

Get Your Dates Now! Bowery Brawl Is Only A Week From Saturday

Informality is Aim of Annual Girls Hop
in Old Gym March 16

CONSULT DATE BUREAU

Warning to the men:

Beware the Ides of March! Caesar was warned, and I guess it's well to warn all the fellas, too. In case your Roman history didn't register, boys, the Ides of March happens to be the day before the annual Bowery Brawl given by Haven Hall girls.

If you're still in the dark, the Brawl is to be held in the old gym the night of March 16th, where informality is the keynote and a grand time is planned for all. Don't worry, boys, it won't cost you a thing because the girls foot the bill.

To the ladies:

Remember, it's only once every four years that we can have such a rare combination as the Bowery Brawl and Leap Year, so let's take advantage of it. Get your date early to avoid the last-minute rush, and if you're in need of a good suggestion, see Ellen Graves, who is sponsoring the Date Bureau. No service charge. Tickets at 25c per couple may be obtained from Louise Vallance, and if you want to send "him" an invitation, see Lolly Maxwell.

The Brawl:

What to wear? Anything goes. If you want to dress like a denizen of the Bowery, a Boy Scout, a four-year-old, or Sadie Hawkins, that's quite alright. Floor show by the Freshman—practically professional talent. Music by Glenn Miller, Orrin Tucker, Hal Kemp—whom do you want? Just name the orchestra. Well, girls, it's your golden opportunity, so get your date early for the sixteenth of March.

INTRAMURAL COURT TOURNEY BEGINS IN NEW GYM MONDAY

Seven Organizations Enter Teams In Double Round Robin Tournament Play

Managers and Coaches
Draft New Regulations
for Equal Competition

VARSITY MEN INELIGIBLE

Organizing intramural basketball competition into an "A" and a "B" league, Coaches Bailey and Harrison met with team managers last Monday morning in Reeder Hall to lay plans for a Round Robin Tournament beginning next Monday at 4:00 p. m. in the new gymnasium.

Seven organizations have signed up to enter one or more teams in each of the leagues. They are: Phi Sigma Pi, Kappa Delta Phi, Reeder Hall, Freshmen, Commuters, Y. M. C. A., and the Spectator. Phi Sigma Pi, Kappa Delta Pi, Reeder Hall and Freshmen have a team in each grade of competition.

In order to equalize competition, varsity squad men and transfer students are limited to competition in League "A." All other students may play in either League "A" or "B." Varsity lettermen are ineligible.

The competition is to be in the form of a double round robin tournament with one game each afternoon at 4:00 p. m. Games will be played (Continued on Page Three)

Editor Explains Varied Purposes Of Edinboro College Newspaper

What is the purpose of a college newspaper? In the first place a college newspaper should be an organ of information for the student body, faculty, alumni, administration, and all persons connected with the college. Secondly, it should reflect the opinions of these groups so that increased cooperation and understanding might result among them. Thirdly, and what is probably the greatest purpose of a college newspaper, it should provide students the great opportunity to gain much valuable and practical experience in the journalistic and business methods of producing a newspaper.

It is this latter purpose that really makes a newspaper of genuine value. Too, with its complete fulfillment in an educating manner, the first two purposes will be achieved as a consequence. Yet, if this latter purpose is not fulfilled, little will be accomplished of any importance and a college newspaper will fail to fulfil its purpose.

Success in the fulfillment of this purpose depends not on the efforts of one person alone as many people are prone to think when they talk of an Editor-in-Chief. Rather it depends on the combined efforts of many persons, and only by the combined efforts of these persons, can the necessary work of making a college newspaper such as the Spectator be done.

Each issue the necessary work of making the Spectator consists primarily of five thousand words of "copy". This copy, on the whole, is distinctly creative work, and with the rate of creative work set at two hundred (Continued on Page Two)

Phi Sigma Pi Dinner Held In Haven Hall With Forty-six Present

Twenty-two Pledges at Founders' Day Meeting

PRESENT ELEVEN SHINGLES

Phi Sigma Pi held its annual Founders' Day Dinner Meeting in Haven Hall dining room on Saturday, March 2nd, at 6:00 p. m., with President James D. Brown acting as toastmaster.

Striking the keynote of the dinner, Historian Graves presented a brief resume of Phi Sigma Pi and of Edinboro's Upsilon Chapter. Member Anthony Cutri introduced the pledges of 1940, twenty-two in number.

Vice-president James D. Wood, who was last year first president of Upsilon Chapter, presented fraternity shingles to eleven recently initiated members.

The program was concluded with a word from alumni members present and by the reading of letters from absent members by Secretary Nissen.

Mr. Waldo F. Bates, Jr., faculty advisor, and other fraternity members ended the program with remarks and the singing of the "Alma Mater."

Kappa Delta Phi Holds Traditional Hell Week

Initiate Nine Pledges
During Past Week

On Saturday evening, March 2, nine pledges of Kappa Delta Phi, a national professional honorary fraternity, ended a most eventful Hell Week, with their tribunal being held in the old college gymnasium.

Those who received the informal initiation were: Richard Rockwell, Raymond Meadway, Al Block, Frank Ordon, David Blasdell, Joseph Scalise, Jack Mensinger, Max Leslie, Richard Whitehill.

These pledges are probationary members, and on good conduct, will be installed as full fledged members next semester.

and fifty words per hour (which is possibly quite fast for some persons), it takes, for the actual composition of copy, approximately twenty hours.

However, twenty hours of creative writing demands at least an equal amount of time spent in securing the information for the copy. This varies greatly and possibly forty hours of investigation is much nearer the amount required.

Between this composition of the actual copy and the distribution of the printed newspaper on Wednesday there are numerous necessary jobs, such as headline writing, proof reading, and make-up—to mention a few, that probably take a hundred collective hours to complete. It is easy to see that a hundred and sixty hours of work already accounted for in actual production, no college student—not even a genius—could do this job alone. By the way, the sale of advertisements and subscriptions along with other necessary functions of a business nature, add to this total, for they are surely a necessary part of a college newspaper.

What is the point behind this definition of the purpose of a college newspaper and the presentation of these facts? It is done chiefly to acquaint the Edinboro student body with the problem of producing the Spectator. Too, it is to show that an Editor-in-Chief is really an unimportant person who must depend very greatly on the assistance of others. Lastly, the Spectator, in order to fulfil the purpose of a college newspaper, needs not the lone-wolf effort on the part of a single person, but the united effort on the parts of many who by their individual contributions, do the important work of fulfilling this purpose.

—The Editor-in-Chief.

SPECTATOR OUTLINES EDITORIAL POLICY

With this issue the Spectator begins another period of publication. An almost entirely new staff has assumed the responsibilities of reporting, editing and managing this college's newspaper.

Too, the editorial staff has assumed the larger responsibility of being servants to the voice of student opinion on this campus. With this thought in mind, the staff will, to the best of its ability, serve and be responsive to that opinion which is a natural and necessary part of this institution.

However, this student opinion, though natural and necessary, will not be allowed to degenerate into mere ranting and futile gnashing of teeth. In other words, the Spectator is not to become an instrument of "veiled comments" and anonymous haranguing between partial groups. Too often, later circumstances have proved that a single boost is many times more valuable than a barrel of knocks. So, with this first editorial, it is the announced policy of this newspaper to discuss with freedom and reason, the opinion of the students on this campus, but, at the same time (and at all times) to keep it out in the open and on a high plane worthy of Edinboro College.

Students Unanimously Back 'The Spectator'

OFFER GOOD SUGGESTIONS

Voting unanimously to continue to publish the Spectator, the student body of the College in last Wednesday's assembly poll showed their interest in their newspaper and contributed many commendable suggestions for its improvement.

That no student voted to discontinue publication of the Spectator is heartening to a hard-working staff and is a splendid indication of the united support backing the Spectator.

Among the suggestions for improvement were: use of more pictures and prints, greater regularity of publication dates; more humor and cartoons (preferably done by students); and more expression of student opinion.

The Spectator staff and its editor are in thorough agreement with these suggestions and will attempt in each succeeding issue to comply with student recommendations.

Science Review

by Florian Florek

The layman has many conceptions and misconceptions concerning the various phases of the physical and chemical world. To many, the very word "scientist" brings up a veritable imagery of witch-doctors and magicians. There is no conception that is more unreal than this. Perhaps there are various reasons for its being so but let us examine more closely. Scientists are not magicians, hypnotists or witch-doctors; they work according to a prescribed formula and expect results as such. Magicians merely play upon the gullible nature of the American public. Thus have been formed the various misconceptions concerning the scientific fields.

Another point of interest is concerned with the material advances of science. No one surely will doubt the progress. We merely have to look to our homes, our schools, and cities to find examples. But do the people of today live in a more happy mood than did our forefathers?

Evidence shows that the Greeks and the Romans were as happy a race as we are, and yet they lived without the material inventions that we have today. We seem to be happy with our automobiles, movies, and football games, but were not the Greeks equally happy with their chariot races, sword battles and bull-fights?

Scientists have provided for the material needs of man; will the psychologists and sociologists provide for the happiness of mankind? Maybe, it's something to think about.

Edinboro Players Will Present 'Our Town' And 'What A Life'

Senior Class Sponsors Pulitzer Prize Play

ENTIRE CLUB IN CAST

The Edinboro Players have two three-act plays in production, "What A Life" and "Our Town." The former sponsored by the club itself and the latter by the Senior class.

"What A Life" is a comedy alive with real American humor. The action takes place in the office of the principal of the high school. The characters of students and teachers are so real that every teacher and prospective teacher will find himself portrayed in one of the nineteen characters.

"Our Town" is modern play.

"Our Town" is an extremely modern, unusual play with a cast of fifty—the entire club. It is the story of the lives of common ordinary people in a town about the size of Edinboro, containing the full range of emotions from hilarious comedy to deep tragedy. It runs the entire length of human life—birth, marriage, and death.

Which production is to be presented first has not been definitely decided, but an announcement to this effect will be made in the near future.

Leap Year Party Held As Women Get Catches

Games and Dancing are Part of Y. W. Fun

Society bestows upon women some rare privileges during leap year, and the women on the Edinboro campus are not the kind to sit idly by and allow this opportunity to pass.

On the evening of February 28, certain gentlemen found themselves openly inveigled by hook and by crook into attending the Y. W. C. A. Leap Year Party. This party was directed by Miss Kathleen McCray, who is social chairman of the organization.

The "catches" arrived, displaying in the conventional manner, gorgeous corsages of the very latest creations. These shoulder "beau"quets were fashioned with real, feminine finesse from everything under the winter sun, including paper cups, straws, bread crusts, olives, corks, and wood shavings. In the fashion parade, Mr. Harold Powers received recognition for the most artistic creation, while Mr. Leon Mead and Mr. Norman Dilley were runners up.

Games and dancing made a long evening short and the spirit which prevailed recalled the fact that the Edinboro Christian spirit still goes in for a lot of good, clean, clever fun with a great amount of success.

Play Initial Contest In New Gymnasium; Varsity Leads at Half

GRADS STAGE RALLY

The Red Raiders, playing their first game in the new gymnasium on Saturday night, had little difficulty in defeating the Alumni 42-38 in a slow game in which the varsity held the lead throughout.

Palmquist, a former Edinboro great, led this last minute attack, adding seven points to the alumni total in the fourth quarter.

Abahazi, with twelve points, and Crunick, with ten, were high scorers for the Raiders.

John "Elmo" Wolfe, a graduate of last January, clicked in four field goals and two fouls for a total of ten points to lead the alumni attack. Palmquist had seven.

Skiers Have Success In Year's Activities

Popular Ski Club Selects New Members

The interest in skiing this year far surpassed all previous years, with the girls developing quite rapidly and doing very well with controlled skiing.

Participating in two ski meets this season and proving able to hold their own, the skiers deserve much credit and praise. The first meet was held at Ellicottville, New York, sponsored by the Niagara Frontier Ski Council; the second meet was at Kane. The latter was the Allegheny National meet.

The Ski Club has issued very striking invitations for membership to the Misses Ellen Haiston, Betsy Vincent, Doris Heintz, and Pat Masterson. The following men were made honorary members: Dick Rockwell, Roy Christensen, Robert Kaufman and Harold Schreckengost.

The Ski Club each year presents a pair of skis to the student who has developed rapidly in the skills of skiing and who has shown most interest in the sport. This award went to Ellen Haiston with honorable mention going to Doris Heintz for her keen skiing and good sportsmanship. In the beginners group, the first award was given to Pat Masterson, and the second honors were shared by Genevieve Kaminski and Martha Heintz. At the Phi-Delta meet last week, the Deltas won with a score of 113 against the Phis 93. Doris Heintz took all individual honors by coming in first in cross-country and slalom.

Here we give thanks to Dick Rockwell, Edinboro's outstanding skier, for his time in giving instruction to our skiers.

Junior Prom, Greatest Of All College Events, Is To Be Held April 20

Benny Jones Orchestra Plays in Training School

KING AND QUEEN PRESIDE

The Junior Prom, the greatest of all college events each year, is to be held in the new Training School gymnasium on Saturday, April 20th.

Benny Jones and his orchestra, a newcomer to Edinboro, who has been popularized over station WPIC and at the Yankee Lake and Stoneboro Pavilions, will furnish the music. This dance band styles its music after Glenn Miller.

The Prom King and Queen, who were elected by the student body in an assembly poll and who will not be announced until the evening of the affair, will preside over the evening's program and carry out the traditional rites of the Junior Prom at Edinboro.

Do You Know . . .

by Virginia Andrews

....that the Sophomore girls basketball team took all honors in the inter-class tournament? The Freshmen put up a good fight, losing only to the Sophomore team. With all classes hoping to receive the banner, the competition was very keen. Members of the winning team are: forwards, Captain Jean Baldwin, Maxine Herman, and Doris Heintz; guards, Beatrice Kusner, Jean Alexander, Alice Jane Carman and June Keyser.

....That the ice skating contest was one of the greatest successes of the season—the Deltas winning over the Phis. First place went to Virginia Peters, second place to Doris Heintz, and third place to Vega Ihsen. Refreshments, served around a bonfire, climaxed the event. At this time we want to thank Mr. Storch for his untiring efforts in keeping the ice clear and taking care of the lighting so that our students could skate more this year than ever before.

....that the Edinboro basketball playday is this Saturday, March 9. Receiving invitations to the event were the following colleges: Mercyhurst, Villa Maria, Pitt Center, Allegheny, Theil and Westminster.

in eight minute quarters. Each club roster must have no more than eight members and must pay a ten cent entry fee. The monies derived from the entry fee will be used to buy trophies and awards for teams and players. Varsity lettermen will act as officials and coaches during the tournament.

Haven Hall Hi-Lites

by Dorothy Williams

Let's see—how does Winchell begin his column?

Anyhoo, have you heard? Probably—but here it is again:

Congratulations to all the girls who won the skiing awards. Good work Pat Masterson, Ellen Haiston, Doris Heintz, Martha Heintz, and Genevieve Kaminski.

Have you noticed the "No Credit" sign in Red's? Tch!

Hey, gals, isn't Woody Herman's "Isle of May" just the smoothest thing you ever heard? That's not the only smooth thing, tho. Just note the new "girls" flatin' around.

Who's the girl who was soooo insulted when Maxie Leslie asked to borrow her skirt?

"New kids" Younie, Lillie, and McNierney are all right, by unanimous vote.

Heard in passing:
Failed in English, flunked in math, They heard him softly hiss,
I'd like to get the guy who said That ignorance is bliss.

Life at Haven Hall is sometimes one long line of quiet hours and minutes late. This campus business is on the level, too, isn't it, girls? Ha ha. Just the same we love every minute of it.

Be sure to tune in on the next issue—'cause I've a feeling there's going to be a lot of choice news. Lots can happen between now and then.

See youse at de Brawl!

'Bye.

Reeder's Digest

All Reeder congratulates Coach and Mrs. Bailey on the arrival of young Jim...

The Bleech-Schaaf picture gallery is now to be found on the second floor, a mere anvil-throw from the Stoops display rooms. Competition, it looks like as if...

The talcum powder fight in Nissen's room last week had interesting effects. Weller's guppies are still coughing sumpin' awful, to say nothing of Weller. We found out that Dilley finally got his cigar back.

The Scranton boys are busy these days. Thirty-three class hours a week...Lesson plans are taking up the time of Kusner, Tess, Lytle, Tomkon, and Lewis...Wilbur and Nev have the best botanical gardens in the dorm, in case you are interested...And following up a statistical bend, we find that Joe Norder is the holder of Reeder's altitude record...

Over in 17, it was noted that McKinney's bottle of brown ink is almost exhausted...Dan Kusner, "Last of the Candy Merchants"...Fanini's singing is no better these days, but Shollenberger can whistle, and that's something at least.

Add Rockwell and Watters to the list of unlucky people. They sleep in the upper berths of double-decker beds...When not shaving, Hickman has been working on drawings for the Conneautteean (with roomie Benson out a'courtin')...

ScaRab Notes

What's going on in the ScaRab Club? He who goes, knows. Grant Abrams made a splendid model last week for our artistically inclined friends. Dick Peterson led an excellent discussion on the makeup of the yearbook at the last meeting...We wonder who the three faithful freshies were who upheld their end of the meeting. How about coming out to your own club meetings? This refers not only to Freshmen, but to upper classmen as well.

Speaking of Freshmen finds us wondering—they certainly get into the hair of Mr. Bates' Art History class. Either Art History starts wearing overalls, or the Freshmen quit oil painting the furniture. And remember students, teachers get "as sick as a horse" from stale smoke, and we don't mean the buildings on fire!

Three cheers for those Juniors working on the murals for the "rec" room in Haven. Maybe some of our academic students don't know that they are working on a project which was begun in a last semester course under the direction of Mr. Haller. Looks like a two semester course. The Juniors are also getting a lot of practice in the Commercial Art line by taking trips to surrounding districts to give practical demonstrations.

We hope all ScaRab members will make a special attempt to visit the opening of the ScaRab Phi Delta Annual Spring Art Exhibit next Tuesday night. An interesting speaker is to be on hand.

Personalities: Did you know that Marian Demmy has given up the halls of Loveland for algebra? There's a good self-portrait by Lon in Mr. Haller's room. Maybe the Juniors will have some new inspirations for costume after seeing some of the pledges who are haunting Loveland these days.
