EDINBORO UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

Dr. Michael J. Hannan

Michael J. Hannan became the interim president of Edinboro University in the spring of 2018, after serving as Edinboro’s provost since 2014. Hannan brings his 30 years of experience to the Office of the President at Edinboro, where he first joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1988 and later served for eight years as chair of the Department of Business and Economics. He was named interim provost in 2012 and provost two years later.

Dr. Hannan began his tenure at Edinboro as an assistant professor of economics and quantitative analysis, where his teaching centered on economic theory, applied statistics, modeling and forecasting. He was promoted to associate professor in 1991 and to professor in 1994.

He served as chair of the Business and Economics Department from 1999 to 2007. He also served as associate dean of both the School of Science, Management & Technology, and the College of Arts & Sciences. He was named the founding dean of Edinboro’s School of Business in 2011.

As Edinboro’s provost, Dr. Hannan implemented a data-driven, holistic review of all academic programs, resulting in significant changes to program offerings and the development of multiple student and employer demand-driven programs. He collaborated with leadership in enrollment management in the design and implementation of a plan for raising admission standards at the University and launched the Center for Faculty Excellence to support faculty professional development. He has held a variety of leadership roles at the University, including currently serving as chair of the Planning for Instructional Technology Committee.

Dr. Hannan earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in economics with a minor in political science from the University of Pittsburgh. He earned a Ph.D. in mineral resource economics from West Virginia University, with a specialty in regional economics and economic modeling. His research interests are in the areas of pedagogy, economic modeling, forecasting and macroeconomics.

He has published in the Pennsylvania Economic Review and the International Regional Science Review, the International Journal of Business and Social Science, and The Prison Journal, among others. He also was named Reviewer of the Year for 2009 by the Journal of the Northeastern Association of Business, Economics & Technology.

Dr. Hannan has been a long-time member of the Board of Directors for the Pennsylvania Economic Association and served as the association’s president in 2004-2005.

“As a campus community, we will build on our recent progress on many important initiatives to ensure that we continue to provide a great value for the working-class students and families we serve,” Hannan said. “For 160 years, Edinboro has transformed the lives of generations of students through access to quality higher education, and we will continue that work for many years to come.”

MACE BEARER

Dr. Timothy Neal Thompson

Leading the academic procession and representing his faculty colleagues by carrying the Ceremonial Mace at today's Undergraduate Commencement is Dr. Timothy Thompson, chairperson of Edinboro University's Department of Communication, Journalism, and Media.

Dr. Thompson's distinction as Mace Bearer is symbolic of the central role that faculty play in the academic and personal development of Edinboro University students. The University recognized Dr. Thompson's impressive commitment to his students by naming him Faculty Member of the Year in 2018.

Dr. Thompson earned his Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and Ph.D. in Communication from Bowling Green State University (1978-86), where he focused on organizational communication and innovation. His dissertation was a study of culture and creativity in news-making. While at Bowling Green, he was a columnist and cartoonist for the student newspaper, The BG News, and began a lifelong interest in organizing events.

Prior to joining Edinboro University in 1990, Dr. Thompson taught at Central Michigan University and held a one-year visiting professorship at Kent State University. At Edinboro, his graduate and undergraduate students created the Edinboro Highland Games & Scottish Festival in 1992, with Dr. Thompson as founding director. His students are involved in the planning and implementation of several other events, including the Big Wish for Make-A-Wish. Dr. Thompson advises the Applied Communicators of Edinboro (ACE), the Men's and Women's Ultimate Frisbee teams, and the University's Disc Golf Association. He is co-coordinator of Edinboro University's Scotland Study Abroad Program, and has led several trips with Edinboro University students and faculty to Scotland.

Dr. Thompson's research interests and publications deal with organizational communication and the social construction of mind. His recent textbook publications include Making Your Mind: Communication and Social Influence (2015) and Communication, Organization, Adaptation: Mindfulness in Organizing (2018). This year he delivered short courses at national and regional conferences with Edinboro professor Dr. Melissa Gibson, and Dr. David Neumann of RIT, titled "Teaching organizational communication with the marketplace simulation."

During his Edinboro career, Dr. Thompson has taught Public Speaking, Communication & Social Influence, Organizational Communication, Consulting, and Conflict Management, among others.

Tim and his wife, Dee Dee, live in Edinboro where they raised five children – Ryan, Aly, Kenny, Quinn and Shea – and now treasure three grandchildren. Dr. Thompson enjoys writing, painting, disc golf, yoga, and hiking with his dog, Buddy.

Throughout Dr. Thompson's 28-year career as an educator at Edinboro University, he has served the entire University community with distinction. He exemplifies the dedication and commitment of our faculty to educational excellence and to our students' success.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Xavier Williams

Xavier Williams serves as the President of Public Sector and Wholesale Solutions for AT&T Services, Inc. He is a 1989 graduate of Edinboro University, where he earned a degree in Business Administration and a minor in Mathematics. While at Edinboro, Williams also played basketball for the Fighting Scots.

In his role as President, he has end-to-end responsibility for AT&T Government clients at the federal, state and local levels, as well as education customers and wholesale customers globally.

Throughout his AT&T career, Williams has worked in various disciplines including finance, product management, business planning, sales, human resources and customer service. He has achieved extensive leadership experience through serving in a variety of executive positions. Most recently, Williams served as President of AT&T's Business Operations.

As President of Business Operations, Williams owned the end-to-end service experience. He derived operational efficiencies to deliver a predictive customer experience for the company's 3.5 million business customers in nearly 200 countries and territories. His responsibilities included pre-sale and post-sale operations functions for enterprise customers worldwide.

Williams has also served the company as President, National Business; Executive Vice President, Global Customer Service; Senior Vice President, Service Management; Senior Vice President, Public Sector & Healthcare; Senior Vice President, Business Communications Services; Federal Sales Vice President for AT&T Government Solutions; and HR Training Vice President. His leadership approach places a strong focus on improving the customer experience and on leading and motivating people.

Williams has received numerous awards and recognition including Edinboro University's Distinguished Alumni Award, the AT&T Corporation Chairman's Diversity Award, NELI Eagle Award, USA Freedom Corporation for Dedication to Volunteer Services, Diversity MBA Top 100 under 50 Executive Leaders, and Savoy Top 100 Most Influential Blacks in Corporate America.

Throughout his career, Williams has been involved in various board activities including Make-A-Wish America Foundation, Urban League of Pittsburgh, AT&T Foundation, Pennsylvania's State System of Higher Education Foundation, Jarvis Christian College, National Sales Network, AT&T University, and Asian Pacific Islanders for Professional & Community Advancement.

A native of Washington, D.C., Williams earned his MBA from the University of Pittsburgh following his academic career at Edinboro University.

To graduating Edinboro University students, Williams offers the following advice: "Know that whatever your mind can conceive and believe, you can achieve. Set big hairy audacious goals for yourself and work towards achieving them. Don't be scared to be great."

While every effort is made to ensure accuracy in this Commencement program, printing deadlines may result in omission of some names and use of names of persons not completing graduation requirements as intended. This printed program, therefore, should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status. The University's official registry for conferral of degrees is the student's permanent academic record, maintained by the office of Records and Registration.

THE CEREMONIAL MACE

The ceremonial mace, a symbol of presidential authority, is carried at the head of the academic procession by the Mace Bearer. A gift of the Alumni Association, the mace was designed and executed by Professor Henry Katzwinkel and Dr. Seymour Blinderman, former chairman of the Art Department. It was first used at the inauguration of Edinboro State College by President Chester T. McNerney, in 1967.

The mace, twenty-seven inches in length, is topped by a sterling silver sphere studded with circular cabochon rubies, secured by bezels. The collar of the mace is inlaid with ebony, alternated with silver relief fleur-de-lis design elements. Cultured pearls mounted in cups encircle the bottom of the collar. The shaft of the mace is composed of Brazilian rosewood sections, separated by sterling silver rings. The mace is terminated by a cast sterling silver finial; the five cultured pearls represent the existing curricula. The rib-like cone form is terminated by a small silver sphere symbolizing the world.

The metal working processes incorporated in the ceremonial mace include turning, forging, inlaying, stone setting, and lost wax centrifugal casting.

PRESIDENTIAL MEDALLION

The first presidential medallion was presented to former President Foster F. Diebold during the May 1981 Commencement ceremonies. Designed and executed by Professor Henry Katzwinkel, the sterling silver medallion consists of a three and one-half inch pectoral pendant featuring on its face the figure of a Gordon Highlander with pipes. To the right of the piper is the Cross of St. Andrew. To the left is the Cross of England. Flanking the figure is the date 1857, the opening year of the University, and garland thistles. In the background are the hills of Scotland, and beneath the piper is an open book, a symbol of knowledge. On the reverse side is the sunken crest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The pendant descends from a shield containing a triple-towered castle. The collar of the medallion is comprised of a series of two-inch shields, alternately bearing three different designs: the meigle, an interlacing knotwork peculiar to the Pictish school of Celtic art; the Tudor rose design; and “ESC” in interlocking letters on a background of tabby weaving. Connecting each of the collar shields is a Cross of St. George, representing the union of Scotland and England. The entire medallion was fabricated and cast in the cire perdue (lost wax) process.

Surrounding the silver medallion is a gold crafted circle which reads “Edinboro University of Pennsylvania.” Professor Katzwinkel added this piece to the medallion especially for the Inauguration of President Frank G. Pogue in 1997, and it is now a permanent fixture to the medallion representing the school’s status as a University.

ACADEMIC VESTMENTS

The gown, the cap, and the hood, representing the major components of the academic dress, are a ceremonial inheritance from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, where dress was the outward sign of privilege and responsibility. The academic dress worn by those participating in today’s academic processional symbolizes the level of their academic attainment and the institution they attended.

Gown

Although the gown is more frequently black, certain universities have authorized the use of colored gowns. The bachelor’s and master’s gowns are fashioned from black serge. The yoke for the bachelor’s gown is designed to be worn closed and features long, flowing and pointed sleeves. The master’s gown is designed to be worn open or closed. Its sleeves are very long with square ends, and the front part has an arc cut away. The arms protrude through a slit at the elbow. The gown for the doctor’s degree is made of wool, serge, or silk with an open front faced with wide velvet panels. The sleeves are loose and bell-shaped with three bars of velvet in black or the color of the discipline in which the doctorate was obtained.

Cap

The standard cap is the mortarboard, usually the color of the gown. The tassel is black for the baccalaureate and master’s degree and is worn over the left front quarter of the cap. The tassel for the doctor’s mortarboard is of gold thread. Undergraduates wear the tassel on the right side of the cap until the moment the degree is conferred by the president.

Hood

The most outstanding feature of the academic dress is the hood. It is usually worn only for the master’s and the doctor’s degrees. The doctor’s hood is longer than the master’s hood and has distinguished panels. The college or the university granting the degree is indicated by the color of the hood lining. The velvet trim of the hood indicates the field in which the degree was granted.

Dr. Andrew R. Smith

Leading the academic procession and representing his faculty colleagues by carrying the Ceremonial Mace at today's Graduate Commencement is Dr. Andrew R. Smith, head of the Communication Studies graduate program at Edinboro University.

Dr. Smith's distinction as Mace Bearer is symbolic of the central role that faculty play in the academic and personal development of Edinboro University students.

Dr. Smith earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Speech Communication at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, in 1976, and his Master of Science degree in 1977. He completed his Ph.D.

in Rhetoric and the Philosophy of Communication at Southern Illinois University in 1990, where he was a doctoral fellow. He received the SIU-C College of Communication and Fine Arts Dissertation Research Award in 1989.

Working in social service for three years after receiving his master's degree, Dr. Smith then accepted a position with the Special Projects Team at the Tokyo Center for Language and Culture, where he designed and taught intensive English and Communication programs for Japanese businesspeople from 1981-84. He taught at the University of Washington, Lewis and Clark College, Southern Illinois University, and Villanova University before coming to Edinboro in 1993.

Dr. Smith served as graduate program head for the Communication Studies program and has coordinated the Graduate Certificate in Conflict Management since 2007. He was awarded Advisor of the Year in 2009 and was a finalist for both the Scholar of the Year and the Faculty of the Year awards. He is a founding member of the North Africa, West Asia (NAWA) Studies Committee on campus that has organized panels and talks on pressing issues on the Middle East since 2002.

Dr. Smith was inaugurated as a Fellow in the International Communicology Institute in 2009 and was the recipient of the Donald Ecroyd Award for Research and Scholarship from the Pennsylvania Communication Association in 2016. For the 1998-99 academic year, he served as Senior Fulbright Fellow in Communication and Culture at the Faculty of Letters, Mohammed V University in Rabat, Morocco, and is a member of the Research Group on Language, Culture, and Development at the Centre for Doctoral Research there. In the summer of 2011, he was a Fulbright Specialist at the Centre.

Dr. Smith's 20 years of research, teaching and traveling in and around Morocco were made possible initially by a study-abroad program in 1996, sponsored by Edinboro University's Global Education Office. He has received numerous grants since that time from the University and other agencies.

Dr. Smith's career as a professor and scholar continues to impact the lives of thousands of individuals, students and colleagues, the Edinboro University community and the Erie County area with distinction. He exemplifies the dedication and commitment of our faculty to educational excellence and to our students' success.

CORDS DISTINCTIVE OF GRADUATE HONORS

Alpha Epsilon Lambda – Red and Gray

Alpha Epsilon Lambda (AEL) recognizes the academic and leadership accomplishments of graduate and professional school students. The name is based upon the society's mission of recognizing Academic Excellence and Leadership.

Chi Sigma Iota - Epsilon Chi Chapter – Blue and White

Chi Sigma Iota (CSI), an international honor society, values and recognizes academic and professional excellence in counseling. The organization promotes a strong professional identity through professional counselors, counselor educators, and students who contribute to the realization of a healthy society by fostering wellness and human dignity.

◦ = Students attending from Fall 2017

* = Students who will complete their degree requirements during Summer 2018

While every effort is made to ensure accuracy in this Commencement program, printing deadlines may result in omission of some names and use of names of persons not completing graduation requirements as intended. This printed program, therefore, should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status. The University's official registry for conferral of degrees is the student's permanent academic record, maintained by the office of Records and Registration.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

Presentation of diplomas takes time and yet has special significance for each individual and family. Members of the audience are asked to remain in their seats until the end of the ceremony so that they do not disrupt the program or interfere with the special moments of others. Commencement is our most important occasion, and we ask you to respect its significance to the University community and to those who are being honored.

Professional photographers have been employed to photograph each graduate receiving a diploma. To avoid congestion and to maintain decorum in the ceremony, we ask that family members refrain from approaching the platform to take pictures.

Thank you for your cooperation. We hope that you will enjoy the ceremony and celebrate the achievements of our students.

PLEASE TAKE OUR SURVEY!

Your feedback is valuable, as we seek to provide the best possible experience to those who attend our Commencement ceremonies.

We appreciate your help! #GoBoro

For your safety, please make note of the location of your nearest exit. McComb Fieldhouse has four (4) exits, one (1) on each side of the stage and two (2) at the rear of the gymnasium.

A Safety Marshal is stationed at each of these exits. In the event that you need assistance or have an emergency, please notify the nearest Safety Marshal. In the event that we must evacuate the building, please use the nearest exit and assemble at our evacuation point in the rear parking lot. For all other emergencies, specific instructions will be announced.

The Campus Bookstore, located on the lower level of the Frank G. Pogue Student Center, will be open today from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The Commencement ceremony will be filmed and streamed via Edinboro Now's YouTube channel: YouTube.com/edinborotv. DVDs can be purchased from Edinboro University Television following the ceremony or online at eupdvd.com.
