resavage Outstanding

It wasn't until the 191 pound match was over that the meet was out of reach for the Warriors. Roy Resavage, wrestling varsity for the first time this season, defeated Barry Roach in fine fashion for the Huskies and it was "all over" for Stroudsburg. Dave Stumpfle gave the Huskies a little insurance by pinning Roy Miller in heavyweight class.

The Huskies next match is tonight when they take on Waynesburg at Centennial Gym.

Figliolino Is New Weight Champion

Joe Figliolino, sophomore at BSC, went to Brooklyn, New York, on January 25, and came home with another weightlifting championship. Joe participated in a contest sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union; his new title is Eastern District Teenage Weightlifting Champ in the 181 pound class. Amassing a total of 755 pounds, Joe pressed 250 pounds, cleaned & jerked 290 pounds and snatched 215 pounds. This gave him a margin of 75 pounds over his nearest competitor.

Two Other Titles

Figliolino, whose hometown is Fords, New Jersey has also won the West Branch Open Weightlifting Championship at Williamsport, and the New Jersey State Teenage Championship. At the later, three new records were set by Joe: a 210 pound snatch, a 285 pound clean & jerk, and a 725 pound total. In June, 1964, Joe will participate in the Teenage National Championship to be held in Tennessee; he will be a leading contender for the title.
