

MUSIC WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

OPERETTA
THURSDAY EVENING

To be Presented by the Training School Children. Eighty Children to Take Part.

On Thursday evening, May 5th, the children of the Intermediate Grades of our Training School will present the most delightful of children's operettas "The Trail of John and Jane." Eighty children are in the cast. Their tuneful singing, gay dances and brilliant costumes will carry their audience to the Court of King Cole in Storyland.

From his throne King Cole receives the homage of his subjects. Jack-boniface announces that Bluebeard has come to court with a grievance for the King's attention. Bluebeard enters, leading two mortals, John and Jane, who do not believe in him, and therefore should be punished under the laws of Storyland for their skepticism. Other witnesses appear—Jack the Giant Killer, Sleeping Beauty, Ali Baba and his thieves, Aladdin, the Goops, Peter Pan and still others who accuse John and Jane of not believing in them.

King Cole sends for Mother Goose and Mother Hubbard to help him in his decision. The evidence against the mortal children becomes so great that a clerk, Humpty Dumpty himself, has to make a record of the case.

Robin Hood, Alice in Wonderland and Robinson Crusoe appear in defense of John and Jane. The law reads, however, that unless children believe in some saint or fairy, they are doomed to a fearful punishment.

King Cole reads the sentence. Just at that moment enters—well, come and see.

COURSE

On May 6 Will be Last of Musical Course For This Year.

Jerome Swineford, baritone, will appear May 6 in the auditorium at 8:15. This is the last of our Musical Numbers Course for this year.

It may interest us to know bits of news concerning Mr. Swineford's voice:

A discriminating program delightfully sung. Mr. Swineford revealed an excellent baritone voice, with depth and sonority.

New York World.

He sings with a broad style and a robust tone. But the most enjoyable aspects of his vocal art are the fine lyric color and expressive depth in his tone. His sound musicianship, quiet humor and understanding of his offerings insured the artistic success of his recital.

New York Sun.

Recalling in his broad style and robust use of a fine lyric baritone his appearance on the tours of the Navy Glee Club after the war, it was refreshing to hear Mr. Swineford's delivery of Chabrier's humorous "Uet-it's Canards" and Faure's defiant "Voyageur" and his audience long applauded the hushed reverence of Baton's "Berceuse."

New York Times.

Swineford's voice is a deep baritone of very likable quality, with effective resources and interpretation ability.

N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

He is the most promising young baritone on the American concert stage today and his New York program stamped him as one who will be heard from a good deal in the next year or two. He is the kind of stuff that popular musical idols are made from.

American Monthly.

The program to be given by Mr. Swineford follows:

I.
Adoration of Nature ---- Beethoven
Song of the Pilgrim -- Tschalkowsky
Serenade ---- Wolf
The Two Grenadiers ---- Schumann

II.

Swiss Waltz ---- d'Indy
Nocturne F Major ---- Chopin
Rhapsody C Major ---- Dohnanyi

ANNUAL CONCERT
ON MAY 3

To be Held in the Auditorium. Tickets May be Had From Any Orchestra Member.

The B. S. T. C. Orchestra will give their annual concert Tuesday night, May 3, in the auditorium at 8:15.

It would be rather difficult to say just how the school would survive without the aid of an orchestra. It has become a part of the school life—at plays, commencement and many other social activities the orchestra has played an important role.

Juniors of last year!—Do you remember the Junior play? The best of the year—but who helped you the night of the final production? "The Orchestra!"

Juniors of this year! Do you remember who sat in the pit and helped by playing before and between the scenes?

Middlers! Who stood by and helped make your play a success?

Dramatic Club! Whose aid are you seeking for your club play on Friday night?

At Commencement time who will help to furnish music for the various functions?

The college orchestra consists of twenty-eight members. After all what is an orchestra and how far will it progress without a director? Miss Harriet M. Moore, who is director of the orchestra, has been directing the Normal orchestra for several years. Each year it has been increasing in number as well as in ability.

The program to be given Tuesday night of Music Week will be composed of parts of operas and concert music.

Walter P. Johns, baritone, of Wilkes-Barre, will give two groups of songs. Mr. Johns is known throughout Wyoming Valley for excellent programs. He is offering groups of songs that will be especially interesting to the student body. Mr. Johns has, on several occasions, sung at the Consistory in town.

Tickets for the concert may be had from any member of the orchestra. It will be worth your while to come.

NORMAL
WINS FROM KEYSTONE

Bernard Roan Allowed Keystone Only Seven Hits. Final Score 2 to 1.

In the face of a cold and biting wind that made the day even too cold for football our boys played an excellent game of baseball Saturday afternoon against Keystone Academy and we took a sizzling pitcher's battle, 2-1.

Bernard Roan hurled excellent ball and held Keystone's well balanced aggregation to seven hits and a lone score. He fanned 14 batters. Anthony, the Factoryville moundsman, also hurled a pretty game. Nine hits were made on his offerings and they were well scattered except for the fourth inning when four clean blows were bunched for the two winning runs. The wind swept the diamond and was so cold that players used football blankets to keep warm while sitting on the bench. Fans were protected with coats and blankets but soon they were chilled and many were forced to leave the field.

Yarashefski started the scoring when he placed a single down the third base line in the fourth inning. He raced to second on a passed ball. McGrath was thrown out by Cooke. Rushin beat out a pretty tap along the first base line. Garrity doubled and Slusser came through with a single.

Keystone escaped a shut out by scoring in the sixth. With one out Halicki doubled. Schuler flied out to Wadas, Martin got hold of a fast one and thumped it to left field for three bases. Metzgat passed up a rosy opportunity to knot the score when he lifted a fly to Rushin.

Bloomsgburg had a number of chances to score but were unable to come through. At times in the early innings they were unable to hit in the pinches. At other times sluggish work on the bases, coupled with close vigilance on the part of the Keystone team blotted out their chances. Keystone had a fighting ball club that was continuously making trouble for our boys. They had men on the run ways in every inning but two, only to find Roan invincible when hits meant scores.

In spite of the cold, the fielding was almost flawless. Bobby Wilson, flashy Normal shot stop, had an error in the ninth but was easily excusable. The miscue came with one out in the ninth. The next batter forced the runner at second and Powell was No. 14 of Roan's strike-out victims.

Coach Booth made only one change in his line-up. Leo McGrath was at first in place of Austin. While he had a small day in the field for that po-

JUNIOR HIGH WORK OF REAL BENEFIT

Not Only to Students Themselves, But Also to Whole School.

The work which the Junior High School is doing is, and has been, a real benefit not only to the students themselves but to the whole school. A few weeks ago signs appeared in various places on the grass and when everybody obeyed their injunctions very few stopped to think about what they put them there. A little investigation revealed the fact that Junior High students had been busy and the result is a chance to make our campus once again the velvety green carpet it was last year.

Science Hall, too, shows the results of their work. The halls are always free of papers and other things that would litter them up and when students pass from one class to another there is no friction, owing to their persistence in impressing the fact that one stairway goes up, the other goes down.

The school, of late, has been using the contract system of teaching. In this system, the teachers prepare and distribute contracts to each pupil. The pupil is then marked on the manner in which he goes about fulfilling it. In this way, students of medium ability need not lose interest because they lag behind the others and vice versa, but each child works at the top notch of his own ability and speed and interest becomes most intense.

The chapel programs prepared by the students have been not only instructive and interesting, but in some cases most amusing. Before the Easter vacation a mock trial was staged. The supposed culprit was tried for walking on the grass. The points brought out kept the audience rocking with mirth until the end, when the defendant being found guilty—he was sentenced to the making of signs.

A student government election will be held again, very shortly. The results are eagerly awaited by the entire student body.

TRAGEDY

Most of us who live happily on this old earth, our lives but a tear and a smile, do we ever pause to think of Grim Tragedy, who stalks among all the time? Tragedy, the father of Death, who with his shinless, bony hand, reaches out with almost every beating second, and smiling as only he can smile, touches some certain harassed and worn soul weighed down with mighty turbulations.

Not always however, does he choose those who are wretched, but with quiet stealth he often fawns upon youth, a budding rose, and blasts it for it ever learns to bloom or sip the magic draught of love. Like a parasite he gloats greedily over these conquests for he believes that this breath and blood of youth keeps him young and free.

His favorite prey is the genius work torn, tired, who lives among his dreams. He, of all others, falls a bit more unsuspecting by into the grasp of the spectre, who eagerly tears and gnaws heart, soul and hope.

From this group let us pick one, a master violinist, who in the height of fame, is standing on a stage and looking down into a sea of eager faces. He listens to the storm of thunderous applause, applause for the revelation of his soul in a great symphony. His eyes are aflame for he thinks not of these things about him, but only of this music—his music.

But, a change comes over all. The stage is now a cliff, high, high above a black sea, a sea which breaks with thundering peals upon the crags beneath. The mass of eager faces has changed to foam—white dots of foam cast higher and higher by the waves. The master stands alone amidst the waves.

Then rain. Now and then a fleck of white dashes into his face. The darkness grows deeper. Between an occasional rift in the rolling clouds, glows a streak of red. Not lightning, but the fires of a hidden sun. The irony of it!

The thundering becomes louder. But there is a man whom tragedy has touched. Does he bow or cower before it? No! He stands with fiercely beating heart, with face uplifted toward the sky, his instrument clasped tightly against his breast.

The first flash of lightning comes, and another. Praise from on high for his work. Into his eyes comes a light, not one of exaltation or triumph but rather that of despair, mingled with supreme supplication.

A great shadow moves toward him and stands by his side. Two glaring eyes seem to sear his very soul, and a clamping hand seeks his brow.

A scream rents the air—the shadow dissolves. Our genius whirls and shrinks away from where the ghost has stood. Then a laugh—a hard mirthless laugh, which pierces the air like the shriek of the siren. In desperation the man raises his violin.

As the bow goes softly o'er the strings, there comes a calm. The clouds part and the warm glow of the sun shines through. The music grows wilder. The waters grow calm and sparkle. The cliff has once more become a stage. Eager faces look up from below. The rolling moan of applause comes to the artist again.

Now the violin speaks in sterner tones—despair, anguish, remorse and at the last, one mighty appeal. The sun dies away, the faces turn to foam, thunder there is but no applause. A step nearer the brink. Wind and rain shrinking in fury!

The cliff is empty. From somewhere below, midst the rocks that peer forth from out of the sea, comes a far away haunting cry. Is it triumph or despair?

Black clouds grow blacker, flecks of foam dash upon the cliff, and thunder crashes. Between an occasional rift in the rolling clouds, glows a streak of red. Not lightning, but the fires of a hidden sun. Tragedy grins once more and with a long sweeping gesture, bows in mock solemnity to the crags of a stormy sea.

MY BROTHER

Poems have been written
To sweethearts staunch and true;
No one has ever written tho,
A poem just for you.

There is the friend who lingers
Hoping for a gain
One when the sun is shining
But stays not thru' the rain.

So listen! Here's to one
Who'll stick right to the end
You! Round whom my love is spun,

I, MYSELF AND ME

Three persons am I in one.
Why, 'tis as plain as it can be.
No one can say that it is wrong
For there's I, myself and me.

Now who would think that such as I
Should be composed of three?
It may seem quite strange to you
But there's I, myself and me.

It isn't very pleasant to be composed
Of three
Because somehow I always have them
Twisted.
So I should say, "It is I and you"
Instead of "you and me" as my teacher insisted.

If I could only be just one
And of the other two be free!
But it seems they always stay together
And so there's I, myself and me.

COEDDIES

This was the forest of learning
Where students oft wrestled with books.
Now 'tis a grand institution
Where coeddies strive but for books.

The books have all been forgotten,
The brains of the students stagnate
And all 'cause a bunch of coeddies
Think less of a book than a date.

The lobby is full to o'erflowing
Whenever the deans don't object,
With coeddies painted and powdered
With flowers and ribbons bedecked.

Cold creams replaced the old inkwell,
Eyebrows the pencils that used,
While coeddies come not to study
They come and they should be amused.

THE BROOK

The brook sings a song to me today!
As it rumbles o'er the rocks;
The melody of its selection
Is superior to a music box!

I wonder what it's saying now,
As it hurries on its way?
I love its companionship,
And I wish it would stay!

Why doesn't it stop and talk to me,
And tell me of its charms!
Why doesn't it tell me the secret,
That it caught in its outstretched arms?

God seems to direct all beautiful things,
But it has other work to do,
And cannot stop to play!
Right on their way!

THE SOUL OF ANNE

The soul of Anne is a beautiful place,
And tho'ts of Anne oft' flit o'er her face.
In her luminous eyes and raven black hair,
The soul of Anne seems illumined there.

And tho' Anne were old, and wrinkled, and gray
Those deep blue eyes of Anne would say,
'I love you, my pal, with a love just as dear,
As the day long ago, near the end of the year.'

And my love would e'er burn, with the same hearty flame
Tho' the eyes of Anne were sorrowed with shame,
Tho' her friends knew her not, and would ne'er from her stray.
Still the love of her heart friend from her turned away

But sometimes I wonder, when clouds are gray
Is Anne thinking of me today?
Do her tho'ts turn to me, as mine to her?
Does she ever think of the friends we were?

A CHANGING WORLD

So we are living in a world of change, over which we have relatively little control, in which people are living and making their living in new ways. Our task in working out a great program of education caring for thirty millions of persons is to be able to do our little part as these people pass on. Surely you will agree with me when I say that there never was a time in the history of education when it was so important that the schoolmaster be a student of childhood; yes, a student of political relationships; yes, a student in all things as they change and shift, to the end that the schoolmaster may become a philosopher, a person who has judgment in regard to values.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Society is made up of groups of mutually independent producers all engaged in putting out their own special products; this means that wealth consists, not of goods and services, which is self-maintaining; a group of men, new tools, and new goods is continually joining the large stream of goods and services and thus established themselves economically. It is not possible for industry to develop at such a rate as to absorb all the people in the younger generation; therefore, some must be turned down. Another cause of unemployment is the ever present problem of over-production, which cannot be avoided easily, because firms always keep ahead of orders in big business, and when the demand for certain goods falls off because of economic conditions, the firm is left with too large a supply of goods on hand and an immediate result is that laborers are laid idle.

Great Britain has always been troubled with the unemployment problem, even though she has great iron and steel plants, coal mines and huge textile mills; hence, there is often danger of over-production, regardless of the fact that Great Britain has a great trade with her colonies and other nations. If labor understood capital and capital understood labor, much trouble over unemployment could be averted.

THE HARDSHIPS OF ENGLAND

This poem was written by a student in the ninth grade after the reading of Ivanhoe had been completed.

Times were hard in England, they say,
When Richard, the noble, was kidnapped away.

His brother John, a most fickle cad,
Was taking his place and affairs were sad.

Bands of outlaws thronged the highways and woods,
And people were robbed of their money and goods.
Slaves were dissatisfied with their positions and jobs,
And were joining the outlaws in parties and mobs.

A message was brought to Prince John one day,
Saying that Richard was not far away.
This excited him greatly because he was sure
That his chance to be king was now very poor.

Although the king was not far away
He did not come hence to his brother that day,
But disguised himself as a gallant Black Knight
And traveled the forest all ready to fight.

He rode on the highways and all through the wood
And in his adventures he met Robin Hood.
They became well acquainted and very fast friends,
But, alas! Robin Hood, noble Richard offends.

He does not apologize but takes flight and hides
In a cave on the mountain and there he abides
For two weeks and a half and then he comes out
But Richard is spying to see what he's about.

So Robin comes out and whom should he see,
But one of his merrie men, very sad was he.
He reported to Robin that Richard was dead,
Had been killed on a crusade the French king had led.

This touched Robin's heart and he repented indeed
That before the king's death he had done that wrong deed.
He was ashamed of himself of what he had done
But especially the way he had cowardly run.

So Robin was sad as he walked thru the wood
And thought of his friend, so kind and so good.
He'll always remember the good noble

king
And the memories of him shall always cling.

But Robin Hood and his blithe Merrie Men
Are happy and gay, same as ever again

They are never the least bit sorrowful or sad
But always mischievous, merrie and glad.

Donlan's Pennsylvanians to Furnish the Music.

The Junior Prom, which is an annual affair in the Bloomsburg State Normal School, will be held in the gymnasium on Saturday night, April 30. Donlan's Pennsylvanians will furnish the music for the occasion. The gymnasium is to be decorated in purple and white, which are the class colors and baskets of daffodils, which are the Junior class flowers, will be scattered about the gymnasium. Palms will also be used as a means to make the gymnasium more attractive.

Friends from various places are being invited by the students. In the past two weeks Miss Conway has been very busy signing invitations for the students.

Many social functions are held during the year but the Junior Prom is being looked forward to as the leading one.

TENNIS TEAM STARTED

Candidates Are Very Active Since Courts Were Fixed.

The tennis candidates for the Normal Varsity team have been seen on the courts very often since the new tapes and nets were set up last Monday. As a few of the members of last year team are remaining the prospects for a good team are very good. "Jamie" Jamieson, captain of the team, gives very favorable reports regarding the progress of the new candidates.

The following persons are expected to fight hard in order to make a varsity berth this year: Bernie Gallagher, Art Jenkins, Clarence Ruch, Haven Fortner, Ned Raker, Archie Austin, Red Garrity, Hugh Van Aernam and Hank Rohlands. Gallagher was a varsity man on the tennis team which represented this institution last summer. Much will be expected from him and Jamieson in as much as they were both varsity men before.

Coach Reams issued the very first call for tennis candidates on Wednesday afternoon at 4:10 but rain halted the meeting. Mr. Reams has already scheduled games with other normal schools in the state.

Miss Runyan was 62 years of age and for the past ten years she served as housekeeper at the Normal School.

Local Happenings

Many of our graduates visited the Normal School last week-end. Many came to the sorority dance on Saturday night.

The rain on Wednesday halted the first call for tennis candidates. Much material is among us and it is expected that a fast team will represent our Normal School on the courts this season.

The Maroon and Gold Staff was very glad to hear Dr. Reimer voice his sentiments toward our school paper last Monday. We are proud of his statement regarding our ability to co-operate.

On Tuesday evening the "dramatic personae" of "The Swan" held a dinner party. Dress rehearsal was held after the party.

Our boys showed real ability on Saturday when they won from Keystone on the ball field. We have an excellent baseball club and are proud of it.

Programs are now being arranged to celebrate Music Week. Various musical programs will be rendered by the music department.

The Bloomsburg Good Music Club is increasing rapidly. More members are being solicited. Join a cycle!

Recently the Junior High School pupils elected new officers for the remainder of the year. Esther Evans was elected mayor and John Reimer as judge.

The various committees of the Senior class are very active and the class is now completing arrangements for the Senior Week.

An interesting chapel program was rendered last Friday by Prof. Fisher. We learned that we can see whatever we care to.

Pat George visited the school over the week-end.

Seniors are beginning to count the days before graduation. Just five weeks remaining.

A conflict has been made in arranging the baseball game on Saturday with East Stroudsburg while the Junior Prom is being held at our school. The game is to be played early and the boys will be able to return for the dance.

The students are anxiously waiting for an opportunity to see "Silver King."

The Reflector, Junior High School issue, was published on Wednesday. A new staff entered this publication and will serve for the remainder of the year.

Senior privileges were given at a meeting of the Woman's Student Government on Monday night.

Many Seniors go out with Mr. Fisher to the surrounding towns and give tests to the different students.

Immediately after our return from the Easter holidays the tennis courts were repaired.

The dance which was held by the Alpha Delta Zeta sorority last Saturday evening was a real success.

Leo McGrath, back guard on the Varsity basketball team, has been chosen captain of next year's team.

The Middler class is now considering holding a dance. No definite arrangements as yet have been arranged.

Rain prevented many of the athletic teams from practicing during the week.

McGRATH ELECTED BASKETBALL CAPTAIN

Headed Team For One Season in Old Forge High School.

At a recent meeting of all lettermen of the basket ball squad, Leo McGrath was elected captain of the 1927-28 team. The choice of "Mac" as leader of the basket ball team was a wise selection in as much as he has the ability of being an excellent leader.

Leo headed his team for one season in Old Forge High School and came to Bloomsburg with the reputation of being a leader of remarkable ability. This is "Mac's" second year at this institution. In the past two seasons, while a member of the Bloomsburg Varsity Basketball Team, McGrath has accomplished some remarkable feats and he now possesses an enviable record. He has easily demonstrated his efficiency for the work and he possesses all the fine qualities of a good leader.

If we stop and look into the past history of the basketball team, we will find that Bloomsburg has possessed some excellent leaders. Each new captain seems to be more efficient than his predecessor and without a doubt "Mac" will come up to those of the past.

LOCKER ROOM NEWS

We notice nearly all members of the Locker Room have had some difficulty in getting down to work after the Easter recess.

We are sorry to find that Professor Bakeless is ill. His bad cold has kept him absent from a few classes and thus added to our general ambition.

You may say that "true love never runs smooth"—most of us will agree, but a few lucky members will affirm that this is false.

Sam Fortner and Ned Raker have been burning much midnight oil lately.

The president of our Speech Arts Class, Howard "Percy" Brewington, is an authority on parliamentary law.

"Charlie, My Boy," "Handsome" John was duly caught and apprehended last week by officers of the Royal Paleontological Society of London, and carried away to that city of 7,000,000 souls, to be exhibited as a living proof of Parwin's theory. The price of admission is twenty-five cents. Charlie will soon have his greatest ambition, that of becoming a millionaire, gratified beyond his fondest hopes.

(We hope he won't be sore at seeing his name in this paper).

Only recently has it been released for amateur productions and it therefore carries a high royalty. It is a comedy filled with unique situations, which develop a clever plot.

The colorful stage settings and novel costumes are entertaining in themselves.

"ALL STARS" FEATURED IN GAME AT GYM

Teachers Showed Their Good Sportsmanship in Basketball.

Do you remember a certain Friday night right before our Easter vacation? I hope no one has forgotten "The Basketball Game." We surely should compliment our teachers for their sportsmanship. They were what you would call "all around sports."

I guess you will all agree with us when we say they can surely play basketball. Whom would you pick as the "all star?" Now, that is a hard task, isn't it? Since we have so many experts in this line it would be quite unfair to select "one."

Did they like their chewing gum? I'll say they did! Of course they played such a strenuous game that they had to have some refreshments—tea was also served to them by the Athletic Leaders.

We now wish to call special attention to the referee, "Miss Nelson." It was indeed a great pleasure to be able to secure services of Miss Nelson since she is so much in demand to referee other basketball games.

We wish to thank all the teachers for their cooperation in making the night a success and when it comes to finding good sports we shall know right where to go.

OMEGA CHI FRATERNITY TO HOLD BANQUET

Will be Held at Light Street on Wednesday, May 4.

At a recent meeting of the Omega Chi Fraternity the fraternity decided to hold a banquet on Wednesday, May 4, at Remley's Hotel at Light Street. A delightful program is being arranged and the boys are preparing for an enjoyable evening to be spent together. This banquet marks the first social function of the fraternity. The fraternity has decided to hold its regular weekly meeting at that time.

FROM THE BENCH

Coach Booth was pleased with the results of the fourth inning when we managed to force two runs across the plate.

Bill Rushin decided to join the track team after his mad dash for a long drive of Halicki's.

Captain Bradshaw displayed excellent ability to work the pitcher, Roan, so that Keystone's hits were well scattered.

Wadas made a grab for a fast one and much to the surprise of the fans, he came up with the ball in his mitt.

Wilson had a pretty double out to the fence. His teammates lacked the punch to bring him in.

Slusser played a fast game at second and handled every try successfully.

McGrath showed his calibre when he caught a wild heave which Wadas made.

Red Garrity played an excellent fielding game and came through as usual with his hitting.

Roan pitched airtight ball and came out of every hole successfully.

Yarshefeskys started the scoring for the game when he rushed into home on a pass ball.

While the varsity was winning from Keystone the Junior Varsity took over Bloomsburg High School by the score of 10 to 8.

FRIDAY CHAPEL

Mr. Fisher, of the Psychology Department, Had Charge.

Mr. Fisher, of the Psychology Department, took entire charge of the chapel program. This talk was made extremely interesting by Mr. Fisher as he made every detail clear by the use of pictures. The talk was on subjects taken from the general field of psychology.

First he took up the eye. There were several pictures: first the structure of the eye followed by a description of its function. Then he followed the frontal view of the eye showing the attachment of muscles to the eye, each eye being equipped with six muscles.

Next followed a discussion of all the colors, what makes the colors and the rate at which these colors enter the eye. Other pictures including the inner lining of the eye, the passing of the optic nerve from the eye back to the brain, the shape of the eyeball in case of nearsightedness and farsightedness and several pictures using lines of all types. This lecture was made interesting because the audience itself had the opportunity to experiment with various of these sketches in that everyone could give his or her version of the object thus proving the complex mechanism of the eye.

Everyone agrees that Professor Fisher was successful in proving the value of Psychology and that it is a most interesting study.

NEW ANAESTHETIC

Is Known as "E 107" and is Almost Instantaneous in Effect.

A new anaesthetic has been developed by the German dye trust, which is known so far as "E 107." This is said to be a bromine preparation with the advantages of being introduced in solution rectally into the intestinal canal, producing general anaesthesia. It is almost instantaneous in effect and is said to relieve patients of the anguish and excitement often accompanying other anaesthetics. Heart and pulse are said to remain normal, blood pressure is not reduced, nor are nerves or lungs damaged. The operating surgeon is not bothered by reflexes, for the patient remains quiet while under the influence, which passes off very quickly.

LEVEE MAY BE BROKEN TO SAVE NEW ORLEANS

United States Grants Permission to Break Levee.

"The Mississippi River Commission tonight approved the request of the State of Louisiana and the city of New Orleans to make an artificial crevasse at Poydras, below New Orleans, in case the flood warranted the emergency.

The entire Louisiana National Guard was ordered out tonight by Adjutant General Toombs. The order, General Toombs said, was a precautionary measure to meet any possible developments in the flood situation."

The United States has granted permission to break the levee but could accept no responsibility for damages which might result. In a telegram Secretary Davis, Department of War, stated:

"In view of your determination that an emergency in the public interest exists requiring a break in the Mississippi River levee in the State of Louisiana and also the fact that life and property in the State of Louisiana only are involved, the War Department interposes no objection to such action so far as the interests committed to its charge are concerned, provided the chief engineers, United States Army and the Mississippi River Commission do not object after their conference this afternoon at Vicksburg.

The War Department cannot assume responsibility for any of the injuries and damages resulting from such a break, but will cooperate and render all assistance within its power."

COOLIDGE'S NEW VERSION OF MONROE DOCTRINE

London Seems Astonished at the "Revised Version of Doctrine."

London seems astonished at the "revised version" of the Monroe Doctrine which the English appear to see in President Coolidge's foreign policy speech of April 25.

"According to these, the Monroe Doctrine, henceforth, may be expected to operate in two zones, one in the territory north of the Panama Canal with special intensity. And this inner zone of American interest is to be sacrosanct, not only safeguarded from European intervention, but beyond the influence of South America as well.

"President Coolidge's declaration is regarded as an event of great importance. Much praise was to be heard here for the President's counsel that "Americans should be slow to take offense and quick to grant redress," which was nominated as the best possible text for all foreign policy anywhere.

"There was less delight in the President's phrase, 'the person and property of the citizen are a part of the general domain of the nation, even when abroad.' This was challenged as an unaccepted rewriting of international law."

JUNIOR VARSITY DEFEATS BLOOMSBURG HIGH

Game Was a Free Hitting and Free Scoring Affair.

Jasper Fritz' pitching for the Normal Reserves was too much for the aggregation representing the Bloomsburg High School and the Maroon and Gold team came through with a 10 to 8 triumph at Athletic Park.

The game was a free hitting and free scoring affair and was anybody's game most of the way. The High School representatives jumped into the lead in their first turn at bat and held it until the seventh inning when a four run rally put our boys in the lead. They held the margin gained in that round for the remainder of the game.

The Junior Varsity got one run in the first inning when Coursen drew a pass, stole second and scored on Vital's single. High retaliated with three runs. The Juniors knotted the count in the third after two were out. Stiner and Fortner drew passes and made their way around to third and second respectively on two stolen bases and a passed ball. Bamford scored them with a single. That ended the scoring until High School's half of the third, when Fritz entered the box for Normal.

Shuman sacrificed with Davis scoring. Polk was thrown out at first by Fortner with Long scoring on the play. Coxe, High School moundsman, cracked a double which made the inning's fourth run. Fritz gave but four more hits during the remaining six innings and they were scattered over four innings.

The Maroon and Gold sluggers made three runs which tied the score in the fourth inning. High School's last run came in the fifth when Polk got solidly behind a fast one and drove it to left field for three bases. He continued home with Fowler's wild heave. Normal bounced four singles and a fielder's choice for a quartette of tallies in the seventh. That winning rally ended the day's scoring.

TWO IMPORTANT GAMES

Friday Plays at Factoryville and Saturday at East Stroudsburg.

This week-end will mark the first appearance of the Bloomsburg nine on foreign diamonds. On Friday, Coach Booth and his Maroon and Gold sluggers will invade Factoryville where they will play a return game with the representatives of Keystone Academy. From there they will proceed over the Poconos to East Stroudsburg where they will oppose the Normal School nine of that place.

Both games hold every promise of being interesting. Coach Booth's squad have played two games so far this season and have emerged from both contests victoriously. One of the games was won at the expense of the Factoryville aggregation by the close score of 2 to 1. Keystone has a flashy nine and possesses an excellent pitching staff. A hard tussle is expected and the Maroon and Gold sluggers will have to work hard in an endeavor to repeat last Saturday's victory.

The game on Saturday will be of the greatest importance. East Stroudsburg Normal usually possesses strong athletic teams and their baseball team is as fast if not faster than the nines that represented them in past years. So far this season they have not tasted defeat and should we be successful in handing them a setback, it will be their first of the season.

Coach Booth has put his proteges through a series of exceptionally hard workouts in preparation for the coming games and hopes to see his boys emerge victoriously. Should we annex both contests, we shall still have a clean slate. Bloomsburg has a promising team this year and we are looking forward to a bright season.

The probable line-up will be:

Bradshaw, Catcher.
Roan or Evans, Pitcher.
McGrath, First Base.
Slusser, Second Base.
Wadas, Third Base.
Wilson, Shortstop.
Garrity, Left Field.
Hidlay, Center Field.
Yarashefski, Right Field.

Coach Booth was not able to announce the boys who would make the trip when this paper was sent to press.

THE ALPHA DELTA ZETA SORORITY DANCE

Was Held in Gymnasium on Saturday Evening, April 23rd.

The various organizations of the school have been planning many dances to be held during the next few weeks. The Alpha Delta Zeta Sorority headed the list and held their dance in the gymnasium Saturday night, April 23rd.

The clever decorations, good music and charming hospitality of the host and hostess, Mr. George Mathews and Miss Pauline Vastine, contributed much to the complete success of the affair.

The room was tastefully decorated in lavender and white, the sorority's colors. Music was furnished by Alexander's Orchestra. The orchestra has played at numerous school dances and we feel that we have only to mention the name and everyone will know that it was excellent music.

Each member of the sorority brought guests with her. The members of the faculty present were: Miss Nell E. Moore and Mrs. May K. Duncan, patronesses of the sorority; Miss Claire M. Conway, Miss Lillian Edmunds and Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Reimer.

sition, he handled all of his chances faultlessly and got two passes and a double in four trips at the plate.

The victory keeps the Normal slate clean for the season. Their first games amid foreign scenery will be over the week-end when they play a return game with Keystone on Friday and then journey to East Stroudsburg to meet the Normal School nine of that place on the following day.
