Interested in Russian Culture? Blaise C. Delnis, Russian Instructor at B.S.C., has extended an invitation for all interested students to join the campus Russian Club. Students not majoring in Elementary Russian will be able to learn the alphabet, some folk songs and the correct pronunciations of many of the famous Russian family names, through this group. Professor Delnis states that the only prerequisites for joining the club are interest and curiosity.

The first meeting of the Russian Club will be held in Navy Hall, room 2, on Thursday, September 19th.

Teaching Tests

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the four test dates announced by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey. The test will be given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States, on November 9, 1968, and February 1, April 12, and July 19, 1969.

The results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their college, for specific advice on which of the examinations to take and the dates on which to take them.

Bulletin Available

A Bulletin of Information for Candidates can be acquired from college placement officers, school personnel departments, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

BSC Welcomes New Profs

A variety of instructors, professors and administrative personnel have enlarged the faculty at B.S.C. The following appointments have been made by the President of the College and the Board of Trustees:

Named as the Associate Professor of Social Sciences is Robert R. Reeder who is pursuing his Doctor of Philosophy degree at the University of Colorado.

Accepting the responsibilities as Professor of English is David P. Rein who received his Master of Arts degree in classics from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Aaron Polonsky is a recent addition to the library faculty. Mr. Polonsky, holding the title of Acquisitions Librarian, earned his Bachelor of Science degree in library science at Drexel Institute of Technology.

Appointed as Assistant Professor of Physical Science is P. Joseph Garcia who majored in Natural Science and was awarded his Master of Science degree at New Mexico Highlands University.

Mrs. Margaret Sharp Webber, the new Assistant Professor of Special Education is presently a candidate for a Doctorate Degree in the Department of Psychology at Temple University.

New Divisional Directors

Dr. Emory W. Rarig, Jr., who received his Doctor of Education degree in Administration of Higher and Adult Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, will assume the duties of the Director of the Division of Business Education.

Mrs. J. H. Carpenter who received her Master of Arts degree from the University of Alabama has been appointed as Assistant Dean of Women.

Mr. Anthony L. Grillo, recipient of the Master of Science degree in library science from Villanova University, is the new serials librarian in the Andrus Library.

Appointed as Associate Professor of Business Administration is Bernard C. Dill, who is a candidate for a Doctor of Business Administration degree at George Washington University.

Lane L. Kemler is now an Instructor of Business Education, who received his Master of Education degree at B.S.C., and is working on his Master's degree at Millersville State College.

Named as Associate Professor of Art and Chairman of the Department of Art is Percival R. Roberts, III, who was awarded his Master of Arts degree at the University of Delaware.

Staff Expansion in Many Areas

Dr. Ralph Sell, newly appointed Associate Professor of History, earned his Doctor of Philosophy degree at Hartford, Connecticut Seminary Foundation.

Dr. Donald E. Enders, who earned his Doctor of Education degree at the Pennsylvania State University, has been named as Associate Professor of Education.

Stephen Wukovitz, newly named Assistant Professor of Physical Science, was awarded his Master of Arts degree at Montclair State College, New Jersey.

The appointment of Edwin W. Kubach, who is currently working on his dissertation for a Doctor of Philosophy degree, has been announced as Associate Professor of English.

Constance C. Ward, who received her Master of Fine Arts degree from Cranbrook Academy of Art, has been named Assistant Professor of Art.

The new chairman of the Business Education Department is Willard A. Christian, who was awarded his Master of Science degree from Bucknell University.

Robert H. Finks has been named Instructor of Psychology. Mr. Finks received his Master of Arts degree in psychology from Miami University of Ohio.

These new additions to the B.S.C. faculty help to round out the staff of instructors teaching this year. We welcome them to Bloomsburg and wish them good luck.

Degrees Delayed

Last May the diplomas of two seniors were withheld by the college. Last week the Maroon & Gold questioned the administration about the matter and received the following statement.

"In May 1968, two Bloomsburg State College seniors were not granted diplomas when undergraduate degrees were conferred upon approximately five hundred graduates. One of the two students involved, a Secondary Education major, was also denied a teaching certificate.

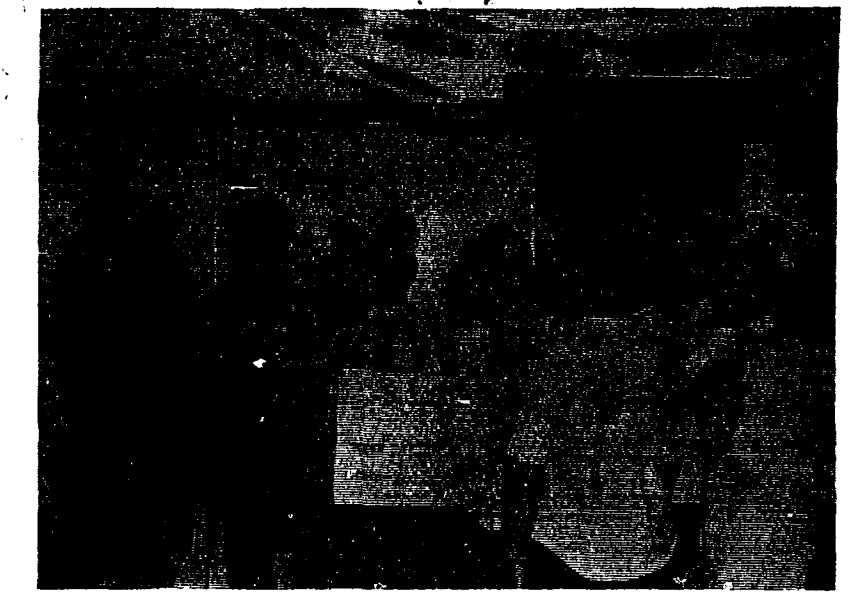

"The administration of the college withheld their diplomas on the basis of the following regulations adopted eight years ago, which are printed in the College Catalog (and the Pilot):

1. Completion of 128 semester hours of credit in a specified undergraduate curriculum, or 30 hours of graduate credit in courses required for the degree of Master of Education.
2. All students must satisfactorily complete a minimum of five hours of Physical Education and Health.
3. Emotional stability, as evidenced by active participation in college social and academic activities.
4. Personality traits considered by the college to be adequate for a member of the teaching profession.
5. High moral and ethical standards of conduct.

The college reserves the right to withhold the degree or the application for a certificate to teach in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania if one or more of these conditions for graduation are not met.

All candidates for degrees are individually responsible for meeting all the requirements for graduation outlined above.

BSC Infiltrated

September 4 marked the beginning of Orientation Week for approximately 875 freshmen students at Bloomsburg State College. The students were required to attend orientation sessions and social events prior to registration which began Monday, September 9.

It was necessary for the freshmen to purchase a dink and secure a Pilot, the Student's Handbook. As part of the traditional orientation program, freshmen were required to wear a name sign and collect the signatures of the members of the Orientation Committee.

Fun Days

During the Orientation Week, there were four "Fun Days" in which all Frosh were expected to participate. Thursday was Rain Day and all freshmen were required to carry open umbrellas. Civil Defense Day brought freshmen outdoors to cover their heads with paper bags which they had to carry around with them. Upon hearing a whistle, all Frosh had to gather, sit or stoop, cover their heads with the bags, and imitate a siren. On Friday, Dental Hygiene Day, Freshmen were required to carry toothbrushes and toothpaste and upon hearing a whistle they had to brush their teeth. After brushing, they had to sing the Pepsodent Song.

Social Events

A series of social events were planned by John L. Mulka, Director of Student Activities, with the cooperation of the officers of the Community Government Association. Featured in the activities were a Las Vegas Night, several movies, a picnic, and a number of band and record dances. Unfortunately the starting of classes brought the fun and gaiety of orientation to a close.

Savage Author

A short story by Mr. Richard Savage, associate professor of English and faculty advisor for the Maroon & Gold, was recently selected for publication in an anthology of prose and poetry. The anthology will be printed by Harcourt, Brace and World sometime this winter. This is the third short story by Mr. Savage to be included in an anthology of literature. Originally the story was published in The Saturday Evening Post under the title "Wolves of Fear."

Growing Prestige

As an indication of Mr. Savage's growing prestige in the world of literature, an invitation has recently been extended to him to become a member of the Authors League of America. Membership in the League is possible only by invitation to established writers. Savage received a personal letter from Rex Stout, current president of the League and well-known author of many novels and short stories.

To Present Address

On Nov. 1 and 2, Mr. Savage will present the main address at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania School Press Association in Bethlehem. The subject of his talk will be "The Student Reporter—His Freedoms and Limits."

As a former newspaper reporter, a member of the editorial staff of The Saturday Evening Post, and advisor for fourteen years to student publications at BSC and other schools, Mr. Savage will attempt to define the role of the student reporter in his task of upholding the ideals of a free and responsible press within the limitations of the school and college community.

Go Parking

The Security Police have set up a new law supplementing the Traffic and Parking Regulations for students. This is designated as Section B, paragraph 2 in the regulations.

This law states that: Student vehicles may only be driven and parked on the internal campus between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and 12:00 midnight. Students may utilize the established undesignated parking space during this time.

This is going to be used as an experiment, and all student cars must be off-campus by midnight. This offers additional parking privileges to the students.

1968 OBITERS

A very limited number of 1968 OBITERS will be available for $6.00 on Thursday, September 19th, at 11:00 a.m. at the yearbook office, room 231 Waller Hall.

Policy Statement

There have been many changes in the past year at Bloomsburg State College and the Maroon and Gold has tried to keep up with the progress of the college community. This year the M&G will be published twice weekly in order that its news coverage may be more timely and more complete. The matter of timeliness in regard to articles should be greatly improved, and student response toward the newspaper should increase. In order to stimulate this student response, the M&G would like to outline in general at this point, its editorial policy.

The obligations of a college newspaper are to reach the student and inform him through systematic news coverage of all current happenings concerning his college. This includes not only all student organization, faculty, and administration news, but also any action taken by the town officials that affect the college. Also, any action taken by the state or national government may be interpreted in terms of its effect on the college in the college newspaper.

When any controversial issue concerning the college arises, it is the newspaper's duty to recognize the problem and print all the pertinent facts on both sides. It should not take a biased stand in its news stories on any issue but give an objective presentation. However, it may take a stand on issues relevant to the student body in its editorial page, since this is the traditional purpose of the editorial page. And it should also through letters-to-the-editor, and columns, offer a chance for students to express their opinions. The comments and opinions of all students, faculty and administrators will be printed in the M&G so long as they do not violate the editorial policy of the M&G. This editorial policy is set forth in some detail in a statement drawn up in 1965 and is available to any who may wish to read it. The editorial column is collectively the opinion of the M&G and all other articles are the opinion of the writer whose name accompanies the article.

How Good Was Our Orientation At BSC?

What would happen if we had a student from a foreign country here at B.S.C. as a Freshman? Would his first letter home read like this?

Dear Mother,

The strangest things have happened to me since you and father left me here. I don't know if the Orientation Committee has a weird sense of humor or if they're weird.

The first night we were here, we had to buy our "dinks" which we have to wear faithfully in order to be oriented. Then as another part of orientation they made us quack like ducks. I have no idea how this was to help us be oriented into college life, but the committee thought it was just great.

Then, for the next week we had to do all sorts of things like carrying an umbrella when it wasn't raining, or we had to sit on the ground with a paper bag over our heads making siren-like noises. One day I was told I had to carry rocks around with me until tribunal.

Now let me tell you about tribunal. This is to get you really oriented into college life. Here you get all sorts of things thrown at you—like eggs, mud or any other glop they can think of.

Well, I must close for now, and find out where the different rooms and buildings are that I will have classes in, because this was one thing they overlooked during Orientation Week.

Your son,

CLUB MEETING

This Thursday, September 19, at 7:15 p.m., the B Club will hold its first meeting of the 1968-69 college year in room 21 of Science Hall. All members are asked to be present.

NOTICE

Applications for the position of editor-in-chief of the Olympian, the literary publication of BSC, are now being accepted. Interested students should submit their qualifications and briefly describe what they would like to do with the publication; mail letters by September 25 to Olympian Editor, Waller Hall Box 219.

HOME COMING . . .

... With Red Mama?

By Lyle Greenfield

Ahhh. Soft, freckled Mama. Long, long, tremendous long, red-haired Eileen. Freckles all over the place. Tiny, tender Eileen. Volante, voluptuous Eileen. How I had always loved that long red hair and every blasted freckle, each a veritable individualistic entity.

I suppose that I was only fooling myself by insisting that I didn't still love her, that I would never see her again and that I didn't want to. After all, I made it through the summer in good enough shape, I thought. Getting pinned last spring had been an irresponsible mistake on my part. Who ever heard of getting pinned and depinned in one night. We were both drunk. I can face that reality now. I don't know about her, but I got SO SICK that night. Talk about a mess!

Oh bitter bad irony. Only 531 students in my Honor Sports Appreciation Seminar and Eileen had to be in my class—directly and thirteen rows below me. I knew I wouldn't be able to concentrate. All I could see was fifty minutes of red hair. My renewed passion was, yes, uncontainable. I would speak with her after class to get the whole foolish vision out of my head. I needed a D in this course bad. So I rushed outside and waited for her after class was over.

"Hello, Eileen," I said coolly.

"Hello Lyle. How was your summer?" I remembered what a terrific conversationalist she had always been. Eileen hadn't changed.

"Oh, it was great, I mean not so good. I guess it was alright. How was your's, Eileen?"

"Pretty stinky," she said in that precious, soft voice of hers. I knew that I was falling in love again. And I wondered, should I . . . should I ask her out? Yeah, I guess so.

"Eileen, ah, I was wondering . . . um, are you doing anything this Saturday night?" I asked, thinking that she was probably thinking of going downtown with her roommate.

"Well, Lyle, I was thinking of going downtown with my roommate, but I hadn't planned anything definite." I began shaking.

"O good," I said convincingly. "I mean, Oh!? Would you like to go to a laundry date with me?"

"That sounds nice, Lyle. But I'll have to see if I have enough dirty wash at the end of the week."

"Semper ubi sub ubi," I mumbled and told her that I'd call to check Friday night. We then said 'good-bye'.

All week long I thought of Red Mama, envisioning that screaming red hair and those riotous freckles. By the time Friday night came I was an anticipatory wreck. I phoned her late, hoping to have allotted all the time she could possibly need to reach a decision. And, thank God, as it turned out, indeed, yes, Eileen did have enough dirty wash to merit the laundry date. I sensed some excitement in her phone voice. Would Saturday night be the time to ask her to Homecoming? I would play it by the proverbial ear.

Sleep was out of the question Friday night and Saturday's excitement nearly ruined by me. I spent much of the day going over my briefs. Finally 8:00 P.M. arrived and I picked Eileen up at her dorm. She was lovely, even with her hair in curlers.

We made light conversation till we got to the laundromat, but I was a bit uneasy . . . wondering, wondering . . . would, should this be the night? In fact, we were both uneasy once inside. I had never been on a laundry date before. Eileen immediately went about her business.

"Get the stuff in the washer," I thought to myself.

"Look out there, Eileen," I said excitedly, pointing to the front window. She looked momentarily, giving me enough time to hastily empty my University Laundry Bag into the washing machine.

"Look at what, Lyle?"

"Oh, Mel Merloski just walked by," I said nonchalantly.

I was able to start the washer with only minor coughing and spewing of suds. She had no difficulty with hers so we both sat down and chatted about our classes, prof's, etc. I knew we'd have to unload at the same time, and into those relenting, see-thru carts. The pain was something, but I quickly wheeled my cart over to the dryer and chucked everything in. Eileen acted as if she didn't care, though. She had always impressed me as a liberal.

Two dimes in each dryer gave me twenty minutes . . . twenty minutes to make my move. Would she already have a date? I wondered. We both stared hypnotically at the monotonous motion of the dryers. I blushed as a pair of my Jockey shorts floated by the window rather conspicuously. Eileen smiled knowingly. Two minutes left by my watch.

"I wonder what the heck's wrong with Lyle?"

"Eileen, you've probably been wondering what the dickens is wrong with me tonight."

"No."

"Oh, Well, I, I've been wanting to ask you, ah, if you'd, ah, like to be my date for Homecoming. I mean forgetting about last year and everything." (talk about humble)

"Homecoming! Gee, I hadn't even thought about it. When is it?" (sure Eileen)

"October 14th."

"Lyle, I might be going home that weekend. Oh wait, that's the 14th of November. Yes, I'd like to go Lyle." (talk about glad) I put ten more dimes in each dryer; Red Mama and I went out for a "walk". Oh, autumnal, equinoctial ecstasy.

Letters . . .

Dear Editor:

I would like to welcome back on campus all idealistic or disappointed liberals, inarticulate conservatives, nihilistic revolutionaries, uncommitted moderates, apathetic faculty, and students. If I have omitted anyone please write a nasty reply to the editor, I love a good debate and need the publicity. Hopefully the upcoming years will be an interesting experience for all members of the college community. With three newspapers, two political parties, promising the impossible, and the continuous confrontation between liberal and conservative forces, I would expect a fascinating year.

As for College Council, we have already contracted the "Sam and Dave Revue" for Homecoming, completed the freshman orientation program, completed an adequate budget, scheduled a few interesting social events and will attempt to do a satisfactory job. If any person or group has suggestions or complaints about anything remotely related to CGA, please let us know and we guarantee as many rationalizations and excuses as possible. Many people have voiced concern about this year's College Council and others want to know when the revolution starts. The concern may be well founded. The revolution and/or evolution has been going on for a number of years. Don't expect miracles, but by the same token no one is going to roll over and play dead.

I would like also to extend my sincere congratulations to Cindy Rogers and Benny Lesko for a job well done with freshman orientation. Also Dave Keifer for his outstanding job on the Pilot.

Dining Quotes

With the opening of the new South Hall dining area, we decided that it was only fair to investigate to see how the BSC students regard it. We think the best way to describe their feelings is to let them speak for themselves.

See if you can find your opinion among those registered by others:

"It's so small."

"I love it. It's more fun to eat in small groups."

"There's never any food left by the time I get there."

"South is a great chance to check out the girls in that dorm."

"There's too many flies."

"Good thing I don't have to go out in the rain when it's time to eat."

"The smell of laundry soap powder drowns out the smell of the food. Thank goodness!!"

Spell It Like Obituary

Last week distribution began for the 1969 yearbook, the Obiter. The later than normal distribution date was due to the fact that this volume included all of the spring sports and activities. This was the first yearbook at Bloomsburg to ever give complete coverage of the school year. Many students and faculty members who did not order the Obiter last year have since tried to buy copies of the volume. To this date, however, extra copies have not been available. This is because printing schedules are such that the yearbook staff must order a specific number of books early in the fall, and cannot order more later. The funds from CGA allocations and student sales are invested in the quality of the book, and not in extra copies for people who have yet to buy it. This insures maximum quality in the book for those who are willing to order early.

No Extra Copies

This year positively no extra copies are being ordered. If students and faculty do not order copies in advance they will be unable to buy them next fall. Until October 21 the price of the book will be six dollars. As of November 1 the price will rise to eight dollars, and ten days later sales will cease. After November 10 the Obiter will not, and indeed can not (since printing of the book will have already begun), accept any further orders.

'69 Obiter

1969 yearbooks are on sale daily in the Obiter office, room 231, Waller Hall. Seniors who are graduating in January, May, or August need not order the book. It will automatically be mailed to them in early September.

GOLF COURSE MAKES NEWS

4:00 — Sept. 13, 1968

Today Marlo Groundhog, world famous groundhog, stepped out of his fashionable "early ground" home to eat his daily meal of four leaf clovers.

Unfortunately Marlo stepped directly into the path of an oncoming blocking sled complete with cleats and thudding finemen. Marlo's last words were "I knew it was football season, but I thought the golf course was off-limits to that sport."

The fact that the golf course is now used for football practice is only one of many changes occurring on the campus this year. First year football coach Jerry Denstorff is building his team around the defense. (If you don't remember what a defense is, look it up in your neighborhood dictionary.)

Coach Denstorff has two soph. prospects vying for the quarterback position vacated by Rich Lichtel. Rich's spot will be filled by either Terry Lessman or Tom Schneider. At the fullback spot, John Rossi and Paul Scrimkovsy are providing each other with competition. Senior, Art Sell, will fill the tailback position. Marvin Serhan and Greg Berger are battling for the wing back spot, but both will probably see plenty of action. The offensive line positions are up for grabs except for the center spot which Roy Smay has already nailed down. Stutzman, Sacco, and Barretts are fighting for the starting guard positions. McCue, Schaedler, and Christina are the tackles. McCue has already nailed down one of the tackle spots. The other spot will be filled by either Schaedler or Christina. Three Juniors, Bill Derr, Joe Lyons, and Norbert Forchieskie are trying to grab onto the starting end positions.

Over on defense, the situation is the same. The end positions will be filled by either Walborn, Bottigliere, or Mattheue. Three seniors, Krammes, Nagy, and Petkas are vying for the tackle position. Rumble, Little, and Barnhart will play linebacker with Barnhart a probable starter. At the nose position, Ernie Verdal and Gerald Lastowski are fighting for a starting spot. In the backfield Shell will fill the fang spot and Jones, Bonnacci, Davis, and Holland will fill the other positions in the backfield.

The team appears fairly solid at every position, but is far from mid-season timing in both the offensive and defensive backfield. Coach Denstorff's basic idea "is to have the best football players on the field — position doesn't really matter." Half of the starting defense and offense will be sophomores, and all young teams will make mistakes, but competition among themselves and a lot of spirit should enable us to field a good team.

Major Changes In Cross Country

It is normally thought that improvement goes hand-in-hand with change. If that is the case then this year's Cross-Country team should be one of the finest that Bloomsburg State College has ever produced. These kind of statements are made in the beginning of most every sports season but the 1968-1969 Cross Country squad is out to prove themselves worthy of such statements.

One of the major changes is the appointment of Dr. Clyde S. Noble as the Head Coach of the team. Dr. Noble is a professor in the chemistry department at BSC. He looks upon his assignment as a challenge to which he will devote much of his time and efforts.

A second major change is the development of a new five-mile course to be used for home meets. The course is in the final stages of completion and it involves much more grass and turf running as compared to nearly five miles of road running in previous seasons. The new course takes in much of the area between the hospital and the apartment complex north of Lightstreet.

The last major change is new team morale and equipment. These changes could greatly aid the team in their quest for a superb season. Returning lettermen include: Chuck Bowman (The Married Flying Parson), Jim Carlin (The Philly Stomper), Mike Engle (Mr. Mass), Tom Henry (Mr. Determination), Mike Horbal (The Gutless Wonder), Dave Kelter (The Swimmer), and Charlie Moyer (?). The Freshmen squad has many candidates and will attempt to uphold the traditional undefeated freshmen seasons of past years.

With these major changes and your support the Cross Country team hopes to represent BSC with their best season ever.

Crew Team Breaks Into Fall Schedule

by Mike O'Day

As we return to B.S.C. for the beginning of a new year we notice many changes on campus. Across from Waller Hall is the new River-view Apartments, latest addition to the Bloomsburg Redevelopment Park. In the future there will be several new buildings to add to the monsoon muck.

Next spring the ground will be broken for the new two story boat-house to be constructed south of the Bloomsburg Airport. It's about time that the Administration has awakened to the fact that Bloomsburg is a riverside college, and should have a crew team racing on the river.

A recent bulletin listed the requirements for the future crew teamers:

- Must be at least 6 feet tall, in stocking feet. (To carry the shell over low spots.)
- Must love water, or anything brewed with water. Must hate to lose gracefully.
- Must have some idea where the river is located. Must bring own swimsuit. Must have crew cut.
- MUST BE LIGHTER THAN WATER.

That's the story, let's all go down to the river and support the crew team in the upcoming season. Speaking of the upcoming season, let's see what the waterborne Huskies have in store for them on the 69-70 calendar.

The Huskies have a tough first year in front of them as they bus to Warsaw on the 17th of November to meet the Budapest University oarsmen. From there they travel to Kiev to meet a rough and ready Soviet Workers Boat Club. The same week finds them in Venice to trade oars with an experienced Grand Canal team, that is still flying high after this year's upset victory over Luch's Rockers in the International Championships played at the Nairobi Indoor Pool and Swimming Hole. Luch's team was disqualified for unsportsmanlike conduct just because they filled their boat with ice to keep the half of Bud cold, they destroyed 16 of the 18 entering boats, and they filled the shell belonging to the Grand Canal team with tootsie roll wrappers. Because of their reaction to the fun the Italians won the Sore Guys Award.

Luch told this reporter that he hopes to be back this year if the "other sissies don't have us disqualified for entering a turbine boat."

38-24-36. That's how the sport shapes up, so let's all be down at the river on November 4th, when the Huskies open against the Bloomsburg Elks... We'll see you.

Why would Bic torment this dazzling beauty?

Why?
To introduce the most elegant pen on campus.

Expensive new Bic® Clic® for big spenders 49¢

Only Bic would dare to torment a beauty like this. Not the girl... the pen she's holding. It's the new luxury model Bic Clic... designed for scholarship athletes, lucky card players and other rich campus socialites who can afford the expensive 49-cent price.

But don't let those delicate good looks fool you. Despite horrible punishment by mad scientists, the elegant Bic Clic still wrote first time, every time.

Everything you want in a fine pen, you'll find in the new Bic Clic. It's retractable. Refillable. Comes in 8 barrel colors. And like all Bic pens, writes first time, every time...no matter what devilish abuse sadistic students devise for it.
