Reyes/Soler

The Reyes/Soler Ballet Espanol De Madrid will appear at Haas Auditorium in the Civic Music Association Concert on February 12. This dynamic young company is less than two years old and has already made tremendous impact on critics and audiences all over the country.

Despite the fact that they are eight in number, the group has a vast amount of audience appeal. Their dance material is from many regions in Spain and include the fiery Flamenco of Andalucia and the charming shepherd dances of the Basque country. The spectacular footwork of the dancers is enhanced even more with their costumes which are all authentic copies of the regional dress of the various provinces of Spain.

In their brief career, the performing troupe has appeared on NBC-TV, at the Rebecca Harkness Foundation Dance Festival in New York, and at the Harper Theatre Dance Festival in Chicago, to mention a few.

Frat Rush Meeting

An open rush meeting will be held on February 12, at 7:00 p.m. for all students interested in rushing a fraternity. Pi Epsilon Chi, Pi Kappa Epsilon, Beta Sigma Delta, Delta Pi, and Sigma Iota Omega will be open for pledging this semester.

All prospective candidates must meet the following qualifications in order to be able to pledge: previous semester average of 2.00 and a 2.00 cumulative average, at least a sophomore standing, no social or disciplinary probation. Registration fee will be one dollar.

The open rush meetings for the individual fraternities will be held on Monday, February 17; Tuesday, February 18; and Thursday, February 20. The Pi Kappa Epsilon meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. on Monday followed by the Pi Epsilon Chi meeting at 9:00 p.m., the same evening. On Tuesday, Delta Pi and Beta Sigma Delta will have their meeting at 7:00 and 9:00, respectively. Sigma Iota Omega will have their meeting on Thursday, February 20, at 7:00 p.m. The rooms in which the meetings will take place will be announced at the open rush meeting on February 12th.

After these meetings are completed, each fraternity will submit invitations to the Director of Student Activities by 5:00 p.m. on February 21st. The rushees will receive the invitations the next day. Pledging will take place during the following week.

Dean Tours

Miss Ellamae Jackson, Dean of Women at Bloomsburg State College, is currently on sabbatical leave for the second semester of the 1968-69 year. During her absence, Miss Mary Tolan, Assistant Dean of Women, will be Acting Dean of Women.

Miss Jackson will spend some time in New Hampshire and will be joined by her sister, Mrs. A. L. Demaree, for a trip across the country.

After a stay in Los Angeles they will then tour Hawaii, spending a month in Honolulu. On returning to the continental United States, they will have an extended visit in San Francisco including a circle tour in that area. They may also go to Vancouver and Victoria and travel across Canada on their return to Hanover, New Hampshire. In her travels, Miss Jackson hopes to visit as many campuses as possible.

CGA elections are scheduled for next month, March 17-18. Preliminary procedures will begin on February 19, when petitions will be available in Mr. Mulka's office. These petitions must be returned by 5:00 p.m. on Friday, February 28.

On March 5, CGA candidates will be afforded the chance to voice their ideas and platforms at the nomination speeches. These will be held at 8:00 p.m. in Haas Auditorium.

The Primary Election will be held on March 10 and 11, to be followed by the final elections on March 17 and 18.

Dr. Andruss Addresses Kiwanis Club

In speaking at the fifty third anniversary celebration of Kiwanis International at the Hazleton Kiwanis Club's luncheon meeting, Dr. Harvey A. Andruss based the title of his talk "Living In An Age of Dissent" on observations made during his recent world tours.

Dr. Andruss compared the Suez and Panama Canals with the idea that there is dissent on every side of us. He further pointed out that, in many instances, dissent is magnified or enlarged upon by radio, television, newspapers, and magazines.

In comparing the two Canals, he stated that the Suez Canal is run for a profit and is owned by stockholders. He pointed out that Nasser has been trying to obtain complete control of the Suez Canal in order to derive the profits. However, as a result of the recent Israeli wars, the Suez Canal has been closed and may never open again. The Panama Canal, on the other hand, is operated by a non-profit organization with the tolls received used for the operation of the government.

Present indications are that the Panama Canal will not likely be closed. Dr. Andruss pointed out that the Panama Canal is similar to a service organization and has a feeling of service to many different nationalities just as service clubs aim their endeavors in many different directions.

A Kiwanian for nearly thirty years, Dr. Andruss concluded by

John Herrmann Reads at BSC

John Herrmann, fiction writer, poet, editor, will present a reading of his works (published and in the process of being written) on February 18, at 8:30 p.m. in Carver Auditorium. The program is being sponsored by the English Department and is open to the public.

Mr. Herrmann is the author of A Fluttering in the Wall, a book of poems scheduled for publication in 1969 from South and West Press; All the Way to the Tigers, a novel published in part in Nexus, The Suicide Room, a play produced in San Francisco where it was also published, and founder of Chrysalis, a literary magazine he co-edited with Saul Bellow, Howard Nemerov, Walter Van Tilburg Clark, W. D. Snodgrass and others. His short stories, poems and essays have appeared regularly in the leading literary journals in the U.S. and in Europe and most recently in Northwest Review, Western American Literature, Western Review, Mont Parnasse Review (Paris), Voices International, etc.

Herrmann is poetry editor for Conradiana, University of Maryland based journal, and served as contributing editor on the staff of Western American Literature, Colorado State University; he was a member of the executive council for the Western Literature Association who publish the WAL journal.

A native of San Francisco, he is a graduate of San Francisco State College, where he received the BA and MA degrees. He attended the Stanford University writers' workshop, then went to the University of Iowa writers' workshop where he took the M.F.A. degree after serving as a teaching fellow. He has taught at Iowa, San Francisco State and at the University of Montana where he directed the program in creative writing, staffing the program with well known writer-teachers (Leslie Fiedler, Richard Hugo, William Stafford, Walter V. T. Clark...). Herrmann is currently teaching fiction and poetry writing and contemporary literature at the State University of New York, College at Oswego. He has lectured and read at many universities and colleges and taught at several summer workshops, among them: University of Oregon, Oregon State University, Colorado State University, Reed College, San Francisco State and in Montana, Illinois, Kentucky and in New York. He received a Yaddo fellowship for summer 1968 to finish a novel started the year before on a fire lookout tower in Montana.

pointing out that the Kiwanis Club must be a truly international organization as we are now living in one world where service must go beyond the boundaries of one country.

BSC To Be Accredited

The official accreditation teams will visit the Bloomsburg State College campus on March 10-12, 1969, according to Dr. John A. Hoch, Dean of Instruction. The Middle States Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges visitation team will be present to reaffirm the accreditation for the undergraduate program in teacher education and to place initial accreditation on the graduate program in teacher education.

A responsible accreditation system necessarily includes periodic reassessment for the right of each accredited institution to remain on the approved list. In the Middle States Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, the normal interval between such reviews is ten years, unless a change in the nature of the institution, question as to its continued educational effectiveness, or any other serious reason moves the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education to re-examine it earlier. The same ten year period of review holds true with the National Commission for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

The last visit of these two teams to Bloomsburg State College was in 1960. Since the graduate program at the College was not established until 1961, initial accreditation is now necessary in the teacher education area of that division. In addition to the visitation of these formal accreditation teams, the Department of Public Instruction will name two representatives to work in conjunction with the visitation.

The chairman of the Middle States visitation team is Dr. Oscar E. Lansford, President, State University College, Fredonia, New York.

The National Commission for Accreditation of Teacher Education team is chaired by Dr. D. Justin McCarthy, President, Framington State College, Framington, Massachusetts.

Great Magician Commedia dell'arte

The final cast for the Bloomsburg Players production of The Great Magician has been selected according to Mr. William Acierno, director.

The characters of this modern conception of a commedia dell'arte production are all stock characters of the Italian Renaissance era. Most of these characters appeared in almost all of the plays presented by the commedia troupes. They include such lively personalities as Pantalone, a moneylender and an avaricious, guillible, "poverty-stricken" old man. This role will be portrayed by Bruce Hopkins, graduate assistant to the theatre staff and president of the Players. Mr. Hopkins is known on the BSC stage for such performances as Mr. Dussel in The Diary of Anne Frank, Kreton in Visit to a Small Planet, and several others.

Don Helwig has been cast in the role of Doctor Gratiano, a scholar and jurist who tries to be up-to-date in spite of his antiquity. This is Mr. Helwig's first major acting role, although he has appeared previously in the BSC musicals 110 In the Shade, Trouble in Tahiti and Devil and Daniel Webster.

The role of Pulcinella, a nervous, gross-witted, clumsy buffoon, will be portrayed by James Berkheiser. Mr. Berkheiser is a sophomore who has appeared in two plays this season, A Streetcar Named Desire and Henry IV.

Capitano Cockalorum, a Spanish adventurer, braggart, and great coward, and the leader of the commedia troupe, is the servant of the great magician. Harry Berkheiser, a Junior theatre major, will appear in this role.

The magician's forces also include the clever, witty, and vivacious Covello, servant to the Capitano, and probably one of the most lively characters in the play. Jack Martin will be making his acting debut in this role. George Sonan is also making his theatre debut as Zanni, a lively, good natured acrobat.

The coquette Franceschina is portrayed by Vickie Edwards. Miss Edwards will be remembered, particu-

Winter Weekend

Mr. John Mulka, Director of Student Activities, has announced dates and activities for Winter Weekend.

The special week will begin on Thursday, February 13, with a Pep Rally and dance in the Husky Lounge.

On Friday, February 14, the Husky wrestling team will meet their arch rivals, the Eagles of Lock Haven, in Centennial Gym. A record dance will follow the match.

On Saturday evening, Beta Sigma Delta and Delta Omega Chi will present D. Kool and the Kasuals.

Sunday, February 16, Briar Heights Lodge will host BSC for a day of tobogganing and snowmobiles, if there is snow. If not, games will be held inside the lodge. Refreshments will be served and movies are tentatively planned throughout the day.

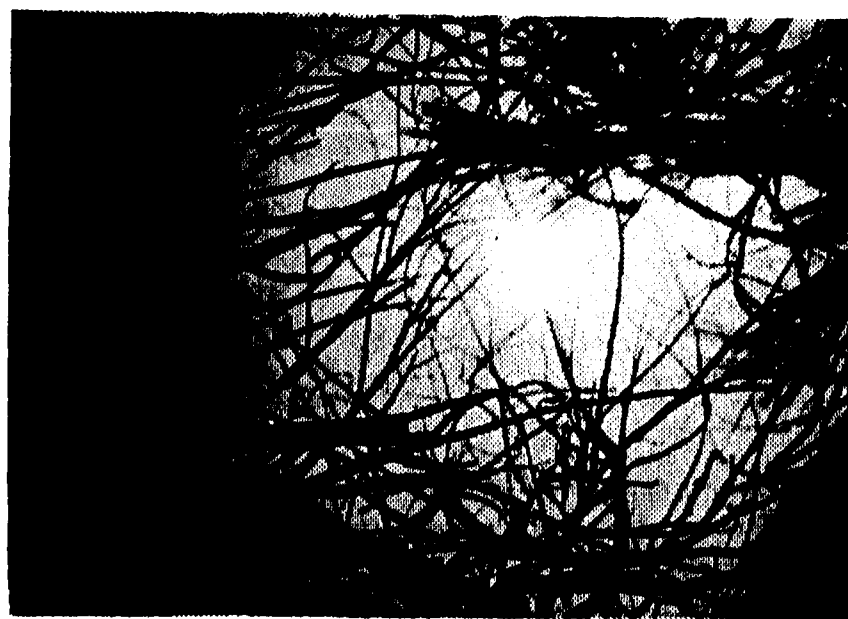

larly by the younger members of the audience, for her portrayal of Mary Poppins in the Players' Children's Theatre production of that play.

The other young lovers of the play will be portrayed by Pam Van Epps as Melbi, Donna Stanton as Clori, Richard Harshaw as Sireno, and Alexander Horvath as Elplno.

Rounding out this motley cast of characters is the god of wine, Bacchus, who is a god like you've never seen before. The gluttonous antics of this comic character will be portrayed by Robert Casey of Stillwater. Mr. Casey was seen previously this year in Henry IV, in which he portrayed the archbishop.

Finally, the great magician himself, who gets his kicks from turning people into donkeys and frogs, and from generally causing chaos and confusion, will be played by Dennis Frymayer, who will be making his acting debut in this role.

The Great Magician will be presented on February 20, 21, and 22, 8:15 p.m. in Haas Auditorium. Tickets will be available February 12th.

Letters . . .

Dear Editor:

Yesterday I picked up a copy of the Gladfly II to find out if it was as poor as the Gladfly I. It had indeed turned out to be as bad. I find it to be the most despicable piece of trash ever published on a college campus. It uses the lowest form of journalism ever employed by an imbecilic "editor."

As for finding out who the editor is, I prefer not to. After all, it (not he) might turn out to be a future "educator" of our children. Besides, he is probably worse than all the people he writes about. (Maybe he finds a fault in others to cover up for his own shortcomings and boost his ego?)

In a speech in New Haven, Conn., President Kingman Brewster of Yale stated that a university (or college) must never let itself be "captured" by any group that refuses to be guided by the "dictates of a conscientious intellect" or by the "disciple of reason." At the same time, he emphasized that a university "must protect and encourage the skeptic while it exposes and discourages the cynic."

Analyzing the mood of the contemporary college student, President Brewster said that "the important new element is not your awareness of and disgust with the horrors of the world; it is rather your deepening sense of the difficulty of doing anything about it." This "sense" is so disturbing, President Brewster says, because of the "concentration of established power which weighs so heavily against any effort to challenge things as they are."

As a remedy to this situation, Brewster suggests that "during this time when needs for fundamental change find so little response, the universities should remain a convincing oasis for revolutionary reappraisal." That last word is very important—"reappraisal." Be revolutionary while appraising, check out every idea, look for the "need for change" everywhere.

Then one must take notice of another word—"reason". To achieve respect for one's conclusions, to effect change itself, one must respect reason rather than emotion or force as the arbiter of one's "revolutionary reappraisals."

Straight From Stan

by Stan Rakowsky

I don't know whether or not any of you people have ever thought of it, but did you know that there are 79 steps to be climbed from floor #1 in Elwell to floor #8? That's 1108 steps in an average day times 50 men per floor which gives a grand total of about 55,300 extra, unnecessary, and foolish, steps a day by members of the sixth floor alone.

Since I am a resident of this floor, I can verify this everytime our elevators are "out of order." (This is not in any way meant to lessen the burden which is shared by those floors above and below us, rather this is the area in which I am directly involved.)

And for what reason? Well, there's always the janitors who twice a week insist on holding up at least one elevator for several hours in the morning during linen change while they do whatever they do. Well, OK, in the end we benefit, and usually there's another 'vator.

Or then because of the fine architectural planning of the building, which allowed for one elevator for each 336 men and their guests and visitors. Well, anyone in his right mind would realize that anything used this much is going to be overtaxed and in the end cause a breakdown of the facilities. Reason number two for the shutdown.

And reason #3 is this: shutdown of the elevators because the licenses were removed from the display boxes.

The nitwit who insists in this practice of removing licenses can only be one of two things, a member of one of the lower floors (and therefore he doesn't have to worry about walking those extra floors daily), or, if a member of one of the upper floors, a deranged person who revels in suffering.

Consequently the elevators are shut down "until the licenses are placed back in position." What does it boil down to? Well, the licenses aren't put back in position and so the elevators are put out of commission. The most recent of these elevator shutoffs happened this past Sunday and operation was not resumed until late Tuesday.

Now I can see the logic behind moves such as these . . . to an extent. I can see the reasoning behind the closing of a dirty lounge. Here the filth comes from more than one person, therefore more than one person suffers. But this elevator incident apparently is the work of one very unbalanced, sadistic, individual, and our sympathies go out to him for having to get his "kicks" in this manner.

But what recourse is taken against this one apparent person? Punitive measures are taken against everyone! If there's logic to this, then it had better be explained to the men who must do this walking. The greatest majority (apparently 671 out of a possible 672 at least) is forced to suffer because of the actions of this one. (And if we look at it more closely, logic would dictate that the person is not even affected by the shut-down.)

What benefits have been gained by this shutdown? Alright, one day proves that the removal of the licenses is certainly not condoned. This is fine. But after one day it seems hellish to pursue this course.

No matter how long this building stands or how many elevators are put in, we're always going to have people around who delight in this perverted hobby of theirs. Then why don't we take some stronger preventive action to stave off future happenings of this kind? Why can't the licenses be kept in the office as is done in some other institutions or duplicate copies be kept where problems like this occur?

Something should and must be done. But to pursue this idea of punishing the majority for the actions of the minority is certainly that kind of action that fosters good relationships in the BSC community, when it is that goal of mutual co-operation to which all of us should be working. Speaking as a student and also officially as President of the ARM for the men of BSC affected by this, I would hope that in the future a more compatible decision, beneficial to the greatest numbers, can be worked out.

BSC History

Literary Institute

Literary Institute—1856

The growth of the Bloomsburg Academy was such that in 1856, the Reverend D. J. Waller, Sr. prepared a charter, and a corporation was legally formed to sell stock, and to open and manage an academy known as the Bloomsburg Literary Institute. Its purpose was to promote education in both the ordinary and higher branches of English Literature and science and in the ancient and modern languages.

First Trustees

The first trustees listed under the articles of incorporation were the Reverend D. J. Waller, Sr., William Robinson, Leonard Rupert, William Snyder, Elisha C. Barton, William Goodrich, Joseph Sharpless, John K. Gratz, and I.W. Hartman.

William Lowrey, Daniel A. Beckly, and Henry Rinker managed the institute for some time after the charter was granted. Again, the degree of success varied. At one point, classes were transferred to the Episcopal Church building and, later, were suspended for a time. The original church building was a frame building, and was ultimately moved to the southwest corner of Main and Second Streets.

Expansion

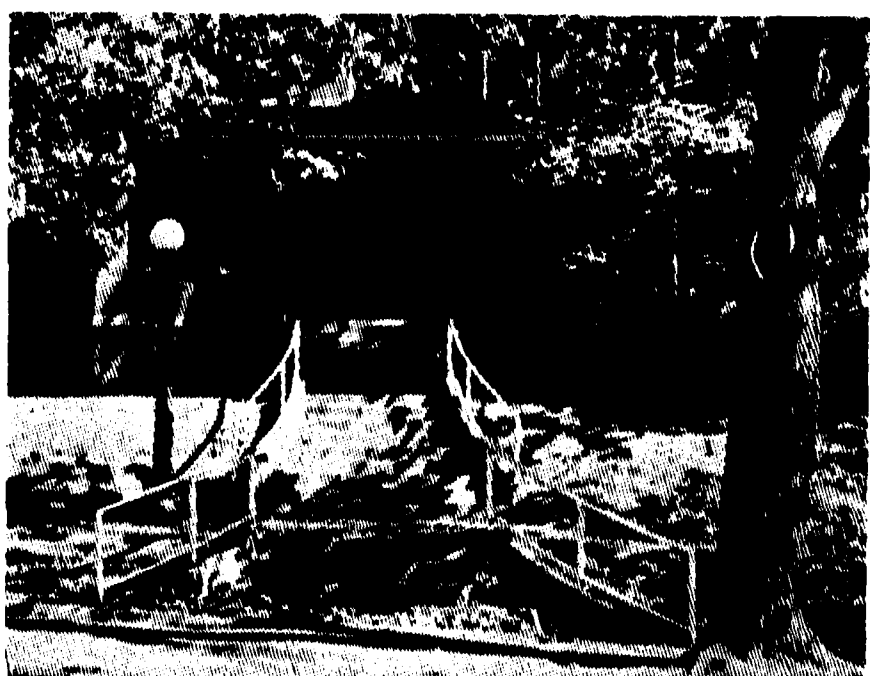

The institute struggled along through the critical years of the Civil War, but the end of the conflict was accompanied by expansion and increased enrollments.

The first available record of a meeting of the Trustees is that of May 2, 1866. In subsequent action, the Charter of 1856 was revived, a search was initiated for an educator of established reputation to head the institute, and the sale of one thousand shares of stock at $20 per share was authorized. The report for the month of June showed that 596 shares had been sold for a total of $11,920. This is rather remarkable since the corporation was chartered on a non-profit basis and any hope of the return of the capital investment was literally non-existent.

Henry Carver

Meanwhile, Henry Carver, a native of Binghamton, New York, was visiting Bloomsburg on a pleasure trip. He was introduced to the Rev. D. J. Waller and others and was persuaded to remain and reopen the old Academy. At a meeting of the Trustees on June 26, 1866, a motion was adopted directing the Secretary of the Board "to inform Professor Henry Carver of Binghamton, New York, officially of his election as principal of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute."

WAYNE HEIM DISPLAYS 11-0 FORM

Matmen 10-1 Following 22-8 Win Over Undefeated Yellow Jackets

B.S.C.'s matmen, 10-1, traveled to Waynesburg Saturday night and upended the previously undefeated Yellow Jackets, now 8-1, 22-8.

The victory revenged last year's loss to the Yellow Jackets — the only time Waynesburg has beaten the Huskies in 10 meetings.

The outcome of the match was gratifying, but also very costly to the Huskies. In an exhibition match, 115 lb. Keith Taylor suffered a knee injury while defeating the Yellow Jackets' Dick Braymer. By mutual consent the 115 lb. and 191 lb. weights did not count in the final score.

Wayne Heim scored an early takedown to take command and win his 123 lb. bout. Wayne decisively Barry Gashel 10-2.

Waynesburg knotted the team score at 3-3 with a win in the 130 lb. weight class. The Yellow Jacket's Bob Flint racked up 4 takedowns and 3 near falls to decision Wayne Smythe 21-3.

BSC regained the lead when Ron Russo defeated Dick Pollack 11-4. Pollack is considered the top wrestler on the Waynesburg squad, but Ron was in top form and was successful on four takedown maneuvers for the win.

Waynesburg's Joe Tindal has wrestled four times against BSC and, following his 1-1 draw with Rich Lepley, all of those matches have ended with a tie. Both wrestlers scored an escape for the only points in the match. Lepley almost had a takedown, but was lucky that Tindal did not reverse him on the maneuver.

The only pin in the match came in the 152 lb. match when Arnold Thompson pinned his opponent after leading 16-8. Thompson was going for the pin all the way and his aggressiveness paid off.

In his second varsity start Milt Andrews from Bloomsburg, Pa. raised his record to 2-0 with a 2-1 decision over John Sweder. Milt scored one point by penalty and another on riding time. Sweder scored his point when Ron Russo accidentally stepped on the mat—drawing a penalty point for Waynesburg.

Jim Wallace led 3-2 with only 33 seconds remaining in the 167 lb. match, but the Yellow Jacket's Gusic scored a takedown to win 4-3.

At 177 lbs. John Stutzman and Waynesburg's D'Allesandra both scored one point on escapes. However, John won the match with two points riding time.

Waynesburg's Joe Righetti who was the Cleveland Brown's sixth round draft choice (fullback), and who holds a school record of 24 pins found BSC's Jim McCue too much to handle in the heavyweight match. Each scored an escape, but Jim won on riding time, 2-1.

Basketball

In their 89-82 win over East Stroudsburg, the Husky courtmen displayed a brand of ball that they haven't shown for a long time. Palmer Toto especially typified the game that the Huskies must play to have a winning season. Although he had only 9 points, he passed for 12 assists—many of those came when Palmer had a chance to shoot, but he crossed up the Warriors defense by passing to the open man.

Game Plan Pays Off

In the early going the team was getting burned on the outside shooting of the Warriors, but instead of changing their defense or panicking they showed a lot of maturity by staying with their game plan and waiting for the Warriors to hit a cold spell in their shooting. When Soph. Steve Richter finally hit a cold spell the game plan of the Huskies paid off by holding Steve Guter to only 16 points—far below his season's average.

The loss to West Chester really put a dent in the Huskies hopes for post-season playoffs. The team played a great game and everything went as planned, but they failed to hit from the foul line and it cost them the game.

BSC had to win the remainder of their games in order to have a chance at the post-seasons. A win over the high-flying Rams would have given the team an excellent chance at accomplishing this.

Most Improved

The improvement of Mark Yanek has been a big factor in the team's 7-7 record this year. Mark has to be the most improved player in the Huskies lineup. Last year he had trouble taking shots and when he did get off a shot it was generally forced. This year his shooting eye has really improved and so has his ability to find the good shot. He has also taken some of the rebounding pressure off of the overworked Jim Dulaney.

Wrestling

What can you say about the wrestlers? BSC's top athletic squad just keeps rolling along—defeating top ranked teams has become a weekly feature of the matmen.

In their first test this year the team came through with a tough victory over Oswego, New York.

Then the team bombed an undefeated (and Pa. Conference leader) Clarion squad 30-7. Before the Clarion match the two teams were ranked fourth in the East.

On February 1 the team tripped out to Waynesburg and destroyed

The Husky Sports Scope

by Bob Schultz

the previously undefeated Yellow Jackets 22-8.

The team's only loss came at the hands of Southern Illinois Univ. A win over Southern Illinois would put the Huskies in consideration as a big-time national wrestling power.

Top Wrestlers

All of the grapplers have great records, but two, Ron Russo and Wayne Heim, have been unbeatable. Wayne is zipping through the season with an 11-0 record. This makes him the best wrestler in the PC. Early in the season Wayne's leadership ability was recognized when Coach Houk named him co-captain of the team.

Ron has the second-best record on the team and his 10 wins are second only to Heim's 11 in the PC. The only blemish on his record is a surprising 1-1 draw with Clarion's Don Knisely, Knisely, a transfer from Maryland, was wrestling up a weight against Russo.

East Stroud

Before this issue hits the stands, the Huskies will face a tough Stroud squad on Stroud's mats. Although it is questionable whether the Warriors have as strong an aggregation as they had last year, they do have some outstanding grapplers.

Ted Pease (115 and 123), Tom Best (130 and 137), Don Rossi (145 and 152), Bob Devore (160) and Rich Schumacher (hwt.) make Stroud a team not to be taken lightly. Rossi was runnerup to Joe Gerst (PC) last year and Schumacher was PC champion and fifth in the nation in N.C.A.A. competition, university division.

Stroud's three losses have all been to national wrestling powers—Oregon State, University of Iowa, and Lock Haven State. Although in the latter the score was quite decisive, 29-6, several matches were decided by one point.

BSC's record is 10-1 over East Stroud during Houk's tenure.

Around The League

West Chester came very close to sinking the Wolves of Hal Blitman in the confrontation of the two top PC basketball teams. The Rams had cut the score to 68-65 with 51 seconds to play, but in their haste to get the ball they committed numerous fouls and finished the game on the short end of a 72-67 score. The Rams collapsed around Hal Booker and kept the '67 Little All-American scoreless in the second half.

As the Huskies found out last Wednesday, the return of Jack Morley to the Stroud lineup has given the Warriors new life. Morley scored 19 points against the Huskies. In the game before that, Morley poured in over 30 points against Wilkes College. He also tallied 25 points when West Chester edged the Warriors.

Warrior Soph. Steve Richter is going to be quite a ball player if he can hit like he did against the Huskies. He poured in 27 points and at times could not miss the bucket.

If the Warriors ever learn to pass the ball they are going to mess up someone's record during the last half of play.

Football Footnotes

Edinboro now has two McDonalds in their coaching ranks. Bill McDonald moved from the Indiana campus to the Edinboro head football coaching position. Bill was previously the offensive coach at Indiana. Edinboro was the only one of three teams that needed a football coach. Lock Haven is still looking for someone to replace the venerable Hubert Jack who announced his retirement at the beginning of the year. Mansfield also has a position open after the surprising retirement of Rod Kelchner. Kelchner was one of the most personable coaches in the league.

Bloomsburg In Spain

The third annual summer study program, Bloomsburg in Spain, will be conducted at the University of Spain, for a nine week period from June 28, 1969, until September 4, 1969. This summer study program sponsored by the Foreign Language Department of BSC, is open to any undergraduate or graduate student enrolled at any college or university in the United States.

The major objective of the Bloomsburg in Spain program is to provide the future Spanish teacher, as well as the experienced classroom teacher of Spanish, a better knowledge of the people of Spain and their culture, ideas, and customs. In addition, the student will gain a greater command of the Spanish language, since Spanish will be used throughout the summer study program.

All accommodations will be for a single private room and bath on the campus of the University of Madrid. The academic program for the undergraduate students will be for four weeks of study; for the graduate students there will be six weeks of study. Students will see many points of interest in Spain and will have the opportunity to observe some famous culture areas. In addition, an optional one week trip, is planned for the northern part of Spain which is not included in the regular program; at least 20 participants will be needed in order that this particular trip may be organized.

forced immediately. This also applies to students who borrow authorized meal tickets or sell them to other students. Personnel hired as checkers by A.R.A., who permit students to eat in the Commons without proper identification, will be subject to dismissal from their job and also to report to college officials.

New Meal Policy

Due to the many complaints received by College Administrators as well as by A.R.A. personnel, Slaters will strictly enforce the presenting, before each meal, of an ID card with the new semester meal ticket attached. Students who have paid for tickets and are authorized to eat in the Commons have complained about the number of students eating in the Commons without approval. Students have been reprimanded many times in the past by A.R.A. personnel but no action has ever been taken. In the future any offenders will be referred to the proper authorities for disciplinary action. This policy will be en-
