Panic! at the Disco

By: Laura Kreiser

A line stretching from the doors of Heiges Field House to the commuter parking lot had formed by the time the doors opened for Panic! At The Disco, on Sept. 11 at 7 p.m., with over 2,000 anticipated audience members.

The first act to take the stage was Allistair, a band from Northumberland, PA, that calls its sound a “hyperactive fusion of pop rock and electronic dance music.”

Next up was 3 Shades of Blue, a band from Philadelphia, PA. The band was recently on America’s Got Talent but did not make it to the end of the current season.

Once the members of 3 Shades of Blue left the stage, the crowd buzzed as the tech crew hurried on and off stage, getting the stage and instruments ready for the headliner.

As soon as the lights came on, Urie could be seen dressed in leather pants, a silver glittering jacket and black Converse shoes.

The first song Panic! At The Disco played was “Vegas Lights” from the band’s newest album “Too Weird to Live, Too Rare to Die!”

“Time to Dance” was followed by “The Ballad of Mona Lisa” from the album “Vices and Virtues.” The band would hit all of their albums throughout the night, playing “Nine in the Afternoon” from “Pretty. Odd.” later in the night.

Dallon Weekes and Kenneth Harris, both guitarists and vocals for the group, jumped on platforms at the front of the stage, showing they knew how to play and interacting with Urie several times during the night.

The two songs that stood out the most were “Bohemian Rhapsody” originally by Queen and, arguably, Panic! At The Disco’s most recognizable song, “I Write Sins Not Tragedies.”

Panic! At The Disco finally ended with “I Write Sins Not Tragedies,” which had what sounded like almost everyone in the room singing along.

All that was left at the end of the show was Urie’s glittering black microphone stand and gold microphone as everyone packed up and headed back home.

george “jody” harpster becomes university’s 16th president

On Friday, October 2, nearly 1,000 students, faculty and staff, university officials and residents of the town filled the theater as Harper took his oath of office, become Shippensburg University’s 16th president.

The ceremony consisted of speeches, congratulating Harpster on all the achievements he has made, as well as musical compositions from the SU concert choir and the SU concert band.

Harpster discussed Shippensburg University’s role in the American dream: “The American dream is alive and well here at Shippensburg University. We change young people’s lives in very positive ways.”

This year the Homecoming Committee planned a large field day called Battle of the Campus. It was an event where students and organizations came together to compete against one another in a day filled with ten high energy activities. A total of twelve teams consisting of five to six people each participated, all ready for the games and all with their eyes on a $300 grand prize.

With Super Heroes as the theme, most of the games played a part in keeping up the theme like, Aquaman's Mission, a game where a student raced to fill a bucket with water using only a kitchen sponge; Super Hero Strength Test, a classic game of tug-of-war; Mr. Fantastic's Elastic Challenge, where students stood in line hand in hand and quickly tried to get a hula hoop from one end to the other and Fozones Icey Outfit, a game where students had to open and wear a shirt that had been soaked and frozen overnight all balled up.

For each game, each team was timed, after all games were completed, the team with the lowest overall time won. A team represented by The Ceddia Union Building (CUB), took home the grand prize. On the team was, Event and Information Services (EIS) student manager, Amber Millison; Senior student manager, Jacqueline Joseph; EIS crew member Devin Sterling; Graduate Assistant, Sara Sermarini; Event and Technical Support Supervisor, Elizabeth Yoder and student, Trevor Peachey.

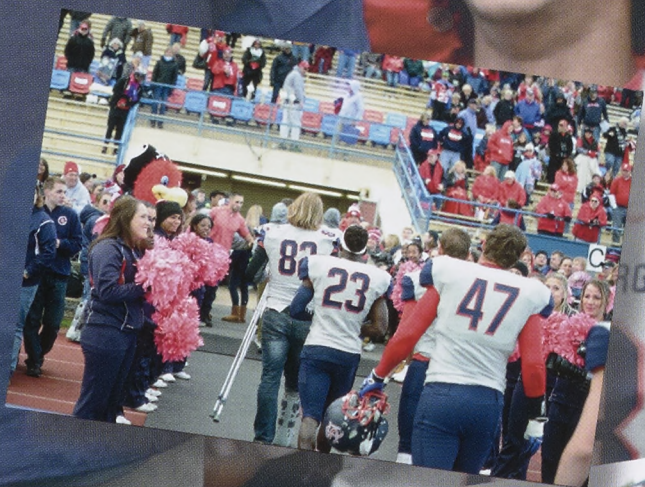

BATTLE OF THE CAMPUS

Homecoming

2015

In their homecoming game, the Shippensburg Raiders football team went into it with four wins and two losses. With the support of their entire school and alumni behind them, the Raiders were able to achieve their fifth win of the season, beating West Chester 27-11.

homecoming court 2015

Homecoming is always an exciting time for a Shippensburg student: celebrations, football, alumni returning home and, of course, the reveal of homecoming court.

In the running for homecoming king were: Hunter Wolfe, Jeremy Flick, Tyler Garrett and Nathan Rosenberger.

In the running for homecoming queen were: Nicole James, Michelle Schultz, Jaélin Smith and Kendall Ohrwassel.

The first runners up were Nathan Rosenberger and Kendall Ohrwassel.

The 2015 homecoming king and queen were Jeremy Flick and Jaélin Smith.

Together, the homecoming court raised over $7,000 for Reins of Rhythm.

welcome to your new home bid day

Whether you choose to join Greek life or not, it can play a large role in your life throughout your college years. From philanthropy events to recruitment events, you will make some of the best memories within Greek life.

On February 21, our seven sororities gathered into the CUB MPR, waiting the arrival of their new members, whom were just on the other side.

It was a waiting a game and many were not patient. Knowing that your new sisters were only being separated by a wall was excruciating. Before too much time passed, though, each girl that had received a bid began to line up. Within seconds, a whirlwind of emotion filled the room as everyone ran to their forever home.

Tears were shed, laughs were had and friendships were made. Seventy-five women found their home within Greek life at Shippensburg University on this day, dispersing between the sororities of: Alpha Phi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Sigma Tau, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta Phi NAS, Phi Sigma Sigma, and the newly returned Kappa Beta Gamma.

According to the American Diabetes Association, approximately 29.1 million people have diabetes. However, approximately 27.8% of people with diabetes are undiagnosed.

On April 24th, 2016 over 60 people gathered at 10 am for the 5th annual Dash for Diabetes. Sponsored by Kappa Delta Phi National Affiliated Sorority, the event started after active sister, Emily Norman, passed away from diabetes.

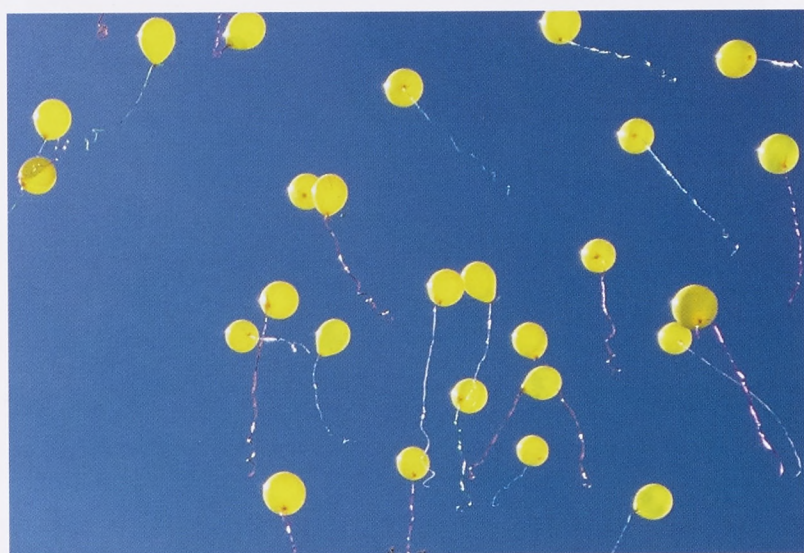

The 5K started with a speech by Dash for Diabetes chair, Kaiti Fox. She later stated that "It was a lot of work, but I am hopeful that we will raise more money than we ever have!" After the speech, 30 balloons were released to honor Emily Norman. People of all ages attended the event, including Emily Norman's parents who had no idea that Kappa Delta Phi NAS held an event for their daughter. They stated that, "It blows us away how everyone comes together for this event. We are so appreciative of everything that is being done in honor of our daughter."

A silent auction took place before and after the dash. A variety of items were available to bid on, including a Starbucks basket, an Antonio Brown autographed picture, a Radko Gudas puck, an SU blanket, Jamberry baskets, and more!

On a perfect 75 degree day, each runner/walker went through the outskirts of campus in order to finish. Active sister of Kappa Delta Phi National Affiliated Sorority, Kayla Bowman, stated that, "This event is very near and dear to my heart because my sister, too, struggles everyday with diabetes. I'm glad that I can be a part of such an amazing event."

In total, the event raised $865.75. Each dollar made will be donated to the American Diabetes Association to help others who struggle with the disease.

PAINT NIGHT

By: Lauren Uleau

On February 26, the Activities Program Board hosted a Paint Night. It was a sold out event with 75 people in attendance. Some people followed the directions of the instructor more strictly than others, and some of the attendees created a totally different picture. Regardless of what the canvas displayed, everyone in attendance walked out with a spectacularly unique creation of their own and a smile!

GREEK WEEK

By: Jessica Malick

Greek Week is a weeklong competition among the sororities and fraternities that takes place every academic year in the Spring. Throughout the week, they compete against each other in different athletic events.

Contests included: banners, costumes, trivia, basketball, dodgeball, volleyball, pyramid, egg toss, corn hold, mini donut eating, tug of war, 4x1 relay, the mile run, and concluded with a lip sync competition.

Alpha Phi (1st) and Alpha Sigma Tau (2nd) were the top performing sororities in the Lip Sync competition. Tau Kappa Epsilon and Theta Xi tied for first with Pi Lambda Phi coming in second for the fraternity Lip Sync competition.

Overall Greek Week results for the sororities were: Kappa Delta Phi NAS with sixth place, Delta Zeta with fifth place, Alpha Phi with fourth place, Kappa Beta Gamma and Phi Sigma Sigma tied for third place, Alpha Sigma Tau with second place and Alpha Omicron Pi with first place. Overall results for the fraternities were: Lambda Chi Alpha with sixth place, Phi Delta Theta with fifth place, Pi Lambda Phi and Tau Kappa Epsilon tied for fourth place, Kappa Sigma with third place, Theta Xi with second place and Phi Sigma Kappa with first place.

LUDACRIS

On Sunday, March 20, Ludacris stepped onto the scene in Heiges Field House for an unforgettable show. At the height of his popularity in the early 2000s, each student of Shippensburg was excited for a trip down memory lane.

The first act was Balmour, whom members consisted of Shippensburg students. They got the crowd excited, and were soon followed by the second act, PnB Rock.

Next, DJ RL showed off his skills as the crowd cheered him on, waiting for the final act.

Finally, Ludacris appeared on stage and the crowd went crazy. Each member of the audience sang the words to each and every song and Ludacris was stunned, yet amazed, at how the young crowd knew his songs so well. Before we knew it, it was time to go home. Though it may be over, it will always be a performance to remember.

Relay for Life

By: Jessica Malick

SU's annual Relay for Life took place this year from Friday, April 8 at 6 p.m. to Saturday, April 9 at 6 a.m. in ShipRec with over 690 people participated and over $37,000 raised.

Participants took walks around the track and camped out in the gym to honor those who have been affected by cancer and those who have lost their lives from it.

There was a lot of entertainment throughout the night, including games such as Cornhole, Frisbee and Twister.

InMotion Dance Troupe and Little Heartbreakers, a band comprised of two SU sisters, Tamara and Tabatha Pelletier, put on performances. Raffle tickets were also handed out where participants had the chance to win prizes, such as gift cards, water bottles, a hand bag and blankets.

The most emotional part of the night was the luminaria ceremony, where paper bags lit up with candles lined the track as people walked. The bags were personalized with names of people affected by cancer and messages to honor them. Emotions filled the room and there were many tears.

Many people attended in honor of loved ones that had passed away from cancer, and everyone united to stand together in the battle against cancer.

Shippensburg University's Alpha Phi held its annual Mr. Ivy pageant in the CUB multipurpose room March 18 to raise money for women's cardiac care and prevention. It cost $5 for admission and to enter in a chance to win one of the many baskets, such as a sports or spa raffle.

Jessica Malick, a sister of Alpha Phi, said the philanthropic event raised $2,328.51 for the Alpha Phi Foundation. The event also held a silent auction, at which clothing for each sorority and fraternity was available to openly bid on, courtesy of Robert Smith, Associate Dean of Students Veterans Affairs.

"I think Mr. Ivy is a great way to have fun and raise money for a good cause," said Alpha Phi's Jessica Richardson. "It's funny to see what the guys come up with for each section of the pageant."

The pageant featured members, 11 in total, from each fraternity on campus competing in swimwear, talent, formal wear and interview questions. A member from each sorority's executive board served as a judge for the pageant. Members competing for the title were Artie Millner, Tau Kappa Epsilon; Chris Bishop, Phi Sigma Kappa; Collin Schmitz, Kappa Delta Phi; Garrett Graybill, Phi Sigma Kappa; Greg Fry, Lambda Chi Alpha; Jay Jackson, Theta Xi; Jimmy Rodgers, Pi Lambda Phi; Kenny Miles, Tau Kappa Epsilon; Nik Romage, Phi Delta Theta; Raul Gonzalez, Kappa Sigma; Travis Dasher, Lambda Chi Alpha.

The one talent that got the most positive feedback was Kenny Miles of Tau Kappa Epsilon reciting a poem he had written for the pageant. He talked up each sorority, giving reasons why he loves each one and stating, "No matter the letter, we're all Greek together."

After the Top 5 were announced, each contestant was asked for a formal interview question. One contestant who was asked what the perfect day would be recited the famous line from "Miss Congeniality," saying the perfect day is probably April 25.

After more deliberation, the judges announced Miles as the 2016 Mr. Ivy winner. Garrett Graybill, who wore a wig and jammed out to the Spice Girls' "Wannabe," came in as first runner up.

One band, One sound <V>

Under the direction, care and guidance of Dr. Trever Famulare (Fam), the Shippensburg University Marching Band (SUMB) is working tirelessly to exceed expectations. The 2015 season brings new leaders, new ideas, and new challenges to the organization that holds the reputation for being the center of school pride. Drum Majors Michael Powers, Derrick Scheetz and Mackenzie Brouse have been pushing the band members since the first day of band camp to be the best they could be. The SUMB arrived a week and a half before classes started to work day and night on learning the music and drill for this year's field show: Revolution Evolution. The goal was to have the entire show on the field by the end of camp. With the push from leaders and the perseverance of all of the members, they succeeded. However, it didn't stop there. The SUMB puts on a different, better show every time they perform. Weekly rehearsals on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays allows each member to better himself or herself so that they can be better as a whole. Fam is a director who never stops thinking. He is always looking for a way to make the show a performance by adding visual and vocal elements to the show. He tends to add something new every week. The expectation to be great comes from an instilled sense of pride within every member. Shippensburg doesn't have a music major so all of the approximate 160 members dedicate their time and energy simply because it is something that they love to do and sincerely enjoy. And this doesn't go unnoticed. Last year the SUMB went beyond borders and traveled to Ireland to participate in Dublin's New Year's Eve "Parade of Lights". This year, the SUMB is staying a little closer to home. On November 1, 2015 the SUMB will be performing pre-game and a halftime show for the Pittsburgh Steelers vs. Cincinnati Bengals NFL game. Opportunities like these are what every member works for. But, the day they look forward to the most is Saturday mornings, standing in parade block, waiting for a drum major to shout, "What day is it?!", when they can collectively respond "Game Day!"
