Weismann to Speak

Dr. T. J. Weismann will address members of the Susquehanna Valley Section of the American Chemical Society and BSC student affiliates on Wednesday, February 18, at 8:00 p.m. in Kuster Lecture Hall. The lecture, "Recent Advances in Petroleum Exploration Research," is open to the public.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., Dr. Weismann received his BS, MS, and PhD degrees in physical chemistry from Duquesne University. He joined Gulf Research and Development Co., in 1956 and is currently Research Associate in the Geochemistry Section of the Exploration Division. He was a colleague of Dr. Clyde S. Noble, of the BSC Chemistry Department, at Gulf Research in the summers of 1968 and 1969.

The lecture will be preceded by the film, "An Introduction to Reaction Kinetics," beginning at 7:35 p.m.

APO All Set

May 2, has definitely been set for Alpha Phi Omega's fundraising project, Tommy James and the Shondells in Concert. Tom Blackwell, chairman, stated that initial steps have been taken in preparing for the concert and the band and date has been cleared with a Pittsburgh booking agency.

Blackwell stated that APO will be looking for strong support from the campus community, as well as the local high school students, to make their fund raising event successful. If all goes well, they will earn in excess of $7,000 after paying Tommy James and the Shondells and the other expenses involved. The proceeds will be used as contributions to charities such as March of Dimes and the Easter Seal Society and the first funds toward building or securing a house for the brotherhood.

UGRE to be Given

The Undergraduate Record Examinations for seniors who will graduate in May 1970 will be administered March 7, 1970, with testing to start at 8:00 a.m. The candidates are to report beginning at 7:45 a.m.

The candidates enrolled for these tests on Registration day in January. Those who are taking the Field Tests in Education, Business, and English will report at Carver Auditorium. All others will report at Haas Auditorium.

Those, who are in Practice Teaching the first half of this semester will receive certain materials, including appointment sheets, from the Research Office. The materials describe the test battery and give examples of test items. Included is a form that tells the student the location for his test, including the building and the exact seat. He should bring this sheet, his receipt of payment, and a supply of no. 2 pencils with him on the test date.

Those who are in Practice Teaching, residents, and commuters will have these materials placed in Campus Mail, Wednesday, February 25th. These seniors are asked to look for these envelopes and to ask box-sharers to watch out for them on their behalf.

Free School Announced

A joint committee of Bloomsburg townspeople, high school and college students, and college professors met Thursday evening, February 12, to establish a Free School of Bloomsburg. The meeting was an outgrowth of Philosophy Club meeting held earlier in the week to discuss the possibility.

A free school is non-credit, non-degree-granting course of study which is open to all citizens without cost for the purpose of advancing learning and the exchange of ideas in the community. It has become a rapidly growing tradition in the 1960's, with free schools burgeoning in most major cities and college towns.

The Free School of Bloomsburg will offer five initial courses in a spring session beginning in March. The proposed subjects are drama, music, writing, politics, and philosophy. A full description of these offerings will be announced at a later date, together with details of time and place. Anyone interested in more information about the Free School is invited to call members of the committee at 784-1896, 759-0563, 784-0704, 784-1136.

Three Day Men's Scholarships will be available to any commuting student who has completed one semester. The scholarship will go toward tuition in the fall of 1970. Applications and information may be obtained at the financial aid office.

Applications must be in by April 1, 1970.

Olympian

Once again that subject of much vigorous (violent?) debate during the late hours by slightly-inebriated poets and critics, the Olympian, sometimes known as "the literary magazine of Bloomsburg State College," is approaching its deadline with a frighteningly small quantity of material having been submitted. This, then, is an appeal to the poets, playwrights and short story writers of this campus as well as anyone who simply dabbles in writing now and then. Our deadline for submission of poetry, short stories, plays (Doesn't anyone write one-act plays?) and essays is March 5, 1970. Box 293, Waller Hall.

USMC

The United States Marine Corps Officer Selection Team will be aboard the Bloomsburg State College campus today and tomorrow, February 18 and 19, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The representatives of the USMC will offer information and answer questions of interested students concerning the United States Marine Corps Officer programs that are available to College Students.

March 16 and 17 — Final Elections — 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Waller Hall.

College Council in Special Session

A petition signed by approximately 150 students prompted college council to meet Friday to discuss the proposed Student Faculty Senate. Those petitioning claimed that Council had not given the document the consideration it deserved at the regular meeting, on Feb. 9.

A letter from D. Nossen which indicated that he was opposed to the document presented to Council by Glo Wilson, was read at the beginning of the meeting. The President stated that the document prepared by the student committee was not valid because there is a duly constituted faculty committee presently working on such a proposal.

Dr. Warren, a guest of Council and chairman of the faculty committee, complained that he had not been contacted by the student committee, and stated that his committee already had one student representative, Ray Guydish, and was willing to listen to student opinion on the Senate at any time. He further stated that the original name of the proposed body had been changed from "Faculty Senate" to "Senate" to avoid alienating students.

After a number of questions from Council members and student visitors, Jeffrey Prosseda, Council chairman, reminded the group that they had met to discuss the Student Faculty Senate constitution prepared by a student committee, not the document being prepared by a faculty committee.

Dudley Mann questioned the validity of the motion made not to consider the document by Stan Rakowsky (at the regular meeting.) He thought that a motion made in a negative manner was contrary to the rules of parliamentary procedure. Jean Reese stated that she was checking the procedure in ROBERTS RULES OF ORDER. Stan Rakowsky stated that he had made the motion because he felt that the document had been prepared by a small group of students and that preparation should be left up to the duly constituted faculty committee. Other Council members indicated that they had not understood the motion made by Mr. Rakowsky and thought that they were voting on the document when they had actually voted not to consider it.

No definite decision was made on the document since there were too many absentees to establish a quorum. However, upon advice of Jeff Prosseda, those present voted to reconsider the Student Faculty Senate at the next regular meeting.

Hamlet Cancelled

The February 18 showing of HAMLET has been canceled with regret by the BSC Literary and Film Society. Miss Eileen Titler of Walter Reade Corporation of New York, which has recently purchased the rights to HAMLET, Laurence Olivier's Oscar-winning 1948 production, informed the Society by telephone that its newly acquired prints had been rejected for defects in quality and that new prints will have to be processed before the film can be released for viewing. The Reade Corporation has assured the Society that HAMLET can be re-scheduled later in the semester, when fault-free prints are secured.

The opening film of the Society's series will be DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE, the famous Spencer Tracy tour-de-force, on March 4. Memberships are available until then by sending $3 for a single membership and $5 for a double membership to College Box 306. The re-scheduled date for HAMLET will be announced to members of the Society later.

Mass Humanity: Tickets Or Else

Editorial

We all remember the time of the cheerful-apatetic students. Where are they now?

Now, they are scared, depressed and not quite sure where they are at. They feel empty, aimless. They are annoyed, and sometimes, downright disgusted.

Most discouraging, however, is the fact that they can't figure out why their temperament has changed so drastically. They're pissed off, and not sure why. Maybe it's because there are so many reasons to choose from.

Maybe they were going to sign up for Deake Porter's Grad-Course, and found that it didn't exist.

Maybe they wanted to take Jim Percy for Government during summer school and found that Percy has been denied summer employment at BSC.

Maybe they have heard rumors that one professor may be fired for participating in the Moratorium, or supposed "political extremism," while BSC staff members who belong to the Herb Philbrick Society (a right wing group) are tolerated.

Maybe they heard that one of the staff members of ARA Slaters was pressured by administrators to shave his beard.

Maybe they are worried because there appears to be a growth of anti-semitism on this campus.

Maybe they question the validity of their student government.

Maybe they are worried because one of their reps on college council considers 1300 students to be a small group and therefore moves to "not discuss" a proposed student-faculty senate constitution.

Maybe they were upset by the trouble some professor had in getting their tenure.

Maybe some of the girls are upset because they were told they couldn't have unlimited lates because the college can't afford to buy extra keys.

Maybe they are concerned because one of their reps on college council may not understand the motions he makes.

Maybe they were told that everything was going to change this year and just discovered that it hasn't.

Maybe students are tired of being told whom not to associate with by the social deans.

Maybe they are tired of being intimidated because they are suspected of using drugs.

Maybe they're wondering why a popular English prof is not teaching upper division English courses.

Maybe they wonder why unsigned letters, etc., are kept in personal files while a petition signed by 1300 students is ignored.

Maybe some people are wondering what the hell is going on here...

Maybe.

Books in Review

THE FUTURE OF CONSERVATISM — by M. Stanton Evans.

When political reality begins to coincide with political prophecy, the prophet must be reckoned a man worth listening to. In 1967 M. Stanton Evans analyzed the political position and practical future of conservatism in American politics. He predicted that in fewer years than most political writers would agree to, the influence of the conservative voters would bring about the election of a Republican president and a vice-president acceptable to the South.

Since THE FUTURE OF CONSERVATISM first appeared in 1968, the results of the elections have shown that the majority of his predictions were correct. The author has revised several chapters of the book and added a new chapter incorporating the results of the election. In the new material he discusses whether or not the Nixon victory can be considered a victory for conservatism, the meaning of the Wallace movement and Spiro Agnew. He also discusses the effect on the Democratic party of Lyndon Johnson's withdrawal from the race, McCarthy's campaign for the nomination and the assassination of Robert Kennedy.

THE FUTURE OF CONSERVATISM is one of the few books available that deals with the political possibilities rather than the ideology of conservatism. Covering the issues, events and personalities which have marked the resurgence of the Republican party since the 1940's, the author is always interesting and provocative.

Poverty

THE POLITICS OF POVERTY by John C. Donovan (Pegasus, 157 pp., $1.95) and MAN AGAINST POVERTY: WORLD WAR III edited by Arthur I. Blaustein and Roger R. Woock (Random House, 457 pp., $7.95)— reviewed by Jan Barry—SRS.

Poverty is truly a lonely battle.

Yet, according to one of these two books—John C. Donovan's classic THE POLITICS OF POVERTY—there are at least 35 million Americans living under the current federal "poverty line."

"Anywhere else in the world, thirty-four or thirty-five million poor people would constitute an underdeveloped nation...As a matter of fact, a separate nation of American poor would constitute the fifteenth largest country in the world," he points out.

Writing more specifically of this phenomenon, various contributors to the reader, MAN AGAINST POVERTY, make much the same point:

"...the average 'death age' of an Indian is forty-two years (thirty years for the Alaskan native and about thirty-one for the Arizona Indian)."

"Almost one-half of the employable American Indians are without jobs."

"Among farmworkers, a recent study discovered that under-employment runs as high as 37 percent."

"...More than 3 million rural adults are classified as illiterates."

AND SO ON

"...from 1950 to 1965, new machines and new methods increased farm output in the United States by 45 percent—and reduced farm employment by 45 percent."

"...during the next 15 years the need for farm labor will decline by another 45 percent."

"In Kentucky, a modernized coal mining industry has been able to cast aside three-quarters of its workmen within the span of a decade."

And so on and so forth. Even leaving out the more well-known statistics on our urban slums, as well as the PERSONAL reality of that human misery, this is unapologetically an "un-American" report. It might have been, one feels, written about India or Pakistan—except that, another contributor notes: "We know more about malnutrition in Pakistan... than in the United States;" he might as well have written "we know more about POVERTY." This then, is Michael Harrington's (and others') "Other American." If it were in fact "another nation" (the seventh largest underdeveloped country in the world, Donovan notes), in this condition of poverty it would without doubt be close to revolt, if not revolution. Though it is not another country (in this sense), it may be approaching revolution anyhow.

IN THE POLITICS OF POVERTY, John Donovan shows why and how LBJ's "War on Poverty"

turned into more of a sham battle than a major campaign; in MAN AGAINST POVERTY, the editors show us what the real battlefield—and battle—is and will continue to be. IN POLITICS

OF POVERTY, Donovan shows how very little in actual substance the U.S. has done about poverty HERE (glowing press releases to the contrary notwithstanding); in MAN AGAINST POVERTY, we are shown how tremendous and universal the problem is: two-thirds of the world's population, or more. Both books show how the poor everywhere are (finally, did someone say?) beginning to realize that no one is going to get them out of poverty but themselves. Governments, from Washington to Warsaw, can't or won't. Individual citizens (though many valiantly try) can't. National electorates in "developed," "democratic" nations won't.

WORLD WAR III

Yes, poverty is a lonely battle, if you're poor. But it may not long remain so. If "progress" and technology have done nothing else in this century, they have at least let a billion poor people know that they are not alone—nor outnumbered. The subtitle of MAN AGAINST POVERTY is WORLD WAR III: it isn't the name of the government's latest poverty program—it's poverty's (and people's) opening campaign on incompetent government.

Plato had a phrase for it 2500 years ago—if the people are sick, their rulers need curing. The "message" of these two books, from Donovan to Frantz Fanon, is no less direct and clear.

Error.. Error.. Error..

Many issues of this year's M&G have suffered from an abundance of printing, typographical, and other errors. The last two issues were even more than normally SNAFUed.

To W. D. Eisenberg (his middle initial was printed as "O") author of "Kosher it wasn't," we apologize, although we had little control over the many printing errors in his article. We take this space, however, to note that neither the author of the piece nor the editors of this publication were responsible for the misspellings, punctuation errors and missing lines in that article.

Jim Sachetti, whose name has been misspelled by the editors and the printers too many times to mention, we thank, for his endurance.

To Blass, whose articles and columns never seem to appear quite the way they are submitted, we offer our condolences.

And, if it makes any of the above mentioned gentlemen, or any unmentioned but similarly injured persons, feel any better, after two years of writing for this paper, I must hold some kind of record in the printing error department.

In a FORUM article I did on the upcoming Democratic primary, peace plank came out as peace planT. There were several other errors in that article. In a recent play review, two lines were dropped, spots came out as sports, and the article took on a somewhat incoherent quality because of printing mishaps. These are only recent articles. I've been dealing with this kind of frustration for two years.

Now, there are several reasons for these difficulties. One, our copy staff is small, and until recently, our typing staff was nonexistent. As far as feature material is concerned, my co-editor and I have typed, read, counted and arranged (lay-out) all the copy for our pages more than once.

Anyway, the problem is not likely to get any better. Our copy editor just quit, and I don't see any crowds gathering to apply for the job. The only way the printing errors can be cut down is to read proof sheets, and volunteers for that job are also lacking.

Husky Basketball Trounce MSC 83-70

Rough is the only way to describe BSC's 83-70 victory over Mansfield last Saturday night in Centennial Gym. The Huskies stepped to the charity strip 47 times and converted 33 to nullify Mansfield's 29-25 advantage in field goals.

Howard Johnson and Mark Yancheck led the Husky scorers with 18 points each. They were followed closely by Bob Snyder with 17, Paul Kuhn 15, Jim Platukis 10, Bill Mastropietro 3, and Dennis Mummey with 2. Of Kuhn's 15 points 11 came from the foul line. Weinstein led the Mounties with 24.

Platukis led all rebounders with 14, followed by Weinstein with 13, and Howard Joynson with 11. Snyder contributed 10 assists to the winning effort.

The Huskies grabbed the lead early, upped it to 15 at halftime, and never led by less than 6 in the second half.

During the first stanza fists flew, bodies fell and the benches emptied as tempers flared on the court. But the coaches calmed things down and no fouls were assessed or players ejected and the game continued without further incident.

Although Mansfield had no problem picking out the open man for the easy basket, the inside under the Mansfield basket was generally blocked and most of the 29 Mansfield field goals came from beyond 20 feet.

Tonight the Huskies travel to Millersville to bring home another win (hopefully). It will probably be tough and will take another great team effort to win. The Huskies now boast a 13-6 record which must be improved upon to make the NAIA District 19 playoffs.

Mermen Win 7th, 8th, 9th, Defeat LHSC 62-40

It was a big weekend for the Husky tankmen as they won their 7th, 8th, and 9th straight victories.

Their 7th game when they defeated Lock Haven State College by a score of 62-40.

Jack Feyrer of Bethlehem established a new Lock Haven pool record in the 1000 yard freestyle and set another Lock Haven Pool log in the 500 freestyle in a time of 5:42.7.

The Huskies had little trouble in wrapping it up as they captured firsts in eight of twelve events.

Bob Herb of Easton and Gary Hitz of Hershey notched top placements in the 50 yard freestyle and diving events respectively and Jim Koehler of Media won the 200 yard breaststroke in a fast 2:30.7.

Dave Kelter, a junior from Swarthmore took two first place finishes in the 200 individual medley and the 200 yard backstroke. The team of Lee Peroni, Jim Koehler, Jim Scalise, and Doug Yocum took the 400 yard medley relay to finish out the firsts for BSC.

The Huskies coached by Tom Houston anticipated strong competition in the next two meets against Slippery Rock and California on Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

On Friday the Rockets of Slippery Rock State College came to beat the BSC Huskies, but such was not the case. The tankmen took nine out of twelve first places with six out of ten second places to rack up a score of seventy-four to thirty for their eighth straight victory.

It was sweep revenge for the Huskies over the Rockets. BSC won a dual meet at Slippery Rock last year in a close meet, but lost second place to the Rockets in the state get together at Slippery Rock when West Chester gained the PSC title.

The Huskies had it from the start when they opened with a victory in the 400 yard medley relay as they recorded their best time of the year.

Ralph Moerschbacher, a senior from Camp Hill won both the 200 and 100 yard freestyle; Bob Herb triumphed in the 50 free, Jack Freyer in the 1000, and 500 freestyle and Gary Hitz took diving; other firsts were by Jim Scalise in the 200 fly and Jim Koehler and Lee Barthold 1-2 in the 200 breaststroke.

The tankmen were back in the water again on Saturday afternoon for their meet with California State College.

The California meet turned out to be a repeat performance of the meet with Slippery Rock as they again took nine of twelve events to take California by a score of 73-31.

The Huskies started off with another win with the 400 medley relay team of Kelter, Koeller, Scalise and Yocum; they were followed up by the stand up performance of Jack Freyer who again took first in the 500 and 100 yard freestyle. Ralph Moerschbacher again came through with two firsts in the 100 and 200 freestyle events with others like Jim Koehler and Lee Barthold coming through with 1-2 in the 200 breaststroke.

The real standout for the day was when Gary Hitz broke the school record in diving which had stood since 1966. He had an outstanding total score of 205.85 points.

This was the ninth straight victory for the Huskies, with only two more to go before states. The tankmen take on West Chester on Wednesday, and Trenton on the 25th of February looking for their 10th and 11th in a row.

LHSC Blitzes BSC

Lock Haven dominated all but 3 of the 10 matches to beat Bloomsburg 25-9. The Eagles swept the first four matches to build up a 16-0 margin. Only Russ Scheuren, Arnold Thompson and Jim McCue won their matches for the Huskies.

Scheuren completely demoralized Gene Taxis in the 150 lb. match. Taxis was runner-up in the state championships last year but couldn't contend with the determined Scheuren.

Arnold Thompson, senior captain, defeated Willie Vokes in the 158 lb. match by a score of 16-12. Thompson was constantly moving for the pin to move the Huskies closer to the Lock Haven score. But as a result the alert Vokes reversed him several times and was in complete control in the third period of the match when he picked up many of his points. Arnie did hang on to win to make the score 16-6 after his match.

Jim McCue was the only other Husky to win team points as he decisively defeated Jeff Knarr by a 5-3 score in the heavyweight bout.

Three Bloomsburg wrestlers were unable to workout during the week and as a result their performance was sub-par to what could have been expected. The team is physically hurting as they go into the last two matches of the season. It would be tough going in these matches if the team was healthy, but with many key members of the team sick it could be real trouble. It will take a supreme effort, which the Huskies can turn in, to win the East Stroudsburg and West Chester matches. Good luck to the team and coaches when they entertain the Warriors of East Stroudsburg this Saturday night at 8:00 P.M. in Centennial Gym. Support the Huskies; this match is building up to be one of the best of the season.

Sir Winston Hock

SDS, FBI, YAF, CIA, RMN, RFK, LBJ

by Obiter Dictum
 This is a little story to make you famous, me famous, and the whole damn world famous. It is about maniacs. Not the everyday sort of maniacs that one sees on the streets of Greenwich Village, the sewers of Paris, or Bloomsburg, Penna.; but rather those weird people who from time to time wreck havoc in the daily lives of we the sane.

I dedicate this to Michael Hock and the grand failure of Winston Churchill's Galipoli Campaign. Hieronymus Merkin would have simply zipped over the mere implications of the strange occurrence which is about to be recounted. An occurrence the likes of which no mortal has ever before escaped...

This is the end of the story. To continue from where I left off last issue, one may safely go on the assumption that I am not the character about whom you have heard so much rot. On the contrary, I am the rot. The basic purpose for this little note of satisfaction is wholly worthless. Nay, absurd.

Kill commies for christ today!!

Furthermore, and by virtue of the fact that the above stated people are guilty of coercion and reciprocity, the Supreme Court has decided to alleviate the existing tendencies toward revolution by passing the following amendment for the Constitution of the United States:

That no further demonstrations shall be tolerated within the territorial boundaries of the United States and her Possessions by individuals seeking to end the Vietnam War unless first being cleared by General Hershey and placed under the direction of an advisor who has had or does have close political affiliations with the President of the United States and the Republican Party.

It is indeed hoped that the now serious conditions that we are facing in this nation may someday and somehow be brought back into the realm of believability.

"As your President, I do solemnly pledge my allegiance to motherhood, apple pie, and the American Flag wherever and whenever it may fly. To go a step further, I consider myself the epitome of good judgement and fair play and shall endeavor to pass these my good fortunes off on as many others as is humanly possible for me to do."
