NOTE: We make every effort to ensure that your Alumni News arrives in a timely manner. However, we occasionally encounter problems beyond our control. If your magazine arrived late, please accept our apology. The views expressed by subjects of articles are not necessarily the views of Edinboro University and its Alumni Association.

This will be my last Alumni News column of the 20th century.

While at first reading this comment may seem somewhat foreboding, it is not. We will soon be living, working, leading and achieving in the 21st century.

By the time our alumni read this, the new millennium will nearly be with us. Institutions, organizations and governmental agencies across the nation and the world are planning special programs, initiatives and presentations in recognition of the year 2000. Edinboro University and the surrounding areas of Erie and Crawford counties are not exceptions. I have the distinct honor to chair the Erie Countywide Millennium Commission.

During this time of new beginnings, I believe it appropriate to reflect on Edinboro's legacy and the role we will play for Pennsylvanians and other world citizens in the new millennium. For more than 140 years, your University has educated tens of thousands of citizens, many of whom continue to shape the world in which we live. This important role and the way it is played will be our focus in the coming year as we prepare citizens for a lifetime of learning and service.

Earlier this year, the student government presidents from the 14 State System of Higher Education universities met with the 14 presidents to share their interest in making civility a topic of discovery, discussion and debate in the 1999-2000 academic year. Our common interest inspired the establishment of the "Century of Civility" initiative at Edinboro University. The theme of civility – which includes the ideals of fairness, tolerance, collegiality and civic responsibility – will be incorporated into our campus events, programs and activities during the first year of the 21st century.

We hope that through your continued association with the University, you will bring the notion of civility in all that you do in your work places, your homes, and in all of your life's activities.

Not many people can say they've experienced or even remember the beginning of a new century. I'm proud to join you in welcoming in the 21st!

Frank G. Pogue, President
Edinboro University

This is a very exciting time for Edinboro University.

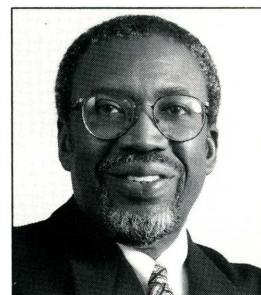

Following another wonderful Homecoming weekend, the new vice president for development and marketing, Bruce Q. Whitehair, began his position. As a 1973 graduate of Edinboro, Bruce returns "home" to guide our alma mater into the new millennium with a new attitude and approach to fundraising and marketing. I had the pleasure of serving on the committee that selected Bruce, and I believe that he is truly the right choice for us. His past experiences, contacts and familiarity with Edinboro University should serve us well.

Your alumni board will conduct its biennial planning retreat in November to develop plans for the next two years. Vice President Whitehair will be instrumental in the retreat. We hope to develop a plan of action that will not only guide our development of alumni services and programming, but also guide us to assist with the fundraising that continues to gain importance in the future of this wonderful university.

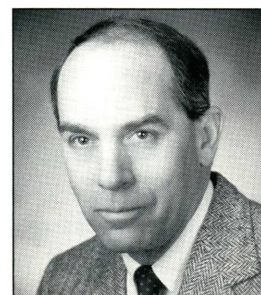

It is also an exciting time as President Pogue continues to lead Edinboro University. Proclaiming this as the "Century of Civility" at Edinboro University has inspired us all to re-think the ways we treat and act toward each other. On campus, in the Borough, and in each of our communities, we must remind ourselves of the values and principles that guide us all to do the right thing.

LIFE IS JUST A BOWL OF CHOCOLATE

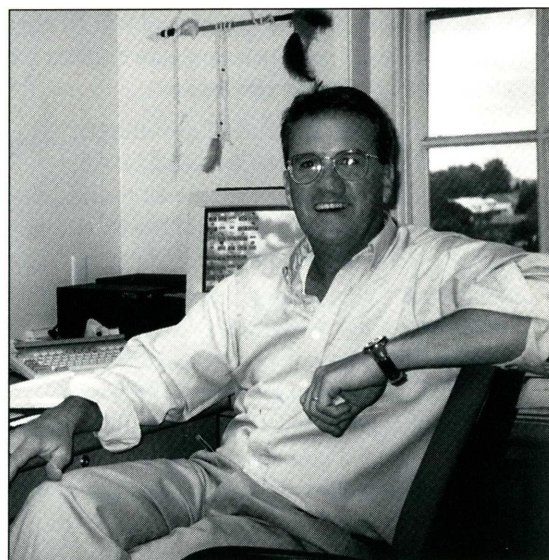

Life is sweet for Rick Gates. The 1980 graduate of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania is the recently appointed director of marketing for chocolate new products at Hershey Foods in Hershey, Pennsylvania. The father of three boys loves his work almost as much as he loves his family. The way he looks at his job, if you can't have fun working for a candy company, where can you have fun?

Gates heads up the division responsible for creating and marketing new chocolate products for Hershey. One recent example is Bites, the bite-sized candy that comes in four varieties. "We develop products from the initial concept through actual plant production. It's a blast!" said Gates. "We identify unmet consumer needs, and usage occasions and develop products that fit. My responsibility is the chocolate segment."

Gates has many, many connections to Edinboro – both the town and the University. His wife, Nancy (Needham) Gates, is a 1981 graduate of Edinboro. His father was the late Dr. Robert Gates, who worked at Edinboro for 20 years as director of research, vice president for support services, and as the school's transition and development officer. Three of Rick's siblings – David, Barbara and Jerry – also graduated from Edinboro, and his mother still lives in Edinboro.

After his father passed away on October 28, 1998, the family established the Dr. Robert D. Gates Scholarship Fund at Edinboro to help students with disabilities and special needs. "His life's work was focused on helping individuals with special needs," said Gates. The fact that Edinboro is nationally ranked as a handicapped accessible campus is a tribute to my father and his vision of what the university should be.

An Edinboro Timeline . . .

- 1900 John F. Bigler was principal, and the enrollment was 398. The paper clip was invented, and an electric streetcar ran between Cambridge Springs and Edinboro.
- 1901 U.S. President McKinley was assassinated in Buffalo, New York
- 1902 The first well was dug for the school, and a power plant was constructed.

"The Edinboro Foundation, which was responsible for acquiring grants for the campus, worked out of our basement for several years. It was a part of all of our lives."

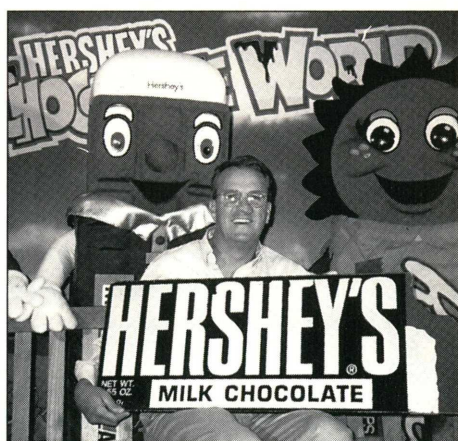

Through his ground-breaking work in establishing Edinboro's program for people with disabilities, the elder Gates touched a lot of people's lives. His family hopes the scholarship fund will continue to allow that to happen forever.

Rick's career began as early as 13 when he started washing dishes and waiting tables at the former Sheraton/Holiday Inn. He majored in communications at Edinboro, and during the first semester of his senior year he interned with Tal Advertising in Erie. Tal liked his work and hired him before he graduated. So, during the second semester of his senior year he worked full time by day at Tal and finished school at night.

Among Tal's clients was Hershey Foods. As an account executive, Gates went to Hershey twice a month and eventually was sent to Harrisburg to establish an office to service Tal's accounts in central Pennsylvania. Another account was Weaver Chicken, which was headquartered in nearby New Holland. Weaver hired Gates to work in new products and expansion. "Weaver was a regional company expanding nationally," said Gates. "My job was to set up sales networks and develop marketing programs for the introduction of the Weaver company to consumers west of the Mississippi."

Hershey asked Gates to join the company in 1985 where he started as a brands manager for special markets, which included such premium chocolates as Golden Almond and Golden Almond Nuggets. In 1988 he was promoted to new products manager for grocery marketing where his teams launched the chocolate drink box and Chocolate Shoppe toppings.

In 1990 he accepted a position as a regional marketing manager in the international division where he spent most of his time in Korea and Japan. Two years later he was made director of marketing for all international operations. The job took him to such locales as Germany, Italy, Dubai and Asia. In May of 1995 he was promoted to general manager of Asia Pacific, where he was in charge of all of Hershey's operations in the Pacific Rim.

But after six years of travel, Gates decided it was time to depart international in order to spend more time with his wife and their sons Robert, Daniel and David. "There's nothing more important than your family. You work hard to make enough to provide for your family, and if you're not careful you turn around and they're gone. We have three sons and we want to enjoy them as much as we possibly can as they grow up. We are very fortunate. Our family loves central Pennsylvania, and I love making new chocolate products for Hershey's. It's a very good fit for us."

As a marketing director, Gates works with a highly creative, multidisciplinary team of people who get together and decide "how to turn concepts into reality"

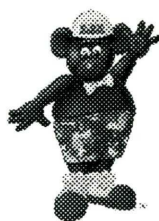

... A Century of Success

- 1903 South Hall was used as a quarantine infirmary, and Haven Hall was built. The Ford Motor Company was established, and the Wright Brothers took flight.
- 1904 Electric lights were installed on the campus.
- 1906 The gymnasium – now the Diebold Center for the Performing Arts – was constructed.

Gates describes the product development process as a funnel. Hundreds of product concepts are fed into the top of funnel where they are screened out layer by layer. If a team is working at the start of the funnel, they may have 100 different product concepts at once. At the next level only 30 ideas may have survived. At the bottom of the funnel, only 3 or 4 may be viable products. At that point the team becomes deeply involved with each product – designing packaging, developing manufacturing facilities, creating finished product specifications, and developing the marketing plan.

Gates said the new product confectionery business is extremely competitive. You have to develop product concepts that have a clear reason for being with consumers, and your product needs to meet and/or exceed consumers' expectations.

"In the candy business that means the product has to taste great."

The early years of Milton Hershey instilled in him the value of hard work.

He was born on September 13, 1857, in a farmhouse near the Central Pennsylvania village of Derry Church. He was a descendant of people who had come to Pennsylvania from Switzerland and Germany in the 1700s. Raised as a Mennonite, he attended school only through the fourth grade before his father, Henry Hershey, put him to work as a printer's apprentice in Gap, Pa.

When it became apparent his talents did not lie in printing, he went on to become an apprentice to a Lancaster, Pa., candy-maker and, in 1876 at the age of 18, opened his own candy shop in Philadelphia. The business failed after six years.

The next stop was Denver, Colorado, where he accepted a job with a local caramel manufacturer. There, he learned that superior results could be achieved when fresh milk was used in the caramel-making process.

Hershey moved on to Chicago in 1883, then to New Orleans and later to New York City -- attempting to establish his own candy business in each location. He returned to Lancaster, Pa., in 1886, where, after raising the necessary capital, he began the business which established his reputation as a candy-maker -- the Lancaster Caramel Company.

Hershey became fascinated with German chocolate-making machinery on exhibit at the Chicago International Exposition in 1893. He bought the equipment for his Lancaster plant and soon began producing his own chocolate coatings for caramels. In early 1894, the Hershey Chocolate Company was born as a subsidiary of his Lancaster caramel business. In addition to chocolate coatings, Hershey made breakfast cocoa, sweet chocolate and baking chocolate.

In 1900, Hershey sold the Lancaster Caramel Company for $1 million. However, he retained the chocolate manufacturing equipment and the rights to manufacture chocolate, believing a large market existed for affordable confections that could be mass produced. He returned to his birthplace, Derry Church, and located his chocolate manufacturing operation in the heart of Pennsylvania's dairy country, where he could obtain large supplies of fresh milk. In 1903, with the money he received for his caramel business, he began to build what is now the world's largest chocolate manufacturing plant.

An Edinboro Timeline . . .

- 1908 Reeder Hall was built, and the campus consisted of 31 acres. A dozen eggs cost $.29.
- 1909 A fire destroyed much of the town of Edinboro.
- 1911 Frank E. Baker was principal, and William Jennings Bryan delivered his "Prince of Peace" speech on campus.

TEACHER ASSIGNED TO FIND "EXTRA" FUNDING FOR SPECIAL PROJECTS

Ruth Ruud ('83) isn't sure how much grant money she's received in her two decades of teaching, but she estimates it's more than $50,000.

In the next year, she'll be looking for 15 times that amount in her new job as coordinator of grants and special projects for the Millcreek Township School District.

"I've always set my sights high," said the award-winning educator who is currently a candidate for Pennsylvania Teacher of the Year and has a goal of finding $750,000 in new grants. "It is a target and we're hoping I can reach it."

Ruud decided to apply for the new position, which the school board created in June, because of her interest in grants.

Through the years, she said, she's been fortunate to get grants to fund different programs for her students.

"It has supported really a lot of neat learning experiences for my students," she said.

It was a $1,000 grant from International Paper that helped create the waterfall at Walnut Creek Middle School where Ruud was a sixth-grade science teacher until taking the new job.

Now, proceeds from the school's recycling program, which also was started with grants, help with upkeep of the waterfall biome and its goldfish, lizards and turtles.

Super Science Saturday, another of Ruud's top projects at Walnut Creek, also has been supported by grants. Former principal Ken Borland, ('76 and '78) who is now the district's supervisor of personnel and improvement, said the annual day is one of Walnut Creek's showcase events. It attracts about 230 students a year who get to spend the day learning about science and doing hands-on activities.

Ruud does a lot of her project thinking and planning while walking along Presque Isle Bay.

"I would get an idea and then I would try to find a funding source for the idea," Ruud said in explaining her search for grants. And no grant amount is too small for Ruud, who's sought awards of varying amounts and said it all helps when it goes together.

"I'll go for 500 (dollars)," she said. "If you get one for 500 (dollars), you're as excited as one for 20 hundred (dollars)."

... A Century of Success

- 1911 Tuition at Edinboro Normal School was made free.
- 1912 President Taft addressed the student body. Enrollment numbered 443.
- 1914 The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania purchased Edinboro Normal School from stockholders.
- 1916 The women's basketball team finished the season 4-0.

Ruud said she has lots of experiences she can share with teachers and in her new job hopes to reach even more students than she did as a teacher.

"I am going to miss the contact," she said about leaving the classroom. "To be with the kids is very special to me."

But she looks at her new position as a way to make opportunities available for more students.

Grants and projects are one way to make students excited about learning, Ruud explained.

Borland said Ruud motivated students through her grant-funded projects.

"These kids got fired up about it," he said. He specifically mentioned the WATTchers energy conservation group Ruud worked with at Walnut Creek.

Teachers also will benefit from Ruud's experience, he added. In her new position, she said, she can help teachers work through their ideas and get projects going.

"Monies are there," she said.

As she discovers what grants exist, Ruud said she'll forward them to teachers.

Then the real work will begin, Ruud said.

"It takes so many hours to write a grant," she explained, rattling off the phone calls, searches for consultants and time spent looking up prices.

But Ruud already has a plan to entice teachers and motivate them to seek out grants. She calls it "Dream a Dream." Ruud said she wants teachers to tell her what they dream of doing for or with their students. Then she'll help teachers look for grants to fulfill their dreams.

Once teachers get grants, Ruud also will be there to help them implement the projects. And for those who don't succeed at grant attempts, Ruud will be there to help with the follow-up to see why they didn't get an award and what revisions need to be made for another attempt.

"I have a lot of goals for this year," she said.

But one stands first.

"My top goal is to make a difference in the lives of students in the Millcreek Township School District," she said.

While Ruud is off helping all the district's students, her programs for children at Walnut Creek won't end.

"Things are gonna continue, but things are gonna change," Borland said, adding that the school is dedicated to providing science education.

"I'm going to miss working with Ruth," he said.

"You just don't replace a person like that."

Earlier this year, Edinboro graduate Ruth Ruud was nominated for the Pennsylvania Department of Education's Teacher-of-the-Year award. The former sixth grade science teacher at Walnut Creek Middle School in the Millcreek School District is now the coordinator of grants and special projects for the district.

Ruud taught at Walnut Creek for seven years and in the Millcreek School District for a total of 19 years.

She has been recognized numerous times for her dedication to the teaching of science and has received the Presidential Award for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching. As one of the 12 finalists from across the state for the Teacher of the Year honors, Ruud received a crystal apple and a certificate. She will also be able to participate in the annual Pennsylvania Teacher Forum.

Had she won the award, she would have represented Pennsylvania at the national Teacher of the Year competition in Washington, D.C. in 2000.

Beulah Polley celebrated her 71st birthday on a bike.

"All my friends thought I was crazy," said the grandmother and retired Edinboro professor. "One even asked me, 'Have you looked at your birth certificate recently?'"

Undeterred, Polley spent her birthday and 55 other days between Easter Sunday and Memorial Day pedaling a 24-speed Cannondale across the southern United States. She rode about 2,700 miles, from just south of Los Angeles to St. Augustine, Florida.

"It was a very civilized trip, really," she explained. "We stayed in bed and breakfasts or hotels every night, a van carried our gear, and I spent night after night climbing into a hot tub . . . That I'd say, is a far cry from those people who camp on the roadsides and shower at campgrounds."

Polley said that while she and her 18 over-50 companions were well looked after on the tour, the ride wasn't without challenges.

"Living in Florida, there aren't many hills (to train on)," she said. "It took some getting used to riding up and down the mountains out West."

In fact, she said, she was most afraid during a 10-mile "screaming descent" on a winding mountain road in southern California.

"I was terrified of crashing," she explained.

After all, only two months before she had broken her collarbone in a fall from the bike while training.

"I knew it wasn't quite healed yet and didn't want to break it again," she said.

Then came the climbs in Apache Junction, Safford and Needle's Eye in Arizona; the harsh headwinds and hail in Texas; and the high humidity of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Florida.

"Texas was the toughest," she said. "We spent 13 days just crossing Texas."

She explained that many days in the Lone Star State were spent going north or south to find non-interstate roads on which they could ride.

"No matter what direction we were going it seemed like we were headed into the wind. It was tiring," she said. Polley and her companions rode 35 to 95 miles a day, depending on the terrain and weather.

"It's odd," she said. "But I never saw myself as a cyclist and now I've done this."

Polley, who taught elementary education at Edinboro, didn't begin cycling avidly until her retirement 11 years ago. She joined a seniors cycling club after she and her husband, Bob, moved to a town near Fort Myers, Fla.

"We rode only a few miles a week," she said. "It was nothing like this." It was an email from a friend a year ago that started her on the road to her first cross-country tour.

"He suggested it and I thought, 'Well, why not?'" Her friends and family – with the exception of her husband – were incredulous. "No one thought I should do it. But my husband, he was very supportive."

Polley added that she'll probably not do another ride like this. "But I think I'll do some of those two- and three-day trips or maybe even one of those European bike tours along the Danube," she said. "For the moment, I'm just relaxing and enjoying my new great-grandchild."

She trained for about a year to prepare, and finished the ride without a problem or injury. She even earned special honors for being the only rider in the group to cross the continent without getting a flat tire.

"I wouldn't say it was easy, and I certainly feel proud of what I accomplished," she said.

FORMER GOVERNOR VISITS CAMPUS

Homecoming Weekend proved to be very exciting for many alumni and friends of Edinboro University. The festivities on Friday, October 8, included the visit of former Governor George M. Leader to the campus for the rededication of Leader Clinic. Renamed the Governor George Leader Speech and Hearing Center, the facility was first named for Leader in 1961.

President Pogue and Governor George Leader are pictured here with the plaque that will be placed in the lobby of the Governor George Leader Speech and Hearing Center.

"There were two things we thought very few people here on campus recognized about the building," said Dr. Roy Shinn, director of the speech-language pathology graduate program. "We, first off, wanted to let people know what the 'Leader' stood for.

"Secondly, the word clinic is just not the term that is often used at places like this," said Shinn. "Many students have often mislabeled Leader Clinic as being just another health center on campus. With the name change, people will be well aware of what the building is used for.

"Now when students, parents, patients, and faculty walk into the building, they'll see a wooden plaque with a picture and a quote honoring Governor Leader," Shinn said.

The quote on the plaque reads: "Every child, no matter what their talents or disability, deserves an education that will permit them to achieve the zenith of their potential."

During his tenure as governor from 1955 to 1959 and for many years since his term of office, one of Governor Leader's many initiatives has been to address the needs of children with disabilities.

Because of the successful speech-language hearing disorders program started during the early 1950s, Leader Clinic was established to further accommodate the needs of testing speech and hearing defects, personality disorders, etc. Over the years, hundreds of Edinboro graduates have successfully completed this program.

In 1974, responding to the need for graduates to continue their studies on the master's level, the speech-language pathology graduate program was initiated and has since received accreditation by the Council on Academic Accreditation in Audiology and Speech-Language Pathology. Since then, more than 250 students have earned their master's degrees and gone on to successful professional careers in hospitals, schools, rehabilitation centers, agencies, universities and private practices around the country.

Each year, approximately 150 outstanding students from throughout the world apply to this competitive two-year program, and only 20 are selected. Upon graduation, students must pass a national examination in speech-language pathology in order to become licensed and nationally certified. Edinboro University graduates have been rated above the national average for certification.

Two graduates of the program who received recognition during the ceremony were Andrea Novak ('95) and Patricia Schaal ('78). Both were awarded the University's first "Alumni on the Move" award. Initiated by President Pogue last year, the award program provides an opportunity for the University to recognize alumni who are making great strides or realizing major accomplishments in their careers and/or personal lives.

Another initiative associated with the speech and communication studies department is the establishment of the Governor George Leader Scholarship. Proceeds from the annual Speech-Language and Hearing conferences have been used to fund this scholarship program, along with donations from alumni, friends, grants, auctions, and other fund-raising events.

During the rededication ceremony, Leader praised the many individuals who have educated students and the students themselves who, in turn, educate others and provide much-needed services for our citizens.

Leader stressed the importance of continuing to strive for more excellence in our life's work. He emphasized the value of working with individuals in all capacities of life, that we should never consider a job complete, and we should continue to make the project or program better. He stressed the significance of giving to our community, helping those individuals less fortunate who desperately need support – not only financially, but also spiritually.

Through his deep religious beliefs, Governor Leader has dedicated his life to the causes of education, special education, people with disabilities and many societal needs. He continues to interact and work with people from all walks of life every day and hopes to do so for many more years to come.

THE GIVING SAMARITAN

(Inspired by a Catholic Bishop on TV)

The robbers believed in "the lesson divine" –
They should take it all, for what's yours is mine;
Robbing just happens to be my line,
And right this moment, we're doing fine.

The Levite felt in "the lesson divine" –
I'm downright sure that what's mine is mine;
Helping the priest is my full-time line,
So I'll pass him by, I'm doing fine.

The priest agreed in "the lesson divine" –
I have no doubt that what's mine is mine;
Just being pious is my full-time line,
I'll just pass him by, I'm doing fine.

But the Good Samaritan really knew
That all that I have belongs to You.
It's a gift from God, we know that's true,
So I'll share what I have with this suffering Jew.

It's been quite so since the world began
That those who know their Creator's plan,
Will give and give as much as they can
To ease the pain of their fellow man.

Bruce Whitehair Named Vice President

Bruce Q. Whitehair ('73) was appointed vice president for development and marketing at Edinboro University, ending the national search that began last May.

"Bruce Whitehair brings to Edinboro's renewed and reinvigorated development and marketing efforts a passion for his alma mater and the opportunity to advance them into the new millennium," said President Pogue. "His expertise and impressive background in communications, marketing and related disciplines combine with the leadership skills that will prepare the University to receive gifts and attract additional resources to us."

Since 1995, Whitehair has been vice president and manager of public relations for PNC Bank in Erie, where he was responsible for image advertising, press relations, employee communications and special events for PNC Bank's Northwest Market, as well as administering the PNC Bank Foundation's philanthropic program of charitable contributions.

Prior to PNC, Whitehair served for 17 years as manager of corporate communications for the Lord Corporation in Erie, where his responsibilities included worldwide corporate and product promotions, marketing and employee communications, video production, and printing and tradeshow exhibitions.

While at Lord, he received numerous design and advertising awards, including "Best Ad" in 1983 from BUSINESS MARKETING. In 1990, the Erie Ad Club named him Ad Person of the Year.

Whitehair graduated from Edinboro University in 1973 with an education degree in English. Prior to joining Lord in 1977, he taught English and communications in the Millcreek School District. He was also a radio announcer for stations in Ashtabula, Conneaut and McKean, and attended graduate schools at Kent State, Penn State and Gannon universities. While a student at Edinboro, he also managed the campus radio station.

On accepting his new position, Whitehair said he believes that Edinboro is poised for dramatic growth and transformation.

"What impresses me the most is the renewed energy, optimism, enthusiasm and purpose I see under President Pogue's leadership," Whitehair said. "I've maintained a strong emotional bonding with Edinboro, and I am privileged now to be able to give something back to the institution that provided the solid foundation in my professional development."

Whitehair resides in Wattsburg with his wife, Rosemary, and their two daughters, Brea, 18, and Adriane, 15.

New Master's of Social Work Degree Announced

A new Master's of Social Work degree program has been approved by the State System of Higher Education. Dr. Donna Hixon, a professor of social work, said there is a critical, long-standing need for a graduate social work program in northwestern Pennsylvania.

A master's degree is especially important for social workers because it is a professionally recognized degree, and it makes them eligible for licensure in Pennsylvania. Hixon said many area employers prefer a master's degree, but have hired people with other degrees because the master's degrees were not available.

The new program will teach what is known as general social practice, but it will also offer concentrations in administration and direct practice, which is working with individuals, families or groups.

To head up the new program, Edinboro has hired Dr. Emelicia Mizio, currently the chair of the social work department at the University of Indiana at Terra Haute. She will join the Edinboro faculty in January, and the first course will be taught in the fall of 2000.

The University is creating 16 new courses for the 60-credit program. Most students will fulfill those credits through two academic years and a summer if they attend full time. Students with a bachelor's degree in social work may need only 45 graduate credits to earn the master's degree.

Students Build Ceramic Kiln

For several weeks this summer, a handful of art students toiled under the sun, learning how to build a kiln by actually building one. The class was called ceramic kiln construction, which is taught every other year by professor Lee Rexrode. Not only did they build something they will be able to use in the future as ceramic artists, they also learned some valuable construction skills such as masonry and welding. "They created the tools to fire their own works," said Rexrode.

The kiln became a labor of love for the six graduate and undergraduate students. Although the class officially ended at 11:20 a.m. every day, Rexrode and the students regularly worked well into the afternoon and on weekends. Even after the summer session ended, some of the students returned to finish the project.

The students learned to lay block, mix mortar, cut steel and weld. The course is not required for ceramics majors, but the students thought those who didn't take it would miss out on an opportunity to learn about their craft at its core.

This kiln required thousands of pounds of castable material – valued around one dollar a pound – which were donated by the Thermal Ceramics Company of Crafton. Edinboro acquired the material about three years ago when Latrobe Steel decided it didn't need it. With the help of Norm Willow of Thermal Ceramics, Edinboro received 28,000 lbs. of material called Kaocrete 250. Edinboro was able to store the material in the barn of Cambridge Springs potter Bill Campbell. This kiln used about half of the coarse powder, leaving enough for another kiln someday.

BNZ Company of Zelienople, Pa. donated the soft brick which was used for the kiln door.

- 1966 Will P. Rose Hall was built. Thomas Miller died in office. Harry Earley, acting president, died in office, and Clair Butterfield was named acting president, until Chester T. McNerney became president. The men's basketball team won the NAIA District 18 championship.
- 1968 Luther Hendricks Hall, Ghering Health Center, Raymond Shafer Hall, and William Scranton Hall were constructed. Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King were assassinated.

Community Counseling Program Announced

In the face of a critical need for qualified community counselors, Edinboro University has announced a new Master of Arts degree track in community counseling. It will offer three areas of specialization: drug and alcohol counseling, gerontological counseling, and family counseling.

Dr. Salene Cowher, who chairs Edinboro's counseling and human development department, said the demand for highly qualified counselors is growing – particularly within social service agencies. The most valuable part of the Edinboro program is that its graduates will be eligible for the Pennsylvania counselor's license.

Earlier this year, the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) approved Edinboro's counseling tracks in student personnel services (college counseling and practice) and school counseling (elementary and secondary) for seven years, the longest period of accreditation awarded by CACREP. Cowher said she expects the community counseling track will also become accredited by CACREP, perhaps within 18 months.

"Being accredited is really an exclusive recognition of your program," said Cowher. "There is only one other school in Pennsylvania with the CACREP accreditation in student personnel services that we have, and only 10 others nationally."

President Pogue Heads Erie Millenium Commission

At the invitation of City of Erie Mayor Joyce Savocchio and Erie County Executive Judy Lynch, President Frank Pogue accepted chairmanship of the 21-member Millennium Commission charged with overseeing Erie's county-wide celebration of the new century.

Pogue said he sees Erie County's initiative as a celebration of community – past, present and future – with a central focus of inspiring and encouraging community involvement in improving the quality of community life. The theme, Together 2000, reflects this community spirit through unity, confidence and pride, and calls for citizen partnerships to build better communities and a better future.

"The millennium celebration provides opportunities to renew our commitment to bringing communities together around a significant number of special events designed to enhance civility," Pogue said, "and the goal of Together 2000 is to bring all of Erie County together around celebrations that reinforce the ideals of civility, including fairness, tolerance, collegiality and civic responsibility. . .the same ideals as those inspired in our own University's Century of Civility celebration."

The Commission will be developing a millennium calendar, and will also be inviting all community agencies, corporations and businesses, educational institutions, health facilities, religious groups and others to incorporate the Together 2000 theme in their planned activities.

The Millennium Commission will also seek project submissions from organizations, communities and neighborhoods throughout Erie County to designate as Together 2000 initiatives. These can be existing projects, such as the lighting of the Erie Land Lighthouse beacon, or new projects. Activity submissions may join with existing events, such as We Love Erie Days, or suggested new events.

Other plans to celebrate the millennium county-wide include speakers' forums, community dialogues on a variety of topics, civility campaigns, and programs to promote volunteerism among youth.

These initiatives and Edinboro's own Century of Civility will provide the Edinboro Family and regional citizens with many opportunities to celebrate the arrival of the year 2000 with resolve to make a more peaceful, collegial and prosperous century for all people.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony was recently held for the newly renovated courtyard and reflective garden at the Miller Research Learning Center. The courtyard was replanted and redesigned by the Eagle Scout project of Matthew Beckman, a sophomore at General McLane High School. With the assistance of his father, education professor Donald Beckman, Matt built raised flowerbeds, benches, a hexagon planter with seating, a recirculating waterfall, and two standing science centers.

An Edinboro Timeline . . .

- 1969 Harry Earley Hall was built, and Normal Hall burned. Man walked on the moon.
- 1970 Faculty Annex was built. A sit-in was held at the president's office, and the football team won the Lambert Bowl. Milk cost $1.30 a gallon.
- 1971 Thomas Miller Research Learning Center, Arthur McComb Fieldhouse, and the student union were built.

* Dr. Tony Peyronel, speech and communication studies, was appointed to the Board of Judges of the Associated Collegiate Press (ACP). Peyronel will serve as a reviewer for the organization's national critique service, providing evaluations for participating campus newspapers. ACP is the college division of the National Scholastic Press Association.

* Dr. James Flynn, educational services (retired), was elected Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Teacher Educators (PAC-TE) Board of Directors. PAC-TE awarded Flynn its Teacher Educator of the Year award in 1994. In 1994 and 1995, the Institute for the Development of Educational Activities recognized him with its Distinguished Educator Award and admitted him to the Academy of Fellows.

* Dr. Richard Double, philosophy, was included in the free will section of the 1996 supplement to the 1967 eight volume Encyclopedia of Philosophy published by Macmillan and edited by Paul Edwards. According to the supplement, Double's view in The Non-Reality of Free Will is one of only a few recent innovative solutions to this perennial problem.

* Dr. Donna Murphy, special education and school psychology, was elected to the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Tourette Syndrome Association (PA-TSA), the state branch of the national professional, education and advocacy organization.

* Amy Leehan, nursing, completed her practicum and was published in 1998-1999 Outstanding Practicum and Major Applied

ACCOLADES

Research Projects by Nova Southeastern University and was recognized with a Practicum Excellence Award.

* Dr. Nazir Mughal, history, participated in The International Association of University Presidents (IAUP) XII Triennial Conference in Brussels.

* Art professors Lisa Austin, Stephen Lewis, Jr., and Renee Zettle-Sterling were featured in the exhibition "Forget - Me - Not" at the Chautauqua Center for the Visual Arts. The exhibition explored the nature of relationships under the stress of separation and used recycled elements from Erie's historic Isaac Baker building combined with fabricated elements, video images and sound.

* Dr. Delbert Rounds, political science and criminal justice, is the editor of International Criminal Justice: Issues in a Global Perspective. The book highlights the commonality of crime in every part of the world, and shares solutions to many of these same problems.

* Debra Kubinski, nursing, has completed requirements for a Ph.D. degree in Nursing from Duquesne University. With this outstanding achievement, she joins the ranks of a very small percentage of registered nurses who also possess a doctoral degree.

Student Matthew Cummings, senior speech communications major, is the recipient of the 1999 Bayliss Radio Scholarship, given by the prestigious John Bayliss Broadcast Foundation of Carmel, Calif. Cummings is the chief announcer and program director for the campus radio station WFSE-FM 88.9, serves as an anchor, reporter and producer for E-TV, and is a weekend announcer on Erie Stations WXXC-FM and WXTA-FM.

- * Floyd Lang, office for students with disabilities, was recognized in the July 4 edition of the Independent-Enterprise for his volunteer service to the community.
- * Dr. Anthony Esposito, speech and communication studies, has a book chapter published in the 1999 edition of Teaching Working Class titled "Class, Race and Culture: Teaching Intercultural Communication."
- * Edinboro University received a grant for the Fort LeBoeuf Museum in Waterford to assemble two identical collections of artifacts and educational materials focusing on the French occupation of northwestern Pennsylvania during the 1700s. Dr. Renata Wolyneec, sociology, anthropology and social work and museum director, initiated the project when she saw how well students responded to touching and handling artifacts and replicas from that era.
- * Dr. John Criswell, acting dean of education, published an article, "Performance Assessments in Teacher Education: Promises and Pitfalls," in the Pa. Association of Colleges and Teacher Educators' first monograph.
- * Student Tracy Graziano, dual biology and film major, produced footage of a Presque Isle State Park coyote family. Graziano captured 12 minutes of coyote footage during 200 hours of tracking the predators on the 3,500-acre park. She is currently seeking a state permit to humanely trap and attach a radio collar to a coyote to help track its movements.
- * Student Claudia Bunce (elementary education major) was selected to receive the Dorothy Brady Mitchell Scholarship for the 1999-2000 academic year. The scholarship is named for Ms. Dorothy Brady Mitchell who graduated from Edinboro in 1969 at the age of 66. Her interests included working with exceptional children and emotionally troubled students.

You can make a difference in our future: The 2000 Annual Fund

This year, the University seeks to raise $300,000 from members of the University Family – alumni, current and retired staff and faculty, trustees, regional businesses and corporations, students, and other friends of the University.

LOOKING TOWARD A MORE CIVIL FUTURE

As we approach the new millennium, Edinboro University continues to produce the leaders of tomorrow. By offering a quality, student-centered education at an affordable price in a safe and caring environment, Edinboro University of Pennsylvania strives to attract the best and brightest students from around northwestern Pennsylvania, the nation, and the world. Through our "Century of Civility" theme and initiative, we are providing our students with opportunities to experience the ideals of civility – fairness, collegiality, tolerance, and civic responsibility – through their activities and interactions on the Edinboro campus. We hope you will help to model civic and philanthropic behaviors by making a contribution to the 2000 Annual Fund that will benefit our students. As direct beneficiaries of your philanthropy, our students will learn first-hand of the importance and value of philanthropy in our society.

AS A UNIVERSITY

We are committed to providing increased access to educational opportunities. No one should be denied an opportunity to achieve his or her educational goals because of financial constraints. Yet often, students seek and need financial support to pursue their academic goals. Even students who demonstrate high levels of academic achievement are often without the needed funds to pursue their course of study.

Approximately 85 percent of the student population at Edinboro University depend on some form of financial support from federal, state or private sources. Scholarships, established and supported through private philanthropy, are the most important form of aid to students, as they can address a variety of needs, award and motivate academic achievement, and bolster grants and loans from other sources. The University utilizes scholarships to attract the best and brightest students and to provide much needed financial assistance to deserving students.

THE HONORS PROGRAM

The Honors Program maintains an enrollment of approximately 150 students per year. Honors students are high academic achievers who excel in an enhanced learning environment under the tutelage of experienced and dedicated faculty. The Honors Program places increased focus on research and independent study while emphasizing leadership and community service.

This year, President Pogue, together with the board of directors of the Alumni Association, has announced a joint initiative for the Annual Fund –

The Alumni Affairs Office assumed responsibility for the direct operation of the alumni component of the annual fund this past year, working closely with the Development Office to cultivate and enhance opportunities for Edinboro University's advancement and growth.

... A Century of Success

- 1983 Edinboro became a university. Enrollment was 5,800.
- 1985 The National Wheelchair Games were hosted on campus. The FarmAid concert was held in Champaign, Illinois.
- 1989 Louis J. Porreco donated what is now Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center.

to raise dollars for Honors Scholarships to provide increased financial support and incentive for our best students. The Alumni Association's goal is to raise $50,000 for Honors Scholarships, as well as resources needed to continue support for the numerous programs it underwrites throughout the year. When you choose this year's Honors Scholarships initiative, you will also support Alumni Association programs.

YOUR support will enable students to pursue their dreams of attaining academic excellence. Help Edinboro University attract, retain, educate and motive the best and brightest.

A Message from the 2000 Annual Fund Chairperson

Serving as the Alumni chairperson of the 2000 Annual Fund is Daniel Higham. Dan is the president of the Board of Directors of the Edinboro University Alumni Association. He received a B.S. in natural sciences from Edinboro in 1970. Dan is president of U.S. Bronze Foundry and Machine, Inc., and Lubrite Technologies in Meadville, Pa. He and his wife, Dolores, have four children. He has been an active member of the Alumni Board since 1992.

This fall when you receive a phone call from a student or an Edinboro graduate, or if you get an appeal in the mail requesting your contribution to the 2000 Annual Fund, please give generously. As I stated in my column that appeared in the last issue of the Alumni News, less than 50 percent of the University's annual revenue comes from the state. The majority of the balance is derived from student tuition, and many of our present and future students require our help.

Most of our talented students depend heavily on some form of financial aid from loans, grants or scholarships. Meanwhile other schools, using well developed scholarship endowments, work hard to recruit students who may otherwise attend Edinboro University if more scholarships were available. It's an increasingly competitive environment, among students as well as universities who seek recruits with excellent academic records.

This year, the University and the Alumni Association have committed our joint efforts to raise money through the 2000 Annual Fund for honors scholarships. I believe that nothing else we do as alumni will more positively impact both the students and the future of our great alma mater. Honors scholarships are an extraordinarily powerful tool the University can wield to attract and retain talented students with a demonstrated record of academic achievement. More talented students come to us in need of scholarships than we are now able to assist. A stronger endowment base will not only enable us to attract high achievers, it will also allow for the continued growth of the Honors Program and promote the future enhancement of learning opportunities across the University.

Please join us in supporting the Annual Fund. Your annual gift, along with the donations of your alumni friends and other members of the Edinboro University Family, will continue to allow prosperous things to happen. Consider this my personal appeal to you. When you get a call or a pledge card in the mail, please give generously. The University has targeted a modest goal to increase annual gifts by 20 percent. Respond in kind with a 20 percent increase in your own giving, or make your first contribution to the Annual Fund this year. Let's all join to help a deserving student get the break he or she needs to make a great start!

Faculty and Employees Support the Annual Fund Too!

Throughout this fall and winter, the Annual Fund makes its personal appeals to the active and retired employees and faculty of the University through a special mail campaign and work-place presentations. Employees have always been very active and enthusiastic supporters of the campaign. Last year, employees and faculty increased their level of participation by 24 percent. Employees and faculty, along with members of the Council of Trustees, students, the business community, and other members of our Edinboro University Family will join with alumni to raise funds and awareness for honors scholarships. It promises to be a very good year.

A Message from the Vice President

I am pleased to have this opportunity to send a message to the Edinboro University alumni. Although new to the campus as Vice President for Development and Marketing, I have been an alumnus of Edinboro since 1973. To my classmates from that graduation year, please drop me a line and to our over 30,000 strong alumni, I would be glad to hear from you as well.

This edition of the Alumni News contains an important section. Speaking as an alumnus, it reflects our accomplishment of giving to the University and its students. At the recent Fall Convocation, President Pogue announced the 1999-2000 University-Wide Goals and Objectives – Academic Excellence for a Century of Civility. President Pogue reiterated that Edinboro University has played a significant role in the education of tens of thousands of citizens for more than 140 years. As our alumni continue to grow and shape the world in which we live, I cannot think of a better way to continue to strive together during the next millennium than to provide the financial support that we do to our current and future students. As Vice President for Development and Marketing, I will be doing my best to provide all alumni with information on Edinboro University's priorities and goals and how you can help us continue to be successful.

Please look over the pages of the contributors to the 1998-99 annual giving to the University. Because of the hundreds of alumni, friends, employees, businesses, foundations and organizations who generously gave last year, Edinboro University realized a 5.60% increase over the 1997-98 fiscal year annual giving. Your gifts continue to provide for Edinboro's students and their successes long into the future.

Thank you for your continued support and I look forward to communicating with you in the future.

☆ $1,000 Donor

Annual Giving by Sources, 1998-99

Q&A

WHAT IS THE ANNUAL FUND?

The Annual Fund is a campaign that provides Edinboro Family members with the opportunity to support Edinboro University in a variety of ways. Resources generated through the Annual Fund enhance our student's educational experiences.

WHY IS GIVING TO THE ANNUAL FUND IMPORTANT?

As state appropriations account for a decreasing portion of our annual budget, Edinboro University must increasingly rely on externally generated revenue. The future growth of the University will be determined largely by its ability to accumulate increasing private support. The Annual Fund is important not only as a source of revenue; it sends a message, too. Many potential corporate donors, for example, will determine their level of support based, in part, on that which is garnered from the University's base of closest supporters, primarily alumni and employees. Participation also inspires increased ownership and a sense of belonging. One's participation in the Annual Fund is a way to exhibit support for each other as members of the Edinboro Family. But the most important reasons for giving are the students who benefit from enhanced scholarship support, educational programs and student services.

WHAT GIVING OPTIONS DOES A DONOR ENJOY?

Each year, the University and the Alumni Association select a joint initiative as a focus for the fund-raising efforts. This year's goal is to raise money for honors scholarships. Directing one's gift to this initiative will assist the University in attaining the goal. Of course, there are other needs as well. A donor may designate his or her gift toward a scholarship, academic programs, or another area that holds special meaning. Still others choose to provide an unrestricted gift, allowing the University or the Alumni Association to direct the funds where the need is the greatest.

HOW MUCH SHOULD I CONTRIBUTE?

That is entirely up to you. We believe that Edinboro University donors give from the heart. We are also confident that once a member of the Edinboro Family has the opportunity to understand the vision of the University and the needs that must be satisfied to achieve our goals, he or she will give generously. We do encourage donors to consider an increase to their donations so that the impact of their annual gifts is not diminished over time due to inflation. If you need more information before determining the size or direction of your gift, please call the Development Office at 814-732-2992.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF CONTRIBUTING TO THE ANNUAL FUND?

Contributions to the Annual Fund are another way in which alumni, current and retired staff and faculty, corporations, trustees, students, friends and other members of the Family can participate in the realization of the mission and goals of Edinboro University. Your gift is tax deductible as provided by law. Consult your financial advisor for specifics.

DO I HAVE TO PAY A LUMP SUM?

No. Donors can choose from among several billing options. Many donors enjoy the ease of giving by making "periodic" donations on a monthly, quarterly or bi-annual basis. Current employees and faculty also have the option of utilizing the payroll deduction program to make bi-weekly payments. A bi-weekly deduction of $10, for example, for 26 weeks will result in an annual gift of $260.

... A Century of Success

- 1996 Bruce Baumgartner won his fourth Olympic medal, and Frank G. Pogue was named president. A women's soccer team was formed, and the wrestlers earned 6th place in NCAA Division I.
- 1998 Mister Rogers received an honorary doctorate at the May Commencement, and the strongest earthquake ever recorded in Pennsylvania rocked Edinboro in September.

ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

Ciao Roma!

The Second Annual State System Alumni and Friends Cruise was a wonderful success. Some 80 individuals took advantage of this terrific opportunity to see sites in Italy, France and Spain. The 11-day land/cruise excursion afforded many choices of guided tours and free time. Incredible stops at the Roman Coliseum, Florence, Italy, Monte Carlo, Nice and Cannes, France, and Barcelona, Spain, were just a few the group experienced.

In the photo below, Rich ('64) and Noreen Forcucci, Leo ('75) and Paulette Armbruster, and Scott ('70) and Joyce Ladner enjoy one of the receptions for SSHE participants during the trip. Thanks to you all for participating! See you in Alaska!

Speaking of Alaska, it is official that it will be the destination of next year's SSHE Alumni and Friends Cruise. We are already receiving calls for the mailing list, so ensure that you receive the Alaska Cruise brochure and call the Alumni Office today!

Alumni Chapter Events Update

Baltimore Area – This year's excursion to Camden Yards proved to be a unique one. The location of our pre-game reception was moved to the executive suite, which overlooked the field and Eutaw Street! While munching on great food, we watched all the pre-game warm ups, and kept up with the day's football activities on televisions in the suite. Baltimore beat the Cleveland Indians that day in what turned out to be a great ball game. Don't miss out next year!

Crawford County – On October 16 a group of area alumni gathered in Meadville at Mickey's Central Fire Station for dinner and socializing, then continued on to the Academy Theater for a local production of "HOT L Baltimore". It was a wonderful evening. For future events in Crawford County, check the inside back cover.

Three Rivers (Greater Allegheny County) – Alumni volunteer Tim Pasko '86 helped to coordinate area alumni to attend the football game at California University of Pa. on October 23. It was Cal's Homecoming and many alumni gathered to help cheer on the Fighting Scots. Check your mail for future Three Rivers events, or call the Alumni Office with ideas!

Erie/Crawford County – The Fourth Annual Science Saturday was held on the Edinboro University campus on October 30. We had another packed house as alumni and their children enjoyed a 45-minute planetarium presentation and three other hands-on science presentations in chemistry, physics and biology. Many thanks to Dr. David Hurd, Mr. Karim Hossain, Dr. Kiran Misra, and Dr. Kerry Moyer for volunteering their time and sharing their expertise!

Pennsylvania Art Education Association Annual Conference Held in Erie

The Avalon Hotel was the site of the annual conference of the Pennsylvania Art Education Association, October 21-24. The admissions office sponsored a table at the event and shared it with the alumni office so that we could touch base with some of our many art education alumni. Mr. Henry Katzwinkel, retired art faculty member and 1956 graduate of Edinboro University volunteered his time to visit with graduates, give out trinkets and gather information.

Reunion Weekend 2000 Classes to be Surveyed

Reunion Weekend 2000 is currently scheduled for June 9-11. We are working on a survey to mail to a randomly selected group of alumni who would be targeted for this year's reunion to find out what types of activities would make YOU want to return to campus. If you would like to participate in this survey, please contact the Alumni Office and we'll add you to the mailing list.

Reunion Weekend 2001

We're already planning for 2001 with the help of none other than Heinz Johnson ('51). Heinz stopped in recently to chat about plans for his class's 50th Reunion. Most of you will remember that Heinz was instrumental in planning the 40th, and it still remains one of the best Reunion Weekend's ever! If you are interested in assisting with planning of your 50th, 45th, 40th, whatever, please contact the Alumni Office today. If you are from the Class of '51 and want to contact Heinz directly to help, you can e-mail him at heinzjhj@flash.net.

Above: The Alumni Association helped to sponsor move-in day again this year.

Below: Te and Lee Sturgen, Parent and Families Organization co-chairs, were on hand during Move-in Day with their daughter Suzanne, a senior at Edinboro.

← Erie and Crawford County alumni filled a bus and traveled to the Pirates/Indians game in Pittsburgh. Thanks to Paul Belosh '69 for getting the tickets!

← Erie County Alumni chapter members gathered with President and Mrs. Pogue at Jr.'s Last Laugh Comedy Club on August 19.

Homecoming

The last Homecoming festivity of this decade was a wonderful celebration of old friends, families and memories. During the weekend of October 8-10, 1999 alumni gathered in the 'Boro for a variety of events and activities.

The Eighth Annual Alumni and Friends Golf Outing hosted 140 golfers this year. Always played in a scramble format, the winning foursome of Ron Palmer '82, and friends Don Hazlett, Carl Schnaufer and Todd Greenlee turned in a core of 59. Second place went to Quinn Zahorchak '87, Brien Zahorchak '91, James Stevens '85, and Mitch Kallay '90 with a 61. And third place, with a 63, went to Daniel Uvodich '92, Dana Suppa '92, Brad Aurila '92, and Jimmy Koko. All golfers leave with prizes, thanks to all our friends and supporters who contribute them, but additional skill prizes went to:

Quinn Zahorchak '87
Karen Kay

Longest Putt (inside fringe)
Mike Helbling
Lesia Bruzzese

The Friday Night Bash at Culbertson Hills was well attended, as always. Alumni and friends enjoyed complimentary hors d'oeuvres, free alumni glasses, dancing to DJ John and visiting with President and Mrs. Pogue, Alumni Board members, and employees.

The weather held out for Saturday's parade and football game. Thousands of people lined the streets as the parade wound its way through town. Then they went on to cheer the Fighting Scots to victory in a thrilling one point win over Clarion, scoring the winning seven points in the last minutes of the game.

Following the game, a group of "Athletes of the '50s" gathered to reminisce of their close wins of the past. An annual event, the group chose to attend the Homecoming game this year, gathering afterward for dinner and camaraderie. Every year Joe Casile '54, Chuck Lodge '52, Bill Starr '53 and Dick Rose '58 work hard to get their old teammates and friends back to campus. And they decided that Homecoming might be the best weekend to choose so that everyone will know when the reunion is each year. If you would like a list of names and addresses so you can get in touch with some of your old friends, please call Barb at the Alumni Office.

Sunday morning wrapped up the weekend with the Fourth Annual Tot-trot at the stadium. Children ages 2-9 enjoyed a health fair hosted by the Health and Physical Education majors, and raced in their age groups. They all received balloons and prizes, and the winners received certificates. The Eighth Annual Tartan 5K Fun Run hosted the largest field ever with 78 participants. For the first time this year we also had speed walkers and exercise walkers participate. The winners of the 5K were:

First overall male

Patrick Comi with a time of 16:51

First overall female

Jennifer Jageman with 19:44

First walker to finish

Janet Comi '76 with a time of 28:53

Thanks to Margaret Walker '87 for starting a new tradition to include the walkers. She finished first in her category of 60 and over female with a time of 40:10. Any proceeds from the race will benefit the Alumni Association's General Scholarship Fund in memory of Karen (Snyder) Wilson '79.

Many thanks also go to Michelee (Covelli) Curtze '72 for her work in helping to recruit runners and advertising, and to Jeff "Lemonhead" Lemley '78 who is the heart and soul of this race. And thanks again this year to Scott Campbell '85 and his sister Chris for producing the race t-shirts at Great Lakes Custom Graphics.

Please see the pages of photos from the 1999 Homecoming and plan now to attend HOMEcoming 2000 during the weekend of SEPTEMBER 29 - OCT. 1.

Memories . . .

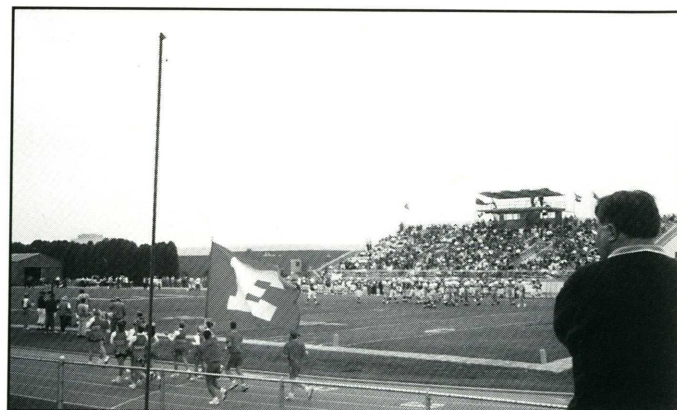

The enthusiastic Alumni Office staff (Julie, Barb and Janet) with Jeff "Lemonhead" Lemley ('78) during the football game.

Bruce Best launched the '99 golf outing with a rendition of "Scotland the Brave."

The Alumni Marching Band gathered before the start of the Homecoming Parade.

A capacity crowd cheered the Scots on to a thrilling win over the Goden Eagles of Clarion.

Alumni of all ages gathered around the tent during the football game.

President Pogue (right) and Alumni Board President Dan Higham celebrate a check representing the final payment of $150,000 which the alumni donated toward technology through the 1997-98 Annual Fund.

Reminiscing during the game -- (left to right) an unidentified Edinboro grad, Fred Krehely ('64), Nils "Swede" Schroder ('64), Ron Sturiga ('63), and Pat Whalen ('64).

Ron ('63) and Mary Kay Sturiga enjoy yet another Homecoming celebration.

The "Athletes of the '50s" gathered after the game to reminisce.

The largest group ever participated in the 8th annual Tartan 5K.

The Alumni Office staff after the grueling weekend -- already looking forward to next year!

Brian Duffy ('86) Hits the Big Time as Cleveland Television Announcer

"Aggressive, arrogant, and maybe even cocky." With these words, Mike Gallagher described Brian Duffy as the two took part in a speech class at Edinboro University. Now the veteran sportscaster might describe his closest friend as competitive, talented and knowledgeable.

The two formed a broadcasting trio along with John Evans ('82) at WJET-TV in Erie, an ABC affiliate, which stood the test of time for more than ten years. It began to fall apart when Evans moved to the news department last year, then it dissolved completely when Duffy moved on to Cleveland as a sportscaster at WUAB-TV and WOIO-TV. What made it most remarkable was that all three attended Edinboro. Throw in Mike Ruzzi ('83), the sports anchor at WICU-TV (NBC) in Erie, and Edinboro University communications students dominated the sports airwaves.

Gallagher laughs when he looks back on his initial incident with Duffy, but his counterpart was hardly in a laughing mood when he heard of Gallagher's remarks. "We met in a speech class," recalls Gallagher. "I was a sophomore, and Brian was a freshman. The professor asked us to anonymously give three impressions of an assigned individual in the classroom, and I had to describe Brian. I said he was 'cocky, arrogant and aggressive.' When Duffy heard the description, he stood up and wanted to know who said that. He wanted to beat me up!. We turned out to be roommates and best friends."

Duffy came to Edinboro as one of those so-called "sports stars." A standout in both football and basketball at Cleveland's St. Joseph High School, Duffy envisioned himself playing football in college, but knee problems curtailed those ambitions.

ATHLETICS

"I was actually recruited more as a football player," Duffy recalled. "But I had some setbacks with my knees. I got some advice from doctors to play basketball. All the PSAC schools had been recruiting me for basketball, and Guy Conti [then head basketball coach] had been recruiting me for Edinboro all along."

The knee problems ultimately got the best of Duffy. Renowned for his outside shot and athleticism, the 6'4" swingman was close to earning a starting spot as a freshman. Just days before the start of the season, however, he suffered a knee injury. In a cast for four months, Duffy would return in time to play in four games and score six points.

He appeared in 19 games the following season, averaging 3.2 points. His moment of glory may well have come in a game in his own backyard of Cleveland, as the Fighting Scots played at Akron. While losing, 89-60, Duffy dropped in 12 markers.

Duffy became a key ingredient in Edinboro's NCAA playoff run in 1985-86. The Scots finished 18-13 and advanced to the Division II playoffs before losing to Millersville. Duffy averaged 3.8 points while playing just under 14 minutes a game.

"When I look back on it now, I'm proud of what I did," said Duffy. "Back then I was disappointed. I completely blew my knee out my freshman year. In my last season I was a captain and played in the NCAA Playoffs. I always wondered what I could have accomplished, though."

"We met in a speech class," recalls Gallagher. "I was a sophomore, and Brian was a freshman. The professor asked us to anonymously give three impressions of an assigned individual in the classroom, and I had to describe Brian."

While his playing career took a turn for the worse, Duffy's academic career took a turn in a promising direction, though one he did not expect. "I took a radio class," he recalled. "I didn't take any broadcasting classes. I was interested in advertising and public relations."

Through Gallagher's urging, Duffy began doing color commentary on basketball radio broadcasts. "When he hurt his knee. I convinced him to do color for me," Gallagher remembers. "We did the Edinboro-Robert Morris game. We continued to do games together, and did so well, we ended up doing the Strong Vincent High School game the year they won the state championship."

Duffy graduated with a bachelor's degree in communications in December 1986. That's when his journey into television broadcasting began.

"During Duffy's last year of school, I was working at JET," said Gallagher. "I helped him get an internship at the station. Within three days after he completed his internship he was hired. Within two years he was the weekend anchor, and within five years he became the main sports figure," Gallagher pointed out.

With Gallagher at his side, he would go on to co-host the popular Sunday Sports Extra following the 11:00 p.m. news. It was a forum to highlight the previous week's local sports stories. The show evolved from a live in-studio production to live at Damon's Restaurant in Erie. For area high school and college athletics, it was the ultimate in exposure.

Oddly enough, it was Gallagher who heard the bright lights calling and had dreams of a network job. The sportscasting field was a way for Duffy to stay close to his true love - sports. "I wasn't sure what I wanted to do," Duffy admitted. "I had an opportunity to do a couple internships with the Millcreek School District. Mike was at JET and he talked me into it (an internship). I figured I could stay involved in sports. I got to love going to Gannon, Mercyhurst and of course, Edinboro. I didn't know much about television, but I figured it was a great way to stay involved in sports."

"For the first two or three years I did it with the intention of making a lot of contacts. I figured I would meet the right people. It wasn't until I did the Gannon basketball games from Springfield in 1990 that I really became interested. We did the Gannon games back to Erie, but they also televised all the other games, and I did them all. That's when I fell in love with it," Duffy said.

Now almost ten years later, Duffy is working in a major television market with endless possibilities, and Gallagher is still in Erie. His career suffered a cruel twist when he was run over by a Houston Oiler at a Cleveland Browns game in 1989 while filming on the sideline. Countless surgeries have followed to repair the damage to his jaw, not to mention several lawsuits. The big time no longer waits, but he is now back on a nightly basis as the sports anchor at WJET, and renowned for his production capabilities. His best buddy, meanwhile, is working in a Cleveland market that stands 12th nationally, and dealing with some of the top professional athletes on a day-to-day basis.

Duffy is convinced that it could well be Gallagher, and not him, in the major market if not for the injury. He also realizes the crucial role his friend has played in his development. "If Mike hadn't gotten hurt in Cleveland, he would be where he wants to be, including the major market," stressed Duffy. "He is still the most talented person I've worked with. Mike produced my tapes for Cleveland."

Now Duffy can be seen interviewing the Indians' Jim Thome or star rookie Tim Couch of the Cleveland Browns. As Gallagher puts it, he "fits into the Cleveland sports fan mentality." While Pittsburgh bred through and through, Gallagher says it with envy.

"The athletes in Cleveland are finding that he establishes relationships," pointed out Gallagher. "He has their trust."

So much so that Duffy was hired as an NFL correspondent by KCBS in Los Angeles. The Sunday morning radio show is hosted by former NFL player Jim Hill, and airs throughout the country. His smooth delivery and impeccable knowledge of sports puts him on the fast track to places like Los Angeles, New York and Washington. Gallagher says Duffy "fits the mold." "He has the look," said Gallagher.

Yet Duffy still can't get his Edinboro roots out of his system. "I feel like I've left home," he related. "I have family in Cleveland. But I miss the area. I miss being involved with Edinboro. I miss the day-to-day things. I knew all the coaches and had good relationships. You don't get that kind of personal satisfaction (here)."

With that said, Duffy is smart enough to realize that he is a hot commodity, and in the world of television, fame can be fleeting. "My focus has changed," admitted Duffy. "The job with KCBS can open up a ton of doors. Obviously at some point I would like to work with one of the networks. It is something that I can see myself pursuing within the next couple years."

If the truth were known, Duffy turned the Cleveland job down three times, according to Gallagher. With Gallagher's prodding, he finally relented, moving his wife, Donna, and three children - Ryan (5), Colin (3) and Elizabeth (1) - back to his hometown.

Fear of failure? No. Reality? Yes. Duffy openly admits he didn't want to become a TV gypsy, bouncing from one similar market to another looking for that one chance to hit it big.

"I didn't want to uproot my family," noted Duffy. "My wife [the former Donna Esposito ('86), who also played basketball at Edinboro] has sacrificed tremendously. She had a lot of career ambitions. She was a computer science major and a good athlete. She has given up a lot for my sake."

In the competitive world of network television, despite having "the looks" and "what it takes," Duffy could well fall short of his appointed goal. And that wouldn't be all bad as far as he's concerned. "For me, it all started in Erie and Edinboro," he beamed.

As for Gallagher, it's easy to sense the pride in his best friend's accomplishments. He even named one of his children after Duffy. And there is no envy that Duffy is living Gallagher's dream.

"Edinboro is special because of Brian Duffy," said Gallagher. "He and I fought to get out, now he would love to come back. I grew up with Dan Marino. In my eyes, he's a Dan Marino. Everything he does, he has to be the best at. He insists on being the best and being first."

Duffy shrugs off such praise and feels he was at the right place at the right time. With a lot of talent and a little luck, Brian Duffy is on the fast track to television stardom. But he hasn't forgotten his Edinboro roots or friends with shaky opinions of him in a long ago speech class.

Bryant Houston Dies Tragically

Tragedy hit the Edinboro University Family in late August when assistant men's basketball coach Bryant Houston was killed in an automobile accident. Houston had been hired only eight days earlier to replace Brian Cupps, who had departed in May to take a similar position at Stetson University.

The mishap occurred on August 24 as he was driving on Route 6N heading home to Cleveland. Houston had joined Greg Walcavich's staff after serving as the head coach at Cuyahoga Community College for five years. He had guided the Challengers to a 68-43 record including a 24-5 finish in 1995-96. CCC won the Ohio Community College Athletic Conference championship that year, only to lose in the NJCAA Region XII finals by a basket.

Houston's hiring was the culmination of a long search by Walcavich. He was stunned to learn of the accident after working with his new assistant for just a week. "Bryant was as excited about being at Edinboro as I am," Walcavich told Erie Morning News writer Jim Camp following the accident. "In this kind of work, I don't feel you can do a terrific job unless you're happy where you are. He was here only eight days, but he was obviously thrilled to be here."

Walcavich felt that in his short time as a staff member, Houston had made an impression. "Bryant was really special with his ability to communicate, especially with young people. He was great at connecting with people, and I was really looking forward to having him be a part of our basketball team."

At Cuyahoga Community College, Houston was described as a person with courage and self-determination.

He devoted most of his life to basketball, beginning as a prepster at John Hay High School in Cleveland. He played at Cuyahoga for two years before playing his last two seasons at Wheeling College. During his senior year at Wheeling, Houston was renowned for his three-point shooting, leading all divisions in three-pointers.

He signed as a free agent with the New York Knicks, surviving until the final cut. He also tried out with the Los Angeles Lakers. Then came his coaching career, which began with a stint in the Cleveland Public Schools, followed by a stop at Dyke College.

The 42-year-old left behind two daughters, Lynette and Bryanna.

Sox Harrison Stadium Gets a Facelift

President Pogue and the Edinboro University Athletic Department would like to extend its sincere thanks and appreciation to the following individuals and businesses for their assistance in the upgrade and renovation of Sox Harrison Stadium:

The President's Executive Council - contributions for the new sound system.

Frank Jakovac and Family - funds to purchase new game uniforms and practice warm-ups.

Erie Steel Products Co. - donation of steel for the construction of the new seating area ramp.

A. Duchini Inc. - donation of cement block for the new seating area ramp.

The Office for Students with Disabilities - for providing assistive hearing devices.

The Edinboro University Maintenance Department - for their time and energy in implementing these improvements.

All other members of the Edinboro Family who worked so faithfully and diligently to make the improvements at Sox Harrison Stadium more than just a dream, but a beautiful reality.

Lou Rosselli Saves Choking Man

Lou Rosselli is better known for the wrestling holds he used while gaining All-American status at Edinboro. But Edinboro's assistant wrestling coach used a different hold recently to save a man's life. Rosselli and his wife Amy were part of a large group attending a birthday/anniversary celebration at a restaurant in September.

One of the members of the group, Bob Nagy, began to choke when a piece of meat became lodged in his throat. Nagy's son attempted unsuccessfully to dislodge the meat. Nagy's wife, Leah Therasse, then came to his aid but was unsuccessful, as well. It was then that Rosselli was asked to assist. He wrapped his arms around Nagy, and on the second attempt at the Heimlich Maneuver, dislodged the piece of meat.

In a few minutes, Nagy was fine and the celebration continued. Had it not been for Lou Rosselli's intervention and training, the situation could have had a much more tragic ending.
