EDINBORO TO HOST 2002 PSAC CHAMPIONSHIP

Edinboro University will serve as the host site for the 2002 PSAC Cross Country Championship, to be held on Saturday, November 2. The championships were last held on the Edinboro campus in 1994. The men's competition begins at 10:00 a.m. and the women start at 11:00 a.m. The Fighting Scots have won the PSAC title the last ten consecutive years on the men's side and own four straight league crowns on the women's side.

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania is an equal opportunity education institution and will not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex and handicap in its activities, programs or employment practices as required by Title VI, Title XI, Section 504 and the ADA. Head Coach

Doug Watts

Excellence in coaching and a winning tradition are terms that have become synonymous with Edinboro University cross country and track and field coach Doug Watts. Since his arrival at Edinboro in 1969, the Running Scots have experienced nothing but success, producing numerous All-Americans and team championships, as well as four individual cross country champions and five individual track champions.

Watts' coaching credentials speak for themselves, including 29 consecutive undefeated cross country seasons and a string of 111 straight dual meet victories. Watts' squads have also produced a total of six national championships, including back-to-back-to-back NCAA Division II titles from 1986 through 1988 and back-to-back NAIA titles in 1975 and 1976. His teams can also boast five Division II runner-up trophies, plus finishes of third (twice), fourth (three times), fifth, sixth (twice), seventh (twice), eighth (three times) and ninth.

In total, the men's squads have 16 top ten finishes at the national meet in the last 21 years. His women's program, though yet to crown a national champion, has also established itself as one of the premier programs in the NCAA East Region and on the national stage. That includes four straight top five finishes at the national meet. An "untouchable" amount of conference, district, and regional "Coach of the Year" awards are scattered throughout his office, including Edinboro's 2001-02 Coach of the Year award.

The National Coach of the Year five times, Watts has published numerous distance-running articles for national publications. Twice an Olympic coach nominee, Watts annually conducts a summer pre-season endurance training camp, the Edinboro Distance Village, for young men and women. In addition, 16 of his Edinboro athletes have been U.S. Olympic Trial qualifiers.

Most recently, Watts has ventured into the administrative portion of his sport, being elected President of the NCAA Division II Track and Field Coaches Association. In addition, he is the head of the NCAA Division II Cross Country Hall of Fame Committee and is a member of the USATF Coaches Advisory Committee.

A 1964 graduate of the University of Akron with a degree in Health and Physical Education, Watts began his coaching career at Walsh Jesuit High School in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. He introduced a running program at Walsh Jesuit that yielded a two-year record of 19-0 and a district championship. Watts and his wife Margaret have two adult children, Wendy and Christopher.

Edinboro's Cross Country Philosophy

"Generally, we attract the middle distance and distance athlete who is seeking a special environment for running," says head coach Doug Watts about his track and cross country programs at Edinboro University. "A student-athlete should consider Edinboro because of the following reasons":

1. A small school setting, academically oriented, that generally allows for a fuller personal development in the classroom, athletic and social activities; yet offers a large, diversified choice of educational majors and specialties.
2. A TEAM concept in training competition.
3. A distance-based training program integrating selected road races as a training supplement.
4. Division I schedule of intercollegiate competition.
5. A program that allows personal direction and individualism, a proper balance between academics and athletics... and fun.
6. A tradition of excellence and proven success in running within an environment supportive and respectful of distance runners.

Cross Country Outlook

The 2002 cross country campaign could well look like the tale of two teams. Long-time head coach Doug Watts has a very simple goal in mind -- keep with tradition. That tradition was exemplified a year ago, when the Fighting Scot harriers collected two more PSAC Championships and East Region Championships, adding to the rich tradition that is Edinboro cross country.

Traditionally, both the men's and women's cross country teams have been favorites in both the PSAC and the region, along with top ten national finishes in each of the last five years. But that may change this year, at least from the women's standpoint.

For the first time in many years, Watts faces the challenge of guiding a very inexperienced women's team. Not one All-American returns to a squad which dominated the East and placed seventh at Nationals. Gone are Lisa Petsche, Edinboro's first female four-time All-American, and Kathy Breisch, a fellow All-American who paced the Scots in virtually every competition last fall.

No seniors return and only one junior, but the roster features a promising mix of six sophomores and seven freshmen. Most noteworthy, though, is the fact that no one on the roster has more than one year of varsity experience. "They better mature pretty quickly," admitted Watts, "or it could be a difficult task to remain in the forefront."

That's not to say it is not a team laced with talent. Leading the way is sophomore Lindsay Roberts. Roberts was named the PSAC Rookie of the Year and finished 11th at the East Regional to earn All-Region honors. She continued her strong showing in the spring, placing second at the PSAC Track & Field Championships in the 10,000 meter run, turning in a provisional qualifying time.

"Lindsay has accepted what it takes to become an All-American, and is very focused on doing the things to give herself the chance to earn that award," Watts pointed out.

Kiersten Buckley turned in a strong early showing last year before suffering an injury. She managed to finish 22nd at the PSAC Championships, but then sustained a stress fracture during the track season.

"With any luck, which she did not have last year, Kiersten will emerge in the leader's pack by late season," Watts commented.

Sophomores Lisa Gallagher and Shannon Loewke are expected to make significant improvement this year. Gallagher was a regular a year ago, placing 33rd at the PSAC Championships and 39th in the East Regional Championships.

Sophomores Lindsey Schlieper, Kristen Love, Genise Green, and Katie Donahue add to the list of talented sophomores. Donahue is a transfer from the University of Rhode Island, where her team was the runner-up in the Atlantic Ten Conference.

Watts expects several recruits to come in and contribute immediately. "The new recruits will have to run well early in their careers," Watts admitted.

Kelly Richards, a multiple All-State performer in cross country and track from nearby General McLane High School, is one such individual. Julie Nemergut, also an All-State performer, is another promising freshman. Additional depth should come from redshirt freshman Erin Tomczak and freshman Kristen Malloy.

After four straight PSAC and East Regional titles, the picture may not be as bright as usual, but Watts cautions naysayers. "For the first time in a long while, we are not the overwhelming favorites to win the conference or regional title. But, don't bet on us not running at the Nationals again this November."

With an All-American, four All-Region performers, and five All-PSAC runners returning, the odds are heavily in favor of the men's team continuing the tradition of Edinboro excellence.

Like the women, the men must replace a four-time All-American, as former national champion Yi Min Wu has departed. But after red-shirting in 2001, Aaron Rowe should receive plenty of recognition.

Rowe was a two-time All-American in track this past spring, and the junior placed 11th at the 2000 NCAA Division II Cross Country National Championships. He was just the second American to cross the finish line, bettered only by teammate Jeff Barker. At the 2000 East Regionals, Rowe finished third behind Barker and Wu. "Aaron is known for his focused direction in all he does, and is a fierce competitor," Watts pointed out. That was clearly evident last spring, when he finished third in the 10,000 meters at the NCAA's.

Nat Wibberley is another seasoned runner. The senior finished fifth at both the PSAC Championship and East Regional Championship. He was also the second Scot to cross the finish line at Nationals, placing 55th. At the 2000 NCAA's, Wibberley finished 49th. He looks to take the next step and earn All-American honors.

Junior Joe Reynolds and sophomore Mark Hryvniak are also key returnees. Both earned All-PSAC and All-Region honors, with Reynolds placing sixth at the PSAC Championships and Hryvniak ninth. Hryvniak placed 11th at the East Regional meet, while Reynolds was 21st.

Despite strong showings in 2001, the two runners face uncertainty in 2002. "Reynolds, in particular, ran very well early last fall, only to fall to a rare liver condition that kept him out of the 2002 track season," stressed Watts. Hryvniak ran track in the spring, but had a surgical procedure in June.

Tim Cron is another runner with talent, but a medical history. He fought off calf problems last year to finish third at the PSAC's and seventh at the Regionals. "Tim can run at All-American levels, but his torn calf has severely limited his performance the last two years," stated Watts.

Jimmy Ansberry was another runner to attain All-Region status, thanks to a 29th place finish. The sophomore will benefit greatly from the year of experience. Senior Kimmo Lassila and junior Joe Janke also look for improvement. Lassila was 17th at the PSAC meet.

Watts looks for three red-shirt freshmen to step up. "Ryan Coon, Lucas Dorsch, and Jared Lowry have shown the talent and spark to push known upperclassmen aside," Watts predicted. Another sophomore, Colin McClelland, may red-shirt in 2002.

Watts has five promising freshmen on the roster, and all will have a difficult time breaking into the lineup. Jeremy Boehm, Jeff McCabe, James O'Kane, and Nick Pecome will compete this year, with Pennsylvania All-Stater Tom Broffain red-shirting.

"For these men, there is no change in our goals -- win the PSAC, the NCAA East Regionals, and take a shot at the national trophy," Watts stated confidently.

THROUGH THE YEARS

- 1971 Dave Antognoli wins the NAIA championship in his final year, the first national title for Edinboro.
- 1975-76 Men's team wins first-ever national trophy, and then repeats for back-to-back NAIA championships.
- 1982 Greg Beardsley captures the NCAA Division II individual championship.
- 1985 Doug Watts takes over the women's squad. Colleen Snyder and Kerri Yenchak become Edinboro's first female runners to be named All-Americans.
- 1986-88 The Fighting Scots men take home their first NCAA Division II title in 1986. They successfully defend the title in 1987 and '88 for three consecutive national championships.
- 1990 Edinboro's men's team ties the NCAA Division II 'Most Championship Teams' record by winning their fourth team title.
- 1991 Martin Lyons becomes Edinboro's third national champion.
- 1998 Yi Min Wu becomes the fourth Boro national champion, winning by a 10 second margin.
- 1999 The Edinboro women's team ran to their highest national finish, claiming third place.
- 2000 Both the men's and women's teams place fourth at nationals. Carrie McKeon and Lisa Petsche join Amy Perry Davis as three-time All-Americans. Jeff Barker and Carrie McKeon won the fifth straight regional championships for the Boro squads, while Barker's crown at the PSAC Championships marks the 21st consecutive year a Fighting Scot has claimed the top spot.
- 2001 Lisa Petsche and Yi Min Wu become the second and third runners to earn All-American honors four times. The women's team places seventh at nationals and the men finish eighth, the fifth-straight top ten finishes for both squads. The women capture their fourth consecutive PSAC and East Regional crown, while the men win their tenth straight PSAC and Regional title.

After earning All-American honors three times in cross country and becoming the first person in the history of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference to capture the 1500, 5000, and 10,000 meter events at the same meet, Carl Leonard (above right) still had one accomplishment missing from his remarkable career at Edinboro University ... a national championship. The Morristown, Wales native waited until his last collegiate meet to rectify that. Competing at the 1996 NCAA Division II Outdoor Track National Championships, Leonard forever etched his name among the Fighting Scot running elite with a first place finish in the 5000 meters.

National Champions

Dave Antognoli

David Antognoli was head coach Doug Watts' first recruit back in 1969. Antognoli is, according to Watts, the reason Edinboro State College became creditable on the national level, and helped lay the foundation for the successful program that exists today. The recruiting classes of 1972-73 followed in the footsteps of Antognoli and led to Edinboro's six national team titles.

Antognoli won a multitude of individual titles, including three national titles, and many All-American certificates in cross country and track. He was awarded the Sox Harrison Award as the top male senior athlete in 1973 after winning the cross country championship in 1971, the NAIA 10,000 meters title in 1972, and the USTFF national championship in the six mile event. He also was the top collegiate finisher in the 1972 Olympic Trials.

Greg Beardsley

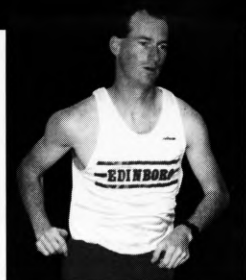

In 1982, in a brutal combination of calf-deep snow, 20-degree temperatures, and a chilling wind, the crowd at the finish line of the 1982 NCAA Division II championships in St. Cloud, Minnesota was barely able to make out the faint outline of Greg Beardsley, who crossed the finish line in a record 60.9 seconds before the rest of the field to win the national championship. Beardsley recalls his experiences as "great, but very cold!"

"You are what you train," shares Beardsley.

Beardsley won the Sox Harrison Award as the top male senior athlete in April 1983.

Martin Lyons

Martin Lyons was attracted to Edinboro University due to the strength and reputation of the Running Scots cross country program. The Melbourne, Australia native had no trouble adapting to his move across the globe, winning the NCAA Division II individual cross country title as a freshman in 1991.

Though he came to the United States with little cross country experience, coach Doug Watts expected All-American honors from the Aussie on the merit of his track credentials. Lyons would go on to claim cross country All-American honors in each of his four seasons at Edinboro. Only two other runners have accomplished this feat since.

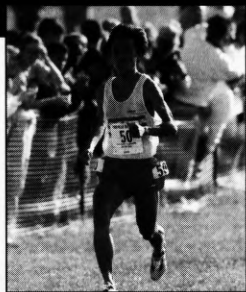

An eight-time All-American in cross country and track, Lyons was the NCAA East Regional record-holder in cross country, and also holds the school record in the marathon with a time of 2:21:35, set back in 1995.

Yi Min Wu

Yi Min Wu became Edinboro's fourth national champion after he won the 1998 national meet by a 10 second margin with a time of 31:06.60. Wu began his collegiate career on a tear as he did not lose a race throughout his freshman season and won the first meet of 1999 for a streak of nine meets.

A six-time All-American in cross country and track, Wu was recognized as both the PSAC and NCAA East Regional 'Runner of the Year' in 1998 and '99. In addition, he was the 1999 national track and field runner-up in the 10,000 meters in addition to winning the PSAC 10,000 meter championship. Wu earned his second All-American certificate in track by also placing sixth in the 5,000 meter run as a freshman. Wu is one of three runners to earn All-American honors four times in cross country.

Finally, Wu was named the PSAC Rookie of the Year in track and field as a freshman.

Track Outlook

The Edinboro University track & field team enjoyed one of its finest seasons in years in 2002, and with many talented returning competitors, looks for more success in 2003.

Three Fighting Scots earned All-American honors, with the men placing 29th and the women 27th. A total of six Boro athletes competed in last year's National Championships in San Angelo, TX.

Aaron Rowe, an All-American in both the 5,000 and 10,000 meters, is the top returnee. Nat Wibberley will also push for All-American accolades after qualifying in the 3,000 meter steeplechase. Jared Lowry was a provisional qualifier in the 10,000 meters, while Tim Cron, if healthy, can be a national competitor, as well.

Ed Brown, who doubles as a tight end on the football team, enjoyed success in the field events, particularly in the shot put, where he was one of the top competitors in Pennsylvania as a senior. Nick Price provides further depth.

The women's team must replace All-Americans Kathy Breisch and Lisa Petsche, but have two outstanding heptathlon competitors in Lindsey Schlieper and Megan Zitner. Schlieper is a two-time provisional qualifier, while Zitner set the school record a year ago.

Lindsay Roberts, a sophomore, looks to continue the strong tradition of the distance runners.
