INDIANA MAN TO HEAD COMMERCIAL WORK

Prof. Harvey A. Andruss Chosen to Head New Department Here

Start Summer School. Full Course not to be given until opening fall term.

Professor Harvey A. Andruss, for many years connected with the commercial department of the State Teachers College at Indiana, has been selected as the director of the new department of commercial teacher training which is being added to the curriculum.

The regular four year commercial teachers' course in the degree of bachelor of science in education, will not begin until the opening of the Fall term, September 2, 1930, but subjects in business law, business economics and introduction to business training will be offered during the summer session which opens June 16th. Students completing the four year course will be certified to teach in the secondary schools of the State.

Our institution is the only teachers' college in the eastern part of the State offering this commercial course and the course is expected to attract many students to Bloomsburg. Indiana in the western part of the State is the only other teachers' college in Pennsylvania offering this work.

Professor Andruss has contributed to many business and educational magazines and per-

Politics are now playing an important part on the campus.

We see Teddy Laskowski is developing a wave in his hair.

"Bull Sessions" are now prominent on North Hall porch.

It costs a lot of money to run a baseball team. So the boys have figured out.

We notice West tinkering with his new lawn mower on the campus.

The recent Carnegie exams have left its toll among the students.

The boys tried their artistic ability on Mohan and McGowan. Who's next?

Don't forget the Play Tournament tomorrow night.

See you at the Y. M. C. A. Vod-Vil show tonight.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS NOW COMPLETED

The commencement activities will begin with the Senior Banquet which will be held in the college dining hall Thursday evening, May 22. The following night, Friday May 23, the Senior Ball will be held in the college gymnasium. Saturday, May 24, is Alumni Day; the luncheon which all members of the Senior Class will attend will be served in the college dining hall. After the luncheon our baseball team will meet Wyoming Seminary on Mount Olympus. Sunday afternoon, May 25, the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered in the auditorium by the Rev. Norman S. Wolf, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church. On Monday May 26, the Ivy Day exercises will be held on the campus in the late afternoon and the Class Night program will be given in the auditorium in the evening. Commencement will be Tuesday morning, May 27. The commencement speaker will be Dr. Herrick, President of Girard College.

The class memorial will be an exact copy of a famous painting, secured at a cost of $250.

The class officers are: President, Chas. A. John; vice-president, Norma J. Knoll; secretary, Thursabert Schuyler, treasurer, Alex Kraynack.

The class advisors are E. A. Reams, and E. H. Nelson.

The Ivy-Day orator is Josephine Holuba. Edgar Richards will read the class poem which was written by Marie Q. Nelson.

Clarence Ruch is Editor of the Obiter; Jack Taylor is the business manager. The Obiter is now in the hands of the publisher.

The following committees are working hard on the various phases of the commencement program:

General: Norma Knoll, chairman; Lillian Reese; Katherine Vollrath; Minnie Rowe; Irma Kapp; Cyril Stiner; Llewellyn Edmunds; Virginia Cruikshank; Regina Williams and Jennie Hauser.

Banquet: Raymond Hodges, chairman; Frank Dushanko; Katherine Fleming; Jack

BLOOM TRIMS MANSFIELD AGAIN

Victors in Baseball and Tennis

Spring Athletics have gotten away with a flying start both in baseball and tennis.

Our baseball team has defeated Mansfield in two games by large scores. Our team is hitting the ball hard and often. With many of last years team together again, Coach Booth was able to use these men as a nucleus for the present winning combination.

The tennis team is showing a reversal of their last years form by defeating Mansfield in both matches they have played with them. The team is composed of Captain Ruch, Wambaugh and Fortner of last years team and Sutliff a new member this year but an old member of our squads, he being a member of the 1925 team.

Waller Hall News

On April Fools Day an old club of four year girls had its last social event. The girls motored to Rose Tea Room at Light Street where they enjoyed a delicious chicken and waffle dinner. Jo Holuba and Peg Swartz were tied for first place in the waffle eating contest. Peg Oswald led the singing and Doc Bone told some very interesting anecdotes.

The guest of honor was Mrs. K. L. Sutliff.

After dinner the girls returned to Bloomsburg where they attended the Capitol theatre. A treat of Pete Irvin's ice cream at Catawissa ended the evening's fun.

Guests included: Kay Fleming, Retta Fleming, Peg Swartz, Thursa Schuyler, Anna Ervin, Dot Foote, Winnie Follmer, Hazel Sanders, Marie Nelson, Jo Holuba, Myra Sharpless, Doc. Bone, Peg Oswald, and Maude OConnell, Norma Knoll, chaperones.

Y. M. C. A. News

This year has been an important period in the development of the Y. M. C. A. Increased interest is being shown by the men of the campus. From the failures and successes of the past and the dreams of the future the organization will formulate an active and highly beneficial program for the coming year.

The officers for 1930-31 are: President, Oliver Krapf; Vice-President, Thomas Henry; Secretary, Daniel Thomas; Treasurer, Kenneth Hawk; Counselor, Seymour Stere; Deputations, Clarence Hunsicker.

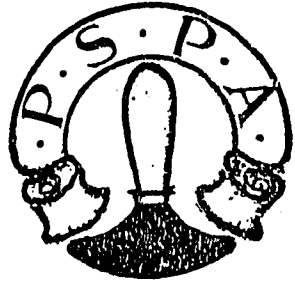

An officers training camp was held at Susquehanna University May 1-4 at which we were represented.

OUR SWAN SONG

With this issue the Maroon and Gold makes its Swan Song for the year 1929-1930. We, the staff have tried to give the student body a paper representative of our college and have tried to live up to our policy, News about you—of you—for you.

Some may say we have failed in many respects but it must be remembered that the staff has found themselves hemmed in by a boundary of insufficient funds and space which would admit no sweeping innovations. Because of this, we were compelled to change from a weekly paper to a bi-monthly paper. We were therefore unable to put out more than fourteen editions this year.

So we want to take the opportunity in this last edition of the year to thank the administration and student body for their loyal support; if not financial support at least moral support. Of course as we all know, moral support is only secondary to financial support.

Next year we hope to put the Maroon and Gold on an entirely new and different basis. Subscriptions will no longer be voluntary, but will be collected by a means satisfactory to everyone.

With this new principle established it will mean that a paper can be issued regularly each week throughout the year without the editor and business manager continually worrying about where the money is coming from for the next edition.

We the retiring members of the Executive Committee hope the student body has appreciated our efforts, such as they were, while hemmed in by this boundary of insufficient funds.

We have tried however, students, to have a paper that you can be justly proud of, for it ranks with the papers of the other colleges in the state.

The retiring Editor thanks the 1929-1930 staff for their co-operation with him and extends best wishes for the success of the 1930-31 staff.

odicals. His most recent contribution is a series of three articles dealing with methods of teaching bookkeeping. The first article of this series appeared in the September 1930 issue of The Balance Sheet, a magazine for commercial teachers. As the result of the demand for these articles they were combined in an educational monograph "How to Use Practice Sets in the Teaching of Bookkeeping."

The business problems committee of the Investment Bankers Association selected Professor Andrus in 1927 to investigate cost accounting practices among its members. For a year he visited a large number of the leading investment banking concerns in the United States studying business conditions and accounting practices. The result of this investigation will be used in formulating a uniform cost accounting system to be used by the members of the Association. A private accounting practice dealing with the Pennsylvania Securities Commission has acquainted Professor Andrus with a knowledge of corporate business practices in this State.

This combination of teaching and business experience coupled with adequate academic preparation fits Professor Andrus to head the new department for training commercial teachers.

The Pergola

The voice of wind and storm is here
The rain and snow in turn appear
But still serene your columns white
Stand guard by day nor sleep at night.

On festal day we come to play
The children dance—'tis happy May
Rob Hood and all his jolly band
Have sported here on every hand.

Here Puck and Bottom spend the night
Midsummer's Dream—Titania's plight
All staged around your graceful bower
We come—to spend a happy hour

In summer graced by Ivy green
Your lovely form is daily seen.

In winter clothed with wool so white
New beauty then our eyes delight.

I come with book—my troubles cease
Your restful charm brings calm and peace
Of all the lovely spots held dear
Your place is first—the heart to cheer.

Junior Prom Puzzles Frosh

The Junior class, realizing that their overlords and directors, the class of 1930, during the past three years, are about to pass their authority to other hands, acknowledged this by holding a dance in their honor. It may be that this dance was not a formal farewell for the seniors, but it may have been an expression of exultation, of the Juniors, because they are about to become the guiding influence for next year.

May 3, 1930, some Freshmen sitting on the porch at North Hall were startled to see several upper-classmen in "tuxes". They had impertinence to ask where the Glee Club was singing, but they were politely ignored. One of the "Frosh" forwarded the theory of a dance, because it was Saturday night.

In the lobby of Waller Hall, some of the "lowly ones" were enlightened when many of our fair co-eds made their appearance in long, sylph-like gowns of beautiful colors. The "Frosh" gazed on these beautifully adorned creatures, and also noted small, black books in their hands, somewhat resembling a pocket dictionary that one uses for cribbing, when taking a language final.

As the "Frosh" reviewed the creatures, all the while passing remarks like judges of a beauty contest, it was noticed that the small books were attached to milk-white wrists by black and silver cords. They finally arrived at the conclusion that the Junior "Prom" was being held in the gymnasium.

The class president, William Weaver, named the following to serve on the dance committee. Edward DeVoe was made chairman and he was assisted by David Baker, Helen Gibbons, Beatrice Bowman, Dorothy Kisner and Rebecca Gilmore.

The orchestra was placed on the northeast side of the gymnasium, below the bleachers. A silver and black screen covered with a futuristic art design served as a background. The lights were covered with black and silver crepe paper and the dancers glided beneath an arch of black and silver streamers.

Bucknell's Bluest Blue Band blew their blues in voluminous blasts to each cubic inch of the gymnasium and at 11:30 P. M. the music was harshly jarred by the gong, signifying the end of the dance.
