Our Mission

The mission of Edinboro University is to create and share knowledge by providing access to education and learning experiences for the academic, cultural and personal growth of the students and the larger community we serve.

Edinboro University is committed to lifelong learning and service. Through the Office of Extended Learning, the University strives to:

- Serve the northwestern Pennsylvania area through community service activities;
- Link the University's resources to the needs of the community;
- Provide continuing professional education to business and industry and other area professionals;
- Enhance personal enrichment of the community through non-credit offerings.

We look forward to serving the needs of our family.

General Information

Registration: We encourage you to register early. This will prevent the classes you are interested in from being canceled due to low enrollments. Please register at least one week in advance.

Refund and Cancellation Policy: You may cancel one week before class begins to receive a full refund. Classes canceled less than one week before classes begin will not receive a refund, and you will be responsible for your class fee.

Extended Learning reserves the right to postpone, limit enrollment, cancel, split or combine classes, and change instructors and class locations when necessary.

Inclement Weather: In the event of severe weather conditions, students should listen to local radio and television stations for the official closing of the campus. If the University is closed, all off-campus locations will be closed as well.

Instructors: The courses listed in this catalogue are taught either by regular University faculty members or other qualified professional persons from the area. Each possesses a talent, skill or specialized interest, which he/she wishes to share with the community.

For more information about the programs listed in the Extended Learning publication or certificate and contract training needs, call (814) 836-1955 or 1-800-526-0121.

Policy of Non-Discrimination and Affirmative Action

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania is an equal opportunity education institution and will not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex and handicap in its activities, programs or employment practices as required by Title VI, Title IX, Section 504 and the ADA.

About Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center

Brief History

The rich history of the Porreco estate dates back to the mid-nineteenth century, when a German immigrant, Henry Knobloch, purchased the original 400 acres. The main property stayed in the Knobloch family until 1931, when the first of the Gebauer's took title. Jesse Gebauer became the owner in 1942 while married to Adrian Archbold, grandson of John Archbold, the partner and Standard Oil fortune successor to John D. Rockefeller.

Mrs. Archbold died in 1976, and much of the estate was divided into smaller holdings and sold privately. The core of the property, however, was retained and put on public auction. In 1978, Louis J. Porreco purchased it. In 1986, Mr. Porreco donated the estate to Edinboro University to enhance the quality and convenience of educational offerings in the Erie area.

Today, the renovated estate is used by Edinboro University to provide both credit and non-credit educational opportunities for traditional and non-traditional students, and for holding special events. Various organizations within the community also use the facilities for educational and cultural programming.

Academic Programs

Over 10,000 students have taken classes in various programs at the Porreco Center since Edinboro University consolidated its academic offerings at one convenient location more than 17 years ago. Undergraduate courses in such areas as biology and health services, business administration and economics, mathematics and computer science, speech and communication studies, secondary education, elementary education, English & theatre arts, foreign languages, geosciences, philosophy and history are provided.

In addition, Edinboro University offers graduate and extended learning classes, plus four associate degree programs: Associate of Arts in Criminal Justice, Associate of Arts in Human Services, Associate of Science in Business Administration and an Associate of Arts in Liberal Studies. You may be able to complete a Bachelor of Arts degree in Specialized Studies at Edinboro University in Erie if you have 90 credits from another institution of higher education.

The Department of Professional Studies offers graduate coursework at Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center for the following programs in Educational Leadership:

- Master's of Education in Educational Leadership
- Post Master's Principal K-12 Certification
- Post Master's Supervisor of Special Education Certification
- Post Master's Superintendent Letter of Eligibility

And, during the summer, the grounds are alive with the sound of children's voices.

The Kids Academy at Porreco is an exciting opportunity for children in grades 1-6 to participate in a wide array of unique learning experiences thanks to Edinboro University in Erie.

Community & Corporate Resource – Let us host your NEXT EVENT!

In tandem with its role as an academic institution, Edinboro University in Erie also provides facilities for citizens and organizations wishing to hold special events at the Center. Facilities are available for training sessions, retreats, conferences, meetings, receptions, classroom space, videoconferencing and press conferences. In addition, the facility houses a computer lab and distance education classroom.

Edinboro University in Erie's primary academic facility is housed within one of the largest standing barns in Erie County. The renovated interior includes classrooms and a seminar area. The Barn also houses a fully equipped computer lab with 24 computers with Internet capabilities and a distance education classroom.

The Center also houses a converted guest house (The Garden House) which contains classrooms, faculty offices, a library service area with reference materials and direct computer access to Edinboro University's main library catalogue, the largest educational resources center in northwestern Pennsylvania.

Mary Porreco Hall, the original estate mansion and still its centerpiece, has been maintained to preserve its 1800s vintage farmhouse milieu. Among its 12 rooms is a large living area perfect for executive seminars, retreats, conferences, receptions and cultural events, and professional and social gatherings. Mary Porreco Hall also has a library, three small conference or break out rooms, dining and lounge facilities, and a fully equipped kitchen. Special-event catering services are also available.

Videoconferencing / Distance Education Capabilities

Videoconferencing / Distance Education Capabilities
Edinboro University in Erie offers videoconferencing capability for meetings, classes or conferences. Utilizing state-of-the-art technology, meetings can be conducted at a distance to save both time and expensive travel costs. A two-way, fully interactive videoconference classroom complete with multiple cameras and computer presentation is available.

Associate Degree Programs at Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center

Building a Prosperous Future Through Academic Excellence and Civility

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania recently introduced a new theme – one that will lead us to the 2006-07 academic year when we will celebrate the University's 150th anniversary or Sesquicentennial. This theme, "Building a prosperous future through academic excellence and civility," builds upon our commitment to academic excellence and civility while introducing the ideal of prosperity. We believe that excellence in academics and civility will lead to prosperity, not only for members of the Edinboro Family, but also for the region, state, nation and the world we serve.

I am pleased to present this brochure to you and to share information about the degree programs we are offering at Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center. By offering classes at our historic and beautiful facility in Erie, we are reaching out to those of you who live in Erie and prefer to stay at home while taking classes...those of you who realize that an Edinboro degree can open the doors to a prosperous and productive future, at a fraction of the cost of many other colleges and universities...those of you who, unfortunately, find yourselves unemployed and looking for a new career direction...and even those of you who are returning from military service.

As you'll see on the following pages, a degree from Edinboro University can take you almost anywhere you want to go. It can, indeed, lead to a "prosperous future through academic excellence and civility."

Dr. Frank G. Pogue
President, Edinboro University of Pennsylvania

Associate of Arts Degree Criminal Justice

Overview

The field of criminal justice encompasses all matters relating to crime. It is concerned with law, criminology, police, courts, corrections, crime control policy and planning. Moreover, it is a rapidly changing field. Modern criminal behavior such as computer theft and embezzlement, terrorism, racketeering and sophisticated political corruption require new technologies and skills for crime control. There is a need for broadly educated personnel with a deep understanding of the criminal justice system and its political, social and economic environments. There is equally a need for modern police skills, from accounting to computer skills and counseling.

A sound degree program in criminal justice must be flexible to prepare undergraduates for a rapidly changing – and exciting – set of occupations. To meet this need, Edinboro University offers a comprehensive program which provides an overview of the criminal justice system and development of essential skills: the Associate of Arts in Criminal Justice.

Career Opportunities

The two-year associate degree program is designed primarily to provide persons currently employed in criminal justice agencies an opportunity to enrich their backgrounds in criminal justice studies and at the same time earn a college degree in the field.

Edinboro's criminal justice program seeks to provide students with a broad understanding of the entire criminal justice system and human behavior rather than a narrow specialization. A wide range of employment opportunities exists with the police, the courts, and correctional programs. The background provided by this degree program may also be valuable for those who decide to seek a four-year bachelor's degree in criminal justice, social work, sociology or political science.

Associate of Arts Degree Human Services

Overview

The basic premise of this program is that there is a common core of attitudes, skills and knowledge that apply to a variety of settings in the human services. Individuals equipped with these competencies can make effective contributions to agencies involved in mental health, education, welfare, corrections and other areas.

Career Opportunities

Many health and human services agencies are seeking individuals who have less than a baccalaureate degree, but are sophisticated enough to be effective workers.

This program is concerned with the preparation of individuals as mental health workers, psychiatric aides, social service workers, workers for developmentally disabled, and workers with the elderly. The availability of trained paraprofessionals in these areas could make such services available to the public more efficiently and effectively.

The goal of the program is to educate, in two years, a generalist worker who could move into a wide range of mental health and/or human services fields.

Human services paraprofessionals held several thousand government jobs during the 1990s. Government agencies employ a significant portion of the paraprofessionals to deal with such issues as poverty, crime, public assistance, population policy, social rehabilitation, community development, mental health, racial and ethnic studies, and environmental impact studies.

Music Programs

Community Music School

Founded as the Preparatory Division by the Music Department at Edinboro University in the 1970s, the Edinboro University Community Music School was reborn in 2000 with a major expansion. Its mission is to provide music lessons to students without regard to their ability to pay. With this in mind, the Community Music School expanded into Erie at the Boys and Girls Club of Erie, Inc. and at Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center. Currently, we have approximately 200 students studying a full range of musical instruction including wind and brass instruments, Suzuki piano, Suzuki violin, piano, strings, guitar, percussion, Kindermusik, and the Erie Children's Choir.

The facilities at Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center make an ideal setting for the Community Music School. Working closely with the administrative staff at the Porreco Center, offerings include Suzuki piano, violin, voice, piano, and flute lessons. The Porreco Center houses a grand piano for student use, pre- and post-lesson computers, electronic pianos, and teaching studios. Future plans may include a concert hall and dedicated teaching areas for chamber music and lessons.

The Community Music School offers scholarships to over 40% of its students. To fund these activities, a generous grant from the Boys and Girls Club of Erie, Inc. was received in year one. Since then, fundraising efforts have included student fees, private donations, and grants. Please contact the Community Music School to discuss donor opportunities. The Community Music School can be reached at (814) 732-1357 or via e-mail at dburdick@edinboro.edu. The Community Music School website can be found on the Music Department website at: <http://www.edinboro.edu>. The staff of the Community Music School includes Dr. Daniel Burdick, Executive Director, and Professor LeAnne Wistrom, Administrative Director. In addition, the staff of the Porreco Center provides crucial assistance and support throughout the year.

Concert Band of Northwest Pennsylvania

The Concert Band of Northwest Pennsylvania is an all volunteer musical organization of musicians ranging in age from high school to 80. They come from all over northwest Pennsylvania, southwest New York and north-east Ohio. Any players of woodwind, brass, or percussion instruments are invited to join the Band. John Fleming is the Director. The program is sponsored by the Office of Extended Learning of Edinboro University. All concerts are free and open to the public. For more information, please call 814-734-4389.

12th Annual Technology Ingenuity Contest

Saturday, April 1, 2006 -

Cooper Science Hall – Edinboro University Campus

Edinboro University is pleased to host the eleventh annual Technology Engineering Contest on Saturday, April 1, 2006, from 9:00 am to 2:45 pm in Cooper Science Hall. The Erie Engineers Societies Council, Northwest Intermediate Unit #5, the Technology Education Association of Pennsylvania (TEAP), and area middle and high schools sponsor this event. The Technology Engineering challenge is designed to provide area students an opportunity to apply their knowledge of math and science to technological problems, and structural, electrical, and civil engineering projects. Through this competition, students gain deeper insight into important scientific and technological concepts. The contest also provides an opportunity to see a variety of solutions to the same problem and gives students experience in project development, paint drawing, teamwork and public presentations. Approximately 100 students participate each year. This event is divided into three levels: 6th, 7th, and 8th graders, 9th and 10th graders, and 11th and 12th graders. A first, second, and third place is given in each of the four different categories: overall performance, drawings, craftsmanship, and oral/report presentation. The Technology Engineering Challenge also has an overall school trophy. This trophy is presented to the school district that wins the most points over all three levels. This trophy is called the Koehle Cup. This trophy was named after Rudy Koehle, who was a key supporter, developer, and participant in this event. The trophy is kept at the winning school district for a year and returned the following competition.

For more information, please contact your local middle or high school industrial arts teacher.

Purple Martin Conservation Association

The Purple Martin Conservation Association is an international, non-profit, tax-exempt organization dedicated to the conservation of the Purple Martin (Progne subis) species of bird through scientific research, state-of-the-art wildlife management techniques, and public education. It is supported by membership contributions and product sales. The PMCA is associated with Edinboro University of Pennsylvania through its Office of Extended Learning, which played a valuable role in the formation of the PMCA and continues to provide assistance and logistical support.

Purple Martins are condo-nesting members of the swallow family that spend their winters in Brazil and migrate back to North American breeding grounds in the spring, when the weather warms enough to provide flying insects for their food. The eastern race of Purple Martins is different from all other species of birds in that they no longer nest in the wild. Today, east of the Rocky Mountains, they are totally dependent on people to supply them with houses and gourds for nesting. Unfortunately, Purple Martins are not as common as they were a century ago. The PMCA is working to reverse this trend.

Today, the PMCA conducts research at its colony site on the eastern shore of Edinboro Lake, where as many as 150 pairs of martins nest each year. Over 6,000 members receive its quarterly publication, The Purple Martin Update. Additionally, the PMCA is in touch with over 100,000 Purple Martin enthusiasts throughout North America. By making accurate information on martins available to would-be landlords, designing better martin housing systems, and by conducting scientific research, the PMCA is working to increase the Purple Martins' population throughout its North American breeding range.

Workforce Training

Our mission is to assist area businesses with their training needs, while promoting economic growth in the region. As the WEDnetPA Partner in the Northwestern Pennsylvania region, Edinboro University is able to obtain Guaranteed Free Training (GFT) grants for qualifying local businesses. Eligible businesses receive reimbursement for training for a wide range of Basic Skills and Information Technology Training. Many of Edinboro University's credit and non-credit courses can qualify for reimbursement through WEDnetPA.

Our training and services include:

- Professional Development
- Computer Skills
- Customized Programs
- Consulting Services
- Assessment Services
- Strategic Planning for Businesses
- Facility Rental for meetings & seminars
- Videoconferencing & Satellite Downlinks

Non-Credit Professional Development Course:

Business and Professional Writing

All writing boils down to purpose, audience, and style: What does the writer want? Who is the reader? What stylistic choices will satisfy both? Course members will practice reliable methods for composing documents crucial to job performance. Grounded in the questions stated above, these methods will yield pleasing, clear, and substantial texts that do justice to their writers and to your companies. Using work-in-progress as raw material, we will concentrate on document design, paragraph structure and transitions, diction, tone, sentence structure, and common grammatical and mechanical problems. Participants are asked to bring a sample of actual business and professional documents (removing identifying markers) for review.

Tuesday, March 7 (1 class) 8:00 am – 3:30 pm
(half hour for lunch, on your own) $180

Workforce and Economic Development Network (WEDnet)

Guaranteed Free Training – Training Pennsylvania's worker for a growing economy available to your company if it meets a few simple guidelines:

- must be based in Pennsylvania or have a significant presence in the state
- offers the employees who will partake in the program at least 150% of the current minimum wage, excluding benefits
- is not a point-of-sale retail business, training vendor, government, education or nonprofit entity
- participates in the program no more than two years in a row and three of the past five years
- begins training within five months of the grant approval letter
- funds Available July 1

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has created the opportunity for certain employers to train employees through two programs offered by the Guaranteed Free Training (GFT) Program. Area manufacturers and companies supporting the manufacturing sector may apply. Point-of-sale business companies are excluded.

The Information Technology Training and Basic Skills Training programs are available to qualified in-state businesses and out-of-state companies relocating to the economic friendly business climate of Pennsylvania.

Qualified companies receive training provided through the Workforce and Economic Development Network of Pennsylvania, known as WEDnetPA. This alliance of 14 State System universities, Pennsylvania's 14 community colleges, the Pennsylvania College of Technology and the North Central Industrial Technical Education Center, Greater Altoona Career and Technology Center, Lancaster County Career and Technology Center, and the University of Pittsburgh at Bradford offers a diverse array of training employers need most.

The Department of Community and Economic Development (DCED) fund this program.

BASIC SKILLS TRAINING

Includes the teaching of a variety of basic and entry-level skills to benefit employees and employers. Basic and entry-level skills are defined according to the type and scope of your business.
