FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

TERRY L. SMITH APPOINTED EDINBORO'S DEAN OF LIBERAL ARTS

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Frank G. Pogue has announced the appointment of Dr. Terry L. Smith as dean of liberal arts. Prior to his appointment Smith was executive assistant to the president at the University of the District Columbia.

"I very much want to be a part of the planning, community building and constructive change that Dr. Pogue is instituting at Edinboro," said Smith.

Smith holds a B.A. degree in history from Wittenberg University and a Ph.D. in philosophy from the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

He began his career at Federal City College – the predecessor of the University of D.C. – as an assistant professor of philosophy. He rose through the ranks becoming associate professor, professor, and department chairperson, a position he held three times. In 1992 he was named assistant provost for academic program development at UDC before becoming executive assistant in 1996.

As an administrator at UDC he build a team of 150 students, faculty and staff which conducted a comprehensive self-study of the university over a two-year period. He had primary responsibility for the review of academic programs and general education. He also assisted and advised the provost in bringing to closure the articulation and merger of academic programs from the three predecessor institutions that formed UDC in 1978.

Smith is the author of Behavior and Its Causes: Philosophical Foundations of Operant Psychology, as well as articles on logic, linguistics and the philosophy of psychology. He has received grants from the National Science Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities, and he serves as a reviewer of questions for the Law School Admission Test.

ANDY RICHTER OPENS EDINBORO'S 1997-98 CONCERT AND LECTURE SERIES

Late Night sidekick Andy Richter will open Edinboro University of Pennsylvania's 1997-98 Concert and Lecture Series with a multi-media lecture extravaganza on Monday, September 22, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. The multi-talented actor, writer and comedian is the right hand man on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien. His lecture – "How To Be a Talk Show Sidekick" – will showcase highlights from Late Night's first three years.

Edinboro's Concert and Lecture Series is the University's year-long program featuring outstanding speakers, performers and entertainers from around the world.

The Arkansas Repertory Theatre will follow Richter with its performance of Smoke on the Mountain, a bluegrass musical celebration of the rural south in the 1930s. Set in a rural Baptist church in North Carolina in 1938, the two-act gospel musical comedy will come to Edinboro on Tuesday, October 28.

Acclaimed flutist Paula Robison will perform as a guest soloist with the Budapest Strings on Tuesday, November 4. A virtuoso performer with remarkable skill and range, Robison plays works from Bach and Mozart to Stephen Foster, Grieg, and Copland to traditional songs such as Greensleeves. Critics have raved over her performances with one writer for the Boston Globe saying: "One meets remarkable human accomplishments every day, but Miss Robison showed me things I hadn't known the machine could do."

From its start as a septet at the Franz Liszt Music Academy in Budapest, the Budapest Strings has become an award-winning 16-member ensemble featuring the works of fellow countrymen Weiner and Bartok. In 1982 the group won the International Chamber Orchestra Competition in Belgrade.

The first concert of 1998 will feature the keyboard pyrotechnics of pianist Leon Bates, a classically trained performer who is also a bodybuilder. Bates lifts weights for two hours a day before practicing on the piano for another six. His appearance at Edinboro University on Wednesday, February 4, may feature works by such composers as Rachmaninoff and Gershwin as well as Rossini, Ravel and Ellington. He has performed with America's leading symphonies including the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Cleveland Orchestra, the National Symphony and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. He has appeared on the Today Show with Bryant Gumble and on CBS Sunday Morning with the late Charles Kuralt and Eugenia Zukerman.

Voice of the Turtle, North America's premiere Sephardic musical ensemble, will bring its special blend of Judeo-Spanish music to Edinboro on Wednesday, February 25. The quartet of two men and two women have been performing for nearly 20 years on several medieval and renaissance instruments including saz, bombard, vielle, shawm, oud and chalumeau. Their music is world music – a cultural blend of Arabic, Spanish and eastern European.

The Concert and Lecture Series will conclude on Tuesday, March 10, with award-winning columnist Lisa Jones, the best-selling author of Bulletproof Diva: Tales of Race, Sex and Hair. The daughter of a Black nationalist father and Jewish intellectual mother, Jones brings her unique perspective to the lecture stage for a rare look at the issues which confront Black women in the 90s. Jones has been a staff writer at the Village Voice since 1990. Her award-winning column on race and the politics of style appears monthly.

All performances will take place at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. Tickets will be available at the University Center, the music department and at the door. For further information, contact Edinboro's Office of Cultural Affairs at (814) 732-2518.

EDINBORO STUDENT TO RECEIVE AUGMENTIVE COMMUNICATION AWARD

Paul Pecunas, a 27-year-old student at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania who has athetoid cerebral palsy, received the 1997 Augmentative Communication and Empowerment Supports (ACES) Free Speech Now Award. The award was presented Friday, August 1, by ACES Commissioner Bob Williams at the ACES closing ceremony at Temple University in Philadelphia.

The ACES Free Speech Now Award is presented to an individual who has actively promoted freedom of speech for individuals with significant disabilities.

Pecunas is originally from Shenandoah, Pennsylvania, and now lives in Meadville. He is majoring in communications with a minor in special education.

Despite the fact that he must use a motorized wheelchair and an augmentative communications device, Pecunas has a career as, what he calls, a "sit-down" comic. He performs in clubs in Meadville and Pittsburgh. It is for his work as an entertainer and his support of augmentative communications that he was honored.

EDINBORO UNIVERSITY ANNOUNCES PRESIDENTIAL INAUGURATION PLANS

The Board of Governors and Chancellor James McCormick of the State System of Higher Education will formally inaugurate Dr. Frank G. Pogue as the 15th president of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania on Friday, September 12, 1997. The event will be preceded by a week-long celebration September 8-12. Pogue became president of the University on July 1, 1996. His inauguration will coincide with the start of the school's fall semester.

Inaugural week will begin with an opening celebration on Monday, September 8, at 7 p.m. in the University Center and conclude on Friday, September 12, with the inauguration ceremony and University-wide fall convocation at 11 a.m. in McComb Fieldhouse. In between will be several daily events celebrating the start of the Pogue presidency.

On Tuesday, September 9, a panel of senior and retired University faculty will discuss "Remembering the Past: The Way We Were" at 11:30 a.m. in the University Club. An Inaugural Concert will be held that evening at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

On Wednesday, September 10, a presentation of "Celebrating the Future: Creating a Learner-Centered Environment" will also be held at 11:30 a.m. in the University Club. That day will also see the Inaugural Community Service Day, where faculty, staff and students will dedicate their time from 2 to 4 p.m. in service to the Borough of Edinboro.

The dedication of the Hamilton Hall Student Services Center will take place on Thursday, September 11, at 11:30 a.m. As a result of an initiative inspired by Pogue, the building has been completely remodeled to provide a "one-stop-shopping" area to students for registration, financial aid and other essential services. The Frank G. Pogue Scholarship Dinner will be held at 6 p.m. in Van Houten Dining Hall, and the University Art Faculty Exhibit reception will follow at 8 p.m. in the University Center. Reservations are required ($50 per person) for the scholarship dinner as seating is limited. Contributions to the Frank G. Pogue Scholarship fund are most welcome.

Inauguration Day on September 12 will open with the presidential breakfast with students from 8 to 9:30 a.m. in Van Houten Dining Hall. The President's inauguration will take place at 11 a.m. and will be followed by a reception from 12:30 to 3 p.m. in the University Center. During the reception the fifteen presidential portraits by university art professor James McMurray will be unveiled. Reservations for the inaugural ceremony and reception are encouraged to assist with planning.

The final event of inauguration week will be the re-dedication of Compton Hall at 3:30 p.m. The newly renovated building will be re-dedicated as a memorial to Margaret Compton, an 1866 graduate of the Edinboro State Normal School and member of the faculty until 1892.

All events are open to the public.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

BAUMGARTNER NAMED ACTING ATHLETIC DIRECTOR AT EDINBORO

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Dr. Frank G. Pogue today announced that head wrestling coach and four-time Olympic medalist, Bruce Baumgartner, has agreed to step into the role of acting athletic director in the wake of yesterday's announced resignation of current athletic director, Jody Mooradian.

Pogue said that Baumgartner will serve in the acting role until a national search is completed and a person named to the position permanently. A process will be announced to appoint a search committee, Pogue said.

Baumgartner will assume the athletic director duties full-time until the position is filled. Edinboro's current assistant wrestling coach, Tim Flynn, will serve as acting head coach, also on a full-time basis, Pogue said.

According to Pogue, the University will also name a person to serve in the primary role as Edinboro's athletic compliance officer.

Baumgartner is universally recognized as the finest super heavyweight wrestler in American history. He was the 1984 Olympic gold medalist, the 1988 Olympic silver medalist, the 1992 Olympic gold medalist, and the 1996 Olympic bronze medalist. He holds a record 14 world and Olympic titles and was the 1995 winner of the Sullivan Award as America's finest amateur athlete.

He is active in local and regional community affairs, speaking often to youth groups about setting and achieving goals, and has been one of Edinboro University's most recognizable goodwill ambassadors since his arrival at the University in 1985.

NEWS ADVISORY

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Frank G. Pogue will host the second annual Ice Cream Social on Sunday, August 24, "move-in" day on the Edinboro campus. Beginning at 9 a.m., students will begin moving into the eight residence halls on campus, and from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., they can take a break to enjoy socializing and refreshments on the Lawrence Towers/Shafer Hall lawn. President Pogue will be on hand to greet the students, and many of the University's administrators and faculty will also be in attendance.

The following day, Monday, August 25, a picnic is planned for all students which will feature the music of the "Spirit of the Scots" Marching Band. The event will take place on the lawn of Van Houten Dining Hall from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

That evening, the second annual Candle Lighting Ceremony will take place at 7:30 p.m. on the Baron-Forness Library mall. The ceremony officially welcomes new students as full members of the University community. As each individual candle is illuminated, the campus family joins together in a corresponding pledge to the social, cultural and educational involvement, growth and development of Edinboro students.

Media coverage of all opening of school activities is invited.

ANDY RICHTER OPENS EDINBORO'S 1997-98 CONCERT AND LECTURE SERIES

Andy Richter, the sidekick on NBC's Late Night with Conan O'Brien, will open Edinboro University of Pennsylvania's 1997-98 Concert and Lecture Series on Monday, September 22, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

A multi-talented actor, writer and comedian, Richter has been host Conan O'Brien's right-hand man since the show's premiere on September 13, 1993. He comes to Edinboro with a multimedia lecture extravaganza, "How to be a Talk Show Host and Other Worthless Crap." Showcasing the off-beat deadpan humor that has made Richter a viewer favorite, his lecture will feature highlights from Late Night's first three years.

Before making his network-television debut on Late Night, Richter portrayed Mike Brady in the New York and Los Angeles stage productions of The Real Live Brady Bunch. He has also performed with various Chicago-based improvisational groups. His credits include Annoyance Theater, Gambrinus King of Beer, Comedy Underground, and Improvolympia. He studied improvisation in Chicago under the direction of Del Close and Mick Napier.

Richter attended the University of Illinois Urbana/Champaign and Columbia College in Chicago, where he studied film and video. He was born in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and grew up in Yorkville, Illinois. He lives in New York with his wife, actress Sarah Thyre.

Edinboro's Concert and Lecture Series is the University's year-long program featuring outstanding speakers, performers and entertainers from around the world. BRUCE GALLERY OPENS FALL SEASON WITH TWO ART EXHIBITIONS

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania's Bruce Gallery will present two art shows from September 3 to September 27: "Moving Metal: An Invitational Exhibition of Contemporary Metals," and "Weapons in Disguise and Questionable Trophies, an Exhibition of Sculpture," by artist Eileen Doktorski.

"Moving Metal" an exhibition of jewelry, functional hollowware and sculpture will show the great breadth of work being produced in the field of metals today. Exhibition curator Suzanne Amendolara has chosen artists who represent the sculptural and conceptual concerns present in contemporary metal work without ignoring work that builds on the rich history of design and importance of function in craft objects. The list of artists – both established and emerging – include Jocelyn Chateauvert, Yosuke Inoue, Christine Clark, Alix Mikesell, Ben Cunningham, David Pimentel, Harriete Estel Berman, Chris Ramsey, Pat Flynn, and Rebecca Reimers Cristol.

Doktorski's exhibition – a combination of objects and cast body parts – invites the viewer to investigate touch, fear, protection and privacy. In describing one piece (Grand Slam), Doktorski said "...a bat with an iron-like patina, has a cast of a woman's stiletto-heeled shoe aggressively attached to its end. Displayed diagonally on the wall like medieval swords or axes, it is both ornament and weapon. Seductive surfaces of paint, metal leaf and metallic powders make these other-real objects into aesthetic images of our imagination rather than artifacts of a violent act."

Doktorski will present a lecture about her sculpture on Wednesday, September ³~~23~~, at 6 p.m., in Bruce Gallery immediately before the opening reception at 7 p.m. Bruce Gallery hours are 2 - 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, and 7 - 9 p.m. Wednesday evenings.
