

Prosseda Resigns as Pres.

by Sam Trapani

At Monday's College Council meeting, the last action Jeff Prosseda took as president was to ask Council to adopt a resolution. Jeff explained that he put a resolution before the General Assembly of the State Student Government officers and that it was approved overwhelmingly. The resolution was then distributed to all 13 state colleges and the Indiana State University of Pa. for approval by their governing bodies.

A motion was made and seconded that Council adopt the resolution. Lengthy discussion followed pointing out the grammatical weakness of the resolution, its negative character, its vagueness, untimeliness, and the question of its purpose. The question was called and the motion was defeated. Informal discussion immediately after condoned the idea but refuted the resolution as it stood. Futile attempts to endorse the idea followed, Jeff Prosseda then asked Jean Reese to read the prepared statement that follows:

Members of College Council:

Each one of you has worked well through the past few months. It has been an honor and a pleasure to become involved with you at a level that excites and interests me.

When I ran for this office, I stated that one cannot help the system unless one can work within the system. Since that time, I have endeavored to do just that. However, now because of personal problems and a great sense of hopelessness, I submit my resignation as President of the Community Government Association.

I again thank you for your sincere time and efforts.

Respectfully,

Jeffery S. Prosseda

Nossen Statement

Ed. note: Dr. Nossen was in Harrisburg all day and this was brought up just before our deadline.

To: The Maroon and Gold

I received today a copy of Mr. Jeffrey S. Prosseda's resignation as President of C.G.A. This, of course, came as a complete surprise, and I have had no opportunity to talk with him in the interim. I regret, of course, his decision, and wish that he had delayed such action at least until after we could discuss the matter.

Leadership in any organization is difficult and inevitably leads to various forms of frustration. At this time I can only thank Mr. Prosseda for his services to the college. I met with him on numerous occasions throughout this year, including those meetings at which he served as advisor to the Board of Trustees. I know that he has worked conscientiously, and that he has used his energies in dedication to his office. I wish him well during the balance of his studies at Bloomsburg, and in his teaching position during the coming years.

I fully agree with Mr. Prosseda that those who are representing you in College Council have "worked well" these past several months, and to each member I say thank you for the manner in which you are fulfilling your responsibilities.

May I extend personal thanks, too, to Mr. Henry (Dave) Haas for his willingness to assume the role of C.G.A. President during the balance of Mr. Prosseda's term.

Robert Nossen

Hoch on Resignation

The resignation of Jeff Prosseda, President of the College Council, following the rejection by a majority of council members of a motion to endorse a statewide "Week of Disappointment", marks the first time in the history of the college that a CGA president found it necessary to resign from the office to which he had been elected.

It is most difficult to find valid reasons for Jeff's decision, particularly in light of the student support he has been able to command throughout his four years at Bloomsburg. However, his letter suggested "personal problems" as a reason and one cannot very well quarrel with that.

As far as the present College Council is concerned, I do not believe Jeff's resignation will create any dislocation or leadership vacuum. John Dasch should be able to handle the presidential chores during the few remaining meetings; Jean Reese, Joann Lucrezi and Jim McCabe have the experience and know-how needed to run a "tight ship."

My only regret is that Jeff could not serve during the remaining few weeks of the semester and chose rather to resign at the end of what must have seemed to him to be a most frustrating evening.

Dope Charges May Be Dropped

Although no official word has been given, Dudley G. Mann, accused of possession of marijuana, feels that charges will be dropped in the civil courts. "Comments from my lawyer and the fact that the prosecution had nothing to offer, indicates that the trial will be thrown out in the next two weeks," Mann said.

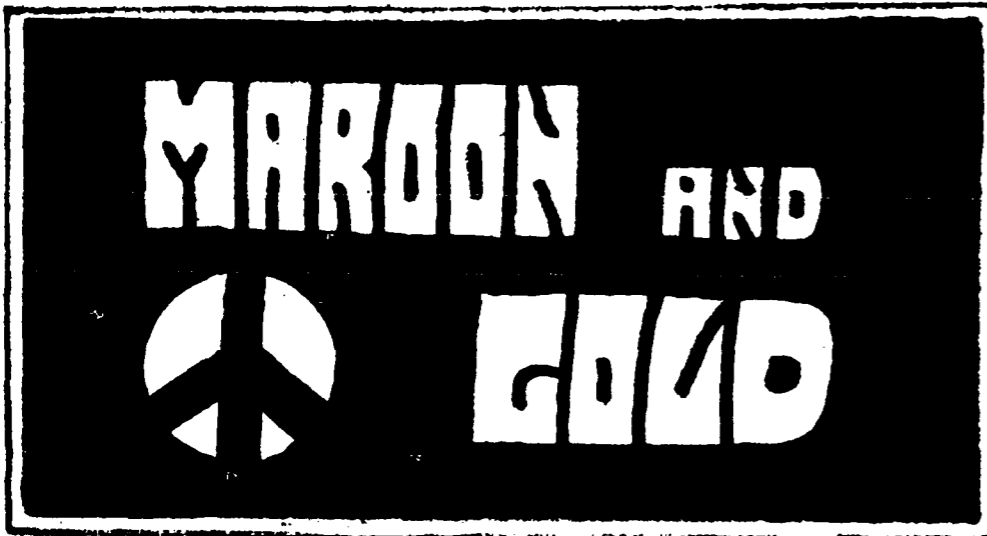

Attorney Galley Keller, counsel for Mann, David Levie and William Lennartz, told the court in a closed door meeting Monday, that evidence including a pipe, aluminum foil, pipe tobacco and dirt from under a rug, were taken through an illegal search. The search was made by State Police as a result of information acquired from John Skinner. Skinner was found guilty of offering false information in regard to the Mann case, in court Monday. Judge C. William Kreisher will establish the validity of this evidence before the grand jury convenes.

In regard to his suspension at BSC, Mann had sought and was granted an injunction to continue his education at this college. "The school acted unthinkingly and much too quickly," he said, "forcing me to seek this action to prove to myself and to other people that I am right, I cannot afford to be thrown out of school," he added.

After being suspended by the Men's Judicial board, Mann appealed to the Student Faculty Judicial board where the penalty was reiterated. The appeal was based on alleged violation of the Joint Statement on a number of points. "The Joint Statement is a worthless piece of paper," he said. "I have proven several violations (biased people on the boards, etc.) and sufficient weight was not given to these violations...they were ignored." He indicated that the Joint Statement as a document was good but the way it is used here is inadequate. "My only request was that the school wait until my civil trial was over...that request was denied and the school found me guilty of possession of marijuana," he said. "This was on the grounds of what Dean Norton had overheard at the hearing downtown." Mann feels that this action has inflicted damage on him and retribution should be sought for these damages. "This is one reason why I had to seek the injunction," he said.

Mann feels that the injunction will serve a greater purpose than saving his education. "One thing the injunction has shown is that the federal constitution does not end once you get on this campus." Eds. Note: Dr. Nossen stopped by the M&G office and when asked if he thought that the arrest of Dudley Mann was somewhat untimely, he replied, "Yes, until the state police came on campus we knew nothing of the action."

Debate

The week-end of March 21, 22, Bloomsburg State College sent its forensic and debating teams to the annual Pennsylvania State College Forensic Association tournament held this year at Lock Haven State College. Bloomsburg has dominated the event for the last three years, taking the sweepstakes trophy, which is given to the school with the highest total points after competition is completed.

Competing in upper division debate were Karl Kramer and Ken Koharski, posting a 2-3 record. Karl, in the process, won the valued first speaker award, being recognized as the top debater in the upper division.

In lower division debate, Brenda Knelly and Scott Peterman finished with a 3-1 record, plac-

Commons Dedicated

The dedication of the new William W. Scranton Commons at BSC which took place Wednesday, April 15, at a luncheon at 1:00 p.m. in the new building was one of the outstanding events of Inaugural Week at the college. The Hon. William W. Scranton, the former Governor of the Commonwealth, was present along with other dignitaries.

In addition to former Governor Scranton, other participants on the program included: The Honorable George W. Heffner, Judge of the Twenty-first Judicial District, Pottsville, Pa.; The Honorable Preston B. Davis, Senator, Twenty-seventh District, General Assembly; The Honorable Kent Shelhamer, Representative, One Hundred and Ninth District, General Assembly; Dr. George W. Hoffman, Director, Bureau of State Colleges and Universities; William A. Lank, President, Board of Trustees; Dr. Robert J. Nossen, President of BSC; Howard F. Fenstermaker, President, General Alumni Association of BSC; and C. Martin Lutz, Mayor of Bloomsburg.

The new Scranton Commons, dining hall-kitchen, was completed in March 1970, at a cost of $1,645,000. The air-conditioned dining areas are designed to seat 1,000 students and feed 2,000 each three meals daily. Other features included are faculty dining room, an employees' dining room, a bakery, refrigeration areas, lounges and lobbies, a locker and dressing room for employees, a loading dock, food storage areas, a complete sound system, and offices for the managerial staff.

The program also included the naming of Columbia Hall, the

Editorial

College Council is dead, Monday evening it suffered a massive cerebral hemorrhage and was dead in minutes.

The first time that this illness was visible was back in January when Council refused to consider the proposal for a student-faculty Senate. It has gotten increasingly worse since, each Monday becoming more absurd and less relevant.

This, of course, was not the fault of Jeff Prosseda and the rest of the executive council. They pushed hard on a long list of good proposals and saw a lot of excellent changes made during their administration—women's hours, dress code, referendum on a student government. Unfortunately, the irrelevance of council has led Jeff to a most startling action. Jeff has resigned and with his resignation, Council died. The last hope for meaningful government faded away.

A decisive factor in the resignation was Council's defeat of the "7 days of disappointment" resolution (see Wednesday's editorial) proposed by Jeff and passed overwhelmingly by the Pennsylvania State Association of Student Governments. Typically, Council found it necessary to argue endlessly about semantic structures and literary quality while ignoring the principles of the document. Council voted to defeat the resolution. However, the student vote was in favor of the resolution but faculty was decisive in killing it. A motion that Jeff had prepared for a state organization, and passed by the organization, could not be granted acceptance by his own colleagues.

Council no longer represents a constituent body. They showed that in their handling of the Student-Faculty Senate and have again showed lack of concern. Ignore Council's decision. Support the "7 Days of Disappointment", even if you're only disappointed because Bloomsburg has lost the most effective and dynamic student leader it has ever had.

by Stan Rakowsky

The inauguration of a President is an event in which all of us should take part. It is not merely to pay honor to the man Robert Nossen, but also to the office he holds which is the highest office in our college. It is a time at which all of us at BSC should PROUDLY display ourselves and our college to the world. But NO there are some who are disgusted. Well, I'm disgusted. Disgusted with the likes of Glo Wilson and Claire Smith and Frank Pizzoli by name. I'm also disgusted with the so-called professors or the Husky Lounge lawyers who use these students as dupes. That's correct DUPES, to get back at an administration which is considered oppressive. We couldn't be human if we were satisfied with everything which goes on but what distinguishes the have's from the have-nots is the manner in which these two types go about registering their complaints. Instead of going to the proper authorities for an answer or a possible solution to a gripe, one sector institutes a childish, petty, nonsensical idea of wearing armbands as a form of protest. And not only this but another student who isn't wet behind the ears yet, as expressed by his actions of late, calls for students of the college to go home on one of the most important days for BSC in several decades. These troublemakers try as much as within their power to ruin not only BSC's part in the inauguration but the part in the inauguration by the most honored participant Dr. Robert Nossen. True, this affair is for the glory of the college, but it is also to honor the man. These hatemongers say they won't go to the administration official for answers because they feel they won't get an answer. This is partly true. What is also true is the fact that they're afraid. Afraid that they'll get an answer that they won't be able to accept.

These children talk about being oh so grown up. Treat us as adults they say. Give us the right to act and think for ourselves. We're mature. They're maturity can only be likened to a child in grade school who when not being able to pitch in a baseball game, picks up his bat and ball and goes home. It is because of those who advocate and take part in this ridiculously childish action of wearing armbands and boycotting an event such as the one we are now engaged that our college has been kept back. At times the administration makes a mistake by limiting some of the things we ask for. These officials see SUPPOSEDLY mature collegians acting in a manner which befits third-graders. What else would you expect these administrative officials to do?

To you Glo Wilson and to you Claire Smith and to all who think and act as you do, go bury your heads in the MUD! You should be ashamed of your childish and moronic actions. Bury your heads and go back to your sandboxes where you belong. Sensible and mature ladies and gentlemen just don't act as you do!

And to the rest of the student body I plead to your inherent

Throats

Throats are very vulnerable. They stick out sort of, and masculine ones have pointed, bobbing things hanging in the middle that crack rather easily. So how come everyone is (a) shoving things down peoples' throats, (b) wielding word knives and waving them near people's throats with a general orientation toward the jugular, (c) asking for loyalty toward a particular set of throats, or voicing of disappointment in the output of a particular set of throats.

Although the last two items mentioned are not so bad in themselves, they hide a desire on the part of both parties, those who are loyal and those who are disappointed, to cut the throats of the opposition.

All of which is a very long winded elucidation of an obvious fact...the whole mess is getting bloody with all these people walking around with slashes and gashes in their throats.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to elicit the aid of the BSC faculty and student body in finding information regarding a copy of the "Procedural Manual for Student Organizations" which was hand-lettered with the words MULKA'S FUNNY BOOK and left in the faculty Lounge Monday, March 16, 1970.

All replies will be kept confidential. Reply to Maroon and Gold, Box 301, in sealed envelope. Thank you very much for your help.

Go Dedicated

Dear Students:

The recent issue of the Gadfly is the worst piece of garbage I've read since the Gadfly II. This supports position quite well. It's quite obvious by the malicious ridicule of the college and everyone in it that the editors don't really have a good gripe to air. It is my opinion that this "Week of Disappointment" is, in two aspects, very inappropriate.

First, this year, as much as any recent year, was a year of success. It saw the successful management of a very tight, diligently prepared budget. Its great success is highlighted by recommendations for improvement (e.g. wider student participation in its formation) for next year's officers rather than the 'here ya are - good luck, pal' this year's executive board got. Immediately noticeable to the student body was: the elimination of the dress code (with ease), the elimination of Family Style dining, due entirely to student initiative, a vast revision of the age old General Education Requirements that leave only your Dept. Chairmen to decide what you'll need in your area of concentration, not to mention a multitude of minor proposals that had been hidden for years. More important, the treatment of students by faculty and administration as adults. I can cite a dozen examples.

The second reason this week is inappropriately named is because we should not be disappointed in the student leader, nor the administration. Jeff and Co. poured everything they had into giving you the best deal possible. Their tireless efforts were matched only by the continued open-mindedness and overtime of Dean Jackson, Dean Norton, Dean Hoch, and yes, Dean Hunsinger, too. (go ahead and laugh, show me you don't know what you are talking about) I couldn't care less what the administration thinks, and I'll show you. There were times when I wasn't enthused by President Nossen's action or lack of it, but I will give him credit for one thing. He's got the toughest job on campus and that's saying a hell of a lot. I might mention also that he's not the top banana either, he's just another link in the chain of command that ultimately stems from the people who foot most of the bill for this whole affair.

Sure, there are things to be disappointed in, but don't overshadow the accomplishments of these tired, frustrated people in remorse for their inability to solve all problems. For God's sake don't go into next year disappointed...go dedicated to solve as many of the inevitable future problems as possible by the same back-breaking means used this year, confrontation in a collective body of students, faculty, and administration. Believe me, its the only way!

P.S. Jeff, after much thought and some discussion, I have decided for myself that your resignation was not an adolescent impulse, or acceptance of defeat, but a final attempt to dramatize your continued concern. Please don't prove me wrong. You don't take the easy way out, that's for sure, I wish there was some way to thank you for your 4 years of dedication.

Gratefully,

Sam Trapane

Smithner Speaks

Dear Mike:

I saw Tim Nau and Robert Nossen enjoy some old music in a small room and was deeply saddened that two such well-informed men are separated by forces which compromise us all. It makes one long for the realization of the Rabelasian dream of a free school for free men and women at the Abbey of Thelema. But, on the one hand, administrators cannot be protected by tenure and, on the other, the free spirit is outraged by what the less well-informed can force the unprotected to do to those who will not temporize for protection.

There is a Greek tragedy in all of this, and those of us who stand in the teaching chorus seem condemned by circumstance to lamentable roles productive of no immediately discernible progress. Still there are individual progresses, and Albert Camus seemed to say that the crucible in which we all boil is tempering our metal as a species for some great task which we are not yet able even to envision. Meanwhile, ineluctably most attempt to survive, some few morally, the rest merely physically, which, as Henri Bergson might have said, is in itself the honest expression of an instinct we share with other forms of life.

Tim Nau's voluntary departure is a blow to his students and friends, but it is probably one we communally deserve. He will always find men of good will since he seems to gravitate toward those of his ilk. Please excuse these Proustian sentences, but the ideas are not simple and the human beings even more richly complex. Dr. Nossen explained quite satisfactorily to me his concept of loyalty as he applied it to family and college. I had objected to the word's connotative overload since the 1950's and was thinking of the insane polarizing effect of loyalty parades and oaths. But then I had missed the honors assembly while preparing for the chamber music. Dr. Nossen, who incidentally is the busiest person on campus, has a much better record of attendance at college functions than any of the faculty or students. In fact, one way to get to talk to him is to bestir oneself from one's booth, pad, or cell.

Yours for continued good journalism,
Eric Smithner

"THE DOCTOR IN SPITE OF HIMSELF"

Moharter, Lepley Win As Huskies Open Season With Doubleheader Sweep

Coach Clark Boler's Husky baseball team opened their 1970 season with a doubleheader sweep against Kings. The scores were 4-2 and 4-3 as Bloomsburg picked up their initial wins of the season at the Lightstreet field.

The Huskies (behind lefty Dave Moharter, junior from Berwick,) came from behind in the first game to record their victory.

In the second inning King's left-fielder Pat Adonizio tripled to lead off the inning. After a fly-ball-out, Dennis Weir, BSC's third baseman, couldn't find the handle on Bill Waters ground ball, to give King's the lead 1-0. The inning wasn't over yet, Waters advanced to second on a ground-out and scored when Husky second sacker Jeff Mosser overthrew a ground ball off the bat of Tom Cretella. Pitcher Jorge Junguera struck out to end the King's College scoring in the first game.

In the bottom of the second with the bases loaded, Chip Smith walked to force home Jeff Mosser with the first Husky run of the season.

The next inning proved to be King's downfall as the Huskies scored three runs without the benefit of a hit, Shorty Hitchcock, freshman from Stevensville, hit a high fly to center-fielder Waters, who lost it in the sun to allow Shorty to advance to third, Dennis Weir walked next and stole second, Bob Faneck mishandled the throw from Cretella to allow Shorty to score and Weir to take third, Dieterick scored on Tom Fleecker's ground ball, Rick Gatchell walked and Moharter singled but the inning ended when Gatchell was tagged out in a rundown.

Moharter pitched a good game for the early season. He allowed 5 hits, struck out 5 and showed good control in walking only 2, Junguera, the starting pitcher for King's and one of 4 hurlers used, took the loss for Kings.

The Huskies again came from one run down in the second game to record their 4-3 decision.

In the top of the first, Bob Faneck reached first on a fielders choice. He advanced to second on passed ball and scored on Skip Maczuga's single to end the scoring for the inning.

Don Dieterick scored Bloomsburg's first run in the bottom of the second when he reached first on an error by the King's first baseman, took second on a wild pitch, and third on a ground ball off the bat of BSC's first socker, Bill Derr, Shorty Hitchcock lofted a flyball into right field to score Dieterick and knot the game at one all.

Pitcher Bob Warner scored the second BSC run in the bottom of the second, Warner drew a base on balls and scored on back-to-back singles by Joe Accardi and Mark Vivian.

The lead swelled to 3-1 in the 4th inning when right fielder John Choyka singled and scored on double errors by Groncheroske, and Faneck.

Warner got into trouble in the 5th as he issued free passes to Cretella and Millus to start the inning, Denny Weir overthrew Mitcho's ground ball to allow Cretella to score, Faneck grounded out, but Marzuga finished Warner for the day with an RBL single.

John Lepley, sophomore from Sunbury, came on to retire the next two men to keep the game tied at 3-3.

Neither pitcher was in any serious trouble until Chip Smith singled off Millus in the 7th, Joe Accardi sacrificed him to second to set the scene for Mark Vivian, Mark smashed a hot drive down the left field line and Smith ripped home with the game's leading run.

Bob Warner and Lepley showed good control for this early in the season. Between them they allowed 4 hits, struck out 10 (Warner-6, Lepley-4) and walked 4.

The Huskies travel to Shippensburg tomorrow.

National Champ Iowa St. To Wrestle Huskies in 1971

Russell E. Houk, Athletic Director and head wrestling coach at BSC, announced Tuesday that a milestone in athletic history at BSC will take place during the 1970-71 college year when Iowa State University, the nation's number one wrestling team for the past two years (NCAA University Division,) will be in Bloomsburg to wrestle the Huskies.

The Cyclones of the Big Eight Conference will meet the Huskies on January 8, in Centennial Gym when they are on an Eastern swing wrestling Hofstra University of Long Island January 7, and Lehigh University on January 9. The Huskies will meet Iowa State the following year at Ames, Iowa. Houk is extremely happy that the nation's number one wrestling team will be in Bloomsburg for the first time. He feels it will definitely add to the prestige of the wrestling program at BSC. The Cyclones under Coach Harold Nichols had a fantastic year by winning three individual first places in the NCAA Championships—Dave Martin 158 lbs., Jason Smith 167 lbs., Charles Jean 177 lbs. The Cyclones were also privileged to have one of the most celebrated wrestlers of all time on their squad, Dan Gable who up until his two point loss in the NCAA finals this year, had posted 181 straight victories throughout his wrestling career. Nichols will have a number of wrestlers returning next year from this year's championship squad. Houk only loses one regular performer from this year's squad—Arnold Thompson at 158 lbs. Pa. Conference Champion who finished third in NIAA competition. By the time the Iowa State match rolls around in January, Houk hopes that his young squad will gain enough experience to provide an interesting evening of wrestling for the national champs.

Cindermen Win Third, Ficek, Plumly, Kusma, Set Individual Marks

On Monday, BSC won their third straight dual meet for 1970, beating a strong "star-studded" Kutztown team by the score of 87-58. The meet was one of high quality with BSC setting 4 team records, a KSC stadium record and establishing another freshman best.

The sprint relay team of John Masters, Rickey Eckert, Greg Berger and Jim Davis, established a new 440 yard mark of 43.4 seconds to erase the 43.7 second mark of Derr, Storcheff, Enama and Fegliolino of 1964. Freshman John Ficek broke his own shot put record of 47'1" with an effort of 48'11". Freshman Hank Plumly scored 21'11" for a new BSC frosh record and his personal best ever. Andy Kusma high hurdled to a 15.0 seconds, timing for a brand new BSC frosh and varsity as well as a new Kutztown stadium record.

This was an overall strong performance for the Huskies in almost every event. Outstanding performances were turned in by Larry Strohl who turned in a 2:01 half-mile, Charlie Graham who pushed in a 56.6 timing in the 440 yard intermediate hurdles, and Tim Waechter who ran a sub-ten minute 2 mile coming in at 9:57.4. He was followed closely by Terry Lee who after running the mile and the half-mile turned in a 10:08 for second place in the two-mile.

Needless to say, Coach Puhl was pleased with the team's performance, and is looking forward to the team's next meet which is a tri-meet with last year's conference runner-up, Millersville S.C., and Shippensburg State College. A win over Millersville could lead the way for an 8-0 season for the trackmen, and a good shot for the state title this year.

ing them as the top team in that division. Brenda won the first speaker award in that division.

In the area of extemporaneous speaking, B. S. C. placed three of their students. Anchor man Karl Kramer walked off with first place. Brenda Knelly placed second and Jane Elmes captured fourth place.

Impromptu speaking was again dominated by Karl Kramer who won first place, followed by Jane Elmes in third place and Scott Peterman in fourth.

In the division of original oratory, Mary Ellen Golden took second place being the only Bloomsburg competitor placing in this category.

Competing in oral interpretation were Mary Ellen Cavanaugh, who placed third and Mary Ellen Golden who placed fourth.

Due to the success of the above mentioned, Bloomsburg was awarded enough points to enable them to capture the sweepstakes trophy for the fourth consecutive year. A new sweepstakes trophy, one which will be dedicated to Mr. James J. O'Toole, former

Inaugural Week At BSC

A highlight of the festivities of Inaugural Week at BSC will be a joint concert by Dr. Frank Pullano, Baritone, and Dr. Robert Marvel, pianist-composer, on Friday, April 17, in Haas Auditorium, at 8:15 p.m. Both artists are members of the faculty of State University College, Fredonia, N.Y. Tickets for this event are available to the public at no charge and may be reserved in advance by calling or writing M.J. McHale, Chairman, Artist and Lecture Series, Bloomsburg State College.

Dr. Pullano, Assistant Professor of Music at the State University College at Fredonia, holds a Doctor of Musical Arts degree in Performances and Literature from the University of Illinois School of Music. He has made extensive appearances in opera, concert, recital and oratorio. His operatic repertoire includes over 20 major baritone roles. Mark Educational Records recently released an album of songs and areas sung by Dr. Pullano with John Wustman, national known piano accompanist, at the keyboard.

In addition to his undergraduate studies at the State University College at Fredonia and his graduate studies at Illinois, Dr. Pullano studied operatic literature on a scholarship with the Metropolitan Opera Studio staff under George Schick.

Dr. Marvel, the newest Dean at Fredonia, is responsible for the overall development of all fine and performing arts programs at that college. He previously was Director of Music Education for the Department of Music. He earned both his Master of Arts degree in music theory and his Doctor of Philosophy degree in music composition from the Eastman school of Music of the University of Rochester.

In addition to active participation in committee, state and national music projects, Dr. Marvel also is internationally known as a music composer. His intensive interest in the fine and performing arts has brought him special prominence, honorary distinction, leadership status in a number of professional societies and organizations. Currently, he is chairman of the National Association of Schools of Music, Teacher Education in Music Committee; Examiner of the National Association of Schools of Music; and a member of the Commission on Curricula, National Association of Schools of Music.

He has served on numerous committees of councils and associations at the state and national levels, including the Ford Foundation National Music Council and the M.E.N.C. Contemporary Music Committee; he has held various offices in the latter. In addition to active participation in Adjudication for Erie Philharmonic Pittsburgh Symphony Young Artists Competition, Dr. Marvel also has presented special speeches before groups of music educators throughout the U. S. and has appeared in numerous solo and conducting performances. He has published many articles in papers and leading professional music journals.

er director of forensics and debate coach at B. S. C., was also awarded to the students. This trophy will be a revolving trophy and will be inscribed with the name of the winning college each year.

Also competing for B. S. C. were Tom Seriani in oral interpretation and Ginny Potter in original oratory. The students were accompanied by Mr. Erich Frohman and Mr. Richard Alderfer.

Student presidents of various associations and councils on campus participated in the renaming of the residence halls and Frank S. Davis, Jr., Director of Computer Services commented on the services which can be provided by the new Center.

The invocation and Benediction was delivered by the Rev. Benjamin Jacobson, Minister, Presbyterian Church, Bloomsburg, Pa., and the Madrigal Singers of BSC under the direction of William Decker offered several selections during the luncheon.

Players Ready

"I find medicine's the best of all trades," he says. "If a shoemaker spoils a piece of leather, it's his loss, but we doctors slash away at the stuff we are working on, and we can make a mess of a man without its costing us anything. Whether you do any good or not, you still get your money."

These are the words spoken by Sganarella and, in fact, the essence for the Bloomsburg Players upcoming production, The Doctor In Spite Of Himself, a satire on the medical profession. Mr. William Acierno has taken the original Moliere play and, along with John Hallanuer, adapted it for use on the BSC stage.

Present day physicians with their up-to-date arsenals for healing — their antibiotics and amazing surgical techniques — are still fair game for Moliere's sly digs and this is exactly what happens in this slapstick comedy.

The play begins when, in the course of an argument, a wood-cutter beats his wife, Thirsting for revenge, she figures out a trick (which involves making him pretend he's a doctor) by which she can get him beaten in return by two other men. The role of Sganarella, the wood-cutter, will be played by Jack Martin and the part of Martina, the vindictive wife will be played by Jean LeGates.

Although he keeps trying to deny that he has any medical knowledge, he is compelled to treat a pretty girl named Lucinda (played by Velma Avery) for a pseudo-illness. As it turns out, the girl is actually faking her dumbness, because her father, Geronte (portrayed by Daniel Boone) is forcing her to marry a man she doesn't love. Upon discovering this, Sganarella brings the girl's real sweetheart, Leandre (Scott Atherton) to her and prescribes, "a dose of run-away purgative mixed with two drams of matrimony in pills."

When the father finds out how the phoney physician has tricked him, he threatens to have him hung — a fate not very pleasing to the wood-cutter.

Performance dates for this Moliere comedy are April 23, 24, and 25 at 8:15 p.m. in Haas Auditorium. Tickets go on sale April 16th in the box office in Haas daily (except Sat. and Sun.) from 10-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Prices are as follows: $1.00 for adults, $.50 for students, and a 10 per cent discount for groups of ten or more.

Sincerely,
Michele Mattise

In Regards To Armbands

The M&G has taken to the streets to get the reactions on campus to the proclaimed 'Week of Disappointment' Wear red arm bands, yes or no, and why?

Dave Haas: YES, it's the only way to get the students to show their dissatisfaction. We can't even get enough people to do even that — they just don't care. That's why they lost their president.

Dr. Edwards: No, It's silly. Dudley Mann: It's up to the individual, it isn't an attack against one person, for most people, it's many different things to different people. If I would wear one it would be to protest the judicial procedure at BSC or to show that everything isn't rosy.

Gary Blasser: No, Going through proper channels is a more effective way to get things done. Glo Wilson: Yes, to show disappointment in BSC for not living up to its potential...to show that there are things to be dissatisfied about.

Jean Reese: Yes...if you know why. "Wear an arm band and go home Saturday!"

Mr. Alderfer (Speech Dept.) No, it has no Satisfaction Step to follow it; no clear, positive direction.

Mr. Wettstone: No, I'm not dissatisfied. If I were I'd use other channels (verbal) to show it. Lee Harris: No, the things that are being protested stem from a communication problem...the arm bands mean too many different things to different people. It could have had a better name... something involving communication.

Mike Pillagalli: "I'm really disappointed in student ignorance. Too many people have different interpretations of the real meaning of the arm bands. If people really knew what it was for (Jeff's idea) I feel it would get a lot of support."

Jane Elmes: No, (very disappointedly) It's a symbol of "apathetic concern". It seems too much like, "I'm concerned as long as I don't have to get involved."

Nameless Student: Yes, I'm disappointed in Nossen, Hunsinger, Norton...if I had three years I'd tell you about it.

Bob Casey: Yes, I'm wearing one to get student's reactions so I can write a feature story for the M&G. Say, who are you?

Ed, note: I didn't have the heart to tell him.

Lanford Guest At Inauguration

Oscar E. Lanford, President, State University College at Fredonia, New York, will be the featured speaker at the Inauguration of Dr. Robert J. Nossen as President of Bloomsburg State College on Saturday, April 18, at 2:30 p. m. in Haas Auditorium. Doctor Nossen was formerly Vice President for Academic Affairs at Fredonia.

A native of Louisa County, Virginia, Dr. Lanford was educated in the public schools of that state and received his degrees in chemistry at the Virginia Military Institute and Columbia University.

Dr. Lanford was employed as an industrial chemist in 1934-35. He was a teaching assistant in chemistry for a two-year period prior to serving as an instructor of chemistry for three years at Columbia University. He joined the faculty of the State University College, Albany, New York, as a professor of chemistry and Chairman of the Department in 1940, and after a 12 year period was appointed Dean of the College. In 1961, he was named President of the State University College at Fredonia.

For several years he served as director of a scientific research project sponsored by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, which dealt with the concentration of naturally occurring isotopes, especially Nitrogen 15. He initiated the proposal for the establishment of State University's Atmospheric Sciences Research Center in 1960 and served as the first director of that center.

In addition to being an author of numerous research publications in scientific literature, he is the author of a well-known chemistry textbook published by the McGraw-Hill Company and is the co-author of certain chemistry laboratory manuals.

Dr. Lanford serves as member or chairman of advisory committees for the New York State Board of Regents, and has served as a member of accreditation committees of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The noted educator is a member of the American Chemical Society. The American Association for the Advancement of Science, and several societies and fraternities related to his field. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Western New York Educational Television Association, Inc; a member of the Advisory Board of the Fredonia Office of the Manufacturers and Traders Trust Company, and a member of the Technical Advisory Committee of Chautauqua Opportunities, Inc.

Dr. Lanford is married to the former Caroline Clapp Sherman; they are the parents of five children. He and his family reside in the President's Residence on Central Avenue in Fredonia.
