Homecoming

By Waleska Martinez

SHIP: The Main Attraction

Although the weather was a bit dreary, it didn't stop the Shippensburg students from cheering on the Red Raider football team at the Homecoming game. SU's Homecoming theme was one the university had not yet experienced, "SHIP: The Main Attraction," and held plenty of events for students and Alumni to enjoy.

There were a couple of highlighted events throughout the week, including one in particular that fit the carnival theme well. The Activities Program Board invited "Mindy and Friends," a group of animals from Chicago, to join the students for a day in the CUB. Mindy, a white-throated capuchin monkey, brought her clan of friends and found herself as one of the main attractions of the week.

Another event students were able to take in was the Nimble Arts Circus. The five-person circus act included mini shows of acrobatic, aerial, trapeze and balancing acts that kept the crowd in awe.

As the weekend approached, a few new events such as a downtown SHIP Pub Tour, breakfast the morning of the game, a mini cooking class and wine tasting were added to the list of events. Per tradition, the 33rd Annual SU Army ROTC 10K Run and the luncheon tailgate were also held.

Red Raiders Feed Off Homecoming Crowd

By Monique Johnson

The Red Raiders won the Homecoming football game 36-20 against Long Island University Post at Seth Grove Stadium in front of over 6,000 fans.

Michael Lloyd, for the Raiders, kicked a 43-yard field goal in the first quarter to put up the first points of the game. After the two teams scored a back and forth first half, the Raiders entered halftime with a 17-14 lead.

The third quarter turned out to be the biggest quarter for the Raiders, and the turn around of the game. LIU Post scored zero points during the entire quarter while SU scored 16 points, increasing their lead 33-14.

In the final quarter, Shippensburg rounded out their scoring with a field goal. LIU Post went on to score a last minute touchdown but it was not enough to overcome the wrath of the Raiders.

During the halftime ceremony, the Shippensburg Homecoming king and queen were crowned. The king candidates included Chris Peterson, Jimmy Thren, Gary Malone and Josh Rakvin. The candidates for queen included Raediah Lyles, Sara Kobus, Rebecca Koback, Kaybrea Hood and Anastasia Neboga.

SUTV Brings Home Emmy

By Andrea Starliper

Shippensburg University Television, a weekly news program that is produced and aired by SU students, earned quite the honor this year. On Sept. 22, members of SUTV received an Emmy award for their sports story on SU alumni Neely Spence.

When thinking about the Emmys, the ceremonies that immediately come to mind are the Primetime Emmys and the Daytime Emmys. However, another related organization that some may not know of is the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. SU lies in the Mid-Atlantic Chapter of this organization.

SUTV received their Emmy in the College Production-Sports category for a story titled "Red Raider Goes For Gold." The segment was written by Brandon Smith and featured Spence and her goal to run in the summer Olympics. Smith graduated from SU in May 2012.

SUTV also received an Emmy nomination for the program "Hidden Barriers," a 30-minute segment about diversity.

Campus Garden

By Theresa Helwig

Shippensburg University is located amidst a wide expanse of flowing farmland. The university's location is one factor that allowed Dr. Heather Sahli, a biology professor, to start up a campus farm for Shippensburg students. Sahli serves as the chair of the sub-committee that assisted in starting the garden. The garden, which is located in the field behind the Shippensburg University Foundation, is not the first one the university has provided for students.

Sahli explained that a smaller garden was previously available for students, faculty and staff to plant vegetables and flowers. Since the allotted amount of land was fairly small, Sahli requested to move the garden to behind the SU Foundation. The garden was moved to the new location at the beginning of the fall semester of 2012.

So far, participants have planted vegetation such as spinach, mustard greens, bush beans, kohlrabi, kale, several different lettuces, and carrots.

"The mission of our farm is to provide students with hands-on opportunities in sustainable agriculture, to increase our campus's sustainability by providing locally grown produce to the dining hall, and also donating some of the food grown to the Shippensburg Produce Outreach, which provides fresh produce to people in need in our community," said Sahli.

Julia Russell, a graduate student, became involved with the garden after she was hired as the graduate assistant of the campus farm coordinator. She has several duties including planting, weeding, watering, and assisting in organizing student involvement to ensure that all the necessary tasks are completed.

Russell has also faced several challenges since gaining her position. She is in the process of attempting to rebuild an old greenhouse to put in the garden. After it was donated to the garden committee, Russell began researching how to build a greenhouse. She hopes that when she rebuilds it, she can make it larger than it previously was.

"I believe that farming in a manner that promotes local produce and sustainability is really important to the community and the environment and that's what the campus farm is all about," said Russell.

UCA Comes to SHIP

By Monique Johnson

SU welcomed a new organization this year that encourages students of all ethnic backgrounds to get involved in campus media and to help them build a professional network outside of Shippensburg University.

The United Communication Association is designed to recruit diverse/multicultural members, with a goal of retaining diversity in the field of communication. They will mentor and guide students throughout their time at Ship and help them make decisions on how and when to get involved in campus media and groups. They aspire to build networks for students during and after their educational process at Shippensburg University.

Nicole Williams, a senior at Shippensburg University, said, "I have a lot of contact people I've accumulated over the semesters here at Shippensburg University. If I call them up, they'll direct me to who could help me the best, and give me a great recommendation. I think networking plays a big role in success after graduation."

Sometimes in life, it is not what you know but whom you know. Networking is a vital tool for anyone, especially college students who are looking for a job or internship upon graduation.

Students can benefit from the UCA, because it gives them recognition from communication/journalism professionals in the real world, who could potentially give them a job or eventually work closely with them in the future.

The UCA is in the process of gaining members who want to take advantage of the possible opportunities the UCA has to offer. In efforts ingaining members, the leaders of the UCA are holding informational meetings, bringing guest speakers to campus, and promoting their organization in the 100 level Communication/Journalism classes to acquire freshmen and sophomore who could possibly benefit the most from this organization.

Members Nicole Williams and Monique Johnson speak with Shalimar Blakely, who owns part of a PR firm in Philadelphia, Pa.

Hurricane Sandy

By Andrea Starliper

Just a few days after its initial landfall in Jamaica on Oct. 24, Hurricane Sandy inevitably made its way toward the United States. By Oct. 29, Hurricane Sandy had moved just off the coast of Atlantic City, N.J., and was classified as a post-tropical cyclone.

Yielding to precaution, the Shippensburg campus closed at noon on the 29th and shut down everything but the food services on Oct. 30.

The campus Emergency Response Team met the Friday before Sandy to discuss plans for the campus to ride out the storm. First on the agenda was checking food sufficiency to see just how many days the campus could feed the students without receiving more supplies. Next, equipment such as generators was checked to make sure all were up to date.

According to Executive Director for University Communications and Marketing Peter Gigliotti, one of the first concerns was for the university's off-campus commuters. As Sandy's path crept inland, all university activities were postponed. After all, SU commuters make up 63.5% of the student body.

On the night of Oct. 29, SU waited to see what Sandy was going to bring.

Tuesday followed with rain, but nothing more than the campus is used to seeing. According to Dr. Tim Hawkins' weather station outside Shearer Hall, total rainfall amounted to 3.98 inches during Sandy. The highest wind recorded on campus was 33 miles per hour, while winds along the shoreline of New York and New Jersey gusted to nearly 110 miles per hour.

By late Tuesday night, almost all was clear. Lights flickered throughout the evening in dorms, but power was never lost. On campus, only minor leaks were reported around windows of the Ceddia Union Building. There were no reports of water intrusion within campus basements or roofing.

Summed up by Gigliotti, "The storm was just not the punch we expected."

Off campus in Shippensburg, some areas had downed power lines and trees uprooted, but nothing like the devastation seen in other states.

A New Place To Call Home

By Katie
Bedene

Construction is not something new to students at Shippensburg University. After all, can you think back to your years here and remember a time when there wasn't some part of campus being renovated or something new being built?

Just when one project seems to end, a new one always seems to take its place. For the first time in more than 50 years, students are finding a new space to call home. The completion of phase one of a three-phase, five-year housing project began at the end of the fall 2012 semester.

Three newly constructed buildings, Presidents' Hall, Seavers Hall and McLean Hall II will house a total of 924 students and are much different than the older dormitories. The rooms are apartment-style living areas that offer single and double bedrooms as well as a kitchenette and dining/living area. The public spaces of the new buildings have laundry rooms, game rooms, common rooms, study lounges and social lounges. McLean Hall II will not only house students, but the new Wellness Center to replace Etter Health Center. In exchange for building three new dormitories, McCune Hall and Kieffer Hall were knocked down.

Phase two will include the demolition of the old Seavers Hall, Mowrey Hall and Etter Health Center. Phase three will include demolishing and replacing the remaining dorm buildings. The completion of the $200 million housing project is expected to be during the summer of 2015.

While the dorms at Ship are held near and dear to the hearts of the students they housed, the project will undoubtedly reshape the on-campus living experience. After all, buildings and dorms can be replaced but the memories and friendships they harbored won't be forgotten.

Mock Election Held at President's House

By Gillian Radel

As election season approaches, it is the one topic on everyone's mind. Pi Sigma Alpha (PSA), the award winning Political Science honors program, decided to use the 2012 election as a learning opportunity.

This fall, PSA held a mock Electoral College election with Dr. Alison Dagnes' Political Science Honors class. All members of the honors program are either juniors, seniors or graduate students, but other political science students were invited to the event as well. President Ruud and his wife were gracious enough to open their home to the group and also participated in the event.

Each student who attended chose a state beforehand and researched their state and its political viewpoint. They then participated in a roll call and gave their electoral votes to whichever candidate was ahead in the polls. This could be a tricky process as some of the states switched back and forth between the candidates. The students had to vigilantly watch the polls and make an educated guess as to how the state would vote.

"This experience is a great learning tool for everyone to see and understand, almost first-hand, how the Electoral College works," said Zandy Binner, PSA co-president, about the event. The results of the election had President Obama winning with a total of 326 electoral votes to Mitt Romney's 212.

Dr. Dagnes kept track of the totals and compared the results to the actual election to see how accurate the students' predictions were.

Last year, Shippensburg's PSA chapter won "Best Chapter" in the nation, one of three schools to win the award.

Since 1977, Penn State has hosted THON, a 46-hour dance marathon that raises money for The Four Diamonds Fund. This year, Shippensburg University students organized a Mini-THON for the first time. The Mini-THON acted as a smaller version of the already popular THON.

Nate Blass and Mackenzie Bender started the Mini-THON club in March of 2012. Since then, they have held 17 events to raise money for The Four Diamonds Fund. According to the THON website, The Four Diamonds offsets the cost of treatment that insurance does not cover, as well as expenses that may affect the welfare of the child. The Four Diamonds supports the medical team that cares for the children and funds pediatric cancer research.

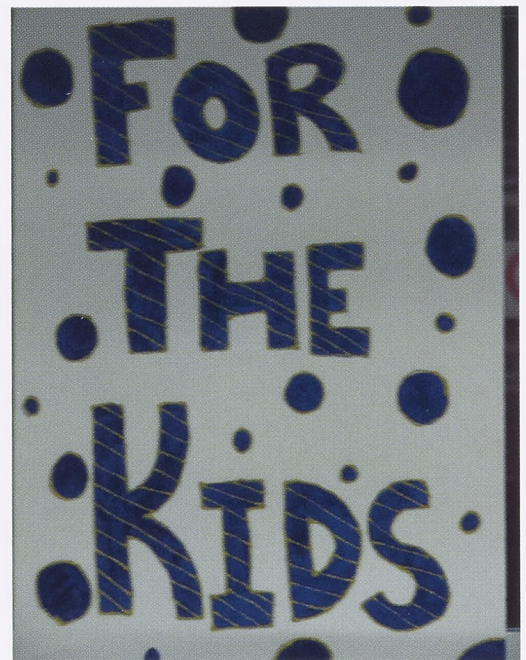

The members of the Mini-THON club spent the time since last March organizing smaller events including collection cans to raise money for The Four Diamonds. All of their hard work culminated into the final event: Mini-THON. This event is an all-night celebration for the hard-working members of the club. This year, it was held in the Shippensburg University Rec Center on Nov. 9 from 6 p.m. to 3 a.m.

In order to help keep the celebration going throughout the night, various activities were provided for the members. Attendees were able to listen to live music, including performances by James Weigle, John Tabor, Kora Keepler and Kiersten Ladzinski. In between the live performances, DJs from WSYC provided music.

Participants were also given opportunities to participate in a dodge ball tournament, Zumba, a family hour, a basketball tournament, carnival games, corn hole, craft tables, Twister and a dance party with glow sticks. The Shippensburg University In-Motion Dance Troupe gave a performance, as well, and there was plenty of food. Each participant was given two meals throughout the night.

Overall, the members were able to stay awake and at the end of the night, were awarded with the money they had raised for The Four Diamonds Fund since March. After many events and hard work, the Mini-THON club raised over $12,700. Blass was extremely happy with the outcome of the fundraising although the event was bittersweet. As a senior, he must hand over his position to the next student willing to take on the responsibility of being the president of the Mini-THON club. For now though, he is content with the knowledge that the first Shippensburg University Mini-THON was a success.

"We were really happy with how everything turned out for the first year, and we can't wait to see even more people there next year. The Four Diamonds families are extremely appreciative to see so many students and have their children being a part of Mini-THON," Blass said.

Act V The Metal Children

By Theresa Helwig

The controversy of banning literature from schools is one in which our country has dealt with since the days of Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer." The play "The Metal Children," written by Adam Rapp, addressed this issue and other controversies when it was performed by Shippensburg University students in Memorial Auditorium Nov. 9-11.

"The Metal Children" follows the journey of a young-adult author, Tobin Falmouth, whose novel "The Metal Children" has been banned from a high school located in the typical conservative small town. The novel addresses controversial issues such as women's rights, teen pregnancy and abortion. Superintendent Otto Hurley, played by senior Daniel Lindgren, feels these topics are not suitable for the students. Falmouth, played by freshman Tim Hippensteel, travels to the small town in order to attend a meeting addressing whether or not students should be permitted to read the book.

Vera Dundee, played by junior Kimberly MacAlister, is one student advocating for the novel. With the help of her teacher Stacy Kinsella, played by junior Cory Stevens, they explain to Falmouth how the novel has positively affected them. Dundee feels that the novel gives teen girls inspiration to take control of their own bodies. With all the twists and turns, including stabbings, suicides and teen pregnancies, "The Metal Children" kept the audience on the edge of their seats.

"The Metal Children" has won the 2012 Poets, Playwrights, Essayists, Editors, and Novelists (PEN) Award for American Playwright in Mid-Career. Rapp wrote the play following an incident where his novel "The Buffalo Tree" was banned from the curriculum of a Pennsylvania high school. His experience with that situation influenced the subject matter of "The Metal Children."

Evan Hallman, a senior at Shippensburg University, directed the 2012 Shippensburg production of "The Metal Children." Hallman discovered his passion for directing after previously taking on the role for SU's production of "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead." Hallman was able to sum up the play in his own words.

"The play really does speak to the future of what family dynamics can be in the future and broaches the awkward intimacy that pervades our lives," Hallman said.

Tobin Falmouth, played by Tim Hippensteel, reunites with Vera Dundee, played by Kimberly MacAlister, after she visits him in New York with his newborn child.

The full cast of Act V's production of "The Metal Children" takes their final bow while the audience gives one last round of applause.

The Santaland Diaries Brings Cheer to Shippensburg

By Theresa Helwig

"The Santaland Diaries," a one-man show written by David Sedaris and adapted by Joe Mantello, helped to usher in the holiday season at Shippensburg University in Memorial Auditorium. The play, which was performed Nov. 28, 29, 30, and Dec. 1 and 2, was directed by theater professor Paris Peet.

The production centers on a down-and-out man who comes across a job opening for an elf at a Macy's department store during the holiday season. It follows his journey from the initial interview and training, all the way up to the climatic Christmas Eve shift. The man eventually chooses to call himself Crumpet.

The sarcastic nature of Crumpet, played by Ethan Goldbach, kept the audience laughing until the last line. The ridiculous outfit, which not only included a pair of tights but also shoes with bells on the toe, served as a source of humor for the viewers. In the end, Crumpet leaves his costume behind with his fellow employees. The only thing he takes away from the experience is that he hates costumes, bossy Santas and obnoxious parents.

Ethan Goldbach, a senior at Shippensburg University, agreed to play Crumpet after Professor Peet approached him with the idea of putting on the production. Goldbach was excited to be given the opportunity to be the lead in the one-man show.

"This show really demonstrates an actor's range. 'The Santaland Diaries' has been a thrill and a challenge because it's constantly changing based on the audience members' reactions. The thrill of getting consistent laughs from audience members is indescribable. It has also just been a blast creating the various sub-characters in the show," said Goldbach.

The production did present difficulties for Goldbach since there was only one character. The biggest problem he faced was memorization. Since he did not have any other actors to bounce lines off of, he was forced to solely rely on his own memory, which at first was a daunting task. He was able to remedy the problem by adapting the play into a staged reading, which he said made "the script a natural part of the show."

Even with the memorization, Goldbach viewed the show as an overall positive experience and appreciated the difference from regular productions.

"It's different because it's just me. With most shows, you have other actors on stage with you...With this, though, the audience is the closest thing to another character, and they really make the show. If they're feeling it, their responses are key in this show," Goldbach stated.

Invisible Children

By Gillian Radel

Invisible Children is a movement that raises awareness about the atrocities that are being committed by African warlord Joseph Kony, leader of the Lord's Resistance Army, and his child soldiers. This year the movement was held in Memorial Auditorium and was organized by Brandon Gebhart of the fraternity Kappa Delta Phi. The event was held at the university in the past, but this year's presentation was more poignant.

The night started out with a performance by the In-Motion Dance Troupe. This was followed by a viewing of the Kony 2012 video. The video showed the child soldiers in Africa and their terrible struggle against Kony. Most of the children shown had been forcibly removed from their homes and forced to kill others. The film stressed the importance of capturing Kony and stopping the war. Kony has been wanted for war crimes by the International Criminal Court in The Hague, Netherlands, since 2005 but has been abducting children since 1986.

The most heartbreaking part of the evening was when a former child soldier spoke to the group. The man shared his first-hand experiences and brought many people to tears. However, the speaker made it clear that he wanted people to focus on the capturing of Kony rather than dwell on the horrors of his past.

Wrapping up the evening, an Invisible Children organization member spoke about a march that was to take place in (Washington D.C.,) to support the movement. Approximately 70,000 people were expected to attend. The organization encouraged students to travel and show their support.

Invisible Children is something that should be talked about on campus. It should not be forgotten and will hopefully accomplish its mission to capture Kony.

All Time Low Rocks SU Campus

By Waleska Martinez

A concert would not be considered a rock show if there was not any crowd surfing or bras getting thrown on stage, would it? On Dec. 2, 2012, SU's Multi-Purpose Room was rocking out to guitars, drums, screaming students and live music. The group, known as All Time Low, came to the university and showed the audience what four guys from Towson, Md., had to offer.

All Time Low was influenced by a popular New Found Glory song titled "Head on Collision." The group, who signed with Hopeless Records in 2003, has performed at multiple musical festivals including "Warped Tour." Since 2003, the group has released four albums. In 2009, they made No. 4 on the US Billboard 200, with their hit song "Nothing Personal."

Before All Time Low took the stage, two bands had the CUB vibrating with music from Count To Four and Divided By Friday. These two bands caught the attention of All Time Low during a contest, winning the opportunity to open live during their next concert.

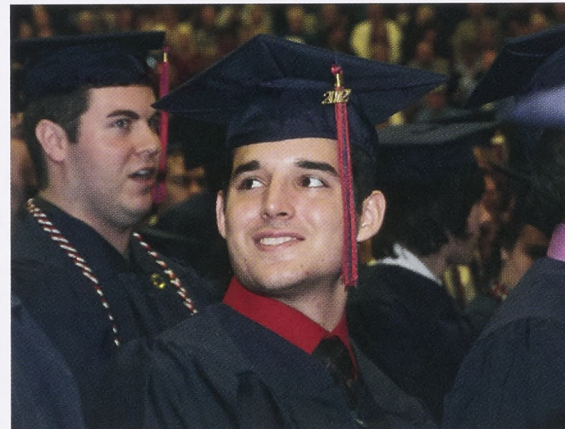

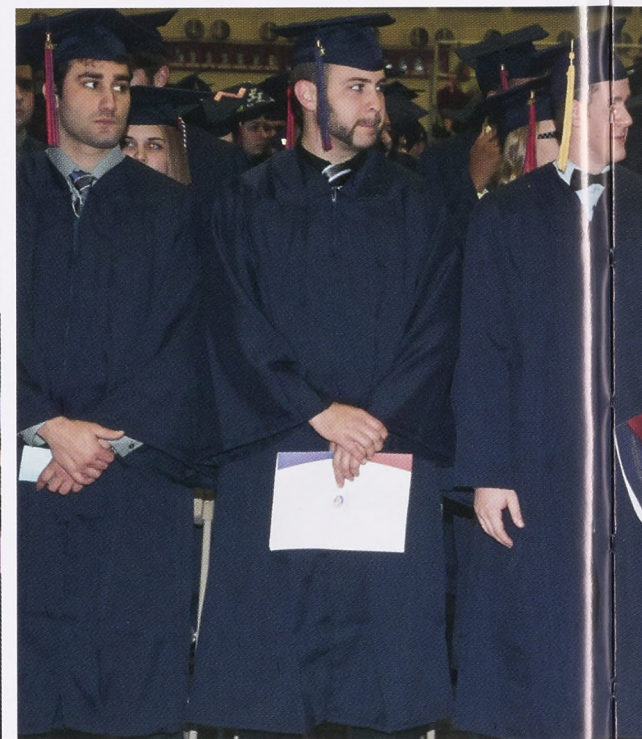

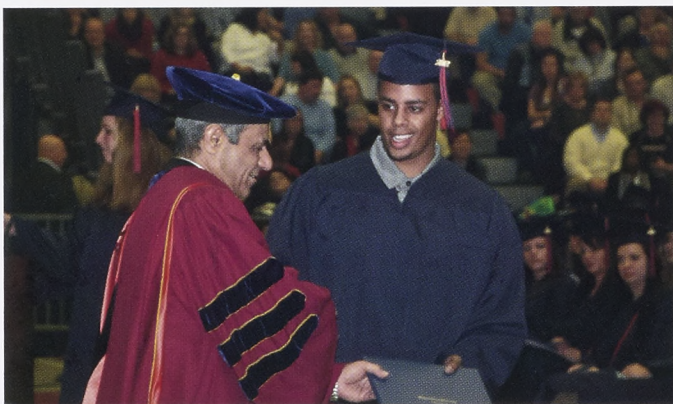

All Time Low then began their set with a song from their newest album, "Don't Panic." This song was "The Reckless and the Brave." The next song that they played was called "Forget About It" from their album "Dirty Work." During this song, the SU mascot made his way onto the stage for a special appearance. Ending his surprise visit, Big Red crowd surfed to the back, and made his exit. The fans went crazy and yearned for more. The band performed songs from their albums "Don't Panic," "Nothing Personal," "Put Up or Shut Up" and "So Wrong, It's Right" as well.

All Time Low also held a question-and-answer session with SU students.

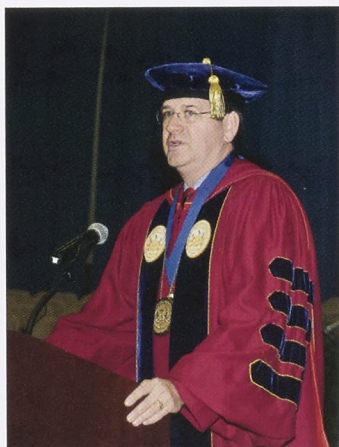

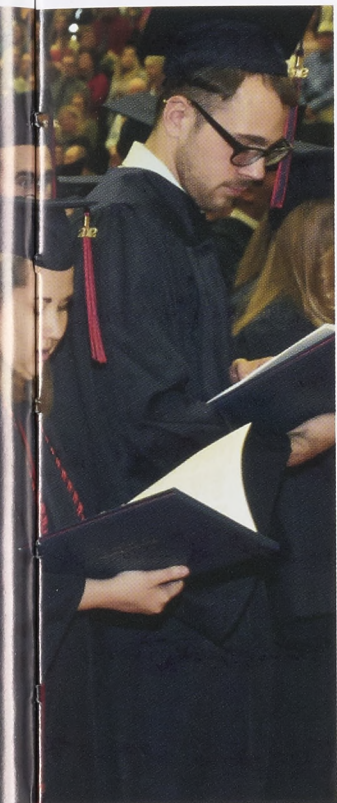

During the performance, ladies from the crowd did a little act themselves. In great thrill, these ladies started flinging their bras on stage. The band members found it funny and responded with jokes to the crowd. Lead guitarist and backing vocalist Jack Barakat displayed his new bra collection on a microphone stand for the remainder of the concert.

As they announced their last song "Dear Maria, Count Me In," All Time Low chose a young fan from the audience to come up and join them on stage. The young boy was even given a piggy-back ride from one of the band members. As All Time Low ended their concert, they said their goodbyes and thanked the crowd for all their support.

New Alum Gives Job-Hunting Advice

By Nathan Lenox

A Shippensburg University alumnus graduated in December 2012 and has been on the job hunt ever since.

Stephen Boyd graduated with a dual major in Marketing and Supply Chain Management. With his future ahead of him, he has been carefully weighing his options and opportunities in search of the right job. Instead of rushing into the first position he is offered, he is taking his time.

Since graduating in December, Boyd said he has been to roughly twelve different interviews with about eight different companies. The positions offered to him were, according to Boyd, something he couldn't take due to his financial situation so soon after graduation. However, despite not finding a job out of the gate, Boyd said he is still very optimistic about finding a job.

"I want to find the right company and for what I think is a fair wage," Boyd said. "Something I know I can live off of and pay back loans."

Looking back on his time at Shippensburg University, Boyd said he wished he would have been more involved on campus and advises future graduates to take advantage of all the opportunities available to them.

"Take advantage of the resources, talk to your professors," Boyd urged. "They know what they're talking about. They have experience."

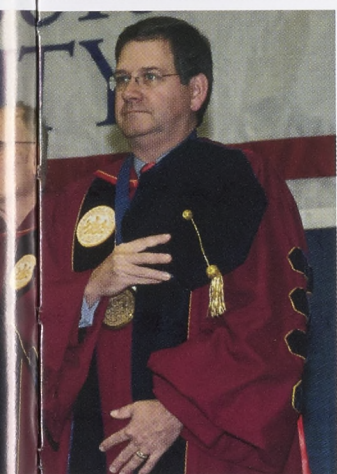

Boyd said that employers today are looking for experience over academic excellence. According to Boyd, getting good grades in college has been helpful in the job search and got his foot in the door at many companies, but experience is the main factor employers look for.

Of all the resources available, Boyd urged future business major graduates, especially, to attend job fairs for a competitive edge.

"I was only able to go to two job fairs," Boyd said. "A lot of that was due to a conflicting schedule, but I feel that those are a huge area where you can network."

Even though Boyd wished he had taken advantage of more opportunities while in school, he said he believes he was given the tools necessary to succeed in the work place.

"It matured me a lot. It opened my eyes to the real world," Boyd said, "It really let me get in touch with people that have been there."

SAAC hosts Sixth Annual Special Olympics Fun Meet

By Erin Flick

The Shippensburg University Student Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC), along with the local chapter of the Special Olympics hosted the Sixth Annual Special Olympic Fun Meet in February. Donations made before and during the event helped to raise money for the local Special Olympics swim team while allowing the swimmers to showcase their talent with the support of Shippensburg students.

The swim meet consisted of various swimming competitions between the Special Olympians and some of Shippensburg University's student athletes. The stands overlooking the Donald N. Miller Pool inside Heiges Field House are packed each year with students ready for exciting races and relays, T-shirt tosses and SU's mascot Big Red leading the fans.

The Special Olympians are of all ages and look forward to this meet every year. The excitement on the swimmers' faces as they compete and interact with the SU athletes is one of the most memorable parts of this special event.

The Man Behind the Suit

By Andrea Starliper

All sports fans take pride in their teams mascot. Children want to meet the larger-than-life character and adults love the comical relief their mascot provides when their team is excelling or struggling. One interesting aspect about a mascot though, is that you never know the person beneath the suit.

Shippensburg University's mascot, Big Red, was often a secret to most people on campus until now. Big Red, otherwise known as the Red-tailed hawk, is personified by SU senior Sam Eshelman. Eshelman took over as Big Red during the fall 2012 semester.

Eshelman's favorite SU team to cheer for is the Red Raider football squad, while his favorite cheer is "Little Red Wagon" that he performs with the new cheering section The Red Sea.

"I love being at games, interacting with the crowd, visiting tailgaters and taking pictures with everyone," Eshelman explained.

When asked what his go-to move was, Eshelman replied confidently, "either the robot or the moonwalk."

Eshelman was quite famous for his participation in the All Time Low concert this fall. He jumped to the beat onstage with guitarist Jack Barakat and was even seen front stage playing air guitar.

If not at a game or concert, Big Red was present at 8 a.m. orientations at university Open Houses. While at the open houses, Eshelman greeted potential students, helped parents pick out SU memorabilia and aided the culinary staff serving food at Reisner Dining Hall.

"I feel like if I can make a good impression on the prospective students, they will want to come to the school," Eshelman said.

Eshelman was also able to perform with the flash mob held on campus this past spring, as well as do the Harlem Shake with SUTV on a broadcasted segment.

While not wearing the suit, Eshelman participates in the Activities Program Board and takes part in volunteer work on campus including Shippensburg Inclusive Basketball and People Involved Equally (PIE), a student organization where the students serve as instructors for individuals in the community with disabilities.

Eshelman is graduating with a degree in Psychology and will continue to do work as a mascot. Currently, Eshelman serves as the mascot for two local Minor League baseball teams, the Hagerstown Suns and the Harrisburg Senators. Adding to his summer employment, Eshelman is also the cardinal for the semi-professional football team, the Chambersburg Cardinals.

Eshelman explained that what he enjoys about being a mascot is the anonymity.

"I realize the secret's out now, but I liked being a big friendly, creepy to some, character that generally just was a symbol for the school," Eshelman said. "I was always putting my best wing forward for fans at the games."

Eshelman would like to thank Tammy Swope, Ashley Grimm, Royal Knapper and James O'Connor for all of their support this past year.

Shippensburg Offers Discount-Worthy Nightlife Activities

By Adrian Sipes

Shippensburg has a variety of nightlife attractions for SU students to indulge in when headed out on the town.

Wibs, a popular destination for Shippensburg students, offers a variety of specials to choose from and plenty of music. With specials running Monday through Saturday, it is always a great place to go when short on cash.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Wibs has $1.50 drafts and $5 pitchers of Bud Light from 6 p.m. to midnight. Monday is wing night as well, where you can get 10 wings for $4.50. But, if you are going to Wibs for a good time, your best bet would be to go on Thursday or Friday night, the busiest night of the week, according to the owner.

Wibs is a great place to make memories with friends after turning 21, but Manager Don Serbo Jr. warns, "Come to Wibs, enjoy yourself, but don't make it your last night."

Thursdays are college nights, where SU students can get in for free with no cover charge, as long as they can furnish SU identification. Happy hour on Thursday starts at 9 p.m. and ends at 11 p.m., with half-priced mixed drinks and shots, as well as $5 pitchers of beer, drafts starting at $1.50 and the presence of a DJ who keeps the party going until closing.

Fridays and Saturdays are just as appealing, with a $2 Long Island Ice Tea special and a $1.75 Captain and Coke special. Fridays provide a DJ with a $1 cover charge, while Saturdays feature just a $3 cover charge.

Although Wibs is right off campus, it is not the only bar in town. Shippensburg also has two other bars favored by SU students: University Grille and Hot Point Inn.

University Grille, located on King Street, gets the most attention from SU students on Tuesday and Thursday. Tuesdays offer Taco Tuesday where students can get two tacos for $1 and purchase $1 drafts with proper identification from 7-11 p.m. Thursdays have endless pasta for $7 and $1 mix drinks from 7-11 p.m. as well.

The University Grille also offers other specials throughout the week other than Tuesday and Thursday, including specials such as $2.50 Captain and Cokes, $3 pitchers of Miller Lite and Yuengling Lager, and $3 martinis.

Also offering student-favorite deals is the Hot Point Inn bar, located across from the Creekside apartments. Hot Point offers wing night Monday through Wednesday, with wings at 50 cents apiece and Taco Tuesday, with tacos going for 63 cents apiece. Wednesdays are free pool and jukebox night, Thursday nights feature karaoke and a DJ takes over Friday and Saturday. Hot Point also offers $3 pitchers of Bud Light all week long.

These, along with some of the other Shippensburg late night attractions, are all great places to go while attending Shippensburg University.

Stephannie Stair, a senior, said it herself, "All of my memories were made at these places."

An Evening with John Quiñones

By Waleska Martinez

America's first primetime television Mexican-American journalist, John Quiñones, came to the H. Ric Luhrs Performing Arts Center in Shippensburg to help students develop life-long plans to succeed in the future. The Mexican-American, who struggled from a young age to get ahead in life, gave advice on excelling in the journalism field.

After completing high school in San Antonio, Texas, Quiñones enrolled in St. Mary's University and earned himself multiple internship opportunities. There he graduated with a degree in Speech Communications. However, he then decided he wanted to even further his education, so Quiñones earned a masters degree at Columbia University in New York.

In the '80s, as Central America was booming and wars were being fought, Quiñones was able to use his first language, Spanish, as an advantage. He then began covering news all around the world.

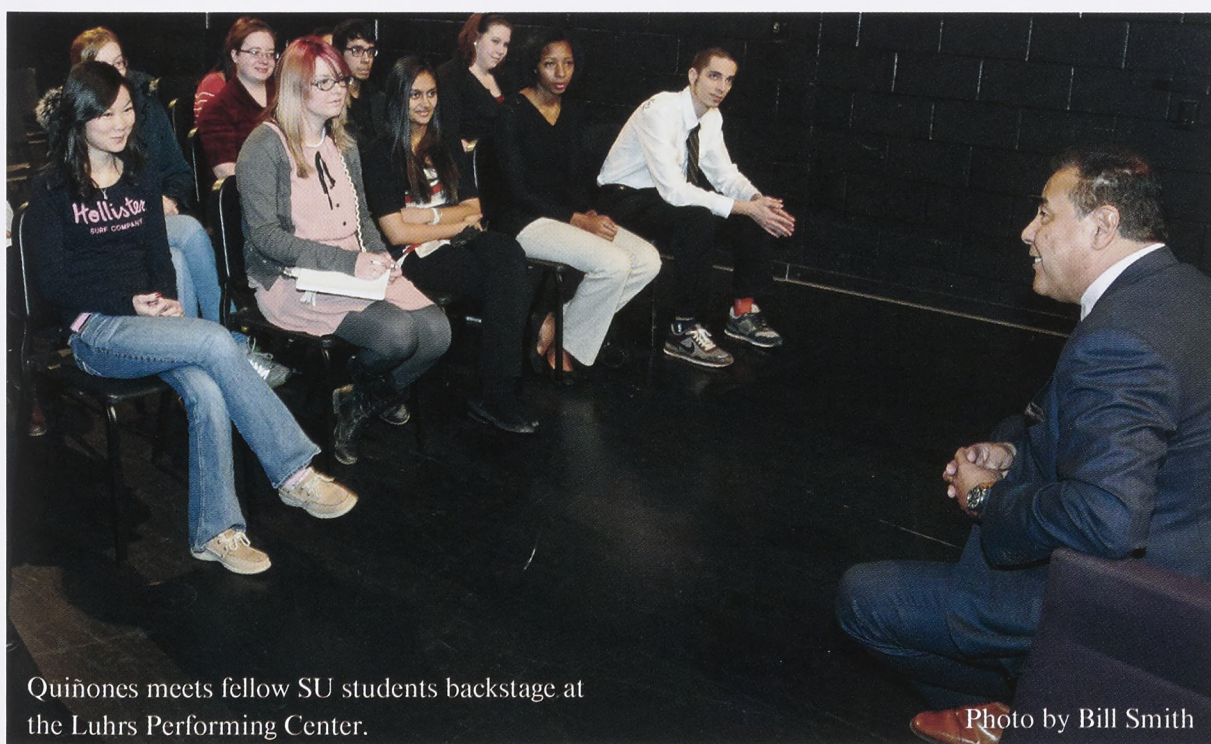

Quiñones has been the star of a show called 20/20, but most importantly he is known for his work as the Host of ABC's What Would You Do, a show allowing viewers to witness society's reaction to sensitive social problems caught by hidden cameras.

After his presentation, Quiñones held a private session where students of Shippensburg were allowed to ask questions. A popular topic included what seniors should do after graduation, while others asked about the diverse situations on which Quiñones has reported.

However, the last question answered was a question of advice. Quiñones' advice was simple:

"Internships! Do them, and do not take no for an answer. If someone says no, just keep trying," said Quiñones.

Both Raider Squads come out Victorious during Play 4 Kay Event

The annual "Play 4 Kay" basketball games on Feb. 16 were a success. The games raise awareness for breast cancer, and the money earned is given to the Kay Yow Cancer Fund. Since 2007, this initiative, supported by coaches across the nation, has raised over $2 million.

The games were played in the Heiges Field House and the women's game started off the day. The stands were filled with a sea of pink t-shirts while many breast cancer posters lined the walls. A number of posters featured enlightening phrases and quotes like, "Fight like a girl" and "Believe, Hope, Courage." All basketball players wore shirts that read, 'Hooping For A Cure' during warm-ups. In addition, the cheerleaders wore pink bows in their hair to show support. Members of the crowd held "I play 4 Kay" signs during each foul shot. Two pink cars were lined up on the side of the gym reminding women to get their mammograms and that "Real men drive pink." The atmosphere was delightfully inspirational.

The Lady Raiders played against PSAC opponent East Stroudsburg. Shippensburg freshman Stephanie Knauer helped lead the team to victory by scoring 22 points and grabbing 14 rebounds. Junior Sarah Strybuc had nine assists and scored 14 points. Shippensburg easily won the game, 67-47.

Before the start of the men's game, senior football defensive back Corey Hunt spoke to the crowd about his battle with cancer. In 2010, he was diagnosed with a type of cancer called Synovial Cell Sarcoma. As he went through his chemotherapy sessions, which he believes were about 10 times harder than football practice, Hunt thought he might not survive. Hunt found out that he was cancer-free on May 24, 2011. At the conclusion to Hunt's uplifting speech, Shippensburg President William Ruud presented Hunt with the Jane Goss Perseverance Award.

As the afternoon continued, the Ship men started off their game against East Stroudsburg by falling behind. Before long, however, sophomore Reggie Charles made up for the slow start. Charles ended up carrying the team, scoring 31 points. He also had nine assists and five steals. In addition, junior Dylan Edgar was a big help, adding a double-double with 14 points and 11 rebounds. Ship went on to beat East Stroudsburg 87-77, breaking their 14-game winning streak. This was also a nice accomplishment for the Red Raiders since the team had lost to East Stroudsburg by 43 points in a previous game this season.

Up All Night With WSYC

By Cassandra Clarhaut

WSYC's second annual "Up All Night" showcased the station's DJs and allowed local performers live airtime, but mostly was held for students.

WSYC Public Relations Director Alex Anstett, along with students in the Communication/Journalism department's Practicum course, had been planning the event since January.

"This is our purpose; that we want the quality of life for students to improve, as tuition keeps getting higher. If you're paying all this money to a school, you should try to be getting some good experiences and some more benefits out of it," said Anstett.

The 24-hour radio event on Thursday, April 11, to Friday, April 12, featured prizes for the seventh caller who correctly answered a trivia question. Questions were asked a little over every hour, from evening to morning.

Generally, the question complemented the last song played or the item given out. For instance, after DJ's played "Here Comes the Sun," the question presented was "What band and record label inspired Steve Jobs to name his company Apple?" The correct answer was Apple Records created by The Beatles, and an iPad was awarded. Other electronics given away included an iPad Mini, iPod Touch, Microsoft Surface RT, Dre Beats Headphones and Dre Pill Wireless Bluetooth Speaker.

Other prizes were concert tickets to the Governor's Ball Festival, Firefly Festival, Sweet Life Festival, The XX and Grizzly Bear, Rihanna and ASAP Rocky, Bassnectar, The Postal Service and Justin Timberlake and Jay-Z.

Also, callers won gift cards to Knute's Pub and Grill and Sheetz.

Five different live performances occurred, including guest DJ's, solo artists, and bands, including South Mountain Groove, local Carlisle artists that often play at the Thought Lot.

This year's "Up All Night" differed from last year's in that the event was streamed live on ustream.tv.

"So people can now watch and listen; we're really trying to make this as multimedia as possible," said Anstett.

Also, the station has a smart phone application for both Android and iPhone that WSYC had to "bump the capacity for," from 200 to 400 listeners in preparation for the event, Anstett stated. Apple's iTunes offers a streaming option that allows WSYC to broadcast as well. That means people from anywhere in the world could listen to 88.7 FM's "Up All Night."

"We actually had someone from England tell us that they were watching us, and someone from Denmark," said Anstett.

Students Go Barefoot for the Sake of Global Awareness

By Hannah Wolfe

A group of approximately 30 people strolled through campus with bare feet, carrying a banner covered in paint footprints and the letters 'ODWS.'

The students were participating in the barefoot walk, one of several annual events surrounding "One Day Without Shoes." On Tuesday, April 16, Shippensburg University hosted the annual day of awareness for the fourth time.

"One Day Without Shoes" is "Our day to bring global awareness to children's health and education by going without shoes," according to the event's website.

University Union and Student Activities' LeaderSHIP programs, Emerging Leaders Institute and Advanced Leaders Institute sponsored the event. LeaderSHIP members encouraged students to spend five minutes, 20 minutes, an hour or the entire day barefoot, according to Assistant Director for Leadership Development and Student Group Services Ashley White.

From 1-3 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Ceddia Union Building, members of the LeaderSHIP programs provided games such as ring toss, horseshoes and ladder golf for the opportunity to win prizes. At 3:30 p.m., participants met in front of the Ezra Lehman Memorial Library for a barefoot walk around campus. The walk, along with the other activities during the day, was intended to promote awareness and start conversations about children's health.

"Once people see this massive group of people walking around, they're going to be like 'hey, what's that for?'" said White.

Participants were hoping to convey the problems less fortunate countries face. Going without shoes results in children missing days of school because of diseases like hookworm, an infection that foot protection prevents. TOMS shoes, which is affiliated with the event, uses proceeds to improve education, hygiene, medication and protection from soil.

Leadership Development Intern Amanda Gelber believed that not wearing shoes for one day helped her understand what children who cannot afford shoes go through every day. She said that wearing shoes every day prevents people from understanding its affect.

"The awareness that it promotes and the way that your feet feel at the end of the day gives you a taste of it," said Gelber.

APB Hosts Third Annual RaiderFest

By Samantha Stambaugh

On Saturday, April 27, over 1,200 students, faculty, staff and community members of Shippensburg attended the Activities Program Board's (APB) annual end of the semester celebration, RaiderFest.

Shippensburg University students received their first punch card for carnival games, carnival food and novelty events, for free. Additional punch cards and children's cards were $3 and $5 for the general public.

The theme for this year's celebration was super heroes and included activities such as decorating a super hero mask, extreme laser tag, photos with Super Big Red and zip lining. The other events at RaiderFest included ten carnival games, carnival food, including cotton candy and popcorn, and novelty events such as airbrush pillowcases, wax hands, street signs and face painting. Nine student groups, six Ceddia Union Building staff members and 19 APB members dedicated their time from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday to make the event a huge success.

The event raised $2,000 for the charity Project Share, a non-profit food pantry that serves the Carlisle area. The money was raised from the purchase of additional punch cards, sponsors and the selling of RaiderFest t-shirts.

APB's Special Events chairperson, Amanda Gelber, started planning for RaiderFest in October of 2012. She believes it is an important event to have at Shippensburg.

"It is a good way for everyone to come together, show their Raider Pride and to celebrate the end of the semester," Gelber said.

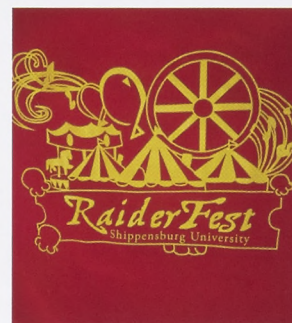

The week leading up to RaiderFest also had activities for students to attend. These events included work by painter David Garibaldi, Bingo games, Zorbing-rolling downhill in an orb, free food and tye-dying.

RaiderFest attendees enjoyed zip-lining across the parking lot.

Communication/Journalism Department Earns Accreditation

By Brent Scheidegger

On May 5, 2013, the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications (ACEJMC) voted to give full accreditation to SU's Communication/Journalism Department. Department chair, Dr. Joe Borrell, called the accreditation, "an assurance of quality."

The ACEJMC already granted the Communication/Journalism program provisional accreditation in 2011.

It was determined in 2011 that the program would need to undergo some changes that would prove to be very challenging for both the faculty and the students. Faculty members were asked to change their course curriculum. The graduation requirements for students were also adjusted and two new courses were added.

The 2011 visit brought the addition of two courses: Diversity in the Media and Practicum. The courses were designed after ACEJMC members suggested the department needed more diversity and that more students needed to participate in student media.

In addition to the new courses, faculty members also worked around the clock compiling data that would prove the department's effectiveness. They needed to show that both faculty members as well as students were progressing at an acceptable rate and were on par with other Communication/Journalism programs.

After an 18-month long makeover, ACEJMC members returned to evaluate the adjustments. During their 3-day stay, the members agreed that the program had met the standards required for accreditation and granted recommendation for full accreditation.

Dr. Michael Drager said in an interview earlier this year, "This is a great achievement by faculty and students, but especially by students."

Becoming an accredited program means a lot for potential and current students, as well as alumni. For students who have not yet completed the program, accreditation means new opportunities for contests and access to resources restricted to accredited programs. The accreditation will also be listed on future degrees and will potentially increase employment opportunities.

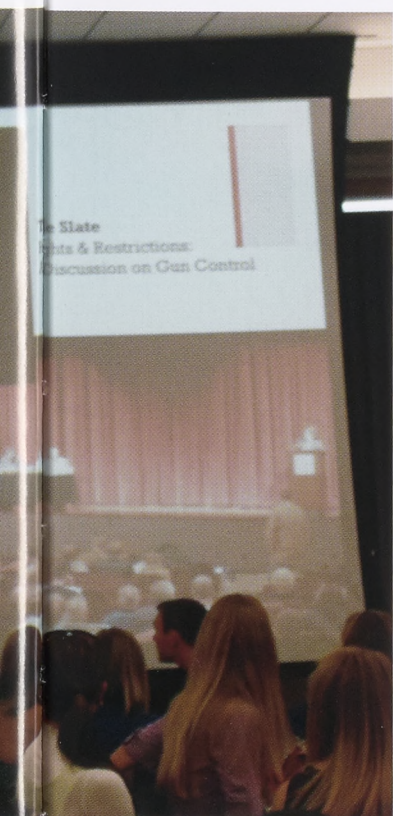

Accreditation is exciting news for alums as well.

"It's my understanding that alumni will be able to claim accreditation," said Borrell. Borrell also explained that the alumni's contributions to the program have been crucial in the accreditation process.

Faculty, staff, students and alumni have worked for over 10 years to make the Communication/Journalism department a respected program and their efforts finally paid off. With accreditation, SU will join Temple and Penn State University as the only Pennsylvania State based institution with an accredited Communication/Journalism program.

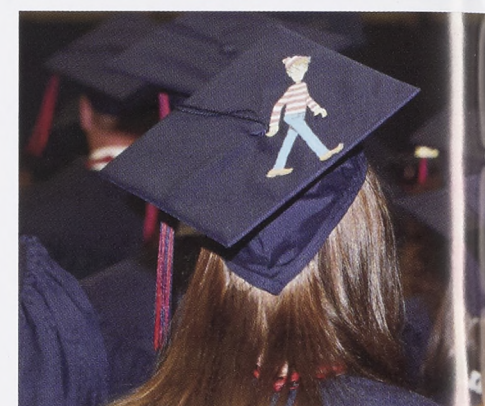

After the C/J Banquet, SU alums such as Fox 43 news anchor Evan Forrester spoke with students on resume-building and how to keep their social media pages clean.

SU Graduates 1,082 Undergraduate,
145 Graduate Students

By Adrian Sipes

Shippensburg University celebrated the graduation of its graduate and undergraduate students on Friday, May 10 and Saturday, May 11. The graduate ceremony was held in the H. Ric Luhrs Performing Arts Center Friday evening and included 145 students. The undergraduate ceremony took place in the Heiges Field House the following afternoon.

Unfortunately, the undergraduate commencement—which was to be held in Seth Grove Stadium—was moved inside due to inclement weather. SU graduated 1,082 eligible undergraduate students—980 which walked. The seniors of the 2013 class were led by Senior Class Representative Namika Nnoemeka Okoro.

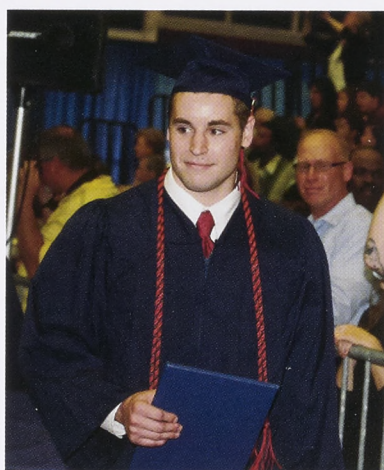

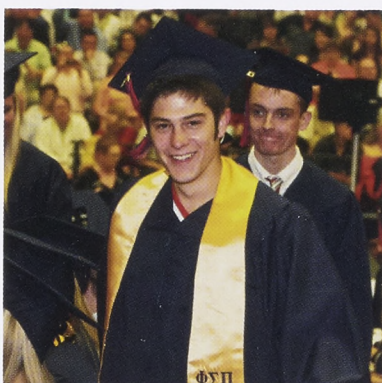

Also, because of the limited space in the Field House, the undergraduate ceremony was split into two different commencements. On Saturday, the first ceremony was held at 11 a.m. while the second followed at 3 p.m. The colleges of Education, Human Services and Business led the way during the 11 a.m. commencement and the students of the college of Arts and Sciences received their diplomas in the following ceremony. The colleges of Education and Human Services graduated 264 students, the college of Arts and Sciences graduated 571 students and the John L. Grove College of Business contributed 247 students to this list.

Todd Platts, an alumnus of Shippensburg University and a U.S. Representative, spoke at both undergraduate ceremonies. Also, as a part of the commencements, four university alumni received the annual Outstanding Young Alumnus Award. The recipients were James A. DeGaetano, Class of 1999; Gerald E. Johnson, Class of 1995; Jason S. Kirsch, Class of 1995 and Stacia Thieman Ritter, Class of 1997.

Perhaps the biggest game of the year, the Shippensburg Red Raiders hosted the Bloomsburg Huskies on Oct. 27, in a battle of the undefeated with the PSAC East Title and a trip to the PSAC Championship held in the balance. A 'Red Out' was in full swing with more than 7,000 fans and students showing support for their team by wearing the color red. The Shippensburg Red Sea was also showing their pride as hundreds of students painted red and white led the crowd in cheers.

The Red Raiders continued their season and guaranteed themselves a trip to the PSAC Championship with a 49-42 win over Bloomsburg in the final four seconds of the game. Junior Quarterback Zach Zulli led the Red Raider offense 83 yards in 14 plays and 2:30, capping the drive with a 2-yard touchdown pass to Bryan Barley.

SU finished the regular season undefeated, breaking 65 school records in the process. They were ranked as high as seventh in the American Football Coaches Association Poll, the highest in school history. Despite a loss to IUP in the PSAC Championship game, the Raiders bounced back the next Saturday to defeat Bloomsburg for a second time, giving SU its first NCAA Division II playoff victory since 1991. Shippensburg's season came to an end at the hands of Winston-Salem State in the second round of the NCAA playoffs with a final score of 34-17. Despite the tough season-ending loss, the 2012 season was one for the Raider record books.

QB Zach Zulli

This year, Zulli earned the NCAA Division II's Harlon Hill Trophy, the Division II equivalent of the Heisman Trophy. Zulli is the first SU player to ever achieve this honor. Zulli led all divisions of college football with 54 touchdown passes in 2012 while leading all of Division II with 4,747 passing yards.

By Adrian Sipes

The Shippensburg University cheerleaders ushered in the 2012 season by reporting to training camp for three-a-days, two weeks before the scheduled arrival of the rest of the students on campus. Armed with five returning seniors including Shannon Helm, Chelsea Hamm, Tanisha Green and Erika Bates, the team was striving for a positive start to the season by working hard as a team and staying focused.

At first the season started out a bit rocky. Unsure about a permanent coach, the team looked for guidance from former cheerleader and graduate, Sarah DeBlass, who took the reins and accepted the coaching position.

During the fall semester, the cheerleaders arrived every Saturday morning to support and cheer on the football team. They also accompanied the Red Raiders on their journey through the playoffs-going as far as North Carolina to show off their school spirit.

Chelsea Hamm said, "It was definitely a new experience. We got to cheer in a playoff game that the football team has not seen in a very long time."

Closing the fall semester, DeBlass departed from the team, and the cheerleaders welcomed their new coach, Heather Armstrong-Shughart, to the squad.

"For the upcoming girls, our new coach is like a breath of fresh air," Erika Bates said.

In addition, the cheer team also participated and cheered at the men and women's basketball games, wrestling matches, WSYC's 'Up 'til Dawn', the Special Olympics, Relay for Life and the children's cheer club-making it a very busy season compared to what the team was used too.

After completing their education, all seniors are jumping head first into the working-world and are eager to start their careers. Helm and Green are headed for the classroom pursuing teaching careers, Hamm-a career involving her sociology major and Bates-a job at a cheerleading company or a career involving her Human Communications degree.

In the end, the seniors believe this season was a great success and that they accomplished more than they had in many years.

Green offered some final advice to the returning cheerleaders saying, "Stay positive, and think of things on a brighter note because there will always be struggles. You have to work through it and stay strong as a team and focus."

dance

By Gillian Radel

Dance is defined as to move rhythmically to music, typically following a set sequence of steps. To say that the In-Motion Dance Troupe excels at that is an understatement. The troupe is comprised of 17 girls who try out for the team at the beginning of each year. They are taught 30 seconds of a dance and have to repeat the steps while also having 30 seconds of improvisation to impress the Executive Board. The Board is comprised of seven girls who are elected to run the team and handle the crucial decisions.

The team starts off their fall semester with a performance at the Homecoming Spirit Rally. This is one of the biggest performances of the year and the troupe does not have much time to prepare. Some years the team has had less than four weeks to put the performance together. Every year, however, they succeed in pulling together an amazing performance.

Next, the team gets ready for their annual show. Rehearsals begin after homecoming and will continue until the week of the show. The performance is usually held the first weekend in February and the team will practice over 20 hours a week to prepare.

Competition season begins once the first two Shippensburg University shows have ended. Different choreographers are brought in to teach dances so that they will be potentially at competition level. Then, the team travels to different dance competitions around the state to show-off what SU has to offer. In the past the troupe has traveled to Starbound, a national competition, where they won their division and two judges awards: Judges Technique award and the Super Senior award.

Once competition season is over the team concentrates on supporting other groups on campus and performing at their events such as Ship Idol and Relay for Life.

The Troupe boasts their trophies from their national competition.

The women's soccer team started the 2012 season with an overtime win against Charleston University. Making her Lady Raider debut, freshman mid-fielder Olivia Snare scored the first goal of her career in regulation during that game. Sophomore Carolyn Smith secured SU by heading in the game-winning goal during the first OT period.

The Lady Raiders opened their PSAC play against Kutztown on the road, but fell short 2-0 in favor of a very physical Golden Bear team. Junior goalkeeper Shelby Rackley made a career high of 15 saves during the game.

The Lady Raider's first season PSAC victory came against Clarion University in a 2-1 win with goals from senior Rhonda Runion and junior Ashley Vellucci.

Notching another PSAC win, the Lady Raiders came out on top over Slippery Rock as well, with a thrilling 2-0 win. Senior Katie Leverentz scored her second goal of the season against The Rock, while redshirt sophomore, Kate Zech scored her first goal of the season in that game.

SU's last regular season game against California (PA) was "one of the better PSAC games played all season," said head coach Rob Fulton.

The game was scoreless until the last 12 minutes where Zech scored the lone goal in a 2-1 loss.

The Lady Raiders finished the season 6-9-3 overall and received numerous postseason awards. For the second time, Cassie Arnold earned All-PSAC third team honor and Ashley Vellucci was named to the Capital One Academic All-District 2 Team. Rachel Hess earned NSCAA/ Continental Tire NCAA Division II All-Atlantic Region Third team honors. Finally, for the second consecutive year, the Lady Raiders earned 2011-12 College Women's Team Academic Award by NSCAA with a 3.11 GPA. The team graduated four seniors: Runion, Leverentz, Arnold and Molly Sanders, as well as Samantha Wood.

The men's soccer team started off their season with a home game against Chestnut Hill. In that game, senior defender Austin Hill scored SU's first goal of the season. Transfer students Josh Gannon and Patrick Urmson made their debuts in this game along with freshman midfielder Derek Adams. SU unfortunately lost the game, 3-2.

A game against Charleston was one of the most exciting matches of the season. The game led to a 1-1 draw for the Red Raiders with junior Oli Templeton, midfield, scoring the only goal for SU.

The Red Raiders finished the season with five wins, nine losses, and two matches resulting in a draw. Within the PSAC, they finished 2-5-1. The PSAC match against East Stroudsburg led the Raiders to their first conference win of the season. SU also gained wins against Pittsburgh-Johnstown, Goldey-Beacom, Mercyhurst and NYIT. The team managed to tie with West Chester, along with Charleston.

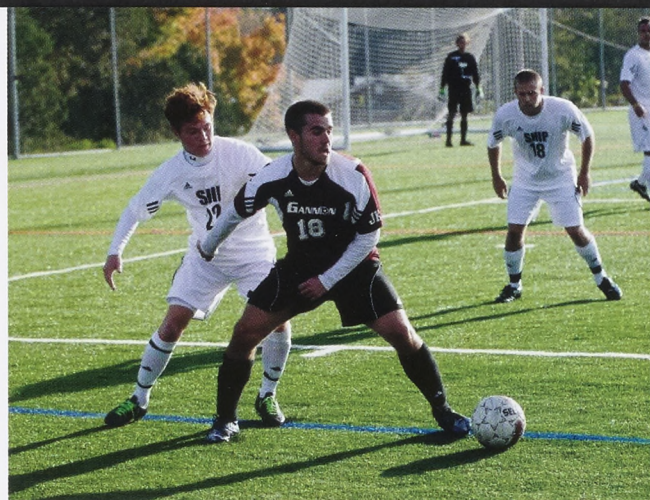

"By the end of the season we started to play a lot better as a team and started to get some good results," sophomore Gregg Whitcomb said.

Sadly, nine seniors graduated.

In regards to next season, Whitcomb feels, "It will be somewhat of a rebuilding year with a bunch of new players."

Hill, the team's main defender who has started all 71 of his career games, has come to the end of his time at SU. He and the other seniors will be greatly missed.

Sophomore Chris Black, midfielder, was chosen for the 2012-13 Capital One Academic All-District 2 squad. For the third time, Austin Hill earned NSCAA All-Atlantic Region Honors, while he was also named to the 2012 All-PSAC Men's Soccer Team.

The Lady Raider field hockey team returned another successful season for Shippensburg University. The women finished their season with an overall record of 17-3, and made it to the NCAA Division II National Semi-Final game. Unfortunately, SU lost a thrilling match to West Chester on a last minute goal, 3-2.

The SU offense was a powerhouse all season as they outshot their opponents 383-197. They also outscored their competition, 77-20. On the other half of the field, the defensive unit was just as impressive as their counterpart. The defenders tallied 16 defensive saves while the goalies accumulated 8 shutouts.

This year, the Lady Raiders were led by junior Bre White and senior Kayla Harshman. White was named the 2012 Longstreth/NFHCA Division II Field Hockey Player of the Year after notching 17 goals and 9 assists. Harshman was named to the NFHCA First Team All-American after recording a team-high of 6 defensive saves.

However, Harshman and White were not the only ones to earn post-season honors. Four other Lady Raiders earned Second Team All-American Honors including Seniors Ciarra Delost, Taylor Jones, Jamie Levy and Junior Katie Shoop. Shoop, a defender, totaled 2 goals and 4 assists. Shoop also earned All-American Honors in 2011 as a sophomore.

"I don't think any of us realize our achievements these last few years," Shoop stated, "If anything, we under appreciate our success. Yes, we've made it to the Final Four, but I don't think we will be satisfied until we win the championship. We are proud to represent Ship and are honored to have such a strong program."

Sophomore Ari Saytar and Junior Lauren Taylor were also named to the All-PSAC Western Division Second Team.

SU saw its regular season conference winning streak, which began in 2008, snapped at 37 games, however, the Lady Raiders still came out victorious with the PSAC regular season title. This year marked the Lady Raiders 9th appearance in the NCAA Division II Tournament, all of which were under Head Coach Bertie Landes.

The Shippensburg University women's cross country team had a fantastic season with many great performances, yet again. The team took first place at five out of seven meets.

The team won its fifth consecutive PSAC championship title which was held at Slippery Rock University. Senior Katie Spratford had an impressive kick over the last 800 meters which pushed her over the finish line to win her first individual PSAC title by 10 seconds. Senior Amanda Raudabaugh finished in eighth-place, while junior Emma Shank finished in ninth; both achieving All-PSAC recognitions.

Senior Katie Wiechelt won Lock Haven's 6K "Go Fast River Run" for the second consecutive year with a time of 22:55. Junior Heidi Shuck took second place in 23:06. The team finished overall by placing seven runners in the Top 10.

Going in to the Atlantic Region meet, the Lady Raiders were more than ready to defend their title. With a total of 70 points the team took home its fifth consecutive NCAA Division II Atlantic Regional Championship. Spratford earned her first individual regional championship by 27 seconds with the time of 20:20.

Spratford went on to finish third at the 2012 NCAA Division II Women's Cross Country Championships. She finished her career with three All-American finishes. Together the team took seventh, which is their fourth Top 10 national finish in five years. After her remarkable season, Spratford was named the 2012 PSAC Women's Cross Country Athlete of the Year.

"I think my training over the past three years here at Ship really came together for me this season. I was able to consistently progress my training each season and focus on slowly achieving my goals," Spratford said.

men's cross country

By Erin Flick

Having a young team of runners did not stall the men's cross country team from having a phenomenal season. The team, which consisted of two seniors, three sophomores and five freshmen, battled their way into a fifth place PSAC finish and fifth in the region.

Senior Matt Gillette led the Red Raiders and finished third at the PSAC Championships held on the Cooper's Lake Campground course outside of Slippery Rock. Gillette finished the 8K with a time of 25:30. Senior Brian Quintrell greatly improved his placing from last year by finishing 29th overall with a time of 26:35.

A fifth place finish at the NCAA Atlantic Regionals did not allow the team to advance as a whole to the 2012 Division II National Championships held in Joplin, Missouri. However, Gillette clenched an individual qualification by finishing fourth in the region with a 10K time of 31:07, a second personal best by 50 seconds.

Gillette closed out his outstanding career with a 17th-place finish at the NCAA Championships, earning his first All-American honors. He improved his 10K time by achieving a time of 30:00. Gillette is a four-time All-PSAC and All-Region runner and is SU's 10th men's cross country runner to achieve All-American honors.

The 2012-13 volleyball season was nothing short of historical and exciting. SU had a dominating group of seniors including Andrea Heimsoth, Lauren Murphy, Jenny Pry, Rachel Smicker and Erin Flick, along with returning players Samantha Edwards and stand-out Jill Edwards. Add in a strong freshman class and it made for one of the best seasons in SU volleyball history.

The season started out on a high note in Minnesota where the team went 2-2 against nationally ranked teams. After a long, hard-fought season and 3-1 win over West Chester, the team wrapped up its regular season play with a record of 26-10 overall and 14-5 against the other PSAC schools. This was the second most wins in a season in school history. The only PSAC East losses for the Lady Raiders came against Lock Haven.

Going into the PSAC playoffs, SU was ranked second in the East, enabling them to host the quarterfinal matchup against West Chester. An impressive 3-0 sweep against West Chester sent the Lady Raiders on to face the Western Division's No. 1 seed Gannon in the semifinal. In one of the hardest fought games of the season, Shippensburg came up just shy of a victory in a five-set match with set scores: 25-19, 23-25, 25-21 and 19-25.

However, the team was not done yet. The Lady Raiders earned the No. 6 seed from the Atlantic Region in the 2012 NCAA Division II Championships and were to face No. 3 California University of Pennsylvania. This was only the second appearance in school history that Shippensburg earned an NCAA tournament berth. After a tough match, Shippensburg's historic season came to a close with a 3-1 loss. The five seniors finished their careers with a total of 77 match wins over the last four years.

Four of Shippensburg's players earned All-PSAC designations. Junior outside hitter Jill Edwards earned her third All-PSAC First Team recognition. Senior setter Andrea Heimsoth and senior libero Lauren Murphy were each selected to the Second Team squad along with freshman middle hitter Taylor Gottshall. Gottshall also received the honor of PSAC Eastern Division Rookie of the Year.

wrestling

By Adrian Sipes

The 2012-13 wrestling campaign for Shippensburg University was a season of milestones for the wrestling program, capped off with a berth in the NCAA Division II Wrestling Championships.

With 14 SU wrestlers returning from last year's squad, three PSAC place-winners, seven Atlantic Region place-winners, four national qualifiers and one All-American, it was shaping up to be a good season.

The season started strong for the SU wrestlers, as they won their first dual meet by defeating Waynesburg 34-7, with three pins and winning eight out of the 10 matches.

Running into some tough opponents, however, SU lost the next two of their three meets. Both losses came from the hands of the Division I programs Rider and Lock Haven University.

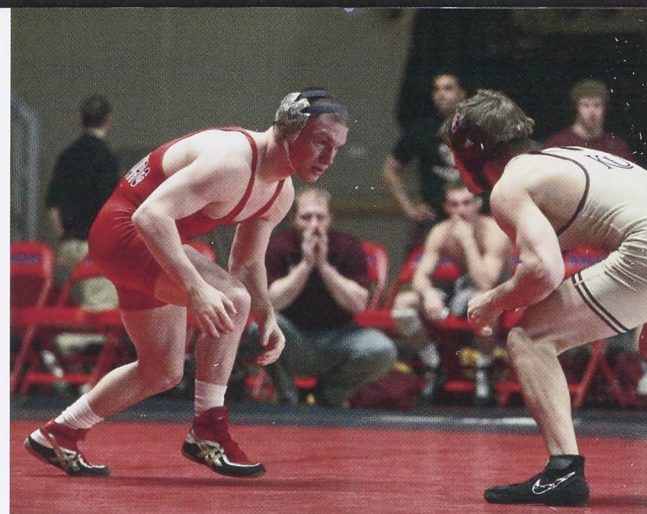

Despite the tough losses, the Red Raiders kept moving and soon found themselves in the PSAC Championships. The Championships were held Dec. 8 at Kutztown University and the team placed eighth overall. Three SU wrestlers placed that day, one of which was freshman Bobby Scheivert who finished third in his weight class and achieved the highest PSAC placing for a SU wrestler since 2009.

Following the PSACs, the Red Raiders went on to finish with a 12-8 record for the regular season, and won three out of four in both Mid-Penn and Super Region 1 duals as well.

At the end of the regular season, the wrestling team headed into the NCAA Super Region 1 Championships. There they finished sixth in the championships as a team, which was SU's highest place in regionals since 2007.

In addition, Shippensburg's Cameron Throckmorton won his 133 pound class title and represented SU in March at the NCAA Division II Wrestling Championships that took place in Birmingham, Ala. Throckmorton was the first SU wrestler to do so since 2009.

Unfortunately, Throckmorton was eliminated from the competition after losing back-to-back duals. He finished his 2013 campaign with an impressive 21-5 record.

The many hours of training paid off for the Shippensburg University women's swim team. The team finished another great season with outstanding performances. At the final regular season meet at Bucknell University, the Shippensburg swimmers gave it all they had. There were a total of 12 PSAC qualifiers and 14 personal-best times. The outstanding Lady Raider quartet consisting of freshman Rikki Sargent, junior Julie Brown, freshman Carolyn Meier and senior Julia Brownrigg won the 200-yard freestyle relay in 1:38.60.

At the PSAC meet, the women's swim team had some of the best performances in Shippensburg history. The 400-yard freestyle relay squad consisting of Sargent, Brown, Meier and Brownrigg set a school record of 3:28.77. Brown and Brownrigg each went on to set individual school records, as well as contributed to a 400-yard medley relay record. Brown, with her solo performance in the 50-yard freestyle, became SU's first individual PSAC champion in seven years. The relay squad also set a school record in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Sargent bested her school record in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:05.53 and placed fourth in the event. Sargent also placed seventh in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Shippensburg finished seventh overall at the PSAC Championships, an improvement of one spot from last season. The team was also recognized for maintaining national Scholar All-American team status, showing that they work hard both in the pool and in the classroom.

Despite a regular season mark of just one team victory, the SU men's swim team made quite a splash at the PSAC Championships. The team, comprised of five seniors, two juniors, nine sophomores and three freshmen, was lead by head coach Tim Verge in his 14th season.

Senior Sean Minford was nothing short of the jack-of-all trades for the team during the 2012-13 season. At the PSAC Championships Minford swam his final individual race, the 200-yard backstroke, in 1:52.78. The time earned him an impressive personal record by more than a second and allowed him to take over the fourth all-time spot in the SU record book. However, for some of his strongest swims, Minford also broke the school record in the 200 IM with a time of 1:52.52 and the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 56:70.

Senior Stew Conrad also beat a personal best of his own during the championships in the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 1:55.28.

Eric Naylor, another SU senior, wrapped up his collegiate career by placing in all 12 of his individual swims at the conference championships. When asked about the season Naylor stated:

"We didn't end up where we wanted to at the end of the year and I think that will drive the underclassmen to work harder and do better next year. We have a strong freshman and sophomore class that will continue to drive this team for a few years to come."

Eddie LaNoue ended his time in the pool with a total of eight PSAC winning performances.

Senior Mike Keefe finished his four-year stint just outside the SU record book for the 50-yard freestyle, possessing a time of 22.18. His time is nearly 1 second away from 10th of all-time.

Young sophomore Brennan Wolter was another Red Raider who just missed a spot in SU's top 10 for the mile. During the PSAC Championships Wolter swam the event in 16:28.28. Teammate Naylor holds the final spot for that event with a time of 16:28.18, which he set in 2011.

The Shippensburg University women's basketball team finished their 2012-13 season with a record of 20 wins and only eight losses. The team advanced to the first round of the PSAC Championships, but fell to Millersville University on Mar. 5.

The team excelled in Heiges Field House, as well as on the road. With a home record of 9-6 and an away record of 9-2, the Lady Raiders proved that they could showcase their talent on any court.

The women stood out at the Oahu Classic, defeating BYU-Hawaii and Hawaii-Hilo. They also held their own in the PSAC division. The team defeated Clarion, Lock Haven, Mercyhurst, Slippery Rock, California, Mansfield, West Chester, East Stroudsburg, Millersville, Cheyney and Kutztown; some on more than one occasion.

Senior guard Dana Wert helped lead the team to their many victories this season. She is especially proud of the team's successful record.

"My proudest moment of this season was our record being 20-8 and being the No. 2 seed, which hasn't been done since 2001-2002," said Wert.

Another accomplishment for SU was Head Coach Kristy Trn being named the 2013 PSAC Eastern Division Coach of the year. Trn ended her 20th season at the helm and is the winningest head coach in Shippensburg University women's basketball history.

"Coach [Trn] has been a main contributor to our success because she is an outstanding coach. She gives our team great motivation and insight into the game. Her logic and game knowledge led our team to a successful season," added Wert.

In addition to Coach Trn being honored, four other Lady Raiders earned PSAC awards. Wert was named to the All-PSAC Eastern Division First Team, while senior guard Shawna Wert and junior guard Sarah Strybuc earned All-PSAC East Second Team honors. Freshman Stephanie Knauer was named the 2013 PSAC Eastern Division Freshman of the Year.

The Shippensburg Red Raiders basketball team ended their 2012-13 season in a PSAC first-round game on Mar. 2., against Millersville University. The team advanced to the PSAC game after a 7-20 record this season. With a young team of eight freshman, three sophomores, and only one junior and one senior, the team looked to junior captain Dylan Edgar for guidance.

Edgar, in his third year of starting here at Shippensburg, is the team's center. He started every game this season and averaged 13.5 points per game.

Edgar was named to the All-PSAC Eastern Division Second Team along with teammate Reggie Charles. Charles is a sophomore point guard who averaged 7.4 rebounds per game and led the team in shooting. Charles also led the PSAC with a total of 130 assists and was ranked among the conference's top 15 players with 13.9 points per game.

The highlight of the men's season was when they beat East Stroudsburg, the PSAC Eastern Division Champions. SU lost their first game of the season to East Stroudsburg by 43 points but used an 87 percent effort from the free-throw line to knock off the Warriors later in the annual "Play 4 Kay" game.

The Shippensburg women's tennis team did not collectively see a win all year except Mar. 30, 2012, when they crushed Cheyney University. SU beat the Lady Wolves, 9-0. Despite their season record, the team continued to make strides under the guidance of Head Coach Amanda Fenn who is a 2006 Shippensburg graduate and three-year letter winner in both tennis and swimming.

Last season, the SU squad won more points in PSAC divisional matches than it had in six years. With a handful of returning players, the team endured the 2012 fall, non-championship season with several close doubles and singles matches.

In its fall season closer, the team fought hard and scored 13 points in doubles matches and 27 points in singles matches.

The spring season was an opportunity for the women's tennis team to start new. They opened their spring PSAC season with a 9-0 win over Cheyney, their first win of the year.

The Lady Raiders concluded the spring season against Millersville University on Senior Day. SU fell to MU, 8-1. Two seniors participated in their final matches with SU. Both seniors boasted plenty of matches during their career for the Lady Raiders.

SU women's lacrosse head coach, Ashley Manion continues to instill in her players to put teamwork first, both on and off the field.

The Lady Raiders ended their season with a 5-12 record, 3-8 record in the PSAC. SU proved to be tough in the faceoff circle gaining control of the draw in better than half of their opportunities.

The ladies battled their way through a long season that ultimately ended in defeat against rival East Stroudsburg. Not only did the chance to pursue a spot in the PSAC Championships come to an end, but so did the careers of five women lacrosse players.

Seniors Roxanne Brown, Sarah Chrencik, Erin Hains, Lindsey Kennedy and Jenna Simmons all made an impression on the SU women's lacrosse team and graduated in the spring. Over the seniors' four-year career, the five ladies were on the field for 29 wins together, combined a total of 160 goals, 114 assists, 383 ground balls, 228 draw controls and caused 154 turnovers.

Kennedy ended her career as one of the top players in SU program history as she earned the all-time school assist record with 94. She is also tied for seventh in SU history for goals scored with 112.

Four Lady Raiders were selected to the 2013 All-PSAC squads. Liz French, Sarah Chrencik, Courtney Kennedy and Lindsey Kennedy were all a part of this selection. A second team was announced for Lindsey Kennedy, making her the second player in SU history to gain all-conference honors after all four years.

The Shippensburg women's track and field team lives and breathes by their motto of "Pride, Team, Tradition." As a team, they have made a tradition out of winning every PSAC Championship, both indoor and outdoor, for the past four years. This is something that the seniors, especially, take great pride in.

"It has been a great experience. We are always striving to out-do any team that we compete against," said senior Lyndsay Barna.

Every member of the women's track team helps to make these victories possible. This year, the squad was happy to bring on board Megan Lundy who was named the 2013 PSAC Women's Indoor Freshman of the Year. Lundy won the conference championship in the 400 meters and ran at the NCAA Indoor Championships as part of the Distance Medley Relay, a lot to achieve as a freshman.

Senior Katrina Spratford was also a strong anchor for this Shippensburg squad once again. After winning the mile and 3K, and running the anchor leg of the victorious DMR, Spratford was named the PSAC Indoor Championships Track MVP. At the NCAA Championships, Spratford earned All-American honors in the 5,000 meters with a fourth-place finish and narrowly missed out on another All-America finish in the 3,000 meters – placing ninth. These accomplishments earned Spratford the title of 2013 PSAC Women's Indoor Track Athlete of the Year.

Another standout over the past four years is senior Caitlin Stuetz. Stuetz broke her own school record in the 60-meter hurdles multiple times during the indoor season. She is also a four-time NCAA Division II Provisional Qualifier. The amount of time and work that everyone on the team puts in to help this team succeed, just like these athletes do, is innumerable.

"On a team this large, it is important to key in on your job and your goals. Each piece of the puzzle adds up. Caring about one another across all the different event groups on the team is what has made the difference for our program," said Stuetz.

The SU men's track and field team is a force to be reckoned with. Just like the women's team, they have multiple indoor and outdoor team championships under their belt in the last few years. The men continued with their winning ways, by once again, sweeping the indoor and outdoor PSAC Championships during the 2012 and 2013 seasons.

For the distance squad, Senior Matt Gillette has continued to be a dominant force and was named the 2013 PSAC Men's Indoor Track Athlete of the Year. Gillette was also named the PSAC Indoor Championships Track MVP and Overall Meet MVP after winning league titles in the mile, 3K and distance medley relay. At nationals he continued to put on a show by placing third in the 3k, earning All-America status, and also running the anchor leg of the record-setting DMR squad. The men's DMR was the highlight of the indoor season after winning the national title and also setting a new meet record time. The other members of the DMR squad were sophomores Tom Kehl and Andrew Kujawski, and senior Joel Flott.

Kujawski, now a national champion, knows all about what it is like to have hard work pay off.

"The hard work that everyone has to put in to make the team successful is important, as well as being confident in your ability, and giving it your all, 110 percent. You have to practice like you will compete," said Kujawski.

In the field events, seniors Herman Kirkland and Steve Waithe have been key components. Waithe took the title in his primary event, the triple jump and third in the long jump after only competing in the event one other time in his collegiate career. Kirkland brought home his second indoor long jump title in three years.

"This team has been like a family and every person has played an important part to help us achieve great things," said Kirkland.

The Lady Raider softball team dominated their competition in yet another season, compiling a 30-9 record. The women posted 13 wins in PSAC play, earning a No. 1 seed in the PSAC Championship tournament and a No. 2 seed in the Atlantic Region tournament.

Shippensburg recorded 16 shutouts in the regular season, a testament to their strong pitching staff. SU's pitching was led by junior Emily Estep, sophomore Liz Parkins and sophomore Makenzie Lynn. Estep led the team in earned run average on the year with 1.08. In her 123 innings pitched, Estep also struck out 140 opposing hitters, while walking only 37. Parkins posted an undefeated record on the year at 9-0, while Lynn was a great inning-eater, pitching over 90 innings.

The Lady Raider offense was equally potent as the defense, as five hitters batted over .300. Outfielder Kiersten Darhower led the way, hitting .370 with 12 RBIs and 24 runs scored. As a team, SU slammed 13 home runs against their opponents and outscored those opponents 185-64.

SU earned its keep in practically every game this season, proving themselves especially in the last regular season game when they battled East Stroudsburg. In that game, Shippensburg native and second baseman Rachel Shumway got behind a 0-2 count but fought her way back. Shumway proceeded to foul off seven straight pitches, before launching a homerun, which ultimately gave SU the winning run.

The Lady Raiders continued on after the regular season into the PSAC Championship tournament and was selected to compete in the 2013 NCAA Division II Softball Championships. In the PSAC tournament, SU defeated Bloomsburg University 6-0 and came out victorious over Mansfield 4-2, however, fell short to West Chester 2-0. In the Atlantic Region tournament, SU earned the No. 2 seed and was able to host the competition at Robb Field. Under Head Coach Bob Brookens, this was the tenth time in 13 seasons that the Lady Raider softball team has qualified for the NCAA tournament.

Junior left fielder Hilary Lyons was named to the 2012-13 Capital One Academic All-District Two Team and deemed the 2013 PSAC Champion Scholar.

The SU baseball team started the spring season with a win and a loss against Barton College (N.C.). From there, the men played in the Asheboro Tournament with three games in Winston-Salem, N.C., against Shepherd University, Winston-Salem State and Davis and Elkins College. Ship pulled away with the win against all three teams.

First baseman and pitcher Pat Kregeloh was recognized for many achievements this season. Kregeloh ended the regular season with 53 RBIs and eight home runs. Kregeloh was named PSAC Eastern Division Hitter of the Week on Mar. 4, PSAC Eastern Division Pitcher of the Week on Apr. 15 and PSAC Eastern Division Player of the Week in early May. Junior Cal Hogan was also named PSAC Eastern Division Player of the Week on Apr. 22.

Six Raiders won Eastern Division Baseball Honors as well. Four of them won First Team spots, including juniors Michael Douglas, Hogan, Kregeloh and freshman Mike Marcinko. Senior Tyler Shover and freshman Marcus Shippey won Second Team picks.

The boys ended their regular season with a doubleheader against rival Mansfield University at home. The Raiders lost the first game, but were able make a comeback in the second game to beat out the Mountaineers. SU initially fell behind 2-0. Luckily, in the 4th inning, sophomore Jimmy Spanos led off with a triple, helping the Raiders to a 3-2 lead. The Raiders beat Mansfield in this game, 8-6.

Finishing the regular season, SU compiled 28 wins and 20 losses; 18 wins, nine losses at home, and eight wins, 11 losses away. Of the 20 losses this season, Ship lost by only one run in 10 of those games.

In the post season, the team competed in the NCAA Division II Baseball Championships with the No. 4 seed in the Atlantic Region. There, the men won four consecutive games and claimed the 2013 NCAA Atlantic Region Baseball Championship as their own. In the tournament, senior catcher Tyler Shover was also named the 2013 Atlantic Region Tournament MVP. The team advanced to the College World Series for the first time since 2008.

Faculty Spotlights

Dr. Cheryl Zaccagnini

By Katie Bedene

Dr. Zaccagnini is an associate professor in the Educational Leadership and Special Education department here at Shippensburg University. She has been a part of the Raider family for 18 years and fell in love with the university because of the heavy focus on its students. Aside from being a professor, she also serves as an adviser and a mentor to students.

Disability studies did not always have her heart. Zaccagnini initially planned to be an attorney or an architect, however the pivotal moment in which she discovered her true passion came from working in the area of deinstitutionalization. There she wrote grants for a variety of institutions promoting disabilities and became an advocate and activist for those with disabilities. Her purpose was to create awareness and let others know what it would be like to stand up and advocate for those who could not, including child abuse and neglect and those with disabilities. She also worked in Washington D.C. on the National Challenge Committee on Disability with influential disability rights professionals from across the country.

One of her biggest accomplishments while Zaccagnini has been at SU, is the approval of a disability studies minor for students as a result of the initial collaboration of Drs. Allison Carey, Marita Flagler and Suzanne Morin. There are currently 31 students signed up, a number that is both surprising and exciting to her.

Zaccagnini is heavily involved in the student group PIE (People Involved Equally). In the past 5 years, the group has received two campus-wide awards including for new service program and for their service to the community.

Dr. Z knows what it is like to be a student, and has felt the demand and pressure that comes along with getting an education. Her advice?

"Give it time and get to know people," said Zaccagnini. "You might find it difficult to adjust to college life at first, but

Dr. Alice James

By Gillian Radel

If anyone walks down the third floor hallway of Grove Hall, they may be able to hear the infectious laugh of Dr. Alice James. James is an anthropology professor and has been teaching at Shippensburg University since 1988. James received her undergraduate degree from Bucknell University in 1971 and graduated with a dual major in anthropology and sociology. While working at Bucknell with another professor, James accepted an offer to teach and further her research at Penn State.

While earning a Masters at Penn State, James did fieldwork in the French West Indies on the Island of St. Barths. During her time there, she emphasized on demography, as well as marriage and family values. James later received her doctorate from Penn State in anthropology specializing in Mate Choice, which is the process of how people choose how they pick a partner. For her dissertation, James created a computer simulation program that can take data from the islanders about who they would pick to marry and project who the islanders will pick as a mate.

After teaching at Penn State for several years, James said she finally found her home at SU. James realized that smaller classes give her the opportunity to interact with the students and get to know them on a more personal level. She loves teaching and her students, and her students love her back.

James continues her fieldwork by traveling to Greece every summer. This is not a problem for James, as her husband's family is from Greece. While there, James also interacts with refugees from Turkey and listens to those who want to share their life story.

“I hope that this brings us together.”

Dr. Alison Dagnes

After three long years of trying to find the answer to a question that weighed heavily on her mind, Shippensburg University faculty member Dr. Alison Dagnes not only found the truth behind her question, but wrote a book about it, as well.

Dagnes, ninth-year associate professor in the Shippensburg University Political Science department, launched her humorous book this past September. The title of the book, A Conservative Walks Into a Bar: The Politics of Political Humor, has a witty title that is often used in the beginning of many political jokes.

By Waleska Martinez

There had been two events that got Dagnes' mind wanting to know more. The popular 1990's comedian Dennis Miller had an interesting downfall that caused Dagnes to question the humorist political satires. After the unfortunate events of Sep. 11, 2001, Miller became a fond supporter of George W. Bush and evolved into an outspoken conservative. After his blunt jokes began, his fan base started plummeting. Also, the uprising of Jon Stewart, who hosted "The Daily Show" began to make Dagnes wonder one big question, "Why, in an age where political comedy satire is so big, influential and popular, are there so few conservative satires out there?"

After reaching out to a childhood friend, who is now a comedian, this person helped her get in touch with about a dozen different political comedians, writers and producers. With that list of names, she gained more than two dozen other political interviewees. She then traveled all around the country and began her research. Dagnes flew to cities in California and to Chicago, Ill., as well, to gather everything that she could from these funny, but brilliant political humorist for her book.

Dagnes' book highlights the history of the satire, the comedy professions and the subject of satire itself. It also goes in depth as to why there is such a lack of balance in political humor and how it is affecting us as a society.

Dagnes claimed that even though it was extremely time consuming and a bit daunting at times, she enjoyed the whole process. She hopes her readers will gain a few things from her book:

"I hope that readers see how fun political satire can be, how instrumental it can be and informative. I also hope they enjoy reading, but that they look around political humor and see how good it is and how good it is for us to laugh together. I think these days we are a fragmented society and have a really polarized political climate, and I hope that this brings us together."

Since the release date, Dagnes has been busy with interviews from news mediums all over the world. She did interviews with the United Kingdom's BBC, MSNBC and National Public Radio (NPR).

Her book is available to purchase on the shelves of Barnes and Nobles and on Amazon.com.
