Commencement Speaker

William F. Schulz, D.Minn.

Executive Director, Amnesty International U.S.A.

Dr. William F. Schulz has been the executive director of Amnesty International U.S.A. since March 1994. As executive director of the 300,000-member U.S. branch of the human rights organization, he directs daily operations and heads a 100-person staff.

An ordained Unitarian Universalist minister, Dr. Schultz came to Amnesty after working for 15 years with the Unitarian Universalist Association of Congregations. As president from 1985-93, he was involved in a wide variety of international and social justice causes. He led the first visit by a member of U.S. Congress to post-revolutionary Romania in January 1992, and spent February 1992 in India consulting with the country's human rights leaders to help end communal violence and promote the political and economic empowerment of women, bonded laborers, and others. He also led fact-finding missions to the Middle East, Northern Ireland, and Liberia, and was instrumental in his denominations' opposition to U.S. military aid to El Salvador.

He served for nearly 10 years on the Council of the International Association for Religious Freedom, and has been a tireless campaigner for women's and homosexual's rights, as well as for racial justice and the abolition of the death penalty.

Dr. Schulz is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Oberlin College. He received a master's degree in philosophy from the University of Chicago, and his doctor of ministry and master's of theology degrees from the University of Chicago's Meadville Lombard Theological School.

Honorary Degree Recipient

Dr. Fredericks served on the Lock Haven University Foundation Board of Directors from 1993-95 and, with her husband, sponsored the Samuel H. Fredericks Leadership seminar, which brought leaders from Pennsylvania business, government, and education together to address strategies for change. Most recently, the Fredericks donated the funds for the construction of The Fredericks Family Memorial Carillon, which will be erected in front of Stevenson Library this fall.

Dr. Fredericks' educational background includes a bachelor's degree from Baylor University and her master's degree and doctorate degree from the University of Texas at Austin in the areas of science, psychology, communication and organizational research.

She also served as deputy director and coordinator of the Governor's Executive Development Program of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas at Austin from 1985 until her retirement in 1992.

Her late husband received an honorary degree from the University in 1993.

The Academic Procession

The centuries old pageantry of the academic procession dates from ancient tradition rooted in the early universities. Since the first academic ceremonies were predominantly in the charge of the clergy, they followed the familiar order of the religious procession in which the place of highest honor was at the end of the procession. Accordingly, the academic procession is made up of members of the platform party, members of the faculty, and members of the graduating class, marching in that order.

The Mace

The staff carried at the front of the academic procession is called the mace. It is a symbol of authority and indicates that the activity is an official function of Lock Haven University. Because co-marshals share the responsibility for the ceremony, each of them carries a mace. The maces were fashioned from wood from old Sullivan Hall, which once stood on the present site of Stevenson Library.

Academic Attire

The traditional attire worn by Lock Haven University faculty, staff, Council of Trustees and distinguished speakers at Convocation and Commencement is a record of academic achievement.

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries when universities were forming in England and other parts of Europe. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric. Long gowns were worn, and may have been necessary for warmth, in unheated buildings. Hoods may have served as a cover to protect the tonsured heads of monks and other medieval scholars in the winter.

European institutions have always had great diversity in their specifications of academic dress. In contrast, shortly after the traditional academic dress was brought to the United States with the founding of Kings College (now Columbia University), American educators opted for a standardized system that all colleges and universities might follow.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, drafted a code of academic dress, which in addition to regulating the style, cut and material of the gowns, prescribed the colors which represent various degrees of learning. This code was revised in 1932 and 1959, and updated in 1986.

The wearer's level of degree is indicated by the gown's cut. Doctoral gowns have full sleeves which are round and open. Gowns worn by Masters have long, closed, somewhat fuller sleeves, which reach nearly to the wearer's knees. The arm goes through a slot, giving the appearance of short sleeves. Those worn by Bachelors have long, pointed sleeves.

The color of the gown also varies. Although most of the doctoral gowns are black, in some cases their color is that of the university conferring the degree. Trimmed with three two-inch velvet bars on the sleeves and a five-inch velvet border extending from the back of the neck down the two sides in front, the doctoral gown is usually black. The velvet trimming may be of a color that indicates the nature of the degree. Master's and Bachelor's gowns have no such facing.

The size and shape of the hood, which is the most significant part of the academic dress, indicate the degree of the wearer. The Bachelor's hood is three feet in length with a two-inch velvet border; the Master's hood measures three and one half feet in length with a three-inch border; and the Doctoral hood is four feet with a five-inch border.

The color of the velvet border and hood lining indicate the academic field and the color or colors of the institution granting the degree respectively. The hood worn by University President Craig Dean Willis is lined in the school colors of The Ohio State University—crimson and gray. Other representative colors displayed by members of the University faculty and staff include:

Pennsylvania State University ...	dark blue and white
Temple University	red and white
University of Pittsburgh	blue and gold
West Virginia University	old gold and blue
Ohio University	green and white

Some of the colors worn by Lock Haven University faculty and staff for all academic purposes, including the trimmings of doctors' gowns, edging of hoods and cap tassels, are associated with the following disciplines:

White	Arts, Letters, Humanities
Drab	Commerce, Accountancy, Business
Light Blue	Education
Brown	Fine Arts
Crimson	Journalism
Lemon	Library Science
Pink	Music
Silver-Gray	Oratory
Dark Blue	Philosophy
Sage Green	Physical Education
Golden Yellow	Science
Citron	Social Science

The mortarboard cap, conventionalized from the skull cap worn by the monks of the 12th and 13th centuries, is usually black. Degree holders wear the tassels over the left front quarter; candidates wear the tassel over the right quarter until the degree is conferred.
