THE CEREMONIAL MACE

The Ceremonial Mace, a symbol of presidential authority, is carried at the head of the academic procession by the College Marshal, Mr. James Harrison. A gift of the Alumni Association, the Mace was designed and executed by Dr. Seymour Blinderman, formerly of the art faculty, and Mr. Henry Katzwinkel. It was first used at the inauguration of Edinboro State College's thirteenth president, Chester T. McNerney in 1966.

The Mace, twenty-seven inches high, is topped by a sterling silver sphere studded by coneshaped rubies. The neck of the Mace is inlaid with rosewood, alternated with silver fleur-de-lis. Cultured pearls mounted on cups encircle the top of the shaft. Discs of silver interspersed with rosewood compose the shaft which ends with tip-casted silver. Sunken cultured pearls encircle a rounded cone with textured silver to end in a small globe.

THE PRESIDENTIAL MEDALLION

A symbol of presidential authority, the first Presidential Medallion was presented to Foster F. Diebold, Edinboro's fourteenth president, during the May 1981 Commencement ceremonies. It is permanently housed in the President's Office and presented to successive presidents. Designed and executed by Mr. Henry Katzwinkel, Assistant Professor of Art, the sterling silver Medallion consists of a three and one-half inch pectoral pendant featuring on its face the sunken crest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. On the reverse side is the figure of a Gordon Highlander with pipes. To the right of the piper is the Cross of St. Andrew. To the left is the Cross of England. Flanking the figure is the date 1857, the opening year of the College, and garland thistles. In the background are the hills of Scotland, and beneath the piper is an open book, an image of knowledge.

The pendant descends from a shield containing a triple-towered castle, the symbol of defense, protection, and strength. The collar of the medallion is comprised of a series of two-inch shields, alternately bearing three different designs: the meigle, an interlacing knotwork peculiar to the Pictish school of Celtic art; the Tудо rose design; and "ESC" in interlocking letters on a background of tabby weaving. Connecting each of the collar shields is a Cross of St. George, representing the union of Scotland and England. The entire medallion was fabricated and cast in the cire perdue (lost wax) process.

THE COLLEGE MARSHAL - MR. JAMES M. HARRISON

Carrying the Ceremonial Mace and leading the academic procession as College Marshal is Mr. James M. Harrison who recently retired from the Edinboro State College Student Personnel ranks. Harrison was appointed Dean of Men by the late President, Thomas R. Miller in August of 1960 and gave the College 22 years of service in that capacity as well as Coordinator of Student Standards.

The Edinboro native, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Regis B. "Sox" Harrison literally began his educational career on the Edinboro campus where he attended elementary school in Normal Hall. His father, "Sox", is a noted cornerstone of the College's athletic program and just two weeks ago became the first inductee in Edinboro's Athletic Hall of Fame.

After graduation from Edinboro High School in 1936, Harrison continued his education at Penn State University. His attendance there led to his first career in life as he pursued a degree in petroleum engineering and was awarded his diploma from Penn State in 1940.

Harrison then accepted a position with the Gulf Oil Corporation at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in the company's research and development division. While working with Gulf's new processes laboratory, he developed numerous patents involving his research in synthetic rubber, aviation field, consumer products derived from petroleum bases and the then "miracle fiber" - dacron.

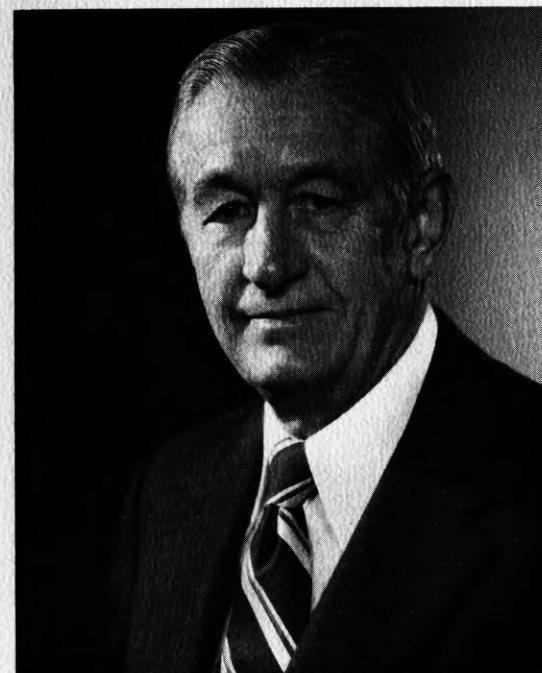

As a result of his work in these areas, the Gulf researcher published many articles for technical journals and lectured before professional organizations about the newly discovered processes with which he worked. During this span he was a member of the American Chemical Society, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and many other professional groups.

After returning to the area in 1952 when he operated his own business until 1957, Dean Harrison accepted his position with the College in 1960 and has been involved in almost all phases of college life at Edinboro. He established the College's student judicial system and has served on as many as 20 college committees in a single year while directing the areas of housing and financial aid. Training head residents and their assistants was still an additional responsibility which he addressed.

As a long-time Edinboro resident Harrison has been active in both community and county affairs. He is a member of the Erie County Motor Club board of directors and a board member for the county's Recreation and Cultural Affairs Committee. Locally he has served in the Edinboro Chamber of Commerce, the Lake Advisory Committee and various boards and commissions.

Harrison and his wife, Shirley (Swift), have two sons, Michael and David. Mike, a Penn State grad, is a teacher in Virginia's Fairfax County System and is also working on his doctorate at Vanderbilt. David, an Edinboro State graduate like his mother, is completing his doctorate at the University of Florida and is working in research and planning for the South Carolina State Department of Education.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER - CHARLES C. TILLINGHAST, JR.

Tillinghast, Jr., Managing Director in the Transportation Department of Merrill Lynch White Weld Capital Markets Group and Vice President in the Investment Banking Division of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Incorporated, will serve as guest speaker for today's spring commencement exercises. He began his legal career with the New York law firm of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight, and from 1938 to 1940 was New York County Deputy Assistant District Attorney under Thomas E. Dewey. In 1940 he joined the firm of Hughes, Richard, Hubbard and Ewing as an associate, and was a partner of this and its successor firms from 1942 to 1957.

In 1957, The Bendix Corporation appointed Mr. Tillinghast Vice President of International Operations and member of its Board of Directors.

Less than one month after joining Trans World Airlines in March of 1961 as President and Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Tillinghast was elected Chairman of the company and continued in that capacity until his retirement in December 1976. ## EDINBORO STATE COLLEGE PRESIDENT - FOSTER F. DIEBOLD

Foster F. Diebold was named Edinboro State College's 14th President on August 1, 1979. Since that time, he has brought a consistently bold vision to his guidance of the College's many-faceted services to northwestern Pennsylvania.

Noted for his extensive experience in the field of education management, President Diebold had previously served as President of the University of Alaska statewide system

His innovative efforts at Edinboro have taken many shapes. Most recently, he initiated a total reorganization of the College's various academic schools and administrative offices with a watchful eye upon fiscal responsibility and increased institutional responsiveness. In keeping with his policy of making maximum use of existing campus resources in higher education, he has imaginatively met the ever-changing needs brought about by new and emerging student interests and societal expectations.

Unique cooperative programs with area business and industry are also the result of President Diebold's revitalization of Edinboro State College. Among his favorite projects is the All-College Honors Program, which draws upon the contributions of college staff for its scholarship funds, and which recognizes the academic distinction of excellent students by offering specialized interdisciplinary coursework and advanced research work.

President Diebold's principal fields of professional interest include higher education management, governance, and planning; budget development and fiscal control; legislative liaison; and personnel management/collective bargaining. While at Rutgers University in 1963, he received a Wall Street Journal fellowship.

A native of Orange, New Jersey, he served as President of the University of Alaska from 1977-1979. Prior to that, he was executive secretary to the Board of Regents and Special Assistant to the President of the University of Alaska's statewide system. From 1969 to 1976, he was director of the Division of College Development at Kean College, New Jersey (formerly Newark State College), and from 1965 to 1969, he was Assistant Superintendent of Neptune Township Public Schools in New Jersey.

Edinboro's President holds an associate degree in Psychology from Monmouth Community College, West Long Branch, New Jersey; a bachelor of science in education from Monmouth College, a master of arts in educational administration from Seton Hall University; and he has met course requirements for his doctorate in education at Rutgers University.

President Diebold currently serves as Chairman of the Committee on Administration and Finance in the State College and University System of Pennsylvania and is a member of the Commission of Presidents Executive Committee. He holds membership on the American Association of State Colleges and Universities Committee on State Relations, and on the Government Relations Committee of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities. He is also a charter member of the World Future Society.

President Diebold's community service includes membership on the Board of Corporators, Hamot Medical Center in Erie, and on Marine Bank's Local Advisory Board. Recently he was a panel participant at the First Global Conference on the Future held in Toronto. He also serves as a member of The William J. McMannis and A. Haskell McMannis Educational Trust Fund Advisory Board, and Chairman of the Government, Education, and Social Agencies Division of the Erie County United Way Campaign.

The President and his wife, Patricia, have two daughters - six-year-old Jessica, and one-year-old Stacey.

EDINBORO STATE COLLEGE - REACHING OUT TO FULFILL NEEDS

For 125 years, the purpose of Edinboro State College has been to provide a quality program of higher education to the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as inexpensively as possible. As a private institution until 1913 and a state-owned college since then, Edinboro has been called upon to serve the community in a variety of ways. Most of the time it has succeeded in its purpose, occasionally it has fallen short, but all of the time it has tried.

During 1982, Edinboro State is celebrating the 125th anniversary of its founding as an academy in 1857. Edinboro has the distinction of being the second normal school established in Pennsylvania and the 12th in the United States. Situated on a sprawling 585-acre campus in the scenic resort community of Edinboro, the College has become one of the leading educational institutions in western Pennsylvania. It has grown to more than forty buildings including Baron-Forness Library, a modern seven-story structure which serves as a focal point for the campus. The College's tradition of educational service and research is enhanced by a distinguished faculty, more than two-thirds of whom have earned doctoral degrees.

While continuing its mission in teacher education, Edinboro has developed new programs in all aspects of arts, humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and the pure sciences. The College now offers more than 100 associate, baccalaureate, and graduate degree programs, a diversity unmatched by any other college or university in northwestern Pennsylvania. Recent program developments which have been most attractive to incoming students are those in the areas of allied health, business administration, communications, computer technology, nursing, and various pre-professional programs including law, dentistry, medicine, pharmacy, and veterinary science. Community college needs are also addressed by the institution through its unique associate degree programs in such areas as computer information processing, secretarial science, and general business.

Edinboro State College also offers an All-College Honors Program designed to encourage outstanding students to strive for academic excellence. The first Pennsylvania state college to develop an All-College Honors Program, Edinboro is the only institution in northwestern Pennsylvania to offer a general honors degree. Credits are earned through independent study, contracted projects in regular courses, and special honors classes.

Highly successful undergraduate internship programs in the arts, business and industry, education, health, and the media are additional examples of the College's efforts to create a close working relationship with the people it serves, while simultaneously offering students intellectual and career opportunities. The Institute for Community Services, through the Continuing Education Office, provides internships and consulting services to local, state, and national governmental agencies. The Physics Department has been granted use of research facilities at the Oakridge National Laboratory in Tennessee, while the College has cooperated with several other educational institutions to provide students with opportunities through college consortia. Field studies at Lew, Delaware, and Wallops Island, Virginia, are maintained by the Pennsylvania Marine Science Consortium to provide Edinboro students with courses in the biological, chemical, geological, and physical aspects of oceanography. In addition, science students have the Pymatuning Laboratory of Ecology located on the shores of the Pymatuning Reservoir situated within a wildlife sanctuary and propagation area managed by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Internships in psychology, social work, special education, and speech therapy are conducted in various local agencies. Speech and hearing students work with crippled children centers in Ashtabula and Andover, Ohio, and Erie, Pa. The psychology, sociology, and special education departments have students working as aides in the Sarah Reed Home for Children, the Harborcreek School for Boys, and the Gertrude Barber Exceptional Children's Center. Students in the medical technology and nursing programs use the facilities of Hamot, Greenville, Meadville City, and St. Vincent hospitals for their clinical experiences. The St. Vincent Mental Health Center has a satellite center located on the campus in which students obtain practicum experiences.

The College is continually striving to meet the needs of its constituents through its regular and special program offerings. In addition to PACE and evening school programs designed to meet the needs of working adults, Edinboro is also quite active in programs for the handicapped and the educationally disadvantaged. Noted as one of the few "wheelchair" campuses in the United States, Edinboro has been actively involved in opening doors for the handicapped since 1974. The College provides services to physically disabled students with varying degrees of severity as well as those who have visual or hearing impairments. Services range from personal care and academic aides who provide typing, notetaking, and writing services, to transportation.

As an economic institution, Edinboro's payroll, which included 677 employees during 1980, was $15.2 million. The College's presence was responsible for approximately 3,206 jobs, and when student employees were added, a total of 4,865 jobs resulted.

Employee expenditures include $1,415,000 in Millcreek, $1,720,000 in the City of Erie, and $725,000 in Meadville. Through a survey of random sampling of the Edinboro State undergraduate student body, estimates indicated that students' families spent approximately $1 million in visiting the campus, and of that amount $529,843 was spent in Edinboro itself.

It has also been estimated that 85,900 individuals attended athletic events on the Edinboro campus during the past year, while nearly 7,000 people from northwestern Pennsylvania attended cultural events.

Reflecting upon the College's historic and present role, President Foster Diebold, commented, "There are many ways to assess the tradition of an institution, but one of the criteria of which we are most proud is our on-going ability to attract and successfully educate students with a wide variance of academic abilities, interests, and needs. By diversifying itself over the years and by instituting necessary and appropriate programming, Edinboro State College has always fulfilled the kind of historic role which a public institution must fulfill - the intellectual, cultural, social, and career satisfaction of individuals who represent the full range of backgrounds and experiences."

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS AWARD - FRANK HAWTHORNE

Frank Hawthorne, a native of Cambridge Springs, Pennsylvania, graduated from Cambridge Springs High School in 1932, and from Edinboro State College in 1936, with a Bachelor of Science in Education. From 1938 to 1941, he taught math and science at Summit Township High School in Harmonsburg, Pennsylvania, and then taught at Alliance and Allegheny colleges. From 1944 to 1945 he taught at the University of California Department of War Research attached to the U.S. Navy Submarine Service. He received his Master of Arts degree in Mathematics in 1946 from Columbia University and taught for nine years at Hofstra College, Hempstead, New York. He was appointed Supervisor and Chief of the Bureau of Mathematics Education for the state of New York in 1956, and retired from that post in 1974. ## ACADEMIC VESTMENTS

The gown, the cap and the hood, representing the major components of the academic dress, are a ceremonial inheritance from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, where dress was the outward sign of privilege and responsibility. The academic dress worn by those participating in today's academic processional symbolizes the level of their academic attainment and the institution they attended.

Gown

Although the gown is more frequently black, certain universities have authorized the use of colored gowns. The bachelor and master gowns are fashioned from black serge. The yoke for the bachelor gown is designed to be worn closed and features long, flowing and pointed sleeves. The master gown is designed to be worn open or closed. Its sleeves are very long with square ends, and the front part has an arc cut away. The arms protrude through a slit at the elbow. The gown for the doctor degree is made of wool, serge, or silk with an open front faced with wide velvet panels. The sleeves are loose and bell-shaped with three bars of velvet in black or the color of the discipline in which the doctorate was obtained.

Hood

The most outstanding feature of the academic dress is the hood. It is usually worn only for the master's and the doctor's degrees. The doctor's hood is longer than the master's hood and has distinguished panels. The college or the university granting the degree is indicated by the color or coloring of the hood lining. The velvet trim of the hood indicates the field in which the degree was granted.

Cap

The standard cap is the mortarboard, usually the color of the gown. The tassel is black for the baccalaureate and master degree and is worn over the left front quarter of the cap. The tassel for the doctor's mortarboard is of gold thread. Undergraduates wear the tassel on the right side of the cap until the moment the degree is conferred by the president.

Because of the demand to meet a deadline to print this program and the short period of time between the end of classes, review of all academic programs, delays caused by such factors as illness of some students and evaluation by the Office of Academic Affairs, the College does not claim the list of degree candidates is absolutely accurate. Students are granted degrees only if they meet all academic and financial requirements.

ALMA MATER

*Hail to Thee, our Alma Mater Glorious,
Fresh Wreaths we bring to bind Thy brow
Trials have past and Thou has stood victorious
Never fairer never statelier than now,
O Edinboro, Edinboro
Ever praising Thee in song
While class speeds class as swift years pass to Thee our hearts belong.*
