THE COACHES

Edinboro head coach Lou Tepper (Rutgers '67) is in his third season in charge of the Fighting Scots. Renowned as a defensive genius, Tepper has worked on the staffs of some of the top programs in the country, including Virginia Tech, Colorado and LSU. But his greatest notoriety came at Illinois, where he coached from 1989-96. The defensive coordinator and later assistant head coach from 1988-91, Tepper was appointed the Fighting Illini head coach on December 13, 1991, just prior to the team's appearance in the John Hancock Sun Bowl. He would go on to guide the Illini to two more bowl games while posting a 25-31-2 ledger. Including two seasons and a game at Edinboro, Tepper's career mark stands at 37-46-2.

Malen Luke (Westminster '76) is a former assistant coach at Edinboro who is now in his ninth season as the head coach at Clarion. Luke has posted a 45-48 mark as the Golden Eagles mentor, with two PSAC West championships. The most recent came in 2000, when Clarion was 7-4, and also in 1996 when Luke's squad finished 11-3 and advanced to the NCAA Division II Final Four. Prior to taking over at Clarion, Luke served six seasons as the head coach at Defiance, where his teams went 37-21. His overall record is 82-69.

THE EDINBORO-CLARION SERIES

Clarion leads 36-35-2

The Fighting Scots closed to within a game in the all-time series with

Welcome to Sox Harrison Stadium. After playing just one home game in the first five weeks of the season, the Fighting Scots play their second straight home contest. Long-time PSAC West rival Clarion will provide the opposition.

Edinboro comes off a discouraging outcome in last week's Homecoming game, dropping a 54-35 decision to Indiana(Pa.) in a contest that was hardly as close as the final score indicated. The 14th-ranked Indians were up 54-7 at one point.

The week before, IUP handed Clarion a 28-14 defeat. The Golden Eagles rebounded with a 34-28 win over West Chester last week in their Homecoming contest.

last year's 24-12 Homecoming victory. In fact, it marked the third straight meeting during Homecoming festivities. The home team has won the last six meetings, with Clarion last coming away with a victory at Sox Harrison Stadium in 1994.

LAST YEAR'S GAME

Edinboro 24, Clarion 12
The Fighting Scots celebrated Homecoming with a victory over Clarion behind the passing of Steve Tryon and the running of Alonzo Roebuck. The victory pushed Edinboro to 4-2, two games over the .500 mark for the first time since 1996. Clarion scored first in the game on Demetric Gardner's 19-yard run, but failed to take advantage of three Edinboro turnovers in the first quarter. A 40-yard field goal by Sean McNicholas started a run of 24 straight points for the Scots. John Williams hauled in a 46-yard pass from Tryon, then Tryon ran one in from 17 yards out for a 17-6 lead at the half. Roebuck added a 2-yard TD run in the third quarter. Roebuck ended the afternoon with 129 yards on 19 carries, while Tryon passed for 155 yards. Adam Almashy threw for 147 yards and a touchdown, but completed just 9 of 27 passes.

LAST WEEK FOR THE FIGHTING SCOTS

Edinboro ran into a high-powered IUP offense, and was no match for the Indians. IUP scored on eight of its first nine possessions, bolting to a 54-7 lead before the Fighting Scots scored the fall 28 points of the game to narrow the final margin to 54-35. Alonzo Roebuck was a standout in defeat, scoring three touchdowns while setting career highs with 33 carries and 170 yards. Cam Marsh returned after missing the previous two games with a shoulder injury and completed 21 of 27 passes for 145 yards and 2 TDs. Both scoring tosses went to C.J. Trivisonno, who scored for the first time in his career.

LAST WEEK FOR THE GOLDEN EAGLES

Clarion parlayed a punishing ground game into a 34-28 win against West Chester in a PSAC crossover contest. The Golden Eagles ran 58 times for 344 yards, while limiting West Chester to 75 yards on the ground and recording 6 sacks. Leading rusher Robert Walker was held to 19 yards on 13 carries, but scored a pair of touchdowns on short runs. Glenn Lovelace and quarterback Adam Almashy each topped the 100-yard mark. Lovelace scored on touchdown runs of 45 and 53 yards on his way to 181 yards on 11 carries, a performance which earned him PSAC West Offensive Player of the Week accolades. Almashy added 100 yards on 17 carries, adding 94 yards passing.

THE PLAID REPORT

Brandon Nicodemus has now started all 38 games in his career at left guard ... Dave Smith has tied the school record for tackles for losses held by Jason Perkins. Both have 49 career tackles for losses, with Smith fourth in career sacks with 23.5 ... with Alonzo Roebuck out against Tiffin, Brandon Munson made the most of his first start. The sophomore tailback gained 140 yards on 20 carries with TD runs of 2, 22 and 40 yards ... tight ends Ed Brown and C.J. Trivisonno have combined for 4 TDs, with each catching a pair ... Chris Wiggins has returned to the starting lineup the last two games. The senior linebacker led the Scots with 10 tackles at Shippensburg, then took part in 6 hits vs. IUP.

SCOUTING THE GOLDEN EAGLES

Clarion's Wing-T offense ranks among the tops in Division II in rushing offense. The Golden Eagles were fourth in the country entering the West Chester contest, and boosted the figure to 293.8 yards per game with a 344-yard effort against West Chester ... senior Adam Almashy is in his fourth year as the starting quarterback. While not renowned for his passing, Almashy possesses deft ball-handling skills and is a strong runner. He became the first Clarion quarterback to go over 1,000 yards rushing for his career last week, rushing for 100 yards to go to 1,089 yards. That ranks 21st all-time ... senior tailback Robert Walker has moved into 8th place in career rushing with 1,604 yards, and is tied for second in career rushing TDs with 23 ... after sitting out the 2001 campaign, Troy Bowers has returned with a vengeance. The junior noseguard leads the PSAC with 13 tackles for losses, after previously leading the conference in 2000.

MCNICHOLAS TOP PUNTER IN DIVISION II

Sean McNicholas is off to a record-setting pace punting the football for the Scots. He is averaging 47.6 yards on 30 punts, with eight ending up inside the 20. The senior entered the Indiana(Pa.) game leading Division II in punter. One good reason -- he's had four kicks of 60-or-more yards.

ZO ON A ROLL

Since sitting out the Tiffin, Alonzo Roebuck has been running with a vengeance. The senior tailback has topped the 100-yard mark in the last three games, rushing for 151 yards at East Stroudsburg and 136 yards at Shippensburg, followed by a career-best 170 yards this past week vs. IUP. Roebuck now has seven straight 100-yard games and has moved into 12th place in career rushing with 1,452 yards. He entered the week ranked 22nd in Division II in rushing, and he should move up following Saturday's effort which boosted his average to 119.8 yards per game.

WELCOME BACK CAM

Cam Marsh started the first three games of the season at quarterback before sitting out the final three quarters against Tiffin and the East Stroudsburg and Shippensburg tilts due to a shoulder injury. The sophomore returned to the lineup last week, completing 21 of 27 passes for 145 yards and 2 TDs. He is currently completing 68.7 percent of his passes.

C.J. REACHES PAYDIRT

One of the few promising aspects of the IUP loss was the Cam Marsh to C.J. Trivisonno connection. The sophomores hooked up for four pass completions, including touchdown catches of three and one yards. The six-pointers were the first of Trivisonno's career.

LET'S HAVE A BLOCK PARTY

It's becoming a weekly thing. Another game, another blocked kick for the Fighting Scots. A year ago Edinboro blocked eight kicks. The Fighting Scots have been at it again this year, getting at least one block in every game. This past week it was an extra point, and the week before that the Scots blocked two extra points at Shippensburg. All told, Edinboro has registered eight blocked kicks. Previously, the Scots blocked a field goal vs. Gannon, an extra point and a punt against Ashland, a field goal at Tiffin, and an extra point at East Stroudsburg.

SCOTS LAST TO HOLD CLARION UNDER 200 YARDS RUSHING

Clarion has run for at least 200-or-more yards in each of the last ten games. The last team to hold the Golden Eagles under 200? Edinboro. In last year's 24-12 victory, the Scots "limited" Clarion to 195 yards on the ground.

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO THE DEFENSE?

This isn't the first time that the Fighting Scots have suffered a three-game losing streak, but what makes the losing so perplexing is the play of the defense. Over the last three contests the Scots have allowed 125 points and 1,417 yards. Those numbers are far from the usual figures put up by head coach Lou Tepper's staunch defenses. In fact, Edinboro had been ranked among the best rushing defenses in Division II prior to the Shippensburg game. The last time Edinboro gave up that many points in a three-game span came in 1998, when Carson-Newman, Glenville State and Millersville combined for 129 points.

NEXT FOR THE FIGHTING SCOTS

Edinboro hits the highways for a PSAC West contest at Slippery Rock. Kickoff is set for 1:00 p.m.

HEAD COACH

Lou Tepper

Veteran Division I mentor Lou Tepper was appointed the 12th head football coach at Edinboro University, officially taking charge of the Fighting Scot program on January 5, 2000.

Tepper inherited an Edinboro program which had won just eleven games in the previous three seasons. The Scots have shown consistent improvement in "Coach Tep's" two years. The 2000 season brought a 5-6 record, matching the Edinboro record for wins by a first-year head coach, and a fifth place PSAC finish. Three of the losses, however, were lopsided. In 2001, Edinboro finished with a deceiving 4-6 record. The Fighting Scots were competitive in every contest and finished third in the PSAC. The victories included a stunning 14-7 upset over 17th-ranked Slippery Rock.

Background

Tepper, a native of Keystone, PA, returned to the Division II level after coaching at Division I institutions for almost thirty

"We had an outstanding pool of candidates to choose from, but Lou's integrity, coaching background and national notoriety stood out above the rest. We feel Edinboro provides the opportunity to be one of the top programs in the PSAC, and look at Lou Tepper as the coach to restore our program to that level."

Dr. Frank Pogue Jr.
President, Edinboro University

MacFarland, and Ken Dilger, all current NFL standouts. In addition, he has worked with some of the top head coaches in the country, including Bill Dooley at Virginia Tech, Bill McCartney at Colorado, John Mackovic at Illinois and Gerry DiNardo at LSU.

"Being a native of western Pennsylvania, it has been neat to be a head coach again and to be a head coach in this environment," Tepper related following his first season at Edinboro. "I've recruited western Pennsylvania for half of my career. It's a joy to be Tepper completed his second full season as the defensive coordinator at Louisiana State University in 1999. He began his tenure with the Tigers on December 15, 1997, helping LSU to a 27-9 Independence Bowl win over Notre Dame. All told, he has served as a defensive coordinator for 19 of his 35 years in the coaching profession.

Big Ten Head Coach

The 56-year-old Tepper was appointed the head coach at the University of Illinois on December 13, 1991, just prior to the team's appearance in the John Hancock Sun Bowl. He replaced Mackovic, who left for the head coaching position at the University of Texas. During his five year stint as the Fighting Illini head coach, Tepper compiled a record of 25-31-2, including two more bowl appearances. He guided Illinois to a pair of wins over Ohio State, including one at Columbus; the school's first victory in Ann Arbor against Michigan in 27 years; and three consecutive wins over rival Iowa by a combined score of 122-17. Just as impressive, Tepper graduated 91 percent of his seniors.

Tepper joined the Illinois program in 1988, serving as the defensive coordinator for four seasons and assistant head coach for two years. In his nine seasons at Illinois, he helped the program to six bowl invitations, one Big Ten title and top ten rankings in the AP and UPI polls.

He was honored as the Big Ten's top defensive assistant coach in 1990 by The Sporting News. His defensive units annually ranked among the best in the country, finishing 10th in 1989, 14th in 1993, ninth in 1994, and 21st in 1995.

Tepper's 1992 Illini squad finished 6-5-1, suffering a 27-17 defeat to Hawaii in the Holiday Bowl. Illinois went in to Columbus and upset Ohio State, 18-16, and posted a 22-22 tie against Michigan in Ann Arbor.

While his '93 edition finished 5-6, that included a 24-21 win in Ann Arbor against the Wolverines. The Illini made it back to postseason play in 1994, handing East Carolina a 30-0 whitewashing in the Liberty Bowl. The '94 squad finished 7-5, again upsetting one of the elite in the Big Ten. And once again it was on the road, as Illinois shocked Ohio State, 24-10, in Columbus behind Butkus Award winner Dana Howard.

Linebackers

While Penn State has gained the reputation as "Linebacker U", Illinois could make a good case for that designation as well during Tepper's tenure. He produced consecutive Butkus Award winners in Dana Howard (1994) and Kevin Hardy (1995). Along the way, he also produced Big Ten Defensive Players of the Year in Moe Gardner and Darrick Brownlow (1990), Howard (1993 and '94) and Big Ten Defensive Lineman of the Year Simeon Rice in 1994. For the only time in Big Ten history, Tepper had four first team All-Big Ten linebackers at his disposal. In all, he has coached over 25 professional linebackers, and recently wrote the book, "Complete Linebacking", a 312-page comprehensive book on linebacker play.

Hardy and Rice became the highest defensive draft duo in the history of the NFL draft in 1996 when Hardy went second to Jacksonville and Rice third to Arizona.

Wife: Karen

Children: Matthew (27), Stacy Ann (25)

HEAD COACH

That stood until the 2000 NFL Draft when Penn State's Courtney Brown and Lavar Arrington went one-two.

Pittsburgh

Tepper began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Pittsburgh in 1967, then moved on to the University of New Hampshire from 1968-71, coaching the running backs and linebackers before becoming the defensive coordinator. His next stop was the College of William & Mary, where he joined former New Hampshire head coach Jim Root as the defensive coordinator from 1972-77. The 1976 William & Mary squad posted the school's best record in thirty years. He was the assistant head coach his final year at William & Mary.

Virginia Tech

In 1978, Virginia Tech head coach Bill Dooley hired Tepper as his linebackers coach. Tepper helped build the Hokies into a consistent bowl contender with a defense that annually ranked among the nation's top ten. He stayed at Virginia Tech from 1978-82, working with Outland Trophy winner and Buffalo Bills great Bruce Smith, among others. The 1980 Hokie edition played Miami(FL) in the Peach Bowl.

Colorado

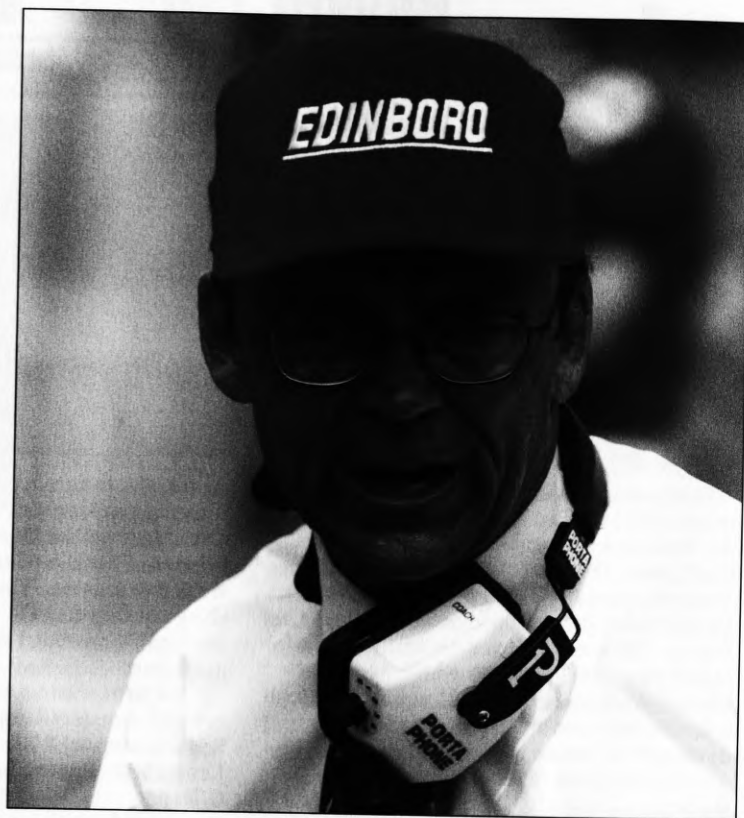

Tepper joined Bill McCartney's staff at Colorado in 1983, serving as the defensive coordinator and assistant head coach until departing for Illinois in 1988. Tepper helped turn around a Buffalo defense which ranked No. 100 nationally in yards allowed prior to his arrival, to one which was as high as 11th in Division I in total defense. He earned the title of assistant head coach to McCartney his final two seasons, and helped the Buffaloes to the 1985 Freedom Bowl and the 1986 Blue Bonnet Bowl. Among the assistant coaches at Colorado was Gerry DiNardo, who would later bring Tepper in to direct his LSU defense.

Personal Background

Tepper, born September 7, 1945, graduated from Rutgers University in 1967. He enjoyed a standout career as a defensive back at Rutgers from 1965-67. As a player, Tepper led the Scarlet Knights in interceptions as a junior and tackles as a senior. He won the George Cronin Trophy as the Most Improved Player in 1965.

Tepper is an active member of the American Football Coaches Association and presently sits on the All-American committee, and has previously served on the NCAA Ethics Committee. He is active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and has spoken for Promise-Keepers, founded by former Colorado coach Bill McCartney. Tepper and his wife, Karen, have two children, Matthew, a graduate student at Edinboro, and Stacy Ann, a graduate of LSU who is the grants manager for Meals on Wheels in Columbus, OH.

Lou Tepper has brought plenty of intensity and determination, not to mention a winning attitude, to the Edinboro sideline.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Rod Boykin

Defensive Coordinator

Rod Boykin assumed the duties of defensive coordinator and secondary coach two years ago after previously serving as an assistant coach at Wittenberg University two years prior to that.

Boykin played collegiately at the University of Illinois under Lou Tepper.

A four-year letterwinner at Illinois, Boykin was twice named the Big Ten Defensive Player of the Week as a defensive back, and was named the Fighting Illini Defensive Champion of the Year. He played in a total of 44 games for the Illini, playing in three bowl games. The Dayton, OH native enjoyed his best season as a senior, recording 25 tackles with 2 passes broken up. As a junior, he had 21 stops, along with a fumble recovery in the end zone for a touchdown against Arizona.

Boykin graduated in 1995 with a Bachelor's Degree in Kinesiology and began his coaching career as a graduate assistant under Tepper that same year. He worked with the Fighting Illini from 1995-97, picking up a Master's Degree in Higher Education and Administration.

Boykin joined the Wittenberg staff in 1997 as the defensive backs coach. He helped the Tigers post back-to-back 11-1 finishes, winning the North Coast Athletic Conference championship both seasons and reaching the second round of the NCAA Division III playoffs.

Boykin served on the Wittenberg staff for three seasons. The Tigers went 31-3 during that period, and in 1998 was the number one rated pass defense in the country.

Boykin is single and the father of Rodrick Jr., age 7. He is a former National Football Foundation Scholar-Athlete Award winner at Meadowdale High School in Dayton.

Scott Browning

Offensive Coordinator/Offensive Line

Scott Browning holds the longest tenure of anyone on the Edinboro University coaching staff. Now in his 17th season as a Fighting Scot assistant, Browning is working with his third head coach.

After serving as the offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator in Lou Tepper's first season, Browning took over as the offensive coordinator a year ago, while continuing to work with the linemen. That is a role he had handled the previous five seasons. This marks his ninth year in charge of the offensive linemen. He has also coached the running backs and defensive backs in the past.

In his numerous capacities, Browning has coached several All-Americans, including Steve Russell, Michael Willis, Wade Smith, Georj Lewis, Mike Barnes, Elbert Cole and Jeremy O'Day.

In addition to his extensive tenure at Edinboro, Browning has served as an assistant coach at three NCAA Division I institutions. Prior to joining the Fighting Scot staff in 1986, he coached receivers and running backs at Ohio State for two years. The Buckeyes went to the Rose Bowl and the Citrus Bowl in his two seasons. Browning served as a graduate assistant coach at New Mexico State in 1982, and the following year instructed the receivers at Idaho State. That outfit reached the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs.

A 1981 graduate of Ohio State with a Bachelor's Degree in Education, Browning began his coaching career as an assistant coach at Worthington High School and Dayton-Fairview High Schools in Ohio from 1979-81.

Before transferring to Ohio State, he Browning and his wife, Lynn, reside in Edinboro and have two children, Andrew, 8, and Katelyn, 4. His brother, Mitchell, is the offensive coordinator at the University of Minnesota.

Wayne Bradford

Defensive Line/Recruiting Coordinator

Wayne Bradford is in his fourth year as a member of the Edinboro coaching staff. After serving as the defensive coordinator/defensive line coach his first season, he enters his third season overseeing the defensive line. In addition, he serves as the recruiting coordinator.

Under Bradford's tutelage, Edinboro has had four first team All-PSAC West defensive linemen. The Fighting Scots have ranked fourth in the PSAC in sacks all three years.

Bradford had previously been at Salisbury State since 1990, and was the Sea Gulls' defensive coordinator from 1994-98.

A graduate of Salisbury State, Bradford began his coaching career at his alma mater in 1990, serving as an assistant coach in charge of the linebackers (1990-92) and defensive linemen (1992-94). In 1994, he was promoted to defensive coordinator. His defenses excelled during that period. In 1998, the Sea Gulls paced the Atlantic Central Football Conference in pass defense and quarterback sacks. In 1997, Salisbury State ranked 38th in NCAA Division III in total defense, allowing just 268 yards per game. His 1995 defensive unit produced a first team AFCA All-American at linebacker, and helped the Sea Gulls finish 7-2 with a berth in the ECAC Southwest Championship Game.

Bradford graduated from Salisbury State in 1990 with a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration. He completed

ASSISTANT COACHES

Jim Henson

Running Backs

Jim Henson, a highly successful high school coach in Ohio for over twenty years, enters his fifth season on the Edinboro staff.

After working on the defensive side of the ball as the strong safeties/outside linebackers coach the last two years, he moves over to the offense and will instruct the running backs. He previously worked with the running backs in 1999 and was in charge of the defensive linemen in '98.

Henson joined the Edinboro staff after serving as a mathematics teacher, football coach and athletic director at Grand Valley High School in Ohio for 22 years. At Grand Valley, he led the Mustangs to a 150-68-4 record, with five Grand River Conference championships, three East Suburban Conference titles, and three state playoff appearances. In the 1990's, Henson's charges posted three undefeated campaigns and a 23-game regular season winning streak. Henson was named the Conference Coach of the Year eight times and County Coach of the Year three times, culminated by his selection as the Ohio Division V Coach of the Year in 1997 and the Division IV Coach of the Year in '92.

Prior to beginning his stellar career at Grand Valley, Henson debuted as an assistant coach at Cardinal Middlefield (OH) High School, where he served for eight years.

Henson graduated from Hiram College in 1968 with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Mathematics, then later completed work on his Master of Science Degree Education with a major in Mathematics from Youngstown State University in 1972. He and his wife, Evelyn, reside in Edinboro. They are the Beginning in 1996, he was the Director of the Business Graduate Programs for the Perdue School of Business.

As an undergraduate, Bradford was an offensive lineman. He played on the 1986 Salisbury State team which finished as the NCAA Division III national runnerup.

Bradford and his wife, Gwen, have a four-year-old son, Nicholas, and a two-year-old daughter, Julia. They reside in Edinboro.

Scott Weaver

Quarterbacks

Like Rod Boykin, Scott Weaver played for Lou Tepper at Illinois. He joined the Edinboro staff as the running backs coach a year ago after serving as the quarterbacks coach at Tiffin University the last two years. The former Illini signalcaller will coach the Fighting Scot quarterbacks this year. A year ago, Bernard Henry gained 1,000 yards and was selected for the Cactus Bowl under Weaver's guidance.

A native of Beaver Falls, Pa., Weaver is well-acquainted with western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio football. A member of the Fighting Illini from 1992-96, Weaver stands as the seventh all-time leading passer at Illinois with 3,212 yards. He held the distinction of becoming the first redshirt freshman to start at quarterback at Illinois since 1978.

Weaver enjoyed an outstanding high school career at Blackhawk High School. He was recognized as the USA Today Pennsylvania Prep Player of the Year, was the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Western Pennsylvania Class AAA Player of the Year, and earned second team all-state honors.

After graduating from Illinois with a Bachelor's Degree in Speech Communications in 1996, he went on to earn his Master's Degree in Business Administration in '98.

Married in July 2000, Weaver and his parents of a son, Jim, and a daughter, Jennifer, along with three grandchildren.

Tom Parry

Wide Receivers

Tom Parry, a veteran in football coaching circles, is in his first season as a member of the Edinboro University football staff. He will work with the wide receivers.

Parry has been a head football coach on the high school level for 17 years and served as an assistant coach at the collegiate level for 15 seasons. Most recently, he served as the quarterbacks and wide receivers at Mercyhurst College from 1995 to 2001.

Prior to joining the Mercyhurst staff, Parry was the passing game coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Iona College from 1992-95. He also served on the collegiate level in 1979-80 at Cortland State, from 1977-79 as the defensive coordinator at St. Lawrence University, and got his start as a student assistant at his alma mater, Slippery Rock State, in '63-64. Parry's high school coaching career began in Erie as an assistant coach at Academy High School in 1965-66. He served as the head coach at Tech Memorial High School in Erie from 1967-69, and was also the head coach at Bishop Ludden (NY) High School -- head coach, 1970-72; Levy (NY) Junior High School -- head coach/head wrestling coach, 1972-74; Bishop Ludden (NY) High School -- head coach/JV wrestling coach, 1974-79; St. Lawrence University -- defensive coordinator/asst. wrestling coach, 1977-79; Cortland State -- assistant coach/asst. wrestling coach, 1979-80; Mount Vernon (NY) High School -- head coach, 1980-92; Iona College -- passing game coordinator/quarterbacks, 1992-95; Mercyhurst College -- quarterbacks/wide receivers, 1995-2001

ATHLETIC FUND DRIVE

Dear Friends of the Fighting Scots:

I think all of you would agree with me that 2001 was a year we will not soon forget. We set our goals high, and with all the international strife and economic shortcomings, we did not necessarily attain our goals. But, it was heart-warming to see the response of our supporters during such difficult times.

I'll be the first to admit that we, too, were impacted by the events of the year. But the fact that we did prosper says volumes for the loyal support of Fighting Scot Athletic followers. Allow me to take a moment and thank everyone for your generosity in 2001-02.

The Edinboro athletic program continued to grow last season with the addition of Adaptive Athletics to our department.

It seems hard to believe, but we embark on our Fifth Annual Athletic Fund Drive, and we are energized by the commitment of our coaches, our student-athletes, and most importantly, the many individuals and businesses who have come on board in the first four years.

Over those years we've strived to raise funds through Endowed Scholarships, Gifts-in-Kind, Securities, Trusts and Bequests. The formation of the Hall of Fame Scholarship has been very exciting, with the Hall of Fame membership up to 140. This endeavor is off to a flying start.

Once again, with no state appropriations for athletic scholarships, we depend on fund raising events such as the Annual Athletic Fund Drive to supplement our athletic programs. Our summer camp season continues to be the main source of our financial development, but we cannot maintain our level of excellence without your support. Although still funded well below the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) allowable limit, our athletic scholarship program attempts to create the best educational and athletic opportunities for our student-athletes.

At Edinboro University, we are quite proud of our past successes and rich tradition, but we cannot rest upon past accomplishments while our sister-institutions pass us by in the world of athletic fund raising.

Once again, we look forward to hearing from you soon. Please feel free to contact my office with any questions about our fund drive. I entertain any recommendations or suggestions which would better our University and its athletic department.

Sincerely,

Bruce R. Baumgartner

*Under applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, the amount of a contribution that is deductible for federal income tax purpose is limited to the excess of the amount contributed over the value of any goods or services provided to the donor by Edinboro University. The Fighting Scot Booster Club Advisory Board will notify contributors as to the value of any such items.

IMPORTANT: Contribution can be made to the GENERAL FUND, an ENDOWMENT, or SPORT SPECIFIC -- a portion will go directly to the sport you designate.

FIGHTING SCOT BOOSTER CLUB'S MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Organized two decades ago, the Fighting Scot Booster Club's primary mission is to provide financial support for the athletic program while promoting community awareness and involvement in the University.

Each spring, members of the Fighting Scot Booster Club will conduct a national and community-wide fund raising campaign to support the cost of athletic operating expenses. While student activity fees cover a portion of operating expenses, private funding is crucial in maintaining the level of excellence the Fighting Scot programs have enjoyed in recent years.

Your membership affords Edinboro University and its athletic program the opportunity to offer a quality athletic and academic experience to its student-athletes. State appropriations are not allotted for scholarships, making the Booster Club and the departmental fund raising efforts the sole means of raising money for the athletic scholarships.

Badgering The Competition

Anthony Davis Runs For Home

FARGAS RETURNS HOME
MARYLAND'S WELL-STOCKED "FRIDGE"

Welcome Home

Former Michigan standout Justin Fargas hasn't let a severe leg injury stop him from once again becoming the top running back in Southern California.
By Scott Wolf

KEEP AN EYE ON...

Game: USC at Washington State; October 5, 2002 at Clarence Martin Stadium

Last Meeting: Washington State 33, USC 27 (11/11/00 at USC)

Breakdown: Arguably the Pac-10's top quarterbacks square off in a match-up that could go a long way in determining the conference champion. The Trojans' Carson Palmer has underachieved in years past, but with a solid running game now in place, led by Michigan transfer Justin Fargas, the passing game has opened up. WSU's Jason Gesser will seek to sling the pigskin often to talented wide receiver Mike Bush, but with safety Troy Polamalu looming in the secondary, that will be a tough task.

Game: Western Kentucky at Northern Iowa; October 5, 2002

Last Meeting: Northern Iowa 24, Western Kentucky 23 (11/10/01) at Western Kentucky

Breakdown: These two Division I-AA powers are set for a rematch following one of last season's classic contests. Placekicker Mackenzie Hoambrecker hit a 28-yard field goal with one-tenth of a second remaining to lead the Panthers over the Hilltoppers in a game which determined the Gateway Conference champion. Northern Iowa returns tailbacks Adam Bengé and Richard Carter, who combined for over 2,000 yards rushing in 2001. Western Kentucky will hope to stop this duo with the conference's top defensive unit.

Game: LSU at Florida; October 12, 2002 at Florida Field

Last Meeting: Florida 44, LSU 15 (10/6/01 at LSU)

Breakdown: Despite the late season success that LSU enjoyed, the SEC and Sugar Bowl champions are still bitter about last year's thrashing by the Gators. With the huge step-up by running back Domanick Davis late last year for the then-injured LaBrandon Toefield, the Tigers now possess a deadly two-headed monster in the backfield. However, Florida will have All-America nose tackle Ian Scott to plug those running lanes and counter with workhorse Earnest Graham in its rushing attack.

Did you know?

- Washington State has only won two of the last 10 meetings against USC.
- Even though the Cougars are the favorite pick to win the Pac-10, the team has not posted consecutive winning seasons in 12 years.
- Jason Gesser and Carson Palmer finished Nos. 1 and 2, respectively, in the conference in passing yards in 2001.

Next in Line

Sophomore Anthony Davis has kept the running back pipeline intact at Wisconsin. Can he be the Badgers' next Heisman recipient as well?

The streak was in serious jeopardy. So they said. For eight straight years, the Wisconsin offense had generated a 1,000-yard rusher. But now, the Badgers had reached the end of the line—the production line.

With the sudden departure of Michael Bennett, who skipped his final year of eligibility, there was nobody to continue the tradition. So they thought.

Given this backdrop, and what was being said about a potential void at the tailback position, Anthony Davis felt like he had something to prove by living up to his own potential. So he said. And so he went out and proved during the 2001 season.

Davis was named the Big Ten's Freshman of the Year after keeping the UW streak alive by rushing for 1,466 yards, the sixth-highest total by a freshman in NCAA history.

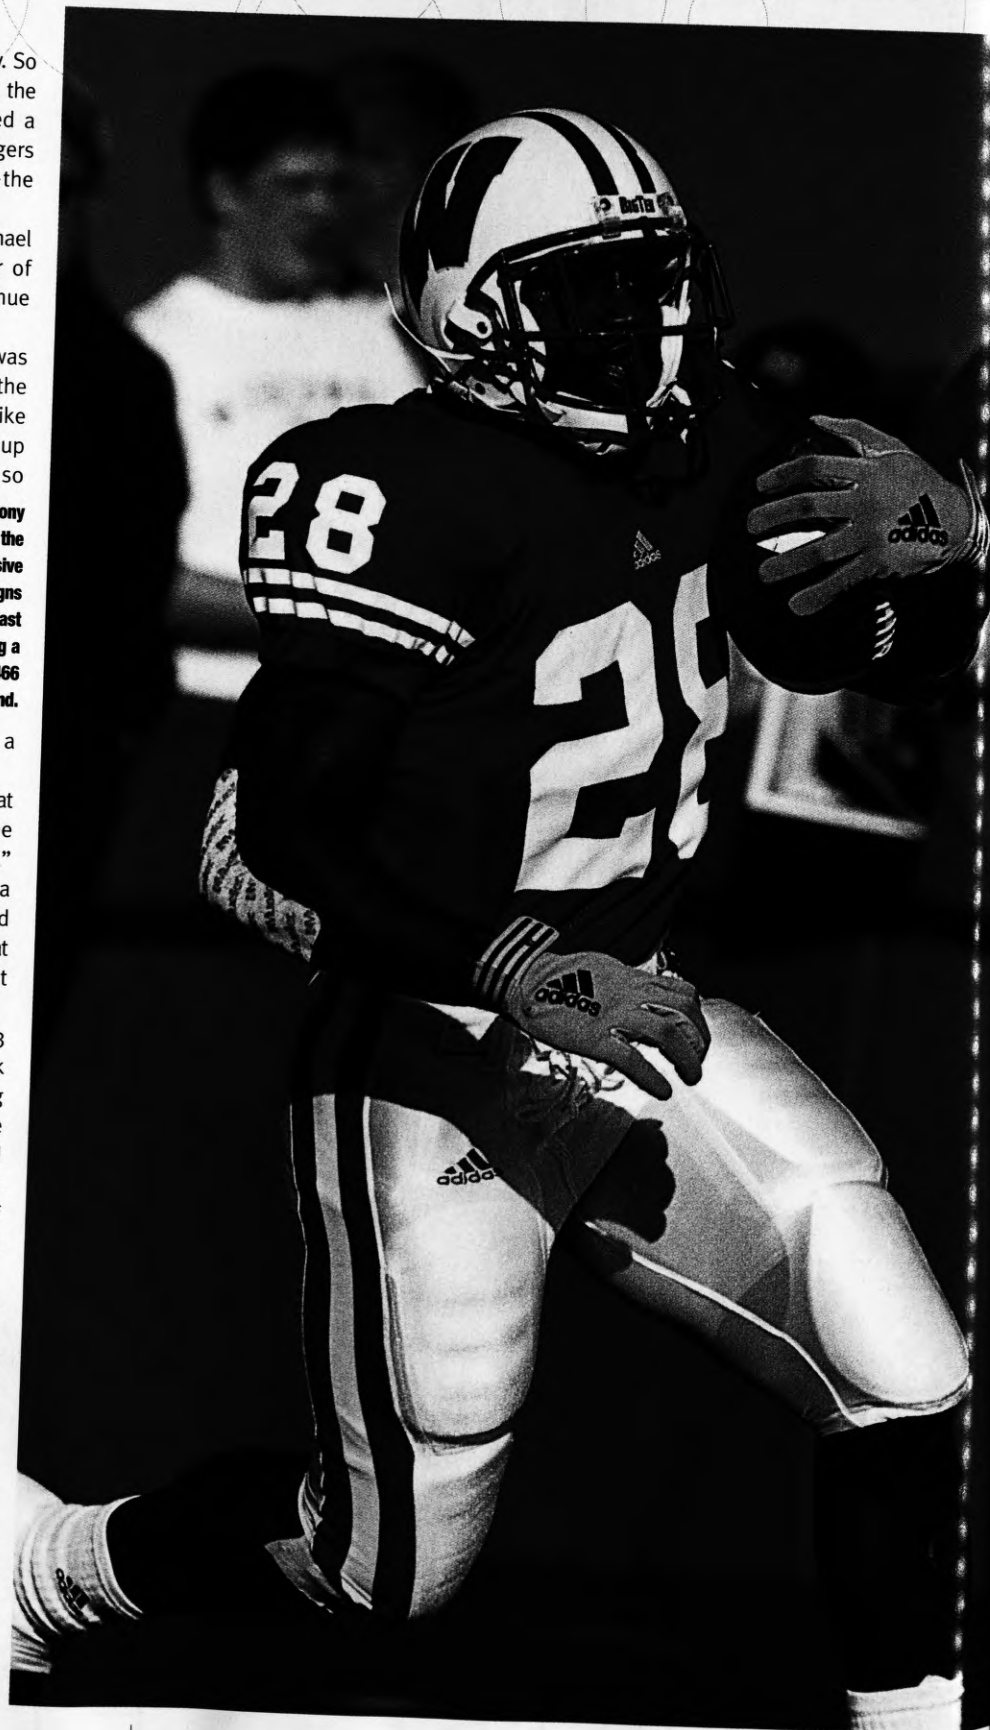

"There were some comments made that this was going to be the year where the streak was supposedly going to end," acknowledged Davis, who redshirted as a freshman in 2000, sitting, observing and learning behind the explosive Bennett. "That really stuck in the back of my head and it definitely helped motivate me."

The 1,000-yard streak began in 1993 with Brent Moss and reached its peak during Ron Dayne's four record-shattering seasons, culminating in '99 when Dayne broke the NCAA career rushing mark and won the Heisman Trophy. That same year, Davis won his high school's equivalent of the Heisman, running for 1,577 yards and 21 touchdowns as a senior.

"Dayne was from Jersey," said the soft-spoken, 20-year-old Davis, who's also from New Jersey (Plainfield), "so I definitely had heard of him, especially when he started to make such a big impact. But he didn't get me to come to Wisconsin."

That's because Davis didn't worship Dayne like he worshipped Barry Sanders, Walter Payton, Warrick Dunn and Marshall Faulk. They represented his role models: small backs, big hearts. The ruggedly built Davis carries 190 pounds on his 5-8 frame. By comparison, Dayne was a moose, a 265-pounder who set the freshman standard by running for 1,863 yards in 1996. Different backs, different backgrounds, different supporting casts.

Nonetheless, Davis may be asked to carry more weight this season—a Dayne-sized proportion—due to the uncertainty surrounding flanker Lee Evans' availability.

Evans, a prime-time playmaker, tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee while making a catch during Wisconsin's spring game. He had surgery in early May. The Badgers are holding on to the hope that Evans will make it back for some, if not all, of the Big Ten season. Evans is so skilled and so valuable that his loss, for however long, is bound to have some kind of an impact on the offense, as a whole, and Davis, individually.

Last season, Evans caught 75 passes and set the Big Ten record for receiving yards with 1,545. He was the perfect complement for Davis. And vice versa.

"Lee Evans definitely took some of the eyes off of me," conceded Davis. "A lot of times teams will go to a dime or nickel package to stop Lee and that means there's one less guy in the box."

With or without Evans occupying defenders, Davis can be tough to find when he's hiding behind Wisconsin's huge offensive line, a constant throughout the rushing streak for a variety of different running backs. All five starters return up front, headed by the Johnson cousins. Ben is the left tackle and Al is the center. Both are All-Big Ten timber.

"I like the experience and the productivity that is coming back on offense," said Wisconsin head coach Barry Alvarez. "And I like the fact that we have a sophomore tailback who's just starting to scratch the surface as far as his ability."

In his first college exposure, Davis has already begun to establish his own identity, separate from Dayne and Bennett. All he needed was a chance to show what he could do. Yet there was a stretch during his first year on campus when he was buried on the depth chart and he wondered if he would ever get an opportunity.

"Those were some rough times for me," Davis confided. "I never thought that I was going to have a chance to play here. I'd call my family and tell them, 'I'm never going to play. The coaches don't like me, this and that.' And they just told me to be patient and the cream will rise to the top."

Coming out of his first spring practice, Davis was one of three running backs vying for the starting assignment. And there was some talk of "tailback by committee." But after Davis rushed for 147 yards in his college debut against Virginia, there was never any doubt about his ability. He wound up rushing for over 100 yards in 10 different games, breaking Tony Dorsett's NCAA freshman record.

"I just wanted to try and improve as the season went on," Davis said. "I started off with a number, a goal of how many yards I wanted to get. I was aiming for 1,500. But midway through the season, I stopped caring about how many yards I was rushing for and focused instead on just getting better. To be honest, I didn't even pay attention to some of the stats, some of the things that I accomplished."

He was more concerned with victories. And, in this capacity, he was disappointed with the way the 2001 season played out. The Badgers dipped to a 5-7 record and failed to go bowling for the first time since 1995.

The Badgers did however, impress on offense. They broke the school record for passing yards and became the first team in Big Ten history to have a 1,000-yard rusher (Davis), a 1,000-yard receiver (Evans) and two 1,000-yard passers in Brooks Bollinger and Jim Sorgi. The balance and diversity kept people from keying on Davis or any one component. Now, along with Bollinger, a heady, competitive four-year starter, Davis must help pick up the slack in Evans' absence. That's the challenge.

Barry Alvarez has coached many great running backs at Wisconsin and feels that with Davis' early development, he may end up being the best of the bunch.

Rapid Cyclone

Iowa State quarterback Seneca Wallace burst onto the scene in 2001, now giving the Cyclones a chance to cause some damage in the Big 12 By Mike Carey

You won't be getting fancy things in the mail, no small reminders of who he is just to keep him on your radar. And you certainly won't see a billboard in midtown Manhattan.

What you will see is what many Big 12 football coaches saw last season: Seneca Wallace darting left or right, throwing off-balance with pressure on and making first downs when no one thought he'd have a chance.

That's all Wallace wants: a chance to let his play do his talking. If that happens, then Iowa State football could be back on the national scene, and Seneca Wallace could be the first Heisman Trophy hopeful for the Cyclones since Troy Davis back in 1995 and '96.

"I don't look at it like that [needing publicity to help build more of a campaign]," Wallace said. "You have a decent season and good things will happen. What you see is what you get."

Lots of good things have happened for the Cyclones since Wallace—a 6-1, 184-pound quarterback—committed to the program after a standout career at Sacramento City Junior College in California.

Wallace originally committed to Oregon State and was set to begin playing there, but could not qualify academically because he was a class short. When it didn't work out, Wallace went back home to Sacramento and enrolled at Sac City.

The team's starter got hurt early in the season and that opened up the signal calling to Wallace. That season, he completed 106 of 155 passes for 1,398 yards and seven touchdowns as the team went 9-2. Wallace finished his two years throwing for 3,675 yards and 22 touchdowns, earning First-Team JUCO All-America honors twice.

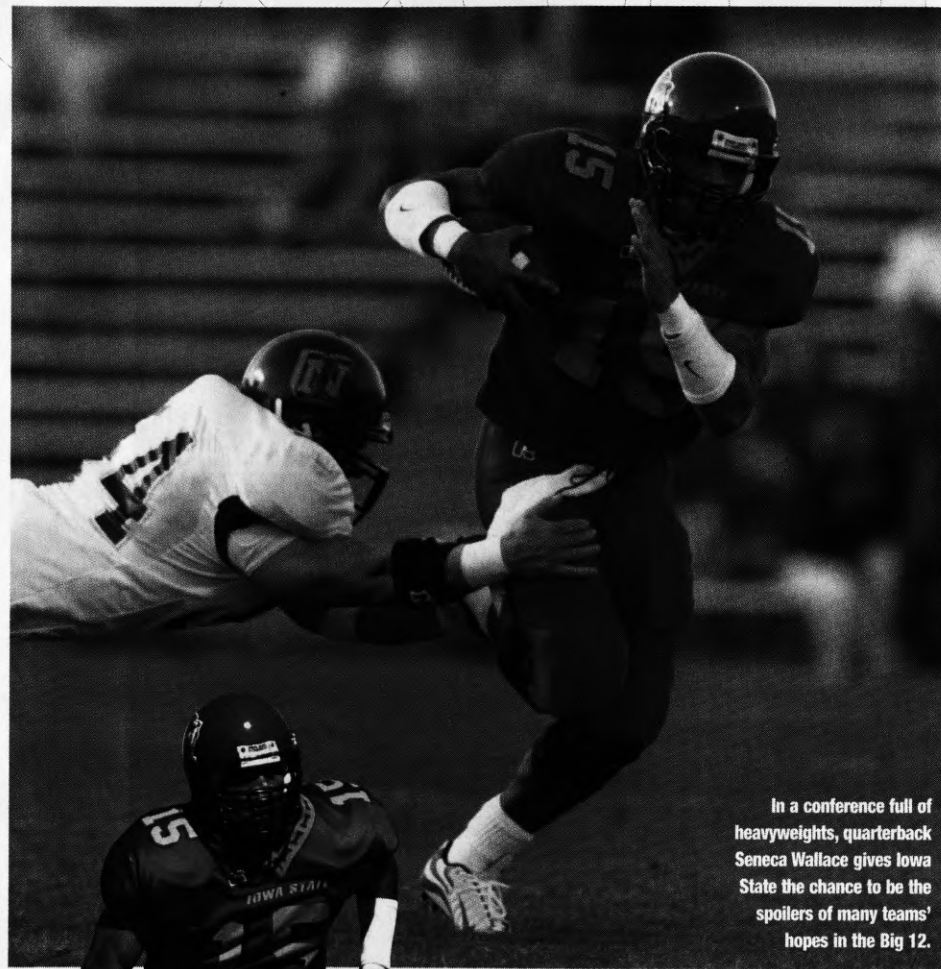

There will be more challenges this season for the Cyclones, especially with teams a year wiser to Wallace.

"You see different changes," he said. "Last year, toward the end of the season when teams had a chance to see film on us, they'd have a spy guy, a linebacker watch me.

"But that's good for us, because it opens up our receivers. If they want to focus on me, they can, but we have a great team and feel that nothing can stop us."

Not much stopped him last year.

In his first game, against Northern Iowa, he ran for 97 yards and two touchdowns on only five carries. In a conference game against Baylor, he set a Big 12 record by completing 18 straight passes, finishing 22-of-24 with 299 yards. Against Oklahoma State, all on third down plays, he scrambled for four first downs and threw for three others. In a 24-21 loss at Texas A&M, he threw for 348 yards and tied a Cyclone record with 30 completions.

Wallace finished second on the team in rushing last year, carrying the ball 114 times for 475 yards and seven touchdowns. He also completed 167 of 269 passes (62.1 percent) for 2,044 yards and 11 scores.

Growing up in Sacramento, football was his love. Since he's been at Iowa State, the comparisons to more recent college quarterbacks have been to the likes of former Kansas State QB Michael Bishop and Virginia Tech signal-caller Michael Vick.

"I've always wanted to go out there and, when things break down, just make a play," Wallace said. "I'm not the stereotypical, drop-back, set-in-the-pocket quarterback. When we get the chance to break something, I take it."

Entering his senior year, and knowing that the expectations of the Cyclones lay squarely on his ability to make plays, Wallace knows the pressure will be on him.

"It was really important to get that bowl experience last year," Wallace said, "because it gave us an idea of what we wanted. Now, we want to get back there and go higher. It's put everyone on a high."

If that happens, no gimmicks will be necessary. ■

It's not the L.A. hardcourt version, but the high-powered offense of the Grand Valley State Lakers is turning some heads...namely their opponents' By Mark Cohen

EARLY BLOOMER

Still a youngster in the head coaching community, Brian Kelly is quickly gaining some notoriety

At age 38, Brian Kelly already has 11 seasons of head coaching experience at Grand Valley State under his belt. He has accumulated a 90-34-2 record, one national runner-up finish and last year's Division II Coach of the Year award from American Football Monthly. Which means when he started out...

"I was 28 and didn't know what the heck I was doing," Kelly admits, laughing. "I'm starting to figure this thing out, and make the most of the opportunity."

Kelly played at Assumption College (Mass.) and stayed on as an assistant coach from 1983-86. He went to GVSU as a graduate assistant in '87, became defensive and recruiting coordinators in '89, and eventually became head coach in '91. Last year's Lakers finished 13-1, averaging 50.5 points and 541.4 yards per game.

Sooner or later, those credentials have to get noticed by some bigger schools, perhaps nearby Michigan or Michigan State?

"It's a fair question," Kelly says. "I can be personally very, very selective, relative to my career. I'm at a place where I can compete for a national championship, and that's the kind of place I want to be."

"I was hired here to win a national championship. That's the one item left on my plate." —MC finished 13-1, scored 707 points and had the lead in the final minute of the national championship game against North Dakota before losing, 17-14.

Credit for the offensive explosion first goes to Brian Kelly. The Lakers' head coach recognized the experience his players had accumulated and introduced a no-huddle, shotgun offense.

Any Grand Valley State fan can tell you why the Division II runner-up Lakers averaged 50.5 points per game last season: quarterback Curt Anes suffered a season-ending injury in the first playoff game, so the average had to drop some.

The Lakers averaged 58.4 points per game in the regular season, dusting school records—and even a Jerry Rice record—in the process. In all, Grand Valley State

QUICK WORK

Quarterback Curt Anes makes the most out of his time on the field running the Lakers' offense.

Grand Valley State quarterback Curt Anes and wide receiver David Kircus are both studying physical therapy and will each graduate in the spring, but the university labels the program "Movement Science."

That's fitting for the leader of an offense which raced down the field with frenetic kinetic energy.

Anes, a senior from Kentwood, Mich., threw for 3,273 yards and 49 touchdowns before suffering a season-ending knee injury in the first playoff game. That's 49 TDs in 42 quarters, and he spent almost 20 of those quarters watching reserves finish the blowouts he helped create.

"Three years ago, 90 percent of our offense came from freshmen," Anes explains. "We gained experience. With the experience we had, [the coaches] felt they could utilize all the weapons we had. Everything that could hurt you fit our style of play."

That led to the no-huddle, shotgun offense Grand Valley State employed full-time last season, a first for the program.

"There's always another play coming in. I don't have time to think about a bad play. It keeps me in a zone, in a rhythm. Stuff's happening so fast, you don't think about. You just play."

Anes finished a close second to Valdosta State QB Dusty Bonner for the 2001 Harlon Hill Award as the top Division II player, and was voted the top athlete in Michigan (high school, college or pro) by the readers of the Detroit Free Press. His injury happened just before halftime of the first-round playoff game against Bloomsburg. He ran a sneak, trying for a first down to stop the clock. Coach Brian Kelly says that was in typical Curt Anes fashion, he needed a yard but tried to get ten.

So in the same situation, will he call the same play this year?

"That's the million-dollar question," Kelly says, chuckling. "I think I'll be a lot more judicious." —MC

"What we were able to do was attack our offense at the defense," says Kelly, who is in his 12th season and has the luxury of having 23 seniors on this season's roster.

Last year's results were staggering. Anes, who rarely played past halftime, as the Lakers averaged 38 points in the first half each week, completed just under 70 percent of his passes and threw an incredible 49 touchdowns. Wide receiver David Kircus caught 32 of those TDs, including 28 in the regular season, which broke the NCAA record (27) shared by Rice (at Mississippi Valley State) and Louisiana Tech's Troy Edwards.

"It was quite an honor," says Kircus, a senior from Imlay City, Mich. "When I actually made that 28th touchdown, it was almost total disbelief. 'I'm better than Jerry Rice in this category?'"

Kelly says Anes and Kircus are only two of several Lakers drawing attention from the NFL. Tight end Phil Condon (37 catches last season for 514 yards and 5 TDs) is ranked third at his position by the noted draftnik Mel Kiper. Also, left tackle Dave Westbrook is an All-American, and running backs Brent Lesniak and Reggie Spearmon combined for 1,978 rushing yards and 31 total touchdowns in 2001.

A couple more stats: four players scored at least 90 points. In one four game stretch, Grand Valley State scored 63, 64, 63 and 63 points, respectively.

And then there's the crème de la crème of Laker stats: 57 touchdown passes, only 49 punts. They played more like the Magic Johnson "Showtime" Lakers.

That's no accident.

"We really had a team I felt had the weapons to make that offense run," Kelly says.

"It's akin to a basketball game. We had a lot of guys who could shoot the three, and a lot of guys who could run."

Still, the run-and-gun lingo does not accurately describe Grand Valley State's offense. Anes didn't throw an interception until the fifth game, by which time he had already tossed 21 touchdown passes. He threw just three in 11 games, and the team committed only 19 turnovers in 14 games.

"It's not a high-risk offense. People look at the scores and assume it is," Kelly says. In fact, the Lakers averaged a mere 27 pass attempts per game, a pretty average number.

Nobody finds it alarming that the team seldom played in competitive games last season. Anes says it helped develop depth while he, Kircus and the other starters watched reserves finish ballgames.

Kelly adds that he's had essentially the same lineup for three years, and his stars now all experienced the growing pains in 1999 and 2000, when GVSU finished 5-5 and 7-4, respectively. The team averaged 25 points per game in 1999, 30 the following year, then almost added the two together for last season's output.

Anes, who has recovered from a posterior cruciate ligament injury, doesn't talk about winning the national championship straight off, but the thought is there.

"My goal is just to get back and do the things we did last season," said Anes. "We proved we can play with anyone in the nation. If we didn't make it back there, I would be disappointed." ■

Ralph Friedgen knows Maryland, and he was confident he could lead the Terrapins back to their glory days in the early-to-mid 1980s, when he was a Maryland assistant under Bobby Ross. Friedgen (pronounced FREE-jun), long considered one of the game's top offensive minds, applied twice previously to take the head job at his alma mater, only to be rebuffed without even so much as an interview.

His third application to become Top Terp, though, was a charm for both Maryland and Friedgen, who returned the Terrapins to football respectability faster than even the ultra-confident Friedgen had envisioned. Consider that Maryland, whose last winning season was in 1990 and was picked to finish no higher than seventh in the nine-team Atlantic Coast that might happen. I always felt like I had the ability to be a head coach, and the fact that we had such a successful season was very rewarding.

TDI: Was it extra special getting that opportunity at your alma mater?

RF: Yes, it was, because I've always believed we have a lot of potential here at Maryland. The fact that we haven't been successful in the past 18 or so years, it was exciting to be able to come back and do that.

TDI: Speaking of coaching at your alma mater, it seems you've started a tradition by singing the Maryland victory song after games with your players. How did that come about?

Conference, went 10-2 and won its first ACC title since '85. The Terps set a school record by scoring 390 points, were ranked as high as No. 6 and played in the Orange Bowl against Florida. For his efforts, Friedgen—affectionately known as the "Fridge"—was the consensus national Coach of the Year.

Sure, Maryland took the rest of the ACC by surprise in 2001, something that won't happen this season, but Friedgen welcomes the challenge. He's waited a long time to be in this position—32 years as an assistant coach—and he's determined to make Maryland into a perennial top 25 program. A successful 2002 season would go a long way toward making the goal a reality.

Touchdown Illustrated: After spending more than three decades as an assistant coach, what did it feel like last year to finally get a head coaching job?

Ralph Friedgen: It was exciting. There was a time when I never thought

RF: During two-a-days, the band director asked me to come over and speak to the band. So I did, and while I was talking to them, they asked if I knew the victory song, and they kidded me into singing it. I said 'Sure I know the victory song. I went to school here. If you play it, I'll sing it.' So they did, and I said the next time we sing that together is after we beat North Carolina [in the 2001 season opener].

So maybe it's become part of the tradition that when we win we go over there and I'll sing the victory song. It kind of united our student body and gave us a spirit that we're proud to win the game and we're proud that we're Maryland.

TDI: Had you had other head coaching offers prior to accepting the Maryland job?

RF: It's the first offer I got to be a head coach. I interviewed for two other jobs besides this one, at Georgia Tech and N.C. State, and I thought

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING ABOUT FRIEDGEN

MEL KIPER JR., ESPN Football Analyst
 "What impresses me about Ralph Friedgen is his ability to maximize the skill level of just about every player. He was able to instill a confidence level on his team that allowed it to deal with success as well as adversity."

CHARLES HILL, a senior defensive tackle on the 2001 squad
 "Every new coach comes in and says you're going to win. But it was the way he said it, and his actions. From the first meeting, he said, 'You're not just going to a bowl game, you're going to pick the bowl we go to.'"

RICHARD CIRMINIELLO, College Football News Writer
 "In any other year, [Illinois head coach Ron] Turner would have been a lock for national Coach of the Year. But [last season], the hardware belonged to Friedgen. Returning to his alma mater, the coach breathed life into a stale program and was the unabashed leader of the best college football story in 2001."

The outstanding play of All-American linebacker E.J. Henderson (above) has given Ralph Friedgen more opportunities to proudly sing the Maryland victory song.

I had very good interviews at both and it just didn't work out. Most people never even wrote me back.

TDI: Coming into last season did you ever think you'd have that kind of success out of the gate?

RF: Not to the degree that we had. I was very fortunate to have a very good coaching staff. The thing that I will take credit for is that I played a major part in hiring those people. The other thing was I was blessed to have a bunch of kids who were very hungry and looking for direction, and the more we won, the more confident we became.

TDI: Was it difficult to create a winning attitude among the players at Maryland, where there has been no real football success since the mid-1980s?

RF: That was a major part in turning things around. I probably had about 15 kids leave the program because I was going to do it my way; we were going to have discipline, players were going to go to class and we were going to be responsible and accountable. But what I found was a lot of those kids who left was one of the reasons we weren't winning. So it kind of helped me out. Even though we were down in numbers, we finally got a group of kids who wanted to pay the price.

TDI: Did the fact that you had success here as an assistant to Bobby Ross convince you that it could be done again?

RF: No doubt about that. We really haven't even scratched the surface here. Sometimes, I don't think that we understand the potential we have. First of all, we're located between two metropolitan areas—there are not many schools in the country that can make that statement. And the educational opportunities, job opportunities and fan base that exist are a powerful combination.

TDI: You've long been considered one of the game's great offensive minds. Last year your Maryland team scored the most points in school history. What was your offensive philosophy and what made you so successful last season?

RF: Last year I only called three plays, but we ran the offense I had been running, which I taught to them. Basically, we want to have balance; we want to be able to throw the ball as well as we run the ball. That doesn't mean we'll get 200 yards each in every game [Maryland averaged 221 yards per game rushing and 219 passing in 2001], but it's the ability to do both.

We have a belief that we can teach an 18-year-old kid how to put us in the right play. Some coaches don't want to do that; they don't want to take that risk. I think if you have good teachers, you allow them to teach.

TDI: Talk about the experience of going to the Orange Bowl in your first season with a program that last went to a bowl of any kind in 1990.

RF: The hospitality that the Orange Bowl showed us was amazing, and they really went out of their way to do everything for us. So my concern is that if we don't go to a BCS bowl, this is what our kids have come to expect. To see as many Maryland fans come to the game...when I walked onto the field the whole side was red. We must have had 30,000 to 35,000 fans, and that was a dream come true to see that kind of support. I was disappointed with the outcome [a 56-23 loss], but Florida was a heck of a football team, and they've been doing this a lot longer than we have.

TDI: Does it feel differently to be the hunted instead of the hunter this year?

RF: Yes, but I think that comes with being good. I'm sure there's a lot of people getting in line to play us, but that's good.

TDI: You've stressed from the time you took this job that Maryland should be in the top 25 on an annual basis. I guess your success last season has done nothing but strengthen that conviction.

RF: I believe that. Hopefully, we'll win a national championship. If you hang around long enough, that year's going to come where everything falls right for you. I'd like to end up being where we're good enough to be considered one of the better teams in the country, and one of those years where everything is going to fall right for us. ■

Former Michigan standout Justin Fargas

hasn't let a severe leg injury stop him from once again becoming the top running back in Southern California

For anyone who saw Justin Fargas practice this past spring, it comes as no surprise that he became USC's No. 1 tailback this season.

Fargas did not merely win the starting job in spring practices, he completely silenced an expected debate on the tailback competition. In his first spring scrimmage in Southern Cal, he gained 139 yards. In his second scrimmage, he tallied 111.

No one at USC could remember the last time a tailback had gained more than 100 yards in a scrimmage.

"We had a lot of problems tackling him," USC defensive lineman Mike Patterson said. "We can't even imagine what he will do when he's actually running through other teams."

After being relatively calm while discussing Fargas after he transferred from Michigan, USC coach Pete Carroll could barely contain himself when he recounted those scrimmage performances.

"Justin's been the biggest surprise of our team, but we were really counting on him doing something special," Carroll said. "He was what everyone came to see. He ran tough, he ran fast. He made his presence felt. He knew he had something to prove."

Fargas treats every carry like he's making up for lost time, which he is literally doing. He seized the starting job, and it's easy to see why after listening to him talk about his desire to play this year.

"I'm hungry. Thirsty. Starving," Fargas said.

Fargas has been waiting five years for this moment. It was assumed he would start many games when he graduated high school in 1998, and was generally considered the nation's top prep tailback.

No other tailback received as much publicity or was recruited as intensely. When he announced he would attend Michigan, it seemed a natural choice for a superstar who had gained 6,334 yards and scored 82 touchdowns. It was assumed he would start for four years and then have a successful NFL career.

But that was before the injury that almost cost Fargas his right foot occurred.

Fargas shattered his leg during his freshman year against Wisconsin, suffering multiple fractures. It was no ordinary fracture, however, as Fargas soon found out. A Michigan trainer said it looked like something you would see in a car crash.

USC head coach Pete Carroll loves the flexibility Justin Fargas brings to a now well-balanced Trojan offensive attack.

Doctors briefly contemplated amputating his foot.

"I found out it was more like falling off a building or being in a major car accident," Fargas said. "To hear that I could have even lost my foot, I think how lucky I am just to be running, much less to be playing football."

Fargas still remembers the trauma he went through, from a physical and mental nature, and the fear he felt that he would never regain his athleticism.

"I'll never forget the excruciating pain," Fargas said. "A lot of things run through your mind when you know your leg's broken. Taking away a leg is like taking away Superman's cape."

"To know I've come from almost losing my foot to being able to play now, that just makes me want to play even harder. I didn't know what it was like to break a leg. I thought it was a routine thing."

Fargas had two titanium rods and 12 screws placed in his leg, only to learn four months later the leg was not healing properly. He needed another operation where his leg was literally rebroken and two metal plates were inserted, forcing him to redshirt in 1999. He also required a third operation to repair tendons in his big toe.

When he finally returned, it was hardly with great fanfare. Fargas was third on Michigan's depth chart and by midseason he asked to switch to safety, frustrated with his lack of playing time.

"They didn't want him to switch, but he wanted to play," said his father, Antonio.

The position switch was not easy, because it came so late in the season and, by the end of the year, Fargas was so disappointed that he wanted to transfer. He immediately thought about USC, which was his original college choice.

FRIENDLY RIVALRY?

The competition for No. 1 running back brought back many high school memories for Justin Fargas and Sultan McCullough.

Justin Fargas spent 15 months at USC as a redshirt, and it wasn't until the spring that he felt like a legitimate member of the team, able to participate with the first unit and considered an active player. But he didn't exactly have the job handed to him.

With two other senior tailbacks also returning—Malaefou MacKenzie and two-year starter Sultan McCullough (pictured left)—it was not immediately assumed Fargas would be No. 1.

"You will see Sultan McCullough, Justin Fargas and Malaefou MacKenzie all giving us frontline play," Carroll said.

But when Carroll released his depth chart, Fargas was the top choice following his dominating spring. Even his competition was amazed at his improvement. "He's like a power back," McCullough said.

It's ironic that Fargas and McCullough are playing together and actually friends, since they were bitter rivals in high school—Fargas at Notre Dame in Sherman Oaks and McCullough at Muir in Pasadena. No one ever thought they would play at the same college.

"I hated his guts [in high school]," McCullough said. "I was a running back. He was a running back. In high school, you wanted to be the best. I wanted him bad, whether it was in football or track."

The tension began to disappear once they played together in a high school all-star game after their senior year. The bitterness disappeared so much that McCullough was unhappy Fargas left for Michigan.

"That's my boy," McCullough said. "He should have been here from the start. I always tell him that. We need him now. We'll make a great 1-2 punch. It'll be his turn to shine."

Fargas isn't quite as blunt in his assessment of the relationship but remembers the rivalry, which extended from a football playoff game to the state track championships. "I didn't have any hate in my heart, but it was competitive," he said. "I'm actually glad we're together. It's kind of weird. You never know when people's paths might cross."

TROJAN TRADITION

With Justin Fargas joining a deep USC backfield with Sultan McCullough and Malaefou MacKenzie, the Trojans could put up the kind of rushing numbers Southern California hasn't seen in over 20 years, when "Tailback U" was running wild. Here's a look at what this year's crop of tailbacks will be measured up against:

"I had committed to [then head coach] John Robinson," Fargas said. "That was my first choice before all the change."

Robinson was fired in December and Fargas never got comfortable enough with new coach Paul Hackett to recommit to the Trojans. Instead, he signed with Michigan.

Fargas ponders what might have happened if he stuck to his original decision, but doesn't appear bitter.

"I think about it. It's crossed my mind," he said. "Everything happens for a reason. I think it's a perfect fit [now]."

When he arrived at USC in January, 2000, Fargas was far from completing his comeback. For one thing, he had to take a heavier class load than other students his age because many of his classes at Michigan did not transfer to USC.

Fargas also changed physically since his last visit to USC as a blue-chip prospect, when he rode around campus with Robinson in a golf cart. The second time around, he was thin and frail. His ankles were so thin that some barely recognized him as the prep phenom from Notre Dame High in Sherman Oaks.

"I was surprised how skinny he was," said USC sprint coach John Henry Johnson, who recruited Fargas for track. "I was concerned because when you have all these lower-leg injuries, you can't always do what you need to do."

After months in the weight room, Fargas erased any doubts. He weighs more than 200 pounds for the first time and can bench-press a career-high 405 pounds. But he's also regained the speed and moves that seemed to disappear when he came back from his injuries at Michigan.

"I feel like I bring more with me now," Fargas said. "Before I got hurt, I had a lot of speed. Now, I put on some weight and some of the lifts have given me the quick burst."

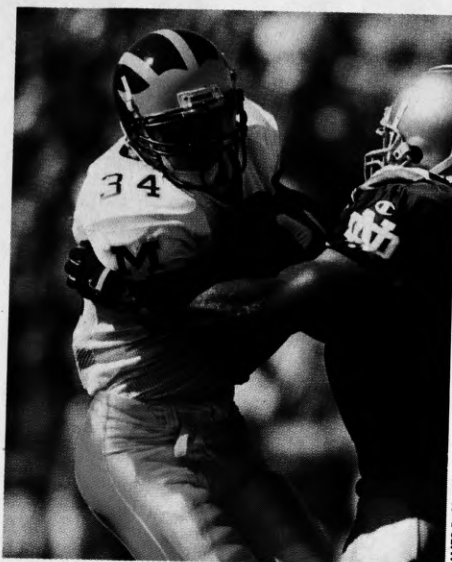

Added Johnson: "His lower-body development has been remarkable."

The added power means that Fargas has the confidence to run through people instead of merely trying to dart past them. Fargas said he's doing whatever it takes to finally realize his goal.

"Especially when you're new to the team, you want to show you're tough," Fargas said. "I'm getting bigger, older and stronger. I want to be the tailback for USC. That would mean the world to me."

Fargas still had to redshirt last year, but he stunned USC coaches by consistently gaining yards while playing for the scout team against the Trojans' first-string defense.

"On the scout team, I was running for my life," Fargas said. "Every day was like a game."

Injuries cost Fargas his chance to become a bona fide star at the University of Michigan.

If the spotlight falls upon Fargas, he will be ready. Before he even entered college, he had so much scrutiny from fans, media and coaches that he became quite comfortable speaking with strangers and people calling him the best running back in the nation.

Sports Illustrated and USA Today wrote stories about him. TV stations in Los Angeles interviewed him. His announcement to attend Michigan was carried live by a local radio station.

"For a lot of players, this situation would have been difficult to handle," said Kevin Rooney, his coach at Notre Dame. "But Justin was able to handle it with extreme grace."

Although Fargas is a fifth-year senior, he will apply for a sixth year of eligibility after the season because of his many injuries.

"I definitely want that," Fargas said. "I would love to play two years."

But Fargas knows there is a possibility the NCAA will deny his appeal.

"I have to look at this like I need one great season," Fargas said.

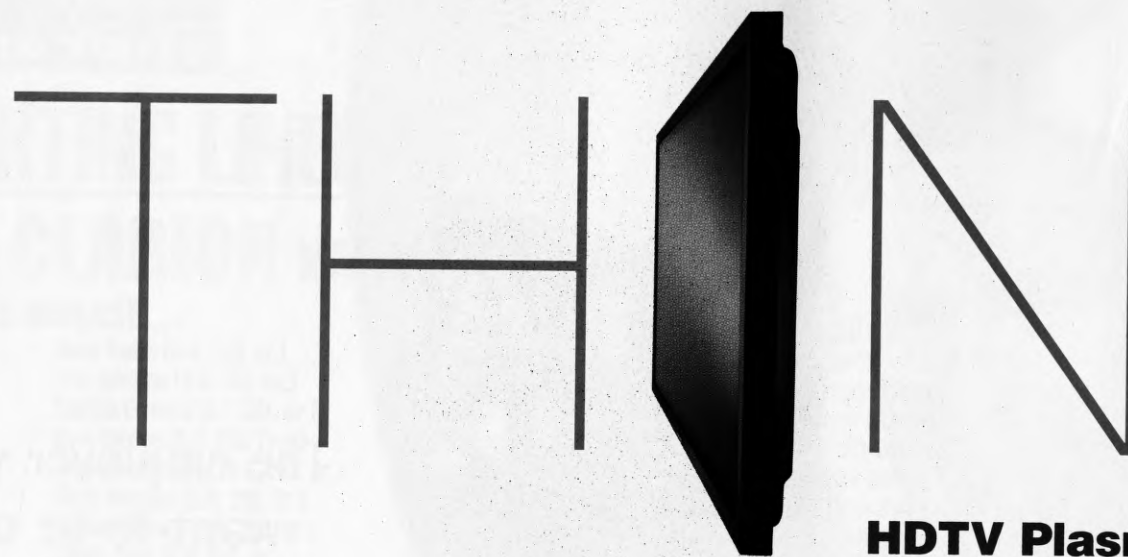

The only question will be whether Fargas can stay healthy through an entire season. With USC's depth at tailback, it may not be necessary to use him as a workhorse, which would lessen his chances for injury.

"We'll mix them and they'll all play," Carroll said.

And truth be told, that would be fine with Fargas. He has gone through so much that he can handle not getting every carry, as long as he just gets his chance.

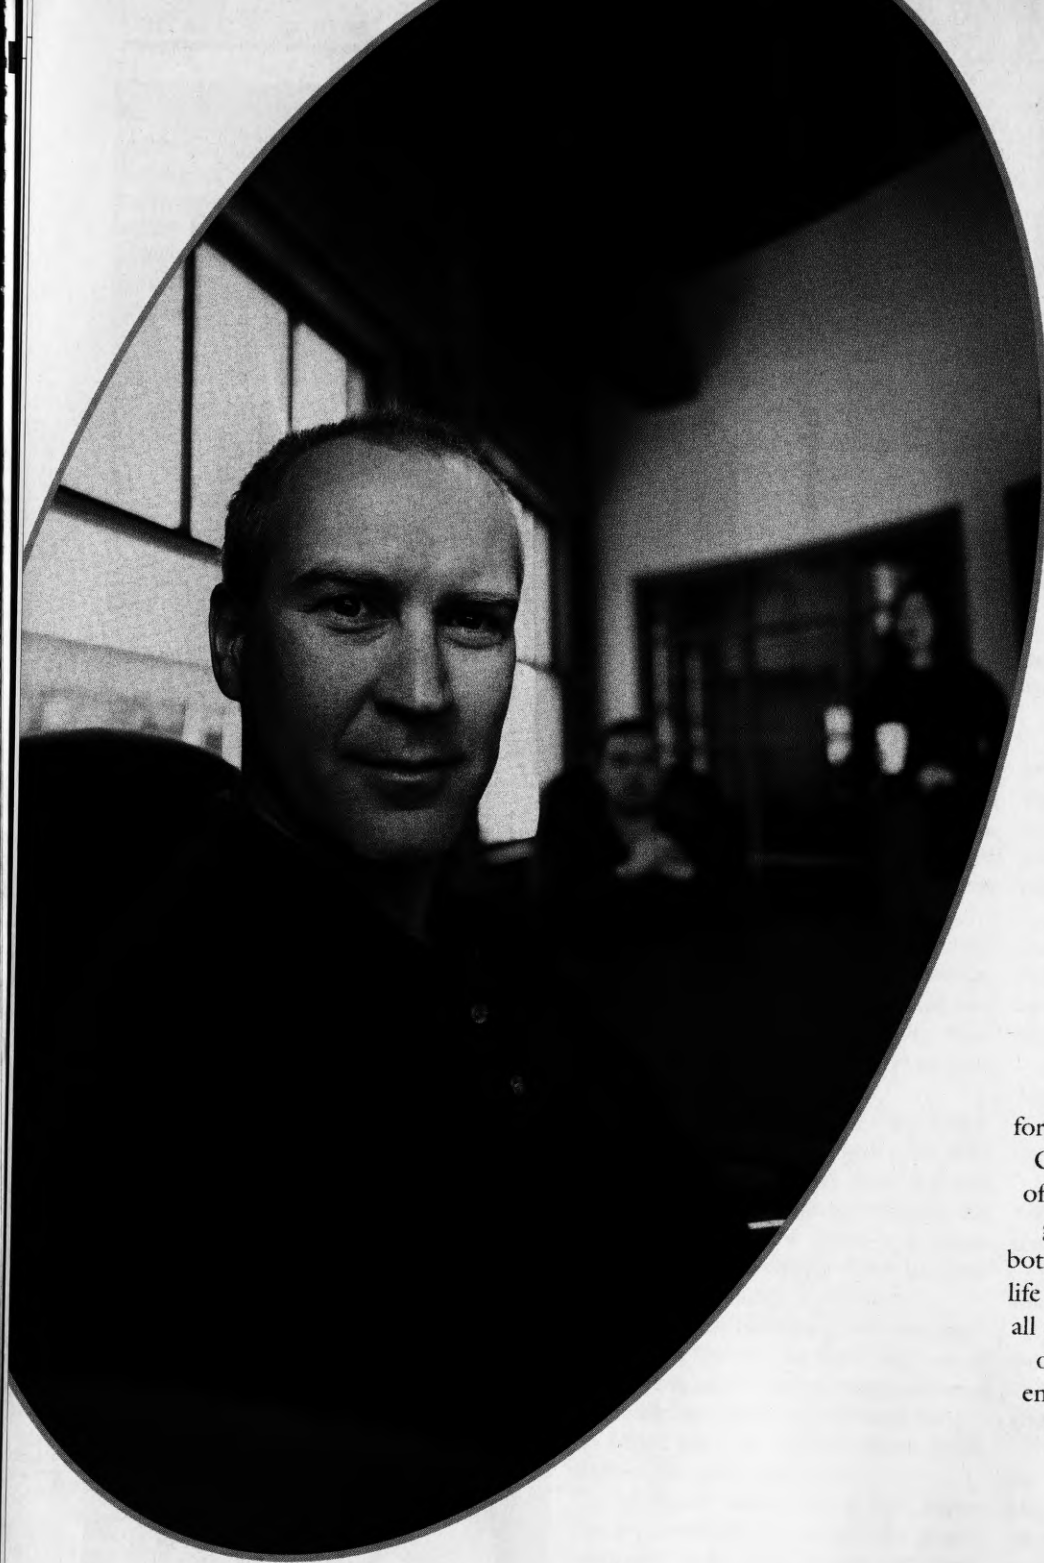

"I haven't heard the talk about me starting, but in my mind I'm ready to compete," Fargas said. "It's really about just getting out there and playing, and I'm just happy now that I'm in the game plan."

Is it possible to think of a health insurer as you would a next door neighbor?

A familiar face. A supportive shoulder. A willing hand. Through the years, Highmark has funded programs that address domestic violence and promote nurturing, positive family environments. Supported numerous health and wellness programs. And worked to keep donations flowing into local United Ways. So why do we do all this, and more? To improve the health and well-being of our communities, of course. And, to make some good friends along the way.

HARLON HILL AWARD

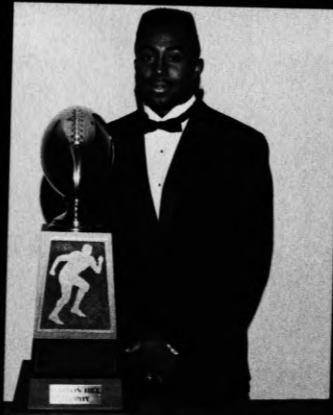

Two Edinboro University football players have been finalists for the Harlon Hill award, presented annually to the top player in NCAA Division II football.

Running back Elbert Cole was one of three finalists in 1989, while wide receiver Ernest Priester was a finalist a year later. Cole placed third in the '89 balloting, as three-time Harlon Hill recipient Johnny Bailey of Texas A&I captured the honor. Cole earned All-American honors in 1989, receiving first team, accolades from Kodak/American Football Coaches Association, second team recognition from Football Gazette, and third team status from Associated Press.

Cole rushed for 1,507 yards and set Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference records for touchdowns (24) and points (148). He led the Fighting Scots to the PSAC West title, a 8-3 record and a number seven ranking in the final Division II poll.

Priester was runnerup to North Dakota State quarterback Chris Simdorn in 1990 when the Bison claimed the Division II national title. Priester was the PSAC Western Division Co-Player of the Year in 1990. He was also recognized by Kodak/American Football Coaches Association, Associated Press and the Football Gazette as a first team All-American.

The fleet wide receiver hauled in 47 passes for 1,102 yards and 15 TDs. Edinboro finished 9-3, reaching the Division II quarterfinals.

Elbert Cole, a 1989 finalist, poses with the Harlon Hill Trophy.

Dear Fans:

I am truly impressed with the 14 supporters below from our community who supported our players with evening snacks throughout grueling double sessions in August. Our August Snacks Program has just taken off. In the past, our players had nothing to eat in the evening after two practices, conditioning and lifting. When I told them of Edinboro's response, they reacted with the loudest applause of camp. This is the third year the community has reached out and assisted us. Our players continually asked me to thank each of the restaurants/eateries below. In 30 years of coaching at the Division I level, I never had players respond with such gratitude.

Please support our hometown restaurants! THANK YOU.

Dear Fans:

Since arriving in Edinboro in January 2000, I have felt it is essential that we give to the community and vice versa. It has been very gratifying to the response of local organizations in assisting Edinboro football. Two years ago the four service organizations proved invaluable working at the Bills - Browns scrimmage, and for the last two years have run our 50/50 raffles. Thier assistance was greatly appreciated. Myself and my coaching staff looks forward to working with these organizations once again this year, and thank them for their support of Edinboro Football.

Sincerely,

"Coach" TEP

GOOD LUCK SCOTS

FIGHTING SCOTS IN THE PROS

Edinboro University has had a history of players performing in the professional ranks, including three players currently playing in the Canadian Football League.

Three-time All-American Jeremy O'Day is in his sixth season as an offensive lineman in the Canadian Football League. O'Day played two seasons for the Toronto Argonauts, helping them win the Grey Cup. The 6'3", 295 lb. offensive guard was chosen by the Argos in the 1997 supplemental draft. He is now a member of the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Another former Fighting Scot playing north of the border is Jeff Traversy. The 6'5", 280 lb. nose tackle was the Calgary Stampeders' third pick in the 1997 college draft.

The third former Fighting Scot is John Williams, last year's leading rusher. Williams was drafted by British Columbia in the fourth round of this past spring's CFL Draft. He led the Scots with 723 yards rushing and added 14 receptions in 2001.

Several former Edinboro players have enjoyed success in the Arena Football League, most notably Cleveland Pratt. Though just 5'7", 171 lbs., Pratt has prospered in the indoor football league. This past season he played for the Florida Firecats, enjoying an outstanding season. He ranked among the league leaders in scoring and all-purpose yardage.

Former Edinboro wide receiver Quentin Ware-Bey has also toiled in the AFL2, playing for the Carolina Rhinos.

A number of other Fighting Scots have made their marks in the professional ranks. Denorse Mosely was a member of the Miami Dolphins as a defensive back for two seasons, and was also in training camp with the Green Bay Packers a year ago. He spent the majority of his first season with the Dolphins on the practice squad before being activated for the playoffs.

James Dumas, a defensive back two years ago for Edinboro, was signed as a free agent by the San Francisco 49ers in 1999. Gilbert Grantlin was a free agent signee of the Minnesota Vikings in 1996, earning a spot on the practice squad.

Mike Kegarise, a 6'6", 310 lb. offensive tackle, was highly-regarded by the Seattle Seahawks before suffering a severe knee injury. He spent the 1994 season on the Seahawks' injured reserve list.

Former head coach Tom Hollman produced two other NFL hopefuls. Offensive guard Curtis Rose signed as a free agent with the Miami Dolphins, while wide receiver Ernest Priester was signed by the Denver Broncos. Priester later played for the Cleveland Thunder of the Arena Football League.

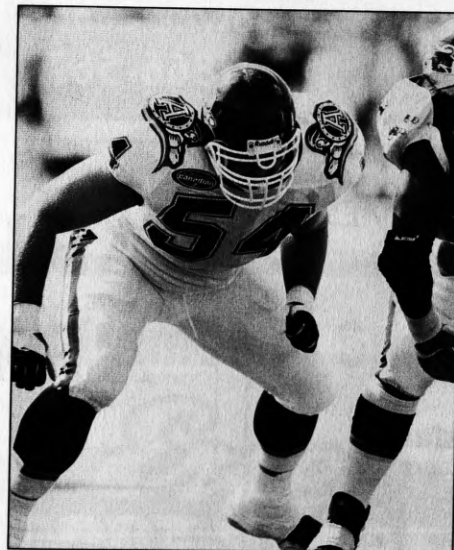

Edinboro players performing in the NFL date back to the 1970's, with both Dave Green and Jim Romaniszyn playing for the Cleveland Browns. Green, a running back, also played for the Montreal Alouettes in the CFL. Romaniszyn, a 6'2", 225 lb. running back, was drafted by the Browns in the 13th round in 1973, then switched to line-backer.

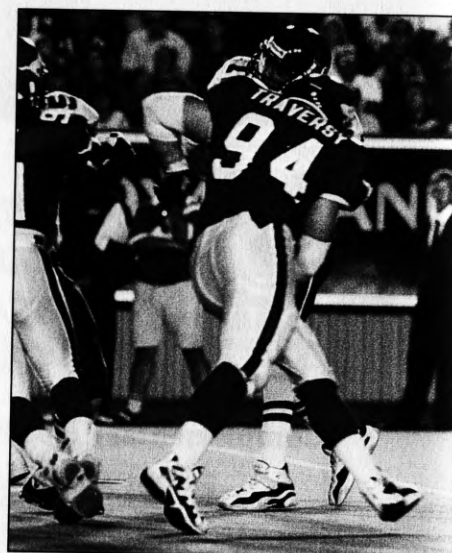

Dave Green

John Williams was drafted by the British Columbia Lions in the fourth round of the Canadian Football League Draft.

Now a member of the Saskatchewan Roughriders, offensive lineman Jeremy O'Day previously played for the Grey Cup champion Toronto Argonauts.

Jeff Traversy was the third pick of the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League in 1997. He's shown sacking a Saskatchewan quarterback in 1997.

SMITH LOOKS TO GET BACK TO HIS ROOTS

by Bob Shreve, Sports Information Director

For three years Dave Smith has harassed opposing quarterbacks. Over the first six games of the 2002 season, that role has changed somewhat. A year ago Edinboro head coach Lou Tepper shifted Smith from defensive end to rush linebacker. The change was very subtle, as Smith led the Fighting Scots with 8 sacks while setting a school record with 20 tackles for losses. The latter figure was also good enough to lead the PSAC.

But this year's opponents have dictated a change in tactics, and with it, a reduction in Smith's sack totals. "We've been running a different look," admits Smith. "I'm off the ball more. It took some adjusting to playing off the ball, having to wait for the play to come to you. I'm used to rushing the passer. But I'll do whatever coach wants me to do. I'm not one to complain. I might be uncomfortable at times, but as long as coach puts me in a position to make plays, I'm happy."

With the exception of Ashland and Shippensburg, the Scots have faced mainly passing teams, necessitating Smith's dropping into coverage rather than rushing the passer, known as the 30, cover 8 defense. Smith points out that a year ago, Gannon was the only team that Edinboro employed that defensive look.

Yet to Tepper, a renowned defensive strategist, playing the rush linebacker position is akin to playing linebacker at Penn State, or tailback at USC, at least to those of us who watched those teams in their glory days.

"The rush linebacker position he plays is unique to football," relates Tepper. "It's something we began back at Virginia Tech, and depending on the strengths of the player there, gives us a lot of flexibility. At Virginia Tech, we had Robert Brown who went on to be a third round pick of the Green Bay Packers and play there for ten years. I've also coached Danny McMillan, who was a 6'5", 220 lb. guy who signed with the Raiders, Alfred Williams from Colorado who won the Butkus Award, and Simeon Rice from Illinois. They were the prototypes.

"By and large the position requires players who can dominate versus a tight end in the running game, and makes the offensive linemen sweat bullets in the passing game," Tepper continued. "David has those abilities. He did not play up much the first year, but this year he has a lot more. Right now he is conceived as a true rush linebacker in our system."

It matters little to Smith that he isn't piling up sacks this year. What matters most is winning, and the three-game losing streak the Fighting Scots are riding pains him greatly. While playing basketball at Franklin High School, the 6'3", 250 lb. senior played on nothing but winning teams. But football was another story.

"Except for my junior year in high school, I have never been on a winning team," Smith related. "I want to be on a championship team. We can still do it here. My coaches at Franklin, Fred Blackhurst in football and Bill Hager in basketball, taught me that hard work leads to success. I want to make the most of any opportunity I get."

Smith's Franklin roots mean a great deal to him, and reflect his mentality. "It's a good place to grow up," commented Smith. "It's a hard-working town. Nothing comes easy. Franklin is a small town where everybody knows each other and takes care of each other. Not many people get a chance to go to school, get an education and play football. It's a close-knit community."

The Edinboro coaching staff hopes Smith isn't the last successful Fighting Scot to hail from Franklin. Matt Peterson is a sophomore noseguard from Franklin, while Aaron Fetty is a freshman tight end. Smith is proud to call another Franklin athlete a close friend - All-

American wrestler Cory Ace.

"Me and Cory are probably best friends," he pointed out. "He pushes me to do well and I push him to do well."

Something else that means a great deal to Smith is his relationship with defensive line coach Wayne Bradford. Bradford shares that fondness for the Scot defender. "Coach Bradford means a lot to me," stressed Smith. "I've been through thick and thin with him. He's been my psychologist."

"He's a wonderful kid," Bradford pointed out. "He cares. He cares as much as anybody. He's the heart and soul of this team because he wants to win. He gets the most out of what he's been given. We have a special relationship. We both came here at the same time.

"He gives everything he has," Bradford continued. "He wants to win. It's as important to him as anybody. I don't think he's ever been on a winning team. Sometimes it gives him a poor self image. For as good as he is, he's not a very confident guy. He makes a lot of plays because of his effort. He's a talented guy, but it's his effort that really sticks out."

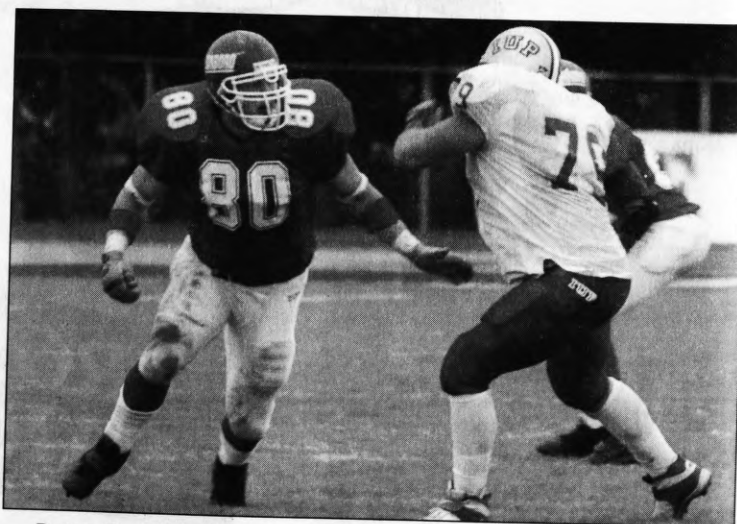

Giving everything he has has forced Smith to pay a price. His career has been dotted with injuries, and while he'll say he's been healthy this year, the coaching staff can point to several nagging injuries. It began with a shoulder injury his freshman year, then has continued with ankle and hamstring maladies, among other things.

"The injuries have been real frustrating," Smith admits. "When I hurt my shoulder my freshman year, it set me back. I was looking forward to working hard. I feel without the injury I probably would have had the year I had my junior year as a sophomore. I was 100 percent as a junior."

A three-time first team All-PSAC West selection, Smith will graduate in May with a bachelor's degree in Elementary Education, along with a minor in History. After that, hopefully a professional tryout, and maybe graduate school. "I'd like to get a tryout, even if it's just for a couple days," Smith stated hopefully.

Eventually, however, the plan is to go back to Franklin to teach and coach. "I want to get into coaching," Smith pointed out. "I want to win as a coach, and instill the same hard work and dedication I've been taught here. I love playing here. If I had to make the decision, I would do it again."

Edinboro's loss will be Franklin's gain.
