The Ceremonial Mace

The Ceremonial Mace, a symbol of presidential authority, is carried at the head of the academic procession by the University Marshal, Dr. Robert Connors. A gift of the Alumni Association, the Mace was designed and executed by Henry Katzwinkel and Dr. Seymour Blinderman, former chairman of the Art Department. It was first used at the Inauguration of Edinboro State College President, Chester T. McNerney, in 1967.

The Mace, twenty-seven inches in length, is topped by a sterling silver sphere studded with circular cabachon rubies, secured by bezels. The collar of the Mace is inlaid with ebony, alternated with silver relief fleur-de-lis design elements. The cultured pearls mounted in cups encircle the bottom of the collar symbolizing the thirteen state colleges of Pennsylvania. The shaft of the Mace is composed of Brazilian Rosewood sections, separated by sterling silver rings. The mace is terminated by a cast sterling silver finial; the five cultured pearls represent the existing curriculums. The rib-like cone form is terminated by a small silver sphere symbolizing the world.

The metal working processes incorporated in the Ceremonial Mace include: turning, forging, inlaying, stone setting, and lost wax centrifugal casting.

The Presidential Medallion

A symbol of presidential authority, the first Presidential Medallion was presented to Foster F. Diebold during the May 1981 Commencement ceremonies. It is permanently housed in the President's Office and will be presented to successive presidents. Designed and executed by Mr. Henry Katzwinkel, assistant professor of art, the sterling silver Medallion consists of a three and one-half inch pectoral pendant featuring on its face the sunken crest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. On the reverse side is the figure of a Gordon Highlander with pipes. To the right of the piper is the Cross of St. Andrew. To the left is the Cross of England. Flanking the figure is the date 1857, the opening year of the University, and garland thistles. In the background are the hills of Scotland, and beneath the piper is an open book, an image of knowledge.

The pendant descends from a shield containing a triple-towered castle, the symbol of defense, protection, and strength. The collar of the medallion is comprised of a series of two-inch shields, alternately bearing three different designs: the meigle, an interlacing knotwork peculiar to the Pictish school of Celtic art; the Tудо rose design; and "ESC" in interlocking letters on a background of tabby weaving. Connecting each of the collar shields is a Cross of St. George, representing the union of Scotland and England. The entire medallion was fabricated and cast in the cire perdue (lost wax) process.

Academic Vestments

The gown, the cap and the hood, representing the major components of the academic dress, are a ceremonial inheritance from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, where dress was the outward sign of privilege and responsibility. The academic dress worn by those participating in today's academic processional symbolizes the level of their academic attainment and the institution they attended.

Gown

Although the gown is more frequently black, certain universities have authorized the use of colored gowns. The bachelor and master gowns are fashioned from black serge. The yoke for the bachelor gown is designed to be worn closed and features long, flowing and pointed sleeves. The master gown is designed to be worn open or closed. Its sleeves are very long with square ends, and the front part has an arc cut away. The arms protrude through a slit at the elbow. The gown for the doctor degree is made of wool, serge, or silk with an open front faced with wide velvet panels. The sleeves are loose and bell-shaped with three bars of velvet in black or the color of the discipline in which the doctorate was obtained.

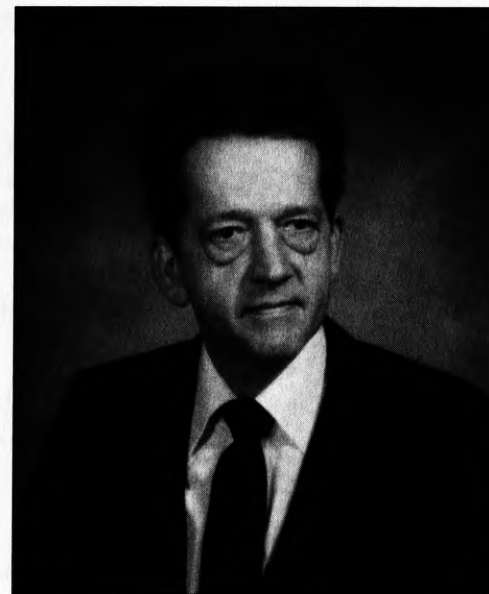

Hood

The most outstanding feature of the academic dress is the hood. It is usually worn only for the master's and the doctor's degrees. The doctor's hood is longer than the master's hood and has distinguished panels. The college or the university granting the degree is indicated by the color or coloring of the hood lining. The velvet trim of the hood indicates the field in which the degree was granted.

Cap

The standard cap is the mortarboard, usually the color of the gown. The tassel is black for the baccalaureate and master degree and is worn over the left front quarter of the cap. The tassel for the doctor's mortarboard is of gold thread. Undergraduates wear the tassel on the right side of the cap until the moment the degree is conferred by the president.

University Marshal

Dr. Robert Connors

Along with his teaching duties, Dr. Connors directed the elementary education program for 1,600 undergraduate and 400 graduate students. He was instrumental in the development of a College Demonstration School, a reading clinic, and a number of new programs in the area of elementary education.

Among the committees of which Dr. Connors has been a member are the Academic Council, Promotions Committee, Graduate Council, Teacher Education Council, and School of Education Council. He also served as chairman of the Curriculum Committee and president of the Faculty Association. Noted for his dedication to education, Dr. Connors has been listed in Who's Who in American Education, and he has received the Outstanding Educators of America Award and a Distinguished Service Award from Edinboro University.

A speaker at hundreds of teacher in-service groups, student groups, and workshops during the past 31 years, Dr. Connors served as consultant to schools and intermediate units throughout northwestern Pennsylvania and was a member of curriculum committees for several area school districts. He was advisor and contributor to the social studies series of "Our Greatest Challenge - The Value Crisis," co-author of a bilingual textbook, transparencies, filmstrip and study prints on Puerto Rico, and the author of a monograph on "Teaching the Basics in Social Studies."

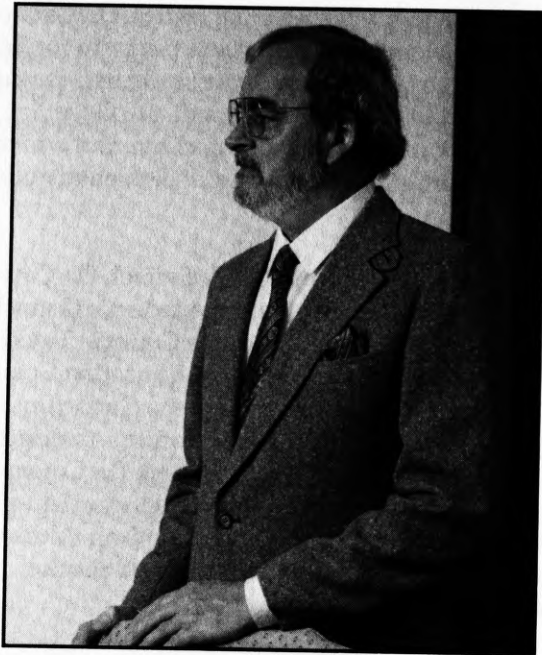

Dr. Connors has earned a high degree of respect from his colleagues and students through his strong dedication to the Edinboro University community over the past 31 years.

Carrying the Ceremonial Mace and leading the academic procession as University Marshal is Dr. Robert E. Connors, professor of elementary education.

Dr. Connors received a bachelor of science degree in elementary and secondary social studies and geography from Edinboro University in 1949, a master of science degree in earth sciences from the Pennsylvania State University in 1952, and a doctorate in education, also from Penn State, in 1959.

Prior to coming to Edinboro University, Dr. Connors taught social studies and geography in both elementary and secondary schools. During his distinguished career at Edinboro, he served four years in social studies and geography and 27 years in elementary education. As a full professor, he spent 16 years as chairman of the elementary education department. In addition, he held the position of director of student teaching and placement and supervised student teachers in elementary, secondary, and special curricula.

Edinboro University President

Foster F. Diebold

Since his appointment as President of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania on August 1, 1979, Foster F. Diebold has initiated a wide variety of policies and programs designed to complement his desire for an increased level of excellence and quality in higher education.

Noted for his extensive experience in the field of education management, President Diebold previously served as president of the University of Alaska Statewide System. His principal fields of professional interest include ethical issues in higher education, higher education management, budget development and fiscal control, legislative affairs, personnel management and collective bargaining, enrollment management and international education.

A native of Orange, New Jersey, President Diebold served as president of the University of Alaska from 1977 to 1979. Prior to that, he was executive secretary to the Board of Regents and special assistant to the president of the University of Alaska Statewide System. From 1969 to 1976, he was director of the Division of College Development and Planning at Kean College in New Jersey; and from 1965 to 1969, he was assistant superintendent of the Neptune Township Public Schools in New Jersey.

A graduate of Monmouth College, President Diebold also holds a bachelor of science in education and a master of arts in educational administration from Seton Hall University. He has met course requirements for his doctorate in education at Rutgers University and is currently enrolled in the Ph.D. program in higher education at the University of Pittsburgh.

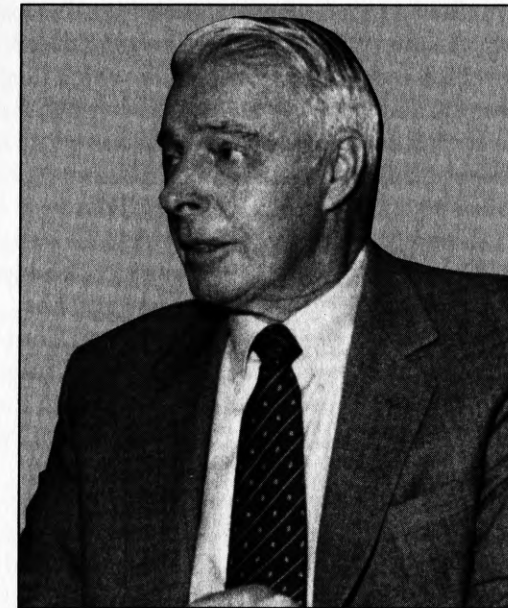

As national chairperson of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities' Committee on Governance, President Diebold developed a model Code of Ethics Statement for university presidents. The new policy was presented and unanimously approved at AASCU's annual meeting last fall. A contemporary expert in the field of higher education ethics, the President is frequently called upon to lecture on this subject.

President Diebold also serves as chairperson of the Advancement Committee of the Chancellor's Executive Council (State System of Higher Education). He is a member of the Western Pennsylvania Education Council and the International Association of University Presidents.

Active in the community, the President, among other activities, serves on the Board of Directors of the United Way of Erie County, the Board of Corporators of the St. Vincent Foundation for Health and Human Services, and the Advisory Board of the McMannis Educational Trust Fund. President Diebold is also a member of the Hamot Medical Center Board of Corporators, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Corporation Scholarship Review Committee, and the Marine Bank Advisory Board.

President Diebold resides in Edinboro with his wife, Patricia, and daughters, Jessica and Stacey.

Honorary Doctorate

Joseph Paul DiMaggio, Jr.

Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankees outfielder from 1936 until his retirement in 1951, was known for years for his powerful hitting and graceful fielding. Recognized worldwide as the "Yankee Clipper," he was named the most valuable player in the American League several times, as well as to 13 major league all-star teams.

Joseph Paul DiMaggio, Jr., the eighth of nine children, was born in Martinez, California, and raised in a Russian Hill flat in San Francisco. At 14, he received his first pay for playing baseball, an $8.00 merchandise order for playing a full season with a boys club league team and helping it win a championship. At 17, he joined the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League as their shortstop for the last three games of the season. The next year, he was the Seals' starting outfielder and batted .398, hit 34 home runs, helped his team win the championship, was voted the most valuable player in the Pacific Coast League, and had a 61-game hitting streak - the longest hitting streak in professional baseball history.

DiMaggio joined the New York Yankees in 1936. The rest is the legend and lore of baseball. In his rookie season, he batted .323 and had a .978 fielding percentage. Besides his impressive batting averages - .341 through his first seven seasons - he hit about 30 home runs a year, reaching 46 in his second season, and was noted for playing when in pain from injuries or illness. His 1941 record of hitting safely in 56 consecutive games stands to this day.

In 1943, he traded his $43,500 salary from the Yankees for a private's $50-a-month pay, and served 31 months in the U.S. Army. He returned to the Yankees' lineup in 1946, and had six more successful seasons until injuries forced his retirement in December 1951.

In 1948, DiMaggio wrote a book, Baseball for Everyone, in which he made the statement that a first-class outfielder should be able to race ahead of the ball and catch it over his shoulder. His ability to execute that move casually and gracefully brought him recognition in the baseball world. Another book to his credit is Lucky to be a Yankee (1946), a biography.

Many experts consider DiMaggio to be the best all-around baseball player in history. He excelled at every facet of the game. He was a sensational hitter - in both average and power - a splendid, graceful, "ballhawking" centerfielder, and a great thrower. He was a daring and alert base runner, a heads-up player who never missed a sign in his entire career, and a team leader.

DiMaggio was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1957 and was named the Greatest Living All-Time Baseball Player by the Baseball Writers Association of America in 1969. He was the recipient of the Silver Helmet Award to American Veterans in 1974 and the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1977.

For the exemplary and heroic character of his life, and for his continued community service and philanthropic activities in his native San Francisco, Joseph DiMaggio will be awarded the honorary degree, Doctor of Public Service, honoris causa, at today's commencement ceremony.

Commencement Speaker

Sister M. Lawreace Antoun, SSJ

Sister M. Lawreace Antoun is renowned for her work as an educator and humble servant of her Lord and humanity. A member of the faculty of Villa Maria College in Erie, Pennsylvania, throughout her professional career, Sister Lawreace has found ways to extend her influence in widening circles for the benefit of an international constituency.

She was born in Meadville, Pennsylvania, the daughter of George and Freda Antoun. She entered the Sisters of Saint Joseph in 1947 and professed her final vows in 1953.

Graduating from Villa Maria in 1959 with a bachelor of science degree, Sister Lawreace became an instructor of chemistry at the college while she completed her master's degree in 1959 from the University of Notre Dame and pursued doctoral studies. In 1965, Sister Lawreace became an assistant professor of chemistry at Villa Maria. She served on the faculty until 1966, when she was named president of the college. After 22 years in this position, she retired in August 1988, and today holds the distinguished title of president emerita of Villa Maria College.

During her tenure as president of Villa Maria, Sister Lawreace strived to achieve the highest possible quality of education for her students. Her approach was to give the students a sense of their own abilities and how to use these abilities for the betterment of both themselves and the environment in which they live. She has carried this philosophy into her own service in the community, the state, and the nation.

An indefatigable supporter of community services, she has served on the corporate boards of both Hamot Medical Center and Saint Vincent Health Center in Erie. She has repeatedly served leadership roles with the United Way of Erie County and has served as a member of the Erie Conference on Community Development and chairperson of the Conference's Education Task Force. Her commitment to the education of society for the improvement of social values is reflected in her membership on the Board of Trustees of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools, her service as chairperson of the Pennsylvania State Board of Education, and her receipt of the distinguished service award of the Pennsylvania Association of Adult Education.

Sister Lawreace's vision of an educated and committed citizenry has led her to leadership positions in long-range planning for both the Commonwealth and the church. From the Bishop's Task Force on Secondary Education to the Northwestern Pennsylvania Planning Council, even to the Screening Committee of the Pennsylvania Master Plan for Higher Education, she has answered the call and provided a vision of education that will bring out the best of the men and women of tomorrow's interactive community.

Sister Lawreace's achievements have not gone unnoticed. A recipient of honorary doctoral degrees from Gannon University and Marymount Manhattan College and the Alexis de Tocqueville award, her name can also be found among those listed in the International Who's Who of Women, Outstanding Educators of America, Who's Who in Religion, and Contemporary Personalities.

Sister M. Lawreace Antoun, SSJ, has given us long and distinguished service as a civic and religious leader, educator, and administrator. For her work and for her achievements, we offer her the honorary degree, Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, on behalf of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania and the greater community which we serve.

Retiring Faculty

The administration and staff of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania would like to take this opportunity to recognize those faculty members who are retiring during the 1988-89 academic year.

Dr. William Abplanalp earned a B.S. in mathematics education from Clarion University in 1959, an M.Ed. from Indiana University of Pennsylvania in 1963, and a Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh in 1972. He also completed graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, Rutgers, the University of Pennsylvania, San Jose State, and Penn State.

Upon graduation from Clarion University, Dr. Abplanalp was employed by Ridgway Area School District from 1959 until June 1966 teaching secondary mathematics. He began teaching at Edinboro in September 1966 and was assistant department chairman for two semesters. He served as consultant in individualized instruction in conjunction with the Northwest Tri-County Intermediate Unit.

Dr. Abplanalp is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the Pa. Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Pi Mu Epsilon, and the Doctoral Association of the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Jack Baker joined the Edinboro faculty in 1969 as professor of geology. Prior to that, he taught at Ohio University, Oklahoma State University, and the University of Illinois. He was a professional geologist for the Water Resources Division of the U.S. Geological Survey from 1951 to 1960, and before that, an elementary teacher in Hardy County, West Virginia. In addition, Dr. Baker served as director of the CCSS program in earth science funded by the National Science Foundation (1969) and as consultant for Liquid Chloride Company (1976-78).

Dr. Baker holds a bachelor of arts in geology from Princeton University, and both a master's and doctorate in geology from the University of Illinois.

A member of several University committees, Dr. Baker has published numerous articles on physical science.

Dr. Sam Bowne has served on the staff of Edinboro University since 1962 when he joined the faculty of the chemistry department. He holds a B.S. in chemistry from MIT, an M.A. in chemistry from Columbia University, an M.S. in biochemical genetics from Cornell University, and a Ph.D. in biochemical genetics from Cornell.

Prior to coming to Edinboro, Dr. Bowne served as associate professor at the University of Wichita (1959-61) and at Eastern Washington College (1957-59). He also served as a research associate in biochemistry at Ohio State University from 1961 to 1962.

A member of the American Chemical Society, the American Association of Advanced Science, and the Pennsylvania State College Chemists, Dr. Bowne has done extensive research and written numerous articles in the area of biochemical genetics.

A member of the psychology department since 1963, Dr. James Kennedy began his career as an assistant professor and was named associate professor in 1971. The recipient of a summer NSF grant in contemporary psychology at Beloit College (Wisconsin) and a summer NDEA grant in counseling psychology at Ohio State University, Dr. Kennedy earned a B.S. in education from California State College, an M.Ed. from the University of Pittsburgh, and a D.Ed. from Pitt. He has also earned a Pennsylvania counselor certificate and a Pennsylvania home and school visitor certificate.

Before joining the faculty at Edinboro, Dr. Kennedy served as a general science teacher, home school visitor, and guidance counselor at the California Community Schools in California, Pa., from 1954 to 1963.

Mr. John Mannino has served as associate professor in the department of field services since August 1968. He holds a B.A. in English from Gannon University (1950), an M.Ed. in special education from the University of Pittsburgh (1957), and an A.B.D. in special education administration from West Virginia University (1970). He has also earned certification in elementary and secondary special education.

Prior to coming to Edinboro, Mr. Mannino taught in the Erie School District from 1955 to 1968 and at Gannon and Mercyhurst (1969 and 1970). In addition to his role at Edinboro as supervisor of student teachers, he has served as a consultant to the Gertrude Barber Center in Erie and co-authored a life experience manual for the Center. A member of APSCUF, the National Education Association, and the Council of Exceptional Children, Mannino has attended numerous conferences and workshops on developmental studies and exceptional children.

Mr. Bill McDonald served as Edinboro's head football coach for ten years, from 1968 to 1978, and compiled an impressive 54-36-7 record. For the past eleven years, he has worked in the office of Career Counseling and Placement.

Prior to his assignment at Edinboro, Mr. McDonald served as assistant football coach at Indiana University of Pa. for three years and head coach at Hopewell High School from 1958 to 1965.

Mr. McDonald holds both a bachelor of science in education and a master's in education from the University of Cincinnati where he played linebacker. Following graduation from Cincinnati in 1952, he continued his education in post-graduate work at Penn State, Pitt and Indiana (Pa.).

Dr. Gus Miller, professor of mathematics at Edinboro from 1968-71 and 1981 to the present, also served as a systems analyst in the computer center (1971-72), assistant director of institutional research (1972-80), and developmental studies counselor (1976-79).

He holds a B.A. in chemistry and psychology from Pomona College (CA), an M.Ed. in counseling from Temple University, a Ph.D. in educational psychology and statistics from the University of Southern California, an A.B.D. and an M.S. in mathematics from the University of Illinois, and certification in Cobol and systems analysis from RCA Computer School (NY). A veteran of the U.S. Air Force, Miller taught mathematics in the Los Angeles School District (1953-57), at Western Illinois University (1957-60), Towson State University (1960-61), Parsons College (1961-65), the University of California at Santa Barbara (1964 summer), Wisconsin State University (1965-66), and Tennessee Technological University (1966-68) before coming to Edinboro.

The recipient of several grants and the author of numerous studies and articles, Dr. Miller is probably best known for his work in the area of smoking and longevity. He has conducted "Stop Smoking" clinics since 1974 and presented seminars on smoking and health at the University of London (1985); the University of Mainz, West Germany (1985); and the Ministry of Health, West Berlin (1987).

Dr. Alfred Pannbacker joined the Edinboro geography department in 1966. He earned a bachelor of science in geography at Florida State University and completed additional undergraduate work at the U.S. Maritime School, the University of Maryland (Libya), University of Miami, Los Angeles Valley Junior College, and the University of Michigan. He holds a master's degree and a doctorate in geography from the University of Michigan.

Prior to coming to Edinboro, Dr. Pannbacker taught in the U.S. Air Force, at Dexter Public Schools in Michigan, the University of Michigan, East Texas State University, Florida State University and East Carolina State College.

Mr. Wayne Peterson has served as professor of art since 1966 when he joined the Edinboro faculty. He has studied art at George Washington University, Maryland Institute of Art, Allegheny College, the University of Buffalo, and the Cleveland Institute of Art and holds an M.F.A. in painting from George Washington University. Prior to coming to Edinboro, he taught art at Aberdeen High School in Maryland (1953-56) and Northwood High School in Silver Spring, Md. (1956-66).

During his career at Edinboro, he has served as coordinator of the Festival for the Visual and Performing Arts, assistant chairman and interim chairman of the art department, and chairman of the 2-D area. Active in the community, he has been curriculum consultant for Warner Press; world service representative for the Church of God at Anderson, Indiana; a lecturer at churches in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Maryland, Virginia, Florida, California, to name a few; and commissioned painter for the Centennial Committee of the Church of God of Western Pennsylvania.

Dr. Beulah Polley, professor of elementary education, joined the Edinboro faculty in 1967 as a reading instructor on the main campus and Edinboro's Warren campus. Prior to coming to Edinboro, she taught at the Market Street School in Warren, Central High School in Colorado, Natrona County Schools, and Center Junior High School in Illinois.

Along with her classroom duties at Edinboro, Dr. Polley supervised graduate assistants, taught Reading of American Short Stories to students in the People's Republic of China, and supervised student teachers in Honduras.

Dr. Polley earned a bachelor of arts in remedial reading from the University of Montana, a master of arts in reading from the University of North Colorado, and a doctorate in college reading from Walden University.

Dr. Robert Polley has been a member of the Edinboro anthropology department for 22 years. Prior to that, he taught at Northern Colorado University, Northern Illinois University, and at high schools in Wyoming, Illinois, Montana, and Kentucky.

As a professor at Edinboro, Dr. Polley developed several anthropology courses and taught 14 different classes. A member of several different regional and national professional associations, he has attended conferences of the Southern Anthropological Society, the Central States Anthropological Society, and the American Anthropological Association.

Dr. Polley earned a bachelor of arts in history from Morehead State University, a master of arts in history from Northern Illinois University, and a doctorate in educational anthropology from the University of Northern Colorado.

Mr. Jack Tohtz, department of English and theatre arts, has been a faculty member at Edinboro since 1963. He earned a B.A. in English at Washington University in St. Louis (1949) and an M.A. in English at the University of Minnesota (1953).

The author of numerous articles on writing and instruction, Mr. Tohtz has published in College Composition and Communication, Exercise Exchange, Elementary English, University College Quarterly, The Education Forum, and Pennsylvania School Journal.

He was director of Project 1750, funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to examine the effectiveness of programmed instruction in the teaching of English composition.

Mr. Robert Waterstripe joined the music department faculty as professor of voice in 1969. Prior to coming to Edinboro, he served as producer, news director, and announcer for WIAA radio in Interlochen, Michigan. During his 20 years at Edinboro, Mr. Waterstripe has nurtured hundreds of voice students, many of whom fondly remember his patience and dedication.

Mr. Waterstripe is widely known and respected for his numerous solo recital, oratorio, and opera performances on campus and throughout the region. He was soloist with the Pittsburgh Chamber Orchestra's presentation of King David at Edinboro, performed as soloist with the Erie Philharmonic Orchestra and with various choral groups in the Erie area. Graduates of Edinboro University will long remember his participation in the Commencement ceremonies through the singing of the National Anthem and the Alma Mater and many will remember his voice on numerous promotionals aired by the University.

Aside from his memorable solo performances, he will also be remembered for his work in speech.

Dr. Burton Witthuhn, provost and vice president for academic affairs from 1984 to 1988, joined the faculty as chairman of the geography department in 1970. He also held the positions of acting vice president for academic affairs and associate vice president for academic affairs at Edinboro. A Fulbright-Hays and National Science Foundation Fellow, he holds a B.S. in geography and mathematics from Kutztown University of Pennsylvania, and an M.S. in education and a Ph.D. in geography from The Pennsylvania State University.

Prior to coming to Edinboro, Dr. Witthuhn was director of the International Studies Program - Africa, and a member of the geography faculty at Ohio State University. He was also a teacher in the Allentown (Pa.) public schools.

Witthuhn is a member of the American Management Association, the American Association for Higher Education, and has been a member of the executive board of the National Council for Geographic Education. He also served as a past president of the Edinboro Rotary Club, and a member of the executive board of the French Creek Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Dr. Witthuhn is currently provost and academic vice president at Western Illinois University.

ALMA MATER

*Hail to thee, our Alma Mater glorious;
Fresh wreaths we bring to bind thy brow.
Trials have passed and thou has stood victorious;
Never fairer, never statelier than now.
O Edinboro, Edinboro,
Ever praising thee in song;
While class speeds class as swift years pass,
To thee our hearts belong.*
