Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Dr. Frank Pogue lights the candle of graduating senior Traci Betlan at the university's fourth annual Torch Night Ceremony. Introduced by Pogue in 1997 and held on the eve of the spring commencement, the symbolic torch lighting ceremony represents the passing of the torch of leadership from the graduating class to members of the student body who will emerge as the campus leaders or "torch bearers" of tomorrow. The spring Torch Night complements the Candle Lighting Ceremony held when school opens each fall to welcome new students as full members of the Edinboro University Family.

EDINBORO'S JUSTINA BARON CELEBRATES 100 YEARS

Justina J. Baron, the former Edinboro University of Pennsylvania librarian and one of the school's best-known and most-loved alumnae, celebrated her 100th birthday on June 17, 2000.

The celebration took place among family and friends at Saint Mary's Home of Erie, where she has resided since 1991.

A delegation of Edinboro University officials joined the birthday celebration and presented her with a Royal Stewart tartan "Fighting Scots" blanket.

A 1917 graduate of the Edinboro State Normal School, Baron began her career in education teaching all eight grades in a one-room schoolhouse. Four years later, she took an apprentice course at the Erie Public Library and received her diploma from the Carnegie Library School.

In 1925, she joined the faculty of the Erie Branch of Edinboro State Normal School, and the same year, completed her bachelor's degree at the University of Pittsburgh. She later earned a master's degree in library science from the University of Michigan. When the Erie Branch closed in 1931 during the Depression, she was appointed assistant librarian and cataloger on the Edinboro campus and was later placed in charge of acquisitions. She retired in 1965.

In 1977, one year after its construction, Edinboro University's campus library – the largest in northwestern Pennsylvania – was named the Baron-Forness Library by the school's trustees in honor of Justina Baron and the late Mildred Forness, two women who dedicated their lives to serving Edinboro students as librarians.

Baron remained active in several organizations after retirement. For many years, she was the primary force behind Edinboro's Alumni Association, volunteering her time to maintain alumni lists and organizing the annual alumni reunion luncheon and other special events. A tradition at the reunion luncheon for many years was her "calling of the classes," where she called by class year the names of all the Edinboro alumni in attendance.

She was recognized by the Alumni Association as a Distinguished Alumna of the University in 1977, and, in 1986, was named the first honorary lifetime member of the Alumni Board of Directors.

The Justina J. Baron Scholarship Fund was established in her honor in 1982. The scholarship is awarded each year to a son, daughter, grandchild, niece or nephew of an Edinboro graduate.

Baron was also a very accomplished photographer and donated her collection of more than 4,000 slides to the Baron-Forness Library. The library has commemorated her 100th birthday by initiating a project to digitize the slides and make them available over the Internet.

A delegation of Edinboro University officials was on hand to help 1917 Edinboro graduate Justina Baron celebrate her 100th birthday last month. Bringing birthday greetings and presenting the school's most beloved centenarian with a university blanket were Daniel Higham, Alumni Association board president; Donald Dilmore, associate vice-president for university libraries and academic programs; and Bruce Whitehair, vice-president for development and marketing. Baron served the university for 40 years, until her retirement in 1965. Edinboro's Baron-Forness Library, built in 1976 and still the largest in northwestern Pennsylvania, was named in her honor and in memory of her colleague librarian, Mildred Forness, in 1977.

EDINBORO'S BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION PROGRAM RECEIVES ACCREDITATION

The department of business administration and economics at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania has received accreditation from the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP). The ACBSP accreditation is for the University's associate and bachelor of science degrees in business administration. Edinboro also offers a bachelor's degree in economics.

"Accreditation ensures the currency of our faculty and programs," said department chair Michael Hannan. "We are constantly updating and enhancing our programs to match the changing needs of employers and maximize the employability of our graduates."

The department is one of the largest in the University with more than 500 majors and 15 faculty. The bachelor's degree in business offers concentrations in accounting, comprehensive business administration, financial services and marketing. All students in both programs take courses in accounting, economics, finance, management, marketing, business law and information resource management.

Hannan noted that accreditation is just the most recent of several developments within the department. Two years ago, the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards granted registration to Edinboro's financial services concentration, making it one of just six such programs in the state. Also, the department recently began offering a graduate certificate in public accounting for those wishing to become a certified public accountant or enhance their professional credentials in accounting.

MEDIA ADVISORY:

LAFAYETTE COMMEMORATIVE DAYS CELEBRATED,
JUNE 1, 2, IN WATERFORD AND ERIE

Lafayette Commemorative Days, a Together 2000 millennium event marking the 175th anniversary of the visit of the Marquis de Lafayette to Erie and Waterford in 1825, will be celebrated with special events in both places on June 1 and 2.

Suggested events for best media coverage are:

On Thursday, June 1, 10:15 a.m.: Welcoming ceremonies at the Fort LeBoeuf Historical Museum in Waterford, including a dedication of the beaver trade teaching trunk in memory of history education pioneer and Revolutionary War reenactor Russell McLaughlin.

On Friday, June 2, 9 a.m., at the Erie History Center at Discovery Square on State Street: community reception welcoming the honorary French consul for the Pittsburgh area, Jean-Pierre Collet, and his wife, Madame Helene Collet, who will symbolically represent General Lafayette and the members of his party. Collet, who has been consul since 1979, is vice president international of Pittsburgh Corning Corporation and the current president of the Consular Association of Pittsburgh.

Other events on Thursday, June 1:

9:15 a.m.: Coffee and reception for members of the Fort LeBoeuf Historical Society and community leaders at the Judson House in Waterford.

11:15 a.m.: Wreath laying on the grave of Revolutionary War soldiers, Waterford Cemetery.

Noon: Commemorative luncheon at Waterford's historic Eagle Hotel, limited seating, by reservation only ($9).

1:15 p.m.: Lecture about French occupation of the region by Robert Emerson, director, Old Fort Niagara, at the Judson House in Waterford.

3:30 p.m.: Boat ride on Presque Isle Bay and Lake Erie sponsored by the Erie Port Authority for visiting dignitaries and speakers, followed by a visit to Dickson's Tavern.

6:00 p.m.: Lafayette Supper and Commemorative Program at the Erie Maritime Museum and Hirt Auditorium. Dinner ($15) by reservation, with costumed AAUW members assisting as servers; 7:30 p.m. program featuring reenactment of the Lafayette toasts and a lecture ("The Art and Pageantry of the Visit of Lafayette as a Guest of the Nation") by Dr. Marc Miller is free.

Other events on Friday, June 2:

10:00 a.m.: Lecture by Dr. Renata Wolyneć, Fort LeBoeuf Historical Museum director and professor of anthropology at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, on the impact of the American Revolution on Native Americans in the area, in the Orientation Theater of the Erie Maritime Museum.

Lafayette's visit to the area in 1825 was part of a multi-month tour of America taken at the invitation of President John Quincy Adams to acknowledge Lafayette's enormous contribution to the creation of the United States. He was en route from Buffalo to Pittsburgh when he visited Waterford and Erie.

Lafayette Commemorative Days is an official event of Together 2000, Erie's community celebration to mark the millennium. The Erie County Millennium Commission, composed of community leaders led by Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Dr. Frank Pogue, is coordinating the city's and county's year-long celebration.

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Frank Pogue (right), here with Seneca High School Principal Albert Leonzi and Karen McCracken, the school's 2000 valedictorian, was the guest speaker at Seneca's 20th Annual Scholarship Recognition Night. More than 300 Seneca High students were presented certificates for their academic achievements. In his remarks, Pogue urged the students "to continue to take pride in your academic accomplishments, in your school, in your community and in your world," and not to listen, said Pogue "to anyone who may tell you that it's not 'cool' to do well in school." Pogue noted also that Seneca's principal, assistant principal and a guidance counselor, as well as the Wattsburg School District's superintendent and assistant superintendent, were Edinboro University graduates. "In all, the five earned 12 degrees and certifications at Edinboro," Pogue said.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

EDINBORO'S JUSTINA BARON TO CELEBRATE 100 YEARS ON JUNE 17

Justina J. Baron, the former Edinboro University of Pennsylvania librarian and one of the school's best-known and most-loved alumnae, will celebrate her 100th birthday on June 17, 2000.

The celebration will take place at noon on Saturday, June 17, at Saint Mary's Home of Erie, 607 East 26th Street.

Helping her celebrate her 100th year with greetings and gifts will be a party of Edinboro University and Alumni Association officials headed by University President Dr. Frank G. Pogue.

A 1917 graduate of the Edinboro State Normal School, Baron began her career in education teaching all eight grades in a one-room schoolhouse. Four years later, she took an apprentice course at the Erie Public Library and received her diploma from the Carnegie Library School.

In 1925, she joined the faculty of the Erie Branch of Edinboro State Normal School, and the same year, completed her bachelor's degree at the University of Pittsburgh. She later earned a master's degree in library science from the University of Michigan. When the Erie Branch closed in 1931 during the Depression, she was appointed assistant librarian and cataloger on the Edinboro campus and was later placed in charge of acquisitions. She retired in 1965.

In 1977, one year after its construction, Edinboro University's campus library – the largest in northwestern Pennsylvania – was named the Baron-Forness Library by the school's trustees in honor of Justina Baron and the late Mildred Forness, two women who dedicated their lives to serving Edinboro students as librarians.

Baron remained active in several organizations after retirement. For many years, she was the primary force behind Edinboro's Alumni Association, volunteering her time to maintain alumni lists and organizing the annual alumni reunion luncheon and other special events. A tradition at the reunion luncheon for many years was her "calling of the classes," where she called by class year the names of all the Edinboro alumni in attendance.

She was recognized by the Alumni Association as a Distinguished Alumna of the University in 1977, and, in 1986, was named the first honorary lifetime member of the Alumni Board of Directors.

The Justina J. Baron Scholarship Fund was established in her honor in 1982. The scholarship is awarded each year to a son, daughter, grandchild, niece or nephew of an Edinboro graduate.

Baron was also a very accomplished photographer and donated her collection of more than 4,000 slides to the Baron-Forness Library. The library has commemorated her 100th birthday by initiating a project to digitize the slides and make them available over the Internet.

Baron has resided at Saint Mary's Home of Erie since 1991.

Media coverage of the noon, June 17 birthday celebration is invited.

LOCAL STUDENT ENTERS EDINBORO UNIVERSITY UNDER DUAL ARTICULATION AGREEMENTS

Dan Dell, a recent graduate from General McLane High School, will enroll in Edinboro University of Pennsylvania's manufacturing engineering technology (MET) program this fall with 16 credits already obtained through courses taken in high school. Dell earned the credits by meeting the necessary requirements of the MET articulation agreement and the academic articulation agreement General McLane has with Edinoro University.

Carefully mapping out his educational path at an early age, Dell met with high school guidance counselor Gary Astorino before entering ninth grade to discuss his interest in the tooling and machining field. Astorino explained the MET articulation agreement with Edinboro University and informed Dell of the importance in taking the high level math and science classes offered at General McLane.

Dell and his parents also met with Edinboro University physics and technology professor Pete Mathews who explained how specific high school courses could be applied toward a two-year associate degree in manufacturing engineering technology.

"Dan was torn between going to Vo-Tech for tool and die or staying at the high school and taking a college bound program," said Dell's mother, Julie. "The fact that Dan stayed at the high school enabled him to take the higher level math and science courses that are very important to this program."

Under the MET articulation agreement, Dell received 12 credits for Edinboro courses in Manufacturing Processes I, Technical Drawing I, Computer Aided Drafting and Introduction to Robotics by taking the necessary courses outlined in the articulation agreement at General McLane. He also received 4 credits for college writing skills by taking accelerated and advanced placement level courses English at General McLane.

By planning early, Dell was able to get a head start on his college degree while in high school. That allowed Dell to build a strong foundation for his future studies at Edinboro University.

After earning his associate degree at Edinboro University, Dell hopes to further his education at the Rochester Institute of Technology which accepts students from Edinboro's MET program, allowing them to enroll as a junior in their manufacturing program.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

JUDITH ANN PIELEMEIER APPOINTED AT EDINBORO UNIVERSITY

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Dr. Frank Pogue has announced the appointment of Judith Ann Pielemeier to the position of assistant vice president for development and marketing at the University. Her appointment comes at the conclusion of a six-month national search and will become effective on July 16.

Pielemeier comes to Edinboro from Corning Community College in Corning, N.Y., where she has served since 1995 as the college's director of institutional advancement and executive director of its development foundation.

Prior to that, she was the director of individual giving, major gifts and the annual campaign at Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio.

"Judith brings a wealth of experience and ability to Edinboro's total advancement program," said Pogue. "She is well grounded in alumni and foundation relations, annual funds, major and special gifts, and most importantly, capital campaigns, as we are now in the planning stages for what will be only the second major capital campaign in Edinboro university's 144-year history."

Pielemeier holds a bachelor of arts degree from California State University at Long Beach.

Pielemeier began her career in fund raising at Georgetown University in Washington as the assistant director of the annual fund, where she was involved with planning and coordinating volunteer activities, phonathons and major giving programs.

From 1975 to 1979, she was the associate director of the Seattle (Wash.) University Alumni Association, and later served briefly as director of alumni relations and the annual fund at Westminster College in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Pielemeier then joined the advancement staff at Youngstown State University in Ohio, where she served as executive director of the Alumni Association until 1984, and from there, moved to Salisbury (Md.) State University to the post of executive director of alumni relations and the annual fund, where she served until 1992 and accepted the assignment at Marietta College.

DOROTHY HARDIMON BODY APPOINTED AT EDINBORO UNIVERSITY

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Dr. Frank Pogue has announced the appointment of Dorothy Hardimon Body as assistant vice president for student financial support and services at the University. Her appointment comes at the conclusion of a six-month national search and will become effective on July 16.

Currently teaching in Wicomico, Md., schools, she comes to Edinboro from Mardela Springs, Md.

“Dorothy Body’s expertise and impressive background in student financial aid administration will enhance Edinboro University’s enrollment and retention objectives,” Pogue said. “Her proven ability as an administrator and team leader will make her a most welcome new member of the Edinboro Family. Another plus is the good work she’s done in previous positions with NCAA financial aid regulations and requirements.”

Body earned her undergraduate degree and a master’s in public administration from Governors State University in University Park, Ill.

She began her career as a financial aid adviser at her alma mater, and later served briefly as associate director of financial aid at North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro, N.C.

In 1989, Body accepted the director of financial aid position at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore in Princess Anne, Md., and in 1999, served in a similar position at Tuskegee University in Alabama.

Body lists among her professional accomplishments her four-year term as a member of the NCAA Division II Committee on Financial Aid, her 1997 membership on the U.S. Dept. of Education Focus Group on Financial Aid Training Needs, and her 1995-97 appointment as Senior Woman Administrator for Intercollegiate Athletics.

She was the University of Maryland Eastern Shore Outstanding Woman Honoree in 1996.

MEDIA ADVISORY:

EDINBORO UNIVERSITY, GE HOST THIRD ANNUAL LATINO LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, in collaboration with GE Transportation Systems, GE Lighting and the GE Hispanic Forum chapters of Erie and Cleveland, will host the third annual Latino Leadership Development Program, June 11-16, on the Edinboro University campus and at GE's Erie Plant.

The residential program will bring some 80 Latino high school students from the greater Erie area, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Philadelphia to Edinboro and Erie for a week of activities focusing on increasing academic and leadership skills, positive self-image, and professional career awareness. Particular emphasis will be placed on improving skills in math and science, as well as increasing the number of Latino students attending college.

The Latino Leadership Development Program is an official event of Together 2000, Erie's community celebration to mark the millennium. The Erie County Millennium Commission, composed of community leaders chaired by Edinboro University President Dr. Frank Pogue, is coordinating the city's and county's year-long celebration.

Media highlights suggested for best coverage during the week are:

On Sunday, June 11, 4 p.m.: Welcoming ceremonies for students and families with remarks by President Pogue, in Van Houten Dining Hall's University Club on the Edinboro campus.

On Tuesday, June 13, 2-4 p.m.: United Way overview and community service project, Alan Perez, president and CEO, United Way of Erie County, at the Hispanic American Council, 554 East 10th Street, Erie.

On Friday, June 16, 10 a.m.: Welcoming remarks by Mr. John Rice, president and CEO, GE Transportation Systems (GETS), East Lake Road, Erie. The GETS team is hosting a week-long design competition among the students to build a “mouse trap vehicle,” giving them the opportunity to work as a team toward a common goal using the skills learned in the classroom, as well as their interpersonal and communication skills. Competing teams will present their final designs and marketing strategies to GETS judges beginning at 2:30 p.m., Friday, June 16, in the GETS Learning Center Auditorium. Awards for the winning designs will be presented at 4 p.m.

Other events of media interest during the week:

On Friday, June 16, 10:15 a.m.: Recognition of the key program planners and participants: Dr. Robert Weber, provost and vice president for academic affairs, Edinboro University; Dr. James Barker, superintendent, City of Erie School District; Mr. Wilfredo Velez, case manager, Perseus House; and Dr. Denise Ohler, associate dean of enrollment management and director of career services, Edinboro University.

Also on Friday, June 16, 12:30 p.m.: José Rivera, president of the National Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers will speak to the students and families, in the GETS Learning Center Auditorium.

Edinboro University’s Latino Leadership Development Program is funded in part by a grant from the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education, with additional support from GE Transportation Systems of Erie, GE Lighting of Cleveland, the Erie School District, and the United Way of Erie County.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

BALDWIN APPOINTED DEAN OF EDUCATION AT EDINBORO UNIVERSITY

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania President Dr. Frank G. Pogue has announced the appointment of R. Scott Baldwin, Ph.D., as the University's dean of education, effective July 15. Baldwin's appointment comes at the conclusion of a national search conducted over the past six months.

Baldwin is the former dean of the School of Education and Graduate Studies at Adams State College in Alamosa, Colo., a position he has held since 1996. Adams State is a federally-designated minority institution in rural Colorado.

"Scott Baldwin will bring to Edinboro a wealth and range of experiences that are critical to the many important initiatives underway in the University's School of Education – including our accreditation efforts with the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education," said Pogue. "As a graduate of Millersville University of Pennsylvania, he knows the State System of Higher Education and he knows Pennsylvania and our strengths and needs; we are proud to have attracted a candidate of Dr. Baldwin's caliber."

Baldwin earned a bachelor's degree in English from Millersville University in 1970, a master's degree in linguistics from Ohio University in 1973, and his doctorate in 1976, also from Ohio University, in the interdisciplinary fields of education, English and linguistics. While earning his doctorate there as Ohio University's first interdisciplinary Ph.D. student, he was also a teaching assistant in the College of Education.

His teaching career began in Lancaster, Pa., in 1970, where he taught English and reading at Reynolds Junior High School, and reading in the Upward Bound program at Franklin and Marshall College. Post-doctoral assignments have included appointments as an assistant professor of teacher education and coordinator of the graduate reading program at the University of Tulsa, and 12 years at the University of Miami as an associate professor of educational psychology, professor of teaching and learning, assistant provost, and chair of the Department of Teaching and Learning.

As dean of the School of Education and Graduate Studies at Adams State College, Baldwin's responsibilities included the departments of Exercise Physiology and Leisure Science, Psychology and Counseling, and Teacher Education. The school offers both bachelor's and master's degrees, with 11 master's programs offered off-campus as part of the college's mission in rural Colorado.

Baldwin is the author of numerous books, computer software, refereed articles and other publications on reading, literacy, linguistics and bilingual education, as well as the writer of a number of successfully-funded grants.
