Candidates Night

Candidates Speak Out On Student Issues

JEFF BACHMAN
Feature Editor

Candidates for Bloomsburg Town Council and Columbia County District Attorney met last Wednesday night in Multi Purpose Room A of the Kehr Union to discuss student-related election issues.

Some 60 students, faculty, and townspeople attended the meeting which was sponsored by the Commonwealth Association of Students (CAS) and APSCUF's Committee for Political Action.

Town council members present were, Dr. Steven Beck and George Hemingway, republican incumbents. Challengers present were Darrel Bressler, republican and Florence Thompson, democrat challenger. Also attending was William Kreisher, republican candidate for district attorney. Not present were, Democratic Councilman William Harney, and Elwood Harding, democratic candidate for district attorney.

The candidates were asked to give their views on three issues affecting BU students.

The first issue discussed by the candidates for council was town-university relations.

Beck, Bressler, and Thompson all agreed that, for the most part, relations are good. Hemingway, however, disagreed. "Most students view townspeople as their adversaries," said Hemingway. He suggested that meetings with various student leaders be used for improving relations.

Bressler suggested that joint town-university programs, specifically one on drug and alcohol awareness, would help facilitate better relations.

Usage of university resources to enrich the town was the second issue discussed by the council candidates. Beck mentioned that although townspeople use the physical and cultural resources of the university, few take advantage of the academic opportunities.

Thompson suggested that a committee of university and town's people be formed to examine the issue and generate ideas. "A committee could set a realistic goal and time limit and go to it," she said.

Bressler said the university could enlarge specific programs, such as the tutoring service at the elementary and high schools. Hemingway had no specific suggestions but did mention CGA's contribution to the Bloomsburg Fire Dept. to help pay for a new fire engine.

The last discussion centered on student housing in town. Thompson said that she disagreed with plans aimed at concentrating high density housing on Lightstreet Rd. and reducing parking places for multiple dwellings. Hemingway said that the most important aspect of the housing issue was strict enforcement of building codes. "I think it is extremely important to give students added protection," he said.

If elected, Bressler said he would support any developer planning to build student housing "100 percent." Beck discussed his current proposal in council to license landlords. "Right now there seems to be sympathy for a permit system," Beck said.

Candidate for district attorney, William Kreisher, was also asked to voice his opinions on three issues concerning students.

Kreisher first discussed his position on remanding students convicted of drunk driving to Accelerated Rehabilitative Disposition (ARD). Placement in ARD results in dismissal of criminal charges and lessening of penalties.

Kreisher said that a student whose blood alcohol content is .15 or less at the time of his arrest, is in good standing with the university, and is a first offender, would be recommended for ARD.

Cases involving assaults on women was the second issue discussed by Kreisher. "The D.A. should pursue such cases with sensitivity, thoroughness, and aggressiveness," said Kreisher, "but I don't believe that assaults on women should be handled any differently than those on men.

The last issue discussed by Kreisher was his views and criteria for prosecuting students arrested on criminal charges. "The law dictates that I treat everyone the same," he said, "and I'm duty bound to do so." He did, however, reiterate his earlier position to recommend a student for ARD if the student was in good standing with the university and had no previous criminal record.

Town and county elections will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 8. Tammy Clewell, coordinator for CAS which co-sponsored Candidates Night urges all students to register and vote. "Votes are one of the few things that politicians listen to," Clewell said.

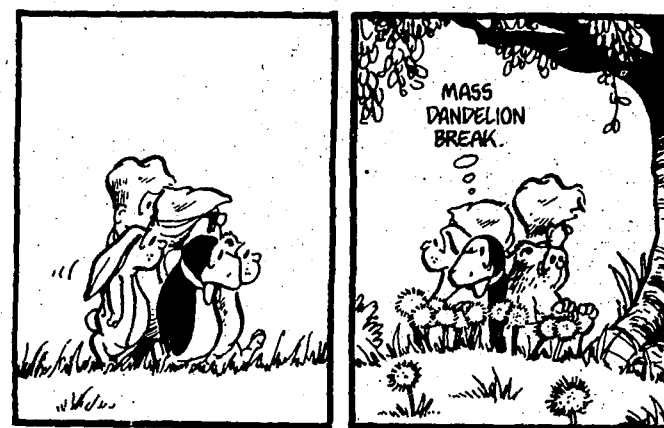

Town council member and BU math professor Dr. Steven Beck was one of five candidates who spoke on student issues.

So Mr. Reagan, please don't sign that bill. Who wants to pay $40 a year for a holiday we might not even get to celebrate (only federal employees are required). We already have New Year's day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veteran's Day, Election Day, Christmas, Thanksgiving, and sometimes primary Election Day and President's Day to worry about.

Freshmen Sway Towards Business

The selection of Bloomsburg University freshmen has been consistent over the past few years Dr. Tom L. Cooper, dean of admissions, reports.

The class of 1987 consists of 1,049 students, 386 men and 663 women, selected from an applicant pool of 4,592 candidates.

The typical student in the current freshman class attended a public high school in eastern Pennsylvania, and was ranked at the 72nd percentile of their graduating class. They have completed 19.3 academic units in high school grades of 9 through 12, and in the Scholastic Aptitude Test recorded 462 in the verbal score and 508 in math.

Academic interest for the current freshman class shows 29.7 percent selected business administration and 3.4 percent business education, giving the College of Business a 33.1 percentage. The College of Professional Studies falls somewhat lower at 28.4 percent with 7.9 percent designating nursing, 7.7 percent elementary education, 4.9 percent medical technology, 3.9 percent special education, 2.8 percent communication disorders, 9 percent secondary education, and 3 percent allied health services. College of Arts and Sciences had 23.1 percent and undeclared 15.4 percent.

A total of 57.8 percent of the freshmen reside in the following counties: Montgomery, Luzerne, Columbia, Bucks, Berks, Northampton, Philadelphia, Northumberland, Lehigh, and Schuylkill. Students are enrolled from 50 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties with out-of-state students comprising a 9 percent of the freshmen class.

"The above academic profile is consistent with the last three fall freshmen classes with regard to SAT scores and rank in high school classes," Cooper stated.

BU Alumna To Speak For Finance Club

The Finance Club will present its first speaker of the semester 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 1, in Multi-Purpose Room C.

The speaker, Barbara Hudock, is an account executive with Merrill Lynch. She is a 1975 graduate of Bloomsburg and will be talking about career opportunities in the investment field for men and women, including information about personal investment opportunities.

Organized to meet the interest created by the finance major, the Finance Club plans to have at least two speakers each semester. Additional plans include obtaining information on potential employers for finance majors and minors, and becoming affiliated with the Finance Management Association.

World News Briefs

Reagan's New Appointee

Having pulled off a rare political move, a surprise appointment, Ronald Reagan detailed the qualifications of William P. Clark to take over the Interior Department. "He is a God-fearing Westerner, a fourth-generation rancher," the president told a group of evangelical Christian Women, "and a person I trust." According to Clark himself, "He values loyalty above competence."

'Mourner's' Campaign

Kathy McDonald's campaign to succeed her husband as the representative from Georgia's conservative seventh district got off to a rocky start after voters complained that she showed too little grief over the death of the congressman. Using the slogan "Remember Larry McDonald and Flight 007", Mrs. McDonald is now the odds on favorite to finish first over 18 opponents in this week's special election.

A Name Change?

North Dakota has an image problem. According to Gov. Allen I. Olson most people think of it as "a place that produces nothing but buzzards and rocks." Ad executive Mylo Candee of Bismarck heads a group of businessmen and professionals who are proposing a solution. The billboard that is popping up in the state is "Let's drop 'North' and call it...Dakota." According to Candee, "people from other states think we almost have winter in summer. We have scenic beauty and a rich Western history, and the name Dakota conjures that up."

Poland Bans Music

A week after the announcement that Lech Walesa had won the Nobel Peace Prize, Polish authorities banned the playing of any American, Norwegian or West German music on any of its radio stations. The reason: Polish authorities believe West German legislators nominated Walesa, and a Norwegian Nobel committee made the selection. The United States apparently is considered one of the usual suspects. Polish disc jockeys however are not finding it hard to replace American rock and roll; British bands are just as popular.

Madrigals and Theatre Plan Summer Trip to Japan

CHARLES PENNYPACKER
Features Editor

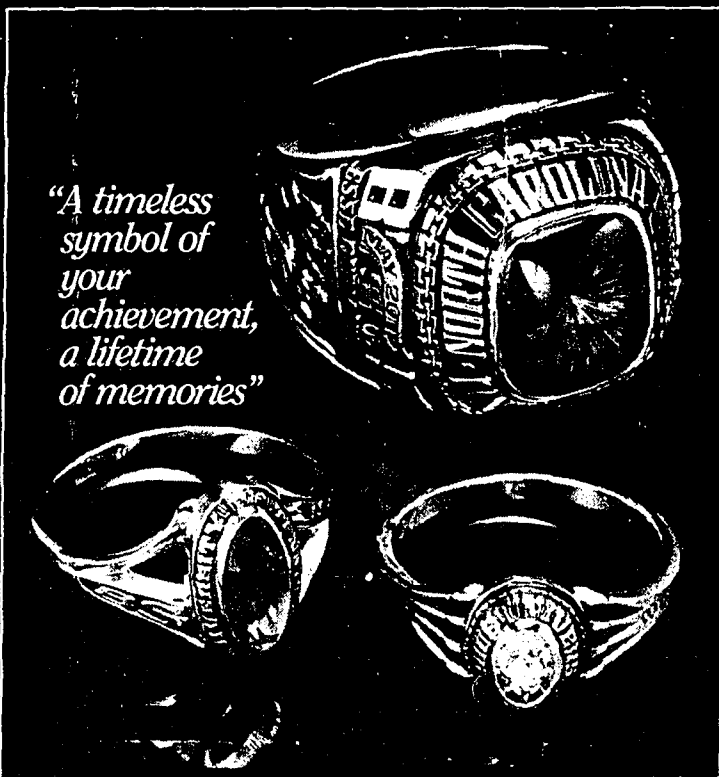

Bloomsburg's Madrigal Singers and Children's Theatre plan to highlight this summer with a special tour of Japan for three weeks. According to Dr. Sato, director of the Theatre Department, there are no set dates for the trip as of yet, however Sato estimates the tour will be in late July through mid-August. Sato is in charge of the trip and he feels it will be very educational for the students. "It will be a great opportunity for an international exchange of cultures," said Sato.

The Madrigals, under the direction of Dr. Wendy Miller, and the Children's Theatre, directed by Dr. Woodruff, will perform in Japan as a part of the cultural exchange. The Madrigal Singers, consisting of 16 individual singers, one pianist, and one alternate will perform a great variety of music. The Madrigals will entertain their Japanese audience with a diversity of classical, popular, jazz, religious, and Japanese harmonies. Also, they hope to perform two Broadway musicals, "Fantasticks" and "Charlie Brown." According to Sato, the Children's Theatre plans to perform the play "Step on A Crack."

Children's Theatre Breaks Through Presents 'Step On a Crack'

JOHN STAMAN
Asst. Feature Editor

With the production of "Dark of the Moon," one might think that the Bloomsburg Players are through with theatrical performances until next semester.

However, there is another side of the theater department which is less frequently noted. Children's theater is a growing art form at Bloomsburg due primarily to Dr. Marci Woodruff, a newly appointed associate professor at BU.

Dr. Woodruff is currently directing "Step on a Crack," a children's play which will open Nov. 17 and run through Nov. 19.

Of the six characters in the play, five are full-time university students, the exception being Jeff Davis, an area high school student who is also taking courses at BU.

"Step on a Crack," written by Suzan Zeder, was first performed at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Tex. in 1974. The first musical adaptation was performed in 1978. Bloomsburg has chosen to perform the original spoken version.

The play revolves around "Ellie" (played by Patty Neilon), a 12-year-old girl who has to deal with a new stepmother, "Lucielle" (played by Julie Pile). Her father, "Max Murphy," is played by Patrick Murphy.

Her two imaginary playmates, "Frisbee" (played by Davis) and "Lana" (played by Cindy Fellers), are with her throughout the play along with her alter ego, who is played by Wendy Kerrick.

Neilon, a junior at Bloomsburg, has had an active part in every production since the Fall of 1981, including her role as "Bobo" in "The Hostage," performed last Spring.

Dr. Woodruff sees "Step on a Crack" as a device with which to reach children of all ages. Plans are being made to travel to Japan with the production.

"I'm not sure of the exact dates, sometime this summer," says Neilon, "It's a chance I won't pass up."

Woodruff has had extensive training in directing and theater production. She received a B.A. in theater and child psychology from the University of Western Kentucky, an M.A. in child psychology and theater, and a Ph.D. in theater, both from Florida State. She is currently teaching a course in children's theater and actively promotes the field.

Evening performances will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. On Friday Nov. 18, there will be a 9:30 a.m. performance. On Saturday there will be a matinee at 2 p.m., followed by a panel discussion on the plays theme by Dr. Woodruff and several other child psychologists and colleagues. University students will be admitted free with proper identification.

The 1st Annual Big Man On Campus, sponsored by Chi Sigma Rho Sorority was held in Carver Hall Sunday, October 23 at 6:30 p.m.

Receiving the honors of "Big Man" and a $50 award, was Gary Miller, representing Beta Sigma Delta. Miller wore a three-piece suit with his Beta Sig. baseball cap in the formal dress competition. As talent, he entertained the audience with a stand up comedy routine.

Second place, and a $25 award, was presented to Lambda Chi Alpha's representative Jeff Welsh. And a $15 award for third place was taken by Larry Murphy and Zeta Psi.

The evening began with 14 contestants in formal attire. At this time the men were introduced and background information was provided by Emcee Kerry-Sue Arnold. Formal attire for these men consisted of styles including sexy lingerie to classy three-piece suits.

Next was informal attire, which was followed by swimsuit competition. The swim suits were colorful and left little to the imagination.

At this point the seven finalists were announced after which they prepared for their talent competition. The talents ranged from cultural Bach selections to comedy routines and striptease acts.

Judges for the contest consisted of Greek system administration and officers.

Valerie Moon, a member of Concert choir, sang to entertain the audience during intermission.

The Madrigal Singers plan to tour Japan this summer with the Children's Theatre.

Madrigals

Sato said the highlight of the trip will be when the touring group visits the city of Tenri. Tenri will be the center of a series of religious festivals and Sato hopes the Madrigals and the Children's Theatre will be able to perform for some of the quarter of a million Japanese children that will be visiting the city.

According to Sato, he is in the process of acquiring sponsorships from various corporations, possible airlines, and anyone who would like to make a contribution. "However reality won't come until a definite sponsorship is finalized," said Sato.

roll as of late outshooting their last three opponents 95 to 2. The defense is where Kutztown excels, giving up just six goals in 11 games. In their head to head matchup, the Bears held the potent Huskies to just six shots.

Kutztown is led offensively by nine goal scorer Barb Bergstresser. Denise Long, who scored the winning overtime goal against the Huskies, and sister Donna are other Golden Bear scoring threats with eight and four goals, respectively. Ursie Hauck patrols the Bear cage, racking up six shutouts on the year.

The third seeded Huskies possess a swarming offense that averages nearly 25 shots a game, while scoring over three goals a game. Leading the Huskies is junior Debb Minskey with 10 goals, Lynnette Kyle and Karen Hertzler with eight a piece. On the few occasions that the opposition was able to penetrate the Husky zone, they met up with a stingy defense paced by 1981 All-Americans Deb Long and goalie Laurie Snyder, who has recorded nine shutouts.

The Huskies two losses came at the hands of Lock Haven and Kutztown.

Justine Landis finished the season at 13-0, culminating in her first state championship.

Landis Lone Singles Champ As Huskies Capture Sixth Place

SARAH HACKFORTH
Staff Reporter

The Bloomsburg Women's Tennis Team played their final match of the 1983 season last Friday and Saturday at Shippensburg. Bloomsburg had one of the poorest showings of the season taking 6th place out of 14 teams entered in the PSAC tournament.

The only bright moment for the Huskies was Justine Landis' capturing the State's number one singles title. The rest of the showing was rather dismal.

Landis was seeded number one and was favored to win. She drew a bye in the first round and defeated Kelli Sullivan of Millersville 6-1, 6-4 in the second round. The semi-finals pitted Landis against Slippery Rock's Jodi Kest who she beat 6-0, 6-3. Landis' final match was against Lynn Miller of Shippensburg. The match went three sets. Landis lost the first set quickly 1-6, but recovered to take the next two sets 7-5, 6-3. Landis finished her season with a 13-0 record. Her dual meet record is 10-0 this season with an unbeaten streak of 15 dual meet matches.

Kathy Masch has played the number two singles for Bloomsburg this year. She had a fair showing at States, losing in the semi-final round. She lost to Edinboro's Karen Morgan 6-2, 6-3. Masch winds up her 1983 season with an 8-5 record.

The remaining four singles players did not get past their first matches. "Team wise it was not a very good showing. Failure to win opening round matches proved very costly. Had we won those first round matches, which happened to be against opponents we had defeated during the dual season, a second place finish would have been assured with a realistic shot at first place," said coach Michael Herbert.

The number one doubles team of Landis-Masch beat Kest-Gotter from Slippery Rock 3-6, 7-5, 7-5 in the second round. In the semi-finals they lost to Morgan-Chichott of Edinboro 6-7, 6-1, 7-5. Their season record stands at 9-2.

Becker-Gillespie won their second round match against Millersville's Santucci-Bennis 7-6, 6-4. They advanced to the semi-finals where they beat Mulder-Green of Edinboro in three sets 6-2, 4-6, 7-6. From there they lost in very close straight sets to O'Connell-Weisgerber from Shippensburg 7-5, 7-5. The number two singles end their 1983 season with a winning 9-3 record.

The number three doubles team of Doneker-Pahls won their first round match in three sets 1-6, 7-5, 7-6 against Edinboro's Krafton-Powell. They went on to lose the second round match to Millersville's Whiteside-Galley 6-2, 6-3. They finished the 1983 season with a 6-5 record.

The Huskies finished in sixth place overall out of a field of 14 teams from other state schools. "The Huskies had never finished below 4th place in state competition," said Herbert.

But next year, the Huskies hope to rebound from the subpar finish in States as only Linda Becker will be lost to graduation. Landis will return in the number one position for her junior season.

Field Hockey Preview

Featured in PSAC's Nationally Ranked Trio

Although the NCAA Field Hockey Championships aren't until November 19, this weekend's PSAC Championships will provide a preview of the national competition, as the nation's top three teams will be competing. The two day competition, which begins Friday at 1 pm, could also be a major stepping stone in terms of momentum and confidence for the team that takes the title.

The top ranked and two-time defending national champions from Lock Haven, which sport an unblemished 14-0 record, headlines the impressive field that also includes undefeated Kutztown (11-0), who are ranked second in the latest NCAA poll and third ranked Huskies of Bloomsburg. Bloomsburg, which went 12-2-1, has reached national finals the past two years, winning in the Division III crown in 1981 and dropping a 4-1 decision to Lock Haven in 1982 Division II final.

Former Division I power West Chester rounds out the four team field. The Rams enter the tourney with a 7-8-1 log against a tough schedule.

The tourney's opening game features Lock Haven, who will be hosting the two day affair, against West Chester. The Bald Eagles, who haven't dropped a contest since last season's 2-1 loss to Division I powerhouse, Penn St., are led by big scoring junior Sherry Derr.

The All-American attack has netted 19 goals and must be kept in check if West Chester hopes to win. The defending conference champs aren't just a one-woman team though as Tracy Coates (7 goals), Wendy Heiges (6 goals) and All-American Ann Grim (4 goals and 3 assists) are also scoring threats.

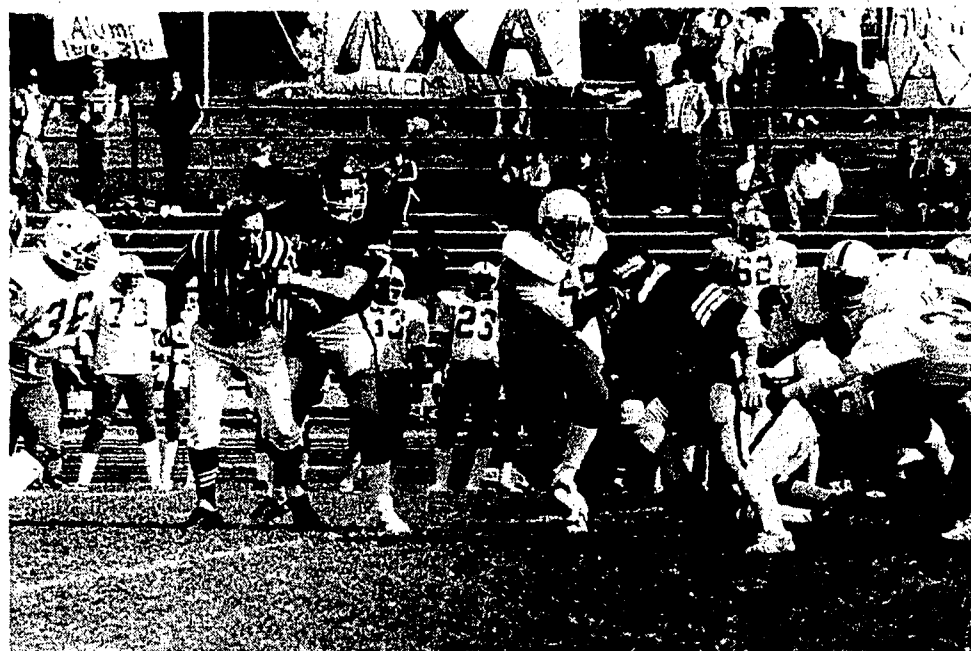

Anchoring the LH defense is senior goalie Kate Murphy, who has allowed just five goals this season, while recording 9 shutouts.

The Rams, on the otherhand, utilize a two goalie system. Pam Frey and Cindy Miller share the chores and have combined to limit the opposition to 25 goals in sixteen games. Offensively, WC doesn't have the firepower that LH possesses, but has a more balanced attack with several fine goal scorers.

Friday's nitecap will be a rematch of last year's first round matchup between Bloomsburg and Kutztown. The Huskies were extended to a flickoff following two scoreless overtime periods before downing the Golden Bears 2-0. This year, however, the Bears turned the tables, taking a 2-1 overtime win.

The game features a classic great offense versus defense matchup. The great offense belongs to the Huskies, who have netted 45 goals, have been on an offensive

BU Seeks Fifth Win Against Kutztown

The Bloomsburg University football team will be seeking to guarantee the school its first non-losing season in six years when the Huskies travel to Kutztown's College Field this Saturday, October 29, at 1:30 p.m.

In 1978, under coach Ron Puhl, the Huskies posted a 6-4 mark, and before that, under the direction of Jerry Denstorff, the 1970 team was 5-3.

A victory would give coach George Landis' squad its fifth win of the campaign and assure Bloomsburg of at least a 5-5 mark regardless of the outcomes of remaining contests with East Stroudsburg and Lycoming.

Bloomsburg is now 4-3 overall and 4-0 in the Pennsylvania Conference Eastern Division.

Win number four came at the expense of the dangerous Wolves of Cheyney by a count of 17-13 last Saturday. The triumph was also the Huskies' first Homecoming win since 1979.

Kutztown has had to fight off several injuries which hampered the Bears in the early going but now seems to be back on track winning its last two games over Cheyney (28-7) and West Chester (16-7).

George Baldwin's club is 4-3 overall and 2-2 in the PC East.

Directing the offense is senior quarterback Gary Kline (6-2, 193). In seven games, he has connected on 94 of 175 passes for 1141 yards and seven touchdowns. He is completing 53.7 percent of his throws and has been intercepted 13 times. The majority of the time he looks for split end Andre Reed (6-2, 175). The junior has 33 receptions for 530 yards and five touchdowns. In addition, he was rushed for another score and was on the end of a two-point conversion pass.

Senior fullback, Rich Sharp (5-10, 210), has returned to the lineup after missing two games and now has lugged the ball 50 times for 225 yards and one touchdown.

Two solid linebackers are mainly responsible for the Bears' defensive success. Juniors Scott Elias (5-11, 185) and Dave Pasley (6-3, 220) are the defensive point leaders for the team. Elias has been credited with 61 tackles and deflected three passes while Pasley has 59 tackles, two fumble recoveries, a deflected

Coach Jan Hutchinson hopes her Huskies will keep their potent offense and superb defense alive as they look towards the PSAC Championships this weekend at Lock Haven.
