Drugs On Campus

by Vic Keeler

Bloomsburg, Penna., October 9, 1968—A preliminary investigation has revealed positive indications that a Bloomsburg State College student had narcotics in his possession while enrolled as a resident student during the Fall semester. Immediately following the investigation he was suspended from attendance at the college.

George Scheideberg, a junior from Brookhaven, Pennsylvania, returned to campus Thursday afternoon, October 3, 1968 to appear before a meeting of the student-faculty judiciary committee.

The committee has recommended that Scheideberg be dismissed from the college immediately, according to Mr. Elton Hunsinger, Dean of Students, who serves as chairman of the student-faculty judiciary committee.

This action was taken after an investigation conducted by the Pennsylvania State Police revealed that a substance found on Sept. 23, in a soap dish on the stereo in Scheideberg's room, was residue of marijuana. A State Police spokesman has said that the investigation is continuing with possible legal action taking place at a latter date.

This has been the first narcotics case on the campus of Bloomsburg State College.

Lock Haven State College just had a similar incident. On Wednesday, October 2, four co-eds at Lock Haven State College were arrested on drug charges by the State Police.

Homecoming Candidates

Homecoming Queen elections will be held Monday and Tuesday, October 14-15, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. outside Husky Lounge. All students will have to present their college I.D. cards in order to vote.

The Election Board announced this year's candidates. They are as follows:

- Phi Sigma XI—Judy Adonizio
- Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Linda Bell
- Theta Gamma Pi—Bobby Lou Cramer
- ARW—Linda Daugherty
- M & G Band—Beverly Donchez
- MRA—Pat Dougherty
- Sophomore Class—Mary Ann Hartman
- Bloomsburg Players—Susan Housenick
- Delta Pi—Ruth Koons
- Chi Sigma Phi—Sue Magill
- ARA Slater—Lynn McCurdy
- Pi Kappa Epsilon—Marsha Montgomery
- Phi Beta Lambda—Gloria Postupack
- Junior Class—Elizabeth Rajkowski
- Senior Class—Phyllis Repp
- Alpha Phi Omega—Robin Righter
- Sigma Iota Omega—Robin Rothe
- Beta Sigma Delta—Holly Schrum
- Lambda Alpha Mu—Jenny Troutman
- Delta Epsilon Beta—Rebecca Ward
- Nowman Club—Kathy Winterstein
- Lo Circle Franciscans—Barbara Wulfert
- Delta Omega Chi—Linda Zerfass

The entire student body is urged to vote and attend all of the homecoming activities.

Forensic

Dr. Melville Hopkins, chairman of the speech department and director of Forensics announced that the Forensic Society is busily preparing a full schedule of Forensic activities. This year the society will have the following members of the speech department serving as coaches: Mr. Richard Alderfer, coach for Student Speakers Bureau; Mrs. Virginia Doerflinger, coach for Oral Interpretation; Erich Frohman, coach for Debate; and Miss Janice Youse, coach for Individual Speaking Events.

Organizational meetings have been held for each of the four groups. However, Dr. Hopkins emphasized that all students who are interested in any of these Forensic activities should inquire of the respective coaches and make plans to join the group.

Speakers Bureau

In explanation of the various Forensic phases, it was pointed out that those students joining the Speakers Bureau will have the opportunity to speak before civic and community groups in the area. Last year the inauguration of this committee met with enthusiastic approval from civic groups of the Bloomsburg area. The Oral Interpretation group will participate in Oral Interpretation Festivals (Temple University, Penn State University) where they will compete against other college students in reading and interpreting prose and poetry.

Debating Open

Debating is open to experienced and inexperienced debaters. Those without previous experience may join the novice group; after one year's experience, they move into the varsity squad. Debators participate in leading tournaments in Pennsylvania and nearby states. This year college debaters throughout the nation will be debating the proposition—resolved: That executive control of United States foreign policy should be significantly curtailed. Those students interested in Individual Speaking Events will have the opportunity to compete in the following: Oratorical Contests, After-Dinner Speaking, and Political Speaking.

Individual Speaking Tournament

The first participation by the Forensic Society for 1968-69 will be at the University of Maryland. It will be held from October 17-19 and will be an Individual Speaking Tournament. The Participants will pick one of the political candidates and make a speech concerning him.

All of the students interested in any part of the Forensic Society are encouraged to see the respective coaches soon.

ATTENTION!

All Secondary Education majors who intend to complete their student teaching assignment during either FALL or SPRING semester of the next academic year, 1969-70, will meet in Carver Auditorium at 4:00 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 15, 1968. Applications for student teaching will be taken at this meeting. It is extremely important that all Secondary Education Majors be present. Those who fail to do so may find themselves in an embarrassing position with respect to student teaching assignments.

Educational Conference

Dr. Fred S. Cook, Wayne State University, and Dr. James R. Meehan, Hunter State College of the University of New York, in New York, will address the business education teachers at the Twenty-second Annual Conference for Teachers and Administrators to be held at BSC, October 11. Dr. Cook will address the conferees at 9:00 a.m. on the topic "The Senior Intensified Program, a Curriculum Demonstration Project." Dr. Meehan will speak at 12:50 p.m. on the subject "Business Education in the Computer Age." Both assemblies will take place in 205 Sutliff Hall.

Dr. Cook is presently Chairman of the National Research Committee and Faculty Sponsor, Wayne State University Chapter.

Dr. Meehan is currently Dean of Administration at Hunter College of the City University of New York.

Also in conjunction with the Conference will be a book exhibit in Centennial Gymnasium on the same day.

Degree Released

On Monday, October 7, the Office of the Dean of Instruction released the following statement to the M & G.

"The second of two Bloomsburg State College students who were not awarded diplomas during the May 1968 Commencement exercises has been granted his diploma. The student satisfactorily completed certain written assignments made by a special committee of the faculty of which Mr. John Walker, Director of Admissions, was chairman. The committee presented its final recommendations to the President of the College for approval. The Dean of Instruction was authorized to issue the student's diploma two weeks ago."

ED. NOTE: The two students were Lyle Slack and Larry Phillips. The student referred to above is Lyle Slack.

Lecture Series

Dr. Merritt W. Sanders, Chairman of the Department of Psychology at Bloomsburg State College today announced the first of the 1968-69 lectures of the Central Pennsylvania Psychology Lecture Series. Dr. Bryan Campbell of Princeton University will lecture at Susquehanna University. Dr. Campbell's topic will be "The Ontogeny of Memory."

The second lecture of the series will be at Lycoming, October 23. Dr. Phillip Teitelbaum of the University of Pennsylvania will speak in the Science building Lecture Hall on "The Encephalization of Hunger."

Dr. Phillip Bassart, Chairman of the Psychology Department at Susquehanna, is chairman of the committee for the lectures for the current school year. He reports that the lectures and the dates for presentations at Bucknell University and Bloomsburg State College will be announced before the end of October.

Students, all interested professional and lay people are invited to these lectures. Arrangements may be made by calling the chairman of the Psychology Department in any of the four schools.

Players Present

The Bloomsburg Players' will present the Pulitzer Prize winning drama "A Streetcar Named Desire," by Tennessee Williams, on October 24, 25, and 26 in Haas Auditorium. This show will start an excellent season of theatre, open to the students and faculty of BSC at no cost.

Rehearsals under the direction of Mr. Robert Richey, who directed the "Diary Of Anne Frank" last year, have been underway for two weeks. The atmosphere of the show has been caught by the actors and the whole theatre staff, creating the type of total involvement that is the cornerstone of a good show.

Karla Klinoff Bowman heads the cast in the sensitive role of Blanche DuBois, originally played on Broadway by Jessica Tandy. Jean Moulder as her married sister, Stella Kowalski, tries to lead the battered ex-school teacher out of her shell after she comes to live with the Kowalski's. Stanley Kowalski, portrayed by Lynn Roccograndi, crushes Blanche's emotions when he reveals the sordid details of her past to her boyfriend, "Mitch," played by Sam Zachary.

The setting is the backstreet blues section of New Orleans; Stella has come to live with her husband after leaving the old family estate in Mississippi. Mr. Atkinson of "The Sunday Times" wrote in the way of a review shortly after the play opened on Broadway in 1947. "Although Mr. Williams does not write verse or escape into mysticism or grandeur, he is a poet. There is no fancy writing in 'Streetcar'. He is a poet because he is aware of people and life. His perceptions are quick. Out of a few characters he can evoke the sense of life as a wide, endlessly flowing pattern of human needs and aspirations. Although "Streetcar" is specific about its characters and episodes, it is not self-contained. The scenes of present time, set in a New Orleans tenement, have roots in the past, and you know that Mr. Williams' characters are going on for years into some mysterious future that will always be haunted by the wounding things we see on the stage. For he is merely recording a few lacerating weeks torn out of time. He is an incomparably beautiful writer, not because the words are lustrous, but because the dialogue is revealing and sets up overtones. Although he has confined truth to one small and fortuitous example, it seems to have the full dimensions of life on the stage. It almost seems not to have been written but to be happening."

The Players' productions are open to the whole college community and if interested it is never too late to join. Experience is not necessary as is evidenced by this show. Out of a cast of 14 there are 9 members making their debut on the Bloomsburg stage, including Sam Zachary in the leading role as Mitch. Try-outs for all shows are open to students and faculty and this year is one of opportunity if you are interested. If you're only interested in a good night's entertainment then plan to see this first performance of the current season. Tickets will go on sale in Haas Auditorium Box Office on Monday, October 14.

Bloodmobile

Increasing Vietnam casualties and apathy on the part of potential blood donors is leading to a nationwide critical shortage of blood and blood derivatives. The Bloomsburg Chapter of the American Red Cross, through George G. Stradtman, Faculty Co-Ordinator of campus bloodmobiles, is appealing to the students and faculty of BSC to help alleviate the local shortage by giving blood at a Bloodmobile scheduled for the Bloomsburg Elks' Club, Tuesday, October 29, from 10:45 until 4:45 p.m.

Insure Priority I

Not only will our college contributions provide lifesaving blood and derivatives for those who are fighting for us in Vietnam, but our generous blood donations should insure a Priority I Status of the Bloomsburg Area in the Northeast Pennsylvania Blood Program. Such priority is essential for blood and blood derivatives to be available in unlimited quantities, and at no cost to recipients, in the event of local needs.

The Life You Save May Be Your Own

With a student body of approximately 4,000, many of whom commute by automobiles, there is always the possibility of a serious accident involving our own students as casualties. Saving the lives of accident casualties could require massive quantities of life-saving blood. Unlimited quantities of free blood for area accident victims or for area resident (including students and faculty of BSC) who may have medical or surgical needs, can only be guaranteed if we attain and retain a Priority I status in the Red Cross Blood Program.

The College Bloodmobile Committee will sponsor the Annual Campus Bloodmobile on Thursday, March 13, prior to which there will be a concentrated drive to secure enough faculty and student donors to reach a 1000 pint goal for the year. All donations made at the Elk's Club on October 29 will be accredited towards the goal for the college year.

The Bloodmobile Committee this year is headed by Kathy Horst and Cathi Owen as Co-Chairmen. George Stradtman is serving as Faculty Co-Ordinator. The Committee gives assurance that the Red Cross Motor Pool will gladly provide transportation from the College to the Elks' Club and return the students and faculty donors.

Volunteers Needed

Students and faculty are urged to volunteer as blood donors by using the form below, returning it with required information to the Bloodmobile Committee via the College Post Office.

Editorials . . .

Communication Breakdown: Solved

The M & G office was closed one night last week by the security officers. This was due to a lack of communications — the M & G was never notified that it was included in the new policy of closing all Waller Hall offices at midnight.

The M & G, however, could never adhere to these rules because of the deadlines that must be met. Therefore the Dean of Students has now given the M & G permission to stay in the office until all work on the newspaper is completed.

The main goal of the M & G is to promote student and faculty interest in college affairs, and although the above mentioned step may seem like a minor one, it is an example of the progress that can come with cooperative action.

Equality ?

by Alchy

Is the female sex equal? The United States Government possesses the opinion that males and females are equal. This comes from the depths of obscurity deep within the "black box" of a free government. Realistically this is a farce. How can any sex who maintains distinct advantages in relations with the other, profess equality. Women who supposedly are equal, can compete with males for jobs, with no qualifications placed on sex. On that job the woman receives preferential treatment, which includes, having doors opened, being seated at tables, allowed to transit from elevators first, and having a general mystique of femininity which brings the toughest boss to his knees with the shed of a tear. Are women equal? This I can not believe. The female in today's society is not equal; the female is given a superior position. In this situation the community loses sight of its goals and falls prey to sensuality. The absence of immediate objectives causes chaos and leads to the downfall of all establishment. This is probably why living is so interesting, however, for the betterment of our country we must begin to treat females as equals, in all business situations. Chivalry must be made to conform to today, not to the past. Only then can American business return to reality and progress to make this country better.

The M & G is open to suggestions from students (male or female) of fifty words or less.

Hunsinger On School Spirit

by Elton Hunsinger, Dean of Students

As a result of lack of enthusiasm in some school events and poor participation in pep rallies, some students and faculty have been openly critical of school spirit at Bloomsburg State College. I believe the following quotation will be of interest to Bloomsburg students.

"We cannot see or touch school spirit, we hardly know how to define it, and yet it is one of the most powerful forces in any college. It is found in our athletic teams, fighting hard to achieve an important victory. It is present in our stands as we urge our teams on with ringing cheers. It is in our classrooms and lounges as through conscientious work we advance the standing of Bloomsburg. It is in our students, in the halls, about the campus, and within our college community-proud of their college backing its every worthy cause, protecting the college's good name, doing nothing of which it need ever be ashamed. It is the thrill of a well-earned victory, acceptance of honorable defeat. It is the affection that we possess for the reputation of our school. It is determination to put honest effort into our college years and to get honest results from them. It is the courtesy and consideration always shown to our fellow students, faculty, and to the visitors to our college.

"But school spirit involves more than just the students who occupy the college. The entire student body, the school staff, the alumni, and the general public also has a great deal to do with the quality of school spirit. Parents, of course, have a major influence on the attitudes of their offspring. It is particularly relevant that parents study the facts relating to school spirit and answer this question: How well have I done in influencing my son or daughter's attitudes and what patterns have I set for them in developing strong school spirit?"

Letters . . .

Ron Schultz, President, Community Government Association, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. President:

After considerable discussion with you, I have decided to resign my position as a member of the Student-Faculty Judiciary Board. Your argument that the women members of this college should be represented on that Board has convinced me that my resignation would be in the best interests of the student body.

I wish to thank those members of C.G.A. who voted for my appointment and to pledge to each member that I will continue to devote all the time I can to the betterment of the student body.

George Calvert

Dear Editor:

Please let it be known to all those who were connected with, affected by or otherwise unfortunate enough to read my letter in the September 18th issue of the Gaddy that I completely retract and passionately apologize to those men intentionally insulted by my letter.

I would like to thank the Administrative Authorities for their temperance and understanding in spite of my unforgivable behavior.

Please forgive the writing of a letter so reprobatively malicious.

Adam's Apple

by allan maurer

There are two parties active in campus politics, at this writing. One is Surge, Students United to Reform Government and Education, the other is the commuter oriented Student Party (hereafter referred to as STP). Surge is headed by Ron Shultz, current president of the CGA, and STP is headed by Charles Blankenship, current president of the Day Men's Association.

If we were to construct a political spectrum relevant to BSC, Ron and the Surge forces would be radical, and the STP forces would be moderate. Stan Rakowski, President of the Men's Resident Association would be conservative.

Speaking of a spectrum relevant to BSC requires one to consider than on any University, or metropolitan campus, Ron Shultz would be a moderate, Chuck Blankenship and STP would be reactionary, and Stan Rakowski would be establishment. Other factors affecting our spectrum would be the conservative, rural conditioning of the environment on BSC students, and balancing this, the natural change seeking radicalism of youth.

In this year's first two CGA meetings, cooperation has been the byword, the only clash arose over committee appointments, where the Surge forces won two out of three votes.

Both the best and the worst proposals in the first two meetings came from Blankenship. The best, concerning constitutional research, is desperately needed. The current CGA Constitution is chock full of vague terms (their purpose is defined as "promoting student responsibility") and vague powers (they are the "administrative, legislative, and judicial branch of BSC government").

Proper definition of CGA powers may prevent time wasting and un-called for actions such as the Flag Resolution, also proposed by Blankenship, and the least needed effort of the CGA to date.

The Constitutional research motion passed, the Flag Resolution was questioned by Ed Auston, but passed Unanimously.

Beyond Consensus

"A DISSENTER'S GUIDE TO FOREIGN POLICY." Edited by Irving Howe. Publication date: Sept. 20, 1968. Pp. 360. $1.75. (Hardcover will be available in October from Praeger.)

(Handcover will be available in October from Praeger.)

Those who believe there is nothing wrong with American foreign policy need not read "A Dissenter's Guide to Foreign Policy", edited by Irving Howe. This book is only for people who have outgrown consensus, for those who want to understand, who are not afraid of change — who are not past caring.

Each day Americans are saturated with news, but the issues are rarely clearly drawn. The historical background escapes us. Before we can fully appreciate the impact of one event, our attention is usurped by another. "A Dissenter's Guide to Foreign Policy" speaks to this problem by providing a handbook on U.S. foreign policy for concerned Americans. This distinguished collection of essays, assembled by Irving Howe and the editors of Dissent magazine, examines the main themes of our foreign policy, evaluates the results of American intervention abroad, and discusses the future role that America can play in the world.

If the authors of these essays share a common view, it is, perhaps, as expressed by Henry M. Pachter, "that peace is more important than greatness, that an international order is more vital than the interest of any particular nation, and that mankind has more claim on our allegiance than race, tribe, religion, or nationality." This is not to say that their opinions are identical or, except for their democratic socialist orientation, that they are in general agreement. For among the contributors are such individual thinkers as Lewis A. Coser, Michael Harrington, Ronald Steel, Gunnar Myrdal, Walter Lacer, Richard Lowenthal, Robert L. Heilbroner and Dennis H. Wrong.

Writes Michael Harrington: "The democratic Left in its commitment to help in the creation of a new world aims at nothing less than at utterly transcending the options which are now available—or at providing a new choice." But the future is almost upon us. Can America rid itself of the fallacies of its thinking and embark on a daring new course in foreign relations? We ourselves must decide. In the words of Phillip Green: "To surrender to the supposed dictates of history—which are often the dictates of political, economic, or ideological interest—without making a concerted effort to escape them is itself a voluntary choice."

Irving Howe edited "The Radical Papers" (Doubleday hardcover and Anchor) and has also written "Politics and the Novel", "Steady Work" and "A World More Attractive." Mr. Howe is Professor of English at Hunter College, editor of Dissent, and a frequent contributor to the New York Review of Books. He lives in New York City.

Coffeehouse

If you happened to catch that big sign on the bulletin board near the post office in Waller or maybe the ad in the M & G; you may have made the trek down to 4th and Market Streets, the location of the Bye The Way, a coffee house.

You never heard of it? OK, I'll take it from the top. Three years ago, a group of interested students cooked up the idea of a coffee house for "someplace to go." Through the co-operation of Father Lloyd, the Bloomsburg Ministerium, and the Presbyterian Church, the old gymnasium of the church was made available. Seven churches contributed $50 each, and with that cash, Bye The Way was started. Several students stayed in Bloom over the semester break, and by the middle of February '67, the place was ready to go, complete with tables, candles, and exotic teas and coffees in the kitchen.

The fortunes of Bye The Way have gone up and down. In the beginning there was flurry of volunteer guitarists, pianists, and vocalists. We also had poetry readings and some comic monologues. Last year, however, times were hard, and we asked the various frats and sororities for help. Some came through in fine style, supplying entertainment and waiters; predictably, a few fell down on us.

This year, we hope for some good things. Among planned events is a joint activity with the BSC Lit & Film Society—an underground film festival. This is planned for sometime in November. (Watch the M & G for dates.) We also plan an art demonstration and some dramatic readings. As always, singers and musicians are always welcome.

Bye The Way is a non-profit institution, but there are expenses involved. There is a big old butter crock by the door; pay for your goodies when you leave. In fact, if you have any extra pennies or nickels or dimes, drop 'em in. They'll help make up for those guys who are too cheap (or too broke) to pay.

So if you need some place to go on Saturday or Sunday night, put on your walking shoes and head down to Bye The Way at 4th and Market. It's a long way for a cup of coffee, but maybe you'll like the place.

NOTICE

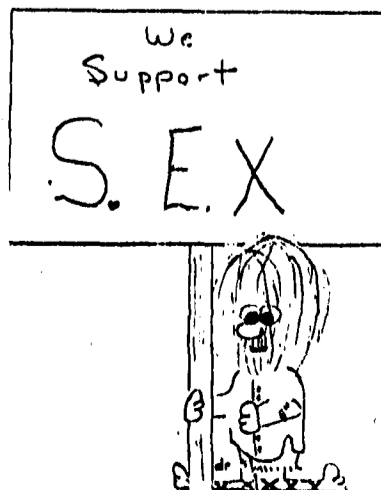

A final sale of 1968 Obiter will begin tomorrow at 11:00 a.m. in the Obiter office, Room 231 Waller.

This is the last chance for students to purchase a 1968 Yearbook. Sales will be on a first come first served basis, and will continue until all our extra books are sold.

Coed of the Week

Coeds of BSC beware. Yes beware! Be on the lookout for M & G's sneaky photographer. He'll be strolling around the campus with one purpose in mind, to take pictures of coeds in their natural environment. Every week, the Editorial Board will choose the M & G Coed of the Week. Her picture, along with a short biography, will appear in each Friday issue of the M & G. Each week, Miss M & G will receive a longstemmed rose from Ralph Dillon's Flowers. At the end of the year, Miss M & G coed of the year will be chosen from previous weekly winners. It is hoped that all coeds will cooperate with our photographer (up to a certain point). Help M & G point out the beauty of our campus.

Terry Lessman Injured

Bloomsburg Huskies Tie Susquehanna Crusaders

Friday night at Athletic Park the Huskies played an inspired Susquehanna Crusader team to a 13-13 deadlock. With Terry Lessman injured the third quarter, the quarterbacking was turned over to Tom Schneider who guided the team to a comeback with two touchdowns in the second half.

The first quarter ended in a scoreless tie as neither team was able to get untracked. The only scoring threat was made on a drive by the Huskies, which started on their own 9 yard line and ended on Susquehanna's 11 when a Terry Lessman pass was intercepted in the end zone by the alert Crusader defense.

The first score came when Susquehanna fielded a BSC punt on their own 48 yard line and marched 52 yards in 12 plays to make the score 7 to 0 with the PAT attempt being good. The drive was highlighted by a 31 yard pass from Crusader quarterback Ed Danner to his halfback Dennis Simmons. From there SU ground out the final 19 yards in 11 plays with halfback Bill Guth taking the ball over from the one for the touchdown.

Shortly before the half the Crusaders started a drive which gave them a first down and goal to go on the BSC three with close to one minute left on the clock. But fullback John Rossi lost the handle on a great defensive effort as they stopped four straight SU line cracks and took over on downs on their own 2 yard line with eight seconds left in the half. Here Husky quarterback Lessman played safe and fell on the ball to end the first half.

In the second half BSC played a more determined brand of ball. After being forced to give up the ball on a drive squelched by penalties, the Huskies managed to put their first scoring drive together. The Huskies marched 66 yards in 7 plays to make the score 7 to 6, after the PAT attempt was ruled wide. A 40 yard pass reception by Mike Kolojchick from Tom Schneider highlighted the drive. The Huskies ate up the final 26 yards in 6 plays with Art Sell bullying over on a roll-out from the 4 yard line.

Early in the fourth period BSC drove from their 35 yard line for their second TD. Once again it was Mike Kolojchick who came up with the big play of the drive. With the ball on his own 45 yard line Tom Schneider dropped back to pass and found Kolojchick in the clear for a 55 yard touchdown pass. Vedral kicked the PAT giving the Huskies a shaky 13-7 lead.

With 8 minutes remaining in the game, BSC regained possession of the ball on their own 40. But fullback John Rossi lost the handle on the ball and Susquehanna recovered on BSC's 47. SU then drove in for the tying touchdown. With the PAT determining the outcome of the game the whole interior of the inspired Husky defensive line broke through to block the placement and keep the game knotted at 13-13. The game ended as Jim Bonnacci, of the Huskies' outstanding defensive secondary, picked off a SU pass and almost went the distance. Jim ran at least 100 yards before finally being downed, but most of these yards were not in the direction of the goal line.

"Nut Squad" Drops First Meet

Last Saturday the Husky harriers ran their first meet of the season. Their opponent, Kutztown State College, came out on the better half of a 26-30 score even though a definite team effort was shown by the Huskies. The meet was held on the most recently updated Husky course located on top of the country club hill. The Husky runners painfully agreed that the course covers nearly every square foot of ground up there! The course was so new that most of the Husky "nut squad" had to carry course maps with them for fear of getting lost and never being heard from again. This procedure was not necessary for the Kutztown squad for they received a well guided tour of the new course. Nevertheless, the Kutztown runners outran the Husky harriers as was evidenced by a

1-2-3 Kutztown finish. The Huskies then showed good depth by placing Tom Henry fourth, Mike Horbal fifth, Charlie Moyer (?) sixth, Jim Carlin seventh, and Mike Engel eighth. Even though Chuck Bowman did not figure in the BSC scoring his efforts were good enough to displace Kutztown's fifth man, who finished eleventh. All the runners on the Husky "nut squad" and their coach wish to extend a big Thank You to the students and faculty who made their way up to the country club to support their team. The squad and coach also deeply appreciate those people who gave of their time to serve as spotters during the contest, which included Mr. Brooks of the Philosophy department. The next meet will be tomorrow against Susquehanna on their course.

You bet your sweet bippie that intramural soccer is cool, if anyone shows up for the match.
