Fighting Scots On The Radio, TV

Edinboro University football fans can catch all the Fighting Scot gridiron action on WFSE FM 88.9. The Edinboro student radio station will broadcast all eleven games, providing valuable broadcasting experience for Edinboro students, along with quality broadcasts of Fighting Scot athletics.

In addition, the Edinboro University student television station, ETV, will present the Fighting Scots Game of the Week on ScotsCast. Current plans call for all home football games to be aired, and audio of all away games will also be streamed over EZStream. Access EZStream through the Edinboro athletic web site at www.gofightingscots.com.

PA SPORTSfever will televise the Shippensburg, Indiana(Pa.) and Clarion games, while Erie CBS affiliate WSEE TV will broadcast the Gannon and Mercyhurst games.

Today's Game

The schedule says that the NCAA Division II playoffs begin on November 15. Don't you believe it. For Edinboro and Indiana(Pa.), they actually begin a month earlier on October 11.

With the new make-up of the Northeast Region, the PSAC Championship Game, and with both teams having lost to California(Pa.), the loser of today's game will likely find itself playing out the string after today.

This is a matchup of nationally-ranked teams, as Edinboro has a 5-1 record and is ranked 18th in the latest AFCA Division II Top 25, and IUP is ranked 16th with a record of 4-1.

Edinboro's lone loss was a 35-31 defeat to California(Pa.) three weeks ago. A week later the Vulcans held on to defeat IUP, 21-19. That leaves California(Pa.) with a 3-0 record in PSAC West action, tied with Mercyhurst for first place. Edinboro and IUP are a step back at 2-1.

Of course, today's contest also features the mentor vs. the student. IUP head coach Lou Tepper resurrected the Edinboro program earlier this decade before leaving for the warmer climates of IUP three years ago. Long-time assistant coach Scott Browning took over and has enjoyed great success since then. But the one thing missing is a win over his former boss, as IUP was a 23-20 winner in overtime in 2006 and came away with a 27-7 win a year ago.

The Coaches

Scott Browning (Ohio State '81) took over as Edinboro's 13th head coach on January 5, 2006. He was certainly no stranger to Fighting Scot football, however, serving as an assistant coach for the previous twenty years. While at Edinboro he has coached the offensive linemen, defensive backs and running backs, along with serving as the offensive coordinator. Browning became the first head coach at Edinboro to debut with a win since Bill McDonald in 1969 when the Fighting Scots opened the 2006 season with a 28-14 win at West Chester. He went on to lead Edinboro to a 6-5 finish, the most wins ever by a first-year coach. A year ago he led the Fighting Scots to a 7-4 record. With 13 wins after two seasons, Browning tied Bill McDonald and Tom Hollman for most wins in their first two seasons. He now owns a 18-10 mark. (For more on Scott Browning, see pages 6-7.)

Lou Tepper (Rutgers '67) is in his third year as the head coach of the Crimson Hawks, showing a 21-6 record. Prior to that he spent six seasons as the head coach at Edinboro, showing a 40-26 record with three straight PSAC West titles and NCAA Playoff appearances in 2003 and 2004. A long-time assistant coach on the Division I level, he also had a stint as the head coach at Illinois. All told Tepper has a 86-63-2 record in 15 years as a head coach.

The Edinboro-Indiana(Pa.) Series

Scouting Indiana(Pa.)

IUP invades Sox Harrison Stadium with a 4-1 record and is ranked 16th in the latest AFCA Division II Top 25. The Crimson Hawks man-handled their first three opponents to the tune of 149 points to 10. Week number four was a 21-19 loss at California(Pa.), and last week the Crimson Hawks staged a late rally and prevailed in double overtime over Slippery Rock, 23-16 ... IUP has a definite Erie flavor to its roster, with no fewer than six players from Erie, including five from Cathedral Prep. Several are playing key roles, including Andre Henderson of Strong Vincent, who ranks as the second-leading tackler, former Rambler James Carson, another regular on defense, and Jared Kaufmann, a Prep graduate who shares the punting duties.

Players to Watch

Ken Witter, WR -- a first team All-PSAC selection at wide receiver a year ago who currently leads the team with 26 catches for 411 yards and 5 TDs. A year ago hauled in 67 passes, the highest total in school history, for 877 yards and 9 TDs. Witter caught 9 passes last week and now ranks eighth in career receptions (113) and 12th in career yards receiving (1,573).

Andrew Krewatch, QB -- in third year as the starting quarterback and quickly climbing up the record books. He has thrown for 11 TDs with just 4 INTs this year, giving him 52 career touchdown passes. That ranks third at IUP. He has thrown at least two touchdown passes in 11 straight games.

Tobias Robinson, TB -- after missing last season with a broken leg, has come back strong with 539 yards and 6 TDs. He ranks fourth in the PSAC in rushing. He has helped the Crimson Hawks rank fourth in the PSAC in rushing with over 207 yards per game and an average of 6.4 yards per carry.

Andre Henderson, FS -- a former standout at Strong Vincent, he has posted back-to-back games with double figures in tackles. The sophomore had 12 against Slippery Rock and 18 the week before vs. California(Pa.).

Rob Plowman, DE -- a two-time All-PSAC West performer, earning first team honors in 2006 and second team in 2007. He only has one sack this year, but he had 7 a year ago and 9 in 2006.

Garrett Lestochi, FB -- unsung hero of offense, serving as blocker and pass catcher. Caught seven-yard TD pass in overtime for winning score against Slippery Rock. He has carried the ball 12 times for 46 yards, and has 16 receptions for 161 yards and 2 TDs.

mer Edinboro coach Lou Tepper. Edinboro had won the previous three meetings against IUP -- with Tepper at the helm.

Last Year's Game

Indiana(Pa.) 27, Edinboro 7
The Fighting Scots outgained IUP, 412 yards to 358 yards, but the Crimson Hawks wore down Edinboro thanks to a huge time of possession advantage (37 minutes to 23 minutes). IUP converted 13 of 17 third down plays. Kareem Dutrieuille scored on a pair of one-yard runs in the second half as IUP pulled away from a 10-7 halftime lead. Trevor Harris tossed a 40-yard pass to Rich Cerro for Edinboro's lone score.

Last Week's Games

Edinboro 40, Gannon 3
After a slow start Edinboro celebrated Homecoming with a win over the Golden Knights. The Fighting Scots forced five turnovers and held Gannon to 163 total yards. Ulysee "Spud" Davis came off the bench to rush for a pair of touchdowns and freshman cornerback Branden Williams intercepted a pair of passes, returning the second 46 yards for a touchdown.

Indiana(Pa.) 23, Slippery Rock 16 2ot

The Crimson Hawks stunned Slippery Rock with a late rally to avoid the upset. Andrew Krewatch threw a two-yard touchdown pass to Cameron Mobley with 22 seconds remaining in regulation, then Garrett Lestochi caught a seven-yard touchdown pass from Krewatch in the second overtime for the win.

Williams Named PSAC West Defensive Player of the Week for Second Time

Freshman CB Branden Williams was named the PSAC West Defensive Player of the Week for the second time this year after registering a pair of interceptions against Gannon. The first set up a touchdown, and the second he returned 46 yards for his second touchdown return this season.

Brown Goes Both Ways

Josh Brown opened last Saturday's game as a starter at wide receiver. The sophomore ended it as a standout at cornerback. Likely Edinboro's fastest wide receiver, he has caught 7 passes for 186 yards with 2 TDs, including a 12-yard reception vs. Gannon. But his presence was felt the most on defense, as he had one tackle and registered his first career interception, returning it 41 yards. It marked Brown's first appearance on defense.

Spud Makes Most of His Chance

Ulysee Davis made the most of his chance against Gannon. Edinboro's backup tailback spelled Houston Brown, and ended up giving the offense a big boost. The senior, better known as Spud to his teammates, finished with 95 yards and 18 carries and scored in touchdown runs of 21 and 6 yards. That leaves him with 1,900 career yards rushing, good for a tie for ninth place all-time.

Harris Nears Passing, Total Offense Records

Trevor Harris continues his assault on the Edinboro record book and is also quickly ascending in the PSAC records. The junior quarterback now has 6,826 yards, leaving him just 51 yards shy of the school record for career yards passing. He has 7,087 yards in total offense, needing 65 yards for that school record.

Defense Comes Up Big vs. Knights

Most of the attention this year has gone to the Edinboro offense. But the defense has also excelled, limiting five of six opponents to 11 points or less. For the second week in a row the defense held an opponent under 200 yards in total offense. Gannon ended the day with 163 yards, turning the ball over five times.

Rybicki Reappears

A strange thing has happened twice this year. Ryan Rybicki has gone without a reception, that occurring against Lock Haven and C.W. Post. The senior wide receiver hauled in 54 passes a year ago, the third-highest total in school history. He was off to a slow start before the Gannon game, when he hauled in a season-high 4 passes for 57 yards. That gives Rybicki 94 career receptions, moving into eighth place all-time.

Scots Tough in the Second and Third

Edinboro has outscored the opposition 202 points to 66 this year. The disparity has been particularly evident in the middle periods. In the second quarter the Fighting Scots own an advantage of 76 points to 17. The third quarter is just about as dominant, with Edinboro giving up a mere six points while scoring 65. That's a combined 141 points to 24 in the second and third quarter.

Welcome to Edinboro University

Dear Edinboro Friends and Fans of the Fighting Scots:

What an exciting time to be on our campus and a part of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania! In athletics, our regional rivals – Gannon University and Mercyhurst College – are now members of the PSAC-West. As a result, we're all more than eager to compete against our City of Erie neighbours! And in the spring, for the first time we'll field our varsity women's lacrosse team. But there's even more happening at Edinboro University. I invite you to take a look around and you'll see the progress of the past year, and the ongoing new construction projects in many areas on campus. Sox Harrison Stadium's one million dollar renovation of a year ago – the artificial turf, lighting and new scoreboard – have been widely embraced throughout the region, making our stadium one of northwestern Pennsylvania's premier athletic field venues.

Directly across Scotland Road from the stadium, our new multipurpose sports and recreation dome will soon be ready for business, meaning our varsity and intramural athletic teams will share one of the area's finest (and certainly the largest!) indoor practice facilities. Imagine training indoors on an NCAA regulation track or field while the wind howls and the snow flies in sub-freezing temperatures outside. But we'll also use the dome for much more than athletics. In fact, any major indoor event such as commencement and perhaps other community activities, for example, antique car shows, can and will be held there.

Across Scot Road to the south, the first phase of our $115 million student housing project is on track for January occupancy, bringing the finest in student living amenities to northwestern Pennsylvania. Continuing to head south on Scotland Road, the recent $20 million renovation and expansion of the Frank G. Pogue Student Center has quickly become a shining centerpiece and hub of campus activities.

Heading west on Scot Road, you might have noticed the construction just west of the beautiful and serene five-acre Mallory Lake. Within the year, our new Human Services Building will be ready for occupancy there, housing our Nursing programme and our Speech, Language and Hearing Department.

Continuing west along Normal Street, the new $5 million Dr. William P. Alexander Music Center, our first campus structure built specifically to meet the Music Department's needs, stands next to Academy Hall, the first campus building constructed in 1857 and now listed on the National Register of Historic Places. One of the oldest former Normal School buildings in the nation still used for academic purposes, Academy Hall recently underwent a $5 million renovation and now houses our Undergraduate Admissions Office. Please stop by on this or your next campus visit.

And if all that isn't enough, a $23 million construction project will soon be launched on exterior and interior expansion and renovation of Cooper Hall, which houses Edinboro's many science programmes.

So, you can see why we're so excited! Whether in the classrooms, laboratories, libraries or athletic venues, Edinboro University goes far beyond the norm in creating a 21st century higher education experience for the complete college student.

Whether athletics or academics or more than 100 extracurricular activities, whether undergrad or graduate programmes, great things are happening here! And they're going to get even better! I encourage you to be part of our winning team. Enjoy your visit, and please return often.

Go Fighting Scots!

Head Coach

Scott Browning

Ohio State '81

Scott Browning knows a thing or two about the Edinboro football tradition. With twenty years under his belt as an assistant coach, he was all too familiar with the glory days of Edinboro football. So it didn't take him long to restore some lost traditions when he took over as the 13th head football coach of the Fighting Scots on January 5, 2006.

Most prevalent was the return to the "Boro", the common name the football team was referred to during the 1980's and '90's, some of the most successful periods in Edinboro football history.

One thing Browning didn't mess with was the tradition of winning. In fact, in his first two seasons Browning has tied the record for most wins by a coach with 13 victories. Only Bill McDonald, who guided the 1969 and 1970 teams to 13 wins, and Tom Hollman, who also totaled 13 wins in 1988 and '89, can match Browning's start.

His first edition finished with a 6-5 record, the most wins ever under a first-year coach. But it didn't end just on the football field. The Fighting Scots excelled in the classroom, including a cumulative team GPA of over 2.8 for the spring semester.

Browning became the first coach at Edinboro since Sox Harrison to win his first two games as head coach. That happened in 1926, the first year of football at the Boro. Thanks to a 28-14 win at West Chester, he became the first coach since Bill McDonald in 1969 to win his first game as head coach.

That victory, on the road at West Chester between a pair of 2005 NCAA playoff teams, also displayed Browning's propensity as a riverboat gambler. The Fighting Scots went for it on fourth down four times, and made it three times.

A year ago the Fighting Scots finished with a 7-4 record while facing one of the most difficult schedules in recent memory. Edinboro faced four nationally-ranked teams, upsetting 25th-ranked Bloomsburg thanks to a memorable comeback, 42-41, while losing to eighth-ranked California (Pa.), 17th-ranked West Chester and 24th-ranked IUP. In fact, Edinboro's four losses came to teams which combined for a 40-9.

The Fighting Scots also continued the strong academic trend, with 15 players earning PSAC Scholar-Athlete honors.

"I am very pleased to announce the promotion of Scott Browning to the position of head football coach at Edinboro University," stated then-President Dr. Frank G. Pogue at the time.

"Scott has been a member of the Edinboro coaching staff for 20 years. He has demonstrated his ability to not only coach athletes on the playing field, but also to lead young men by the example of his character and by his dedication to them as students and as individuals. He will join our other highly successful coaches at Edinboro University."

After serving as the offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator in Lou Tepper's first season, Browning took over as the offensive coordinator in 2001.

He had previously served as the offensive coordinator for five seasons under Tom Hollman. In all, Browning had served as Edinboro's offensive line coach the previous 12 years.

Browning joined the Edinboro program in 1986 as the running backs coach under Steve Szabo. After two seasons on the offensive side of the ball, the graduate of The Ohio State University moved to the defensive side, serving as the defensive backfield coach under Hollman. In 1994 he moved back to offense as the offensive line coach. He had remained in charge of the line-men since that time, coaching such All-Americans as Jeremy O'Day, Joe Valvoda and Greg Bzorek. The last two years Browning's offensive line led the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference in fewest sacks allowed.

When Tepper came on board in 2000, Browning was appointed the recruiting coordinator in addition to his duties with the offensive line. A year later he was named the offensive coordinator, and the Fighting Scot offense made great strides over the last five years. Browning emphasized a balanced attack which showcased the combination of a strong ground game and dangerous aerial attack. Over his last three seasons Edinboro averaged 29.9 ppg. in 2003, 33.2 ppg. in '04, and 31.4 ppg. in '05.

All told, Browning has been an assistant coach on all seven of Edinboro's NCAA playoff teams, along with five of the nine PSAC champion squads. He took over a team which has been to the NCAA Division II Playoffs two of the last three years, and during that period has posted a 26-8 record. The 26 wins were the most in a three-year period in Edinboro history.

"It goes without saying that I am extremely excited to have this opportunity," noted an elated Browning. "I was proud to be a part of the teams in the 1990's that ranked among the best in Division II, and over the last few years we have once again elevated the program to one of the best in the country. The University and the community of Edinboro mean a great deal to me. Over the years we have tried to become an integral part of this community. I am thrilled that I can continue that association while taking over a group of players that represent the ideals I believe in.

"I'm sure you will see some changes in the future, but I can tell you this, the ideals remain in place for this program, and always have in the time I've been here. Without question we want to be successful on the field, and that means challenging for the PSAC West title. But we won't compromise integrity. We will continue to bring in young men who have the ability to be successful both in the classroom and on the football field. It is my sincere belief that when they take the field, they must wear the Edinboro jersey with pride, and when they are in the community, that they have earned the respect that comes with being a Fighting Scot."

Browning has served on the staffs at three NCAA Division I institutions. Prior to joining the Fighting Scot staff, he coached receivers and running backs at Ohio State for two years while serving as a graduate assistant. That group included Keith Byars. The Buckeyes went to the Rose Bowl in 1984, dropping a 20-17 decision to USC to finish with a 9-3 record. The following year Ohio State went bowling again, this time defeating Brigham Young, 10-7, in the Citrus Bowl, to once again finish at 9-3.

Browning served as a graduate assistant coach at New Mexico State in 1982, and the following year instructed the receivers at Idaho State. Idaho State reached the NCAA Division I-AA Playoffs before suffering a 27-20 defeat to Nevada.

A 1981 graduate of The Ohio State University with a bachelor's degree in Education, Browning began his coaching career as an assistant coach at Worthington High School and Dayton-Fairview High Schools in Ohio from 1979-81. Before transferring to Ohio State he attended Capital University where he played football for one season. Browning later earned a master's degree in Education Administration from New Mexico State in 1983.

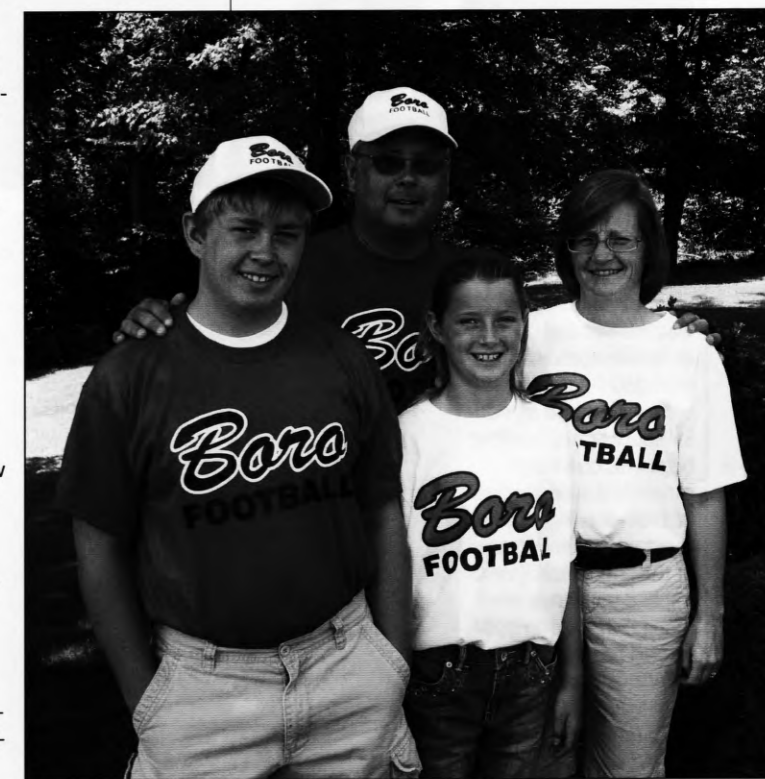

Browning, 49 and a native of Loudonville, Ohio, and his wife, Lynn, reside in Edinboro and have two children, Andrew (14) and Katelyn (10). His brother Mitch has also enjoyed a successful career as a football coach. After several noteworthy seasons as the offensive coordinator at the University of Minnesota, he was hired this past winter as the offensive coordinator at Syracuse University.

Wayne Bradford

Defensive Coordinator/Linebackers
10th Year
Salisbury State '90

Wayne Bradford is in his tenth year as a member of the Edinboro coaching staff. He enters his fourth season as the Fighting Scot defensive coordinator, and had previously held the same title in 1999 under former head coach Tom Hollman. After overseeing the defensive line for seven seasons, Bradford took over as the linebackers coach in 2006.

Bradford orchestrated the top defense in the country three years ago, as Edinboro paced Division II in scoring defense (9.3 ppg.), total defense (211.2 ppg.), and rushing defense (53.7 ppg.). In addition, Edinboro was third in pass efficiency defense and turnover margin. The Fighting Scots recorded three shutouts, the most since the 1975 team also shut out three opponents. A total of seven opponents were held to seven points or less. He coached four all-conference performers a year ago.

Two years ago his defensive unit recorded two more shutouts while leading the PSAC in rushing defense (70.6 ppg.), good for third in the country.

A year ago Bradford guided a young defense that ended up having five players earn All-PSAC honors.

Under Bradford's tutelage, Edinboro has had thirteen first team All-PSAC West defensive linemen. In fact, he has been responsible for three of the last four PSAC West Defensive Players of the Year, with Ben Stroup earning the honor in 2006, Chris Amico the 2005 recipient, and Seth Fragale the winner in 2004.

Bradford had previously been at Salisbury State since 1990, and was the Sea Gulls' defensive coordinator from 1994-98.

A graduate of Salisbury State, Bradford began his coaching career at his alma mater in 1990, serving as an assistant coach in charge of the linebackers (1990-92) and defensive linemen (1992-94). In 1994, he was promoted to defensive coordinator.

In 1997, Salisbury State ranked 38th in NCAA Division III in total defense, allowing just 268 yards per game. His 1995 defensive unit produced a first team AFCA

Wife: Gwen
Children: Nicholas (10), Julia (8), Mitchell (3)

All-American at linebacker, and helped the Sea Gulls finish 7-2 with a berth in the ECAC Southwest Championship Game.

Bradford graduated from Salisbury State in 1990 with a bachelor's degree in Business Administration. He completed work on his master's degree in Business Administration from Salisbury State in 1992. In addition to working as a member of the football staff, Bradford was a faculty member in the School of Business. Beginning in 1996, he was the Director of the Business Graduate Programs for the Perdue School of Business.

As an undergraduate, Bradford was an offensive lineman. He played on the 1986 Salisbury State team which finished as the NCAA Division III national runnerup.

Bradford and his wife, Gwen, reside in Edinboro with their ten-year-old son, Nicholas, eight-year-old daughter, Julia and three-year-old son Mitchell.

Mike Yurcich

Offensive Coordinator/Quarterbacks
4th Year
California (Pa.) '99

Mike Yurcich enters his fourth season as a member of the Edinboro University coaching staff. Yurcich joined the football staff in April 2005 as the quarterbacks coach. He enters his third season as the offensive coordinator after assuming that role in 2006.

Yurcich has overseen the development of the offense into one of the top units in the country. In particular, the Fighting Scots now rank as one of the top passing teams in Division II. A year ago Edinboro led the PSAC in passing offense (312.8 ppg.), ranked second in total offense (455.7 ppg.), and was fourth in scoring offense at 35.7 ppg., the highest total since 1994 and the fourth-highest in school history. The Fighting Scots ranked eighth in Division II in passing offense, 18th in total offense, and 25th in scoring offense.

A native of Euclid, Ohio, Yurcich served as a graduate assistant coach at Indiana University in 2003-04. In addition to conducting statistical analysis for the Hoosiers' offense, he assisted with the wide receivers.

Yurcich is no stranger to the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference. After attending Mount Union in 1994-95, he transferred to California (Pa.) and played three seasons for the Vulcans. Yurcich was a two-year captain at California (Pa.), serving as the starting quarterback in 1996 and sharing the starting role in 1998.

Yurcich graduated from California (Pa.) with a bachelor's degree in Industrial Organization Psychology in May 1999, and later earned his master's degree in School Counseling from St. Francis(IN). While at St. Francis(IN), he served as an assistant coach for the Cougars, helping USF to four consecutive Mid-States Football Association Mid-East League Championships and four NAIA Playoff berths. The Cougars were 38-8 during the four-year period.

After coaching the running backs in 1999 at St. Francis, Yurcich worked with the quarterbacks in 2000 and 2001. He served as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach in 2002. He was also the junior varsity head Yurcich resides in Edinboro. He is engaged to former Edinboro cross country All-American Julie Nemerget, who was hired this past winter as Edinboro's assistant women's track & field coach.

Keith Braxton

Defensive Line
3rd Year
Virginia Military Institute '98

Keith Braxton was named Edinboro's defensive line coach in March of 2006 after serving as a member of the Virginia Military Institute coaching staff for five seasons. He was in charge of the defensive line after previously earning four letters as a defensive tackle at VMI. He also served as the defensive tackles coach at Loras College during the 1997 season.

As Edinboro's defensive line coach he has helped in the development of a pair of All-PSAC performers, with Chris Amico earning the honor both years and A.J. Cousins a 2006 selection.

As a player, Braxton was a three-year starter at VMI from 1994-96. He posted 195 career tackles, including 11 tackles for losses and 6 sacks. He had one of his top games as a sophomore, finishing with 8 tackles, 6 of those solo, in VMI's 26-23 win over Appalachian State.

In all, he played in 44 career games with 35 starts. He was a tri-captain as a senior.

After serving as an assistant coach at Loras for a year, Braxton left coaching for two years to work as a customer service representative at First Union National Bank in Richmond, VA before returning to his alma mater in 2001.

Braxton is a native of Beaverdam, VA. He graduated from VMI in 1998 with a bachelor's degree in History. He is single and resides in Edinboro.

Braxton's Personal Data

Born: April 10, 1975

Kim Niedbala

Defensive Backs
3rd Year
Clarion '99

Kim Niedbala joined the Edinboro coaching staff in the spring of 2006 as the defensive backs coach after serving as an assistant coach at Clarion for seven seasons from 1999-05.

He has quickly made his mark at Edinboro while instructing the secondary. In his first season a pair of players earned All-PSAC West honors, and this past year three of the four members of the secondary were recognized as All-PSAC performers.

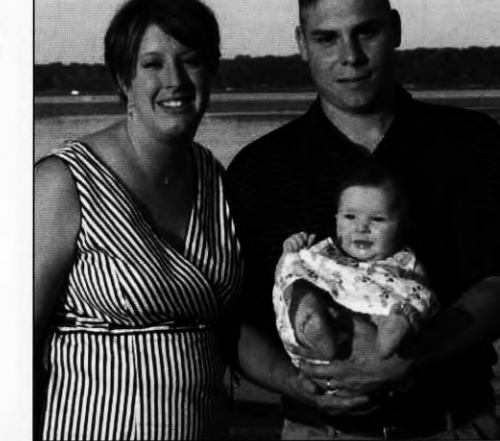

At Clarion, he was elevated to the defensive coordinator in 2002 after working with the outside linebackers in 1999, then taking over as the secondary coach and special teams coordinator from 2000 until 2002.

One of the top players in Clarion history, Niedbala was a three-time All-American at free safety and strong safety from 1994-96. He was a consensus first team All-American in 1996, including Associated Press Little All-America after posting 106 tackles, 100 solo, with 20 passes broken up, 4 tackles for losses and a pair of interceptions.

A captain on the '96 team, he helped the Golden Eagles finish with an 11-3 record. Clarion won the East Region title and advanced to the Division II semifinals before suffering a 19-18 loss to eventual national champion Northern Colorado. Clarion was awarded the ECAC Lambert Cup.

Niedbala recorded 117 tackles, 9 passes broken up, and had 5 interceptions in 1995, earning second team Associated Press Little All-America honors and second team Football Gazette All-American accolades. In 1994, he had 98 tackles, 6 tackles for losses, 4 interceptions and 3 sacks.

Niedbala concluded his career with 407 tackles, 34 passes broken up, 12 interceptions, 11 tackles for losses and 8 fumble recoveries. He was selected to play in the Snow Bowl following his senior season. In all, he earned first team All-PSAC West honors his final three years.

A native of Beaver Falls, PA, Niedbala received his bachelor's degree in Geography from Clarion in 1996. He began his coaching career at Glensville State, serving as the secondary coach during the 1997 and '98 campaigns.

Niedbala and his wife, Melissa, reside in Meadville, PA with their daughter Isabel, who was born on February 13, 2008.

Jim Henson

Running Backs
11th Year
Hiram '68

Jim Henson, a highly successful high school coach in Ohio for over twenty years, enters his eleventh season on the Edinboro staff. He is also a professor in the Mathematics Department at Edinboro.

After working on the defensive side of the ball as the strong safeties/outside linebackers coach for two years, Henson moved over to the offense and will instruct the running backs for the seventh straight season. He previously worked with the running backs in 1999 and was in charge of the defensive linemen in '98.

Henson joined the Edinboro staff after serving as a mathematics teacher, football coach and athletic director at Grand Valley High School in Ohio for 22 years. He led the Mustangs to a 150-68-4 record, with five Grand River Conference championships, three East Suburban Conference titles, and three state playoff appearances. In the 1990's, Henson's charges posted three undefeated campaigns and a 23-game regular season winning streak. He was named the Conference Coach of the Year eight times and County Coach of the Year three times, culminated by his selection as the Ohio Division V Coach of the Year in 1997 and the Division IV Coach of the Year in '92. A year ago he was a member of the first class inducted into the Ashtabula County Football Hall of Fame.

Henson's Personal Data

Prior to beginning his stellar career at Grand Valley, Henson debuted as an assistant coach at Cardinal Middlefield (OH) High School, where he served for eight years.

Henson graduated from Hiram College in 1968 with a bachelor of arts degree in Mathematics, then completed work on his master of science degree in Education with a major in Mathematics from Youngstown State in 1972. He and his wife, Evelyn, reside in Edinboro. They are the parents of a son, Jim, who is the head football coach at Jefferson(Oh.) High School and a daughter, Jennifer, along with four grandchildren.

Anthony Peluso

Offensive Line
3rd Year
Edinboro '06

Edinboro head coach Scott Browning considers former Boro standout Anthony Peluso an up-and-coming talent in the coaching profession.

Peluso will once again work as an assistant coach in charge of the offensive line, a duty he assumed two years ago. He is also in charge of the strength and conditioning program. Three years ago Peluso assisted current head coach Scott Browning with the offensive line.

A native of Aliquippa, PA, Peluso was a three-year starter at right guard for the Fighting Scots. In all, he started his final 33 games at Edinboro, while playing in 43 career games.

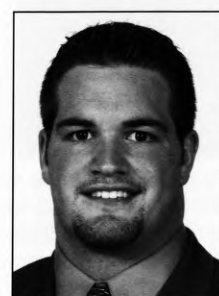

As a senior, Peluso was a key reason Edinboro made its first appearance in the NCAA Division II Playoffs since 1995, finishing the year with a 9-3 record. He earned first team All-PSAC West honors and was an honorable mention D2Football.com All-American. He also earned second team Football Gazette All-Northeast Region recognition.

Peluso has played professionally the last three years for Erie's entry in the AIFA, an indoor football league. He has been a starter on the offensive line since joining the Erie Freeze midway through the 2006 season. This season the team was the Erie RiverRats. Peluso was accorded All-AIFA Northern Division honors.

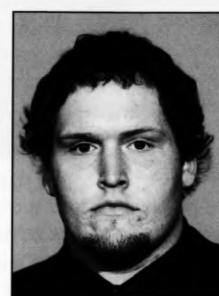

Peluso completed work on his bachelor's degree in Social Science in May 2006. He is single and resides in Edinboro.

Sox Harrison Stadium

Sox Harrison Stadium serves as the home of the Fighting Scots. Dedicated in 1965, the stadium honors the memory of B. Regis "Sox" Harrison, the head football and basketball coach at Edinboro University for 34 years. Sox Harrison was the key figure in the building of Edinboro's athletic program, unselfishly devoting 34 years of service to the University as an athletic director, coach and physical education instructor. Appropriately, he was the first member inducted into the Edinboro Athletic Hall of Fame in 1982.

Harrison coached the Fighting Scot football team from its inception in 1926 to 1938, the returned to guide the gridders in 1941 and '42. In addition, he coached the men's basketball team for 23 seasons, from 1928-53, winning 175 games.

The stadium received a facelift last summer, giving it a spanking new look. Most noticeable is the installation of an artificial surface, Sportex, to replace the natural grass. And it is now illuminated, with lights being installed for the first time. Finally, a new scoreboard was installed.

Sox Harrison Stadium seats 6,000 people in its two grandstands, along with plenty of standing room. In addition to press boxes on both sides of the stadium, the facility has locker rooms, a training room and complete amenities for fans.

The stadium has undergone several renovations, including a new sound system and improved handicapped access areas in 1999. In 1997, a new grandstand was constructed on the visitor's side of the field, adding 2,500 permanent seats, along with a press box, locker rooms and a training room.

In addition to the football field, the facility contains complete track facilities.

RIVALS

Greetings football fans. This issue of Touchdown Illustrated is a salute to rivals. Arch enemies of the grid-iron. I will be a bit of a dreamer and suggest that most rivalries stay confined to between the lines, but we all know some schools have a distaste for one another that extends beyond the boundaries of play.

And of course, this should not be the case. I mean, what are schools but institutions of higher learning? And what is more learned and intelligent behavior than respect for one's fellow man, regardless of his choice of school? Or, regardless how annoying their mascot is. Or regardless of how many recruits their coaching staff was savvy enough to get to before your school. Or how they beat you that one year on that disputed touchdown call. Or how even though you lead the overall series, they have won seven of the last ten games. Or how your friends who attended school there never let you hear the end of it.

Yes, that is why football is such a key to our national psyche. To help put all these matters of debate aside and settle matters of rivals on the football field.

True, half the fun of beating a rival on the field is bragging about it for the next year off the field, but that is not the true spirit of sportsmanship to which we should adhere. Next time your school defeats its arch rival, try applauding both teams for a game well-played, then go out and find some fans of your rival and get together and sing "Teddy Bear's Picnic."

It might not be as satisfying as rubbing their noses in defeat, but the spirit and camaraderie is sure to uplift all who love the game.

There is also a very faint chance this wouldn't work at all. Let us know how it goes!

TDI Game Ball Goes To: Dickinson Red Devils

BY STEPHANIE PLOTINO

When Ian Mitchell lost his grandmother and best friend to cancer, he knew he wanted to do something in their honor. So he did.

"I came up with the idea to use something that I was good at — football — to benefit children diagnosed with cancer," says Mitchell, a junior quarterback at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa.

With the help of his teammates, coaches and fans, Mitchell has raised $22,000 for pediatric cancer patients by accepting monetary pledges for each passing and rushing yard he gained his senior year of high school and sophomore year of college.

"I'll collect pledges from anyone who wants to be involved," Mitchell says. "For instance, they may donate a cent for every yard I gain. If my total yardage is 2,000 yards, they will donate $20."

All of the money raised so far has been donated to Camp Can-Do, which is run by the American Cancer Society. The weeklong camp in Mt. Gretna, Pa. — free of charge to its participants — allows children to get away from the hospital and treatments and, as Mitchell says, lets them "just be kids again." As it takes approximately $650 to sponsor one child at the camp, Mitchell's donations have allowed 33 children to attend.

"[The families] call and tell me how much they think donations like mine are able to help their children, even if it's not physically helping them," Mitchell says. "It puts them in great spirits. They just tell me, even though it might make me feel good, I have no idea how good it feels for their children."

Mitchell credits his teammates and coaches for playing a role in his fundraising efforts — after all, they do make up a large portion of his contributors — but they are quick to put the much-deserved praise right back on Mitchell.

"A lot of people on the team have donated money, and we all support him as much as we can," says Michael Maxwell, Mitchell's classmate and a defensive back on the Dickinson football team. "Some of us collect money, and we also try to get the word out as much as possible. I guess it's become a team effort, but he's the one behind it."

This year, Mitchell has decided to change the recipient of his donation. Instead of giving to Camp Can-Do, he will give the money to the third-annual EVANFEST, which is a youth lacrosse tournament held at his alma mater — Malvern Preparatory School in Malvern, Pa. — in honor of his best friend, Evan Brady. According to the festival's Web site, "All proceeds from EVANFEST will be donated to families whose child is battling a life-threatening illness."

Diagnosed with bone cancer on Sept. 11, 2001, Evan put up a valiant fight against the disease and never let it get in between him and his love of lacrosse. Despite eventually losing a leg, he remained on the sidelines as a coach. He died on Sept. 21, 2005.

"I originally [donated] to Camp Can-Do because Evan got cancer as a child, so I wanted to give it to children's cancer," Mitchell says. "Now Evan's parents have started this EVANFEST, so I switched it to donate to something a little closer to home."

Anyone interested in donating can e-mail Ian Mitchell at mitchelli@dickinson.edu. Please be sure to include your contact information and the amount you would like to pledge per yard.

TDI's Just Asking

BY JON COOPER

Georgia Tech Head Coach Paul Johnson

Georgia Tech was looking for a head coach who could do everything they have been unable to do of late — win big games and win rivalry games. They believe they found that man in Paul Johnson, who signed a seven-year, $11 million deal with the Yellow Jackets on Dec. 7, 2007.

Johnson, who is 107-39 in 11 seasons as a head coach, has won playoff games, leading Georgia Southern to back-to-back FCS titles in 1999 and 2000 — the Eagles were runners-up in 1998.

His teams also have had tremendous success in rivalry games, as, in six years at the Naval Academy his teams were 11-1 against the Service Academies, including a perfect 6-0 against Army. Johnson also orchestrated the Middies' 46-44 triple-overtime victory at Notre Dame last season, ending a 43-year hex against the Fighting Irish (coincidentally, Georgia Tech handed Notre Dame a 33-3 loss in their opener last season).

Tech faithful hope the next domino to fall is intrastate rival Georgia, who enters 2008 having beaten Georgia Tech seven straight times.

Johnson's ability to build programs also will be put to the test. Navy went 45-29 in his six seasons. In the two seasons prior to his arrival to Annapolis in 2002, Navy had gone 1-20 and his 10-2 season in 2004 was only the Academy's second ten-win season since 1905.

Armed with his spread offense, Johnson's teams hit the ground running and seemingly never stop. At Georgia Southern, his teams went 62-10, averaging 39.7 points per game and 468.8 yards per game, including 360.3 yards per game on the ground.

While the Yellow Jackets led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing in 2007 (199.3 yards per game — Clemson was next at 161.2!). Johnson takes over a Tech team that lost seven starters on offense (they lost seven starters on defense as well).

Johnson, the 2004 National Coach of the Year, talked to Touchdown Illustrated about rebuilding programs, opening things up with his "spread offense" and closing the gap with arch-rival Georgia.

TOUCHDOWN ILLUSTRATED: What was the deciding factor in choosing Georgia Tech?

PAUL JOHNSON:

There were a lot of reasons. Certainly Georgia Tech has a proud history and a lot of tradition and is in a part of the country that we really enjoyed living in. I felt like Tech was somewhat of an established program and it wasn't starting from the ground up again, like we had to do at Navy.

TDI: You have a history of rebuilding programs. What does it take to get that done?

JOHNSON: Any time you change directions of a program it's as much about changing the culture as it is the actual schemes. I think the biggest thing is attitude and having a system that people can become a part of and buy into. We don't have to start from the ground up, but we're going to be extremely young. They lost a ton of players last year off the team and we're just now probably feeling the effects of some of the probation issues they had a few years ago.

TDI: What does it take to effectively run your spread offense?

JOHNSON: I think the key is just getting guys that are familiar with it and guys that will buy into it. We've had a lot of success everywhere we've been. I think it's a packaged offense. Hopefully we have some answers if things are not going well. There's a lot of variety in the offense, you can do a lot of things and hopefully tailor it to the skill level of the guys you have.

TDI: You'll be replacing the quarterback and running backs, key positions in the spread. Who are the front-runners?

JOHNSON: The running back situation coming out of spring, freshman Jonathan Dwyer and Lucas Cox, Quincy Kelly, there was probably a three-way battle for that deal, the main back. Slots, Roddy Jones was probably the only guy that came out of the spring that will be penciled in as a starter when we start fall camp. The other slots are pretty much up in the air. Josh Nesbitt took a lot of snaps at quarterback. We had a couple of guys, Bryce Dykes and Calvin Booker also competed in there. So those three guys competed and we have two freshmen coming in so we're going to be really young. We'll probably play this year with 75 scholarships, as opposed to the 85 because of the numbers off probation.

TDI: The offensive line is also young. How important is Andrew Gardner's leadership?

JOHNSON: Andrew Gardner needs to be the leader. He's a pre-season All-American. He's a guy that's played a lot! So he needs to be the bellcow up there. We've got a mix of young guys there as well. We're probably going to go how they mature, quite honestly.

TDI: Georgia Tech has lost seven straight games to Georgia. What is it going to take to reverse that trend?

JOHNSON: We've got to get better. Hopefully we can get to the point where we can compete head-to-head with Georgia. Mark's done a good job there and they've built a good program and that's our challenge. We've got to get to them. They're not going to come back to us. We've got to get to them.

TDI: How special was competing in Commander-in-Chief Trophy competition and dominating it?

JOHNSON: To play in the Army-Navy Game is huge and Air Force as well, because any time you play a sister academy, there's a lot of bragging for the guys that go to school there. When you have as much mutual respect as these schools have for one another, and it becomes a big rivalry game. Take Army-Navy for example. Kids live that 365 days a year. Everything you see at Navy says "Beat Army" on it. The fight song says "Beat Army", so it's a big deal. We approached it that way.

WALKING THE GROVE

BY JOSH SHRECKENGOST

TDI TAKES A LOOK AT SOME OF THE NATION'S GREATEST PRE-GAME TRADITIONS

Autumn brings an end to summer, the changing of the leaves, and of course, college football. Every fall Saturday across the country, hundreds of thousands of students partake in their university's respective pre-game tradition with a fervor and flair not seen in any other sport. Whether it's Walking the Grove at Ole Miss or Yell Practice at Texas A&M, the uniquely American pastime of "pre-gaming" at your school is one of the reasons college football and the emotion associated with it attracts millions of fans and viewers with the coming of each season. TDI has assembled 15 of the country's best pre-game traditions and festivities. From the World's Largest Outdoor Cocktail Party to Ralphie the Buffalo, if it's part of college football's history, we've got it covered!

Chief Osceola - Florida State University

HOWARD'S ROCK AND THE ROCK HILL, CLEMSON:

Talk about intensity! The Tigers' players touch "Howard's Rock" as a symbolic vow to give their full and total effort on gameday. The team then enters the field by running down a hill in the east end zone as the crowd goes bananas. No wonder it's been called the most exciting 25 seconds in college football.

Howard's Rock - Clemson

Walking the Grove - Ole Miss

THE FLAMING SPEAR, FLORIDA STATE:

One of the spirited ceremonies occurs before each home game at Florida State when mascot Chief Osceola (portrayed by a student) rides Renegade, an Appaloosa horse, to midfield and throws a flaming spear into the turf. The Chief then stares down the opposing players as if to say, "Not in our house!"

WALKING THE GROVE, OLE MISS:

Grab a candelabra, your finest silver and china, and make sure to come dressed to the nines for the classiest tailgate in the land. The Grove is a 10-acre patch of thick green grass surrounded by oak trees in the middle of the Ole Miss campus. Southern belles in dresses and men in coats and ties congregate for cocktails and food served in a scene reminiscent of an old-timey Southern social.

YELL PRACTICE, TEXAS A&M:

The night before a game, A&M's "Yell Leaders" (no, not cheerleaders – no such thing exists at A&M) direct a rehearsal of traditional Aggie yells for the upcoming game. For some games more than 35,000 Aggies attend the practice at Kyle Field. If the team is on the road, a site is pre-determined, but the feeling is still the same. Yell Practice is also a great place to find a date for the game, which allows participation in another of A&M's favorite in-game traditions – kissing said date after touchdowns.

PAINTING THE HELMETS, NOTRE DAME:

The term "Golden Domer" came from this tradition, one of the most-recognized in all of college football. On the Monday night of every game week, student volunteers put a fresh coat of paint on the Fighting Irish helmets. The paint contains flakes of gold and the painstaking and prideful task is one that draws many more volunteers than allotted paintbrushes.

RUNNING THROUGH THE "T," TENNESSEE:

The Tennessee band forms a huge block "T" on the field at the conclusion of their pregame performance. When the Volunteers enter the field at Neyland Stadium, they sprint through the "Power T" to their sideline, with 104,000 fans at full throat.

Army - Navy Game

WORLD'S LARGEST OUTDOOR COCKTAIL PARTY, FLORIDA VS. GEORGIA:

This neutral site game between two SEC rivals began in 1915 with the Gators and Bulldogs meeting in Jacksonville, FL. The game is usually played on the last Saturday in October and after the 2007 game, Georgia holds a 46-37-2 advantage. Now played in Jacksonville's Municipal Stadium,

Zombie Nation - Penn State

SOONER SCHOONER, OKLAHOMA:

The covered Conestoga wagon known as the "Sooner Schooner" is a tradition of Oklahoma football that commemorates the 1889 Land Run. Powered by matching white ponies, the wagon races around Owen Field after every Sooners score and first began its voyages through the stadium in 1964.

CADETS/MIDSHIPMEN MARCH, ARMY, NAVY:

As you watch the cadets and midshipmen march into the field for the Army-Navy game, one can truly appreciate their sacrifice and honor above and beyond the realm of college football. It is without a doubt, one of the most awe-inspiring spectacles in the game today.

ZOMBIE NATION, PENN STATE:

Truly one of the most visible (and audible!) college football traditions, the Nittany Lions' faithful pack Beaver Stadium dressed in all white, most of the time with painted faces and bodies. The veritable whiteout created by the "zombies" has a stunning visual affect, but it's the chant of "We Are Penn State" that volleys from one side of the stadium to the other that completes this tradition.

The Running of Ralphie - Colorado

THE TUNNEL WALK, NEBRASKA:

In another oft-imitated, never-duplicated pregame ceremony, the Cornhuskers use video on the JumboTron to help the team make a grand entrance before each home game. After a video introduction, fans in Memorial Stadium watch the team getting fired up in the locker room. After the players have reached a the proper level of excitement, they march through the tunnel and onto the field, the crowd roaring for the duration.

the game is always an event to be remembered by fans of both schools. The majority of the game's pregame tailgating takes place at Jacksonville Landing on the St. Johns River.

THE RUNNING OF RALPHIE, COLORADO:

Running Ralphie is no simple task. Minutes prior to kickoff Ralphie, a 1,300-pound buffalo, and his six handlers take a lap around the Folsom Field playing surface. Sounds easy, right? Not when the object is to run Ralphie as fast as possible. Not only does Ralphie sometimes drag his handlers, but when he hits the opposing sideline, he forces the other team to run for cover!

"BOATGATING," UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON:

About 250 boats have rights to a spot on the docks just off Lake Washington, right outside the east entrance of Husky Stadium. Some folks make an entire weekend out of it, camping on board, then walking over the wooden planks of the docks and into the Stadium. It's a wet and wild "tailgate" and one of the coolest new traditions in the game.

The Tiger Walk - Auburn

THE TIGER WALK, AUBURN:

Many programs throughout the country have copied this ceremony, but historically, it all started at Auburn. Two hours before the game, thousands of Tigers fans assemble along Donahue Drive and cheer the Auburn players as they walk [not run] to the stadium.

TDI PRESENTS, ORIGINAL FICTION

“Center” BY MATT ROUGE

Part Two: Dale arrives at State and his world instantly begins to change.

■ In 1948, star center Dale Trump is ready to begin his college adventure with a scholarship to an excellent football school. But the relationship with Vince — his best friend, his girlfriend's older brother, and now his rival on the gridiron — is not what it used to be.

Dale left for Williams State University on a hot Friday morning. Jenny talked with her steady boyfriend about the future as they brought items out to the car. “Just one more year,” she said, “and I’ll be out too and can get a job while you finish school.”

“I don’t think I could have my wife supporting me like that,” said the big football player, handing a box of books to his father.

“You want to wait until you’re twenty-two to get married?”

“No. I don’t know.”

“I know I don’t.” Jenny looked away with a hurt and disappointed expression.

“Hey,” said Dale, pulling her back toward him, “you know we’re going to get married. I’m just — you know there’s a lot of stuff for me to do right now. Let me get my head in the game a bit and see what happens.”

His smile brought Jenny back to life. “Okay,” she said, turning her attention to the gray-haired mailman, who was emerging from the July glare and poking around in his bag.

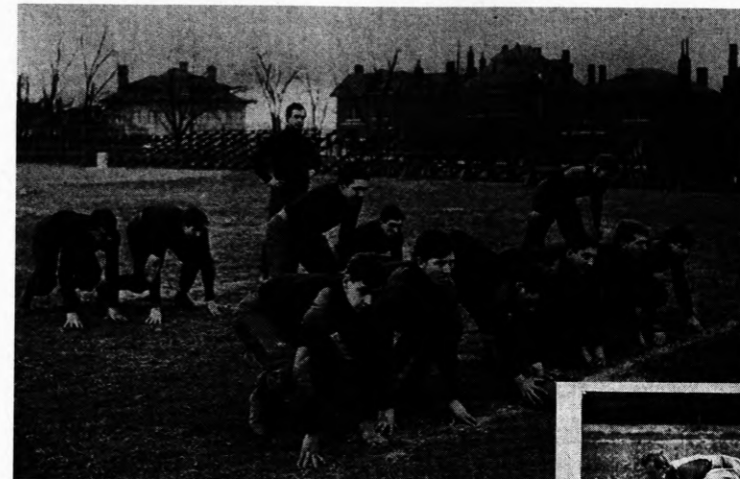

“Hey, Mr. Kurowski,” said Dale.

“You got a post card — from Vince,” said the mailman, handing the thin piece of mail to Dale and walking off with a small wave.

The front of the card was a bright color photograph of the Nielsen University Student Union, proud and tall and made of limestone. On the back, Vince had written in purple indelible pencil, “School and football are great. Take care of Jenny. Yours, Vince.”

“That’s sweet,” said Jenny, looking at the card with Dale.

“Yeah,” said Dale, “That’s the Vince we know and love.”

Dale’s father Wes had eschewed drink all morning and taken on with gusto the job of packing the car. “I’ve moved so much myself,” he said. “Changed colleges three times, changed dorms during the school year — all that kind of thing.” The new convertible was a completed 3D puzzle of stuff, piled high, squared off, covered tightly with a big wool blanket, and secured with straps. The top would need to remain down throughout the trip, but the sky was blue and bright.

The three stood and admired the packed car for a moment. The teenagers drank orange soda from glistening bottles, and by now a cold whiskey and soda had found its way into Wes’s hand. Then it was time to go. Jenny poured her need for Dale into his shoulders and neck with strength that surprised him. He found himself choking back tears, but several sailed down his cheeks anyway. He hugged his father for a moment and felt Jenny’s hand on his back, rubbing him. “Everything’s going to be alright,” she said. With some additional hugs and reassurances, Dale was off to college with hands waving behind him.

He drove west along the back roads of the county he knew so well, then along state roads that curved through hills and forests. In time, he found himself alone at a four-way stop; he parked the car on the shoulder and got out. This is where it had happened, not quite six months ago. A driver had fallen asleep at the wheel and poured the weight of his truck and cargo into the old sedan returning from Aunt Judy’s, killing Dale’s mother instantly. There was no cross of remembrance, no debris on the road, no skid mark, no oil stain. All was as neat and peaceful as the stalks of corn in the fields around him, pushed a little by the breeze.

After driving a little further, Dale went over the crest of a hill, and State’s red brick buildings were scattered below him. His campus map proved useful, and he checked into his dorm with a lack of difficulty that gave him some relief.

He expected to see a sunny, empty room when he turned the key and opened the door, but instead the room was full and dark, and someone was sleeping on the bed to the left.

“Oh. Oh hi! I’m Tex Teague, your new roommate,” said the startled teen, who jumped up and opened the blinds, allowing the afternoon sun to illumine chaos and himself. Blue-eyed and blond with a crew cut and pale freckles, Tex was a little over six feet in height and bore significant weight, but very little fat, on his frame.

The first resident had not left much room for Dale: foodstuffs filled the shelves, and clothes, sporting gear, and various other belongings were scattered everywhere except the unused bed. Dale was upset to a degree by this condition but showed only a small smile of bemused reflection. He had learned this calm manner from his mother, and the gridiron had proven its worth time and time again.

“I’m Dale Trump. I hope you have room in here for a roommate,” said the newcomer, shaking hands with Tex.

“Oh yeah, sorry,” said Tex. “I didn’t know when you were arriving. I’m from Abilene.”

“Is that so?” said Dale, pondering the non-sequitur.

“Oh yes. That’s why they call me Tex.”

“Well, what do they call you back home?”

“But —”

“I’m here on a football scholarship: quarterback and linebacker. I guess you are, too, from what I heard downstairs.”

“That’s right. I play center and middle guard, usually. Long-snapper on special teams.”

“Great. Sounds like we’ll be working together a lot, then.”

“I guess — if Coach puts us freshman on the field.”

“Coach Rodzinski likes to win. His team sent two players to the All-Stars last year — you know, the ones that beat the NFL.”

“You got it.”

“Hey, do you mind helping me get my stuff from my car? I have to drop my car off at my aunt’s, and then I have an ROTC orientation this evening.”

“Sure, I’ve got to go to that too.”

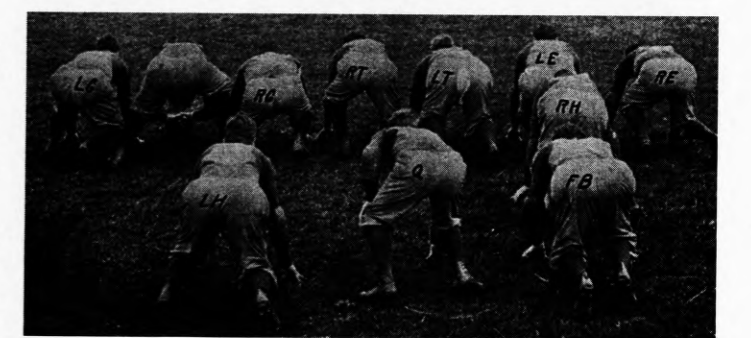

There was knock on the open door. “Is Dale Trump here?” said an older-looking teen.

“That’s me,” said Dale.

“You’ve got a call on the line. Vince Graham.”

“Oh good. My best pal,” said Dale, giving Tex a slap on the shoulder as he left the cluttered dorm room to take the call.

Stu Snodgrass,
High School Teacher

Most days, I teach high school. But one day, I became the evil archenemy of a superhero named Michael, a 6-year-old with a life-threatening medical condition.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation organized the whole showdown. I donned a devilish purple outfit and prowled around the city. The local news team alerted Michael, aka Beetle Boy. He chased me down and foiled all my evil plans. I'll never forget the look on Michael's face as the police led me away.

Rivalries, Trophies & Song

BY DAVE RUTHENBERG

Sure most people are familiar with the Ohio State - Michigan rivalry or instantly recognize the Notre Dame fight song or know that Auburn and Alabama clash every year in the "Iron Bowl." But the traditions of college football run deep and fierce even within those that are a little further removed from the spotlight.

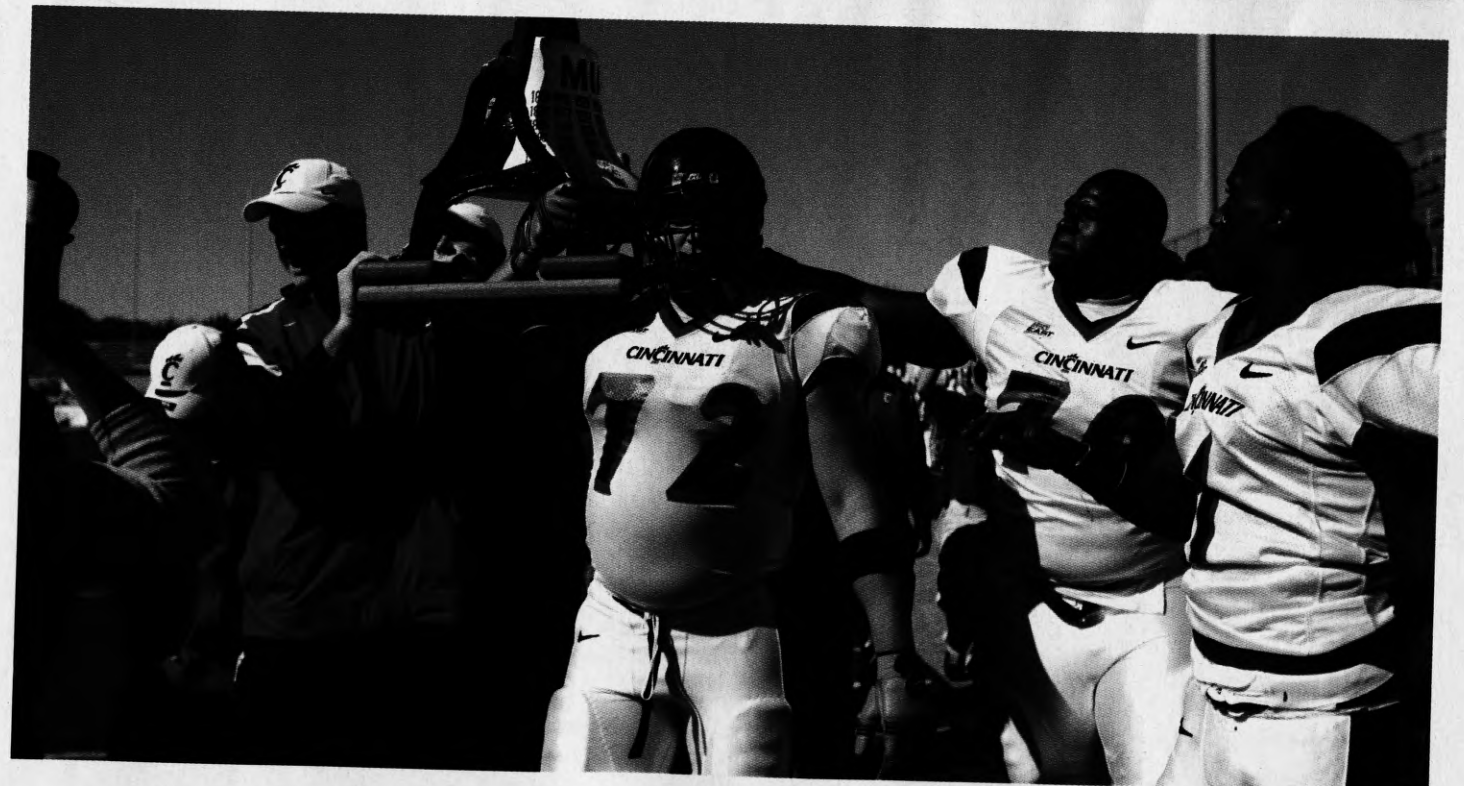

Some of these staples of the American collegiate football landscape may not garner the spotlight, but maintain an important place in the pageantry of fall Saturdays across the nation:

THE GAME (aka "The Rivalry"): It's the "most played" rivalry in college football. No, we aren't talking about Texas vs. Texas A&M or Oklahoma vs. Nebraska. When you mention "The Game" in eastern Pennsylvania you are talking about the annual contest between the Lehigh Mountain Hawks and Lafayette College Leopards, two schools located less than twenty miles apart that compete in the Patriot League. The schools have met 143 times on the gridiron since the rivalry first started in 1884, having met every year non-stop since 1897, and have even met twice in one season on nineteen occasions. There is no official trophy associated with the game but each team keeps the game ball and puts it on display in its trophy case, giving observers a lesson in the evolution of the shape of the football from the game's infancy to its modern appearance. Lafayette leads the all-time series 76-62-5 with three of the last five meetings having decided the Patriot League title. With 143 games played, "The Rivalry" is not only the most played it is also the nation's longest uninterrupted series, sold out well in advance and the subject of worldwide alumni gatherings of both schools on game day.

THE BATTLE FOR THE BELL: Inevitably a key to any rivalry is geography and the annual game between Miami (Ohio) and Cincinnati is no exception. The two Ohio schools both claim the Cincinnati metro area as their home turf and have met on the field 111 times since their first clash in 1888. Known as the longest running collegiate football rivalry west of the Allegheny Mountains, Miami owns a 59-45-7 edge in the series which started on a rather mundane note, a 0-0 tie on December 8, 1888 in a game that was played long before player eligibility rules were established and saw several faculty members participate in the contest. The game eventually gave rise to the Victory Bell sometime in the 1890's, which became a "traveling" trophy when, according to legend, a group of Cincinnati fans swiped the bell from Miami's campus following a Cincinnati victory. The Victory Bell was contested for the next 30 years until it somehow went missing in action and did not turn up again until 1946. The schools have since retired the original Victory Bell, which is on permanent display on Miami's campus; however the current trophy, a replica, remains in active circulation among the victorious squad each year.

THE OLD MOUNTAIN JUG: Appalachian State captured the nation's attention when the Mountaineers upset the fifth-ranked Michigan Wolverines 34-32 to open the 2007 season but things really heat up in the state of North Carolina when Appalachian State and Western Carolina clash annually in the battle for The Old Mountain Jug. Resembling exactly what its namesake implies, an old-time mountain moonshine jug, this trophy has only been in existence since 1976 but the rivalry has been contested since 1932, having evolved from the days when Western Carolina and Appalachian State were the only public universities in western North Carolina. The rivalry between the two schools ramped up considerably in 1974 when Western Carolina, whose team that season featured a standout wide fifth-year senior receiver, applied for membership in the Southern Conference. Appalachian State's athletic director informed the Catamounts that if wide-receiver Jerry Gaines illustrated once referred to as "the best rivalry you have never heard of."

played for Western Carolina that season against the Mountaineers that the Catamounts' membership application would receive opposition from Appalachian State since fifth-year seniors were not permitted to play under Southern Conference rules. Gaines didn't play, the Catamounts still won the game, eventually joined the Southern Conference, and a rivalry trophy was born. While the Catamounts got the last laugh in the 1974 game, Appalachian State has since dominated the series, having at one time won thirteen straight games from 1985-1997 and then claimed another six straight from 1998-2003. The Mountaineers lead the all-time series 53-18-1 and own a 24-7 edge since the advent of the Old Mountain Jug Trophy in a rivalry that Sports the grounds of present-day Kent State University. The wheel, or its remnants, remained stuck in that very spot until 1902 when it was uncovered during a construction project and later became the property of Kent State's Dean of Men, Dr. Raymond Manchester, who suggested in 1945 the Wagon Wheel should be presented as a trophy to the winner of the annual Akron-Kent State clash. The Wagon Wheel was then promptly painted blue and gold, the official colors of both schools, and was contested for the first time in 1946 in a game won by Kent State. Akron holds the all-time edge in Wagon Wheel contests, 28-19-2, including winning nine of the last ten clashes between the Zips and the Golden Flashes.

THE EGG BOWL: Did the rivalry between Mississippi and Mississippi State actually portend the advent of the "chair shot" in professional wrestling? The annual "Golden Egg" trophy contested between the two SEC schools was introduced in 1927 to cool the enflamed passions of supporters of both schools and to provide the victorious team with a tangible trophy. The previous tradition of trying to tear down goalposts had erupted into a near-riot in 1926 when Ole Miss (then known as Mississippi A&M) defeated the Bulldogs 7-6. When Ole Miss' fans attempted to release the frustrations of their team's previous futility, having claimed only five victories in the series' preceding two decades, Bulldogs fans had other ideas and were not prepared to let their rivals cart away their goalposts, defending their turf with wooden chairs being flung in the direction of the marauding Ole Miss faithful. Since the trophy was introduced in 1927, tempers have cooled but the passions remain. The trophy itself resembles a rugby ball shape typical of the style of football used in the early days of college football and it's gold appearance resembles more the shape of an egg than a modern-day football, hence its current nickname. Overall the Rebels hold a 53-22 edge in the series.

ZIGGY'S ZOOMIN' WHO? Some of the best traditions in college football originate outside of the gridiron and can even find fame on celluloid. There is likely no more unique "unofficial" fight song in collegiate athletics than Bowling Green's "Ay Ziggy Zoomba." While the school's official fight song is "Forward Falcons" few fans and alumni would argue that Ay Ziggy Zoomba is the favorite among Falcons. But what exactly is Ay Ziggy Zoomba? It is actually a derivation of a Zulu war chant brought over by former student Gilbert Fox who enrolled as a music major at Bowling Green following World War II. Fox had learned the war chant while serving in Italy and crossing paths with a corps of South African airmen. Fox then re-worded the song for a 1946 performance at a school assembly and his song became an instant campus sensation. But the tune may have remained only a local phenomenon if it were not for Hollywood. Using actual players in casting for the 1968 movie "Paper Lion," the film included a scene of rookie hazing wherein rookies in camp had to get up and sing their school's fight song. Former Bowling Green standout Mike Weger then proudly got up and belted out these now-famous words, forever immortalizing Ay Ziggy Zoomba in the lexicon of collegiate football:

Ay Ziggy Zoomba Zoomba Zoomba
 Ay Ziggy Zoomba Zoomba Ze
 Ay Ziggy Zoomba Zoomba Zoomba
 Ay Ziggy Zoomba Zoomba Ze
 Roll along you BG warriors
 Roll along and fight for BGSU!

OVERLOOKED Rivalries

By Tom Cardinale

SMU vs. TCU

Yet another little brother to Texas' rivalries is the annual battle for the Iron Skillet between Dallas' Southern Methodist University and Texas Christian University of Fort Worth.

These two programs played their first game in 1915 and began battling for the skillet after World War II and the rivalry has been one of the most evenly matched in football. TCU holds a slight advantage with a 41-39-7 record all time, but both teams have had periods of dominance.

SMU triumphed in every meeting between 1972 and 1986 and lost just twice between 1966 and 1986. However, since the NCAA handed down the "death penalty" to SMU for recruiting violations, canceling their season in 1987 and leading the team to voluntarily sit out the 1988 season, the Mustangs have failed to regain the success they once enjoyed.

TCU has dropped just five games to the Mustangs since 1987, but SMU was able to gain some revenge against the Frogs in 2005 when TCU, fresh off an upset of Oklahoma and ranked in the Top 25, lost to the Mustangs for the first time in eight years. It was also SMU's first win over a ranked opponent since '86.

TCU is coming off an 8-5 season in 2007, which included a win over SMU to regain the skillet, but the Mustangs have new coach June Jones poised to lead them back to prominence. That should mean a renaissance for one of history's most competitive rivalries when the Frogs and Mustangs meet on September 20.

Western Michigan vs. Central Michigan

If there is a state where one rivalry overshadows all others more than Texas, it would likely be Michigan, where the Wolverines contest with the Ohio State Buckeyes is one of the greatest rivalries in all of sports. Unfortunately, many Michigan football fans are missing another intense rivalry right in their backyard.

Western Michigan and Central Michigan's rivalry has all the qualities necessary for one of the best: cross-state affiliations, recruiting wars and MAC conference implications. This rivalry is so heated that the one-upping goes beyond what happens on the field to the actual field itself: WMU's Waldo Stadium boasts a seating capacity of 30,200, or exactly one more than CMU's Kelly/Shorts Stadium.

WMU holds the advantage on the field as well, with an all time record of 43-33-2 against the Chippewas. However, last season CMU won on the road for the first time since 1993 to clinch the MAC West title and they did so in dramatic fashion.

WMU scored two touchdowns in a span of 33 seconds to take a 31-27 lead with just 1:34 to go, but CMU drove downfield and, with just 12 seconds remaining, quarterback Dan LeFevour fought his way into the end zone to stun the Broncos, 34-31, and set up what should surely be an intense rematch on October 18.

Houston vs. Rice

In a college football hotbed as big as Texas, there are countless rivalries long overshadowed by the all-important Texas-Oklahoma or Texas-Texas A&M feuds that dominate the Lone Star State's collective college football consciousness. To find one such rivalry, you don't even need to leave the city limits of Houston.

The University of Houston and Rice University have been facing off in football since the days of the Southwest Conference. Now, both teams reside in Conference USA and the battle for the "Bayou Bucket" is still one of Texas' best and most underrated rivalries.

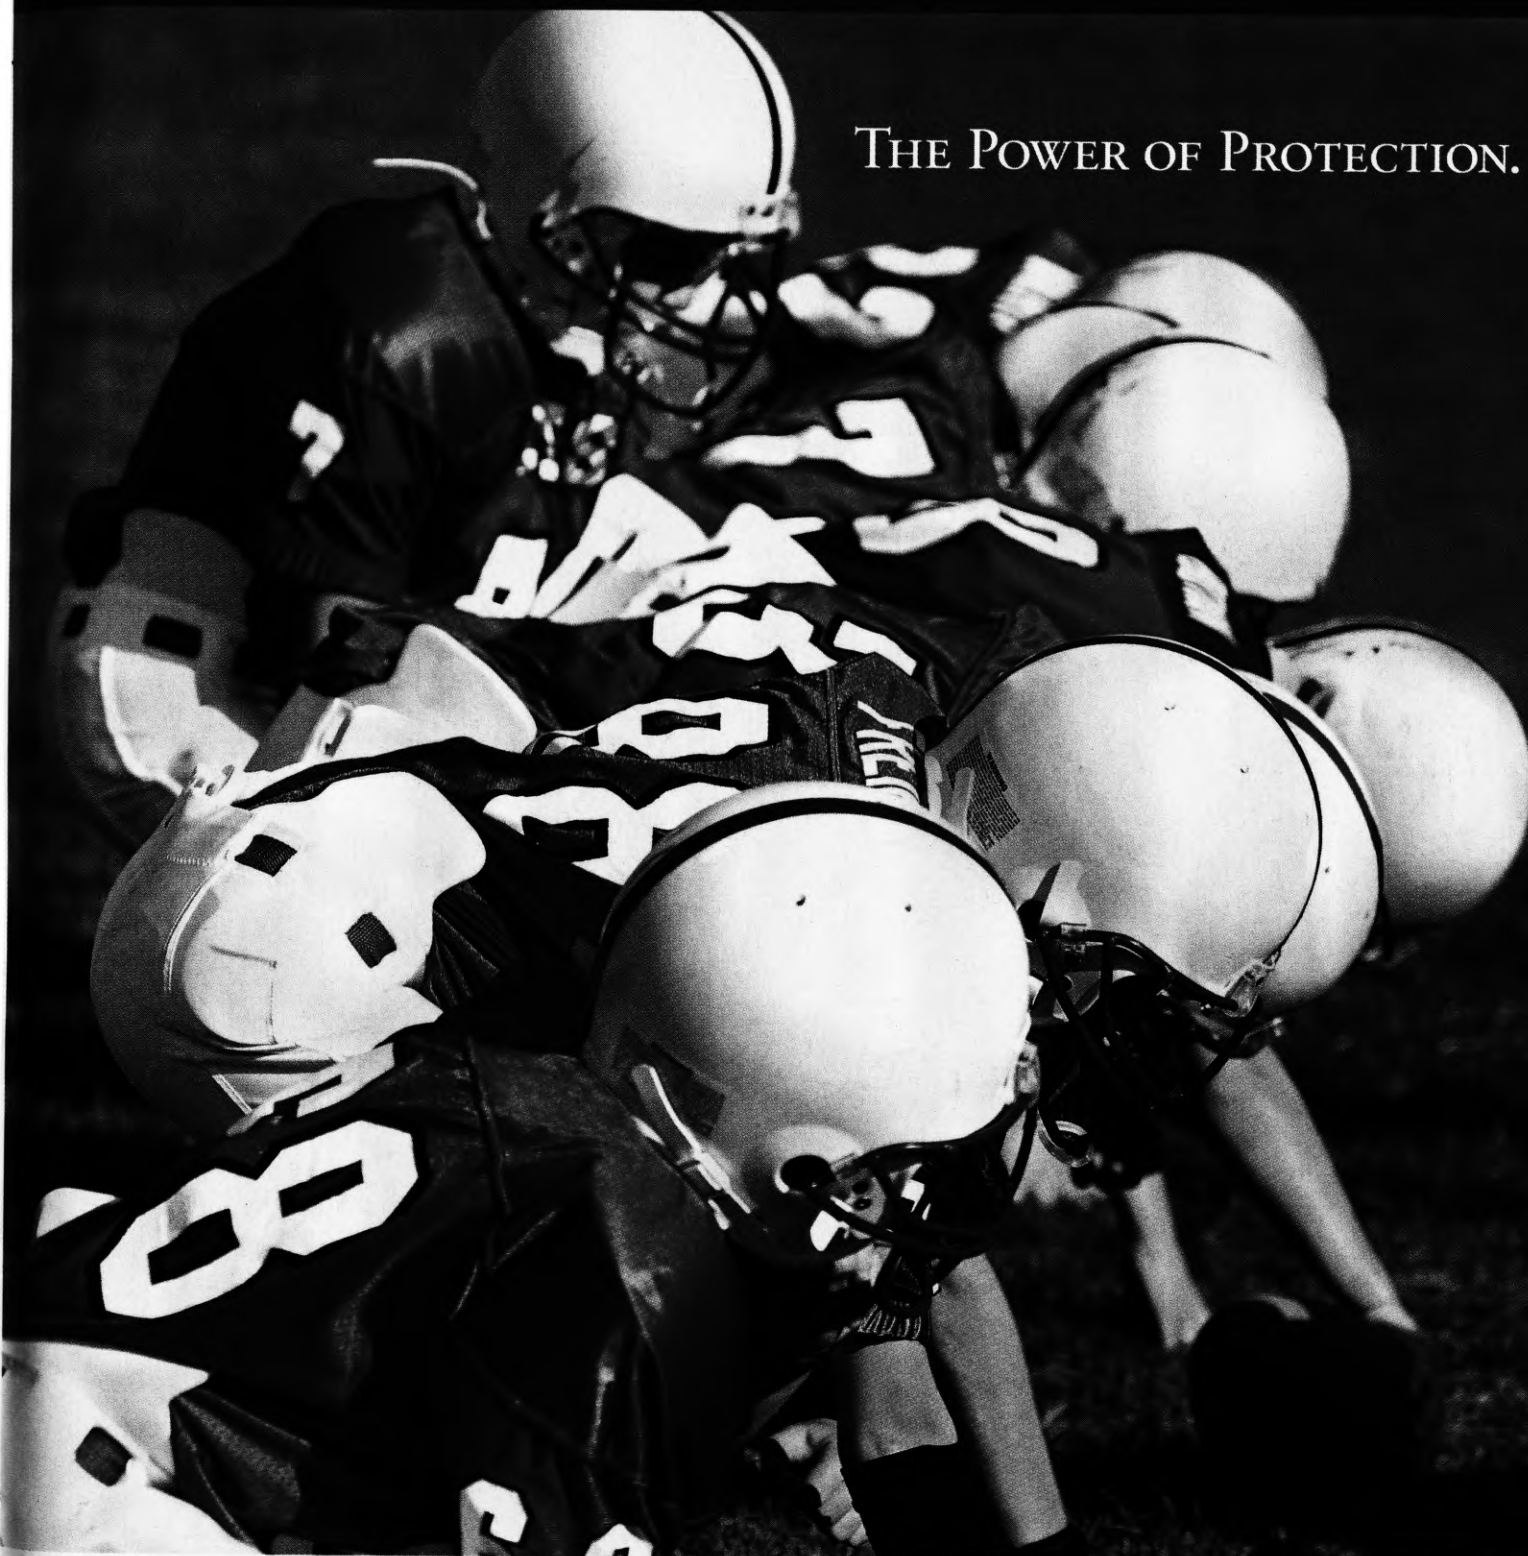

Houston has the advantage on the gridiron with baseball powerhouse Rice, holding a 25-9 record all time. However, the games are typically far more competitive than Houston's dominant record would indicate.

The teams' 2007 meeting marked the third straight year that Rice failed to hold onto a late lead against their biggest foe, relinquishing a 13-point, fourth-quarter advantage en route to a 56-48 loss. In 2006 it was a 16-point, third-quarter lead that evaporated in a 31-30 loss and in 2005 the Owls jumped out to a 10-0 lead only to see it fade away as they fell, 35-18.

The match-up also holds historical significance, as their tilt in 1995 was the final SWC game ever played, an 18-17 Houston victory. The Cougars' 63-0 drubbing of the Owls in 1989 was also a monumental game, as Houston's Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware closed out his season by throwing for 400 yards and 2 TDs and surpassing seven of the 15 NCAA records he broke that season.

These two face-off on November 29 this year, at Rice Stadium, as the Cougars look to continue their winning ways, the Owls look to get off the snide and both teams look for a little more recognition.

DEFUNCT RIVALRIES

BOSTON COLLEGE VS. HOLY CROSS

A natural rivalry between New England Jesuit universities, this match-up began in 1896 and continued until 1986, when the two teams met in the unexpected finale.

Boston College leads the all-time series with a record of 48-31-3, but early on the game was one of the most heated in all of college football.

Holy Cross initially held the edge, winning seven meetings in a row beginning in 1901-02 and continuing from 1910 through 1915. The rivalry reached its peak in 1942 when the undefeated and top ranked Eagles were blown out by the Crusaders, 55-12, in the final game of the season in what is still considered one of the biggest upsets in college football history. BC gained their revenge in 1949, though, when they pounded the Crusaders, 76-0, in the worst defeat in the match-up's history.

The rivalry began to wind down, though, as BC grew and Holy Cross couldn't compete, losing the final eight meetings by a combined score of 276-110 before abruptly canceling the rivalry and moving to Division I-AA in 1987.

PENN STATE VS. PITTSBURGH

Once one of the great in-state rivalries, the Nittany Lions and Panthers first faced off in 1893 and would battle 92 times before the conclusion of their rivalry in 1992 due to conference changes.

Joe Paterno had sought to form a Northeastern Football Conference and urged Pitt to join with Penn State, but the Panthers chose instead to join the Big East Conference and Penn State ultimately ended up in the Big Ten, dividing the teams and effectively ending the rivalry.

Penn State leads the all-time series, 50-42-4, but each team had periods of dominance. Penn State won just once between 1913 and 1938, going 1-20-2 over that span, and Pittsburgh won 14 games in a row between 1922 and 1938. Penn State rebounded in the late sixties, taking 10 straight meetings between 1966 and 1975 by a combined score of 394-135.

The attached shot is of freshman QB/WR Rod Rutherford scoring the game's only touchdown in the 2000 meeting. The game, won by Pitt 12-0, is the last contest played between the longtime foes. Rod took a 12-yard pass and turned it into an electric 62-yard touchdown. He was named the game's MVP.

Although the rivalry ended in 1992, the two teams met four times between 1997 and 2000, with Penn State taking three out of four. Still, this rivalry will likely never be fully renewed and will certainly never regain the importance it once held.

MIAMI VS. FLORIDA

Two of the premier programs of the 1990's, this rivalry ended just when both teams began their rise to prominence. These two squads met every year from 1938 until 1987, with Miami holding a narrow advantage with a 28-25-0 record. The addition of an extra conference game by the SEC forced Florida to eliminate Miami from their schedule after 1987.

Still, there is some hope for this logical rivalry, as the two teams have met four times since 1987. The Hurricanes topped the Gators in the 2001 Sugar Bowl and the 2004 Peach Bowl, and also swept a home-and-home series in the match-up's most recent installment. Additionally, the Canes and Gators are scheduled for a September 6th tilt this season, meaning the Sunshine State could find itself with a local rivalry renewed.

ARKANSAS VS. TEXAS

Yet another rivalry that spans more than a century, the Longhorns and Razorbacks first battled in 1894 and faced off 76 times before their final meeting in 2004, with Texas winning 55 times.

This rivalry had its birth when the two teams were conference foes in the Southwest Conference from 1915 until 1991. In 1969 the two teams were both undefeated heading into the game and Texas was declared National Champions after edging Arkansas, 15-14.

The Longhorns and Razorbacks are scheduled to play a home-and-home series this season and in 2009, possibly signaling a renaissance for this once intense rivalry.

two of college football's most storied programs, with USC holding an 11-9-1 series edge, including wins in the last five contests.

The Trojans and Buckeyes are two of the most successful teams of the new millennia. Each team has a national championship in the last six years (OSU in 2002, USC shared in 2003, outright in 2004) and has appeared in other championship games. Their success hasn't been newfound, overall USC has won 11 national titles and OSU has won seven.

It might be odd to see these squads not facing off on New Year's Day. Seven of their 21 battles have been at the Rose Bowl (1954, '68, '72, '73 '74, '79, and '84 seasons), with OSU winning the national championship in '54 and '68, and USC claiming titles in '72 and '74. USC has a 4-3 Rose Bowl lead.

The game is in September, but it could have title ramifications. The game's loser will have to hope for a repeat of the 2007 chaos for a chance at the BCS Championship game. If neither makes it to the top two BCS spots, a Rose Bowl rematch on New Year's Day 2009 is a possibility, another potential chapter in a celebrated rivalry, which would make a victory even more enjoyable.

RIVALRIES RENEWED

In the college football world, a good rival is like a member of the family. You try to see them every year, with each meeting holding the possibility for a treasured memory. And like your real family (the ones yelling at you to get away from the TV on a Saturday afternoon), you may not always like your rival, but you feel like a part of you is lost if they don't visit.

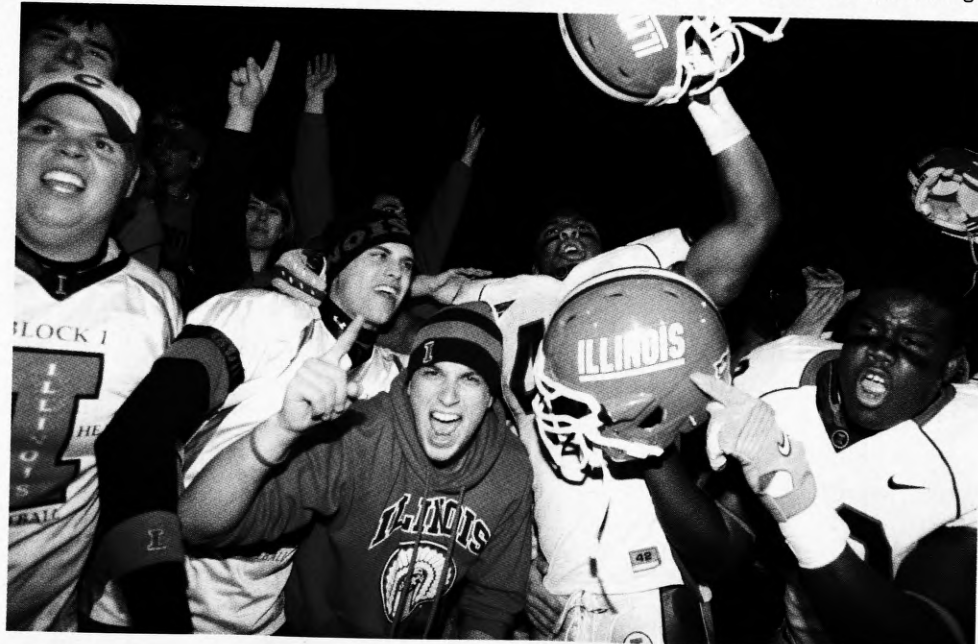

The 2008 NCAA D-I schedule sees two historic rivalries renewed for the first time since 1990. On September 13th, Syracuse plays host to Penn State and Ohio State heads west to take on Southern California.

It'll be the 69th meeting between the Nittany Lions and Orange, who played each year between 1922 and 1990 (except for 1943), with Penn State leading the series 40-23-5. But Syracuse earned one of the program's biggest victories in 1959, when a 6-0 Syracuse team beat a 7-0 PSU team, 20-18, en route to 'Cuse's only national championship. Throughout the 1950s and '60s, this was one of college football's most heated rivalries, with head coaches Ben Schwartzwalder (SU) and Rip Engle (PSU) forming a bitter public feud in their coaching days, which morphed into a strong friendship in retirement.

The rivalry came to a halt in the late 1980s when the two schools couldn't agree on future scheduling, with Penn State wanting six of the next 10 games at the higher-capacity Beaver Stadium, which Syracuse declined. Since Syracuse joined the recently formed Big East Conference, the revenue-generating systems for each school had differed.

Later on the 13th of September, Southern California plays host to Ohio St. at the L.A. Coliseum. It will be the 22nd meeting between

ODDBALL RIVALRIES

For some college football rivalries, the trophy awarded to the winner is just as important as the game itself. However, not every rivalry can have Paul Bunyan's Axe, a Victory Bell, or the Commander-In-Chief Trophy. Yes, some rivalries have the unfortunate luck of having odd, sometimes head scratchingly strange trophies given to the winner. Here, as an ode to the odd, the more eccentric college football trophies and the tales behind them.

THE PEACE PIPE

Bowling Green University and University of Toledo

After a riot ignited by a 1935 63-0 blowout victory by Toledo, the rivalry was postponed for 12 years. In 1947, at halftime of the rivalry's basketball game, members of the two schools' newspapers, as either a sign of goodwill or the shared collegiate desire for communal smoking sessions, lit up a six-foot peace pipe. The winner of the following year's football match-up received the pipe, and the winning school received the pipe for the next 22 years, until 1969, when it was stolen from the Toledo athletic offices. However, since 1980, a new, much smaller, version of the pipe has been passed to each winner.

THE SAWHORSE DOLLAR

Dartmouth College and Princeton University

Two friends, and alumni of each school in this Ivy League rivalry, decided to wager a dollar on the 2002 game. When Princeton came back to win 38-30, the Dartmouth grad, who also happened to be a currency collector, gave his friend a Sawhorse Dollar from 1917, valued at $200. The bill, which is one-third the size of a modern dollar and not accepted at most retail establishments, has since been framed and given to the winning team at midfield by the opposing school's athletic director since 2004.

ILLIBUCK TROPHY

Ohio State University and University of Illinois

As a living, breathing, slow crawling representation of OSU and UI's long rivalry to come, the two schools introduced a turtle in 1925 to be awarded to the winner of the annual football game. A typical turtle can live up to 150 years; however, it's doubtful stays in fraternity houses were included in the life expectancy calculations. Two years into the exchanging of the shelled reptile, the turtle was found dead in an Illinois frat house bathtub. To keep the tradition alive, the schools decided to exchange a wooden turtle to the winner instead, with this one including scores from the rivalry on the shell.

THE MILK CAN TROPHY

Boise State University and Fresno State University

An odd rivalry on many levels, the teams have only played each other ten times, and with an average victory margin of more than 22 points a game. So it seemed slightly unwarranted when a rivalry trophy joined this match up. And not just any trophy, a 10 gallon, silver milk can. Picture Lord Stanley's Cup, but a milk jug instead. A group of dairy farmers, who are also boosters of each school, decided in 2005 to introduce a trophy to honor the thriving dairy production in the two states. Boise State leads the all-time match up, but California has the edge in milk production.

service academy round robin between some of the fiercest foes in college football history: Army, Navy, and Air Force. Navy and Air Force are coming off Bowl appearances in 2007, while Army has struggled for the past decade and hasn't played in a Bowl game since 1996. Navy expects to go bowling again in 2008 (Navy has made a Bowl game each year since 2003), but Air Force will have a tougher road as they replace 15 starters from last year's squad.

The rivalry between Army and Navy began in 1890 with Navy earning the first victory, 24-0 at West Point. A five-year hiatus occurred between 1894

SERVICE ACADEMIES

In college football, few trophies are as prestigious as the Commander-In-Chief's Trophy. Named after its presenter (a.k.a. The President of the United States), the 30-inch, 170-pound trophy is the prize for the winner of the and 1898 to ease the tension between the two institutions. According to the United States Naval Academy website, a Rear Admiral and a Brigadier General came close to a duel. In 1899 it was agreed to play at a neutral site, Franklin Field in Philadelphia. The series would have a few more interruptions in the early 1900's, but the two teams have played every year since 1930. Overall, Navy holds the series edge 52-49-7, including the last six, a record for the rivalry.

Air Force is new to the rivalry, but that hasn't impeded their success. The academy started its football program in 1955 playing against regional freshman teams, moving up to the varsity squads in 1956. Air Force took the field against Army for the first time in 1959 (a 13-13 tie) and took on Navy for the first time the next year (a 35-3 loss). Air Force alternated playing their service academy rivals each year from 1965-71 until the CIC Trophy was founded in 1972. Overall, Air Force has a 25-15 record versus Navy, and a 28-13-1 record against Army.

Since its inception, Air Force and Navy have taken turns dominating the field. After Army won the inaugural Trophy, Navy would win the round robin five times between 1973-81, ('73, '75, '78, '79, and '81) and would keep the trophy in '74, '76, and '80 when the three teams finished with 1-1 splits, with Army sneaking in a win in 1977. But Air Force would dominate the older academies for the next two decades. From 1982-2002, Air Force won the CIC Trophy 16 times, including a record six in a row between 1997-2002 (Air Force held the trophy for seven years between 1989-1995 with a series tie in '93). Army won four times in that span (1984, '86, '88, and '95, their last trophy).

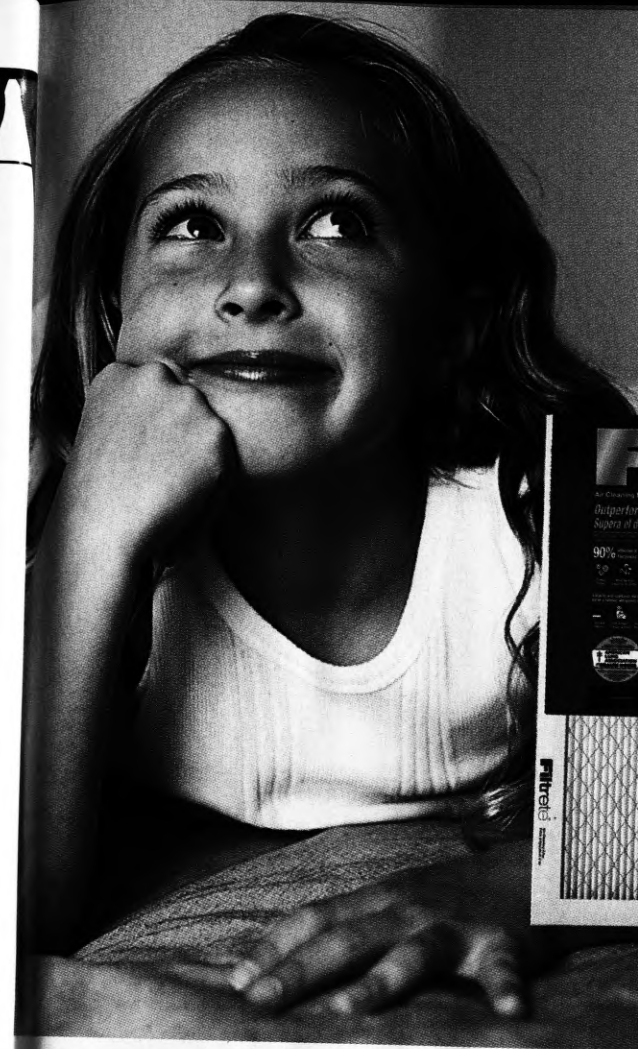

Navy has dominated since 2003, winning the last five CICs. They have 11 straight service academy wins, dating back to 2002. If they can sweep the series in 2008, they'll break Air Force's record of 12 consecutive service academy wins and tie Air Force's record of six straight CIC Trophies.

Each of the service academy games will take place at the beginning of the month. Air Force plays host to Navy on Oct 4th in Colorado Springs, CO. Army hosts Air Force on Nov 1st at West Point, NY. and Army and Navy will end their regular season on Dec 6th, in Philadelphia for the 82nd Army-Navy game played in the city. The gridiron competition is intense, but it can't overshadow the camaraderie each athlete shares in service of his country.

THE CITADEL VS. VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE

Military and football rivalries aren't just northern-Football Bowl Subdivision traditions. Southern-Football Championship Subdivision schools Virginia Military Institute and The Citadel have a long-standing gridiron rivalry dating back to 1920, dubbed The Military Classic of the South. VMI won the inaugural game 35-0 in Lynchburg, VA, but The Citadel has a 34-30-2 edge in the series, winning the last four meetings including a 70-28 romp in 2007 that broke several offensive records. The winner of the game is awarded the Silver Shako Trophy, a tradition started in 1977. Colonel Jake Burrows of the Citadel created the trophy and chose a shako (a large-flat-top hat with a short brim) because it was a compact and practical military symbol common to both schools. Unfortunately, VMI and The Citadel are not scheduled to meet in 2008, the first time since 2004 there was no Military Classic of the South. The last gap before that was back in 1956.

High Performance Filters

CHANGE YOUR FILTER LATELY?

Here's a simple tip for cleaner indoor air: When seasons change, you should change your filter. Improve the air you and your family breathe with a Filtrete® Ultra Allergen Reduction filter. It's 90% effective at capturing large airborne allergens like household dust, pollen and mold spores from the air passing through the filter. And it attracts and captures microscopic allergens like pet dander, smoke, smog, bacteria and particles that can carry viruses. So remember, when seasons change, so should your filter. Your family will thank you.

HANG IT ALL. SAVE THE WALL.

A problem with moving, preparing for the holidays or just changing your indoor scenery isn't the decorating, it's the un-decorating. Damaged walls, holes, nails and hooks are just a few of the things you leave behind. Not so with Command™ strips. Just peel, stick and hang. They hold on strongly, and come off cleanly. For pictures, posters, holiday decorations, cords and more. Hang it all and save the wall with Command strips from 3M.

HAWAII vs. ALASKA?

HAWAII

Hawaii has no geographical rival. It is thousands of miles out in the sea. BYU used to be a pretty good rival when the two were in the WAC, and BYU has a branch campus in Laie, Hawaii, so that could be a good fit. But hey, what about Alaska? They were the 49th and 50th states. That means they are already intertwined by history. Alaska just needs to come up with a football program. Can you imagine some of the icy adventures at Alaska home games? And then matched up against Hawaii, you have the whole hot-cold thing going on. So Alaska, get some equipment together and a big stadium, and wait for your natural rival, the Rainbow Warriors, to show up. As far as a not-so-natural rival right now for Hawaii with a school that actually has a football program, how about this idea: Maine. That's right, the Black Bears, folks. We know that Maine belongs to the FCS, but just because they are so far away from the Island, the game could be the longest trip each year in college football. And yes, that gives students at Maine a chance to leave for Hawaii to see the game. Of course they'd be allowed an entire week of travel time. Think of it as the sweetest Fall Break ever. Maine and Hawaii did actually meet once on the gridiron, that match-up coming in the fall of 1990. While it was a disappointing trip to the Pacific for the Black Bears, the rivalry does have some history on which to build. And now that Maine has made the 5,112 mile trip, maybe it's time for the Rainbow Warriors to do the same?

This is a bad time to be a golf ball

SAN DIEGO STATE vs. VANDERBILT?

BUFFALO

Buffalo joined the MAC after a few years in lower-division play. Syracuse would seem like a nice rival with the two schools being fairly close and having already played a couple times in recent years. Alas, the buzz just isn't there yet. So we put our heads together and came up with their real rival: Miami. Not the Roethlisberger Redhaws of the MAC, but the University of Miami Hurricanes. Remember the great showdowns between Buffalo and Miami in the NFL, when both were the class of the AFC East? How it seemed the Dolphins had to travel up to Buffalo every year in icy cold weather for a game? Well, the Bills are on the rise little by little, and the Dolphins aren't quite there right now, so how 'bout rekindling the fun with a UB-UM rivalry to get the two cities' juices flowing again. And again, the hot and cold thing really makes it go.

SAN DIEGO STATE

The split of WAC and Mountain West years ago left SDSU isolated as the only California school in the MWC. Who could they call rival? How about an intra-sectional rivalry with the SEC's Vanderbilt? It seems a little random, true. The Commodores and Aztecs have very little issue with one another. In fact, the two schools have never met on the field. What better place to start a rivalry, then? The series is dead even! The next time they play will be for all the marbles. The first win of this brand-new rivalry will give an all-time series lead to the school who takes it. Then the Aztecs and Commodores can fight it out yearly for the rest of the century! Vanderbilt can use a rival to augment their yearly battles with geographical rival, Tennessee. The Vols have had the upper hand in recent years, so maybe SDSU is a better short-term answer.

Harlan Hill Trophy

Two Edinboro football players have been finalists for the Harlan Hill Trophy, presented annually to the top player in NCAA Division II football. Running back Elbert Cole was one of three finalists in 1989, while wide receiver Ernest Priester was a finalist a year later. Cole placed third in the '89 balloting. He earned All-American honors in 1989, receiving first team accolades from Kodak/American Football Coaches Association, second team recognition from Football Gazette, and third team status from Associated Press.

Cole rushed for 1,507 yards and set Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference records for touchdowns (24) and points (148). He led the Fighting Scots to the PSAC West title, a 8-3 record and a number seven ranking in the final Division II poll.

Priester was runnerup to North Dakota State quarterback Chris Simdorn in 1990 when the Bison claimed the Division II national title. Priester was the PSAC Western Division Co-Player of the Year in 1990. He was also recognized by Kodak/American Football Coaches Association, Associated Press and the Football Gazette as a first team All-American.

The wide receiver hauled in 47 passes for 1,102 yards and 15 TDs. Edinboro finished 9-3, reaching the Division II quarterfinals.

Last year sophomore quarterback Trevor Hrris was a Northeast Region semifinalist.

Four years ago Andre Burke (below) made a run at the Harlan Hill Trophy, as the tailback was a Northeast Region semifinalist. Burke ended up with a school-record 1,713 yards and 19 TDs.

The Cactus Bowl

Kyle Witucki continued the tradition of Edinboro Fighting Scots playing in the Cactus Bowl in January 2008. (NOTE: The 2007 contest was suspended.) The tight end hauled in an eight-yard touchdown reception to help the East All-Stars beat the West All-Stars, 42-13. For a number of years Division II football teams had an all-star game named the Snow Bowl, which was played in Fargo, North Dakota. In 2000 the contest was moved to Kingsville, Texas and renamed the Cactus Bowl. The contest features the top small college seniors in the country. Edinboro has had at least one representative in every Cactus Bowl (aka Snow Bowl) but one, with a streak of eight straight years. Here's a complete list of the Fighting Scots who have performed in the Cactus Bowl Division II All-Star Game.

Dear Fans:

I hope that our fans will applaud and frequent the 15 supporters listed below from the Edinboro community who have supported our players with evening snacks through the grueling practice sessions in August. Our "August Snacks Program" has been a huge success. I can't tell you how appreciative our players are of these generous donations. This is the eighth consecutive year that the community has reached out and assisted us. Our players have asked me to thank each of the restaurants/eateries below. Please support these Edinboro business! THANK YOU.

Cummings and Hansen Named Pete Nevins Scholar-Athletes of the Year

Chris Cummings

Jennifer Hansen

Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference Commissioner Steve Murray is proud to recognize 1,488 student-athletes from the league who will be known as "Scholar-Athletes" for the 2007-08 academic year. The total eclipses last year's figure of 1,420.

Atop the list are the 2007-08 PSAC Pete Nevins Scholar-Athletes of the Year: Mansfield's Chris Cummings and Slippery Rock's Jennifer Hansen.

The PSAC Pete Nevins Scholar-Athlete of the Year Awards are presented to the top student-athletes who have achieved at least a 3.25 cumulative grade point average while competing at an outstanding athletic level. Student-athletes must have been recognized as a Fall, Winter or Spring Top Ten Award winner to be eligible.

In its 18th year of existence, the awards were renamed in 2007 to honor East Stroudsburg's long-time sports information director Pete Nevins, who passed away earlier that year after a short battle with cancer. Nevins held his position at ESU for 33 years, and it is estimated that he wrote articles on more than 12,000 ESU events that covered more than 5,000 student-athletes.

Cummings, a graduate student at Mansfield, excelled in his final season of eligibility. He was the only PSAC male to garner All-America honors in cross country, indoor and outdoor track and field. His highest national showing came with a second-place finish in the mile during the indoor championships. At other NCAA Championships, he placed sixth in the 1,500m during the outdoor season, and was 26th at the cross country nationals. During the indoor season, Cummings won the mile and ran a leg of the winning distance medley relay at the PSAC Championships. He was crowned co-MVP of the meet and was later recognized as the 2008 PSAC Indoor Track Athlete of the Year.

Recently named an NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship recipient, Cummings maintained a 4.0 GPA while pursuing his master's degree in education. As an undergraduate, Cummings carried a 3.86 GPA as a physics major. He finishes his storied career at Mansfield as a five-time All-American - twice each in indoor and outdoor track and field, and once in cross country. Between the two track seasons, the Mansfield native owns school records in nine individual and four relay events.

Hansen, a junior elementary education major, has established a 4.0 GPA. The Charleston, W. Va. product continues to set new standards in the pole vault, which includes All-America citations during this year's indoor and outdoor seasons, finishing third at both national events.

Her outdoor season included a vault of 13-3.75 at the league championships, establishing a new meet record. Coupled with her third-place effort in the long jump, Hansen was named the Most Valuable Field Athlete for the meet. Just a few weeks earlier Hansen established a new PSAC overall record in the pole vault, clearing 13-5.25 at Allegheny's Gator Invitational. It marked the fourth time in two weeks that she had broken the conference record. During the indoor season, Hansen registered a meet and overall record by vaulting 13-1.25 at the conference championship and was later honored as the PSAC Field Athlete of the Year.

Hansen was one of only three PSAC student-athlete to earn first-team Academic All-America status from ESPN The Magazine, and the only one to do so in the cross country/track and field category. She is a five-time PSAC Champion and four-time All-American.

This marks the 23rd season that I have been fortunate enough to be a member of the Edinboro football staff. During that time it has been very gratifying to see the response of local organizations in assisting Edinboro football. In recent years the service organizations has provided invaluable assistance, including running the 50/50 raffles. We look forward to working with these organizations again this year, and thank them for their support of Boro Football.

Sincerely,

Scott Browning
Head Football Coach

GREAT THINGS HAPPEN HERE! The phrase was coined by new Edinboro University President Dr. Jeremy Brown, and it certainly is appropriate for the success the athletic department has enjoyed.

What is truly rewarding is the continued success we enjoy year-in and year-out. We're not talking about a one year phenomenon. Fighting Scot athletic teams have enjoyed tremendous success for many years now. The 2007-08 season saw Edinboro athletic teams post an overall record of 148-84-3. That's just the start of what will go down as a memorable campaign.

SUPERIOR COACHING STAFF: I've always felt that Edinboro has assembled a coaching staff that rivals not only the best in the PSAC, but in all of Division II. For starters, men's basketball coach Greg Walcovich became just the ninth active coach in Division II with 500 wins. Women's basketball coach Stan Swank eclipsed 350 wins this past year, while Missy Soboleski (volleyball) and Jim Glatch (wheelchair basketball) topped 200 wins and women's soccer coach Gary Kagiavas went over the 100-win plateau. All Tim Flynn has done is lead his wrestling program to ten Eastern Wrestling League crowns in 11 years and nine PSAC titles in that same period. He has been named the Coach of the Year in at least one of the two leagues in nine of those 11 campaigns. Long-time cross country coach Doug Watts was once again recognized by the PSAC as its Men's Coach of the Year.

SCOTS DOMINATE INDIVIDUAL HONORS: If there is one thing that stood out above all else this year, it was the incredible individual success our student-athletes enjoyed. No fewer than six Fighting Scots were named the PSAC Player of the Year in their respective sports (Gregor Gillespie - wrestling; Trevor Harris - football; Brooke Heath - women's swimming; Rachael Lanzel - women's cross country; Ryan McLemore - men's basketball; and Jenna Newman - volleyball). In addition, three Scots were named PSAC Rookie of the year - Chris Honeycutt (wrestling), Barry McLaughlin (men's cross country); and Katie Wilkins (volleyball). Last, but certainly not least, three coaches earned PSAC Coach of the Year accolades - Tim Flynn (wrestling); Gary Kagiavas (women's soccer); and Doug Watts (men's cross country). Those are just a few of the honors our student-athletes picked up this year.

UPGRADED FACILITIES: Edinboro's athletic facilities have made a quantum leap the last two years. Sox Harrison Stadium was renovated a year ago, complete with a new artificial playing surface, lights, and a new scoreboard, along with improvements to local rooms in the facility.

Journeying over to McComb Fieldhouse, the long-awaited weight room project was completed last summer. Edinboro athletes can now work out with some of the finest state-of-the-art exercise and weight training equipment. The gymnasium floor has a bright new paint job that caught the eye of many this past year.

ON THE HORIZON: We anticipate that by the time 2009 rolls around the new air-supported dome will be completed. This structure, like the new surface at Sox Harrison Stadium, will accommodate not only athletics but many other campus activities. It obviously will provide our athletic teams a tremendous opportunity to practice inside during those blustery Edinboro winter days. In addition, you will notice a renewed emphasis on track & field, along with the ability to expand our camp offerings.

We're very proud of everything that has been accomplished, not only this past year but in previous years. We look forward to what lies ahead in the future, realizing that it will indeed be a challenge. Other Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference schools are experiencing many of the same improvements we are, or have done so in recent years.

The support of the administration and the Student Government Association is greatly appreciated. But we can't stop there. Our Edinboro Family must continue to grow. I can't tell you how valuable your support has been since the start of the Annual Athletic Fund. We hope you'll once again choose to sit down and contribute to the Athletic Fund. If you haven't contributed in the past, please explore the possibility of helping Edinboro not only maintain its athletic tradition, but move forward. Finally, please spread the word around. The greatest way we can prosper is by networking, so please tell a friend or two about the Annual Athletic Fund.

As always, thanks for your support. If you haven't had an opportunity to do so recently, come and visit us and get a first hand look at what is happening. You'll walk away agreeing that Great Things Happen Here!

A Tale of Two Offensive Linemen

by Bob Shreve, Sports Information Director

Josh Bzorek and Eric Costello joined the Edinboro football program five years ago. One was a highly-regarded recruit with an impressive lineage, the other a recruited walk-on from a downtrodden program. Today the two anchor an offensive line which has been one of the strengths of the Fighting Scot football team.

Bzorek is the last in a long line of sons of Ledia and Joe Bzorek to play offensive line in the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference, making for a hefty grocery bill. Three have played for the Fighting Scots. Ron transferred to Edinboro after playing at Slippery Rock and was a solid reserve. At 6'6", 330 lbs. Greg was likely the most imposing Bzorek, and received the most notoriety. He started all four years at right tackle and earned All-American honors as a junior and senior. Brother Joe played at Clarion, and Bill played at Slippery Rock.

Along came Josh, who joined Edinboro as a 240 lb. defensive lineman, but quickly made the switch to offense and has since bulked up to 306 lbs. on his 6'5" frame.

As far as Bzorek was concerned, following in his brothers' footsteps was never a problem. "I think it was easier, if anything," he related. "There was a lot of familiarity with Edinboro. I don't think it made a difference, although outside the field it helped.

"Greg's probably got more respect and more accolades," admitted Bzorek. "We don't talk about it a lot, but every once in awhile he'll talk about how he has me beat. It's just joking. We don't take it serious."

Not that Josh hasn't received his own accolades. He was a second team All-PSAC West selection at tackle a year ago, and was chosen a pre-season All-American by Consensus Draft Services.

If he earns any honors this season, it will be at right guard, not left tackle. After starting 29 of 30 games in his career at tackle, Bzorek was shifted to guard in the spring.

"I wanted to do it if it would make the team better," he commented somewhat hesitantly. "If it made the offensive line better I was for it. But I was skeptical.

"I've been comfortable at guard. I don't think it's a huge difference. There are some differences in your technique. But you can't take away experience, being on the field. That's a huge part of it.

Bzorek's willingness to change positions in his final year didn't go unnoticed by head coach Scott Browning. "It shows how unselfish Josh is," Browning pointed out. "He never questioned it. At the time we thought it was the best move to get our best five linemen out there. He never gave it a second thought."

Costello, meanwhile, quickly made an impression on the coaching staff despite little notoriety. After being groomed as the potential successor for standout center Chris Kaczor, he moved in as a starter in 2006. That lasted a total of five games, although he moved over to left guard to allow Kaczor to remain at center.

"We were impressed with Eric when he got in here," Browning recalled. "He paid his dues. You look at his sophomore year and we started him five games then benched him. He continued to work hard, and he just kept working hard."

Costello's formula for getting noticed was simple. "I worked hard and knew I could play here," he commented. "Eventually I worked my way up. It was all about spending the extra time in the weight room, studying more film and talking to the older guys."

In 2007 Costello took over at center for the departed Kaczor, starting all 11 games. It was a stark contrast to Kaczor, who was a road grader built like a Coke machine.

Costello is tall and almost lean at 6'3", 277 lbs. If anything, he represents the "new look" of the offensive line. When recent players Greg Bzorek and offensive line coach Anthony Peluso played on the line, they were huge. The list of standout lineman, all tipping the scales at well over 300 lbs., is endless -- Joe Valvoda, Brandon Nicodemus, Jason Oman.

Now the emphasis is on athleticism and mobility. With it has come a change in the makeup of the line.

"They were their own players and we're our own," Costello assessed. "Their game was built off power. We're quicker, more technique-oriented. I'm obviously at a weight disadvantage, but I use my quickness. I'm not the biggest guy, but I know the offense through and through."

A year ago the offensive line probably didn't get its just due. The Fighting Scots gave up just 22 sacks in a school-record 448 pass attempts, with eight of the sacks coming in the season opener against West Chester. But the ground game averaged just 142.9 yards per game.

As the spring of 2008 arrived, there was one common theme -- we must run the ball better. The Fighting Scots, with Bzorek and Costello anchoring the line, have done just that. The team is now averaging 179.5 ypg. rushing. If ever it was evident it was against California (Pa.), as Edinboro totaled 230 yards on the ground.

"Our guys up front have taken more pride in running the ball, and it's because of those two guys," Peluso noted. "It trickles down to our younger guys. The need to run the ball is necessary. It takes a lot of pressure off the quarterback and receivers."

"We're pretty balanced now," Costello stated. "When we need to run the ball we can. We did against Cal. We're still going to throw it. We have the greatest quarterback in the region."

Bzorek points out that the offense is now much more involved. "The offensive line has to think a lot more. The spread offense means you have to be quicker and move well. But we still want to power the ball like we did in the past."

That may be what impresses Browning most about Bzorek and Costello. "They're very cerebral about the game. They have really good football knowledge. You can tell them one time and it's done. They've helped our younger guys learn the system. They provide us with great leadership.

"Plus, both are very good students. And I don't remember them being late for a meeting or anything. It's the little things that they do that we're really going to miss."

Both will graduate this academic year, leaving the Fighting Scots with a pair of huge holes to fill. Bzorek graduates in December with his Bachelor's Degree in Marketing. He hopes to likely move into sales after that.

Costello, meanwhile, must wait until May of 2009 to receive his Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice. Like Bzorek he is still unsure what he will do after that, but trying to become a state trooper is a distinct possibility.

For now, both hopes to keep playing into November, leading the Fighting Scots into the NCAA Playoffs.
