The Kingston Trio to Be Featured At BSC; Record Artists to Give Concert on Campus

Next Thursday, Nov. 19, Bob Shane, Nick Reynolds, and John Stewart of the Kingston Trio will perform in Centennial at 8:15 p.m.

Bob Shane, born in Hilo, Hawaii, graduated from Honolulu's Punakou School in 1952, and came to the Mainland to study at the Menlo Park School of Business Administration in California. He graduated in 1956 and returned to Hawaii to learn the ropes of the retail business.

Impersonations

During his college days, Bob had entertained in campus shows, so it was natural that he expand his interests in this direction in Hawaii. He began working in his off hours at Honolulu night spots, doing impersonations, meanwhile trying to find his own voice and style.

Bob soon found himself so much in demand as a performer that he was devoting more time to entertaining than to retailing. It was then that he decided to return to California to join Nick and form the group that was to become the Kingston Trio.

Nick Reynolds, who was born in San Diego, was a basketball player and four-year varsity man at Coronado High School, where he was graduated in 1951. He planned a career in hotel management and continued his studies at San Diego State College and the University of Arizona, where he was active in intramural sports.

When Nick transferred to Menlo College in California, he met Bob Shane. Here he divided his time between his studies, student government activities, and harmonizing with Bob. Nick received his B.S. in Business Administration in February, 1957.

Nick's natural sense of comedy timing and his energetic personality form the foundation for much of the relaxed clowning that has become an integral part of the Kingston Trio's performance.

Newest Member

John Stewart, who was born in San Diego, is the newest member of the singing group. John, who attended Mt. San Antonio College, California, is a skiing, skin-diving, and tennis enthusiast.

An acquaintance of the Kingstons for several years, John had a fruitful association with them before he ever appeared with them publicly. John was writing and arranging songs for the Trio while he was traveling with a group called "The Cumberland Three."

When the Cumberland Three was disbanded, it left John free to join Bob Shane and Nick Reynolds. This was in the summer of 1961 and in John's own words, "I felt like a long-lost relative rejoining the clan."

"Tom Dooley" earned the Capital Recording stars their first Gold Record, the coveted award presented for record sales of over one million copies.

Secondary Student Teachers Take Trip To State And National Capitals

Last week student teachers of the secondary curriculum visited several national and state education headquarters on their three day practicum trip. The trip included visits to the Health, Education, and Welfare Department (HEW) and the National Education Association (NEA) headquarters in Washington, D.C.; also the Department of Public Instruction (DPI) and the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) in Harrisburg were included in the excursion.

HEW

The first stop on the tour was the HEW where the BSC student teachers heard members of the education department discuss various phases of our modern educational programs from a national viewpoint. The speakers included Dr. Byron L. Westfall, Specialist in Secondary Education; Dr. Robert Popendick, Specialist in Teacher Education; and Mr. Vaughn DeLong, Program Planning Officer, Bureau of International Education.

The second educational organization visited was the NEA. Here the seniors were welcomed by Lois V. Rogers, convention coordinator, and were briefed by other NEA Officials.

Featured Speakers

Among the speakers here were Dr. Richard B. Kennan, Executive Secretary, speaking on the topic "Professional Rights and Responsibilities"; Dr. Virgil M. Rogers, Director, on the topic "Educational Implications of Automation Project"; Dr. Stanley J. McFarland, Jr., Assistant Director, on the topic "Federal Relations, Legislative Division"; sectional speaker included Dr. Albert F. Eiss, Assistant Executive Secretary, National Science Teachers Association, Marcus T. Gillespie, National Council for the Social Studies; and James D. Gates, Executive Secretary, National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

On the return trip to Bloomsburg the group visited the DPI and the PSEA in Harrisburg. At these meetings officials of each organization were able to speak more specifically on educational issues because the state government is directly responsible for education.

Agenda At DPI

The agenda at the DPI included greetings and orientation by Mr. Warren E. Ringler; Director, Executive Office; "Developments and Trends in Secondary Education" by Dr. Stanley N. Miller, Director, Bureau of General and Academic Education; and a panel topic of "Current Projects and Programs" featuring panelists Mrs. Mary M. Blatt, Coordinator, Science and Mathematics; David T. Chestnut, Advisor, Modern Foreign Language; James G. Keher, Coordinator, Social Studies; and Thomas N. McCreary, Advisor, Mathematics. The visit to the DPI was followed by a tour and orientation of the PSEA.

Final Examination Wk. Effective This Semester

Announcement that a final examination week will begin Wednesday, January 20, at noon and will end at noon the following Wednesday, January 27, has been made by Dean John Hoch, Dean of Instruction. During this time the only extra-curricular activities that will be held are the Commencement exercises on Tuesday and the assembly on Thursday, January 21; both events were scheduled before the Administrative Council and the President approved examination week. All regular classes will be canceled.

Science Seminar Starts On Campus

A science seminar has been initiated by the Science Department of BSC, according to an announcement by Robert M. Jordan, department head. The seminar will be a cross-disciplinary program which will provide students and faculty with an opportunity to discuss topics and problems of mutual interest. The purpose of the seminar is to stimulate interest in different areas of science. Matters of practical interest as well as more technical discussions by staff, students, and guest speakers are being planned for the monthly meetings. It is expected that members of the Geography and Earth Science staff will also take part.

At the first meeting, held in conjunction with the Science Club, a student panel, composed of seniors Frank Plucinsky, Gary Deets, and Carl Sheran, presented information about graduate schools to a group of some 50 students and faculty members. Contributions from those in attendance supplemented remarks made by the panel.

Although the seminar program is primarily for students in science, any interested students and faculty members are cordially invited to attend. The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, November 17.

Hopkins Selected By Debate Group

Dr. Melville Hopkins, chairman of the Speech Department at BSC, was elected president of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges at its annual meeting held recently in Philadelphia. He succeeds Dr. Robert Newman, of the University of Pittsburgh.

The debating Association includes forty-four Pennsylvania colleges and universities in its membership. At its meeting the Association also selected Pennsylvania State University as the site of its state tournament to be held in March, 1965.

The faculty has been urged to give comprehensive exams, and to continue regular testing procedures during the semester in order that the final will not be the only test in a course. This exam should be worth no less than one-fifth nor more than one-third of the course grade.

Three Tests Maximum
No student shall be required to take more than three tests in one day. If he is scheduled for more than three, or if he has conflicts with more than one test scheduled at the same time, he should make arrangements (at least one week before classes end) with the faculty member involved to reschedule the tests at a mutually convenient time. The schedule for examinations will be posted after the Christmas recess, approximately one month before the exams.

The examination period will be 120 minutes long, with the actual exam being not less than 40 minutes nor more than 100 minutes in length. During this week the college library will remain open for the use of the students.

This final examination week is an outgrowth of the continuous efforts on the part of faculty members to encourage an examination period. Mr. Gerald Strauss headed the faculty committee that developed the principles and guidelines. The committee felt this would give the student an opportunity to unify the complete course, instead of dealing with it only in parts. The examination week is purely experimental and after a trial of two semesters, the faculty and students will evaluate the method of testing.

Special Education Trip Is Scheduled

Thirty-five seniors in the Special Education of the Mentally Retarded and the Speech Correction curriculum will be visiting Harrisburg, Washington, and the Baltimore Schools for their practicum trip on December 3, 4, and 5. Mr. Samuel P. Shilling, Assistant Professor of Speech Correction; and Dr. Evabelle Valney, Associate Professor of Special Education, will be accompanying the students.

The students and faculty will visit the Pennsylvania State Education Association and other education facilities in Harrisburg, and in Washington they will visit the National Education Association, the National Council for Exceptional Children, and other agencies under the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Of interest to the students and faculty will also be the special education facilities of the Baltimore Schools.

Mr. Michael McHale is the technical director; Mrs. Charles Jackson is musical director; Henry Fetterman is assistant to the director and stage producer.

BSC Players Open Production of Riverwind

The Bloomsburg Players production of RIVERWIND opened last night in Carver Auditorium. RIVERWIND, the off-broadway hit of 1963, will be presented tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15 in Carver. Setting and Cast

RIVERWIND is a musical play set on the banks of the Wabash River. It portrays the problems of youthful, middle-age, and mature love. Mrs. Farrell, played by Ruth Campbell, owns the Riverwind Motel. She lives with her teenage daughter Jenny, portrayed by Susan Harper, who is being pursued by Tom Curtis, cast as the youthful handyman, John.

Into their lives come four travelers, Bert and Virginia, a college couple, played by Larry Gerber and Iva Klingaman; and Fred and Louise Sumner, a middle-aged couple whose marriage is on the rocks, portrayed by Rip Van Winkle and Elise Moyer. The simple rustic order of Riverwind, a place blessed with the harmony of nature, eventually adjusts the problems of its guests.

To A New Generation From The Old: The Future Is What We Make It

by Margaret D. Lefevre, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Speech Correction

Perhaps the best way for us to begin today is by acknowledging that sometimes in moments of discouragement or irritation on either side of the desk, we may have thought we would be glad when the time did come for the last lecture. But, for my own part, when this thought has occurred, it has always been in the subjunctive mood, the conditional, contrary-to-fact; there has been the underlying thought of manana, the security and optimism implied in that wonderful Spanish word for tomorrow.

Relying on Tomorrow

Probably it would be good practice, for all of us lecturing and all of us listening, if we did not rely on manana to the extent that we do, if we always spoke and always attended as though we could not count on a tomorrow, or next week, for repetitions and explanations. It is well within our capabilities to do, without straining ourselves, a great deal better than the so-called norms we have established. We should realize that they have become norms by the questionable virtue of our own poor habits, not because of inherent constitutional limitations. President Kennedy had good reason for insisting that "We can do better."

For example, in terms of body mechanics, we ordinarily operate at a level of about 25% efficiency, though we know that with training for any specific activity we can increase our efficiency tremendously. We do not all aspire to running a 4-minute mile or to breaking the new records that are being set in a variety of athletic events; but many of us could profitably increase our efficiency in such daily physical activities as getting to classes on time, writing legibly and speaking clearly.

Listening

For another example, we operate at about a 25% level of efficiency in listening, an activity that occupies a high percentage of our time in college. Of our conscious waking time, we spend approximately 70% in some form of communication, i.e., reading, writing, listening, speaking, and of this 70%, we spend about 45% in listening. We remember about 50% for a brief period, and then we forget 50% of that, leaving us with an average of 25% retention. In the same way that it is presently being demonstrated in many projects and training courses that we can step up our efficiency in reading, it can and probably soon will be demonstrated on an equally wide scale that we can increase our efficiency in listening.

Necessary Points

Let me urge you, however, not to wait for someone to do this for you. It is something you have to do for yourself, even if someone enrolls you in a course. This brings me to the first of the points it seems worthwhile to make today.

Ability and Wish to Learn

1. Take your own responsibility for learning. The best professor in the world cannot teach you anything that you are not able, ready and willing to learn; nor can any professor you may think is not good prevent you from learning something that you have the ability and real wish to learn.

In Pursuit of Excellence

2. You are attending an institution dedicated to the pursuit of excellence; pursue it, constantly and consciously. In the many small choices we all have to make in the course of a single day, we can school ourselves to choose the excellent in preference to the trivial, the careless, the petty and mean. Our college, our community, the radio and television present us with opportunities to see and hear the excellent and memorable; we must choose between them and spending our time listening to some junky program or idle gossip many times in the course of a semester. In this connection, there are two observations that you may not have made for yourselves yet but that we elders can pass on to you; one of our best wishes for you is that you will have the enjoyment of remembering some of the things you have seen and heard in your college years, rather than regretting the opportunities you missed.

a) You can and will remember the truly memorable. This is one of the important times of your lives for taking advantage of the opportunities for storing up memorable experiences to revisualize and re-auditorize in the years ahead, for making your personal collection of items for your equivalent of I Can Hear It Now. If you do not care for Shakespeare now, or classical music, or art, or politics, let me assure you that you can learn to like them if you will let yourself become acquainted with them, just as you liked the nursery rhymes and bed-time stories you knew best as children.

b) These recurring choices that we make in favor of the excellent or the trivial add up to determine the major trends and the main course of our lives. We can ultimately choose to do only what we have been preparing ourselves to do over a period of time. We cannot arbitrarily decide for ourselves, for instance, that we shall be "educated" by whatever age we expect to become college graduates, if we have chosen to by-pass many valuable learning experiences. President Kennedy spoke to us of "The Tyranny of Ignorance" and our responsibility for freeing ourselves and others from this most prevalent type of tyranny. We must be alert constantly and ready to counteract with energy the inertia which can so easily make us victims in some degree and by our own default to the tyranny of ignorance.

Golden Rule

3. While taking our responsibility for others, the Golden Rule is the best we have to follow; it has its counterpart in all religions and all ethics. We must take into account, however, the prospect of dealing with people whose backgrounds may be very different from our own, and whose individual feelings and folk mores may be such that they would not want us to do for them what we might want done for ourselves under similar circumstances. We shall need, therefore, to develop our understanding of other peoples and cultures, as well as our capacities for empathy, the ability to feel our way inside the skin of another individual.

Restoration of Foundation Stones

4. You will need to make some restoration of certain foundation stones in the building of the good society in which I hope you will live. I refer in particular to the Eternal Verities. My generation, we must regretfully advise you, has allowed them to fall into such neglect in the education of your generation that they may have eroded almost beyond your recognition. Perhaps you do not even know what they are, or if so, regard them only with cynicism. I hope you are not in the unfortunate position of that fabled student who was asked to write what he knew about Keats, and could only answer, "I don't know anything at all about Keats (sic); I don't even know what they are." Seriously, we must do what we can to restore Goodness and Truth and Beauty to the respect that is their due.

Improved Grades Can Be Reality; Method Devised!

By Richte Benyo

OK, so you're frustrated about your grades. (Well, some of you are, aren't you?) I know I am . . . hee, hee. ("Hi Mom. No, I'm not coming for Thanksgiving . . .") So, whaterya' gonna do?

You could do what my roommate contemplated (But no other school would have him. . .), or what he did (Our room is still a disaster area. . .); or, you could be a regular psychic norm and spend more time in the library, as I'm sure you can find a little room to sit on the floor in the Stack Area.

Or how about secluded study area — you can surely find one somewhere before the semester ends (if you start searching now).

Yoga Course

Then there is the method used by the athletic type: enroll in a yoga course, get into a comfortable contortion in the supply room of the gym and start to read a 7-chapter assignment in your course in The Migratory Habits Of The Male Black Widow Spider After Escape From The Instincts Of The Female Of The Species. (This course offers a selected education in the basic biological inter-relationships.)

Of course the basic idea behind the entire concept is STUDY, and environment plays a big part in this: seclusion is the key word. You could use some of the established centers of concentration, among which are deserted shower rooms (the hours must be chosen with care, tho), empty broom closets, forgotten phone booths (a rare item), or the lounge of the College Commons (between meals). Naturally there are the "original" spots too, but if I mention them they'll lose their novelty.

All in all the frustration you now feel is not really unique. See that fellow behind you? Look quick! . . . Yea, he's the one I mean. Well . . . don't read this too loudly, but . . . his marks are lower than yours . . . (Oh, for shame!)

If we expended as much time preparing for success as we dedicate to the requirements of failure, the welfare agencies would be competing for customers.

You must somehow understand, in spite of the sneering attitude on the part of some of your elders, that they are not mere cliches or old-fashioned virtues that are now out-dated. They are called the Eternal Verities because that is precisely what they are; no truly cultivated society is possible without sincere regard for the truth, for the good and right, and for the beautiful.

Review Your Minds

In conclusion, let me ask you to review in your minds from time to time this paragraph from The Aims of Education, by Alfred North Whitehead:

"When one considers in its length and in its breadth the importance of this question of the education of a nation's young, the broken lives, the defeated hopes, the national failures which result from the frivolous inertia with which it is treated, it is difficult to restrain within oneself a savage rage. In the conditions of modern life the rule is absolute, the race which does not value trained intelligence is doomed. Not all your heroism, not all your social charm, not all your wit, not all your victories on land or at sea, can move back the finger of fate. Today we maintain ourselves. Tomorrow science will have moved forward yet one more step, and there will be no appeal from the judgment that will then be pronounced on the uneducated."

And now, vale. May you always walk safely and uprightly, with confidence in the light of learning.

Solitude Sought; New Areas Found

Today research scientist, optometrist, psychologist, and interior decorators pool their resources to design our very proficient study areas. However, there are very few students making use of these facilities, although a vast majority study. As a result, a few unique and different areas of study have been found on BSC campus.

Study Cell

One night, a few ingenious crammers turned the elevator into a padded, soundproof, study cell. As their studies rose and fell, they enjoyed complete solitude, until, a very tired girl came to use their room for transportation. When the elevator arrived, she had no idea that inside were three bodies, alive in mind only. A shrill scream rent the halls as the unwary subject found the scholars on the floor. As a result, the elevator is no longer a study area; the Three Huskies have retreated to the stairwell.

Campus Used For Study

For the heartier, physical fitness exponent, the campus itself is used in the quest for peace and studying solitude. They have everything prescribed for a good study area; an adequate overhead lighting system—the stars; a spacious, well-organized desk—the stairs; and an excellent ventilation system—the wind. This study area is fine except when people discover the scholar and question her. It seems that no will quite believe, "I am working a psychology problem." Another problem is winter and the snows. However hearty the student may be, it's too cold to study there!

Husky Lounge

Some people who can not adjust to a quiet study area, migrate to Husky Lounge. A favorite subject to study there is music. It seems that the dull roar stimulates perception as well as concentration. It accommodates everyone in their studying tastes. For the loungers, there are provided couches and booths. Even the suspicious person can find a place there. He can push a table against the walls on the upper deck.

Doing two things at one time seems almost impossible. But, the men in New North accomplish this Herculean task by studying in the laundry. After all, it is a clean, well-lighted, ventilated atmosphere.

Elevators, outdoor stairways, Husky Lounge and the laundry may not be recommended by the men who draw up and theorize about studying areas. There are two things they forgot to take into consideration: (1) roommates and (2) rebellious nature.

In politics, people are friends or enemies—in business, they are all customers.

Student Poetry

A Sonnet:
On Reading

The Lance of Knowledge pierces the Gloom of Mankind's life; His drudgery, his disdain. The page unsheathes the rays of Wisdom, the shining knife Of truth, that has now lain The drudges of Ignorance to an immortal life Of blood and death — crawling pain. Words, symbols: floating, surging, moving into meaning, Into the depths of reason. Into the yawning abyss of time and space, seeming To be brigands of treason. Poised, dynamic: ready to spring into new meaning, Ready to wipe off Season. The potent powers of the printed word Shall make the cries of the damned in Hell heard.

Friday The 13th Warning Issued; Herk Here Again!

By Judy Gers

Watch out everyone! Herk's loose again and it's Friday the 13th. This time, I warn you, he is up to mischief.

I am not sure of the what, where, who or how about his activities today, but here are some of the things he has done in the past. Last year, he made a black cat walk in front of an opposing football team. The only thing wrong is — they won!

Herkmer also fouled up the chlorine machines in the pool around examination time, causing several student very sore eyes. One of his better stunts was around Valentine's Day. It was close to Friday the 13th when Herk graciously stayed up addressing cards to many people all over the campus. I was so proud of that cute leprechaun. My pride was premature — for he also fouled up the mail doors so that they wouldn't open. This caused many frustrated students.

Herk "Rides" Again

Herk is nastiest to my best friends. Last winter, when most of the streets were glazed with ice, two of us were heading down town. Herkmer decided he wanted a sleigh ride. So, he tripped my friend and rode all the way down on his nose. My little naughty sprite got back on my shoulder after an enjoyable ride and — my friend? — he went up to the infirmary for a cracked head! That was also a Friday the 13th.

So now, I am sitting down and issuing a warning to all students — Remember Herk's loose today.

I only hope that the typist can finish this article before bx ridm zu ajt zxyipuednfm.

Advanced Scheduling Dates Released; December 8 and 9, Centennial Gym

Advance scheduling for the second semester will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, December 8 and 9, in Centennial Gym. The students will arrange their schedules and pick up their course cards from the department chairman. This will form their schedule pack for the second semester.

The hours for scheduling are:
 Tuesday: 9:00-11:30 and 1:00-4:00.
 Wednesday: 9:00-11:30 and 1:00-3:30.

Students are asked to schedule according to the amount of credits they have earned.

Tuesday morning — Seniors — more than 90 credits (including all student teachers).

Tuesday afternoon — Juniors — 60 or more credits.

Wednesday morning — Sophomores — 30 or more credits.

Wednesday afternoon — Freshmen — all others with less than 30 credits.

To prepare for advance scheduling each student must:

1. Buy a master schedule book in the college book store. These will be available sometime during the week of November 16. This book lists all the classes and times they will be offered on both undergraduate and graduate levels. Each student must purchase a book as this is the only way the student can get a red-topped schedule choice card. In the book is a page of practice schedules for students use. The red-topped card is to be used only for the final schedule. The book costs 25¢ to cover the cost of printing.

2. Check with his respective department chairman for approval to take the necessary electives, and have the card initialed by the divisional director prior to scheduling.

Mr. John Hoch, Dean of Instruction, has stated that the instructors for the courses will not be listed as the assignments will not be made until January.

Department Plans Musical Program

Mrs. Mary Decker of the Music Department will give a voice recital Wednesday morning, November 18, at 11:00 in Carver Auditorium. Although the recital is basically intended for Music 101, all interested students and faculty are invited to attend.

Mrs. Decker received her Bachelor and Master of Music degrees from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., and was also awarded the school's prized Performer's Certificate. The music selected for this program has been chosen to instruct as well as entertain those in the audience. If you like vocal music, the music

Satz and Valney Addressed Panel

Two members of the Special Education Department of BSC spoke on a panel at a meeting of the Columbia County Mental Health Association in the Bloomsburg Consistory last Monday.

Dr. Martin A. Satz, professor of Psychology and President of the Columbia County Mental Health Association, reported on "The Needs for Mental Health Facilities in Columbia County." Dr. Evabelle Valney, associate professor of Special Education, spoke on the topic, "The Federal Government Combats Mental Retardation."

The BSC college community received the above award from the "100,000 Pennsylvanians" in recognition of the results of the recent recruiting drive held on campus.

Husky Harriers Place Second; Jan Prosseda Sets New Record

Last Saturday the harriers of BSC under the mentorship of John Brady, captured second place at the PSCAC cross-country meet at Cheyney State College. The team was led by Jan Prosseda who coped individual honors, establishing a new course record of 24:59. The Rams took first place team honors by placing a total of five runners in the top ten, none higher than fourth.

Prosseda Outstanding

Finishing behind Prosseda was the former "Little All-American" and two time cross-country state champion Fred Lucas of Slippery Rock. This establishes Prosseda as one of the outstanding collegian runners in the nation.

Top Five Places

Rounding out the first five fin-

from the SIDELINES

by John Murtin

Now that football season has ended, Bloomsburg will hit, perhaps, its biggest dry spot in its spent year. Tomorrow, the Pennsylvania State College football playoff will take place. After this, nothing will happen until Bloomsburg meets West Chester in our first basketball game of the season.

This year our cage team should be, without a doubt, one of the state's top contenders. Coach Norton will be bringing back a team with a lot of experience and strength. All of the positions will be filled with starters from last year with the exception of one guard slot. By Hopkins should be able to fill this vacancy, but the position is still wide open. Returning from last year's squad will be Gene Miller and Bob Herzig at forwards, Ed Beck at center, and Bob Farina at one of the guard spots. Bob Blue should also see ishers behind Prosseda and Lucas were: Al Laskowski of Millersville in third; Howard Rich of West Chester in fourth and Marty McGehan of West Chester in fifth place. Other BSC runners placing were Irwin Zablocky, Gary Horn, Tom Diehe, Joe Fazzari, Bill Gerling, and Joe Schein, taking positions 12, 13, 19, and 22 to round out the scoring.

Revenge For BSC

The second place finish was sweet revenge for the Huskies as they nosed out arch-rival Millersville by two points. It was the Marauders who pinned the only defeat on the Huskies all year.

Team Placings

The final team standings showed West Chester with 34 points, Bloomsburg with 63, Millersville in third with 65, defending champions Slippery Rock in fourth with 75 and Lock Haven with 103. Cheyney and California State College also competed but did not place.

plenty of action at forward.

At the same time the basketball team is working out the wrestling team will be getting ready for their first match with Southern Illinois on December 11. Coach Houk will have mainly a rebuilding year ahead of him. The loss of a good many seniors last year means that a lot of places will have to be filled. However, faces such as Bill Robb, Ed Taylor, Bill Paule, Tom Vargo, and Roy Resavage will be returning to give the team a big push. We should have an exceptional year in winter sports if all goes well.

Dept. Chairman On Evaluation Team

Dr. Bruce E. Adams, Chairman of the Geography Department, served as a member of an evaluation team engaged in research leading toward program approval at Kutztown State College recently. He was named to the nineteen member team from sixteen colleges by Dr. Gertrude Duncan, Director of Evaluation and teacher certification, at the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg.

Martin & Grecco Win Game Awards

Butch Grecco

The Husky football coaches have chosen as the "Lineman of the week" Richard Greco, for his play in the Huskies 69-0 loss at East Stroudsburg.

Greco, operating from his tackle position, played the majority of the game on both offense and defense. Richard made several key tackles to stop the East Stroudsburg ground gainers.

Richard is from Mt. Carmel, Pennsylvania. He graduated from Mt. Carmel High School with the class of 1962.

At Bloomsburg, Richard is a junior enrolled in the Division of Secondary Education, majoring in mathematics. He is also a previous college letter winner in football.

Clip Martin

For the third time this year, Clip Martin has been honored as a "Player of the Week." His two previous awards have been for the games against Lock Haven and West Chester. This week he was awarded the honor for his outstanding defensive play in BSC's loss to East Stroudsburg.

Clip is 19, weighs 190 pounds and is 6 feet tall. His hometown is Emporium, and he is presently a junior enrolled in the Business Curriculum, majoring in Accounting.

Once again, the Maroon & Gold sports desk congratulates Clip Martin, as well as all the other players who have received the honor of being chosen "Player of the Week" for the 1964 football season.

Warriors Hand BSC Worst Defeat In Twenty Years, 69-0

East Stroudsburg, on their way to clinching the Eastern Division crown, thwarted any ideas of the upset-minded Huskies, by dealing the Huskies one of their worst defeats in modern history. Stroudsburg must have had last year's game in mind when the Huskies upset the heavily favored Warriors.

The Warriors did not punt at all during the game, and scored every time they got their hands on the ball. They did this through ten touchdowns, six conversions, and one field goal.

The Huskies, hard hit by injuries all year, went into the game minus a few regulars. This was nothing compared to the number of men who came out of the game with injuries. It was a good thing it was the last game of the season for the Huskies, because five of the local gridders were injured: Ray Davis and Wayne Eddows having possible concussions; Ed Osborne a wrist injury; Bob Opie, bruised ribs; Barry Denes, a sprained ankle.

The game was decided in five minutes and thirty-eight seconds as the Warriors went 85 yards in 12 plays to notch their first score on the board. Before the first period ended East Stroudsburg had another score on the board. In each case the extra point was missed.

With ten seconds gone in the second period Scagliotti, after missing the first two tries for PAT, kicked a 33 yard field goal. Two more touchdowns in the second period gave the Warriors a very commanding 29-0 lead at half time.

The second half produced the same sort of thing that occurred in the first half. The Warriors' keeping up with their 2 touchdowns per period got scores from Reimer on a 41 yard run and Zapolski on an 8 yard run. The third period ended with Stroudsburg ahead 43-0.

In the fourth quarter Stroudsburg continued with their onslaught against the Huskies. This time the Warriors scored 4 times, once on a recovered Bloomsburg fumble in the end zone and once on a Bloomsburg pass that went astray.

INTRAMURALS

The 1964 intramural football tournament was completed this week. Check the bulletin boards for the final results.

Please note that the times for tennis have been changed from 5:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Remember that rosters for swimming and water polo are due today at 4:00 p.m. and that rosters for shuffleboard singles and table tennis singles are due on Monday, November 16, 1964, at 4:00 p.m. Deadline dates on all tournaments are final and no late entries will be accepted.

Mr. Walter R. Blair, Faculty Director of Men's Intramurals, has announced a change in policy concerning the appearance of teams at the times for which they are scheduled. If a team does not field the proper number of players at the date and time specified on the schedule, it will forfeit the contest. It will be the responsibility of each captain to see that his team participates in all events. Due to some unfortunate incidents in the football tournament, there will be no exceptions to this rule.

In answer to a question made by many men, the policy of T shirt awards to the winning teams and individuals in each tournament will be continued. These awards may be obtained at the Intramural Office, #5, Centennial Gymnasium.
