Teachers Surprise St. Thomas

Our team made it four straight by taking two of the hardest games played at our court this year.

Using the best defense the team had displayed this season and penetrating the Tommies strong defense by rapid and clever passing, our team defeated the clever St. Thomas College team by a close score, 38-37.

Our team played real ball from the very start until the final whistle. Getting a good start in the first quarter, our boys managed to hold the lead until the last quarter when it began to see-saw with both teams fighting furiously to the last minute; which at this time our team had a one point lead. There was a confusion during the last few seconds and that was when the ball being tossed at center, one of the Tommies guards received the ball and when in the act of passing, which he did, was called by the referee for running with the ball. Due to the great excitement of the students, the whistle was not heard, and the man passed the ball to Foley, one of their clever forwards, who shot and made it; but the ball was called out of bounds in our team's possession just as the game ended.

There is no doubt in our mind that the "Tommies" had and still have a wonderful combination. We found that out when we went to Scranton and were defeated by a score of 52-32. Our team did not hang their heads in shame, for the players realized that St. Thomas has a first class College team.

The Tommies came down here Friday night with the attitude that the game was as good as one in their favor. On the other hand our team went into the game with the determination that if they did lose, it would not be due to the lack of fighting spirit.

Every one on the team played a brilliant game and for this result credit is due to the fine cooperation of the students in cheering, headed by Siesko and Ford, which gave our boys the proper fighting spirit.

This game was one of the greatest upset of the season and the fans will seldom see a more closely contested game as the one played Friday night.

SPEAKS AT WEST CHESTER

Dr. Haas attended the inaugural ceremonies of Dr. Norman W. Cameron, who was installed as president of the West Chester Teachers College. Dr. Cameron succeeds Dr. Smith, recently retired, as head of the West Chester College.

Rush Season In Sororities

Many girls have been asking numerous questions recently concerning sororities. There are five Sororities in the College. Last fall there was an inter-sorority council formed that placed them on a common basis.

All sororities are very anxious at this time of the year to take in new members. Each sorority wishes to become acquainted with the various girls before they admit them into their groups, so this helps account for all the parties that will be put on the next few weeks.

This may also be of interest and also serve as advice to the Junior girls. If they wish to become sorority members all times they must have on their best behavior.

The sororities wish the cooperation of all students and Faculty in making the rushing season a big success.

VOLLEY BALL CHAMPS

Last Monday the girls that played on the two winning volley ball teams this season turned out with fine spirit to fight for the championship. Even though the winning team was always on the top the game was very interesting. Many Juniors witnessed the game and the players were influenced to a great extent by their applause.

Toddy Austin was captain of the winning team and Krum was captain of the losing team. Even though Krum's team lost they certainly did fight and they showed us they are good sports.

The players on the winning team are as follows:

Toddy Austin, Captain; L. Crowell; J. Contini; M. Higgins; R. Gething; M. F. Morton; M. Melan; K. Jackson; M. Schultz; K. Finneran; D. O'Connell.

MANY FREELANDERS HERE TO WITNESS GAME

When we saw the Freeland gang that came with the team, we certainly were convinced that they have fine school spirit and are interested in in their team. When they lost they did not get sore as St. Thomas did but took it just as they would a victory.

We were surprised to hear all the noise they made. Most of the credit of that was due to their cheer leader who was able to do this with the support of each member present.

The Freeland boys were surprised to hear that we weren't having a dance after the game. We told them that we would have a dance the next time they came, so they felt relieved.

Freshmen Play A Huge Success

Last Thursday night a large and enthusiastic audience witnessed the presentation of the annual Freshman play, which was "So This is London", written by Arthur Goodrich. This play was first produced by Daniel Frohman in New York City, where it enjoyed quite a run, and later it was even played in London itself.

The plot deals with the meeting of an American boy and an English girl, and the overcoming of the prejudices of their respective parents against their marriage, and ends with the feeling on the part of both the English and the American families that another country other than their own may have its good points.

It is a most amusing comedy, with a laugh in nearly every line.

The first scene was the living room at the Ritz in London; the second, the living room at Sir Percy Beauchamp's in Brimshot, and the third, Lady Ducksworth's drawing room. The settings were made by members of the Junior class, and were beautiful and effective, showing a careful attention to detail.

Each member of the cast played his part well, and sustained his character throughout the play in an admirable manner.

The play was directed by Miss Alice Johnston.

The cast of characters in order of their appearance:

Elinor Beauchamp...Grace Baskerville
Hiram Draper, Jr. (called Junior)...

Archibald Reese
Lady Amy Ducksworth...Marjorie Davis
Hiram Draper, Sr. ....

Maynard Pennington
Mrs. Hiram Draper .....Grace Kivler
A Flunky at the Ritz...William Jones

Alfred Honeycutt...Arthur McKenzie
Sir Percy Beauchamp...Philip Kester
Lady Beauchamp...Elizabeth Bowman

Hutchins, a maid.....Florence Jones
Jennings, a butler.....Daniel Delmore

Great credit for the success of the play was due to the producing staff who were as follows:

Faculty Business Manager.....
Mr. Edward Reams

Student Business Manager.....
Harold Stoddard

Stage Manager.....Walter Siesko
Assistant Stage Managers: Doris

Sechrist, Rachel Pratt, Amelia Wonsavage, Dorothy Voight.

Stage Set Committee: Nicholas Jaffin, Chairman; Oliver Williams, Josephine Giger, Mildred Manbeck, Martin Sekulski, Lawrence Ford, Bernard Mohan, Lois Creveling, Clarence Wol-

Obiter Given Honorable Mention

The 1927 Obiter was given honorable rating by the Scholastic Editor of the Department of Journalism, University of Minnesota.

The critics had judged the Obiter from several viewpoints and have exacted penalties where they believed the book could be improved. The rating is based on the score of 100 for a perfect book.

The critics in scoring, had taken into account all the special problems confronting our publication, and these have contributed somewhat to holding the score down.

The Scholastic Editor of the Department of Journalism offered criticisms of the book and we feel that the Obiter published in later years will take advantage of the proposed exchanges.

The 1927 Obiter was planned by George A. Mathews and a staff representing the Senior Class.

ACTED AS JUDGES AT

SCOUT-CRAFT MEETING

Frank McHugh, Nick Jaffin, Wm. M. Jones, Walter Siesko, Sam Forter, Nick Polaneszky and Tom We'sko acted as judges at a scout craft meeting held in the High School gym Monday evening.

The events were part of the scout activities conducted during the week in commemoration of the 18th anniversary of Scout-craft. Much fine work is being done by boys in this line and it is worth-while training. Mr. E. H. Nelson was present with his troop of scouts.

IN NEED OF NEW FLAG

The weather has dealt unkindly with the flag flying over the Memorial Granite. During the past month during which there were severe wind storms, the flag has been torn considerably and each succeeding day the winds tear a little more.

Before the March winds begin to blow, this flag will be ripped to shreds and in no condition to fly over our College memorial.

The Campfire girls have volunteered to raise and lower the flag and we feel that they will have a new flag to replace the one which is now ageing rapidly.

OF US, FOR US, AND BY US

A system of student participation in college government is about to be presented to us for our approval, and to be put in operation if everything can arranged to run smoothly and satisfactorily. That ought to mean that we will have the plan working within a week or so. We must say to ourselves, "It shall succeed." There is no failure where there is will to do. It will be a great honor to have such a system in our college, a source of pride to us as students and alumni and a source of inspiration and help to us as teachers and directors of education. Let us make it a success. Why should we who are to go out and teach citizenship to the youth of the land not be able to govern ourselves?

Ford—"Where I live, a man grew a pumpkin so big when he cut it, his wife used one-half of it as a cradle."

Delmore—"That's nothing, a few days ago at Wilkes Barre, two full grown policemen were found asleep on a beat."

THE FAST FREELAND
M. & M. I. DEFEATED

Saturday night, with Freeland as the attraction on our court, gave our boys a real hard battle from the start to the final whistle. The game played at Freeland was very close with our team winning out in the last minute, but the game last Saturday was a different story.

Coach Booth started the second string men against Freeland and they played good ball. Kraynack, Morgans and Fischer played well while they were in. With the score standing five points ahead in our favor, the varsity went in to replace the second team in the second quarter. Though the varsity played a hard game the night before, our squad looked tired and couldn't get started. The first half ended with a three point lead in our favor.

The varsity started the second half and from then on the team began to pick up in speed and passing which accounted for the score ending 43-37.

Our team with seven victories and three defeats will play two of its hardest games away, Dickinson Seminary on Friday and West Chester S. T. C. on Saturday. If the team comes back with these two games with the same results as the last riding and hiking trip taken to Lock Haven and Mansfield, our team will have a very successful season.

Keep up the good work team! Better luck on the trip.

FUTURE POETS

A college dreamer,—and a college thinker! What very queer terms to be applied to a cheerful, happy-go-lucky, fun-loving individual! Most college people may be described by those phrases, but under all the cheer, the careless attitude, and the fun, there lies, sometimes dormant, a quality that is almost sacred to some students. When that quality is discovered and is given a chance to develop, a combination of almost fear and complete happiness is felt. The student who writes his first four lines of poetry has opened the gate which leads down a gravelled path to a tiny house of gold.

Not all may enter this tiny house of gold; not all will choose to enter it. Some find the gate too hard to open; others find the path a wearisome road, and still others cannot turn the knob on the door of the tiny house of gold. The house is difficult to enter. At first one's eyes will not become accustomed to the glitter of the gold, but soon one finds the knob of the door and ventures on territory that is not sought by many people. What pleasure and success the spacious halls of the tiny house of gold hold for the college dreamer and college thinker, is not known. He must make his own way through the long corridors and he must

MEMORIES OF A YELLOW FEVER MARTYR

While the country is stirred up over the nomination of a president, the issues involved, and the desire to continue general prosperity, we should remember that our country has many private citizens who have given their best both of mind and body to make our nation what it is.

Thousands of people are able to live in greater safety and comfort because of the daring sacrifices made by men who will inconvenience themselves, or even give their lives to help others. Such a man was Kissinger, who gave his body to science in order that yellow fever might be conquered.

This winter Congress will be asked to consider increasing the pension of Private John Kissinger, an American hero who loved his country, offered his life for it, and for some time almost starved to death.

For 200 years medical science had been trying to find what caused yellow fever. Finally the mosquito was looked upon as the guilty party.

Kissinger watched experiments that were being performed on mice and rabbits, but 'medical science was getting nowhere because animals do not contract yellow fever.

One day Kissinger overheard a conversation among the doctors. It was to the effect that it was hopeless to experiment upon animals, and that a camp would have to be established in which experiments might be performed on human beings. He thought about this all night. The next day he offered himself to Dr. Reed to be experimented upon. Dr. Reed looked at him in astonishment. Did he realize what he was saying? Did he understand what might happen to him? Yes he did.

The first test was made by placing five mosquitoes on Kissinger's arm. After they had bitten him they were removed. Days passed and nothing happened. A second test was taken, and again nothing happened. A third time. One week later when Kissinger went to bed he was seemingly as well

Book's Lines

Zeveny—"A muff is defined as 'a thing that holds a girl's hand without squeezing it.'"

Baker—"Any fellow who holds a girl's hand without squeezing it, certainly is a muff."

Miss Kulp—"What are the principal parts of fit?"

Kierker—"I don't know, I never had one."

Pro. Reams—"What is the difference between the boys of today and those of fifty years ago?"

Shovelin—"A great many of the boys of fifty years ago are dead, and a great many of the boys of today ought to be."

as ever. He slept for a while and then awoke. A few minutes later he was wracked by a terrible fever. A doctor was summoned. Kissinger had contracted yellow fever.

For eight days he wrestled with it, and in these eight days the medical staff learned more about this disease than it had learned before in eight years. After his recovery he went back to the hospital, an immune.

One evening in South Bend, Indiana, as he was walking along with his wife he suddenly fell to his knees. It was 13 years before he walked again. Spinal meningitis had set in. Kissinger and his family were without an income. In 1907 the government granted him an income or pension of $12 a month. In 1912 they voted him a grant of $100 a month and the American Association for Medical Progress purchased for him a small farm near Huntingdon, Indiana.

Things are going along fairly well, and as he speaks about this disease he says, "I should do it all over again, if it would help." With such men as Kissinger we need to have no anxiety about our future greatness or glory.

FUTURE POET

dream—dream and think. What vast treasures he acquires through that journey, he will give to the world, willingly and unselfishly. And we call the willing, unselfish individual a "poet."

The dreamer of a college is sometimes called lazy and indifferent. It seems that these qualities do creep in unnoticed, but they are not qualities of the same type that most people apply to the terms. They are qualities that have never been really described—it seems impossible to describe them. Laziness and indifference is the nearest people can come to a description of them, and so the young poet suffers an insult at the hand of a thoughtless and irresponsible person. Who knows what castles he is building or dreams he is dreaming when he possesses the described qualities? It isn't fair to accuse him so grossly. Why can't we seem to understand him a little more clearly?

Poetry builds ideals. A dreamer seeks ideals and seldom allows his head to follow his feet, but rather holds his head high up and carefully plans his direction. His thoughts, reach ever upwards. He not only builds ideals for himself, but he presents his ideals to the world at large. He is big and brave enough to give his own opinions and ideas and ideals to the world,—and still he runs the risk of being scoffed at!

The amount in dollars and cents that a poet will derive from his efforts is very small, but the amount of happiness and joy that he derives, is truly great.

Who knows that we are not right now living and sharing our daily lives with the great poets of tomorrow? Many a genius has been born overnight. And a real poet is truly a genius!

JUNIOR VARSITY WINS EASILY OVER BLOOMSBURG TRAVEL- ERS AND TREVORTON HIGH SCHOOL

The Friday night preliminary game was played against the Bloom Travelers and were easily defeated by a score of 60-24.

The Teachers' College Junior Varsity had an easy time Saturday evening, handing Trevorton High a 43 to 7 trouncing in the preliminary to the Varsity and Freeland game.

Trevorton scored a field goal by working the tap-off through the Bloomsburg defense at the start and failed to score any more in that period. The Varsity led at the opening of the second quarter, 20 to 2, and reserves were used during the second ten minutes of play.

Captain Bobby Wilson was taken out of the game early and was on the Bloomsburg bench during the Varsity game but was not called upon to play.

CAMPFIRE MEETING

A varied program was offered at the meeting of the Campfire Girls on Friday, February 3. A new sort of meeting has been planned, and we hope that it will meet with success.

The first number on the program was a piano solo by Miss Stella Zatawetski. It was well presented and appreciated by the audience. A debate was next, which proved to be very interesting, especially to the girls who live in the dorm. The question was "Lights should be out at 10:15 every night." Those on the affirmative side were Miss Sue Potochny and Miss Anna Albert. Those on the negative side were Miss Dorothy Lord and Miss Isabel Chelocky. Some very interesting facts were presented on both sides. The affirmative side was the winner.

After the debate refreshments were served. During the partaking of these Miss Margaret Dula gave a reading, which was well appreciated.

This is the type of meeting that we expect to carry out in the future. We hope that it will appeal to the girls and make them more interested in the meetings.

GAVE TEA

In appreciation of the work done in the fourth grade, Miss Carpenter, the training teacher, gave an interesting tea last Thursday afternoon in the Fourth Grade Annex. The following were present: Dr. and Mrs. Haas; Jean Haas; Mr. Rhoades; Miss Hazen; Miss Bryan; Miss Rich; Miss Russell; Mrs. Keller; Miss Garrison; Miss Carpenter; Miss Potochny; Miss Baxter; Miss Bower; Miss Cahalan; Miss Guest; Miss Moyer; Mr. Keller; Mr. Hartline; Mr. Bakeless and Mr. Englehart. Everyone had a pleasant afternoon which proved that Miss Carpenter was a very efficient hostess.

Wallace—"I dreamed last night that I married the most beautiful girl in the world."

Daley—"And were we happy?"

MUSICIANS

"Are you taking advantage of the opportunity which the Bloomsburg College Symphony Orchestra offers you? If you play any orchestra instrument and do not belong to the symphony, you are missing a golden opportunity. All students are entitled to membership on the approval of the director.

When you come to fill your teacher's application blanks and the question is asked, "can you play any instrument and if so what experience have you had," what can you say?

The Bloomsburg College Symphony, under the able director of Mr. Fenstermaker, is really an enjoyable extra circular activity. However it is not with his point in view that the orchestra continues this semester, since each member has fulfilled the required one semester of extra circular activity through membership the first semester. Nevertheless the orchestra will continue and extends an invitation to all new members. Wipe off the idle dust from your instrument, shine up the keys and meet with the orchestra in the auditorium at 3:20 on Thursday.

The orchestra has made great progress and has met with unusual success as can be seen through its chapel programs and the successional appearance at the different college functions. The orchestra intends to wind up this year as usual, with its annual "Spring Concert," a display of unusual musical selections taken from the master pieces in music.

The big event—"The Spring Concert."
