The Academic Procession

The centuries old pageantry of the academic procession dates from ancient tradition rooted in the early universities. Since the first academic ceremonies were predominantly in the charge of the clergy, they followed the familiar order of the religious procession in which the place of highest honor was at the end of the procession. Accordingly, the academic procession is made up of members of the platform party, members of the faculty, and members of the graduating class, marching in that order.

The Mace

The staff carried at the front of the academic procession is called the mace. It is a symbol of authority and indicates that the activity is an official function of Lock Haven University. Since responsibility for the ceremony is shared by co-marshals, each of them carries a mace. The maces were fashioned from wood from old Sullivan Hall which once stood on the present site of Stevenson Library.

Academic Attire

The traditional attire worn by Lock Haven University faculty, staff, Council of Trustees and distinguished speakers at Convocation and Commencement is a record of academic achievement.

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries when universities were forming in England and other parts of Europe. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric. Long gowns were worn, and may have been necessary for warmth, in unheated buildings. Hoods may have served as a cover to protect the tonsured heads of monks and other medieval scholars in the winter.

European institutions have always had great diversity in their specifications of academic dress. In contrast, shortly after the traditional academic dress was brought to the United States with the founding of Kings College (now Columbia University), American educators opted for a standardized system that all colleges and universities might follow.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, drafted a code of academic dress, which in addition to regulating the style, cut and material of the gowns, prescribed the colors which represent various degrees of learning. This code was revised in 1932 and 1959, and updated in 1986.

The wearer's level of degree is indicated by the gown's cut. Doctoral gowns have full sleeves which are round and open. Gowns worn by Masters have long, closed, somewhat fuller sleeves, which reach nearly to the wearer's knees. The arm goes through a slot, giving the appearance of short sleeves. Those worn by Bachelors have long, pointed sleeves.

The color of the gown also varies. Although most of the doctoral gowns are black, in some cases their color is that of the university conferring the degree. Trimmed with three two-inch velvet bars on the sleeves and a five-inch velvet border extending from the back of the neck down the two sides in front, the doctoral gown is usually black. The velvet trimming may be of a color that indicates the nature of the degree. Master's and Bachelor's gowns have no such facing.

The size and shape of the hood, which is the most significant part of the academic dress, indicate the degree of the wearer. The Bachelor's hood is three feet in length with a two-inch velvet border; the Master's hood measures three and one half feet in length with a three-inch border; and the Doctoral hood is four feet with a five-inch border.

The color of the velvet border and hood lining indicate the academic field and the color or colors of the institution granting the degree respectively. The hood worn by University President Craig Dean Willis is lined in the school colors of The Ohio State University—crimson and gray. Other representative colors displayed by members of the University faculty and staff include:

Pennsylvania State University.....dark blue and white
Temple University.....red and white
Columbia University.....slate blue and white
Duke University.....royal blue

Some of the colors worn by Lock Haven University faculty and staff for all academic purposes, including the trimmings of doctors' gowns, edging of hoods and cap tassels, are associated with the following disciplines:

White.....Arts, Letters, Humanities
Drab.....Commerce, Accountancy, Business
Light Blue.....Education
Brown.....Fine Arts
Crimson.....Journalism
Lemon.....Library Science
Pink.....Music
Silver-Gray.....Oratory
Dark Blue.....Philosophy
Sage Green.....Physical Education
Golden Yellow.....Science
Citron.....Social Science

The mortarboard cap, conventionalized from the skull cap worn by the monks of the 12th and 13th centuries, is usually black. Tassels are worn over the left front quarter by degree holders; candidates wear the tassel over the right quarter until the degree is conferred.

Commencement Speaker

Honorary Degree Recipient Rick Santorum

In 1994 Rick Santorum was elected to the United States Senate after building his career in law and politics. He is active in the Armed Services Committee; the Agriculture Committee; the Rules Committee; the Joint Economic Committee; the Select Committee on Aging; and the Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe. In these capacities, he continues work to restructure the nation's welfare system; reduce the federal deficit; reform health care; and make government accountable.

His political career began in 1981 when he served as administrative assistant to Pennsylvania State Senator J. Doyle Corman. He remained in this position until 1986 and during this time was executive director of the Senate Transportation Committee and the Senate Local Government Committee

After earning his law degree, Santorum returned to Pittsburgh to join the firm of Kirkpatrick and Lockhart as an associate attorney and remained there until 1990. In a leave of absence from the firm in 1990, he ran for Congress in the 18th District and was elected to the seat in November of that year. In this capacity he made his mark fighting for congressional accountability and stressing the need for fiscal responsibility and health care reform.

Santorum holds a B.A. in political science from the Pennsylvania State University, an M.B.A. from the University of Pittsburgh, and a J.D. from the Dickinson School of Law. He is married to Karen Garver Santorum of Penn Hills, PA, and they have three children.

Honorary Degree Recipient Camille "Bud" George

In January 1996, Governor Thomas J. Ridge released the funds necessary to build a new Lock Haven University Clearfield Campus facility. Instrumental in arranging a capital budget authorization was Camille "Bud" George, D-74th Legislative District, Clearfield and Centre counties.

George has been elected to the House of Representatives ten consecutive times. In 1983 he was appointed chairman of the House Conservation Committee, and in this capacity, has sponsored and/or supported dozens of environmental initiatives in the Commonwealth. He was a member of the joint House-Senate Conference Committee that established a statewide solid waste disposal program as well as a recycling program in the state. He has sponsored legislation benefiting the state in a number of areas including toxic waste cleanup, mining reclamation, and proper sewage disposal.

George is currently Democratic chairman of the House Environmental Resources and Energy Committee, as well as a member of the: Environmental Quality Board; Wild Resource Conservation Board; Joint Legislative Air, Water, and Pollution Control Committee; and the House Democratic Policy Committee. He is chairman of the House Democratic Northwest Caucus, and a director of the Pennsylvania Infrastructure Investment Authority.
