Rape occurs in Bloomsburg more often than it appears

JEANNINE DENNISON
Voice Contributor

Last month a Bloomsburg University student went to a party with a few friends. She left the party with two male students who were supposedly going to walk her home. She was raped and reported the incident to the Bloomsburg Police Department.

About three years ago a young woman was walking to Sesame St. at 1:30 a.m. A car with two men picked her up. She was raped and reported the incident to the Bloomsburg Police Department.

According to Susan Weaver-Vought, sexual assault program coordinator at the Bloomsburg Women's Center, the center receives approximately 20 rape and sexual assault cases each month. The Bloomsburg Police Department receives about three reports of rape each year, according to Larry Smith, Bloomsburg chief of police. "One out of every 10 women in the United States will be raped," says Weaver-Vought. "Only 10 to 20 percent of women who are raped will report the crime to the police. Anywhere from 50 to 75 percent of rape victims know the rapist." Besides knowing the rapist, women worry about repercussions of the incident or people not believing that they were really raped. Women who are raped also fear questioning by police, the trial and the unfavorable publicity, says Weaver-Vought.

Bob Davenport, a counselor at BU, says "lots of people are uninformed as to what their rights may be. They don't know if they are considered legally assaulted." The counselors at the Center for Counseling and Human Development try to inform the students of their rights. Reporting a rape to the police is ultimately the decision of the victim. The counseling center does not act as a legal source for a victim. Rather, the people at the center try to be supportive and "work with the victim in terms of dealing with it psychologically," says Davenport. "These things happen everywhere, and sometimes they happen here. You are never in a completely safe environment, and people should be aware of what can happen."

Police Chief Smith believes that a factor in many rape cases is alcohol. "Booze and rape go hand in hand," says Smith. When people have too much to drink, their behavior changes and they sometimes get out of control. A person's common sense and judgment are dulled. As a result, rape sometimes occurs.

According to Smith, "The system we have makes it difficult for a person accused of rape to be convicted and punished to the fullest extent." Someone can be found guilty, appeal the case and have another hearing. In some cases the victims think they cannot testify at another hearing and the rapist is set free. "If you don't have a victim, then you can't have a crime," explains Smith. Sometimes the accused rapist will plea bargain with the court and receive a lesser sentence. When this occurs the victim does not have to go through the trauma of recalling the events of the rape. For many women, it is embarrassing to go to court and tell a room full of people the details of being raped.

About five years ago there was a rape involving a member of the Bloomsburg Police Department. The case was lost by the defendant the first time it went to trial. The defendant appealed the case and lost again. The defendant was granted a second appeal and lost yet another time. The case, which had gone to trial three times in a space of three years, was scheduled to go to trial a fourth time. The victim, having already testified at three trials, believed that she could not testify again and relive the horror of being raped. The case never went to trial a fourth time because the accused rapist committed suicide.

Most women who are raped have a difficult time dealing with the trauma. According to Weaver-Vought, there are three stages of Rape Trauma Syndrome. The first is called acute reaction, and lasts from two days to two or three weeks. The victim goes through a variety of behaviors including anger, fear, and guilt. The second stage is outward adjustment, and can last from several months to several years. In this stage the victim begins to resume a normal life and is less eager to discuss the rape. The final stage is integration. The victim will see something or someone associated with the rape. For a short time the victims' reaction is the same as at the time of

Donations are generous this year at BU

The efforts of Anthony Ianiero, director of development, are paying off for Bloomsburg University. So far this academic year, two separate gifts from AT&T and Shared Medical Systems of Malvern totalling $44,000 have been received to benefit both students and faculty.

Micro-computers from AT&T valued at $37,000 include eight personal computers with printers and a variety of software and other hardware. For the second consecutive year, Shared Medical Systems has given an IBM XT personal computer system valued at $7,000.

In addition, prior to the start of the current school year, a multi-million dollar trust fund was bequeathed to the university by a late Shenandoah resident, Fred G. Smith. The trust fund, currently valued at $3 million, will provide scholarships for students needing financial help from the township of Mt. Carmel along with the boroughs of Ashland and Shenandoah. The trust includes a provision to increase its net worth to $5 million.

Ianiero, a 1974 graduate of Trenton State College, was employed by Bloomsburg two years ago, at a time when outside funds came mainly from alumni giving. He has worked to expand the university's total fundraising program.

At the end of the 1984-85 school year, the contributions to the 146-year-old university included a single donation of a half million dollars to the university's scholarship fund, approximately $179,000 to the BU Alumni Association, a $40,000 anonymous gift and a $19,200 cash contribution from Air Products and Chemicals of Allentown.

The grand total of the 1984 gifts and pledges received by the university, through the Development Office, was $676,279. Included in this total was $57,966 in in-kind gifts, $584,204 in cash and $34,109 of other general cash received.

Among the in-kind contributions received, Topp Telecom donated $23,380 for the CPT Word Processing equipment; Kodak, $71,000 for a video printer; and Sperry, $6,839 for the micro equipment.

Other in-kind contributors include Shared Medical Systems, PP&L, Zenith and Bloomsburg Carpet Industry.

According to Ianiero, the largest gift came from Marco and Louise Mitranis. The Mitranis donated $500,000 to the university for the

CAS reinstated as official voice of 82,000 SSHE students after 2 years

The Board of Student Government Presidents (BSGP) of the state-owned universities has voted to recognize the Commonwealth Association of Students as the official statewide lobbying group for the 82,000 students of the State System of Higher Education. The vote, taken November 16 at the BSGP meeting at Indiana University of PA, unifies the student movement in Pennsylvania.

The BSGP had withdrawn recognition of CAS in November 1983, citing political and philosophical differences between the two organizations. However, since then, there has been a "consistent problem" in communicating student concerns to the appropriate legislative bodies, according to Bob Sinclair. Sinclair, the IUP Student Government President, introduced the motion to once again recognize CAS.

CAS officials were pleased with the Board's vote. Carolyn Constantino, CAS President, noted that student government leaders had founded CAS in 1973 and agreed with Sinclair that the recent split between the two groups had been detrimental to the students' interest.

"We feel that re-establishing ties between CAS and the BSGP is an important step in strengthening our political voice," said Constantino. "Students need to work together on the campuses and in Harrisburg to fight the skyrocketing tuition rates and devastating financial aid cuts of recent years."

Student government and CAS have traditionally had a strong co-operative working relationship at Bloomsburg University. Jeff Sutherland, who is active in both organizations, also applauded the BSGP action.

"The cooperation that exists between the Community Government Association and CAS on our campus has proved to be advantageous for both of us," he said. "More importantly, it has given students a strong organized student group that works on both the state and local levels. I'm glad that the BSGP recognized the importance that this relationship can have on a state-wide level."

Averting a possible tuition increase will be the first order of business for both student groups. Speaking of a "very real threat of a tuition increase," Sinclair stated that "we're going to have to try to organize efforts to convince the legislature to appropriate enough money to avoid an increase."

"Fighting another tuition increase is, as always, out top priority," agreed Constantino. "Tuition has gone up by 109 percent in the past ten years. We feel that enough is enough and we will be making this very clear in the up-coming months."

Sinclair summed up the spirit of the cooperation between CAS and the BSGP, saying, "a lot of campus student government associations will be turning to CAS for help in this tuition fight."

OPINIONS

Theologically speaking...

Here's another opinion concerning the article on the Free Spirit club printed in the Nov. 14, 1985, issue of the VOICE. The following is the opinion of the Apostle Paul found in the book of Romans in the Bible:

"The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities--his eternal power and divine nature--have been clearly seen, being understood from what had been made, so that men are without excuse.

For although they knew God, they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened. Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like mortal men and birds and animals and reptiles.

Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another. They exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator--who is forever praised. Amen.

Because of this, God gave them over to shameful lusts. Even their women exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones. In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another. Men committed indecent acts with other men, and received in themselves the due penalty for their perversion.

Furthermore, since they did not think it worthwhile to retain the knowledge of God, he gave them over to a depraved mind, to do what ought not to be done. They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed, and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, and malice. They are God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; they are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless. Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them.

You, therefore, have no excuse, you who pass judgement on someone else, for at whatever point you judge the other, you are condemning yourself, because you who pass judgement do the same things. Now we know that God's judgement against those who do such things is based on truth. So, when you, a mere man, pass judgement on them and yet do the same things, do you think you will escape God's judgement? Or do you show contempt for the riches of his kindness, tolerance, and patience, not realizing that God's kindness leads you toward repentance?" (Romans 1:18-32, 2:1-4)

I am not passing judgement on people, for I am just as sinful. We were all created in God's image and must love each other with a Godly type love--one that endures all troubles and knows no boundaries. Yet, that does not mean I can approve of what goes against God's word. You've heard one side. Now, God's word deserves print too.

MacLeay will be in Multipurpose Room A of Kehr Union today from 10:30-2:30 and 4:30-6:30.

Headliners are a blend of old style printing and the classic newspaper business with current, funny stories relating to college life.

For $.50 you can get the paper with your own personal headline. There is a list of ideas that you can use, or you can make up your own.

Come to the Union today and find out just what headliners are all about and see your name in print.

Student wants chance to play

I would like to make a few comments about the school radio station WBSC. I am a freshman and heard about the station too late to join the club. I began to listen to the station and found out there are some really good DJ's and some that are not that good.

Then I found out there were spots open for new DJ's, so I went to the meeting and signed up. They said they would get in touch with the new people soon. It's been two weeks since that meeting and I haven't received any word from them.

While sitting on the side lines I've noticed what makes a good DJ and a bad one. I just want to have the chance to show them, and you, how a good DJ can be better.

Another thing that really angers me about this place is the immaturity and inconsiderate behavior of the students here at Bloomsburg. Some act as if they are still in high school and complain that others are prejudging their music without understanding the concept behind it.

But, in fact, many of us are mature people who listen to a wide range of music which is constantly being put down by those who initially complain about our supposedly prejudice attitude toward their music. One message to them, "Grow up! No one really cares! If you are so insecure you have to use music and musical groups as a base for your personality, you need help!"

T.T.Tiger

Let's not stereotype, guys!

We would first like to state we are not in total agreement with "All Action, No Talk", but we do see the point of view.

As sophomores and socializers, we have noticed the male attitude at BU. Although the majority of girls may deserve their reputations, some of us want neither lasting relationships nor one night encounters (interesting choice of words).

After a party, if a girl has a one night encounter, she is considered easy (by her own choice); if not, she is considered a b----(not by her own choice). Is it so impossible to meet someone of the opposite sex and only be friends?

Perhaps it is a proven fact many of us girls "loosen up" a little too much while under the influence, but that is not an excuse to be taken advantage of. Believe it or not guys, there is more to a girl than a pretty face or a large chest. Ever think of looking beyond the exterior? You may find a sensitive, caring friend.

Sincerely,
LG & ML

P.S. To the defenders of some GREAT guys, Where are you??

Tacky pick-up lines are degrading

In the Nov. 14th issue of the VOICE, a certain TMH replied to the "All action, no talk" article saying he has never heard of girls being treated by guys so badly and found the article degrading.

Where have you been TMH!!!! What is degrading is being subjected to tacky pick-up lines and rude comments every weekend by guys trying to give their egos a boost. Not every girl goes to parties to get "picked-up," lots go to meet new and different people and just have a good time.

Why is it after you talk to someone for awhile they automatically assume all you want is to get "picked-up?" And if you don't go home with them, you usually don't hear from them again.

I have met lots of really nice guys out there and they are appreciated. This letter applies to all you who don't treat girls with the respect they deserve. I agree; there are girls who treat guys just as bad and therefore are just as guilty, but the prevalent attitude of the guys of Bloomsburg definitely needs to be changed.

Energy conservation measures have affected indoor air

Is your home making you sick? That's the question the Central Pennsylvania Lung and Health Service Association--The Christmas Seal People--is raising during the coming winter season. Because of the rising energy costs of the past decade, both consumers and the construction industry have taken energy conservation measures, which, in turn, have seriously affected the quality of indoor air. New houses are being built "tighter" than older ones, and consumers are caulking windows and doors, adding insulation and weatherstripping, and taking other steps to save on their utility bills.

All of these measures have the effect of reducing the air exchange rate in a house. While a complete exchange of air was occurring in homes every hour just 10 years ago, most homes today have air exchange every three hours. In energy-efficient homes air changes once every 10 hours. Hence, more pollutants are trapped inside the house. This, coupled with the fact that people spend up to 90 percent of their time indoors--at least 65 percent of it at home--makes indoor air pollution a matter of pressing concern. And of special concern to infants, young children, pregnant women, the elderly, persons with allergies, and people with respiratory and cardiovascular ailments.

The health effects of indoor air pollution range from dizziness, rashes, vomiting, nosebleeds, and respiratory tract infections to cancer and death.

Both the pollutants found indoors and their sources are many.

The University will be closed Wednesday, Dec. 25, 1985 through Wednesday, Jan. 1, 1986.

The major ones include:

- Formaldehyde, a bonding agent in foam insulation and in furniture made of plywood and particle board often escapes in the form of a gas into the air indoors.
- Nitrogen dioxide and carbon monoxide accumulate when gas stoves, heaters and other gas appliances, as well as wood and coal stoves, are burning.
- Particles of soot and benzopyrene are emitted by cigarette, cigar or pipe smokers.
- Radioactive radon, a natural constituent of stone, soil and water, seeps into basements through cracked floors and around pipes.

It also diffuses out of brick and concrete building materials and through home water evaporation.

The Lung Association has a new brochure on indoor air pollution in the home, which includes 17 suggestions on how to control it. Call your local Lung Association at 622-3050 for a free copy.

Your home is your castle. Make sure you take every precaution to prevent it from becoming a prison of noxious, harmful pollutants.

A Christmas tradition in a new package

Bloomsburg Theatre Ensemble's traditional holiday show, A Christmas Carol, is returning after a year's absence thanks to the sponsorship of Bloomsburg Bank/Columbia Trust Co. Ensemble member Whit MacLaughlin has written a brand-new adaptation which he is now directing.

Over the years, A Christmas Carol has become an annual tradition at BTE. Year after year, it has brought in large crowds who have followed the nightmarish journey of Ebenezer Scrooge and have rejoiced at his transformation into a caring human being. BTE's new version of A Christmas Carol will preserve the story and the characters familiar to all. The spirits of Christmas Past, Present and Future will, once again, terrify Scrooge. The Ensemble will also bring to life such characters as the hard-working, impoverished Bob Cratchit, his crippled, yet warm-hearted son Tiny Tim, the jolly Mr. Fezziwig, and the frightening Jacob Marley.

Because A Christmas Carol is "One of the most famous stories of our time" and because many people have read or seen it numerous times, MacLaughlin sees an important role for BTE: "It is our responsibility to continue to produce A Christmas Carol in strikingly new ways so that it can be re-experienced anew." MacLaughlin's goal is to tell the classic story in a new way. "I feel we are going a very imaginative, theatrical route," he said, "We're telling the story in a way that could only be done on the stage."

In transforming Dickens' rich language and imagery to the stage,

MacLaughlin is using a variety of special effects in order to highlight the contrast between the rich and the poor and to lend a sense of dreaminess to Scrooge's experience. Lights from unexpected directions will illuminate ghostly scenes. This year A Christmas Carol also contains several surprises not seen in previous versions.

A new Scrooge will be on hand to bah-humbug the Christmas season. Ensemble member James Goode will play the old miser. In the past Goode has played Jacob Marley and Bob Cratchit.

Another new touch this year is the Ghost of Christmas Present, portrayed by a woman. Traditionally, this spirit has been depicted as a Father Christmas-type man. Ensemble member Leigh Strimbeck will add a new dimension to the most traditional of roles.

Guest actress Lynn Balesteri, who delighted audiences as the sophisticated Lady Hurf in Thieves' Carnival will play the eerie Ghost of Christmas Past. Ensemble member Martin Shell makes a convincing Jacob Marley. Shell last played the fiendish Captain Hook in Peter Pan.

Other members of the cast include Ensemble members A. Elizabeth Dowd as Mrs. Cratchit, Gerard Stropnick as Scrooge's nephew Fred, and Laurie McCants as his former girlfriend Belle. Guest actor David Moreland, Dupont-Dufort Sr. from Thieves' Carnival, will play Bob Cratchit. New to BTE are John Bower as Fezziwig, and Andrew Hubatsek as Young Scrooge.

Tickets to A Christmas Carol sell quickly. BTE is expecting record audiences this year, especially after having performed a different play for last year's holiday season. Ticket availability is greater during the beginning of the run, and the final week will probably sell out.

A Christmas Carol opens at Bloomsburg's Alvena Krause Theater, Friday, November 29 at 8 p.m. and runs through Dec. 22. Performance times are Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m., with matinees on Saturdays at 2 p.m. and on Sundays at 3 p.m. Advance ticket prices range from $3.50 to $9.50 with discounts for groups and senior citizens and half price tickets for students and children. Tickets are $1 extra when reserved or purchased on the day of the show. To order, call the BTE box office at (717)784-8181.

Located at 226 Center Street in Bloomsburg, it is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, noon to 2 p.m. Saturdays, and one hour before performances

IMAGE showing 'signs' of success

TARA YOST
Staff Writer

At first glance, Image, a group of song and sign, may seem like an average bunch of college students, but after seeing their performance one realizes that they are a very talented group of individuals with a very important message.

Image, consisting of 11 Bloomsburg University students performing to promote deaf awareness in the college and community, presented a show of song and sign in their fall debut on Sunday, Nov. 17 and Monday, Nov. 18.

Through a combination of sign language, acting and lip singing to various popular songs, individuals with impaired hearing and normal hearing can equally enjoy the lyrics and meaning of each song.

The original idea to form Image stemmed from a campus performance by the school for the deaf from Washington D.C. in the fall of 1976. "After seeing that performance we decided to start our own group at BU. In the spring of 1977 we gave our very first Image performance," says G. Donald Miller.

This year Image has seven returning and four new members: Paula Toborowski, President, Kelly Williams, Vice-President, Dan Tietelbaum, Treasurer, Kathi Nash, Secretary, Liz Antram, Becky Germano and Leslie Williams. New members are Marybeth Sawyer, Triciaane Reilly, Trish Hess and Linda Harding. G. Donald Miller is advising the group for his ninth year in a row.

"This is a tough show," says Miller, "And everyone must push a little harder. It's especially hard to get the new people started and yet everything has been going very well."

Image performs 12 shows a semester and considers itself self sufficient. The lights used in performances are rented costumes are purchased and members must find transportation and dressing rooms.

"We do everything on our own," says Kelly Williams. We also truly appreciate the people who come to see our show and support us year after year."

The evenings performance consisted of a variety of songs from different eras in time such as: "Shout!" by Tears for Fears, "A Little Good News" by Anne Murray, "I Am What I Am", soundtrack of 'Lacage Aux Folles and Images theme song "Hands" by Dan Robbins. Transfer student adjusts to new environment at BU

STEVE PHILBIN
Voice Contributor

Being a transfer student does not make it all that easy to adapt to college life. Aimee Troxell, Dallas, has experienced many differences since transferring from a community college.

Troxell, who lived on campus for one year, says that everyone should "experience at least one semester on campus" to get oriented with the campus facilities. When she arrived at Bloomsburg University in September 1983, she had no advisor and did not know how to schedule. She believes that it is worse now because of the overcrowding in residence halls, and lack of concern for transfers is "getting ridiculous." An example of this is the fact that it is "hard for a transfer to get into the business program at Bloomsburg," she says.

A mass communication major in the public relations area, Troxell has a concentration in business administration with 18 credits earned. She also is working her way towards a minor in sociology. Troxell believes that having a "diverse background" can only help her career in the long run. Her main goal is to work in Hotel and Restaurant Management, which was her major at a community college in Wilkes-Barre before transferring to Bloomsburg. Troxell plans to go back to the community college after graduating from Bloomsburg.

Troxell transferred to Bloomsburg after the completion of one year at Luzerne County Community College. She believes that comparing the two colleges will explain why she decided to transfer to BU.

Although the two colleges both offer education courses, Troxell believes that there are major differences that made her change colleges. First, she says, "there are only commuter students at Luzerne County Community College" contrary to this college which has most of the students living in the town of Bloomsburg. She also believes that it is easier to make friends here because everyone has the common factor of "being away from home" and "the commuters at Luzerne County Community College seem very cliquish." Other differences, Troxell says, include less driving for her because she does not commute to Bloomsburg; she could only receive an associate degree at the community college, she believes that she will learn more here at this institution because it is a four year school, and "the general atmosphere at BU seems more relaxed, which makes it easier to meet students."

For some transfers, it is hard to make good friends because many of the students here already have established friends. But, for Troxell, it did not seem too hard. Troxell attributes her ability to make friends easily to her extrovert personality. She believes that "if you are in mass communication, you cannot be shy or it will be difficult to excel in any job."

Because Troxell now lives off campus, she can become more involved with her favorite hobby. Even though she has a low budget, she likes "creating things from scratch" or even cooking shishkebab on the grill. Marinades are her specialty because she likes "spicing things up." Other hobby interests of Troxell included listening to music, watching movies on her television, which she says is "on all the time." Her favorite movie is "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," starring Jack Nicholson. Her movie preferences are dramas. Troxell says that she "watches one or two movies per week during the school year," but during the summer sometimes "watches three movies per week."

Troxell admits that with the number of movies that she does watch, her job is the only thing else that she has time for.

Past work experience is what Troxell attributes her decision to enter into the management field as a career. Troxell has worked for Wayne Schmoll, a well-known Dallas businessman, for many years. Among her various jobs, Troxell says that her favorite job was catering "because I had a super boss and my work made me feel independent." Other jobs Troxell has had include a cashier at Chicken Plus and waitress at the Irem Temple Country Club A.A.O.N.M.S. in Wilkes-Barre. Troxell believes that all of her past jobs will help her with Hotel and Restaurant Management.

Although Troxell was a transfer student, she has managed to adjust to the many differences between Luzerne County Community College and Bloomsburg University.

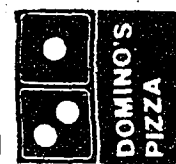

Public invitation to sing

All area singers are invited to join the Bloomsburg University Concert Choir in a reading of all the choruses from Handel's MESSIAH Tues. evening, Dec. 10 at 7:00 on the stage of Mitrani Hall. This is not a performance, but an opportunity to sing through this great work with a large chorus conducted by William Decker. All church choirs, community choirs, and interested individuals are invited to sing. If you have music, please bring it with you, if you don't, we can lend you a score.

Because of time constraints we will do only some of the solos. If you are interested in singing one of these, please contact Dr. Decker (389-4284) during the day to see if there is time to schedule your choice.

There is no charge for the SING-IN but donations will be accepted. We are eager to have as many singers as possible crowded on stage for a thrilling evening of Handel singing. Please plan to be part of this exciting event.

London theatre trip set for May

A 10-12 day theatre study trip to London during the last two weeks of May 1986 will be offered by Professor Susan Rusinko and is open to credit and non-credit participants.

Cost of the trip includes round-trip transportation from Bloomsburg, hotel and breakfasts in London, theatre tickets, and tuition.

Credit participants will meet with Professor Rusinko during the last two weeks of the spring semester for pre-trip discussions of London theatre.

The trip will enable participants to see plays in their native context in the theatre capital of the world and to explore London on their own or with a group. Activities on previous trips have included a trip to Stratford-on-Avon, one to Stonehenge-Bath, and informal luncheon-meetings with actors, directors and playwrights.

Included in the theatre events will be a play at each of two unique, modern arts complexes--the National Theatre and the Barbican.

At least one comedy or musical in a West End (London's Broadway) theatre, and one play at a small fringe theatre (New York's off-Broadway) will also be on the program.

On their return to the U.S., participants will write a paper after consultation with Dr. Rusinko. A student earns three credits on completion of the paper.

Details will be available by January. Those interested may contact Professor Rusinko in Bakeless 114 or by phone at 389-4429.

Community residents not associated with the Bloomsburg University are welcome to attend.

Rape

the rape. All of the feelings the victim experienced when the rape first happened will reoccur. This may happen several times until the victim begins integrating the rape into her life. After this, the victim usually goes back to living a normal life.

"The biggest fear that rape victims have is the feeling of no control over their life," Weaver-Vought says. "Having no control is horrifying." Some women who decide not to report the rape to the police when it happens do report the rape after the shock has worn off and they feel in control of their lives again. The statute of limitations for the crime of rape is five years.

Rape is not limited to young women. In Pennsylvania the ages of rape victims range from three months to 97 years of age. Three percent of all rape victims are males. Victims under the age of 18 account for 40 percent of rape cases. Of those under 18 who are raped, 50 to 80 percent do not report the rape to police. Of men who rape, only two to three percent go to prison. Still, the exact number of people who are raped is unknown because of the large number of rapes that do not get reported to either the police or women's centers.

When a person has been raped, they should first go to the hospital for injury treatment, and venereal disease and pregnancy precautions. The victim may call a women's center, or if a BU student, can call the Center for Counseling and Human Development for advice, accompany to the hospital, and psychological counseling. The victim may choose to report the rape to the police, in which case the hospital examination is very important in providing proof of the rape.

Rape is a traumatic experience. To many people, it is something that they think will never happen to them. Yet, everyone is a potential victim. According to Bob Davenport, while no one is ever completely safe, there are preventive measures to take. Avoid dark areas; walk on streets that you know well; always try to go out at night with at least one other person; if someone looks suspicious, get to the safest place possible.

Rape occurs in every city and town in the United States. Even a seemingly harmless town like Bloomsburg has rapes that occur all too often. No one is immune to the horrors of rape, and everyone must be aware of the potential dangers that lurk.

establishment of the "Marco and Louise Mitrani Scholarships" fund. The relationship with the Mitrani has been "long and positive," Ianiero continued, "they have always had a close relationship with the university."

Other cash donations include a $40,000 anonymous gift to be used for the renovation of Haas Center of the Arts, $19,200 from Air Products & Chemicals for the renovation of the student computer lab and the sponsorship of a $12,000 scoreboard by United Penn Bank, Perdue Farms, Inc., Pepsi Cola and Coca Cola. Additional donations were received from Berwick Forge & Fabricating, Bethlehem Steel, Kawneer, a $75,000 anonymous deferred gift that will be used for scholarships and IBM stock that was donated by an anonymous individual.

In Addition to the external corporate and private funds, alumni contributions in 1984 amounted to approximately $179,000.

The national average participation by alumni is approximately 13 percent. The participation level at Bloomsburg is 20-25 percent, almost double the national average.

Assisting Ianiero in the Development Office is Peggy Bailey, who works primarily with the federal grants area. Bailey develops faculty-sponsored projects. Approximately one million dollars in grants were received in 1984, Ianiero said.

Two of the largest single grants are $153,870 from the U.S. Department of Education to sustain the university's Upward Bound program and $150,000 from the Pennsylvania Department of Labor Green Thumb program, employing 30 part-time older workers on campus.

gold tossed three touchdowns to up his season total to 23. He has completed 208 of 345 passes for 2451 yards in ten games, with 16 interceptions.

Ingold returned this season after suffering a spleen injury a year ago against Edinboro and has had an outstanding season in leading the Big Indians to their third appearance ever in the "State Game."

Wide receiver Tony Trave is Ingolds' main target with 51 receptions for 707 yards and five touchdowns. However, the Indians' passing is anything but one dimensional as two other receivers have combined for another 70 receptions.

The team's top scorer with 10 touchdowns, split end Darel Patrick, has 31 receptions for 480 yards, while fullback Dave Sneider has come out of the backfield to catch 39 passes for 425 yards and three touchdowns.

The Big Indians lead the conference in both passing offense and overall offense. The rushing attack is paced by Seidel, who has gained 394 yards and scored four touchdowns.

IUP's ground game also boasts balance as tailbacks Pat McCulloch have combined for 144 rushes for 726 yards and seven touchdowns.

Strong safety Matt Matis tops an underrated Indiana defense with 84 tackles, two fumbles caused, two quarterback sacks and three pass breakups. John Pettina, the Indians' free safety, has 86 tackles, including ten for losses and five interceptions.

The Indians have two very active outside linebackers in Kevin Cottrell and Troy Jackson, as they have combined for 166 tackles and 19 quarterback sacks. They have also caused five fumbles and recovered another four. Indiana uses a unique 4-2-5 defensive alignment.

GAME NOTES: This will be the 13th meeting between the two schools with Indiana leading the series 9-3. There have been six shutouts in the series, with each team recording three.

Simpkins, a 6'4" high school forward who will be transferred to a guard in college, dished out four assists per contest in his senior season while scoring 22 points and pulling down 10 rebounds a game.

Rounding out the BU squad are forwards Dave Koslosky and Steve Ross, both of whom saw limited action last season but could see more in the upcoming campaign.

"I hope the coaching staff can motivate and prepare this team to do what a lot of teams have done around here in the past, and that is find a way to win basketball games," Chronister said.

BU hoping to return to winning ways and make postseason tourney again

MIKE ALBRIGHT
Sports Editor

Following a disappointing 15-12 season in 1984-85, Bloomsburg University head coach Charles Chronister hopes to guide the Huskies back to post-season play, where they have appeared the last four seasons.

Bloomsburg had appeared in the Pennsylvania Conference Championship game the four seasons prior to last year while advancing to the NCAA Tournament three straight years from 1980-81 to 1982-83.

The Huskies were victimized by an 0-4 start in the PC Eastern Division, but rebounded to even their mark at 4-4 and keep playoff hopes alive. However, rounding out the division schedule by going 3-3 eliminated BU from a possible fifth consecutive playoff appearance.

The 1984-85 squad returns some experienced players while adding talented newcomers in hopes of returning to post-season action.

"I have been impressed with our early season practices from a workability perspective. I think the seniors were disappointed in our mediocre season last year, not making post-season play, and they don't want that to happen again," Chronister said.

Senior captain Glenn Noack leads a group of seven returning letterman, four of which are starters. "We presently plan to start the season with an all-senior lineup, putting a lot of game experience on the floor. Three of those five--Noack, (Shane) Planutis and (Pat) Flanagan--were important factors in our advancement to the NCAA quarterfinals three seasons ago," Chronister added.

Noack was the team's high scorer last season with a 15.2 per game average. He was named to the PC East First Team as well as the Eastern College Athletic Conference's (ECAC) Division II South All-Star team. He shot 88.3 percent (98-111) from the free throw line to break the existing school record, only to be outdone by teammate Greg Thomas' 89.1 percent (49-55). Noack ranked second on the team in rebounding at 5.7 per game and chipped in 77 assists, also second on the team.

Planutis and Flanagan, both 6' 6" forwards, averaged 6.6 and 2.8 points per game in reserve roles last season, and played in 25 games. Flanagan can also swing to the center spot and is probably the Huskies' most aggressive inside player. He has averaged 3.0 rebounds per game in his three years, mostly in the sixth-man role.

Another key returnee is senior point guard Les Alston. His 9.2 points per game and 83 assists on the season were enough to rank him third and first respectively on the team in each category.

Alston proved to be a nice addition to the BU program last season after transferring from Delaware County Community College. He shot 50.0 percent from the field to rank third on the squad.

As a unit, the Huskies shot just 45.7 from the field in 1984-85 while leading the conference with a 77.0 percentage from the free throw line.

Dean Colone became eligible last January after transferring from Geneva College. In 21 games, his quickness and leaping ability added some excitement to the BU attack as well as 6.9 points per game and an 82.1 free throw shooting percentage.

He also shot over 50 percent from the field and hauled in 4.1 rebounds, playing both the guard and forward positions.

Thomas, with his record setting free throw mark, also returns an 8.6 point per game average. He saw action in every game last season as a freshman.

Another returnee at guard is Jerome Brisbon. The junior scored 5.8 points per game and was third on the team in assists.

Brisbon, Thomas and Alston will be the key people in insuring that the BU offense runs properly.

They teamed up for over half of the team's assists last year and, according to Chronister, "getting the proper people the ball at the correct time while minimizing turnovers," will decide just how well the Huskies perform.

Three newcomers who are expected to make contributions to the team are Bill Connelly, Steve Melchior and Mike Simpkins.

Connelly, out of Holy Spirit H.S. in Abescon, NJ, is a 6'4" forward who averaged 23.6 points and 7.0 rebounds and was an all-conference selection his senior year in high school.

Melchior could make an immediate impact on the front line in his first season with the team.

He averaged just under 20 points a game while pulling down 12 boards as a senior. He could see

Free shuttle bus to upper campus for 'State Game'

In an effort to avoid parking problems on Bloomsburg University upper campus at Saturday's Pennsylvania Conference "State Game," university officials have announced that a shuttle bus service will be in operation from the lower campus beginning at 12:00 (noon).

Persons wishing to utilize the free service should park in the lot near Waller Administration Building and catch one of the buses which arrive at regular intervals until game time.

The buses will also make several return trips after the contest, featuring Bloomsburg University and Indiana (PA) University.

All vehicles parking on the upper campus will be charged $1.00 for the PC-sponsored game.

Sheptock, Dedea honored for performances vs. Rams

Bloomsburg University co-captains Jay Dedea and Frank Sheptock have been honored by the Pennsylvania Conference and the Eastern College Athletic Conference for their performances in the Huskies' 8-6 victory over West Chester which clinched BU's second straight PC Eastern Division title.

The victory also capped a 10-0 regular season while the 10 wins are the most by a Bloomsburg team since the sport began at BU in 1896.

Dedea came off the bench after missing five games due to a knee injury and completed six of 10 passes for 111 yards, including the gamewinner, a 44 yard strike, to tightend John Rockmore early in the third quarter.

His efforts earned him the PC Eastern Division "Player of the Week" honors and a spot on the ECAC's Honor Roll.

Sheptock, who is seeking his third straight All-American honor, was selected as the ECAC's Defensive "Player of the Week" based on his 13 tackles, nine unassisted, and two fumble recoveries.

He has led the club in tackles in each of his four seasons and has 112 this year. He is closing in on 500 tackles for his career, needing just 10 on Saturday to reach that plateau.

The last time Bloomsburg and Indiana met on the football field was in the 1951 season, and the Huskies capped the school's last undefeated season with a 20-0 triumph.

Bloomsburg will take a perfect 10-0 record into the game when those same two teams square off again this Saturday, November 23, in the 26th Annual "State Game" to determine the 1985 Pennsylvania Conference champion. The game will be held in Redman Stadium and is set to begin at 1 p.m.

Coach George Landis' Huskies captured their second straight PC East title with an 8-6 victory over West Chester last Saturday.

Indiana, under coach George Chaump, wrapped up its regular season with a convincing 28-0 victory over California.

A blocked punt put West Chester on top 6-0 early in the second quarter before Jay Dedea entered the contest at quarterback and directed the Huskies on 73 yard march to the Ram one yard line.

Three running plays failed and West Chester took over on downs. On the first play, Ram quarterback Al Niemela was hit by nose guard Wes Cook and ruled downed in the endzone for a safety.

BU's opening drive of the second half proved to be the winning drive as Dedea hit tightend John Rockmore on a 42 yard scoring strike to put the Huskies up 8-6.

Bloomsburg has two capable quarterbacks in senior Mike Glovas and junior Jay Dedea.

Glovas took over in the fourth game after Dedea went down with a knee injury. He has completed 67 of 135 passes for 989 yards and seven touchdowns.

Dedea, who has seen action in five games, has completed 43 of 91 passes for 584 yards and five scores.

Twelve players have been on the receiving end of the duo's passes. Tightend Kevin Grande leads the receiving corps with 29 catches for 386 yards.

Joe Dowd is second with 22 for 443 yards and three scores. Fullback Calvin Robinson follows Dowd with 17 receptions for 152 yards. Rockmore's winning catch gave him 11 for 191 yards on the year.

Sophomore Tom Martin leads the BU ground attack with 714 yards on 145 carries. He is the club's top scorer with eight touchdowns, seven rushing, along with a two-point conversion catch.

Robinson is next with 93 attempts for 375 yards, followed by Tom Futch's 289 yards, in just four games.

Bloomsburg has outscored its opponents 280 to 109 while forcing 46 turnovers and committing just 20.

All-American linebacker Frank Sheptock leads the Huskies' defensive unit with 112 tackles, four fumble recoveries, two interceptions, four pass deflections, and a quarterback sack. Another All-American, Tony Woods, intercepted his 10th pass of the season against West Chester, which was the 26th of his career.

Nose guard Wes Cook had a fine day last Saturday with nine tackles, including a safety. He is second on the team in tackles with 60.

BU's defense tops the PC, giving up just 227.6 yards per game, including only 93.7 in the air.

Indiana registered its first 6-0 mark in the PC Western Division since 1964 with Saturday's win over California. Senior Rich In-
