The Ceremonial Mace

The ceremonial mace, a symbol of presidential authority, is carried at the head of the academic procession by the University Marshal, J. Roland Lafferty. A gift of the Alumni Association, the mace was designed and executed by Professor Henry Katzwinkel and Dr. Seymour Blinderman, former chairman of the Art Department. It was first used at the inauguration of Edinboro State College President Chester T. McNerney, in 1967.

The mace, twenty-seven inches in length, is topped by a sterling silver sphere studded with circular cabochon rubies, secured by bezels. The collar of the mace is inlaid with ebony, alternated with silver relief fleur-de-lis design elements. The cultured pearls mounted in cups encircle the bottom of the collar symbolizing the thirteen state colleges of Pennsylvania. The shaft of the mace is composed of Brazilian rosewood sections, separated by sterling silver rings. The mace is terminated by a cast sterling silver finial; the five cultured pearls represent the existing curricula. The rib-like cone form is terminated by a small silver sphere symbolizing the world.

The metal working processes incorporated in the ceremonial mace include turning, forging, inlaying, stone setting, and lost wax centrifugal casting.

The Presidential Medallion

A symbol of presidential authority, the first presidential medallion was presented to Foster F. Diebold during the May, 1981 commencement ceremonies. It is permanently housed in the president's office and will be presented to successive presidents. Designed and executed by Mr. Henry Katzwinkel, professor of art, the sterling silver medallion consists of a three and one-half inch pectoral pendant featuring on its face the sunken crest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. On the reverse side is the figure of a Gordon Highlander with pipes. To the right of the piper is the Cross of St. Andrew. To the left is the Cross of England. Flanking the figure is the date 1857, the opening year of the University, and garland thistles. In the background are the hills of Scotland, and beneath the piper is an open book, symbol of knowledge.

The pendant descends from a shield containing a triple-towered castle, the symbol of defense, protection, and strength. The collar of the medallion is comprised of a series of two-inch shields, alternately bearing three different designs: the meigle, an interlacing knotwork peculiar to the Pictish school of Celtic art; the Tudor rose design; and "ESC" in interlocking letters on a background of tabby weaving. Connecting each of the collar shields is a Cross of St. George, representing the union of Scotland and England. The entire medallion was fabricated and cast in the cire perdue (lost wax) process.

Academic Vestments

The gown, the cap, and the hood, representing the major components of the academic dress, are a ceremonial inheritance from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, where dress was the outward sign of privilege and responsibility. The academic dress worn by those participating in today's academic processional symbolizes the level of their academic attainment and the institution they attended.

Gown

Although the gown is more frequently black, certain universities have authorized the use of colored gowns. The bachelor's and master's gowns are fashioned from black serge. The yoke for the bachelor's gown is designed to be worn closed and features long, flowing and pointed sleeves. The master's gown is designed to be worn open or closed. Its sleeves are very long with square ends, and the front part has an arc cut away. The arms protrude through a slit at the elbow. The gown for the doctor's degree is made of wool, serge, or silk with an open front faced with wide velvet panels. The sleeves are loose and bell-shaped with three bars of velvet in black or the color of the discipline in which the doctorate was obtained.

Hood

The most outstanding feature of the academic dress is the hood. It is usually worn only for the master's and the doctor's degrees. The doctor's hood is longer than the master's hood and has distinguished panels. The college or the university granting the degree is indicated by the color of the hood lining. The velvet trim of the hood indicates the field in which the degree was granted.

Cap

The standard cap is the mortarboard, usually the color of the gown. The tassel is black for the baccalaureate and master's degree and is worn over the left front quarter of the cap. The tassel for the doctor's mortarboard is of gold thread. Undergraduates wear the tassel on the right side of the cap until the moment the degree is conferred by the president.

University Marshal

J. Roland Lafferty

Carrying the ceremonial mace and leading the academic procession at today's Commencement ceremony is J. Roland (Pete) Lafferty, assistant professor in the department of Art.

Since 1965, Lafferty has served as a teacher of graduate and undergraduate courses in numerous art subjects including ceramics, fibers, weaving, design, drawing, painting, sculpture, photography and art education.

A native of the Canadohta Lake area of Crawford County, Mr. Lafferty received a bachelor of science degree from Edinboro University in 1958. He later earned a master's degree in art education and a master of fine arts degree in ceramics from the Pennsylvania State University. He has also done post-graduate work at Alfred University, the Cleveland Institute of Art, and West Virginia University.

Mr. Lafferty held several educational positions prior to joining the Edinboro faculty in 1965. He was principal of the elementary school in New Richmond and taught art in Spartansburg and Jamestown, Pennsylvania. He also taught at Thiel College in Greenville, Pennsylvania, for three years.

During the course of a long and productive artistic career, Mr. Lafferty's works have been selected for many exhibitions. His art has appeared in shows at Allegheny College; the Butler Institute of American Art in Youngstown, Ohio; the Clay Place Gallery in Pittsburgh; East Carolina University; Gannon University; Glass Growers Gallery in Erie; Island Arts in Virginia; Keuka College; Meadville Council on the Arts; Thiel College National Invitational Ceramic Show; and West Virginia University. The Everson Museum of Art in Syracuse has Mr. Lafferty's work in its permanent collection.

Mr. Lafferty has conducted seminars on Native American Art in Santa Fe, New Mexico, and led workshops in ceramics at the College of Wooster in Ohio. Featured in articles in American Ceramics and Showcase and the Arts, he has been involved with craft fairs as a ceramics demonstrator and has presented cultural enrichment programs for schools and public television. He has also conducted workshops in photography and fibers.

Mr. Lafferty lives in Meadville with his wife, Patricia, a former psychiatric nurse. Their daughter, Cynthia, is an art teacher in Meadville, and their son, Jeffrey, is a computer programmer for the tooling and machining industry.

President Foster F. Diebold

Foster F. Diebold

Now in his 16th year as president of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, Foster F. Diebold is the fourteenth chief executive officer of the institution of higher learning that has come to acclaim in the last decade as one of Pennsylvania's and the nation's finest. He has brought a vigorous educational and moral leadership, a strengthening of the spirit of community, a clear sense of direction and purpose, and a dimension of multicultural pluralism and diversity.

Much has been accomplished during President Diebold's tenure. The University has returned to financial health. Significant facilities and grounds improvements have been achieved, with several of the historic structures on campus restored to their original splendor. Academic programs have been emphasized and improved, with more than 100 degree offerings now available. Enrollment gains have been unprecedented in both numbers and academic quality. International linkages have been established with institutions in several other countries, and Edinboro University's program for students with disabilities continues to garner acclaim as one of the finest among all colleges and universities in the United States. Widely recognized as a leader in education both here and abroad, President Diebold has positioned Edinboro University to meet the challenges of the 1990s, as well as those that will face public higher education in the 21st century.

The Orange, New Jersey, native is a graduate of Monmouth College and also holds a master of arts in educational administration from Seton Hall University. He has met coursework requirements for a doctorate in education at Rutgers University and is currently completing the dissertation requirement for the Ph.D. program in higher education at the University of Pittsburgh.

Prior to his presidency of Edinboro University, President Diebold was president of the University of Alaska from 1977 to 1979. Before that, he was executive secretary to the Board of Regents and special assistant to the president of the University of Alaska Statewide System. From 1969 to 1976, he was director of Development and Planning at Kean College in New Jersey and a member of the graduate faculty at that institution; and from 1965 to 1969, he was assistant superintendent of the Neptune Township (New Jersey) Public Schools.

Recognized for his extensive experience in the field of education management, President Diebold's scholarly achievements in the discipline of applied ethics in higher education deserve special mention. The model statement he authored for the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, "Ethical Practices for College Presidents," was unanimously adopted by that professional organization and published as policy for the chief executives of its nearly 400 member institutions nationwide. It is the first formally adopted ethical practices and policy statement for higher education presidents.

For his leadership on an international scale and for his many contributions to the advancement of higher education and enrichment of an emerging culture in Pakistan, President Diebold was decorated with prestigious gold medals from three of the eight Pakistani universities with which Edinboro University maintains formal academic linkages. President Diebold was also honored by the Government of Pakistan with the awarding of the degree of Doctor of Laws (honoris causa), presented at the Government House in the City of Karachi. Edinboro also has linkage agreements with institutions in the Peoples' Republic of China, Cuba and in the Kingdom of Morocco.

A staunch advocate of a statewide system of public universities in Pennsylvania, President Diebold supported the enabling legislation for the State System of Higher Education (Act 188 of 1982) and saw the State System come to existence in 1983 as a member of the transition team. He currently serves on the System's Executive Council of Presidents and on the boards of the Pennsylvania Academy for the Profession of Teaching, the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference, and the Dixon University Center at Harrisburg.

President Diebold's stature in American higher education has been recognized by several high-level appointments. He was named to the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations, the leading national organization devoted to building constructive relationships between the two countries. He was also appointed to the Leadership Council of the Northeast-Midwest Institute, a regional component of the Center for Regional Policy, and to the Pennsylvania Humanities Council, the private, non-profit group promoting statewide public understanding of the humanities.

Honorary Doctorate

Mahmoud A. Haroon

His Excellency the Honorable Governor and Chancellor Mahmoud A. Haroon has been selected to receive the degree Doctor of Laws (legum doctor, honoris causa) at today's Commencement ceremony.

Governor of the province of Sindh in Pakistan and Chancellor of the six universities of Sindh, Governor Haroon was born in September, 1920 in Karachi, Pakistan and educated in D. J. Sindh College and S.C. Shahani Law College in the former colony of India.

Brought up under the patronage of his father, the late Haji Sir Abdullah Haroon, who was one of the close associates of Quaid-i-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah and a pillar of the Pakistan independence movement, Mr. Haroon made a distinguished entry into public life in 1937, when he was appointed aide-de-camp to the Quaid-i-Azam, the founder of Pakistan.

Because of his keen interest in the youth movement of the Muslim League, Mr. Haroon in 1938 was appointed to a series of increasingly important positions culminating in leadership of the National Youth Organization in 1941. In 1942 he was appointed a member of the Pakistan Muslim League Council, and became president of the Karachi Provincial Muslim League two years later.

In 1945, Mr. Haroon was elected a member of the Sindh Legislative Assembly, where he continued to serve until 1950. When the single province of West Pakistan was formed by the merger of various provinces in 1953, he was elected member of the West Pakistan Assembly, where he served until 1958.

Mr. Haroon continued to take an active interest in the provision of civic amenities for the people of Karachi, and his activities intensified when he became the representative of the people of Lyari in the Karachi Municipal Corporation. Later he achieved the singular honor of being twice elected to the Corporation and becoming mayor of Karachi, which was then the federal capital, in 1953-54.

In the March 1965 elections, he was elected to the National Assembly of Pakistan and was later appointed Minister for Labour and Cooperation of the government of West Pakistan. The services he rendered in this capacity in placing the cooperative movement on a sound and equitable footing are recalled across Pakistan with great admiration.

Mr. Haroon was also chairman of the Dawn Group, Pakistan's leading group of newspapers, and was elected chairman of the Pakistan Section, Commonwealth Press Union, in 1965.

Three years later he was given one of that country's most important diplomatic assignments as High Commissioner for Pakistan in the United Kingdom. In August 1969 he joined the federal cabinet as Minister for Agriculture and Works, a post he held until February 1971.

In July 1978, Mr. Haroon again became a federal minister with the important portfolio of Interior and Political Affairs, an assignment he continued to hold until his resignation from the cabinet in November 1984.

In addition to being chairman of Pakistan Herald Publications Limited and Pakistan Herald Limited, he heads the following companies: Allied Engineering and Services Limited, Allied Tractors Limited, Allied Cosmetics and Chemicals, Midland Motors (Pakistan) Limited, and Haroon Oils Limited.

In recognition of his services to the nation of Pakistan and the assignments held both within that country and abroad, Mr. Haroon was appointed Governor of the Province of Sindh in August 1991. As governor, he also serves as chancellor of all universities in Sindh Province, as well as patron of Hamdard University and Medical College. As governor of the Province of Sindh and as chancellor and patron of the universities in the Province, his educational leadership and civic commitment have received wide recognition throughout the world.

Jerry B. Covert

The School has an enrollment of more than 2,000 students with 124 faculty members.

Before coming to Edinboro, Dr. Covert spent five years at The Pennsylvania State University in the positions of associate and acting dean of undergraduate education and associate vice provost for undergraduate education. In the latter position, he was responsible for administrative coordination and liaison for general education and coordination of the system-wide comprehensive plan for retention of undergraduate students. He was also involved with the administration of academic advising, admissions, basic skills, writing across the curriculum, personal counseling, general education curriculum development, cultural diversity programs, curriculum integration, and academic alliances between the University and public schools of Pennsylvania.

An Edinboro graduate and borough native, Dr. Covert received a bachelor of science in secondary biology in 1963 and a master's and doctorate in biological sciences and physiology from Penn State in 1967 and 1971, respectively.

From 1963 to 1966, he taught general science and biology in the Mt. Pleasant (Pa.) Area School District, then spent a year as graduate student and National Science Foundation Fellow in Penn State's College of Science from 1966-67. He served as a diagnostic bacteriologist while completing graduate studies in Penn State's College of Agriculture from 1967-71, and from 1971 to 1986 he taught biology at Penn State's Hazleton campus.

Often called upon to share his expertise, Dr. Covert has conducted many presentations through the tri-state region. Among his most noteworthy topics are: "Training Workforce 2000," a panel presentation for the American Society for Training and Development; "Cultural Diversity as Curricular Change" for the Conference on Cultural Diversity at Penn State; and "Objectives and Assessment of General Education" at Penn State's Conference on General Education.

During his tenure at Edinboro, Dr. Covert has developed a certificate program in tooling and precision machining; initiated Science Alliance between University faculty and tri-county, public and parochial schools; coordinated the process that developed articulation agreements with five area vocational technical schools; and devised and implemented an enrollment management program for Edinboro's allied health programs. A long-time member of the board of directors of the American Red Cross, he currently serves on the Edinboro University Steering Committee for the Tri-County Tech Prep program and the board of directors of the Lake Area Health Education Center. Dr. Covert is vice president of the Lake Erie Aquarium and Science Center and a founding member of the Edinboro Area YMCA Board of Directors.

He is a member of the American Association for Higher Education, Beta Beta Beta National Honorary Biological Society, Phi Kappa Phi National Honorary Society, and the National Association of Academic Affairs Administrators.

ALMA MATER

*Hail to thee, our Alma Mater glorious;
Fresh wreaths we bring to bind thy brow.
Trials have passed and thou has stood victorious;
Never fairer, never statelier than now.
O Edinboro, Edinboro,
Ever praising thee in song;
While class speeds class as swift years pass,
To thee our hearts belong.*
