Ides Of March And Charlie Byrd Highlight 43rd BSC Homecoming

While Dr. John A. Hoch, Vice-President of the Faculties, reads a statement to the class, Deake G. Porter, Associate Professor of Economics continues to teach despite the college statement relieving him of the class room responsibilities.

Porter Stays Despite Order

On Wednesday, October 7, 1970 section one of Economics 211 met at 3:00 p.m. The first hand record of the events of that meeting follow:

2:45—Robert Ross, instructor and Acting Department Chairman arrives to instruct the class and waits in the hall for the previous class to dismiss.

2:50—Ross enters room 207 at the earliest possible moment and begins to prepare for class.

Several of the students gather outside the room. Some are discussing the 1:00 class and stories of "Hell Hoch" and "boos" at the reading of the prepared statement. Some of the students are signing a petition to President Nossen asking him to intervene in the teacher shuffling.

2:55—Mr. Deake Porter, Associate Professor of Economics, enters room 207.

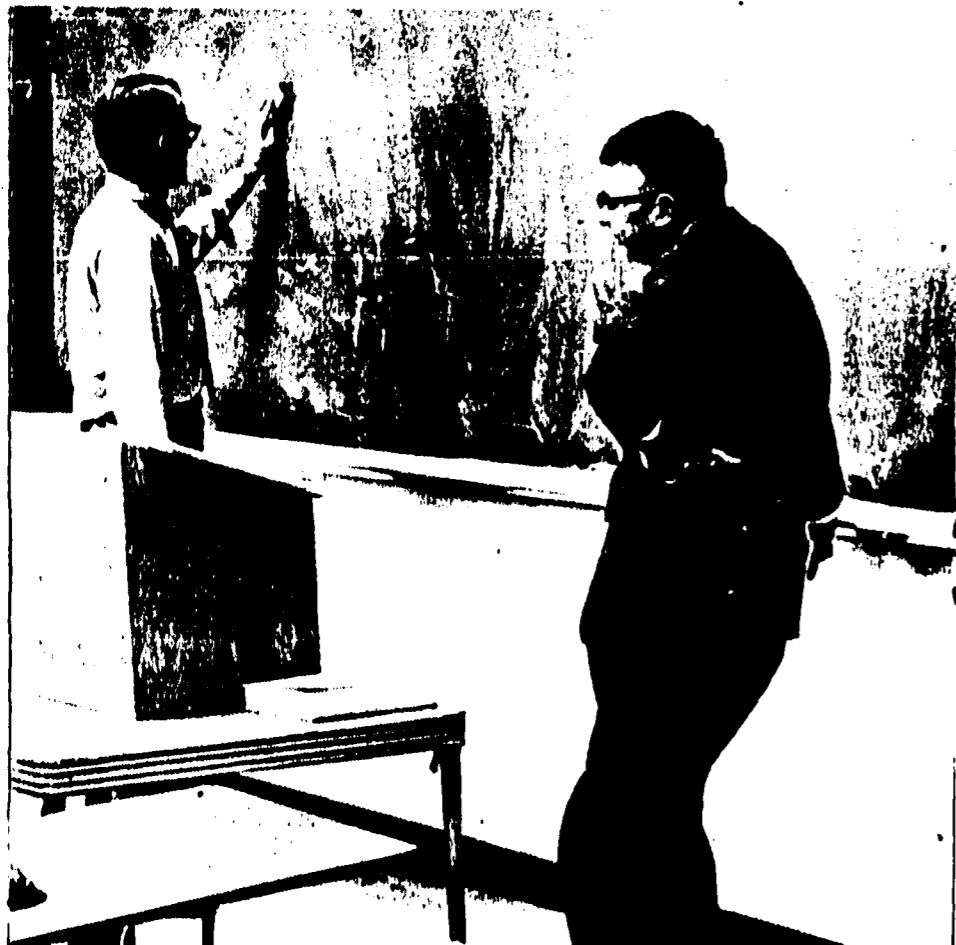

"Hi Bob," says Porter as he too begins to prepare for class.

Ross replies to Porter that he (Ross) was told to teach the class. Porter asks for a written document to verify the order. Ross has none.

2:58—Vice-President and Dean of Faculties, Dr. John A. Hoch enters the room with Associate Vice-President Drake. Hoch tells Ross that he can leave. Dean Hoch stands before the class and reads the official college statement that "Porter has been relieved of his classroom responsibilities pending a final and full review." Deake Porter continues to write notes on the board, ignoring Hoch.

The Dean then added to the official statement:

Activities for the 43rd annual Homecoming Celebration at BSC will get under way with the Big Name Entertainment Committee of the College Community Government Association presenting a two for the price of one concert package. On Thursday, October 15, Charlie Byrd, one of today's outstanding Jazz guitarists, will perform in Centennial Gymnasium at 8:00 p.m. During the intermission of the latter, the Homecoming Queen will be crowned.

Fouremman Appointed

Dr. Ariane Fouremman, a native of Tunisia and a member of the Bloomsburg State College faculty for the past year, has been named Chairman, Department of Foreign Languages, according to Dr. John A. Hoch, Vice President and Dean of the Faculties.

Born of Russian parents, who left Russia at the time of the revolution to become French Citizens in Tunisia, she attended a private college there and received a French Baccalaureate, which is approximately equivalent to two years of college in the United States. Her studies in law school in Tunisia were interrupted by World War II. She became a war bride of an army officer, arriving in the U.S. in 1947, and became an American citizen in 1950. She continued her education at Ohio State University, and was awarded the Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in French.

Dr. Fouremman started her teaching career at Ohio State University as an Assistant Instructor in 1957, and served as an Instructor from 1962 to 1968. During the summers of 1964 and 1965, she taught Russian at Ohio State University and was instructor.

CPS Test Offered

The National Secretaries Association has approved Bloomsburg State College as its' third Pennsylvania center for the annual examination for Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) to be given in May 1971. This will be the first time Bloomsburg has offered this particular test. Prior to the addition of BSC, the only other centers in the state were located in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Willard A. Christian, Associate Professor of Business Education at BSC, has been named testing administrator for the examination which is administered over a two day period. "The appointment of Bloomsburg as a center," Christian stated, "will provide the opportunity for residents of northeastern and northern central Pennsylvania to take the examination. These people may have been discouraged from taking it in the past due to traveling a greater distance to Philadelphia or Pittsburgh."

Upon successful completion of the examination, a secretary is awarded a CPS certificate, which is similar to the Certified Public Account certificate. The CPS certificate holder has a greater opportunity to increase her earnings than that of her former secretarial status.

In order for BSC to offer the examination May, 1971, it will be necessary to have ten or more persons scheduled to take the examination. There are currently over 5,000 holders of CPS certificate in the U.S. which were earned since the examination was first offered in 1951. Last May, 1970, 415 persons throughout the country received the certification.

A refresher course at BSC for persons interested in taking the examination in May, is now under consideration by the Business Division. This course would be offered under the continued education program of evening courses.

KY'S PLEA: "THE CONTINUED ASSISTANCE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND OTHER PEOPLES OF THE WORLD WHO CHERISH PEACE AND FREEDOM."

Peace: Easier Than Believed?

by Mike Prendergast
Member Bloomsburg
Peace Committee

Why is it that Peace conveys a bad feeling in our society? Do people like wars? Like conflicts? Don't people like Peace? Peace is a state of calm and freedom from disturbing thoughts or emotions. So why can't people learn to seek Peace?

Admittably it is not that easy. To seek Peace we must be aware of what is going on around us day by day.

It's a tough life to follow in our advanced and complicated society but it's the only answer to get us through.

We must learn to control ourselves and live together in harmony. We must learn to choose true codes of morality and to practice them accordingly despite what society dictates.

This ability to live a life of peace might have some devastating effects on your life, however. You might end up in jail for resisting the draft. Or you can have your head beat in by a cop. This is when it's tough to continue your beliefs, especially in the world we now live in.

The battle is not being lost though. Peace is spreading throughout the minds of our young and old all over the country.

Perhaps in the future peace might find its way in our world community. When a person believing in peace won't be beat on by a hardhat or called a commie. As it looks now more people are realizing and are more aware of what is going on and are advocating peace for the solution of our present dilemma.

Peace, a state of calm and quiet. It's not that bad, is it? Think about it.

The Hole In The Wall

Jim Sachetti

July, 1970. About 7:00 a.m. on a mid-summer morning. The Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike; somewhere between the Leighton and Allentown Exits.

My two friends and I are heading south and at the moment we're passing a slice of suburban America packed into a Station Wagon: father and mother in the front, three kids in the back, and more luggage than the five of them could ever hope to use jammed in behind. Oh yes, I might add that the side and back windows of their car boast a touching display of patriotism: no less than five genuine, All-American, Reader's Digest, "send in your check or money order", "show your support", American flag decals.

We're pulling up with them now, the father casts a glance over his left shoulder, makes his appraisal, turns back to the road and announces his decision to the family. In the back seat, his teen year old son extends a middle finger in greeting.

HATE

Have you noticed it? The hate. It's always been a part of American life, but lately it's become an acceptable form of patriotism. And since then, it's become almost unbearable.

It's hard to say just when the hatred began; probably the day the nation was born. But it's a bit easier to say when it changed; hatred turned to patriotism last spring. It was born when Nixon said Cambodia. It was nurtured by four deaths in Ohio, two in Mississippi, thousands in South East Asia. And it was educated by "bums" and "hardhats", hawks and doves, the dissenters and the dissented.

In a matter of a few days, the country was engulfed in yet another 'Civil War'; People for Peace versus People for War. And to fight this 'Civil War' these two forces needed weapons, not just conventional weapons like rhetoric and name-calling, they needed something that would strike fear into the hearts and hate into the minds of their foe. Soon, in the best tradition of modern man, the weapons appeared.

The People for Peace adopted the already over-worked 'Peace Symbol'. (Much to my dismay, for I oppose the use of all no-clear weapons.) Soon, through the wonder of modern merchandising, it became the most important part of their arsenal.

Next, the People for War, in a brilliant tactical maneuver, unveiled their hate-maker, the American Flag. It soon became a conspicuous ornament on thousands of cars all over America.

It was the American flag, but its true meaning had been lost. The people driving those cars weren't saying, "There is a certain country I love", instead they were saying, "There are certain people I hate". The flag was no longer a banner of unity, it was a weapon of division. It was no longer for all, only for some.

So the People for Peace had lost the first battle. The symbol of the country they were fighting to save had been stolen. Suddenly, they were less than Americans.

But there is still hope. If you are one of the people who believe that American could do better than spend all its time, energy, and people at perpetual warfare, if you feel offended when 'pseudo-patriots' drive by in their flag-be-decked cars, if you're trying to save your country and you're being treated as if you're trying to ruin it, here's what to do:

Run right out and order no less than a dozen flag decals, stick four or five on your car and pass the rest out to your friends. Let everyone know that the flag is for all Americans. And the next time some guy's little kid gives you the finger, give him yours, and the one next to it, and let them all know that someday American will be united....in peace.

Mail Sex

Within the last year, a ruling has been passed that an addressee who receives mail that he or she considers obscene, or in the words of the Supreme Court, "of exciting sexual nature", may go to their local post office and the postmaster (in the area) will send the material and file a report to the Philadelphia postal service center, where a notice will be forwarded to the sender that the recipient of the literature requests their name be removed from the mailing lists of the sender. If the mailer of such literature continues to send mail of the same nature to the addressee, the recipient may prosecute, which can lead to fine and or imprisonment of the sender.

The judgment of whether the material is of "exciting sexual nature" is left to the recipient. Wouldn't it be interesting to send back that 2 1/2 x 3 1/2 inch piece of cardboard that the government of this country feels it is necessary to send to all males 18 years of age, commonly known as a draft card, and tell them that you find it of an "exciting sexual nature"?

When The War Is Over

Stephen Becker's When The War Is Over is a war novel, but more important it deals with the effect of this war and injustice on the minds of men. To Lieutenant Catto this isn't just a war, but rather life, his life and the interaction of his life on the lives of others. The lieutenant feels for his men, for the lives of the Confederates he killed but never knew, and for the brave, young Rebel who shot him.

What kind of a government was this that could order the execution of a boy who was fighting for a cause that he actually knew nothing about? What kind of men could feel so strongly for the life of a boy - the enemy? What sort of man was this who could curse the horrors and injustices of war and then re-enlist? Just ordinary people - but people who lived and sometimes died for their beliefs, for freedom, for their country, only to discover that ideals aren't always the way they seem.

Although this was the Civil War the ideas and ideals remain relevant.

Dear Editor:

Presumably the purpose of a college is to educate. I would never deny the right of any college administration to do everything possible to maintain high standards in fulfilling this purpose. In fact, I think one of the main responsibilities of the administration is to discharge those professors who do not educate. The administration of BSC, however, seems to be going in the opposite direction.

Carla Burd

Peace is an inner drive which every man desires, consciously or unconsciously. Everyone needs Peace. Whether it is talking to a friend, taking a walk, watching a sunset or just relaxing; a feeling of peace envelopes you. It is this that men have tried to achieve for hundreds of years, not only between his society and himself; but on an international level, among every nation of the world. True, many peace pacts and organizations have been formed to establish peace, as the United Nations but they have failed or have not had the courage to fulfill their goals. But then peace is not an easy path to follow, for peace is not merely an absence of war, it is also the absence of war preparations.

Today, with the world's advanced technology, the establishment of peace may seem improbable and at times impossible. The road to peace is not known now, but it can be discovered if enough of us make it our business to look for it,

If the administration wishes to raise the standards I can suggest quite a few professors who could be weeded out. Why not dismiss the professors who lecture from notes that are older than the students or who only teach exactly what you read in the book the night before? Why not dismiss those who have no time to answer questions or to even bother to ask thoughtful questions? What about those who teach you a whole semester's worth of material but give you no inkling as to how you can put what you've learned to work for you? These are the professors who are "detrimental to the welfare of the college."

Why Mr. Porter? I am not concerned with the bureaucracy of class schedules, but I am concerned with what kind of an education a professor has to offer, and I know from experience that Mr. Porter is one of an extremely few professors up here who has offered me any real wisdom. He taught me to see so many things that I did not see before. I did not agree with him on everything, but he was one of those rare, objective people who gave not only his side, but all sides to a question so that the student could figure out his own answers. To me Mr. Porter is what an education, nay, wisdom, is all about.

I've never had any serious complaints about BSC before, but with this incident I am beginning to believe that something is radically wrong with the standards of many of the people who run it.

Sincerely yours,
Sally Freeman

RAMS BUTT HUSKIES

BloomSBurg State College Varsity football squad lost its first game of the 1970-71 campaign to the Rams of West Chester State College, 42-0, on Saturday afternoon at the winners home field.

West Chester's first score came with 8:04 remaining in the first quarter. The Golden Rams marched 60 yds. in 6 plays, with Alray Johnson sprinting 20 yds. around right end to score. Rich Stevenson kicked the first of his six P.A.T.'s to put the Rams ahead 7-0. Outstanding gains of the drive were made by Alray Johnson with a pass reception of 10 yds. and his 20 yd. TD sprint, Bob Croff and Barry Stout who each had 15 yd. pass receptions,

With 8:23 remaining in the second quarter West Chester scored again, this time it was tight end Pete Young catching a 31 yd. Tom Pierantozzi aerial for the TD capping a 70 yd. drive. Stevenson converted the P.A.T. Score West Chester 14-BSC-0. Barry Stout and Bob Holland caught passes from Tom Pierantozzi for gains of 36 and 31 yds. respectively, highlighting the drive.

The Huskies had possession on their own 44, 4th down and 25 yds. to go for a first down and Dan Stellfox was in punt formation. A high snap from center Steve Harmanos, over the head of Stellfox and a hurried kick which was blocked and recovered by West Chester, gave the Rams the ball on BSC's 3 yd. line. Two plays later Rocky Rees drove over from the 3. P.A.T. was made by Rich Stevenson and the Golden Rams led at half time 21-0.

In the first half West Chester earned 262 total yds. to BloomSBurg's 135. The Rams passing game far surpassed that of the Huskies, 157 to 30 yards.

With 9:33 remaining in the third quarter the Ram's punt rush proved too great for punter Dan Stellfox as he fumbled the snap which was recovered by West Chester on BSC's 38. A two yd. gain by Alray Johnson and a 15 yd. penalty for unsportsmanlike conduct put the ball on Bloom's 21. On the next play from scrimmage Rocky Rees romped 21 yds. to score his second touchdown. Stevenson kicked the P.A.T. and West Chester lead 28-0.

Following a 67 yd. effort on the part of the Huskies to their WC 5 and a goal line stand by the Rams at that point, West Chester took possession. West Chester then marched 95 yds. in 6 plays with Bob Wolfrum diving over from the 1. Stevenson converted the P.A.T. as West Chester led 35-0 with 5:00 min. remaining in the contest. The drive was highlighted with runs of 57 yds. by Wolfrum and a 26 yds. by Alray Johnson.

With only mins. remaining in the game West Chester took over on downs at their own 48 yd. line and proceeded to romp the distance in 8 plays to score. Bob Holland ran 20 yds. to the 1 yd. line but a 5 yd. penalty for off sides put the ball on W.C.'s 6. On the next play from scrimmage Bob Wolfrum ran over left end, breaking 6 tackles in the process to score his second TD and West Chester's 6th. Stevenson converted the extra-point kick and the final score was West Chester State College, 42, BloomSBurg State College-0.

Football Kickoff

Last week was the kickoff for the second season of men's intramural football. The 1970 league consists of sixteen teams from both on and off campus. Two of the favorites for league champs are First Floor Elwell, the defending champs, and North Hall "A."

The rest of the league is filled in by North Hall "B", Fourth East Elwell, Fifth West Elwell, Phi Sigma Epsilon, Fourth West Elwell, Sigma Pi, Seventh Floor Boys, Sixth Floor Phi Sigma Kappa, East Eight Street, Third East Elwell, The Who, and Al's Crusaders.

Roy Emerson has beautiful form on his backhand volley. Everything is good — the footwork, balance, arms and wrist.

Tips on Tennis

Learning to Control the Service Toss

The toss is one of the critical parts of the serve, but for many players it is difficult to master. The difficulty stems from inability to control the action of the tossing arm. They are told to move the arm straight down and up and to extend it as they toss, but inadvertently they move the arm to the left or right or they keep it bent during the upward motion. As a result, the toss is inaccurate and the swing must be adjusted accordingly. They are swinging at the toss rather than tossing at the swing. The latter is the preferred way since it is most likely to lead to a consistent serve. It requires a consistently accurate toss.

In teaching a player to toss accurately, have him look at the tossing hand and follow the ball with his eyes as he tosses. Very likely he has been looking up and away from the ball before releasing it. By watching the ball, he will develop better control of the arm action. If the player continues to have toss problems, ask him to stand a foot from the fence, directly in front of one of the vertical fence posts. He places racket and ball together in front of him at chest height, in the conventional starting position. As he starts the swing, he looks not only at his hand but also at the vertical fence post (he can see it in the periphery of his vision). He uses the post as a guide as he moves his hand (and the ball) down and up for the toss.

Grapplers Begin Season

It won't be long until the acoustics of the Centennial Gymnasium echo with the screams and cheers of a packed house, as the grapplers of BloomSBurg State College begin their 1970-71 wrestling campaign. If the team looks as good in action as they do on paper, then the Husky fans will be in for a real treat. Coach Houk is very optimistic about this year's team; he feels that it is the best team to come along in the last 5 or 6 years. The Huskies will be a veteran team with a host of experienced matmen returning from last year's squad. Coach Houk is relying a great deal on the performance of his returning seniors primarily his co-captains Mike Shaw at 118 and Jim McCue at Hwt. He feels that he has several possible state champs in the person of Russ Schwerea, John Weiss, and Wayne Smyth. These five seniors will compose the nucleus of the Husky team.

Coach Houk also related other key wrestlers who should have an outstanding year based on experience and last year's performance. This group includes Frank Sarinelli, Doug Grady, Floyd Hitchcock, Ron Shelan, and Kevin Hayes. If all of these performers utilize their maximum talents, it could very possibly be the year of the Husky.

The Husky team is also composed of a few freshmen grapplers that sport outstanding high school records. The word is that a few of these young hopefuls are creating a smile on the face of Coach Houk. The coach mentioned that possibly one or two of these freshmen prospects will be wrestling first string for the varsity. Let us not fail to mention the wrestlers who are playing on the gridiron and will begin training following football season. This list includes Robert Hummel (you who were here last year will remember Tiny for his stunning victory against West Chester) and Chip Wheaton, a strong sophomore. The Huskies do not carry a large squad because it is tough and demanding on the individual. It takes a different type of person to be a good wrestler.

Although it is the best team to come along in a few years, the talent of this fine team will be strained to extremes as they play a schedule which is possibly the toughest competition in the history of B.S.C. wrestling. This schedule includes Iowa State, the No. 1 wrestling team in the country for the last two years. That match will be January 8 in Centennial Gym and it could prove to be very interesting. This is the first year that we are pitted against Iowa State and this occurred as a result of a two year contract between the schools with next year's match being played at Iowa State. This match will be an example of scholarship athletics, as Iowa State gives an unlimited number of athletic awards, against non-athletic grants. Coach Houk feels that this is the toughest schedule in his 14 years as head mentor of the Huskies, but the Coach and his squad invite tough competition because it makes winning something special and something that requires 100 per cent effort and a great deal of hard work. Besides playing such outstanding schools as Iowa State, the Huskies will also be pitted in head-to-head competition in a conference that ranks 7th or 8th in the nation. The tough competition in the league will be provided by Clarion, West Chester, Lock Haven, East Stroudsburg, and Slippery Rock, not necessarily in that order. Coach Houk also pointed out that wrestling is the only sport in the conference that can cope with the big schools and hold their ground. This is the status of wrestling at B.S.C.

Last year the Huskies record of 11-5 ranked them as the No. 9 team in the N.A.I.A. competition, and Coach Houk feels that barring any injuries, the Huskies have a great chance of continuing this winning spirit. The coach and his wrestlers are expecting an enthusiastic reception from the students, and they will make every effort to produce a team which will make the student body proud. The squad is looking forward to an interesting season although this always proves to be the case. Finally, I would like to thank Coach Houk for all his valuable information which make this article possible, and wish him the best of luck this season.

BSC Harriers Win 5th In A Row

On Friday afternoon the harriers of BSC ran against the Bald Eagles of Lock Haven State College and the Mounties of Mansfield State College.

The final results showed the Huskies winning both meets by scores of 22 to 33 against Lock Haven, and 15 to 50 against Mansfield.

This marks the first time in history that the BSC cross country team has beaten Lock Haven. The results of last year's meet showed Bloomsburg as the losers by a wide margin, so Friday's meet showed vast improvement for the Husky team.

This makes the harriers record 5-1-0 winning their last five in a row. The scorers in for Bloom were: Tim Waechter first with a new course record time of 26:54. This marks Tim's fifth first place in a row. Second for the Huskies was Terry Lee, who has also been running consistently second in the past five meets in a row. The next man in was Paul Pelletier placing fifth. Taking sixth was freshman Larry Horwite still pushing toward the top spot and taking ninth was Charlie Graham.

Other runners were Rod Dewine 13th, Larry Strohl 15th, Dave Kelter 17th, and Russ Susko 19th

"No credit will be given to any student for attending any class taught by Mr. Porter...Adequate instruction will be provided by competent instructors...Absences will be regarded as illegal."

Dean Hoch then told the class that they and their parents would be contacted by registered mail in the near future with further information.

As the Dean turned to leave, Porter asked him why he didn't have him (Porter) arrested instead of taking it out on the students. The Dean did not acknowledge the question. Porter then asked Hoch why he "stooped so low" as the threaten the students with no credits. No reply came from Hoch.

Dean Hoch left with Vice-President Drake and Acting Chairman Ross. Porter talked to the class about the situation briefly, then began the lesson. No one left the class.

Porter was questioned by the M&G several times, resulting in Porter's insistence that the M&G does not have his permission to print anything he says.

up before the ball is released and then toss it into their field of vision. Some even move the tossing arm backwards and to the right as they turn their body in that direction to start the backswing. Then they toss the ball upward and forward (toward the net) to place it in front of them for the hit. This is both dangerous and more complicated than the straight down-and-up toss and it compounds the problems for inexperienced players.

The best toss is the simplest.

Workmen come back into the daylight after spending time in the underworld of the moleman. Construction of the new Adapted Physical Education Center is expected to be completed by January.

In The Hole

by Karen Keinard

If you are very observant, you may have noticed while walking around the back of Centennial Gymnasium, a hole underneath the building. If you are curious, you may have wondered what is being done down there.

Right now, if you venture below, you will come across mounds of dirt, some machinery, lumber, concrete, and a few dusty workmen — but this is now. Try again next January and you will find that this mass of raw materials will be gone and in its place will be a sparkling new center for Adapted Physical Education. According to Dr. Clarence A. Moore, Chairman of the Health and Physical Education Department the center will serve those students who are not able to participate in a regular physical education program. However, due to the delay in finishing the new gymnasium, this room (21 x 96 ft.) will be used also as a temporary dressing space for football players, since the now available space is inadequate.

Due to unforeseen circumstances, construction has been delayed and a reassessment has to be made of the cost, but the original contract was for $56,550.

Next time you see a hole in the ground, dig a little. You never know what you may find.

War Review

vant to today's society and war as always was inhuman and to a point, downright stupid. Becker manages to portray this stupidity and absurdity through the thoughts of Catto, Phelan (the surgeon), and others while still making the war, the assassination of Lincoln, and the execution of Thomas Martin come alive.
