Local Arrangements welcomes SCA to San Antonio

by Moya Ball
 Trinity University

Thomas R. Burkholder
 Southwest Texas State University
 (Local Arrangement Co-Chairs)

On behalf of this year's Local Arrangements Committee Chairs, we would like to welcome you to San Antonio, one of the most cosmopolitan cities in North America. Sometimes called Mexico's northernmost city, San Antonio offers visitors an exciting intercultural experience. The world-famous Riverwalk, the Alamo, El Mercado, the Institute of Texan Cultures, 16th-Century Spanish missions, galleries, museums, theatres, restaurants—as well as David Robinson and the Spurs—guarantee SCA members an entertaining and memorable visit.

The Riverwalk, San Antonio's answer to New Orleans' French Quarter, is a short walk from the convention hotels. For a leisurely introduction to its attractions, take a boat ride. Boats depart regularly from two main locations—opposite the Hilton Palacio del Rio, and below the Marriott Rivercenter. The 30-minute ride costs three dollars and passes the myriad of dining, drinking, and entertainment establishments that line the river. Sample traditional Mexican cuisine, local Tex-Mex, cajun and creole, German, Italian, Oriental food, and even McDonalds hamburgers. On a balmy November evening you can sip a cold beer at Dick's Last Resort, dine on Texas barbecue at County Line, dance to rock'n' roll at the Hard Rock Cafe, or sample a prickly pear margarita at Zuni Grill.

Back on street level and just a few steps from the convention hotels, you can visit the Alamo, shrine of Texas Independence, and La Villita, the quaint original settlement of old San Antonio featuring artist and craft shops set in distinctive 19th-century German architecture. Follow Commerce Street a few short blocks west to El Mercado and its 50 shops filled with Mexican handicrafts and cultural artifacts. Try a taco or burrito from one of the street vendors. Two blocks south of the two Marriotts is Hemisphere Plaza, with the Tower of the Americas, the Institute of Texan Cultures, Instituto Cultural Mexicano, and the campus of the National Autonomous University of Mexico.

If you have time, visit the Majestic Theatre at 212 East Houston Street. Its interior architecture must be experienced to be believed. Sports fans should note that the Spurs will host the Charlotte Hornets on November 18 and the Chicago Bulls on November 22. Mr. Robinson's Neighborhood, otherwise known as the Alamodome, is just east of the convention hotels.

For those who wish to range further afield, San Antonio is the site of four 16th-century Spanish missions. Catch the trolley downtown to reach all four. The McNay Art Museum, 6000 North

SCA announces new Index on CD

by Ted Spencer
 SCA Publications Manager

SCA is pleased to announce that it has finally completed work on its project to place the Index to Journals in Communication Studies (edited by Ron Matlon and Sylvia Ortiz) into searchable CD-ROM format. The CD-ROM Index will index several sets of information:

- searchable titles and authors of all 22 indexed journals through 1994
- searchable abstracts for the six SCA journals through 1994
- searchable full text for the six SCA journals from 1991-1994

The product requires only that your computer have a CD-ROM drive. The software for running the program is self-contained on the CD and does not need to be installed.

The CD program is displayed in a Windows-type format, although Windows is not required to run the program. Users are led through the program with plenty of menus and dialog boxes to make searches easy even for computer novices.

Readers familiar with the current Index to Journals will recognize that the citation data from all 22 indexed journals is in the new product. The serials have been updated for title, author, journal, and date through 1994. Keywords will not be available until the 1996 edition. In addition, the six SCA journals are indexed by abstract through 1994 and by full

Dissertation

Redeemer Nation, Redeemer President: George Bush Talks Us into War.
Robert Newman and Theodore Windt, Directors.

The focus of the dissertation is a critical analysis of the rhetoric used by President Bush during the Gulf War. Given that the Cold War had recently ended, Bush could no longer appeal to such ideas as "war to contain communism." A new war rhetoric had to be developed, one that would begin to set the standard for war justification in the late 20th century. Bush appealed to American civil religion and historical analogy in the Gulf War, and justified the conflict as one of American responsibility to be a redeeming nation. As the "sole remaining superpower," it was America's calling to "save" the "defenseless" nation of Kuwait for the invasion of Iraq.

Dear Committee Members:

In his academic performance, George Lehman exhibits traits that are crucial to success in an internship and in professional endeavors. He is conscientious, well-prepared, diligent, thorough in his problem analysis, and creative in his problem solving. Furthermore, when he makes a commitment, he meets it. He holds himself to high standards of performance.

I have known George as a student in three of my classes: Principles of Marketing (MK230), Channels of Distribution (MK360), and New Product Planning and Development (MK380). The assignments in each of these classes require a great deal of student-instructor interaction outside of the classroom. Consequently, I have an opportunity to observe in-depth the work habits, attitude, and output of the students. George excels in all three areas. He pursues his studies with zeal, and with the goal of fully understanding and being able to apply the concepts presented. Memorization of mere facts is not sufficient for him. His work is of the highest quality, both thorough and perceptive.

George currently is pursuing his second bachelor's degree. He already is an Edinboro University alumnus with a degree in graphic arts, and worked in his field for four years before returning to school. He now is earning a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a concentration in Marketing. Because of his previous education and work experience, George brings an uncommon perspective and maturity to his marketing studies. He is able to integrate theory and practice, and to devise pragmatic and functional solutions to business problems.

George willingly pursues course topics beyond class requirements. In Principles of Marketing, for example, students are required to determine the components of a good package and then evaluate a specific product's package. George agreed to extend this assignment, and to compare and contrast a "good package" from the perspective of a graphic artist and a marketer. He recognized that these two perspectives do not necessarily align, and presented examples of products able to meet the standards of both.

New Product Planning and Development is a particularly good course for evaluating a student and his/her potential for success. Students, working in small teams, conceive a new product concept, perform concept tests, develop the product protocol, and design the product use and market tests. Students in the course, as with practitioners in the field, must have a broad understanding of business functions, must draw upon both creative and analytical skills, must be adept at working with others, and must be thorough planners and flexible implementers. George is enrolled in this course this semester and already has demonstrated all of these skills. He clearly is he leader on his team.

In each of my classes, students are required to make informal and formal oral presentations, complete with the use of media; they are held to business standards in their written reports. George has demonstrated excellent communication skills. In oral presentations, he handles audience interaction with polish.

Both in and out of the classroom, George is a delight to work with. His relaxed style and delightful sense of humor add much to all his interactions.

Without reservation or hesitation, I recommend George Lehman for The Harrisburg Internship Semester.

Yours truly,

Dear Committee Members:

In five or ten years I am sure I will look back at my final year at Edinboro and appreciate those educational and practical experiences that pushed me beyond the normal college experiences. These will be the experiences that will have prepared me the most and helped to open doors for me that would have otherwise been closed. Clearly, the Harrisburg Internship Semester would be one of those experiences.

I have already extended my college education past what is considered usual. I received a bachelor's degree in communication graphics in 1990. Recently, after working for four years, I became unemployed and decided to pursue other career options. In doing so I decided to return to school to extend my educational and practical experiences.

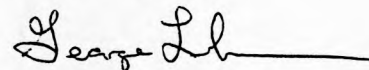

Over the years I have watched as many of my friends have gone from business school to the business world. They achieved much in their years at Edinboro and have continued that success in their business careers. I am determined to follow their example and achieve a level of success at least equal to theirs.

Returning to school proved to be difficult. It was not easy getting back into the right frame of mind or getting used to the classroom again. However, in my first semester back I was named to the Dean's List with a 3.8 grade point average.

I came into last semester undecided as to what I should concentrate my education on. In the middle of the semester, with some guidance, I decided to pursue a degree in marketing. It seemed to fit very well with my degree in graphic design. Since that time I have found that my two educational concentrations, as different as they are, complement each other. I am confident that this is certain to continue into whatever future career I might pursue.

If I were to receive this internship I would, of course, conduct myself in a very professional and capable manner. I would give maximum effort and attention to every task given to me. My wife and I realize that this would be a challenging period, but are very enthusiastic about the opportunities that will arise in the future due to this experience.

Yours truly,

George Lehman

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

EDINBORO UNIVERSITY REPORTS CHARITABLE GIVING UP 25%

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania officials have announced that contributions during the 1994-95 fiscal year rose by 25 percent over the previous fiscal year.

Nationally, donations to educational institutions in 1994 increased by 8.5 percent, according to the American Association of Fund Raising Counsel's Trust for Philanthropy. A similar survey by the Council for Aid to Education reported private giving to colleges and universities rising by 10.3 percent during the same period.

John (Jack) E. Martin, associate vice president for institutional advancement, said that Edinboro's $1.5 million in total 1994-95 gifts came from the following sources:

- Alumni: $181,858, an 18.5 percent increase over the previous year;
- Corporations: $65,116, a 14.5 percent increase from last year;
- Matching gifts: $8,723, a gain of $1,220 or 16 percent;
- Gifts-in-kind: $584,541, up $307,005, or 11 percent. The gift to Edinboro University of the Taylor House facility by University Services, Inc., is included in this total, Martin said.

Donations from foundations, friends and employees of the University, and gifts to athletics remained stable, Martin said, and accounted for more than $689,000 of the total contributions.

Mark Carter, Edinboro's assistant director of development, said that more than half of the donations from the school's alumni came from gifts and pledges to the Annual Fund, and that most of those resulted from two phonathon fund drives held last fall and this spring.

Dennis Ranalli, a 1974 Edinboro graduate and an Alumni Association director, chaired the 1994-95 Annual Fund drive. Ranalli is a vice president and resident manager for Merrill Lynch in Erie.

Jody Bucho Gallagher, a past president and current member of the Alumni Association Board of Directors and a two-time Edinboro graduate, will chair the 1995-96 Annual Fund campaign. Gallagher is the assistant to the University's dean of education.

Dr. James Flynn, chairperson of the educational services department at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, was chosen by the Institute for Development of Educational Activities, Inc. (IDEA) to participate in the 28th IDEA Fellows Program for outstanding school administrators. He was selected to be among the one percent of the most effective American educators invited to attend a leadership seminar, held July 9-15, at Teikyo Loretto Heights University in Denver.

The theme for this year's conference was "Beyond Goals 2000: The Focus is Learning Together." Among the topics addressed during the week were: technology in the classroom, school violence and privatizing education. Presentations by nationally prominent researchers, writers, and speakers focused on the challenges school administrators must meet if they are to provide the quality of education the country expects for elementary and secondary students.

The IDEA Fellows Program is the longest continuing in-service program for school administrators in the nation. Over the years it has provided professional development for more than 8,000 educators from North America and overseas. Approximately 300 additional nominees are invited to join this number each year.

MEMO TO: Jack Martin
FROM: Brian Pitzer
DATE: July 5, 1995
RE: Dr. Michael Mogavero

I had an interesting telephone conversation this morning with our new dean of SM&T, Dr. Michael Mogavero. We discussed the news release I will be writing announcing his appointment. Among the things he wants to emphasize are the University's relationship with business and industry, and its role as a community resource. He specifically mentioned technology transfer, business consulting, TQM, and the University's role in helping to bring businesses into the 21st century. His real goal, he said, is to boost enrollment.

He and his wife are from western Pennsylvania and New York. He knows the former dean of the business school at Gannon, who was just released when Gannon combined its school of business with the school of liberal arts. The former dean said Gannon is taking a step away from the business community with that consolidation. Mogavero believes it has created a tremendous vacuum, creating an opportunity for Edinboro.

I asked him if he had met you yet, because of your apparent parallel interests in forging closer ties with the Erie business community. He said he had not, but he would like the three of us to have lunch to discuss how SM&T, development and PR can work together.

He will be coming to Edinboro at the end of July.

Thank you.

EDINBORO UNIVERSITY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

ADMISSIONS GRANTS FUND - CRITERIA FOR SELECTION OF RECIPIENTS

1. There shall be five awards annually, administered September through May.
2. Each scholarship will be $2,000 annually, payable $1,000 per semester, applied directly to the student's account.
3. Scholarships may be used to reduce the cost of tuition, room, board or fees, but cannot exceed the direct cost of attendance at Edinboro, when used in combination with any other form of financial aid.
4. Scholarships are to be awarded to first time freshmen only. Recipients must be enrolled full time (12 credits or more) each semester, with a minimum of 24 new credits earned each year. Awards are designed for credits earned at Edinboro, from September to May. Scholarships are renewable each year, not to exceed a total of eight semesters with a minimum cumulative G.P.A. of 3.0 or higher.
5. Awards are only to be granted one time per candidate, with renewal possibility each successive year. If student loses award due to lack of academic progress (not maintaining an annual 3.0 G.P.A. in matriculation) the award cannot be re-issued to the same individual at a later date. Loss for non-academic reasons will be reviewed by the Committee on a case by case basis.
6. Scholarships are neither curriculum nor legacy specific.
7. Criteria for awards will be based upon high school curriculum, grades, overall grade point average, class rank, SAT or ACT scores, extracurricular activities, leadership qualities and any other information available to the Committee. Financial need is not a criteria, but can be considered by the Committee.
8. These awards are not to be used for athletic recruitment, but student athletes should not be excluded from consideration if they meet established guidelines.
9. State of residency is not a factor, and these awards can be utilized to help off-set the non-Pennsylvania tuition differential for out of state students who meet all prerequisites.
10. Awards will not be granted for summer study. Exceptions for extenuating circumstances will be considered by the Committee on a case by case basis.
11. The Committee, in consultation with the Executive Committee of the Alumni Board of Directors, will consider all matters pertaining to the awarding of the Admissions Grants Fund not specifically outlined in this criteria for award document.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

VIDEO AT EDINBORO TELLS OF TRUSTEE OPPORTUNITIES

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania officials are pleased to announce that a new video, "Welcome, Trustee," is now available for public viewing at the University's Baron-Forness Library.

The video was produced by the Pennsylvania Association of Councils of Trustees (PACT) in cooperation with the State System of Higher Education and trustees at the 14 State System universities.

Although designed primarily to acquaint new university trustees with their roles and responsibilities, the brief video will be of general interest to anyone wanting to learn more about the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education, its 14 universities, and the opportunities for service offered by trusteeship.

It will be of special interest to members of the community who may be interested in serving as a trustee, or to Edinboro students who may wish to be considered for appointment as the student representative to the University's Council of Trustees.

Trustees at Edinboro and the 13 other state-owned universities are nominated and appointed to six-year terms by the Governor of Pennsylvania with the advice and consent of the state Senate. Student representatives to the councils are appointed by the Governor under provisions of Act 188 of 1982, the enabling legislation for the State System of Higher Education, and serve four-year terms or until graduation.

Summer hours of the Baron-Forness Library are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday; and 2 to 10 p.m. on Sunday. For more information, call the library's information desk at 814/732-2253.

TO: ~~Mr.~~ William Reed, Assistant Vice President for Public Information

SUBJECT: "Welcome Trustees" Video

DATE: June 28, 1995

Bill, attached is a communication from Howard J. Smith, who is the President of the Pennsylvania Association of Councils of Trustees. Mr. Smith explains that the "Welcome Trustees" video is now available at Baron-Forness Library. This video is primarily designed to acquaint new Council of Trustees members with the role and responsibilities of a SSHE trustee, but it is also a good information source for a community member, for example, who may be interested in serving as a trustee. A third audience of this video would be students who may be considering serving as a student representative to the Edinboro University Council of Trustees.

Would you please write two press releases announcing the fact that this video is available. The first would target community members and alumni and would most likely be sent to the Alumni News, Independent Enterprise, and perhaps even the Erie Morning News. The second press release would target students and would be sent only to The Spectator. For your information, I have enclosed with this communication a copy of the video.

Please contact me if you require additional information.

Thank you.

Mr. Foster F. Diebold
President
Edinboro University of Pennsylvania
Edinboro, PA 16444

Dear President Diebold:

On behalf of the members of the Executive Board of the Pennsylvania Association of Councils of Trustees (PACT), I am pleased to provide you with a copy of the Association's new video, "Welcome, Trustee." As you know, it was produced cooperatively by the 14 universities in the State System for use as an educational tool with newly-appointed trustees.

A copy also is being sent to your university library with a request that it be made available for viewing by anyone interested in finding out more about the duties of a trustee. It is my hope that you will encourage your student trustees to offer it as a reference to students desiring appointment to the council of trustees. If you hold a regular work session or conference session with your council, perhaps you might find it useful, as well.

We plan to share a copy of the video with each newly-appointed trustee, along with the Handbook for Trustees of the State System of Higher Education. This document was first published in 1989, in cooperation with the Office of the Chancellor, and provides a historical perspective on trusteeship, as well as more specifics on the powers and duties prescribed in Act 188 of 1982

Please encourage your trustees to view the video they will receive. Once they have finished with it, the video may be returned to the PACT Office in Harrisburg for use by another trustee.

As always, your continuing support of the State System's 154 university trustees is acknowledged and appreciated.

Sincerely,

Howard J. Smith, Jr.
President

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

MARGARET WALKER: CHAMPION RACE WALKER

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania has produced numerous champion athletes over the years, but perhaps none more dedicated than Margaret Walker who earned her master's degree in 1987. Since taking up the sport of race walking six years ago, she has become one of the sport's biggest success stories. In her first race she took third place; by the tenth race she was a winner. This year she has already won the 5K National Race Walk in Washington, D.C., and the 10K in Niagara Falls. In May she won two gold medals at the Senior Sports Classic in San Antonio. She is planning to compete in the World Association of Veteran Athletes competition in Buffalo in July, an event that attracts 5,000 athletes from all over the world.

What makes Walker's story unusual is her age. She is 73 and competes against other athletes in her age bracket, but trains for her competitions just as seriously as any younger athlete prepares for the Olympics. She walks a minimum of four miles a day, five or six days a week. "I can out-walk a 73-year-old runner," she said matter-of-factly.

She was introduced to race walking by two other Edinboro graduates, Dortha Higgins, '68, and her daughter, Susan Packard, '75, '77. One day they were going to a race walk and asked Walker if she would like to join them. Walker decided to give it a try and has been at it ever since. She said her only strategy that first race was to go as fast as she could.

There are rewards other than winning said Walker. She likes eating anything she wants, staying in shape, and meeting a lot of nice people from all over the county.

Through the sport, Walker has become a member of the North Coast Striders and the Erie Runners Club, whose president, Janet Yanosko, '74, '79, is also an Edinboro graduate. Last year the club honored Walker as Race Walker of the Year.

~~Walker~~ She has no regrets about not discovering the sport sooner. "I'm just going to stick this out as long as I can," ~~said Walker.~~ <sup>she said.</sup> you better walk the walk.

Just ask senior race walker Margaret Walker, who at 73 years young is the reigning U.S. National Senior Sports Classic V champion at 5K and 1500 meters.

"Walking is something everyone should do," said Walker, a Cambridge Springs resident who went heel-to-toe for her two gold medals at the fifth annual event on May 24 in San Antonio, Texas. "It's great exercise, a great way to remain in shape and a great way to meet people."

Walker — a member of the North Coast Striders who moved to the area 15 years ago when husband John retired from military service — began her competitive career in 1989 after being lured to a recreational walk by a friend.

And she's been on the move ever since. Not bad for a female who was never able to compete in athletics at old Edinboro High School or during her collegiate years at Penn State when the university didn't sponsor women's sports.

"Other than recreational swimming, race walking is all I do," said Walker. "I just love it."

Having traveled to several national events, Walker has become an advocate of the sport, soliciting younger athletes to sidestep running events and adjust to the intricacies necessary to compete in race walking.

"Race walking has its own special gate," Walker said. "It's heel down first, keep the knee straight as it goes under your body and keep one foot on the ground at all times — those are the two main rules. The biomechanics are specific to help you go fast."

"Race walkers would like youngsters to get started in race walking. Everybody seems to want to run but it takes a lot of energy to compete at a high level in race walking and it's an exacting gate."

Walker was dominating at the Senior Sports Classic, winning the 5K by a 2:33 margin and by another comfortable margin at 1500 meters.

She also said there is no end to her racing in the foreseeable future. It's just business as usual — lace 'em up and go.

"I love to compete locally. I go to as many events as I can and during the summer there are a terrific number of race events in the area," Walker said. "The next Senior Games are in Tucson and I'll be in the next oldest category. When you get to a certain age it's nice to be the youngest in a category and I'm definitely looking forward to holding on for that."

Lessner walked on at Miami two years ago. He was the team's top setup man out of the bullpen last season, and took over as the Hurricanes' closer this year.

A number of big league clubs have been impressed with Jay's numbers, as well as with his poise and maturity. "He never gave up, even when they cut him from the team at West Virginia and earlier at Miami," said Harold Young, Jay's great uncle.

With a booster like Harold in your corner, it's easy to see how Jay's had so much success at the big-time college level.

■ WE KNOW OF AT least eight area high school and college baseball players who'll be taking part in the June 9th tryout at Jacobs Field in Cleveland. It starts at 9 a.m., and participants must be between the ages of 16 and 21. They must also take their own glove and spikes to the tryout.

■ ERIE NATIVE Bob Derda, who's done such a great job as director of sales and marketing for the Pittsburgh Pirates these past few years, has left the club to join the staff of a sports marketing agency in Pittsburgh.

Through the thick and thin years at Three Rivers week, finishing the day with a smashing 758 series. Way to go, Stan.

■ FROM OUR REQUEST last week for old photographs of Ainsworth Field, we've received some dandies. One is of Babe Ruth holding a beautiful little girl in his arms, while standing on the diamond at Ainsworth. It's believed the photo was snapped during Ruth's appearance here in 1923, but we'd like to know the identity of the little girl. If any of our readers know, please call Liz Allen at 870-1692.

Liz is coordinating our special Field of Dreams section, which will be included with the Sunday paper on June 18th. Working on the section has been a labor of love — for Liz and the rest of our contributors.

■ FINALLY, a tip of the sports cap to Cambridge Springs' Margaret Walker, who won a gold medal at the recent U.S. National Senior Sports Classic in San Antonio, Texas.

Margaret took the gold in her age division at the women's 5,000-meter race walk at the Classic. The chairman of the event later singled her out for her special achievement.

EDINBORO GRAD STEVE CARPENTER ANIMATES TV COMMERCIAL

A new national television commercial for Raid is not only one of the latest computer animated commercials to be produced, it is also the work of Steve Carpenter, a 1993 art/cinema graduate of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania. Carpenter is a senior animator for Will Vinton Studio, which is best known for the California Raisins and Chips Ahoy! TV commercials.

The Raid commercial, which is a take-off on some of the Calvin Klein ads, features beautifully-composed shots, computer-modeled characters and exquisite studio lighting techniques. Carpenter modeled the characters and did nearly all of the lip-sync computer animation for the commercial.

Following graduation from Edinboro, Carpenter was hired by Will Vinton Studio as a computer systems manager, in charge of overseeing the studio's large computer facility of Amiga, IBM, MacIntosh and SGI computers. He will soon be promoted to assistant director on a new series of computer-animated commercials scheduled for release in the fall of 1995.

While at Edinboro, Carpenter did computer systems work and created numerous three-dimensional computer animations using the University's NewTek Lightwave 3-D program – the same software program used to produce the new Raid commercial and both the Seaquest and Babylon 5 television series. He also participated in a faculty-research grant to construct rendering software for the University's NewTek Video Toasters and Amiga computers.

Edinboro will obtain its first DEC Alpha computer at the end of June and install the Alpha version of the software when it is ready in September.

Using its Amiga computers, Edinboro University was among the first in the area to extensively use the Lightwave 3-D software with the Video Toaster. This past year, the University also served as a BETA tester for NewTek's Video Flyer non-linear editing system. The University demonstrated the current Lightwave software and the Video Toaster at the Erie Summer Arts Festival at Villa Maria.
