

Edinboro Hosts Gannon in Early Season Men's Basketball Showdown

(EDINBORO, Pa.) -- The Edinboro University of Pennsylvania men's basketball team will host Gannon University Monday night (Dec. 4) in an early season showdown between local rivals. Tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m. at Edinboro's McComb Fieldhouse.

The Fighting Scots, under the direction of head coach Greg Walcavich, won their first three games of the young season at home before suffering their first setback at Ashland (OH) University Saturday night. The Scots trailed by as many as 14 points Saturday then rallied to tie the game on a pair of Dean Doss free throws with four seconds to play. But, Ashland responded with a basket at the buzzer to hand Edinboro their first loss, 76-74.

Gannon enters Monday's game with a 2-2 overall mark under the direction of head coach Bob Dukiet. The Golden Knights lost, 81-68, Saturday night at home to West Virginia Wesleyan.

"We just have to rebound from a tough loss on the road," said Walcavich. "Basketball is a long season and you try to learn from your mistakes and get better as the season moves along. Gannon and Edinboro is a good rivalry and it's usually an excellent game. Both teams usually play well against one another and it should be another good one Monday night."

Gannon won both games against Edinboro last year, posting a 96-93 overtime win on Dec. 6 at McComb Fieldhouse and a 92-82 win at home. While Edinboro is not scheduled to play Gannon in Erie this year, however, the Scots are in the Porrecco Cup (Dec. 29-30) and could face the Knights in the second game of the annual tournament.
