Summer school options

LORI MAGDASY

Staff Writer

Thinking of picking up a few extra credits this summer? The registrar's office has just released Bloomsburg University's "1985 Summer Sessions" booklet containing graduate and undergraduate course listings.

In a change from previous years, students will now be assured that most courses listed in the booklet will not be cancelled due to low enrollments.

The calendar for summer school is broken down into seven sessions. There will be three six-week sessions beginning on May 28, June 17, and July 8; three three-week sessions beginning on May 28, June 17, and July 8; and one nine-week session beginning on June 17.

Undergraduate students may take a maximum of seven credits during any six-week session, and four credits during any three-week session. Graduate students are permitted to take a maximum of six credits during any six-week session and three credits during any three-week session.

The enrollment process for undergraduates consists of scheduling classes and registering. Students should schedule as soon as possible to ensure seats in the classes of their choice. Registration will take place on the first day of every session in the Kehr Union Building, and students must register in person. Failure to register will result in the cancellation of previously scheduled courses.

Class scheduling and registration for graduate students should be done by mail. Students must complete and submit the proper form in the "Summer Sessions" booklet by May 24, and they report to class the first day. Classes are filled on the first-come, first-serve basis, so students denied enrollment in a class will be notified by telephone.

Housing and food services will be provided on a combined basis for students wanting accommodations on campus. Luzerne Hall and Lycoming Hall will be the two dorms used to house students this summer. Everyone living on campus will be required to purchase one of two meal plans; a 19-meal plan or a 15-meal plan (weekdays only).

Litter campaign

PATRICK E. BARRY

News Editor

Nearly one hundred Bloomsburg University students participated Saturday in the annual Litter Pick-Up Campaign. The project was coordinated by BUP Kristen Curtis and Laurie Black.

The campaign, acting in conjunction with PennDOT, was aimed at cleaning up litter along Route 11 from East Street to Nichols department store. Bruce D. Thomas, an employee of PennDOT and Coordinator of Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful, said that the campaign went well. "Next year we'd like to see 1000 students helping out."

Involved in the litter pick up were fraternities Tau Kappa Epsilon and Kappa Alpha Psi, sororities Phi Delta, Theta Tau Omega, Alpha Sigma Alpha, Sigma Sigma Sigma and Phi Iota Chi and the mass communications club. They started picking up the litter at 9:30 a.m. and were finished before 1 p.m.

Mr. Thomas said that this campaign is just part of a litter clean up program. "The purpose of the program is to educate school children on litter."

Various prizes were given away to participants by a random drawing, through donations from the merchants along Route 11, including a $50 U.S. Savings bond which was awarded to Laurie Manley.

"Every year we do this," Thomas said. "It's good to see the

Events planned for siblings weekend

SANDY COLEBURN

Staff Writer

Many students would like the opportunity to visit with their brothers and sisters without having to travel home. The weekend of April 27-28, 1985 is designated by the Program Board as Siblings' Weekend at Bloomsburg University.

Siblings' Weekend will offer activities such as caricatures, Murph the physical comedian, Simon Sez and video game contests. There will be a video game tournament in KUB, with prizes given in three age groups.

Bowling, billiards and swimming are the recreational activities open to everyone. The movie "Jungle Book" will be shown twice during the weekend.

The 8th annual Renaissance Jamboree will coincide with Siblings' Weekend, providing entertainment for older siblings and parents.

Sandi Wood, co-chairperson of the Siblings' Weekend Committee, says that the weekend is a time when little brothers and sisters can see where their older family members live while they are away from home.

Wood says, "Siblings' Weekend is sharing your home-away-from-home. It gives the younger family members a look at where you have been, where you eat, who you live with, even where you receive the letters they write you."

Siblings' Weekend originated as an activity just for younger children, but has since branched out. The ages vary from as young as a year and a half, to 18 or 19. The average age is 10-12. Children between the ages of six and ten may reside in the student's hall. Children over ten must stay in a residence hall according to his or her sex.

At the Saturday morning registration, all siblings and guests will receive a special packet including their I.D. for the weekend and a coupon for one free video game. Between 100 and 150 siblings are expected.

Rape: a violent crime

An act of violence or sexual satisfaction? Rape is a crime and a deadly insult against women. As defined by Webster's dictionary, rape is "sexual intercourse with a woman by a man without her consent and chiefly by force or deception."

Rape is an increasing problem today and is a crime that could possibly scar the victim for life. The statistics are shocking but real. A woman is raped every nine minutes in the U.S. and the chances are one in ten that a woman will be raped in her lifetime.

Rape is, in fact, not an expression of sexual desire at all but an expression of other nonsexual needs, and is most often a symptom of some psychological dysfunction. It is usually a desperate act which results from weakness, anger and inability to deal with the demands of life.

Any woman is a possible candidate for rape with victims coming from all races and economic classes and ranging in age from three months to 97 years.

Almost 75 percent of all victims are threatened by a weapon or by threats of bodily harm and one third of the victims are injured. Over 70 percent of all rapes are planned by the attacker after observing the person for a period of time and are usually executed by someone the victim knows, whether it be a friend, date, co-worker or relative.

Lieutenant Debbie Barnes of Campus Law Enforcement stated, "there are three things that constitute rape, lack of consent, force and penetration. Rape is a crime that is easy to cover and without the victim coming forth you have no crime."

Several local places that are possible target areas for victims, due to seclusion or improper lighting are behind Elwell Hall, the wooded area by Sesame Street Apartments or any one of the many poorly lit streets around campus or town.

There are many classifications of rape. Male victims are usually young boys or teenagers with the rapists being lone males or a group of males. Victimization by females usually occurs only in incest cases.

Marital rape is also an incident of domestic violence. It's estimated that 600,000 marital rapes occur each year and it is recognized as a crime by the U.S. Court System.

Child Sexual Assault is a sick and everyday problem. Many children do not realize what has actually happened and fail to tell their parents. Others who are victims of a family member are scared and look at their attackers as someone who also provides for them. Thus, if they rebel or complain they will be neglected and lose the love of that individual.

Rape of the elderly is a crime of opportunity and occurs in relation with another crime, such as burglary. The elderly are extremely vulnerable due to age, physical and mental health and isolation.

The most common rape among acquaintance is date rapes. It's often a question of whether in fact it was a rape. Several dating tips include: learn as much as possible about your date, know beforehand the exact plans for the evening, and tell a roommate or friend these plans and what time to expect you home. Be aware of your decreased ability to react while under the influence of alcohol or drugs and think carefully about leaving a party or gathering with a man you don't know well.

To prevent a rape from occurring, never travel alone at night, always stay in well lit and populated areas and be alert at all times.

What if you are the victim? Immediately get to a safe place, inform someone about what has happened and call the police. Do not change your clothes, bathe or wash away any evidence. Go to a hospital to be checked for possible injuries, venereal disease or pregnancy and try to remember any possible facts about the crime.

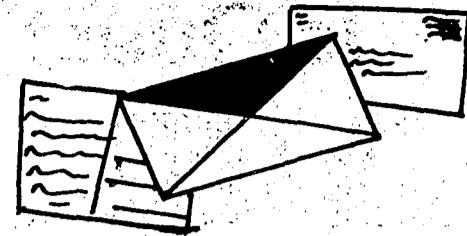

The Women's Center of Bloomsburg has a 24 hour emergency hotline 717-784-6631, and is located on Market Street. It offers confidential services such as counseling, emotional and practical support and free emergency shelter for up to 30 days.

Since February, 1984, nine victims of alleged rape from the university have been treated at the center. Between 1984-85 in the six months ending December 31, the center, which serves four counties, has provided services for 70 sexual assault victims.

"Rape is an act of aggression used to humiliate a woman," states Peggy Novelli-King, Sexual Assault Program Coordinator for the center.

Victims must realize that it is best to report the crime and get help. Yes, rape is a crime and an act of violence that must be stopped.

Letter to the Editor

Noise

Distraction

I would like to know if there actually are "quiet hours" at Bloomsburg University. I seem to recall hearing, near the beginning of the semester, that all noise should be decreased in volume between 8 p.m. and 9 a.m. However, I am not sure that anyone else has ever heard this. The noise level almost always increases in the evening hours and most noise continues into the wee hours of the morning. Fine, if you don't have classes till the following afternoon, but some of us have classes in the morning.

Don't get me wrong, I am not trying to say that all noise should be stopped during quiet hours. Just running up and down the halls, the pounding on walls, and the 'cranking' of stereos to stop. I don't think this is too much to ask because I've paid for my room and I am entitled to sleep without being plagued by a constant amount of noise. It should be common courtesy to keep the noise level down, especially if someone is trying to sleep, but I can see after almost seven months of nightly noise that not many people have that courtesy.

Is Quest for you?

FRANCES HERBERT
Voice Contributor

Have you questioned the activities at B.U.? What do you think of when you hear or read the word "risk?" Many of us are filled with an unending quest for adventure. With that in mind, how many risks have you taken this week? Although some of QUEST'S courses are physically challenging, the experiences allow you to learn to depend on your mental abilities too.

Our daily interactions with roommates, friends, colleagues and family members can be perilous.

Communication, decision making, trust, cooperation and ambition are vital components of QUEST experience as well as indispensable lifetime skills. Give yourself some guided practice at making those daily interactions easier.

Are you wondering, "What does QUEST have to offer me?" First of all, the courses are open to everyone. Both university and community members are welcome. There is no age criteria, so if you don't mind, it doesn't matter.

So you say you've never gone rafting or caving before...great!! QUEST courses are geared to the beginner and yet, even the more experienced folks are challenged. We have a special offer for any group of students who wish to sign up for a public course. This offer is good until June 9, 1985. For every five paying students, the 6th person can sign up for FREE.

Some of the spring courses you might consider are: Rock Climbing Sun. April 14; The Powderhole Day Hike with a "gorge" view, Sun. April 28, and Whitewater Rafting down 12 miles of the Lehigh River Sat. May 4, June 8 and Sun., June 9.

Remember, if you sign up as a group before June 9, you get the six for five offer, but don't hesitate to come alone. Just be eager to meet people and enjoy the day with a variety of adventurers.

You can register at the office or by calling 389-4323. Take a risk, try something new, spend the day outside and watch how you can do what you thought you couldn't do.

Need for gay awareness program

TOM JONES
Voice Contributor

Most of us are aware that this Wednesday afternoon and evening there will be two programs on gay awareness here at Bloomsburg University.

One of the most common responses to these programs may be "Why does anyone want to have a gay awareness program anyway?" There are two major purposes for having such a program.

The first reason is that it offers a greatly needed educational opportunity. Statistical projections estimate that about 600 homosexual students attend Bloomsburg University. Consider what resources these students have to learn about their sexuality. Perhaps the best way for us to do this is to consider how we learn about heterosexuality.

We know that sexuality is a pretty complex phenomenon which none of us totally understand. Remember how you first learned about your sexuality. Chances are, it was from your peers and you probably got a lot of misinformation.

The process is similar for homosexual individuals but more difficult. Homosexuals learn about their sexuality at a slower rate due to the repression imposed by our social system. Fear of physical, mental or emotional abuse, often limits the number of 'open' social contacts where a positive self image can be developed and where beneficial information can be garnered.

Homosexuals are also given a lot

Arms race

Necessary?

KAREN LEWIS

Staff Writer

Does the Soviet Union hold a military superiority in the world? Is it necessary for the U.S. to have an arms buildup? These questions and other subjects such as nuclear power, nuclear weapons and human rights will be discussed by guest speaker, Dr. George Wald, on Tuesday April 23 at 8:00 p.m. in Kuster Auditorium, Hartline Center. Wald will also be in the President's Lounge at 3:00 p.m. for an informal discussion of his research.

Wald, a Nobel Prize winner for his work in physiology, has studied the Cold War, nuclear power, nuclear weapons, and human rights for 25 years. Wald feels that our public is the most brainwashed public in the world. He also feels that the past and present administrations have brainwashed Americans into thinking that we are somehow inferior to the Soviet Union in terms of military defense. According to Wald, most Americans inaccurately perceive the arms race between the United States and the Soviet Union, thinking that an arms buildup is necessary.

A band for the 80's

MIKE MAIZE

Staff Writer

They have been called the band of the 80's by Rolling Stone Magazine. U2 is one band that make it big in the U.S. without climbing a ladder of top 40 hits to get there. Aside from their 1983 release of New Years Day, their only other big release was the more recent Pride, from their latest album The Unforgettable Fire.

They are a band that tries to avoid images, usually associated with popular bands. Instead they choose to present messages and ideas. They don't feel their music can change the world, but it can help by offering peaceful ideas. Lead singer Bono hopes their music has the power to uplift people who choose to listen to it.

U2's stateside popularity began with release of their album WAR at the beginning of 1983. All members of the band were born and raised in Ireland. They met while attending music school at Mt. Temple Comprehensive. They came together in response to a notice posted by the band's drummer Larry Mullen, who wanted to start a band.

All members of U2, excluding bassist Adam Clayton, are devout Christians. This makes them popular among Christian rock crowds and is reflected through their sometimes spiritual lyrics. All this adds to the seemingly universal appeal of U2.

U2 is a band that cannot be labeled into any one music category. As a band they choose not to use any electronic instruments such as a synthesiser. They claim that most of their songs are the result of experiment not formulation. They feel this makes their music a better reflection of themselves and their feelings.

Paul Hewson, the band's leader, who is better known as Bono Vox is short and stocky in appearance. On and off stage he gives the impression of being very warm and sincere. He is definitely the band's driving force.

On guitar for the band is Edge Evans. With his soft spoken attitude and receding hairline, Edge doesn't seem to be your typical guitar hero. But once behind his guitar this all changes.

Drummer Larry Mullen is the youngest member of U2. In appearance he is a sort of Billy Idol and James Dean combination. He was only 20 when WAR was released in 1983.

Their bass player, Adam Clayton, seems to be the rebel of the group. As well as being the only non-Christian in the band, he is also the only one into the more traditional rock 'n' roll "scene". Before landing in the band he was kicked out of several schools.

They are currently touring the U.S. If you were lucky enough to get tickets to one of the shows in Philadelphia or New Jersey, U2 hopes you will be uplifted.

Cultural Conference

SUSAN LANE
Staff Writer

Martin Luther King once said, "I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up, live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal.'" This statement identifies the goal of the Multi-Cultural Conference which will be held April 22-26, 1985 at Bloomsburg University.

Dr. George Wald, a Nobel Prize winner for his work in physiology will be a featured speaker in the Endowed Lecture Series on Tuesday, April 23 at 8:00 p.m. in Kuster Auditorium, Hartline Center.

The topic of Wald's presentation will be "Survival in a Lethal Society". An informal discussion of his research will be held for faculty, staff, and students at 3:00 p.m., April 23, in the Presidents Lounge, Kehr Union.

Wald joined Harvard in the fall of 1934 as a tutor in Biochemical Sciences and has been there ever since, as Instructor and Tutor in Biology; Associate Professor; Professor; receiving the Higgins Chair in Biology in 1968. Since his widely publicized talk at MIT on March 4, 1964, "A Generation in Search of a Future," Wald has directed much of his energy to what he calls "survival politics".

A second featured will be Isaac Bashevis Singer, a Nobel Prize winning novelist, who is the author of the short story from which the film "Yentl" was derived. Singer will speak in Carver Hall on April 25 at 8:00 p.m. and will conduct a workshop on the Art of Story-telling in Carver Hall on Friday, April 26 from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. A book signing session will follow.

Singer, who is famed as master of the short story, is noted for his combination of folk humor and pious mysticism.

A third speaker, Amiri Baraka (LeRoi Jones), was born in Newark, New Jersey. He is presently teaching at the State University of New York at Stony Brook as an Associate Professor of African Studies. He is the Director of Africana Studies Program at Stony Brook, 1983-84. He also teaches a course at Columbia University in Afro-American Literature.

Baraka may be seen on April 24, at 3:00 p.m. in the President's Lounge, Kehr Union and at 8:00 p.m. in Kuster Auditorium, Hartline.

Dr. Carol Birch, who may be seen in the Presidents Lounge, Kehr Union for a Storytelling Session daily at noon from April 22-26 is an expert on international folklore and children's literature.

Birch will join Singer for the workshop on April 26. Birch will be available for consultations from the 22-26 of April.

A Food Festival featuring food samples from various foreign countries as well as American ethnic and regional foods will take place from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in Kehr Union, Multi Room A on April 25. The food will be prepared by Bloomsburg University students. Some of the recipes will be made

Dig site at Catawissa

Anthropology

Dig in Catawissa

AIMEE TROXELL

Staff Writer

Have you talked to an anthropology student lately? Probably not. The Catawissa dig seems to be taking all their time.

The dig site, located near the Catawissa bridge, has provided valuable information about Indians. The Indians used the river banks as campsites around the year 1000. Jim Horwath, an anthropology major, said, "Among articles found were fish net sinkers, projectile points or arrowheads, and some carbonized seeds."

The reason for the dig is to build a new bridge at the site. Before PennDOT can do any major road work a study of the land must be done.

A crew of 17 University of Pittsburgh employees was hired by PennDOT to perform the archaeological work. BU students Mark Ennes, anthropology major, Jim Horwath, anthropology major and Scott Haddock, political science major asked to be a part of the team. Ennes, Horwath, and Haddock, work after classes and weekends at the site.

A three-day dig was conducted across the street from the Bloomsburg airport. Some anthropology students not already on the Catawissa dig helped here. Susan Jones, senior anthropology and art major, said, "This dig did not reveal anything of substantial value to indicate further excavation was necessary."

available.

The Multi-Cultural Conference was organized by the Campus-Wide Committee on Human Relations whose program chairperson is Ted Shanoski.

He said the ultimate goal of the Committee on Human Relations is, "To provide Bloomsburg University students and staff with a means of learning about and appreciating the variations that exist among people of different cultural, racial, ethnic, or religious backgrounds and of different sexes and physical and mental abilities. This type of learning will help us become more sympathetic to the needs and concerns of others, acquire a better understanding of our own value systems, and enable us to assume our roles as members of a world community.

believes that becoming a chapter of Sigma Theta Tau will bring national and international recognition to its members. It also provides its members with use of Sigma Theta Tau's data banks for research and its members receive Image: The Journal of Nursing Scholarship and Reflections, the national publication that carries research reports. Sigma Theta Tau is scholastically and research oriented.

In order for BU to have applied to be a chapter, it first had to have a local honor society in existence for two years, it must have a sound financial base, it must be accredited by the National League of Nursing, and it must be established in scholarly programs, says Dr. Pepper.

"For members to be eligible for induction into Sigma Theta Tau, they must have completed at least half of their program, have a cumulative average of at least 3.0, and must meet very high academic requirements," says Dr. Pepper. "Our members are in the upper 35 percent of their class." Faculty in nursing are also invited to be members as well as community nursing leaders which gives the program a broader range.

Dr. Pepper will submit a report to the National Council of Sigma Theta Tau and the National Council will make a recommendation in early June to the delegates at the

We may also come to understand our own sexuality more by comparing our experiences with those of homosexuals.

There is a second reason for having a gay awareness program. The issue of homosexuality raises a lot of questions concerning our value system, beliefs and opinions. These overlapping and often conflicting views 'brew' within and among us. But we seldom have a

Men's Lacrosse*Millersville wins 12-2

ANDY LOPEZ

The BU men's lacrosse team lost to Millersville Sunday afternoon. The Marauders scored 12 to the Huskies 2.

"A definite contact sport," said an enthusiastic player Dave Fredericksen. "I've played for about five years and we have the potential for a good team." Fredericksen scored once in the game. The other goal was made by Al Burton.

Injuries affected both teams as Andre Gomez was injured in the game, possibility of a shoulder injury. "Minor injuries always affect the players tempo," said Bob Low a midfielder. He continued, "It's fast and often compared with hockey and soccer, very physical."

Like hockey and soccer lacrosse, the teams consist of 10 players, with the front line of attackers, middies, and defense or full backs. The Marauders played fast and hard against the Huskies, while the defense struggled to keep up with the Marauders oncoming offense. The game was intense, fast, and gave the Huskies a good work out.

A Millersville player said, "The team has pretty much experience under its belt and really didn't know what to expect from Bloomsburg's Huskies. Steven 'Schnoz' Haas the goalie had 12 goals go by, some scored on penalty time against the Huskies. "It was a tough game and they just kept on coming," said "Schnoz."

The Huskies have a home game on the 18th at 3:30 p.m. and on the 21st at 2. They play up at the Nelson soccer field.

Gridders Prepare

ERIC RUTT

As the warmer weather approaches, so does the Maroon and Gold Husky football game. Since the team watched the 1984 PSAC championship dream fade away with a 21-14 loss to the California Vulcans at Hershey, they have devoted much of their time to hard training in the weight room to help increase their chances for a repeat to the championship game in November.

Spring practice began April 1st and runs for five weeks with four practices a week, weather permitting. The first week opened with three 6:30 a.m. practices which were used as physical conditioning days. These included springs, "suicides," and laps for one hour straight with very little time for a break.

The second week consisted of five outdoor sessions. This was the first time the team was together on the field since November.

The offense is adjusting to a new passing attack which will be more versatile. The change is calling the pass patterns by numbers instead of by name. "This will save time in the huddle, and help avoid delay of the game and penalties on the field," stated quarterback Mike Glovas. "With the old system it was harder to change a pattern in a game, now it's just a change of a single number."

The receivers have also easily adjusted to the change. Wide receiver Todd Newman agrees, "It's a highly versatile attack which can be easily adapted to any defensive alignment."

Another one of the bright spots for the 1985 Huskies is the defensive unit which is returning all starters from the 1984 unit, that was one of the top defensive teams in Division II. Frank Sheptock will lead the defense from his inside linebacker position. Sheptock is a two-time AP first team All-American. Also returning is defensive back and second team All-American Tony Woods.

The team has many three-year starters returning with all of the potential this squad possess' the 1985 season should be an exciting experience for Husky fans.

Women's Tennis

Netters Down SU

KIM BELL

The Lady Huskies romped over Susquehanna University Friday. Justine Landis and Kathy Masch led the team to a 7-2 victory to help prepare for the busy week now at hand.

The women's tennis team opened their season with a disappointing loss against Penn State, 7-0, on Monday. They came back very strong against Susquehanna, and ended the week with a 1-1 record.

The team is relatively young with only ten girls, two of whom are starting for the first time this season. Justine Landis, a senior, is in the first spot for Bloomsburg, followed by junior Kathy Masch, in the second position. Cortlee Gerhart, Karen Ambielli, Sue Graeff, and Wendy Spease fill out the other returning members of the team. Stacey Aponick, Amy Norton, and Ellen Sullivan are new faces for the team this season.

Dr. Michael Herbert, the team's coach, feels the team isn't as strong as it has been in the past, but the girls work very hard and it will pay off in the future. This week the Lady Huskies are scheduled for matches against University of Scranton and Marywood College.

They will then round out the week by sending, for the first time, Landis and Masch to Middle States at Trenton State, on the 19th. Middle States is a tournament where the best from the region compete in singles and doubles matches. Landis and Masch will be competing in both the singles and doubles matches.

The competition will be much tougher than the girls usually encounter during the regular season, however, Landis and Masch are expected to do well.

If anyone is interested in joining the women's tennis team they should get in touch with Dr. Herbert, the coach, or any member of the team. His phone number is 389-4131, on campus, and 784-8477 at home.

Huskies split with Mounties

WALT WYNKOOP

Bloomsburg University hosted Mansfield in a baseball doubleheader Saturday afternoon. The Huskies won the opener, but were beaten in the nightcap.

In the first game, the Huskies collected seven runs on seven hits. The Mountaineers helped that cause by committing three errors and two wild pitches.

Don Forbes led the Husky attack by collecting three hits including two singles and a double. He also stole a base.

Neil Boyd started things off right for the Huskies by striking a single to right scoring Todd Remley and Ric Schellenberger who previously walked. The big blow came when Bill Salamy clouted a home run with a man on base. The game was close up to that point at 4-2. Salamy got a fastball right down the middle and hit it over the leftfield fence.

The Huskies' other run came when Forbes singled to left scoring John Nicoden who also singled.

The Mountaineers scored two runs on four hits. They got both runs on one swing of the bat.

Jim Bierlein hit a towering home run to leftfield that scored Rich Painter, who had doubled. Bierlein got a 3 and 2 fastball off of Brian Salsman that he took downtown.

Salsman quieted the Mansfield bats the rest of the way allowing only a single to Chris Curren in the seventh inning. Salsman collected five strikeouts while not surrendering a single walk. The losing pitcher was John Kelleher.

Don Forbes said it best when characterizing this years ballclub, "We're a team now." The Huskies are leading the eastern division at 6-2. They like to describe their style of play as "Babby Ball," after their coach, John Babb.

In the nightcap the Huskies were defeated, 9-6, in extra innings. Bill Roehl started the game for the Huskies, but was later relieved by Mark Kessler. Kessler eventually took the loss in ten innings.

The Huskies next contest will be against Millersville, Tuesday, at home.
