

EDINBORO

University

2004-05 Cross Country/Track & Field

Greetings from the President

Dear Family, Friends and Fans of the Fighting Scots:

Thank you for supporting Edinboro University athletics and the student-athletes who compete for our football, wrestling, basketball, volleyball, wheelchair basketball and other adaptive sports, cross country, track, soccer, swimming, and softball teams. We are proud of their accomplishments athletically and academically, and we are proud of our coaching staff who assist in making good things happen for students and the University.

The Athletic programs at Edinboro University enjoy a rich history and tradition of excellence. This amazing legacy will be among the points of pride celebrated during the University's Sesquicentennial in the 2006-07 academic year. As we prepare to celebrate the University's 150th anniversary, we are guided by the theme, "Building a prosperous future through academic excellence and civility." The learning, dedication, discipline, and sportsmanship that are central to the experience of Edinboro athletes also enable their prosperity in other aspects of life. At the same time, athletic competitions contribute to the quality of life on our campus and throughout the communities of northwestern Pennsylvania. Clearly, the Fighting Scots are a partner in the region's prosperity.

We encourage our Fighting Scot Fans to visit the campus as often as possible. I look forward to greeting you at our athletic, cultural, and arts presentations.

Go Scots!

Head Coach Doug Watts

Excellence in coaching and a winning tradition are terms that have become synonymous with Edinboro University cross country and track and field coach Doug Watts. Since his arrival at Edinboro in 1969, the Running Scots have experienced nothing but success, producing numerous All-Americans and team championships, as well as four individual cross country champions and five individual track first place finishers.

Watts' coaching credentials speak for themselves, including 31 consecutive undefeated cross country seasons and a string of 117 straight dual meet victories. Watts' squads have also produced a total of six national championships, including back-to-back-to-back NCAA Division II titles from 1986 through 1988 and back-to-back NAIA titles in 1975 and 1976. His teams can also boast five Division II runner-up trophies, plus finishes of third (twice), fourth (three times), fifth, sixth (twice), seventh (twice), eighth (three times) and ninth.

In total, the men's squads have 16 top ten finishes at the national meet in the last 22 years. His women's program, though yet to crown a national champion, has also established itself as one of the premier programs in the NCAA East Region and on the national stage. That includes four straight top five finishes at the national meet. An "uncountable" amount of conference, district, and regional "Coach of the Year" awards are scattered throughout his office, including Edinboro's 2001-02 Coach of the Year award. He was inducted into the Edinboro Hall of Fame this past spring.

The National Coach of the Year five times, Watts has published numerous distance-running articles for national publications. Twice an Olympic coach nominee, Watts annually conducts a summer pre-season endurance training camp, the Edinboro Distance Village, for young men and women. In addition, 16 of his Edinboro athletes have been U.S. Olympic Trial qualifiers.

Most recently, Watts has ventured into the administrative portion of his sport, as the past President of the NCAA Division II Track and Field Coaches Association and presently serving as the Vice President of the USTCA National Coaches Association. In addition, he was the head of the NCAA Division II Cross Country Hall of Fame Committee and is a member of the USATF Coaches Advisory Committee.

A 1964 graduate of the University of Akron with a degree in Health and Physical Education, Watts began his coaching career at Walsh Jesuit High School in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. He introduced a running program at Walsh Jesuit that yielded a two-year record of 19-0 and a district championship. Watts and his wife Margaret have two adult children, Wendy and Christopher.

Edinboro's Cross Country Philosophy

"Generally, we attract the middle distance and distance athlete who is seeking a special environment for running," says head coach Doug Watts about his track and cross country programs at Edinboro University. "A student-athlete should consider Edinboro because of the following reasons":

1. A small school setting, academically oriented, that generally allows for a fuller personal development in the classroom, athletic and social activities; yet offers a large, diversified choice of educational majors and specialties.
2. A TEAM concept in training competition.
3. A distance-based training program integrating selected road races as a training supplement.
4. Division I schedule of intercollegiate competition.
5. A program that allows personal direction and individualism, a proper balance between academics and athletics... and fun.
6. A tradition of excellence and proven success in running within an environment supportive and respectful of distance runners.

"It will be unusually difficult to advance an accurate picture of what our potential is for the 2004 cross country season," waived the usually straightforward veteran coach Doug Watts.

"We have the personnel, and some talent. But will illness or injuries allow our athletes to reach their full potential?"

The women should be favored to capture their seventh straight PSAC team title, and NCAA II Regional crown. The men aim to recapture both titles which they were edged out of last season for the first time in 12 years.

Although no women cross country "All-Americans" return to their lineup, two juniors can claim track "AA" certificates. Julie Nemergut emerged last spring as a "real" National level competitor to earn a scoring spot in the 10,000 at the National Meet. Nemergut had also qualified in the 5,000, but her coach withdrew her from the trials.

Roommate Kelly Richards earned her All-America award as a freshman in the steeplechase. Some fast, early season times were negated by a stress fracture mid year.

Both Nemergut and Richards earned All-PSAC and All-East Regional cross country honors each of their two previous seasons.

Lindsay Roberts, a national provisional qualifier in the 10,000, returns from a "red-shirt" year in 2003. Roberts might be slow to show her form until October this season, recovering from a hamstring pull.

Lisa Gallagher will attempt to put a highlight on her already excellent cross country years at Edinboro. The senior has come through for the Scots in cross country three straight years as an All-Conference and All-Region runner.

Edinboro runners seem to traditionally make a big improvement in their running careers, and 2004 could be the season to see Heather Wilmoth do so. A 2002 PIAA state champion in cross country, Wilmoth is expected to take her place in the front pack at every meet this year. She showcased her potential as she finished as the Scots number one finisher at the NCAA meet last fall.

Watts says to watch out for Genise Green. With less than two full years of running experience, Green, a 2004 nursing graduate, will return to the lineup with a sincere dedication to capitalize on her newfound talent. "This was my first real serious summer of training (70 to 80 miles per week), and I'm excited to compete," she beamed.

Depth is evident as a relatively large number of athletes will be vying for starting lineups in the large meets at the season's finish. Watts has faith in Kiersten Buckley, limited the past two years with a host of accidents and illnesses. Buckley showed promise early in her freshman year, and may be primed to take up where she left off.

Ashleigh Barnhart suffered a "broken back" in track in 2004, and will take a redshirt year. A multiple junior college national champion, Barnhart had limited summer background training this year.

Showing flashes of quality running at various stages of her career, Shannon Loewke hopes to become consistent in all her races. An All-PSAC, All-Regional performer in cross country and the PSAC indoor 1500 champion, Loewke will bring good speed to flatter terrains.

Should the cross country course be hilly, muddy and difficult, look for senior Katie Donahue to pick up the team slack for the Scots. Continuing improvement marks Michelle Kelly's cross country career.

Two freshmen will impact the top ten this fall. Rachael Lanzel is tabbed as the recruit to make "huge gains in performance" early in her college career. Early season performances predict she will be a key to the team's championship hopes. Emily Quinlan has the quality attitude necessary to run for Edinboro. Her early adjustment to new distance-based training remains to be seen.

"I really don't know quite what to make of the guys," lamented Watts. "We've had our share of highs for 30+ years, but this group seems jinxed, so far, to balance out all the favorable breaks we've experienced!"

And, by that, Watts is not referring to the graduation of Aaron Rowe - a national runnerup in the 10,000 and the 2003 NCAA II Coaches Association National Cross Country Runner of the Year.

Is he, then, concerned about the returning "All-Americans" on the roster?

Ryan Coon has shown consistency in training and racing through his Edinboro years. One of the top three runners in the East last fall, the junior earned his first All-American award and displayed grittiness at every meet. Nor is Watts concerned with senior Jim Ansberry, who earned his first All-American certificate last spring in the steeplechase. Ansberry's 2004 cross country will attempt to eradicate the near disastrous image of he (and other Boro runners) suffering heat exhaustion in the North Carolina heat, staggering and collapsing near the finish at last year's NCAA Cross Country Championships.

Now Watts wants a break for his two seniors, Joe Reynolds and Mark Hryvniak. Both have All-American ability but have been relatively unknowns as "bad breaks" have limited their performances the last two years.

Hryvniak is still struggling to recover from a seemingly failed compartment syndrome surgery and Reynolds hopes to overcome a liver disease that set up a severe achilles injury when he finally was allowed to return to running.

"If these two can be 90 percent this fall, we will be pretty darn good," states Watts.

Runnerup in the PSAC 10,000 last spring, and a National provisional qualifier in the same event, junior Jared Lowry will surprise opponents this fall and is expected to run "up front" in 2004.

Depth is prevalent for the Scots as sophomore David Niemira, coming off a solid summer program, has shown marked improvement. Classmate Dan Field, severely limited last year due to severe burns, might be ready to take his expected top seven role. A 9:35 steeplechase early in the season, Field ended up with a medical redshirt in track. Jeremy Boehm, a top seven runner for the Boro the last two years, must break out this fall and establish race performances that equal his training ethic.

The best recruiting class in a decade seems to guarantee that the Edinboro coach will not retire soon.

The team welcomed their first Kenyan recruit in late August. Though Nicholas Chepkwony may be an "average" runner at home, there aren't a lot of 30:06 10K runners in Division II. The young Kenyan will obviously have some adjustments to make at Edinboro, so Watts may characteristically keep him "under wraps" in the early season.

Three "All-Ohio" honorees have enrolled. John Moneyhon (9:16), David Blend (4:17) and Nick Hankins (third place in cross country/small class) will need to see how quickly they can assimilate into the Edinboro distance running program. Don't be surprised if one or two of the group supplants upperclassmen in the starting lineup.

A solid schedule, highlighted by a plane flight to Oregon in October, should prepare both squads for the traditional goal of the program: Win the PSAC, win the NCAA II Regionals, and score well at Nationals. That three-fold purpose has been consistent with Edinboro as the men's team has advanced to the Nationals every since 1977; the women every season since 1989.

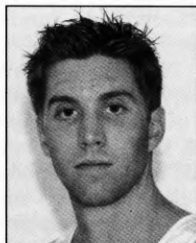

"Running is important here, to be the best we can be," states Watts.

"We just need a little luck this year!"

National Champions

Dave Antognoli

David Antognoli was head coach Doug Watts' first recruit back in 1969. Antognoli is, according to Watts, the reason Edinboro became creditable on the national level, and helped lay the foundation for the successful program that exists today. The recruiting classes of 1972-73 followed in the footsteps of Antognoli and led to Edinboro's six national team titles.

Antognoli won a multitude of individual titles, including three national titles, and many All-American certificates in cross country and track. He was awarded the Sox Harrison Award as the top male senior athlete in 1973 after winning the cross country championship in 1971, the NAIA 10,000 meters title in 1972, and the USTFF national championship in the six mile event. He also was the top collegiate finisher in the 1972 Olympic Trials.

Greg Beardsley

In 1982, in a brutal combination of calf-deep snow, 20-degree temperatures, and a chilling wind, the crowd at the finish line of the 1982 NCAA Division II championships in St. Cloud, Minnesota was barely able to make out the faint outline of Greg Beardsley, who crossed the finish line in a record 60.9 seconds before the rest of the field to win the national championship. Beardsley recalls his experiences as "great, but very cold!"

Beardsley won the Sox Harrison Award as the top male senior athlete in April 1983 and was multiple U.S. Olympic Trials scorer.

Martin Lyons

Martin Lyons was attracted to Edinboro due to the strength and reputation of the Running Scots program. The Melbourne, Australia native had no trouble adapting to his move across the globe, winning the 1991 NCAA Division II individual cross country title as a freshman.

Though he came to the United States with little cross country experience, coach Doug Watts expected All-American honors from the Aussie on the merit of his track credentials. Lyons would go on to claim cross country All-American honors in each of his four seasons at Edinboro. Only two other runners have accomplished this feat since.

An eight-time All-American in cross country and track, Lyons was the NCAA East Regional record-holder in cross country, and also hold the school record in the marathon with a time of 2:21:35, set back in 1995.

Yi Min Wu

Yi Min Wu became Edinboro's fourth national champion after he won the 1998 national meet by a 10 second margin with a time of 31:06.60. Wu did not lose a race throughout his freshman season.

A six-time All-American in cross country and track, Wu was recognized as both the PSAC and NCAA East Regional 'Runner of the Year' in 1998 an '99. He was the 1999 national track and field runner-up in the 10,000 meters in addition to winning the PSAC 10,000 meter championship. Wu earned his second All-American certificate in track by also placing sixth in the 5,000 meter run as a freshman. Wu is one of three runners to earn All-American honors four times in cross country.

Finally, Wu was named the PSAC Rookie of the Year in track and field as a freshman.

THROUGH THE YEARS

- 1971 Dave Antognoli wins the NAIA championship in his final year, the first national title for Edinboro.
- 1975-76 Men's team wins first-ever national trophy, and then repeats for back-to-back NAIA championships.
- 1982 Greg Beardsley captures the NCAA Division II individual championship.
- 1985 Doug Watts takes over the women's squad. Colleen Snyder and Kerri Yenchak become Edinboro's first female runners to be named All-Americans.
- 1986-88 The Fighting Scots men take home their first NCAA Division II title in 1986. They successfully defend the title in 1987 and '88 for three consecutive national championships.
- 1990 Edinboro's men's team ties the NCAA Division II 'Most Championship Teams' record by winning their fourth team title.
- 1991 Martin Lyons becomes Edinboro's third national champion.
- 1998 Yi Min Wu becomes the fourth Boro national champion, winning by a 10 second margin.
- 1999 The Edinboro women's team ran to their highest national finish, claiming third place.
- 2000 Both the men's and women's teams place fourth at nationals. Carrie McKeon and Lisa Petsche join Amy Perry Davis as three-time All-Americans. Jeff Barker and Carrie McKeon won the fifth straight regional championships for the Boro squads, while Barker's crown at the PSAC Championships marks the 21st consecutive year a Fighting Scot has claimed the top spot.
- 2001 Lisa Petsche and Yi Min Wu become the second and third runners to earn All-American honors four times. The women's team places seventh at nationals and the men finish eighth, the fifth-straight top ten finishes for both squads. The women capture their fourth consecutive PSAC and East Regional crown, while the men win their tenth straight PSAC and Regional title.

The Edinboro University track & field team provisionally qualified 10 student-athletes for the NCAA Division II National Championships in 2004. Three came away with All-American honors. Jim Ansberry ran a controlled race in the 3,000 meter steeplechase to finish fifth with a time of 9:14.32. Jessica Moldovan was seventh in the same race on the women's side with a time of 10:49.47. Finally, Julie Nemergut ran a 36:10 in the 10,000 meters, good for eighth place.

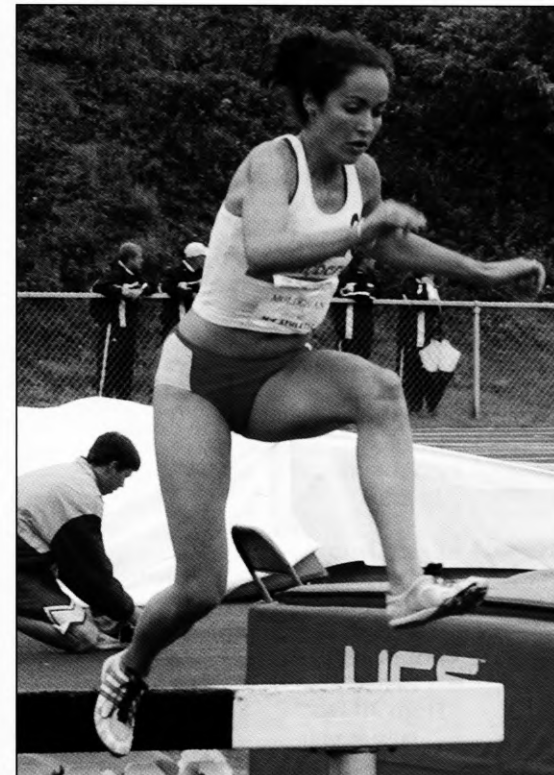

Other returning qualifiers include a trio of 10Kers -- Ryan Coon, Jared Lowry and Lindsay Roberts -- Ed Brown, the PSAC champion and school record-holder in the discus; and Megan Zitner in the heptathlon. Zitner was a remarkable scorer in that she missed an entire year due to a knee injury suffered during basketball season. Cassandra Leopold (javelin) and Nick Price (shot put) have graduated and will be sorely missed.

A Division I level of scheduling enhances Edinboro's opportunity to run against the best in the quest to develop maximum potentials.

This is Edinboro University

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania is the largest comprehensive four-year university in northwestern Pennsylvania. Its 585-acre campus is home to some 8,000 students studying in more than 100 academic programs. The University's programs in art, criminal justice, and speech language pathology, among others, have earned regional and national recognition and accolades, and the campus is ranked among the top 10 in the nation for the services provided for students with disabilities. In 2003 the University's institutional accreditation with the Commission on Higher Education Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools was reaffirmed with commendation for ten years. In the 2006-07 academic year, the University will celebrate its Sesquicentennial recognizing 150 years of service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and beyond.

Edinboro is situated just 100 miles from the metropolitan areas of Cleveland, Buffalo and Pittsburgh, and less than 20 miles south of the city of Erie — Pennsylvania's fourth largest city. Meadville, the seat of Crawford County, is approximately 20 miles south of Edinboro.

The University's Baron-Forness Library has more than 480,000 bound volumes and 1.3 million micro-form units, along with an online catalog, access to numerous online databases and electronic reserves. The building is equipped with a wireless network, computer labs and equipment to assist users with visual impairments.

The main campus also includes a modern University Center, planetarium, observatory, reading clinic, speech and hearing clinic, science and robotics labs, writing center, numerous computer labs with the latest hardware and software, three art galleries, an animation studio, campus radio and television stations, health center, counseling center, and much more — all accessible for people with disabilities. The recently renovated and expanded Crawford Center for Health and Physical Education and Disability Resources rivals any facility of its kind in the nation.

In addition to a five-acre lake and wooded areas, there are 43 buildings on the spacious Edinboro Campus, including six residence halls with private or shared rooms, co-ed housing, honors housing, and living-learned floors — all are wired for voice, video and data.

Edinboro University also operates centers in Erie and Meadville. Edinboro University in Erie — The Porreco Center is a beautiful 27-acre campus that includes classrooms, a computer laboratory, and a unique facility for small conferences, business meetings, and special events. Edinboro University in Meadville is located in the city's historic Bessemer Building.

Dr. Frank G. Pogue

President, Edinboro University of PA

Frank G. Pogue was appointed the 15th president of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania on July 1, 1996.

A sociologist, Dr. Pogue holds a bachelor's degree from Alabama State University, a master's degree from Atlanta University, and a Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh.

Prior to his presidency at Edinboro University, Dr. Pogue was the vice chancellor for student affairs and special programs at the State University of New York (SUNY) Central Administration in Albany, serving in that position for 10 years. While vice chancellor, he also served for one year as interim president at the SUNY College at Cobleskill. Prior to his assignment in the SUNY Central Administration, President Pogue was vice president for student affairs, associate vice president for research and educational development, dean of undergraduate studies, and a department chairperson, all at SUNY at Albany.

Dr. Pogue participates in national, regional and statewide leadership groups. He serves as a member of the American Council on Education (ACE) Commission on Women in Higher Education. He is a member of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) Committee on Professional Development, Millennium Leadership Initiative and Christa McAuliffe Selection Committee. He was appointed in 2003 to the International Association of University Presidents Commission on Disarmament Education, Conflict Resolution and Peace. Since 1984, Dr. Pogue has served on the Commission on Higher Education Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools (MSA). Most recently, he served as President for the MSA Board of Trustees and as a member of its Executive Committee, and he is a former vice chair of the Commission's Executive Committee.

Dr. Pogue also serves on the Board of Trustees of the BACCHUS & GAMMA Peer Education Network. He served for two years as chairperson of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education (SSHE) Commission for the Universities and Commission of Presidents Executive Committee. In October 1996, Dr. Pogue was appointed by then Pennsylvania Governor Tom Ridge to the Governor's Commission on Academic Standards. In November 2002, he was appointed co-chair of the Higher Education Committee of Pennsylvania Governor Ed Rendell's Transition Team. In May, 2004, he was appointed to the Pennsylvania Department of Education Higher Education Advisory Board.

Dr. Pogue was honored by the Erie Area Chamber of Commerce with the Louis J. Tullio Community Service Award. The Greater Erie Community Action Committee (GECAC) honored him with the Paul P. Martin Community Service Award in 2000, and in 1999, the Distinguished Service Award for Leadership and Vision was presented to him by the SUNY at Albany Council of Trustees.

Since becoming president, Dr. Pogue has created the concept and philosophy of the Edinboro Family, a learner-centered environment where students come first and are an integral part of a caring and supportive campus community.
