NEW YORK HONORS EDINBORO PROFESSOR FOR MILITARY SERVICE

George Pataki, Governor of the State of New York, recently awarded the New York Conspicuous Service Star medal and the New York Conspicuous Service Cross medal to professor David A. Ferster, chair of the Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania. The Conspicuous Service Cross is awarded to veterans who were cited for individual valor in combat. The award to Ferster was the 3050th award of the CSC to a New York veteran since the medal was authorized in 1917 during World War I. The Conspicuous Service Star (established in 1998) is awarded to New York veterans who received unit citations for combat operations. Ferster received two awards of each medal, in February 2001.

Ferster entered the United States Marine Corps in June of 1967 and was honorably discharged with the rank of Sergeant in June of 1971. From 1969 to 1970, he served as a helicopter crew chief and airborne reconnaissance specialist in the I-Corps area of Vietnam.

Ferster, an Edinboro resident, was a citizen of New York during his military service. He received his doctorate from SUNY at Buffalo, and has been teaching at Edinboro University since 1990.

EDINBORO TO HOLD COMMUNITY DIALOGUE FORUM TUESDAY

As a way to provide its external stakeholders the opportunity to share ideas, concerns and perspectives on issues of mutual interest, Edinboro University of Pennsylvania will hold the special meeting, "The University as a Neighbor Community Dialogue Forum," Tuesday, April 3, in Van Houten South Dining Hall, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Shortly after his arrival on campus in July 1996, President Frank G. Pogue created what he called the University as a Neighbor Advisory Group (UNAG) to enable stakeholders from throughout the university's service region to serve as the school's external "eyes and ears" and inform it of needs and ideas.

Tuesday's Community Dialogue Forum is an extension of Pogue's early initiative, and he has invited area legislators, educators, business owners and community leaders to join UNAG members for the event.

Fifteen "Dialogue Circles" will meet and discuss issues ranging from access and admissions to university-business partnerships, from university image and community values to public safety and economic development, and from community service and diversity to internships and host community interests.

Pogue said that the information and perspectives gained during the Dialogue Circles will be considered by the Edinboro Family Forum on University and Community Life as that group composes the Guiding Principles for the Edinboro Family. Additionally, all Community Dialogue Forum participants will receive a written summary of the information shared during the conference proceedings.

For more information on the University as a Neighbor Community Dialogue Forum, contact the University President's Office, 732-2711.

EDINBORO AGAIN NAMED TOP 100
SCHOOL IN RUGG'S RECOMMENDATIONS

For the seventh straight year, "Rugg's Recommendations on the Colleges," a California-based higher education directory, has named Edinboro University of Pennsylvania as one of the top 100 schools in the nation to offer students the best chance to gain from their education.

Edinboro University is listed in the book's 18th edition on the page titled, "Fred Rugg's One Hundred Colleges... Just Darn Good Schools," and is one of the 12 Pennsylvania colleges and universities listed. Only one other State System of Higher Education institution – Kutztown University of Pennsylvania – is on Rugg's list.

The other Pennsylvania institutions joining Edinboro and Kutztown are Allegheny College, Bryn Mawr, Franklin & Marshall, Haverford, Moravian, Muhlenberg, University of Pittsburgh, Susquehanna, Ursinus, and Washington and Jefferson.

From across the country, other schools on the Top 100 list included Auburn, Harvard, Michigan State, Ohio State, Stanford, Texas A&M, and Vanderbilt.

The directory is published by Frederick E. Rugg, a Brown University graduate and former director of secondary school counseling programs. Rugg based his year 2001 selections on interviews with more than 1,050 secondary school counselors who responded to the question, "What colleges do you believe offer students the best opportunity to maximize their education?"

Rugg said that his list of "Just Darn Good Schools" is the most valuable page in the book: "I hear more nice things about those schools than any others."

PULITZER PRIZE NOMINEE O'SHEA TO SPEAK AT EDINBORO

Pulitzer Prize nominee Kathleen O'Shea will present "Women on the Row" as part of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania's Women's History Month celebrations on Tuesday, March 27, at 7 p.m. in the University Center.

O'Shea, author of "Women on the Row: Revelations from Both Sides of the Bars," didn't set out looking for connections with women on death row. She wanted information about them – who they are and the ways in which they live from day to day. "I was writing a sociological reference book," said O'Shea "a fairly safe, fairly emotionless endeavor." However as she got to know the incarcerated women she was studying, what became clear to her were not their differences, but how in so many ways she and the women in prison were the same. O'Shea is the only person to have contacted every woman currently in United States prisons with a death sentence.

"Women on the Row," is O'Shea's honest, startling and sometimes raw, sometimes radiant exploration of the places where doing heavy time and being free overlap. Neither a treatise against the death penalty, nor an apologia for female innocence, her book focuses on the interconnectedness of women's lives. The author creates memorable composite portraits of ten death row women based on her conversations with them from information given to her, telephone calls and letters exchanged.

O'Shea, a nun for 25 years, is a social worker who does research on female offenders, particularly women on death row. She is a teacher, writer, activist and lecturer.

A member of the State System of Higher Education

She has also published "Female Offenders: An Annotated Bibliography," and "Women and the Death Penalty in the United States: 1900-1998," and is currently working on "Hymns of the Revolution," a novel based on her memoirs of Chile, 1965-1973.

O'Shea will share her experiences interviewing women on death row in the U.S. prisons. She will focus on the interconnectedness of women's lives, and reflect her encounters with condemned women and how their stories illuminated her own.

"Women on the Row" is sponsored by Edinboro University's Student Affairs and Students Success Division. A reception and book signing will follow the program.

“FIGHT CLUB” AUTHOR CHUCK PALAHNIUK TO SPEAK AT EDINBORO UNIVERSITY’S ACADEMIC CONFERENCE

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania’s Honors Program will host an international academic conference focusing on the works of Chuck Palahniuk, author of “Fight Club,” April 6 and 7. The conference, “Postcards from the Future: The Chuck Palahniuk Project,” is designed to promote academic and artistic study of the critically acclaimed fiction writer. In addition to the conference, Palahniuk will also address an audience after the viewing of the film “Fight Club” on Wednesday, April 4.

Palahniuk exploded onto the American and international literary scene in 1996 with the release of his controversial first novel “Fight Club,” which was later adapted to the equally controversial film starring Brad Pitt, Edward Norton and Helena Bonham-Carter. Palahniuk, an Oregon-based writer, has written two other novels, “Survivor,” and “Invisible Monsters.” His novel “Fight Club” will serve as the University’s conference centerpiece. Palahniuk will be releasing his last novel “Choke” in May and will be reading a part of this novel to conference attendees.

“Postcards from the Future” will explore a wide variety of topics ranging from violence in literature and film, social reality/mythology, cultural criticism to gender roles/values and materialism in conjunction with identity and values through a series of presentations and panel discussions. Students, graduates, faculty and scholars from around the country are expected to participate. Artists will explore and discuss Palahniuk’s works through music, sculptures, paintings and other forms of media.

The Honors Program will hold a showing of “Fight Club” on Wednesday, April 4, at 7 p.m. in 119 Doucette Hall. The showing is open to the public and will feature a question and answer session with Palahniuk. Tickets can be purchased for $10 through the Honors Program at 814-732-2981.

The conference, “Postcards from the Future” will begin on Friday at 8 a.m. in the University Center. A second viewing of his film, “Fight Club” will be held Friday evening at 6 p.m. in 119 Doucette Hall followed by a discussion with Palahniuk.

Palahniuk will deliver the keynote address at a luncheon for conference attendees on Saturday, April 7, in Van Houten Dining Hall North.

The conference fee of $35 for students and $50 for non-students includes a continental breakfast on both days.

For additional information on “Postcards from the Future,” contact the Edinboro University Honors Program at 814-732- 2981, or visit the conference website at www.angelfire.com/pa/maleficent.

EDINBORO UNIVERSITY'S WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH CELEBRATION CONCLUDES WITH WOMEN IN POLITICS

State Representative Linda Bebko-Jones will present "Women In Politics" at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania's closing ceremony for it's Women's History Month celebrations on Thursday, March 29, at 7 p.m. in the University Center.

Bebko-Jones recently began her fifth term representing the First District in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. She will discuss her personal experiences and reflections from eight years of service in the General Assembly and more than 20 years of active involvement in the Erie community and area politics.

Early in her career, Bebko-Jones worked as an administrative assistant for state Senator A. Buzz Andrezeski, later coordinating all women's and children's issues in his district office. In 1989, she became director of Women Against Sexual Harrassment (WASH), a counseling/education program. During the same period, Bebko-Jones worked as a caseworker for the Community House for Women, a drug and alcohol rehabilitation center and worked for Senator Harris Wofford as a caseworker in his district office.

Today she serves on four standing committees – Health and Human Services, Subcommittee Chair on Health; Veterans Affairs and Emergency Preparedness; and State Government. She also holds an advisory position with the Soldiers and Sailors Home in Erie and is the recipient of the Women's Roundtable 1994 Woman of the Year award.

AMHERST SAXOPHONE QUARTET TO APPEAR AT EDINBORO

The Amherst Saxophone Quartet will bring their special charm, relaxed wit, and bracing virtuosity to a concert at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania on Wednesday, April 4, at 8 p.m. in the University Center multipurpose room.

Since 1978, the Amherst Saxophone Quartet (ASQ) has performed in the United States from Maine to Hawaii, Japan, Bermuda, and the British Virgin Islands. Concert highlights include appearances in Carnegie Hall, Kennedy Center, Lincoln Center, Chautauqua Institution, and broadcasts on National Public Radio's All Things Considered and Performance Today, Public Radio International's St. Paul Sunday, Voice of America, NBC-TV's Tonight Show and CBS Sunday Morning. The full-time professional ASQ ensemble members include Susan Fancher, Russ Carere, Stephen Rosenthal, and Harry Fackelman.

Soprano saxophonist Fancher is an artist-in-residence on the faculty of the University at Buffalo. She has performed extensively both as a soloist and chamber musician, touring in Austria, Albania, Poland, Lithuania, Bulgaria, South Africa, Egypt, Germany, France, Norway, Sweden, Canada and the United States. Her musical priorities center around the interpretation of contemporary music.

Alto Carere, a permanent member of the Amherst Saxophone Quartet since 1990, has been associated with the Quartet since 1982. He studied saxophone with John Sedola, clarinet with James East at SUNY at Fredonia, and flute with Robert Mols. Carere has performed and toured with a long list of entertainers including Burt Bacharach, The Spinners, Temptations, Tony Bennett, Natalie Cole and Kenny Rodgers, and with the Buffalo Philharmonic and the Artpark Orchestra.

Rosenthal, tenor, is a founding member of the ASQ and has spent the majority of the past 23 years touring and performing with the Quartet. He studied saxophone with Edward Yadzinski and John Sedola, and clarinet with James Pyne, receiving a BFA in Music Performance from SUNY at Buffalo. Rosenthal has performed with the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra.

Fackelman, baritone, is a founding member of the ASQ. He studied saxophone with Edward Yadzinski and clarinet with Allen Sigel. He received a BFA in Music Education from SUNY at Buffalo. Fackelman has performed with the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra and the Boston Symphony Orchestra in both pops and orchestral settings.

The ASQ was awarded Chamber Music America Residency Grants for the 1985-86 through 1987-88 seasons. They received the 1993 First Prize for Adventurous Programming from CMA/ASCAP and have been awarded commissioning prizes from CMA, New York State Council on the Arts, and the National Endowment for the Arts. The Board of the Quartet sponsored an international composition competition and received over 120 new works from around the world.

ASQ's newest CD is a recording of music by four living North American composers, and showcases the charm and freshness of the best of today's 'classical' music. The CD, titled Lament on the Death of Music, and was produced by Grammy Award winning Judith Sherman. In addition to this recording on the Innova label (American Composers Forum), the ASQ has recorded four albums for MCA Records, Musical Heritage Society, and Mark Records. In 1997 the ensemble released a videotape introducing children to chamber music, called ASQKids. It is believed to be the first video of its kind.

The Amherst Saxophone Quartet has been a performing member of Young Audiences of Western New York since 1979. The group also worked with young persons' programs at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., Lincoln Center in New York, Aesthetic Education Institute in Rochester, N.Y., and Arts in Education, Buffalo, N.Y. As the Quartet travels, it performs many short-term residencies in conjunction with its concert performances.

Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. Edinboro University students are free with valid I.D. For additional information or ticket reservations, call the Office of Cultural Affairs at 814-732-2518.

CYNDY PATTON TO SPEAK AT WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH EVENT AT EDINBORO UNIVERSITY MARCH 21

Former Erie television news anchor Cyndy Patton will be the featured speaker at a Women's History Month event at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania on Wednesday, March 21, at 2 p.m. in the University Center.

Patton is now a media specialist for Saint Vincent Health System. She will discuss her career in the media and career opportunities in the media for women. Patton's address is free and open to the public.

Patton graduated from Edinboro University in 1980 with a degree in speech communication and went to work for WJET-TV in Erie as a reporter. In 1982 she became the station's morning news anchor and producer for the five-minute local cut-ins during ABC's Good Morning America.

She developed the first noon newscast for the station in 1988 and served as its anchor until 1999. She also developed, anchored and produced WJET-TV's first early morning - 5:30 to 7 a.m. - newscast in 1997.

After nearly 20 years at WJET-TV, Patton took on her current position at Saint Vincent in 1999. She produces medical videos for physician specialists, produces and hosts live television shows for Saint Vincent, and handles all media requests for interviews.

Patton lives in Fairview with her husband Lee and their children Sara and Casey.

Edinboro University president Dr. Frank Pogue (right) presents a university throw to His Excellency Ouch Borith, ambassador and permanent representative of the Kingdom of Cambodia to the United Nations. The ambassador's daughter, Bonarasy, who will attend EUP this summer, is seated at right. Borith and his family were introduced to the university by Edinboro alumnus Frank Jakovac, who is currently a member of the senior management team of Chemical Detection Excellence Inc., a newly-formed Delaware corporation working with Loch Harris Inc. to develop and market new chemical detection technologies. Jakovac is involved in a project with the Cambodian government to remove the estimated two million land mines still buried in that country.

MARJORIE F. HUMMEL ESTABLISHES EDUCATION SCHOLARSHIP

An education scholarship has been created at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania from a donation from the estate of Marjorie F. Hummel. The scholarship will be awarded to students enrolled in the education department, whose intent is to become an educator.

Hummel of Grand Valley, P, graduated from Edinboro in 1913 and passed away on Dec. 24, 1998 at the age of 104. Her daughter, Mariam Hummel, said that her mother, "remembered her time at Edinboro with pleasure and appreciation for the varied experience, stimulating teachers, and quality of education received."

The Hummel scholarship will be awarded to full-time students of color, who maintain a minimum cumulative QPA of 3.0.

EDINBORO UNIVERSITY AND ERIE JEWISH COMMUNITY COUNCIL ANNOUNCE HOLOCAUST REMEMBRANCE EVENTS APRIL 18-19

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania and the William M. and Frances Schuster Fund of the Jewish Community Council of Erie will host their Annual Holocaust Remembrance Program at the Newman Center near the Edinboro Campus beginning at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, April 18. This year's program, "Jewish Trauma – Christian Tragedy," will discuss the impact of the Holocaust on Jewish-Christian relations and will feature distinguished professor of Holocaust and genocide studies Dr. Franklin H. Littell.

Littell, an ordained Methodist minister, is the distinguished professor of Holocaust and Genocide Studies at the Richard Stockton College of New Jersey. During Littell's illustrious career, he served as a college professor, author and organizer of conferences and meetings as well as spending ten years in post-war Germany as the chief Protestant religious adviser in the American Zone.

Littell's pioneering book, "The Crucifixion of the Jews," was the first Christian response to the Holocaust. It brought about a breakthrough by encouraging an entire new generation of younger theologians and scholars to rethink the meaning of the Holocaust, anti-Semitism, the survival of the Jewish people and the restoration of Israel. He has written over two dozen scholarly books and more than 1,000 major articles.

In 1970, Littell founded the Annual Scholars' Conference on the Holocaust and the Churches, the oldest continuing interfaith scholarly meeting of its kind in the world. No American theologian has done more than Littell in creating educational awareness of the Holocaust and strengthening the cause of liberty and individual responsibility in a democracy.

His continuous effort on behalf of human responsibility is a voice of conscience for people around the world.

In addition to Littell's keynote address, a remembrance service will be held at the Newman Center on Thursday, April 19, at 7 p.m. followed by "Man with a Mission," presented by Les Banos.

Banos, a Hungarian-born American, successfully infiltrated the German Secret Service as part of the Hungarian resistance during World War II. Although he was of Jewish descent, he was raised by his Lutheran aunt which kept his Jewish heritage shielded. His achievements included acquiring intelligence about Axis troop movements, forging safe conduct papers for citizens facing deportation, providing safe passage for downed Allied pilots and collaborating with Raoul Wallenberg, a Swedish diplomat who aided thousands of Hungarian Jews. Banos also witnessed Wallenberg's capture by the Russians in 1945.

The Holocaust Remembrance activities are free and open to the public. For additional information, contact Linda Lacny, Edinboro University School of Liberal Arts, at 814-732-2477.
