New Off-Campus Housing Proposal

JEFF BACHMAN Feature Editor

A proposal that would require all landlords of "private dormitories" to have permits, was informally presented at the Oct. 10, meeting of the Bloomsburg Town Council.

According to Councilman Dr. Stephen Beck, professor of mathematics at BU and author of the proposal, a private dormitory is any residence housing four or more unrelated people.

Beck believes that such an ordinance is needed in order to insure that rented residences are maintained in accordance with the current building codes. He also believes that such an ordinance would protect both landlords and students.

Beck's proposal would require landlords to meet certain conditions before obtaining permits:

1. A residence would have to meet all current building codes, in particular, a residence could house no more people than specified by the building codes.
2. The applicant must designate a

Bloomsburg resident as "property supervisor". According to Beck the supervisor could be the landlord. The purpose of the condition is to have someone in the immediate area the authorities can contact if trouble arises.

3. The landlord would be required to pay a fee on the basis of how many tenants he has.

The last condition has raised the opposition of Dr. Donald Camplese, a psychology professor at BU and owner of the Sesame St. apartments. "It's discriminatory against the students and it's discriminatory against me," said Camplese.

At present the proposal is only in the planning stages. It must first be drafted into an ordinance by the town council's Community Development Committee of which Beck is the chairman. The committee's draft will then be presented at a public hearing where citizens can voice their opinions.

Camplese believes the fee to be discriminatory against students because landlords will raise rent in order to pay it. He believes that it is discriminatory against himself and other landlords because he feels that it places them in the position of a tax collector.

Beck believes that even if the fee is passed along to the students it will be insignificant in relation to the other fees students pay for housing.

After the hearing the proposed ordinance is sent back to committee for revision. After revision the proposed ordinance will be brought before the council for the vote.

Brian Stoltzfus, Karen Sampson, Tim Talarico, John Heyette, and Tom Jackson: all "College Republicans" are preparing for William Kreisher's campaign, who is running for District Attorney of Columbia County.

'College Republicans' Need Help

LYNNE SASSANI
News Editor

"College Republicans" a group which campaigns and represents Republicans locally and nationally, is seeking new members.

This political group is open to anyone, not just Republicans. They meet 7 p.m. every Tuesday in Kehr Union's Green Room on the third floor.

"Our goal is to make government as efficient as possible," explains Tim Talarico, chairman of "College Republicans." Political information is given to "College Republicans" by the national and state committee. The group is informed by Betty Broda, Republican County Chairman, as to which candidate is best to represent. Broda gives the group important information about the candidates.

The outcome of the elections will effect the university — because the more politically involved students become, the stronger BU's voice will be.

If students become politically affiliated, then politicians will make BU a larger part of their campaigns.

Open Forum Today

All BU students and faculty are invited to attend the Open Forum 3 p.m., today, October 21 in the Presidents' Lounge, KUB. While there will not be a specific presentation, the president and vice presidents will entertain any questions or discussion regarding BU goals and objectives for the 1983-84 school year. Questions on other topics will be welcome.

By now, everyone has probably heard that the Board of Governors has made it possible to get a refund of the $2.00 CAS fee we all paid along with our Community Activities fee. A lot of you are saying to your friends, "I can use the 2 bucks! Besides, why SHOULDN'T I go for my refund?"

Well, I'll tell you why! If it weren't for the Commonwealth Association of Students, each of us would be paying an EXTRA $150 per year to go to school here. CAS lobbied against that tuition hike last year, and WON! In order to do that, they actually had to take the Commonwealth of PA to court.

You may say, "is that all?" The answer is an undeniable "No". CAS fought long and hard against the Solomon Amendment, which links financial aid to registration for the draft.

In addition to the major issues in which CAS becomes involved, they are active throughout the year with voter registration drives and non-partisan events. For example, on Tuesday, October 25, CAS is sponsoring a Candidates Night where students will have the chance to meet the candidates for Town Council and District Attorney. Students need to know which candidates will support a big issue! and CAS gives them that chance!

All CAS members (i.e. ANYONE who has paid the $2 fee) are eligible to go to Harrisburg on one of CAS' lobbying trips to express their views directly to our legislatures. CAS is not some obscure group who claims this and promises that. It's US-the students right here at BU and at the other state universities.

If CAS is so good, why is the Board of Governors so anxious to refund everyone's money? Because CAS is so good. By eliminating CAS funds, they would be eliminating CAS. Without a group as strong as CAS (which is one of the strongest in the country!), they would be able to raise tuition, cut funds, and make any number of rules and regulations which affect Pennsylvania students.

So let's fight to save CAS!! It's up to US--and no one else--to support the student organization that supports the students. Show the Board of Governors that you want CAS to exist by NOT requesting the refund!!!

'Dallas' vs. 'Dynasty'

Dear Editor,

This letter is in regard to the article on "Dynasty" (Voice - Oct. 14). The "Dynasty" article read, "Dynasty" has a history of devious and ingenious plots that have attracted enough viewers to pass "Dallas" in prime time showing." WRONG! The writer of the article obviously has not been following the weekly Nielson Ratings. "Dynasty" has only beaten

"Dallas" in the ratings several times, and only during the re-run season. For the first two weeks of this fall's new television season, "Dallas" has rated number two in the ratings. "Dynasty" has only rated third. As for plots, the ratings reflects viewers choice. "Dallas" is number one in prime time soaps, and always will be!

A devoted "Dallas" fan

Teeny Tiny Walkman

The size and weight of Sony's new Walkman will amaze you. Weighing only 6.4 ounces, the new WM-10 is much smaller and lighter than its predecessors, and will surely be a popular gift request this Christmas.

Not only is the tape player itself reduced in size and weight, but also the earphones are smaller. They allow you to hear what is happening around you, which is a definite safety factor when using the Walkman in traffic. This is possible because the earphone fits inside the ear instead of over it.

The new WM-10 sells for around $99.

Drinking Down

College students drink less now than they did two years ago.

A survey conducted last spring by the University of Florida shows that women drink more than male students. Ninety percent of female students drink, as opposed to 88.4 percent of male students.

Student Senate Allocates Funds

The Student Senate approved the allocation of $258 to Luzerne Hall at their meeting Monday night. The money will cover the cost of buying 75 T-shirts to be used as prizes for the Kilometer run for Vernon Rochester on Oct. 22. It will be held on the upper-campus girls cross country course.

In other matters the Senate allocated $3,000 to the Bloomsburg Players to use in their production, $250 to A.S.P.A. for their trip to Atlantic City on Nov. 4, $325 to send one student from the American Marketing Association to attend the Eastern Regional Conference in Conn. The Mass Communications Club was given $375 to attend the College Career conference on Nov. 12 in New York, and $20 was awarded to A.C.E.I. to send five students to their conference at Kutztown University.

CGA President Chris Hardinger strongly encouraged CGA and all students to support CAS by not requesting a refund of their $2 CAS fee. He stressed that CAS is an important student organization and therefore students must support it.

Student Senate approved the night shuttle bus service which will cost about $350 and a cold weather shuttle bus costing about $150. Student Life will provide the funds for a student driver during the 1983-84 academic year.

The evening shuttle will run Mon. thru Thurs. at 9:05, 9:40, 10:15 and 10:50 and transport off campus students from the library to their homes.

The cold weather shuttle bus will run on Mon., Wed., and Fri., at 7:30 and 8:30 a.m., and on Tues. and Thurs. at 7:30 and 9 a.m. The stops will be 7th and East Streets, Time Market at Leonard and Main Streets, The Stop and Go store at 7th and Market Streets, and Bob's Billiard at West and Main Streets.

New Financial Aid Form Introduced

JOSEPH ALLISON
Staff Reporter

For all students seeking funds for college, the Financial Aid Office is the source most looked towards in regard to available revenue. The only barrier between the student and these funds are varied information seeking applications which determine one's eligibility in respect to the individual's need. In light of these facts, the government has intervened once again by implementing yet another form.

The statement of Educational Purpose - Registration Compliance Form became effective, July 1, 1983 by a decision on the Solomon Amendment which was handed down by Congress. The form asks for certification of a student's registration with the Selective Service Board and provides ample reasons if otherwise ranging from being female to occupying residency on the Trust Territory of the Pacific and Northern Mariana Islands. Regardless of whether or not an individual has registered with Selective Service, all students seeking financial aid must fill out this form.

According to Tom Lyons, financial aid director, "The form applies to all types of financial assistance from grants to student employment on campus." He continued, "Students seeking aid have been very cooperative and consider the form as another piece of red tape."

"I'm very discouraged with the government's thrust of financial aid," said Lyons. "At present, the government is putting more funds into loan programs, but neither the student nor the government is benefitting."

Lyons states that grants are more effective, because the student's tuition is paid, thus increasing the student's opportunity at landing a better job.

Mathematics Scholars

Bloomsburg University freshmen math majors Jeffrey Darrow and Denise Grimes are among the more than 50 nominees in Pennsylvania who are recipients of $1500 Scholars in Education Awards (SEA), a new program designed to help meet the need in Pennsylvania for qualified mathematics teachers authorized by the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA).

The program was instituted this past summer and Bloomsburg's nominations were made through Professional Studies Dean Howard Macauley and his committee. Its purpose is to encourage the state's most able students to make a commitment to teach mathematics or science in the secondary schools of the Commonwealth.

Criteria required for nomination included: 1000 or above combined verbal and mathematics score on the Scholastic Aptitude Test or an English test score of 22 and a mathematic test score of 27 on the American Colleges Test; ranked in the top one-fifth of their high school graduation class; and maintained at least a 3.0 average on a 4.0 scale in their high school mathematics or science courses.

Darrow is the son of Norma and Carol Darrow of RD 1, Hallstead. He is a 1983 graduate of Blue Ridge High School where he participated in cross country and track. He was also a member of the Scholastic bowl team and a member of the

Today, the toughest thing about going to college is finding the money to pay for it.

But Army ROTC can help—two ways!

First, you can apply for an Army ROTC scholarship. It covers tuition, books, and supplies, and pays you up to $1,000 each school year it's in effect.

But even if you're not a scholarship recipient, ROTC can still help with financial assistance—up to $1,000 a year for your last two years in the program.

The Obiter: Yesterday and Today

R.W. FROMM
Voice Contributor

With the appearance of the 1983 Obiter this fall, we pursued its pages of slick color photos, the myriad of black and white ones, the solid documentation of the many extra-curricular organizations and activities including some of what goes on in town. We also noticed the nuts and bolts, matter-of-fact approach to the celebration of the passing of the seniors, most of whom had just spent four years at the then Bloomsburg State College.

Also coming to the University Archives recently was a copy of the 1916 Obiter, whose eight by ten inch size is the immediate contrast one notes between it and the nine by twelve 1983 edition. There are some similarities in coverage, but the interest lies in differences; the most glaring is the treatment of the graduating seniors. The earlier Obiter had a very personal approach as witnessed by the photos' accompanying narratives that referred to personal characteristics, traits, and interests as well as including subtle and not so subtle romantic innuendoes. And a separate section lists each seniors' favorite activity, expression, and person or place as well as his-her ambition and claim to fame. It should be pointed out that there were less than one hundred seniors.

After noting her hometown, course of study, and extra-curricular activities among other things, the Obiter says of Mamie Higgins: She occasionally gets a letter from Penn and Bucknell, it is hard to tell from whom, as she only blushes when asked about them. She is strong for "Womans' Rights" and debates well on the subject. Mamie is jolly and fat, the reason for this is easily discovered if one lives near her or passes her door after 10 p.m. The Obiter says of Max Novack: Maxwell...loves the ladies, and many a Monday afternoon he wanders over hill and dale with some fair damsel by his side, on the so-called "hikes." And Grace M. Brazill: Her motto is "better late than never" for she is generally seen madly rushing for the dining room for breakfast about fourteen and one-half minutes after seven. Grace has a staid look but when you know her deeper nature you are deceived by her looks. She is always ready for a good time (even during study hours). And so it went.

The language people use reflects the times. Generally, the favorite expressions of 1916 seniors manifest an innocence associated with the time before the jazz and flapper 20's. Witness the following:

"By heck," "Oh, dear" "Gee Whiz," "My heavens," "Get off the hall," "You monkey," "Oh my stars," "Gee he's cute," "My sakes," "Fiddle cats," "Oh, go

Steve Landesberg entertained a diverse audience Monday night in a crowded Haas Auditorium. His one-man comedy show lasted about 90 minutes, but there wasn't a dull moment. His personality of Arthur Dietrich from "Barney Miller" carried over into his performance, for his show mainly consisted of ethnic humor. Near the end of the show, he allowed the audience to ask questions and make requests for impersonations. A question was shouted from the audience, "What do you do for a living?" Landesberg exclaimed, "Find guys for your sister!"

New Theatre Professor Plans To Put Bloomsburg On The Map

JACKIE TURZER
Staff Reporter

Who goes from Williamsport, to Utah, to Idaho, to Los Angeles, to Boston, to Maine, and then back to Pennsylvania? Superman? A carrier pigeon? No! William O'Donnell, a new Theatre Department Professor.

During graduate school he worked as the Assistant Lighting Designer for the Utah Shakespearean Festival. Why Utah? O'Donnell explained that he sent his resume all over and "went freelancing into car parking. O'Donnell commented that he "ran out of money", and had to leave after two months.

When he arrived back east, he found success with the Goldovski Opera Company of Boston. This famed organization was led by Boris Goldovski, who performed the intermission feature, "Live from the Met."

This job was a one person operation in which O'Donnell designed lights, supervised all the technical aspects of lighting and there that he faced his greatest challenge.

Professional Theatre was new to Waterville, and organization was less than adequate. O'Donnell assembled his own crew, managed the company and became the Assistant Producer. It was a big step, since he was hired only as a lighting designer.

Some of the shows he worked on at Waterville were "Mame", "Annie Get Your Gun", and "Fiddler on the Roof".

In mid-August of 1982 O'Donnell received a call from Lycoming College. Their technical director cut himself with a skill saw, and was unable to work. O'Donnell received a one year contract, teaching two theatre courses and managing the Arena Theatre.

At BU, O'Donnell is the manager of Haas Auditorium, Technical Director and teaches two theatre courses, Theatre Production and Introduction to Theatre.

O'Donnell feels that Bloomsburg has the potential to "go places." He and the rest of the theatre staff are going to "put Bloomsburg on the map in the theatre world."

"We already have a five-year plan worked out. Bloomsburg has definite potential, especially in the area of Children's Theatre."

O'Donnell also feels that the town can benefit from the recognition. "People could come from all over and with the right exposure, Bloomsburg can become the theatre place in Central Pennsylvania."

This semester, O'Donnell will be overseeing three productions: "Dark of the Moon", "Step on a Crack" and "Shadowbox". An additional student production, entitled "The Dutchman," will also be performed.

WILLIAM O'DONNELL

where the opportunities were—out West."

After receiving his Masters degree, O'Donnell toured for a year with the American Festival Ballet of Moscow, Idaho. There he worked as a Lighting Designer, Scene Designer and Master Electrician for various shows, such as "The Nutcracker" and "Salute to Sousa".

O'Donnell's next move was in the direction of freelancing. In 1980, he sought employment in Los Angeles. However, his timing was not right. The Actor's Strike turned his hired local crews. Sometimes he had to seek the aid of the orchestra for setting up and tearing down the scenery, when the tech crew was late or unavailable. "I even worked with crews that had never seen the show and had no idea how it ran."

Boston provided O'Donnell with many other experiences. He toured with the Boston Ballet, the Opera Company of Boston, and the American Repertory Theatre, just to name a few.

In 1982 he spent the summer in Miane, working for the Waterville Summer Music Theatre. It was

Bloomsburg will be seeking their 17th straight winning season. The Huskies will be led again by head coach Charles Chronister (216-104), the PSAC and Eastern Basketball Magazine's Division II Coach of the Year, who has not had a losing season in his 12 years at Bloomsburg. TROY SELLERS
Special to The Voice

"A good, down-home kind of guy. The kind of person I'd like to have for a son." That's how Bloomsburg University head coach George Landis describes his talented freshman running back, Jeff Flickner.

Flickner (5-11, 190), from Warren, PA, has stepped in at both fullback and tailback for Bloomsburg and has established himself as one of the most talented newcomers in the Pennsylvania Conference. Flickner has become the workhorse of the Huskies' offense and ran for 94 yards in a 10-6 win over Mansfield and 103 yards in a 25-24 triumph over West Chester in Bloomsburg's last two outings.

What makes the young performer such a good running back? Landis said, "There are a couple of things that make Jeff a good back. First, he has good speed and strength, and he runs north and south; he's not a dancer. He also has very good vision."

Warren Area High School football coach John Shea attributes Flickner's talent to his speed, plus "an intense desire to play football and be good at it."

Shea tried to bring him along slowly, and in the middle of his sophomore year, Jeff got the starting nod at tailback. That move turned out to be a wise one as Warren went undefeated the rest of that year and 8-2 the following two campaigns.

In that period, the speedster set numerous school rushing records including: career yardage (3537), career carries (550) career touchdowns (35). Flickner also set single season marks in yards (1707), carries (208), touchdowns (16), and longest run from scrimmage (99) yards.

Flickner was selected as a Big 33 All-Star in the spring of 1982 and said of his experience, "It was different. I never expected to be nominated, and I felt really honored to be there."

He came to Bloomsburg with the hope of playing right away, but due to his good size and the fact that standout Vernon Rochester was returning at tailback, he was forced to move to fullback. However, with a recent injury to Rochester, Flickner has been playing both positions. Flickner said "I have never played fullback before but I was just glad to be playing. I thought I adjusted well." Landis echoed that thought. "We knew right away that with his size we wanted him to play fullback, and that he and Vernon would be a good combination. Jeff made the switch very successfully."

Flickner sees competition the main difference between high school and college football. He said, "Everyone who is here was a star in high school, so it's a lot more competitive."

While Flickner has made that transition with little difficulty, Landis sees only a couple things keeping him from being a super Division II runningback right away. The second year coach said, "I think Jeff needs to keep getting stronger, continue to block better, and continue to be a better receiver." Flickner has shown that he can be a big play receiver by recording a 21.8 yard receiving average in his senior year at Warren.

As for Flickner the teammate he said, "I think we have the talent to go a long way. It's just a matter of putting it all together; and Flickner the person, Coach Shea may have said it best, "Jeff Flickner is a super football player and a super human being."

Susquehanna Blitzes Huskies

ERNE LONG

Mike Lietzel carried 10 times for 60 yards and three touchdowns on Monday as he helped Susquehanna University JV football team to defeat Bloomsburg 46-6.

Two drives, each leading to scores, consumed the first quarter. U drove 47 yards in 12 plays which culminated in a 37 yard field goal by Steve Walter on their first possession.

The Huskies, severely handicapped by lack of depth due mainly to injuries, bounced back to score on their first time with the ball. A 76 yard drive which took 14 plays, ended with tailback-defensive back Tom Tiefenthaler (2 carries for 74 yards) going over from the three. Chris Mingrone's extra point attempt was blocked.

Another well executed drive by U resulted in a 25 yard field goal by Walter, making it 6-6 with five minutes remaining in the half.

The entire second half belonged to Susquehanna as it scored on runs of 4, 32, 3, and 70 yards on all four of its possessions.

Bloomsburg did have the running game working but could not compliment it with the pass as quarterback Gerry Romanko was just introduced to the position after laying linebacker all year. Head coach George Landis decided not to risk injury to too many people due to the Varsity teams lack of depth in certain areas.

The coaches did get a good look at many people including Freshman running back Tom Vines who went 76 yards in 14 carries. Tiefenthaler had 70 yards in kick returns in addition to his 74 yards at tailback. Top performers on the defense included Mike St. Clair (defensive back) with nine tackles, Brian Scriven (defensive back) with six tackles and a sack, and Jim Strack (tackle) with ten tackles. ## Homecoming Game Preview

BU Hosts Unpredictable Rams

History books always have to be updated but until recently BU's football record pages have been turning yellow with age. That could all change this Saturday when coach George Landis' 3-0 Huskies (3-3 overall), host the Wolves of Cheyney in Bloomsburg's 56th annual Homecoming contest.

The Huskies are currently tied for the lead in the Pennsylvania Conference's Eastern Division with East Stroudsburg. A win would not only help the Huskies keep pace with the Warriors, but would mark the first time ever that BU has won its first four conference games. It would also be the first Homecoming win since 1979.

In order to keep their three game win streak alive, the Huskies will have to deal with an unpredictable Cheyney squad. The Wolves enter the contest with just a 1-5 record but as East Stroudsburg and Mansfield found out earlier in the year, they can be a nuisance. Cheyney started their 1983 campaign with an 8-7 win over West Virginia St., when they converted a two point conversion with just 17 seconds left in the game. But from there it has been nothing but losses. After a 17-0 loss to Norfolk St. in their second game, the Wolves entered conference play where despite their decent efforts they came up empty against West Chester 21-7, Mansfield 15-14, and East Stroudsburg 27-19. Last week, the Wolves were overpowered by the Kutztown offense 28-7.

Quarterback Clark Perry heads the Cheyney attack which has been plagued by inconsistency. Perry has completed just 44 percent of his passes but has racked up nearly 800 yards, along with four touchdowns and 13 interceptions.

His top receivers include tightend Herman Arce (6-1, 225), who has 20 receptions and running back Geroge Bethea (6-0, 202), who has hauled in 17 passes. Bethea also heads the Wolves rushing attack with 141 yards on 37 carries.

Coming off a tough three game stretch, the Huskies may be due for a letdown, however with Landis there to keep his young players perspective in line, it seems unlikely. During their streak, BU has seen its running game be reincarnated thanks in large part to freshman fullback Jeff Flickner who has chalked up consecutive games of 94, 106, and 178 yards. Although the Husky offense seems to be molding itself around Flickner, there is another face in the backfield as Millersville discovered. John Kelley added 56 yards on just 12 carries in addition to BU's go ahead touchdown in last weekend's matchup.

Notes: This will be the 24th meeting in the annual series, with the Huskies holding a 14-8-1 edge. In last season's contest, Cheyney claimed a 24-20 win. The last Bloomsburg win was in 1980 when the Huskies survived a driving rainstorm to win 5-3. BU's last Homecoming win occurred in the 1979 match with Wilkes 27-3.

Feinhauer Sets Record

Runners Drop Season Finale

By MIKE ALBRIGHT
Staff Reporter

The Bloomsburg men's cross country team lost its final two meets of the season last Saturday as they fell to Shippensburg 20-43 and East Stroudsburg 26-29.

Dean Feinhauer won his third consecutive race with a record time of 27:38 over the Huskies' new 5.2 mile course. Shippensburg's John Ambrosio finished second, seven seconds behind Feinhauer.

John Homan (12th, 29:17), Mike Greene (16th, 30:00), Brett Sarge (17th, 30:13), and Darryl Atherholt (18th, 30:18) rounded out Blooms-burg's top five positions.

The Huskies, who finished the season at 2-8, now begin to prepare for the PSAC Championships tomorrow. Only the top seven runners on the team get to compete as the team looks to improve over last years performance.

Becker won her match, winning a tie-breaker in the first set 7-3. Her score was 7-6, 6-2. Becker's overall record is a very healthy 8-2.

She is an elementary education major with a minor in math. Throughout her career at Bloomsburg, Landis has compiled a 35-9 record. She continued her dominance by winning 6-1, 6-1 last Friday.

The doubles teams did not fare so well as the singles with Bloomsburg only winning one of the three matches. The win was at the number two doubles slot. Becker-Gillespie won in three sets 6-1, 5-7, 6-4.

The number one doubles team of Landis-Masch was knocked from the undefeated list when they went down in three sets 6-3, 5-7, 7-6, (7-0). They lost the third and final set in a
