Plans Released by Scrimgeour Marks Eventful Homecoming

Mr. John Scrimgeour, chairman of the 125th Anniversary Committee, recently announced plans for the Homecoming Week Celebration, marking BSC's 125th year and Dr. Andruss' 25th year as president.

The Beginning

Homecoming Week will begin on Sunday, October 11, with Freshman Parents' Day. Dr. Andruss will address the convocation of freshman and their parents.

The President's Reception will be held on Wednesday night in Centennial Gymnasium. This event is open to everyone at no charge. Because of the magnitude of this year's Homecoming, the attire for the reception is formal. Les and Larry Elgart, a big-name band, will provide the music. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

Thursday's Assembly

Thursday's activities will be headed by an academic convocation. His Excellency Severt A. Nelson, Danish Ambassador to the U.N. and President of the Security Council during the recent Gulf of Tonkin crisis, will be the principal speaker. Governor William Scranton, the presidents of all Pennsylvania state colleges, and other dignitaries are expected to attend.

Thursday evening, the faculty association will honor Dr. and Mrs. Andruss at a formal dinner in the College Commons.

The Brothers Four will appear in concert Friday night in Centennial Gymnasium.

Saturday's activities will begin with the dedication of the two new dormitories for women. A.S. Caruso, director of the Pennsylvania General State Authority, will deliver the principal address. Miss Pennsylvania will also attend.

Homecoming Parade

The annual Homecoming parade will be held after the dedication. Following the parade, the Huskies will take on Millersville State College in the annual Homecoming game.

Activities will end Saturday night with a dance in Centennial featuring the music of Lee Vincent and his orchestra.

Mr. Scrimgeour suggests that students plan to attend as many of the events as possible, in order to make this year's Homecoming the most successful in BSC's history.

Freshmen Parents To Visit Campus

More than a thousand parents are expected to attend the Eleventh Annual Freshman Parents' Day at BSC Sunday, Oct. 11.

The day's activities will begin with a convocation in Centennial Gymnasium at 2 P.M., at which time President Harvey A. Andruss will speak. Following his address, a tea will be held for parents and faculty members in the Commons from 3 to 5 P.M.; parents will have an opportunity to meet faculty members and discuss any questions they may have concerning the college and related activities.

During the remainder of the afternoon, all classroom buildings and resident halls will be open for inspection by parents and visitors. Formal invitations have been sent to parents of all new students by President Andruss and members of the faculty.

Fall Enrollment Figures Released

Two thousand four hundred fifty-two students are presently enrolled for the Fall semester at BSC, according to the figures released by the Dean of Instruction's office. This is nearly three hundred more than the total enrollment for the semester which began in September, 1963.

Male students slightly outnumber the co-eds, 1,236 to 1,216. Freshmen and new students number 896 while upperclassmen total 1,556.

In addition to the large number of undergraduates, 113 graduate students have registered for advanced courses. Three men and one woman are full-time graduate students while fifty-seven men and fifty-two women have assumed part-time study.

Brothers Four To Present Concert Fri., Oct. 16, For BSC Homecoming

The Brothers Four.

The Brothers Four, popular folk singing group, will present a concert at BSC for Homecoming. The group has appeared at most major colleges throughout the country and is best known for its appeal to all audiences as it presents both serious and comic renditions of folk songs.

Members of the group, Bob Flick, Mike Kirkland, John Paine, and Dick Foley, began singing together while fraternity brothers at the University of Washington. In

Campus Continues Its Rapid Growth

Students of BSC can view the constant changes and expansion now underway here. Evidence can be seen everywhere of a bigger and better BSC in the making. Millions of state-appropriated dollars have been used to construct an addition to the heating plant and two new women's residence halls and to make possible renovation of the entire ground floor of the Benjamin Franklin Laboratory School. This renovation has made possible additional classroom space, curriculum materials centers, a new data processing center, and a new location for the day women's lounge. Similar expansion has taken place in the Special Education Center, where a sound-proof room has been completed, as well as in Centennial Gym where increasing needs of the football team have been met with a new dressing room and additional storage facilities.

New Construction

The pace of construction will continue this year when bids are received this month for the construction of a new library to house 200,000 volumes and to seat 750 student readers. Construction of a new auditorium and a new men's residence hall is also expected to begin during the 1964-65 college year.

Architects are presently engaged in preparing a revised campus plan to provide for additional increases in enrollment and to insure ample facilities for instruction in the future.

Available Figures Show Increasing Civil Service Jobs

One area of employment which has gained tremendous impetus in the last decade is state government service. Yet, comparatively few college students know even the basic facts about their state government and the career opportunities in it.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania employs over 80,000 persons, 50,000 of whom have civil service status. These employees work in over 1,000 different classes of positions in many diverse fields. Social Welfare, Administration, Business, Forestry, Agriculture, Education, Public Health and Highways are a few of the occupational areas of your state government. Within the occupational structure the college graduates will find some 65 entry level positions for which he can qualify according to his major course of study.

The opportunity to help your fellow citizen and at the same time develop professionally is outstanding. You will work with qualified, competent personnel who will help you attain professional growth. Formal training is also considered in helping a person develop. Accordingly, agencies have planned training programs to this end consisting usually of lectures, outside courses, on the job training and in some instances, higher education programs leading to a masters degree.

Commonwealth employees command salaries and receive benefits comparable to any other type of employment.

Students interested in careers with the Commonwealth may write to the Bureau of Recruitment and Training, Pennsylvania State Civil Service Commission, Harrisburg, Pa., for further information.

Danforth Grants Open To Seniors

General Session To Highlight Day

Dr. Edmund Amidon, Associate Professor of Educational Psychology at Temple University, will be the featured speaker at the Eighteenth Annual Education Conference at BSC on October 10. Approximately 1,500 teachers and administrators from schools in Pennsylvania and neighboring states are expected to attend the Conference which begins with registration at 9:00 A.M.

Demonstration Lessons

Activities of the day will include Demonstration Lessons from 9:30 to 10:20 and Group Discussions from 10:20 to 10:45. A General Session will be held in Carver Auditorium at 11:15 A.M. The day will be culminated with a luncheon in the College Commons at 12:30 P.M.

In addition to teaching courses in group dynamics and research methods at Temple, Dr. Amidon has conducted many in-service workshops on teacher behavior and dynamics of the classroom group. He has served as consultant to school districts on many projects designed to improve instruction, and has also been a research consultant for universities, state departments of education and other public and private agencies.

Teacher, Consultant

Dr. Amidon received the Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy degrees at the University of Minnesota where he held a research and teaching assistantship. Before entering college teaching, he taught in elementary and secondary schools.

Aside from doing extensive research and writing on the application of group dynamics and social psychology to education, he is particularly concerned with the application of this research to the improvement of pre-service and in-service instruction.

Articles Published

Professor Amidon's articles have been published in The Journal of Educational Psychology, National Education Association Journal, The Journal of Educational Research, and others. He is the author of "The Role of the Teacher in the Classroom" and co-author of "Student Teaching: Cases and Comments".

Campus Conference On Educational Progress Scheduled For October

We have again reached the time of year for the annual Campus Educational Conference to be held here during the second weekend of October. To many here on campus this may seem like a complete waste of time and you may even wonder why people bother to attend.

In-Service Program

This type of program, for many schools, is one of the few opportunities that they have for seeing just what is new in education since last year. It is in actuality an in-service program that lasts for one day. It is important that teachers have this opportunity to "catch up" on the improvements of teaching techniques and aids.

Most schools encourage their teachers to attend such conferences for the teachers' gain is the school district's profit. In this way the educational system remains up-to-date in every way possible.

Keep Education Up to Par

This is also why BSC puts so much emphasis on such a program. Being an educational institution, we want to do our best to keep education up to par. This not only keeps the teachers of the area informed, but also keeps the college on its toes gathering and presenting this material.

Some day you will be out in the teaching world and only then will you realize just how valuable these programs are. When you are not in direct contact with the learning process, as in college, there are many new ideas that slip by without your having any way of knowing that they occurred.

Learn Many New Things

However, through an educational conference such as this one at BSC it is possible to learn many new things.

We urge you to attend any of these meetings that you possibly can and also to help and assist our visitors in any way possible.

Participation - The Key to College Life

In this issue of the paper, we have presented an outline of the scheduled activities for the Homecoming Week of October 12-18. We urge you to plan ahead in order that you may take the best possible advantage in celebrating the 125th anniversary of the college.

We also urge you to participate in all of the many activities that are being offered during the week. Get out and help build those floats for your club. Save your money for the President's Reception and for Big Name Entertainment. These are the only two activities of the week that require you to spend any money. Save now, so that you don't miss out on any of the big events of the week.

Let's make 1964 — the 125th anniversary of BSC — a year that will be remembered by all.

Administration, Faculty, Students Invited To Express Opinions In M&G

Do you like the text books of BSC? Do you lean toward separation of men and women? Do you want free cigarettes with every coke? Do you have any sane opinions, criticism, or suggestions concerning BSC? If you do, write to M & G.

Opinions Welcome

We, of the M&G staff, invite all members of the administration, faculty and student body to express their opinions through an article, a Letter-to-the-Editor, or a guest editorial. All articles, letters, and editorials must defend their opinions. Members of the BSC community, however, are reminded that these are expressions of the individual writer's opinion and do not necessarily reflect the views of the M&G.

The editorial policy of the M&G and the editorial staff will not allow any letter or article to be printed if it appears to be baseless, if it attacks any individual's personal life, or if it uses profane language.

Material Judged

Submitted letters will be judged on their general tone of significance, as well as the writer's ability to reveal his experience with the subject under discussion.

So, student, faculty, administration, express your opinion on subjects pertinent to BSC. Send your opinion to M&G, Post Office Box #58.

New Replaces Old; Ben Franklin Now Looks Collegiate

Along with the new dormitory space and increased enrollment here at BSC, there is also a larger number of classes. The question arose as to where to put these new classes. Dillon House, a former residence, was converted for classroom space last year, but this did not satisfy our new demand for space. So, the consultants gathered and decided to convert the basement of Ben Franklin, our elementary lab school, into six new classrooms.

Former Kindergarten

This part of the building was formerly the Kindergarten section, but the rapid construction of dividing walls and the installation of larger desks has transferred it into college classrooms. These rooms are small, especially with the larger classes, but as long as the professor doesn't mind our sitting on his desk, we won't mind. Naturally, since it is practically underground, there are no windows in most of the rooms which prevent the students from engaging in philosophical thoughts on the beauty of nature during a literature class.

These rooms are supplied with a new type of desk which, although they contain no storage space for books, seem to be more conducive to dozing than last year's models.

New Experience

A few amusing incidents have already taken place in the new building, the most comical of which occurred last week when they had a fire drill. This was a new experience for the college students who didn't know where the fire exists were! But the day, if not the pride, was saved for collegiates when the veteran fourth graders took them in hand and led the way to safety.

The teachers have little comment to make on their new place of establishment; but the students who have withstood the vigors of a fourth floor jaunt in Science, or torture chairs in the music room or puddle hopping on the way to Dillon, seem fairly well satisfied with their new situation. Still, there is one question that lurks in our minds—"Where to next?" The heating plant, the catacomb, the Waller Hall elevator. . . ?

Freshmen Unite Against Superiors; Now They Must Face Our Problems

What with rushing around and getting packed, doing this and getting that, there was little time left for anticipation of what BSC would be like this year.

Frosh vs. Upperclassmen

The freshman probably gave it the most thought as their minds wrestled with the idealistic images presented by the advertising world. The upper classman (who already knew that college life is not a cross between Mademoiselle and Playboy) came back with complacent attitudes that BSC would be the same this year as last (wet trays in the commons, etc. etc.). Many of the things have remained the same, but too many people took for granted that it would stay exactly the same.

The most obvious change was the deluge of close to 900 freshmen, dinks and name tags . . . blonds & suntans . . . boys and girls . . . upperclassmen rushing freshman women . . . naive frosh boys attracting the upperclass "women."

Focus on CGA

The focus falls on CGA. Groups of firm orientation committee members instigated crowds of freshmen to take part in fun and games. CGA saw the need to bring awareness to the new ones, that this was now their college. Cheers rang out for BSC. The freshmen not only

Day Women Given Place To Gather

Bloomsburg State's Day Women have been given a place to call their own in the Benjamin Franklin Building. Earlier in the year, this area was a gathering place for English majors between classes because it is adjacent to the English class rooms. Now Day Women lockers identify the area as the new Day Lounge.

Quiet Reigns

Blissful Day Women sit at the large round tables contemplating their deliverance from obscurity. Occasionally, they whisper greetings to each other and comment on the pleasure of having regained a headquarters, thus having preserved their identity. The reason they whisper is, of course, because the English professors are expounding on the merits of Chaucer and other literary figures nearby, and the Day Women don't want to distract classes through vulgar laughter or loud scraping of chairs. However, every young lady should learn to move and speak quietly.

Questions and Answers

When men are drawn into the lounge area by the ash trays sitting on the tables, the women hardly resent it enough to complain; especially after one boy asked this question when it was suggested that he was in an "unauthorized area," "Are you girls going to have some kind of orgy or something that you object to my presence?" Well, what can a girl say to that and not sound childish or down right unnatural?

Despite the lack of privacy, the new lounge is generally considered a great improvement over virtually no lounge at all. It has great possibilities, and, with the installment of the promised kitchen unit, a little feminine rearranging, and the installation of one or two vending machines, it will make a good home for the formerly displaced Day Women.

Deadline for next issue of M&G — Oct. 7. . . Next issue will be out Wednesday, Oct. 14, 1964.

One night as I was sitting gazing out of my window at the beautiful stars above, I discovered—the dorm was under attack! Eyes, binocular-clad and bare, were peering from lighted and unlighted rooms across the small court !!!

This sounds like a beginning of a super-duper spy story, but it is now a reality. A twenty-four hour surveillance is now being kept on both dorms. At night the small space, between East and New North Residences, resembles a no-man's land between warring factions. The C.I.A. would now regard the two dorms as a realistic training ground in observation.

Spying Tactics

The tactics employed in spying are unique, if not original. First of all, should we or shouldn't we peer from lighted rooms? For the answer to this question, the women consult a higher authority. The response comes back loud and clear. "NO! A girl should not be seen or heard." So, the girls employ the Matavhari method. Secondly, the boys want to know how they can be observant and observed? They use the James Bond Continental method of being seen and heard. These two methods, employed against each other, spell—N-O-P-R-I-V-A-C-Y !!

New Living Methods

Throughout the two faction's bases of operation, new methods of living are now under design. "Oh No! I did it again!" is the reechoing, unassuring cry during the night-time hours. From these fateful words, the rest of the hall can assume the following information: (1) Girl (Miss X) is alone in her cell; (2) Miss X left the curtains (?) open; and (3) she decided to change into other clothes. So now new procedures of living are being slowly designed. Since we of the dorms are hearty pioneers, our motto is perseverance. We have learned to change between opened closet doors! If one plan for spying or gaining privacy does not succeed, well, back to the old drawing board.

Snooping

In a way, the factional element is teaching us an old American habit—snooping on our neighbors. It is a marvelous thing when it comes right down to it. We of the dorms are learning to care about others. During daylight hours, many remarks are passed to friends who are nightly opponents. For example: "How was that test that you studied for all last night?" and, "I saw that you stayed up till 3 A.M. Didn't you feel well?" At least one consolation for loss of privacy is that we know someone up or down there—cares?!

Student Poetry Again Featured

This year M & G will again include, on the feature page, The Student Poetry column. Any and all students are invited to submit original poetry to the Poetry Board, care of Box 263. Please retain your original, as the copy submitted is not returnable and becomes the property of the M & G to be used with the permission of the submitting student and the discretion of the board. To expediate contact, please include name and box number when submitting material.

This final step brought most of all, unity to the classes. The frosh conceit has subsided and they have fallen beside the rest with the same problems and goals. All have to wipe their lunch trays dry and get through school.

Chemical Analysis Topic of Meeting

A number of members of the Science Department recently attended a meeting of the Susquehanna Valley section of the American Chemical Society in Northumberland. Dr. H. A. Neidig, Lebanon Valley College, spoke on the theme, "Education in Chemistry."

Dr. Neidig is well known as both a chemist and an educator. He was one of a group of nine college teachers and nine high school chemistry teachers working under the National Science Foundation on the "Chemical Bond Approach." This, along with "Chemical Education Material Study" (CHEMS), is a new approach to teaching chemistry in high school.

Dr. Neidig presented an interesting and informative talk which was followed by a question and answer period.

Those attending from BSC were Mr. Herbert Reichard and Mr. Tobias Scarpino from the Physics Department; Dr. Harold Lanterman, Mr. Rex Selk, and Mr. Mordecai Treblow from the Chemistry Department. Also present were Robert Latska, a chemistry major, and John McCoy, BSC class of '63, now a chemistry graduate student at the University of Cincinnati.

Maietta To Attend Educ. Meeting

Dr. Donald F. Maietta, Director of Special Education, will be attending the Fifth Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of the Council for Exceptional Children in Pittsburgh on October 16-18. Dr. Maietta will be a participant in a panel presentation of "Pennsylvania Plans for the Future." The Council for Exceptional Children, a division of the National Education Association, is composed of professional workers in the field of exceptional children.

Also on October 10, Dr. Kopp, Mr. Roth, and Dr. Russell will attend the ninth annual Paideia Conference at Hill School, Pottstown, Pa. The subject of the program will be "The Art of Biography." J. Donald Adams, Catherine Drinker Bowen, and Leon Edel will be the speakers of the evening.

On October 9-10, Mrs. Duck, Miss Rice, Miss Rusinko, Mr. Savage and Dr. Thompson will attend the Eighth Annual Conference of the Pennsylvania Council of Teachers of English to be held at Pennsylvania State University. The theme of the Conference will be "The Frontier of English Teaching."

Seniors Receive Placement Forms

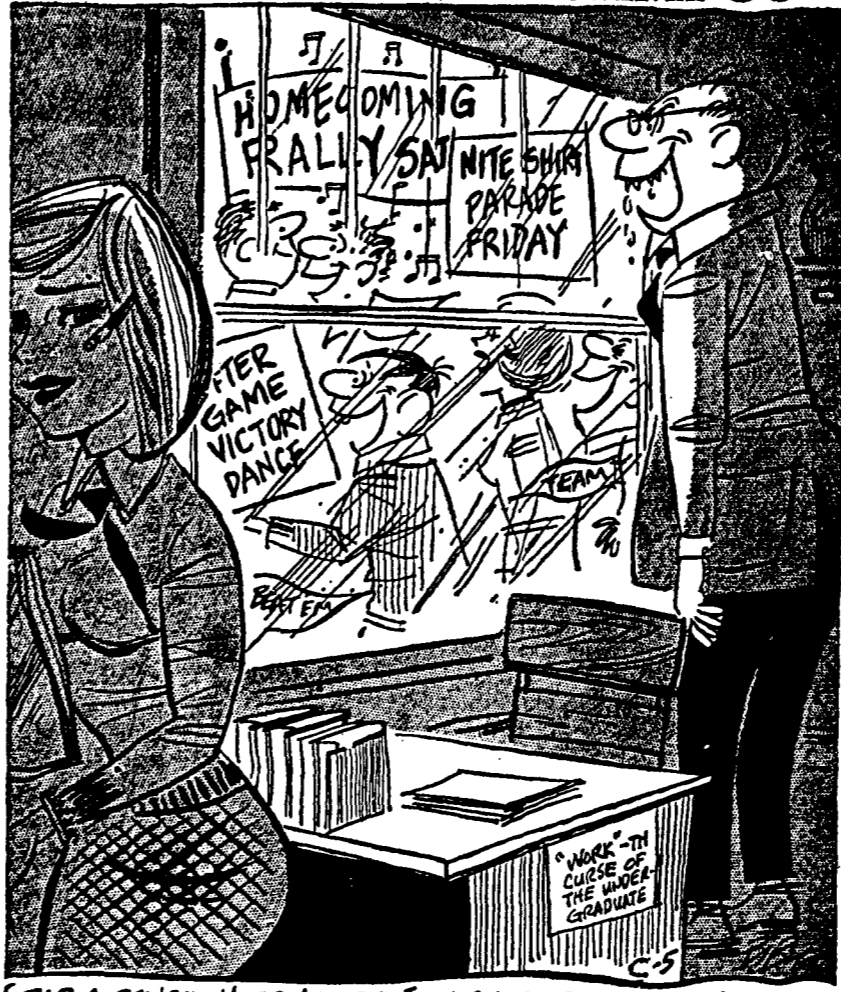

In his role as Placement Director, Dean Hunsinger has visited all Practicum classes for seniors and has evaluated them in the first phase of the placement program. All placement forms necessary for compiling credentials have been issued to the seniors. These forms are to be filled out and returned to the Placement Office immediately to begin the placement process.

In the near future the Dean will visit all placement centers in the second step of placing BSC graduates in suitable positions.

Ten Men of BSC Escort Visitors

Recently, exchange students from several nations visited Bloomsburg. A barbeque and dance were held in their honor at the Karpel Klub. The visitors were accompanied by 10 men from BSC.

Since that time, the college has received a letter from the Bloomsburg Rotary Club, sponsors of the event, commending the fine behavior and caliber of the men. It was noted that the success of the affair was due largely to the ability of the men to handle themselves in the situation.

Fifth row: Zindell, Schnable, Denes, Hunter, Opie, Zarsky, Hess, Zalku, Davis. Sixth row: Houk, Mentzer, Davenport, Wilwohl, Novak.

This year finds a new man leading the Huskies in the person of Russ Houk. He is being assisted by line coach Bob Davenport, backfield coach, Dick Mentzer, freshman coach George Wilwohl, and assistant freshman coach Ron Novak.

Houk
Russ Houk, a former State College man from Lock Haven, won several varsity letters in football, wrestling and track. He is well known on the Bloomsburg campus as athletic director but more so for his outstanding job as head wrestling coach. He has been successful in producing five Pennsylvania State College Championship teams. He has also won two NAIA titles. Between the years of 1951-61 he served as assistant football coach at BSC, thus he has had a good deal of experience with a football team.

Davenport
Bob Davenport, a newcomer to the staff is a native of Berwick, Pennsylvania and has had valuable experience coaching high school teams. He had an overall record of 34 wins and 24 losses plus several championship teams. His own college experience was gained at Bucknell University. He played varsity football during the 1949-50-51 seasons. He played center and line backer on the undefeated 1951 Bucknell team.

Mentzer
Dick Mentzer joined the BSC coaching staff last year as backfield coach. He also took over the duties as head baseball coach last year and will do likewise this year. Coach Mentzer won letters in football, baseball, and track in high school and at Shippensburg State College. His coaching career consists of experience gained at Cressona High School, Hollidaysburg Senior High School, and Eastern High School in Washington, D.C.

Wilwohl

Last Monday, Bloomsburg's '64-'65 men's intramurals program got underway with the opening fall touch football games. This year the school has widened its scope to sixteen different sports ranging from table tennis to softball to wrestling. This is a 100% improvement over last year, and I think it is showing up in the general attitude of the students already. A total of twenty-two teams have entered competition so far, and the fever is catching. You can walk in the halls in the daytime and hear a number of men talking about their strategy for their upcoming games. This is the first time I can even remember this type of enthusiasm toward intramurals here at BSC. Commuters are even staying over this year to take part in the activities. This interest is to be commended, and it is hoped that it will stick throughout the full year. I would like to congratulate Coach Blair and Jim Seybert for a great job of organization.

Not Too Late To Join
As for the rest of the fellows who have not been signed up yet, more teams are forming everyday. If you're not on a team, sign up now and get in the action. It is hoped by many that the participation of these late comers will not be foiled by the supervisors. More interest is being created everyday. This is only natural for a program that is becoming more popular as the students learn more about it.

Huskies Lose To Mansfield; Defense Wins For MSC

The mountaineers of Mansfield, using a devastating ground game overcame a fine first half effort by the Huskies, to come out on top of a well played contest.

The Huskies actually led at half-time 7-6. With 24 seconds showing on the clock before half-time, Bob Kurzinsky hit Husky end Jerry Dotto with a 23 yard toss to put BSC on the score board. Dotto made a "circus" catch as he went up between two Mansfield defenders to pull the ball down. "King" Perry booted the extra point and Coach Houk's team held a slim advantage.

Stick To Ground Game

However, that lead was short lived as the Mansfield coach made some adjustments during the intermission and evidently passed the word to his quarterback Hal Deubler to stop throwing and stick to the ground. Deubler threw quite a bit in the first half and had a low percentage of completions.

Sticking mostly to the ground and finding a weakness at the BSC ends, Deubler directed a 94 yard march to give the lead back to the mounties. Frank Pavelko lugged the pigskin back on top 12-7. The try for the extra point was wide of the goal post.

Passing Game Falls

With the Mansfield defense frustrating the efforts of the running game, quarterbacks Opie and Kurzinsky had to take to the air. Mansfield put on a tremendous rush and as a result the quarterbacks could not hit their receivers.

Late in the game the Mountaineers got a break when a Mountie defensive back picked off a BSC pass and returned it to the 9. Mansfield was not able to capitalize on the situation and with very little time remaining, BSC took over on downs at the 9 yard line.

With Mansfield holding a slim 12-7 lead, Kurzinsky threw a desperation pass in the direction of Dotto, but again a Mountie stepped in for an interception and ran the ball back 30 yards to pay dirt for the final score and Barrett kicked the PAT to ice the contest.

This week the Huskies take to the road and travel to Brockport for an away contest.
