LETTER TO THE ALUMNI.

To the Alumni of the Edinboro Normal School:

Greeting:—May this little quarterly, as your glance falls upon it from its resting place on your table, cause you to pause for a moment in your busy life and come back in memory to quaint little Edinboro town, with its shady streets leading always to the silvery little lake, then always back to the green, velvety campus, dotted with its halls of learning, where have been laid the foundations upon which the structures of so many lives have been built.

Have you ever been back to Edinboro since that Commencement Day when you were so happy and so confident? That was a glorious day! Have you ever had another one that equaled it? Even though you have had Commencement Days at higher institutions of learning, you have never felt quite so exalted as you did that day when you marched out of Normal Hall with your diploma in your hand, straight up to Kupper's to get your picture taken in cap and gown. Well, you had reason to feel proud. Few young men and young women who have the perseverance to complete a Normal School course fail to amount to something in the world. It seems to have in it that training and discipline which gives them the power to push by all obstacles which are sure to present themselves on the road to achievement.

Under state ownership it is assured that our Alma Mater is going to make great strides in advanced educational methods, and, while we have always been proud to claim our relationship, we are going to have greater reasons for being so. The man at the head is one who is awake to what is in the atmosphere. He believes in making the Normal School a distinctive force in its place among schools. He aims to reach into the out-lying and obscure communities, and lay out through them the route over which the wheels of progress must roll in this onward march.

To whom, then, if not to the Alumni, ought he to look for encouragement and support? It should be our privilege to see that our dormitories are filled to overflowing with young men and young women anxious to equip themselves to do their part in this great uplift movement which is shaking the educational world. Loyalty to Edinboro Normal on the part of our great Alumni body, scattered from border to border of our land, will make her an institution known and felt to an extent, which, nestled here in her sequestered little nook, she has never conceived of. Are you speaking a good word for her wherever you can in turn for what she has done for you?

Why not pause long enough in your scramble for the things of this world to come back for a few days in June, and forgetting cares and vexations, be young again with the Class of 1915? They won't notice your grey hairs and your added avoirdupois. Some members of your class whom you haven't seen, perhaps, for years are sure to be here. They will feel lonely if you are not here too. If you can't come, let us have a word from you at that time, that we may know that you live and love us still.

"And we'll celebrate the praises of our alma mater dear,
All her children join the chorus, let each voice ring loud and clear!

May Old Edinboro's glory grow from changing year to year!
Here's to Old Edinboro, our own—ever our own!"

ELLA SKIFF, Class of '82,
President of Alumni Association, 1915.
