Noted Artists Here Thursday

On Thursday evening the Musical Artist's Course will present two excellent numbers.

Julian Kahn had the distinction of being the only cellist to win the five hundred-dollar Sesquicentennial prize awarded by the National Federation of Music Clubs at Philadelphia in November 1926.

He has had the advantage of unusual training from one of the most famous musicians connected with America's musical history. While a student of cello at the Institute of Musical Art, from which he graduated in the Artists Course, he had the constant supervision of the late Franz Kneisel, and was considered one of the most gifted pupils of the Institute.

This young American cellist has been heard in highly successful performances as soloist in New York with the American Orchestral Society, playing the Brahms Double Concerto with Bernard Ocko, violinist, and as soloist in Carnegie Hall with the Banks Glee Club, among other interesting New York appearances. On tour with the Marmein Dancers last year, he was heard as soloist in various centers of the middle west. In his repertoire are all the standard virtuoso concerti as well as a wide selection from the classics written for his instrument. His interest in the interpretative possibilities in modern music is also keen, and he has included in his repertoire several interesting works by contemporary Americans.

Julian Kahn is also noted in New York and elsewhere as a chamber music player of exceptional ability, having developed a high degree of facility in ensemble work. He has played in chamber music concerts, public and private, with many of the most noted artists in the country.

Through his concertizing in both fields he is gaining a distinctive reputation in his chosen work, and is becoming more and more widely known. He is undoubtedly on his way to taking his place among cellists of the first rank within a short time.

BERNARD OCKO is very rapidly taking his place as one of the most brilliant and outstanding of the younger violinists. Since 1925, when he was chosen from a great number to be soloist with the Philharmonic Orchestra at the Lewisohn Stadium and won the Walter W. Naumburg Musical Foundation prize of a New York recital which he gave in January, 1926, he has forged ahead in the concert field, filling

Valentine Dance Enjoyed By Students

Colored hearts in wild profusion, red streamers hung on graceful arches from the ceiling, soft lights, couples gliding here and there, over the floor, dreamy music, and the gentle of the punch bowl, that was the Valentine Dance held in the gym on Friday night.

We believe that every one who attended this first dance sponsored by the college this year enjoyed themselves immensely. Many favorable comments were made on the way the dance was handled and also on the excellent music furnished by Alexander's twelve piece orchestra.

Card tables were placed in Waller Hall and many students who did not care to dance could be seen enjoying a friendly game of cards during the evening. Bowls of Miss Ward's famous punch were placed in one end of the gym, where the dancers could refresh themselves between dances.

Guest cards were collected at the doors from the guests invited here by the various students. Many new faces could be seen on the dance floor and many alumni were present to renew old acquaintances.

The committee who arranged for the dance and those who decorated and helped make the dance a success are to be congratulated on their fine work. We hope that many more such occasions will occur in the future.

PREPARING ENTERTAINMENT

The men of North Hall, at a recent meeting, decided to entertain the other members of the College by presenting a novelty show in the near future. The type of entertainment is kept a secret and is known only to those on the very inside of the doings.

Vid Jones heads the committee that has charge of preparations and assures the student body that there is a treat in store for them when this entertainment is produced. All details will be original and only material written and composed by the North Hall gang will be used in the production.

College Pays Tribute to Lincoln

On the 119th anniversary of the birth of the great Emancipator the college paid proper tribute to Abraham Lincoln.

The program given in the Auditorium by Miss Maupin's history class was of excellent quality. It was not a long drawn out discourse of Lincoln's life but brought out his greatest achievements without delving into detail. The following program was given:

America—School.

A Southerner's View of Lincoln—Miss Pennington.

Abraham Lincoln—Mr. Welsko.

Literary Work of Lincoln—Miss Orr.

Humorous Sayings of Lincoln—Mr. McHugh.

The student body received this program with great appreciation.

HOW LONG SHOULD

TEACHERS WORK?

As future teachers the students of this institution are interested in the question of how many hours a day a teacher should work. Some teachers say that they will not work more than eight hours a day. Their main argument is that people in other positions have only eight hours of work. Why should teachers have to work longer?

The question is: Can a teacher conscientiously fulfill his part of the contract in eight hours? In considering this question we should keep in mind individual differences and individual abilities. Some teachers can do more work in six hours than others can do in twelve. Some teachers can do their best for about eight hours, but if forced to work longer they lose interest in their work. We know that a disinterested teacher can accomplish little.

Another point to be considered is the use the teacher makes of his leisure. The teacher should not try to hold down another job or keep house. The period of leisure should be spent mainly in recreation.

Another thing to be taken account of is the subject that the teacher is teaching. It is a well known fact that it requires more time to present effectively some subjects than others.

From these observations we would conclude that no hard and fast rule can be made as to how many hours a teacher should spend on his work.

Teachers Win Over Dickinson

Yocabonis was the Joffre who marshalled the quintet of this State Teachers' College when they were on the verge of defeat and led them to a 26 to 25 victory over Dickinson Seminary here tonight.

It was the fifth consecutive victory of the visitors and their eighth triumph in eleven games and it was gained because Yocabonis in two minutes scored six points to put his team ahead and then for another two minutes helped his mates "kill" the ball until the game ended.

Bloomsburg was not at its best tonight and a hard battling Dickinson team did some pretty work in the second half to gain a commanding lead. Then Yocabonis and Fischer were injected into the Bloomsburg line-up and while the former caged enough points to gain victory the latter aided in tightening the defense and keeping Dickinson from adding to its total.

Bloomsburg got off to an early lead and held it during most of the first half. They had an 18 to 14 advantage at half time. It was in the second half that Dickinson settled down to business and by a clever passing attack at the start of the third period demoralized the Bloomsburg defense and scored eight points to take an 18 to 14 lead before Bloomsburg resumed scoring.

Dickinson held this lead most of the half and apparently had the game tucked away in the victory column when Yocabonis put new life in the Maroon and Gold team and led them to victory.

The game was marked by comparatively little fouling. Both teams however, made the best of the shots they had from the foul line, Dickinson making five of six chances good while Bloomsburg caged 8 out of 11.

Wadas and Captain McGrath played fine basketball for Bloomsburg while Kolb, Dickinson's fast going guard, rang up four baskets to lead his team.

JUNIOR VARSITY DOWNS

BERWICK A. C.

Maintaining the point a minute rate that has featured the past five games in which they played, the Bloomsburg Teachers' College Junior Varsity five Saturday night on the College floor defeated the Berwick A. C. 48 to 22.

The Junior Varsity got off to an early start and were in front 17 to 4 at the end of the first period. They were unable to increase their lead in the second period but continued widening the margin in the second half.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

George Washington has been and still is known as the "Father of His Country." It matters not what the critics may say, nor how much men with pet ideas of hero-destruction may malign him, he is yet "Honest George" to the ordinary man and woman. It is well that it is so, for the nation to remain unified and retain a patriotism in a broad sense must have a common and tangible background, and what could be better than a common hero-worship. Are not all religions based on hero-worship. Are not Moses, Christ, Confucius, Buddha, Zoroaster, and Mohammed heroes. It is true they are not the blood-and-thunder, fire-eating individuals we ordinarily associate with the name, hero, but are they not also heroes and better heroes than Hercules, Ulysses, Le Cid, King Arthur, Siegfried, or Rama. Though their deeds were not so spectacular their names have lasted as long as the latter, and will probably be remembered and revered when these have been long forgotten. George Washington was the hero of our Revolution, our ancestors' struggle for freedom from a pro-

BASKET-BALL TEAMS JOURNEY TO WYOMING

The Pettibone Gym at Kingston will be the scene of two lively contests when the teams of our College line up against the strong Wyoming aggregation.

Our boys were defeated in a hard fought game by the small margin of two points earlier in the season but they are confident that they will reverse the decision on Saturday night.

The College Jr. Varsity will line up against the Jr. Varsity of Wyoming at 7:15 and the Varsity contest will start at 8:00.

Many of the local students will journey to Kingston to witness the contests. Let's join them and cheer for the teams.

BEAT WYOMING FIRE — GLOW

The hot coals in the fire are kind
To lend your face that peach-like glow,
As you peel the shiny apple rind
With silver knife so very slow;
I stop a moment now and then
And cease to shake the popping corn,
Just to see the look that men
Love to see a face adorn.
Out among the brooding pines
The North has come with his sad blast:
What do I care for moans and whines
When I have my rosy lass?
I wish the wind would always blow
So your face would always glow!

tection they no longer needed and which was becoming a tyranny. Whatever may have been Washington's personal character, however interesting to the student it ought to have no influence on our opinions of him as the one man who was able to carry through the difficult and uncertain task of conducting a none too popular revolution. He risked his all, and that was no small amount, in an almost vain attempt to defend what must have been to him, as to most of the colonists, merely a principle, a belief. But to him in particular, a well-born, well educated, well connected man with wealth and influence both here and in the mother country, there could have been little practical significance in the idea of liberty and equality. Therefore, it is all the more wonderful that he should have given up the pleasure of running a peaceful plantation to risk his life and honor in an uncertain war. Hence, I think it perfectly justifiable and right to regard him as our first and greatest hero, and to put no stigma on those who believe in his apotheosis.

CONCERNING EXTRA CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Second Semester 1927-1928

The extra curricular requirement can be met with satisfactory participation in any group activity and certain individual activities in such fields as music, art, literature, science, athletics, community citizenship, etc., for which credit is not given in one of the regular curricular courses, and for which there is a faculty advisor, and the object of which is not purely social.

All of the activities developed during the past semester are approved for extra curricular credit during the second semester provided they supply an opportunity for students who need extra curricular credit during the second semester, and such other activities as the Campfire Girls, Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts and other generally recognized organizations contributing to citizenship which may be developed under a faculty adviser. In addition, extra curricular credit may be met by individuals who hold positions as officials of their classes, as officials on such College publications as The Observer, The Maroon and Gold, and officials who may be elected in the Community Government Organization and those who take a reasonable part in class activities, such as class plays, etc. The responsibility is the students to find out in advance regarding the extra curricular credit from the faculty adviser.

The College schedule has been kept free of curricular classes after 3:10 on Tuesday and Thursday for meetings of the extra curricular groups. In addition to this, meetings may be held on Wednesday evening provided they are completed by 7:45. In carrying this out there will be no dancing Wednesday evening and the quiet period will be from 7:45 to 9:45, (and Waller Hall is reserved for the girls beginning immediately after dinner.) For those not engaged in extra curricular activities on Wednesday evening the present regulations are effective.

VARSITY SUBS BEAT LOCK HAVEN

Running wild from the start, Coach Booth's Warriors handed Lock Haven Teachers College an 82 to 31 trouncing on the local court Saturday evening to gain their sixth consecutive victory and their ninth win in twelve starts.

Coach Booth did not use his first string men in starting the game. He used his reserve and Junior Varsity men in running up the overwhelming score.

Morgan and Kraynack started at forwards, Fischer at center, and Yocabonis and Hawkins at guard. Hawkins pulled the iron man stunt by playing both the Junior varsity and the Varsity contests. Bobby Wilson, Jr. Varsity Captain got into the game and gave a good account of himself.

Fischer and Yocabonis starred for Bloomsburg. Fischer scoring 27 points and Yocabonis 16. Kraynack played a good game.

MANY FANS GOING TO WYOMING

At least fifty students have expressed their willingness to make the trip to Wyoming Seminary on Saturday night to see the Varsity trim Sem. The athletic teams of Sem. seem to be the jinx of our boys but after six successive victors the Maroon and Golders should not worry about the jinx. We are sure they can take care of him and add another scalp to their belt. The battle cry this week is "BEAT SEM." Bring home another victory.

Mr. Ocko is an American. In addition to a B. A. degree from Columbia University he received an Artist's degree and medal with highest honors at the Institute of Musical Art in New York, where he studied with Mark Fonaroff and the late Franz Kneisel. Under Mr. Kneisel's guidance he has gone through the entire quartet literature of Beethoven, Brahms, Schubert, Mozart and Haydn, and his concert repertoire is very extensive. He has had valuable experience in chamber music. Mr. Ocko has also done considerable composing, having written a double fugue for solo violin, a string quartet and a number of other works.

Among his appearances are two with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, playing first the Wieniawski Grand Concerto in F-sharp minor, then the Brahms D major Concerto; two joint concerts with Marion Talley, and an appearance with the Beethoven Association of New York. He also had a several weeks tour to the Pacific Coast.

BERLIN BANS NEW FORDS

Because the hand and foot brakes on the new Ford model automobile do not conform to requirements of the official German board controlling steam boilers, the latest Ford turnout has for the present been refused a license to operate.

The new Ford system of working hand and foot brakes with the same mechanism is in violation of the German safety regulations prescribing a distinct mechanism for each brake. This, however, is considered only a transitory complication that will have no influence on the sale of new Fords, which are not expected to arrive on the German market before six or eight weeks. The required mechanism has already been designed and will be mounted at the Ford plant in Berlin. Alteration will also be necessary for Fords licensed to enter Germany from other European countries.
