Who's Who nominating deadline approaches

ELIZABETH DACEY
Staff Writer

Every year, over 1,400 colleges and universities across the country participate in nominating seniors to the WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS in AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES.

This book attempts to further the aims of higher education by rewarding and recognizing individual academic excellence on a national level.

Nominations are based on leadership qualities, involvement in extra-curricular activities, the promise of professional success, and scholastic achievement.

Any faculty or administration member can nominate a senior. Dr. Robert G. Norton, Dean of Student Life, suggests that interested seniors "approach not only faculty in their major, but also advisors and chairpersons."

Nominated seniors receive individual recognition as well as bringing recognition to the university and their academic department. Norton also mentions that "students find, in the positions they attempt to find after graduation, this is a particular honor that many employers do look for."

Nominees receive local and national publicity and singular accomplishments will be listed in the 1986 edition of the book. Certificates are also awarded at an awards dinner.

The Who's Who program offers nominees an exclusive reference service free of charge. Students may use the program as a reference on resumes and Who's Who will prepare individual letters of recommendation and supply the employer with necessary biographical material.

Dean Norton feels that Who's Who "obviously represents a select group of students" and urges faculty and administration members to nominate deserving seniors. The deadline for nominations is October 11, 1985.

Faculty of SSHE authorize strike by 94.5 percent

By LORI LEONARD
Executive Editor

In what turned out to be the largest voter turnout in the history of the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculty's history, 92 percent of the eligible faculty on the 14 campuses of the SSHE cast their ballots last Wednesday and Thursday for strike authorization. And 94.5 percent of those who voted said yes. That amounts to 3,232 faculty members who have given APSCUF the right to call a strike if necessary.

The announcement of the results was made in the Capitol Rotunda building yesterday by APSCUF President Terry Madonna.

Madonna also announced that APSCUF will be holding "Quality Education Days" on the 14 state-owned campuses on October 2-4, and will involve rallies, teach-ins, and symposiums for faculty, students, parents, administration and the general public.

The SSHE and APSCUF bargaining teams met twice last week, in what Dr. John Mulka, a member of the APSCUF bargaining team thought were good sessions of "good faith bargaining," until the SSHE team presented take backs of what they had already tentatively agreed upon, and asked for a return to "blue book language," the current contract. That would mean that anything the bargaining teams could not agree upon would be governed by the current contract agreement, which is currently being extended on a daily basis until an agreement is reached or a strike occurs.

No new talks have been scheduled between the groups and it concerns Mulka, BU Dean of student development.

"The longer we take to settle and the closer we get to deadline, the bleaker it looks," said Mulka.

PBL builds a foundation for future business leaders

CINDY KUMP
Staff Writer

Ride the wave of success. This theme of last year's Phi Beta Lambda state leadership conference is a goal that PBL encourages all students to adopt. By name, PBL is a national business fraternity—an extension of the high school level Future Business Leaders of America. The greek letters denote future business leaders of America. Functionally, PBL is a very dynamic organization. Serving the community, last year PBL assisted with the Bloodmobile on campus and conducted a March of Dimes fund drive. Continuing priorities on service projects have been implemented into PBL goals for the current year. Social activities also comprise an important part of PBL membership—banquets and day trips are scattered throughout the year.

PBL extends beyond the typical business club's social and service activities. Workshops and conferences on local, state, regional and national levels are the highlight of PBL when students and the business world converge. The meetings provide an excellent opportunity to build a network for future business relations.

A recent conference, which 14 members of Bloomsburg's PBL attended, was the National Leadership Conference held in Houston, Texas. Business people from across the nation came to lead workshops and participate in PBL meetings and social events.

SOAR receives funds from CGA

TERRI QUARESIMO
Staff Writer

During the CGA Executive Council meeting held Monday night, it was unanimously decided to allocate $155.00 to the Student Organization of Adult Resources (SOAR).

Stephen Ross was present at the meeting to represent SOAR. The funds requested will help cover transportation, lodging, and registration fees for two members of SOAR to attend a conference. The conference, "Adult Learners on Campus," will be held in early October at Penn State University.

Also present at the meeting was Kent Gross, president of the Volleyball Club. He made a request for $131.95 which includes travelling expenses for a women's tournament, and first aid supplies. A motion was made and carried to request that the Volleyball club submit a comprehensive funding proposal before CGA allocates money to them. The proposal

'Disappointed fan'

blasted by readers

Thoughts from a "true" fan

To the "disappointed" fan who criticized our kicker,

First of all, for not knowing much about football, you sure seem to consider yourself an expert on judging our team's performance. In case you haven't guessed, I disagree with you and think it was very rude of you to single out one player, especially since that one player happened to be responsible for seven of the eighteen points scored by our team against Shippensburg. Granted he missed the one extra point, but even professional players miss a few here and there.

It's pretty hard for a team to play to their fullest when there are "fans" like you just waiting to prey on their every mistake. After all, if the fans can't find pride in their team, who can?

Signed

A "true" Husky fan

P.S. To our kicker, "GOOD JOB!" Love Ya, Huskies!

Former BU kicker enlightens fan

Dear Editor,

In response to the letter written to you by a disappointed fan entitled, "Field goal kicker could do better job," I would like to say that as a field goal kicker myself and a former member of the Husky football squad, the disappointed fan does not know what he is talking about.

The fan, claiming little knowledge on the subject of football, as we can tell from his comments, says that the field goal kicker "missed some extra points by quite a bit." For that fan's knowledge, he has only missed one, because he is 6 for 7.

The fan asks the question, "Why doesn't Coach Landis give anyone else a chance to prove himself?" Well fan, he does. During practice every day, the coaches get to see who is most consistent and has a strong leg and ready to play. I can say from personal experience that the kicker who is kicking now is very consistent and has a strong leg. And fan, in regard to your question "is this the only kicker capable of getting the ball near the goal post?" No, fan, there are four others that work just as hard as the first guy.

Sincerely yours,
A former kicker

Fan says criticism is premature

Dear Editor,

"Don't count your chickens before they hatch" may be an appropriate saying for "A Disappointed Fan," who expressed his feelings in the Sept. 23 issue of the Voice.

To condemn our football program, and to criticize our kicker after only the first game of the season, seems unfair. Perhaps the "disappointed fan" should have held his opinions until he gathered stats on the second game of the season against Lock Haven. He would have seen that our best kicker went 6 for 6 in extra point attempts, and missed a 44 yard field goal attempt by inches, a feat even Division I kickers can't complete.

Coach Landis, who brought the Huskies from a dismal 0-10 record in 1981 to Conference Champions last season, should be respected for his selection of starters. And the overall football program should be congratulated, not condemned for the appropriate use of funds for recruiting the best team in the history of Bloomsburg football.

This fan is proud that the only criticism that can be found in this year's team is a premature one about the kicker. And perhaps "the disappointed fan" will be proud when he sees our team fight their way to, and hopefully compete in, the State Championship game again in November.

Sincerely,
Disappointed in a disappointed fan

Sports Editor lashes out

Dear Editor,

This rebuttal relates to the letter in Monday's Voice about a disappointed fan's view of Todd Sullivan, the number one field goal kicker on the BU football team.

It is obvious that you know what your talking about, but only when you say, "I don't know much about football." Almost every statement in your letter is factually incorrect or blatantly biased.

This letter is not intended to be a personal attack on someone who has no idea what he/she is talking about, but is only intended to elaborate on the facts.

First, the letter was received by the Voice prior to Saturday's game with Lock Haven, in which Sullivan was 4-4 on extra point attempts and just missed a 43 yard field goal attempt into a slight wind, which is no easy task in itself.

Referring back to the letter, you mention that Sullivan "made quite a few of his extra point attempts but he also missed some by quite a bit." The fact is, he missed the only one he attempted. A lot of elements are involved in an extra point or field goal attempt. The snap and hold must be perfect or the kick could be screwed up. Perhaps Todd just missed the kick, he is only human and is bound to miss a few.

Another statement that you made in your letter, "Sometimes he makes it and sometimes he doesn't," doesn't hold water either. For the season, Sullivan is 4-5 on extra points and 2-3 on field goal attempts, including a 2-2 effort against Shippensburg.

Also, money we put into our football program goes for equipment and other things, not to pay players. Therefore the money that we put into our program is not wasted just because Todd Sullivan misses one extra point attempt.

Finally, questioning George Landis' judgement is totally ridiculous. The man has turned our football program around 180° in just three years. Bloomsburg was 0-10 the year before Landis arrived and last season went 6-5 (5-1 in the conference) and earned the first trip to the State Game in the school's history. It is obvious that he knows what he is doing.

Frankly, I feel Todd Sullivan is doing a hell of a job.

Newsnotes

A USA TODAY study reported that about 25 percent of 7,000 women in college surveyed say they've been the victims of rape or attempted rape. Almost 90 percent knew their assailants, and half of those who had been raped had been raped by the legal definition. Almost 75 percent of those women didn't consider it rape. One in 12 college men surveyed said they threatened force or used force, and virtually none saw themselves as rapists.

Switzerland recently passed a law declaring women equal partners in marriage, no longer having to ask their spouse for permission to get a job, and no longer required to divulge personal financial information.

The search is on for the English Leather Musk Man

The search for the English Leather Musk Man is on again. To enter you must be enrolled at Bloomsburg University.

Contestants or friends of contestants must send one photograph, color or black and white, taken within the last six months to the Voice office, located on the ground floor of the Kehr Union Building. The photo must be no larger than 8"x 10" and no smaller than 3"x 5".

Include your name, address, phone number, and age with the picture. All photos must be received by Wednesday, Nov. 20, 1985, and become property of the MEM Co., Inc.

From the entries submitted, the Voice staff will select one finalist, who will receive a gift set of men's toiletries from the MEM Co., Inc. The photograph will then be entered in the final selection of the winner for the Search for the English Leather Musk Man. The MEM Co., Inc. will identify the winner at the conclusion of the contest.

The national winner will receive a $1,000 cash prize toward tuition as well as a selection of merchandise prizes. The winner will also be flown to New York for a photography session with a leading photographer. Accomodations and round trip air fare will be paid for by the MEM Co., Inc.

The national winner will appear as the 1986 Musk Man in English Leather Musk Man advertising.

All selections will be based on photographic appeal and all decisions of each step on the contest are final.

If anyone needs additional information or has any questions call the Voice office at 389-4457.

Phi Beta Lambda

Several Bloomsburg members competed in Academic categories at the national level: Randy Feger a 1985 May graduate placed 9th in the Mr. Future Business Executive category; Tim Galloway placed 8th in Data Processing I; and Bloomsburg Nu Omicron chapter placed 1st in the nation as largest chapter with 310 members.

This year our chapter remains not only the largest in the nation, but also the largest business organization on Bloomsburg's campus. PBL is unique in its requirements for membership. Anyone interested may join. Business and non-business majors of 1st semester freshmen through 1st semester senior class standing are equally welcome. There is no pledging. An induction for new members allows students to become acquainted with PBL members and learn about the organization.

The PBL office is located in the College Store building facing Luzerne Hall. The office hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Friday. The first orientation meeting is September 30. All students are invited to attend as PBL members narrate slides and stories of past PBL activities and explain PBL goals for the year ahead.

Engines roar at fair

GUY SMITH
Voice Contributor

Auto racing, particularly midget racing, has been an important part of the Bloomsburg Fair since the late 1920's. Since World War II, the midgets have been almost an annual part of the fair competing on a half-mile dirt oval. Some of the best drivers in the country have competed and continue to compete at the Fair.

Mike Joseph of Philadelphia took the first recorded win in 1947. Although I could find no mention of races in 1948, the midgets returned in 1949 with western PA driver Mike Little winning the scheduled 50 lapper that was called after 41 laps due to darkness.

The American Racing Driver's Club sanctioned the show in 1950 with Johnny Roberts invading from Illinois and scoring the upset win. Philadelphia's Len Duncan, one of the sports greatest champions, won his first of three in 1951. New England driver Nick Fornoro, whose sons compete today, won in 1952. No midgets events were held in 1953 as the stock cars took over, but the popular ARDC midgets returned in 1954 and continued annually through 1962. Winners included Steve McGrath in 1954, Roy Graham in 1955, Indianapolis 500 star Eddie Sachs in 1956, sprint car vet Jiggs Peters in 1957 and 1958, Johnny Kay in 1959, Indy 500 veteran Al Keller in 1960, Reading's Ernie McCoy, another Indy 500 veteran, in 1961, and Bill Randall in 1962.

Tragedy struck the 1958 event as popular Bobby Boone was fatally injured during the event. It was the only fatality of the series.

Image reflects on future events

MARY COSTA
Staff Writer

Image is alive and kicking, twirling and signing again this semester in preparation for the year's events ahead of them.

According to Image advisor, Dr. Donald Miller, associate professor of Language and Hearing Impaired at BU, Image has already been preparing for the upcoming events by scheduling bi-weekly practices and choosing new members to become part of the creative-signing group.

Try-outs for new members of Image were held Monday, Sept. 16. According to Miller, out of the several individuals auditioning, the judges (other members of Image) chose four more students to join their team. The new members are Linda Harding, Trish Hess, Tricia Ann Reilly and Mary Beth Sawyer.

Together, with the remaining seven members of Image, these four girls have been practicing at least twice weekly in preparation for the signing events Image has scheduled for this semester. "We've been contacted about many events," says Miller, "but right now we're committed to few of them."

Scheduled dates for on-campus appearances of Image are 2 p.m., Sunday Nov. 17 and 8 p.m., Monday, Nov. 18. Both performances will be held in Mitrani Hall.

"We may be taking day-trips into the Philadelphia and Harrisburg areas later this semester to perform," noted Miller. "We'd really like to get back to the Danville and Catawissa elementary schools, to which we had made prior engagements with last semester, but were unable to attend because of a minor accident we had with one of the CGA vehicles."

Otherwise, Image has been invited to a formal dinner to perform for the Hearing Impaired United Public Supporters (HI-UPS) at the Scranton State School for the Deaf on Saturday, Nov. 13. "We're still waiting to hear from a group in Toronto, Canada, who had gotten in touch with us at the end of last semester to perform," says Miller. "The performance would be for a home or a center for the deaf, which is comprised of adults of all ages."

"We have performed for this group before," says Miller, "and it's an interesting place for the group to visit because the Toronto area has a large population of hearing-impaired individuals."

One thing that is important to remember about Image is that they are a non-profit organization. "It was decided a while back when Dr. McCormick was still here that we didn't want to charge anyone to see Image perform," says Miller. "Our logic was that we didn't want anybody who didn't have a quarter in his or her pocket not be able to see a performance of the group."

According to Miller, Image is allotted a budget of $400 yearly to buy costumes, music, etc. Also, the group gets paid travelling expenses and the costs of accommodations when they are invited to perform elsewhere. Miller has been the advisor and in charge of making these arrangements for Image since the group began in 1976. "I have limited signing experience though," says Miller, "so I get a lot of help from the other members of the department."

These members are Dr. Gerald Powers, assistant chairman of the Department of Speech and Hearing Impaired, Dr. Samuel Slike, curriculum coordinator for education in the hearing impaired area, and Mr. Gary Mowl, director of the interpretive training program (a new program in the area of communication disorders) at BU.

held. In 1963 Hank Williams and Len Duncan shared the wins. Finishing second in both races was a young charger named Mario Andretti.

Duncan and Red Riegel split in 1964, another Indy vet, national star Larry Dickson and Bill Brown in 1965, Jiggs Peters and Joe Csiki in 1966, Brown and Tommy McAndrew in 1967 and Peters and McAndrew in 1968.

The one feature format returned in 1969. Super modified star Bobby Adamson scored in a rare midget appearance, while McAndrew scored his fourth in 1970. Dutch Schaefer's win in 1971 was the last under ARDC sanction.

Two shows were held in 1972. ARC (Atlantic Racing Club) sanctioned one taken by 1985 Indianapolis 500 starter Rich Vogler and the NAMAR (National Association of Midget Auto Racing) sanctioned race went to Wayne Woodward.

The SMRC (Super Midget Racing Club) winged midget era began in 1973. Winners included sprint stars Kenny Weld and Kramer Williamson in 1973 and 1974, Allentown's Ronnie Dunston in 1975 and one armed Jimmy McGuire in 1976, and Schaefer again in 1977. Hometown Bloomsburg resident Johnny Hydenreich scored in 1978 and repeated in 1981 and 1982. Veteran Lou Fray won in 1979 and Dunston repeated in 1980 and 1984. Midge Miller found victory lane in 1983.

The series continues this Saturday, Sept. 28th at 12 p.m.. The favorite will be Nick Fornoro Jr., the winningest midget driver in the country. Fornoro's father, Nick Fornoro Sr., won this event over 30 years before. And the tradition continues in Bloomsburg.

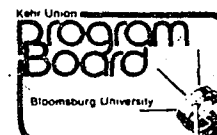

Paula Toborowski signs at an Image performance given last year.

Bob Squad wins in Mifflinville

The men's intramural golf tournament was held last Tuesday at Arnold's Golf Course in Mifflinville.

In the Better Ball Competition, the Bob Squad, of Shawn Streussnig and Joe Nicklaus edged Dave Torrisi and Scott Mummey, of the Dead Goat Saloon I, 72 to 73.

John Knouse and Jake Armstrong of the Dead Goat Saloon III finished third with a five over par 75.

The individual winner was Chris Basar, who shot a six over par 76. Shawn Streussnig finished three shots off the lead with a 79.

There was also softball action.

Behind the hitting of outfielder Hugh Campbell, the preseason favorite Dirty Dozen defeated the Brew Crew, 10-4.

The Dead Goat Saloon raised their record to 3-0 with victories over Strange Brew and the Bedaga Boys.

Other undefeated teams include Lambda Chi, the Tree Stumps, Doug's Plugs, and the Phillies.

Other intramural events include tennis singles and doubles which started this week.

Teams interested in entering horseshoes and flag football are urged to get their rosters in immediately. For more information, contact the men's intramural office at 4367.

Men's Lacrosse organizing

MIKE ALBRIGHT
Sports Editor

The men's lacrosse club is having an organizational meeting for anyone interested in participating during the 1985-86 season.

Under the direction of Mr. William Acierno, a professor in the Communication Studies Department, the club is hoping to schedule one fall game and expects to have a full complement of games for the spring.

Acierno, in his fourth season as a coach, led the Huskies to winning seasons in each of his first two seasons. However, last season's team suffered through the graduation of the previous season and wound up winning only one game.

Many of last year's players, Acierno estimated upwards of 90 percent, had little or no lacrosse experience and it was considered a rebuilding year.

Looking for some new players with some lacrosse experience, Acierno said, "We are hoping to augment our present team with experienced players from high school or transfers from other universities.

"We are primarily in need of an experienced goalie and some middies with some lacrosse background."

A member of the women's volleyball club sets up a teammate during action against Lycoming in Centennial Gym on Tuesday evening. The team swept Lycoming three games to zero to raise its season record to 5-2. The visitors had a tough time getting on track during the first game and were shutout 15-0. The other scores were 15-5 and 16-14. (Chris Pierie)

The team lost an All-American calibre goalie in Stan Line who graduated in 1984. They also lost a nucleus of top scorers due to graduation.

Anyone who is interested in playing should try to attend the meeting in Studio C in the McCormick Building. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30. If you cannot attend and are interested, be sure to contact Acierno at 4190.

Volleyball sweeps Lycoming

GARY WESSNER JR.
Staff Writer

The women's volleyball club swept a three game series against Lycoming College Monday night in Centennial Gym.

They started with an impressive 15-0 shutout as Lycoming was hampered by bad passing and could only manage three good spikes.

The last two games were taken by 15-5 and 16-14 scores to raise the Huskies overall record to 5-2. Last week the Huskies went 2-2 against Susquehanna University.

The players are anxious to show that they can be competitive against other colleges. The hope of becoming a varsity team in the future is one of their main goals.

Until now, they have been coaching themselves and paying for their own transportation.

Dedication to the sport of volleyball is definitely present, but they still believe they could be better with proper coaching and instruction.

The club will visit Scranton University tonight to play matches with both Scranton and Wilkes College.

Huskies down IUP 4-0

Third straight shutout, 33rd straight win

Sports Editor

The Bloomsburg University women's field hockey team won its 33rd straight game and captured its third straight shutout in downing Indiana (PA) 4-0 on Saturday.

The Huskies were led by senior Karen Hertzler, who scored two goals. Donna Graupp and Lynn Hurst each added a goal and Kate Denny chipped in with an assist.

Bloomsburg dominated the shots on goal department once again, outshooting the Indians 19-4 and registered 13 corners to IUP's 4.

Junior transfer Beth Eyer has taken over the goalie's spot for the Huskies this season and has not allowed a goal in her three games.

The Huskies next home game will be Saturday, September 28, against Millersville in a 1:00 p.m. contest.

Diane Shields centers the ball during Bloomsburg's game with Indiana (PA) on Saturday. The Huskies downed the Indians 4-0.

Flag Football participants enjoy a competitive game during intramural action. Other intramural activities included softball, tennis, cross country and horsehoes.
