MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENTS

PRESIDENT FRANK G. POGUE

This issue of the Edinboro News is dedicated to all of the people who give generously to the University and especially to the many volunteers who help us raise those funds. This issue includes the annual donor report. It's our way of saying thank you to those wonderful friends of the University who have created new scholarships, funded existing scholarships, or supported the University in some fashion. Our cover story is unusual in that it does not focus on one or two people but rather a whole group of people—the dedicated students of Edinboro who work tirelessly night after night on our annual phonathon. Without the efforts of these student workers, we would not be able to support the thousands of students who depend on the generosity of others to obtain their academic goals.

One of the University's highlights this fall was the Cabaret Brunch held at the prestigious Pittsburgh Athletic Association in the Oakland section of Pittsburgh. The event marked the start of the alumni portion of the Campaign for Excellence, the University's capital campaign.

Helping out were several Edinboro students including bagpipers, dancers, and the jazz combo. It was truly an exceptional event featuring some of our most distinguished Pittsburgh alumni enjoying exquisite cuisine and dancing to the sounds of Johnny Angel and the Halos. Wow!

Another feature story tells about the amazing success of David Simile ('79) who is the executive vice president and co-owner of a cutting-edge medical diagnostic company based in Wexford. We are also very proud of Mari K. Eder ('75, '76) who has been promoted to Brigadier General in the U.S. Army. She becomes the Army's highest ranking female officer in Public Affairs. We would be remiss if we didn't recognize the retirement of Dr. Robert Weber, provost and vice president for academic affairs, who is stepping down after leading the University's academic programs—first as dean of liberal arts, then as provost—for more than 15 years. The story of Dr. Weber's outstanding and faithful leadership is detailed in an article first published in the Erie Times News. Our final feature story is a comprehensive look at the University's many recent construction projects.

As we complete another productive year at Edinboro University, I want to wish you a very happy holiday season and an exceptional new year. Thank you for your support of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania!

Frank G. Pogue
President, Edinboro University

JIM GERONIMO

The mission of the Alumni Association is to cultivate a connection to and a concern for Edinboro University of Pennsylvania among alumni and friends.

Development activities are the cornerstone of fundraising efforts for the University. Restricted and unrestricted gifts are raised annually, otherwise known as the Annual Fund, through the support of alumni, faculty, staff, students and parents, friends, corporations and foundations. We ask that you, as alumni of Edinboro University, continue to support the Alumni Association by joining the many alumni and friends who are recognized in this issue by donating to the Alumni Annual Fund, which supports student scholarships, activities, academic programs, and more.

This year, you have the unique opportunity to make your mark on the Edinboro University community forever by considering an additional "stretch gift" to the University's capital campaign, the Campaign for Excellence.

The Campaign for Excellence, only the second capital campaign in our history, has turned the corner and with your generosity can make it home. The capital campaign was started to provide continuing funding for three major initiatives: student endowments for academics and athletics, an endowment for arts and culture, and a series of necessary capital projects. To date, we have exceeded $8.5 million in gifts and pledges toward our goal of $10 million, but we need your gift to put us "over the top."

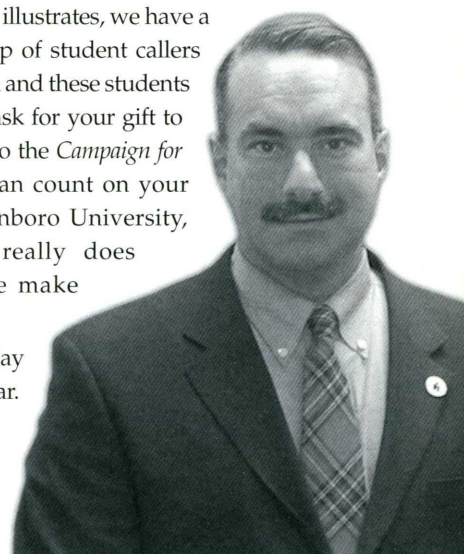

The University kicked off its alumni phase of our capital campaign with a Cabaret Brunch that was held at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, where alumni enjoyed a great afternoon of entertainment, auctions, cuisine and dancing. It is with this kickoff that we now come to you, our nearly 50,000 proud alumni and friends, to make a once-in-a-lifetime pledge to ensure future generations of students the opportunity to continue the proud Edinboro tradition of their predecessors. As a graduate of the institution, your participation is critical to the Campaign for Excellence because it reaffirms your commitment to the mission and vision of Edinboro University while supporting our University Scholarship Program. The capital campaign will conclude during the 2006-07 academic year, which coincides with the University's year-long Sesquicentennial celebration.

As the cover of this magazine illustrates, we have a dynamic and enthusiastic group of student callers operating our annual phonathon and these students will be contacting you soon to ask for your gift to our Alumni Annual Fund and to the Campaign for Excellence. We hope that we can count on your support as a graduate of Edinboro University, and remember every gift really does make a difference, so please make yours now!

Have a safe and joyous holiday season and a prosperous new year.

IT'S MORE THAN A PHONATHON

IT'S MAKING CONNECTIONS

Past generations of graduates connect with students to help build a strong foundation for future generations

In the Alumni House lies a room that comes alive in the evenings and Sunday afternoons with the energy of students. They meet during the fall and spring semesters to call alumni, parents and friends across the United States. This group of Edinboro students has taken on a task that is very important to the University, its alumni and the community by securing gifts from their callers to benefit current and future students at Edinboro University. The students value the quality education they are receiving at Edinboro and realize the life-long advantage it provides.

Each year student callers solicit contributions for the Alumni Annual Fund. This Alumni Phonathon raises money for operations, student programs, student activities, athletics, student services, programming and scholarships.

As representatives of the University, the students talk to more than 750 alumni each week sharing experiences and updating them on activities and events occurring on campus. Their goal is to reach as many alumni as they can, including those who have given in the past and those who might give for the first time.

"This position has given me the ability to talk to individuals I have never met and to be confident," said Edinboro senior Paul Bliss of Erie. "You have to be prepared when talking to them so you can build a relationship with this person. Know what you are going to say ahead of time."

Scripts were prepared for the students to assist them when making their calls. But half way through the semester, the students became familiar with their tasks, and the scripts were no longer needed. Bliss continued saying, "We personalize our calls. We tell alumni what's happening on campus, and inform them about renovations, technology, improvements, and beautifications on campus."

The Phonathon staff consists of 30 students who were screened extensively and hired by the Development Office.

Qualifications for these positions include a positive personality and excellent social skills. Before dialing their first phone number, this dedicated group completed an intensive three-day training program to prepare for their campus job. The end result produced a panel of students who are well-versed on the University and now learn about its history from the stories shared by our alumni on the phone.

The value of students contacting alumni during the Alumni Annual Fund is priceless. It not only benefits the University, but benefits the alumni and students in immeasurable ways. Since the Phonathon began this past fall, conversations have stirred memories and evoked emotions, and advice poured through the phone lines from alumni to students. But regardless of the conversation, all the calls have one thing in common – enthusiastic support for Edinboro University.

Amber Palomba, a freshman from Somerset, Pa., worked in the fast food industry while in high school and loves to talk to people. She said the Annual Phonathon is the perfect job for her. "I've learned how to communicate with people on the phone," said Palomba. "It was a challenge at first to try to get them to give a donation, but I've since learned how to make a good pitch for Edinboro University."

"Our students are enthusiastic and dedicated," said Marilyn Goellner, director of annual fund and stewardship. "Students contact alumni on Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 p.m. and in the evenings, Sunday through Thursday, from 6 to 9 p.m. during the school year to ask for their support to the Alumni Annual Fund. The callers update alumni records, provide information on what's happening on campus, and answer any questions alumni may have about Edinboro."

"I am incredibly proud of the students and how well they are doing," said Goellner. "They are knowledgeable about current events and renovations on campus and are doing more than fundraising – they are building relationships with our alumni."

Goellner makes it her mission not only to provide a learning experience for the students, but also to make the experience fun. Each week, creative games add a bit of excitement and challenge to the evening phone calls. And yes, the winners do receive well-deserved prizes such as gift certificates, Edinboro apparel, and most importantly, food donated by Edinboro employees.

"I've learned that it's important to give back to your University," said Palomba. "They do so much for you throughout your four years here. Edinboro is such a great place with many graduates. I can't wait for the first call I receive after I graduate to tell them that I was a phonathon caller and will gladly give them money."

As part of the Campaign for Excellence – only the second capital campaign in the University's history, the Phonathon helps to provide continuing funding to student endowments for academics and athletics. With more than 85 percent of Edinboro students receiving some form of financial aid, our Phonathon students are not only calling alumni to ask for support, but they also call to thank them for the great opportunities and experiences students receive today at Edinboro because of their generous donations.

To date, Capital Campaign pledges have been received from current and retired faculty and staff. The initial phase of the campaign also acquired gifts from businesses and corporations, members of the Council of Trustees, the Alumni Association Board of Directors and the Edinboro University Foundation Board of Directors. The successful public phase produced close to $9 million in contributions from these constituents. Now, the last stretch of our campaign reaches out to Edinboro University alumni with nearly 50,000 being asked to give a once-in-a-lifetime gift to the Campaign for Excellence to help ensure that the Edinboro experience will be as rich for future generations as it was for them.

Kendra Getz, a sophomore from Nazareth, Pa., also enjoys her job. "It can be difficult at times; there are some nights when people can be very rude and hang up on you. But when you talk to people who tell you their stories, it brightens my day." Getz has a success rate of nearly 75 percent of callers pledging to Edinboro.

"I love talking to alumni, they teach you so much," said Getz. "They have proven to me you can be whatever you want, especially with your Edinboro education."

Erica Hutchinson, a freshman from New Castle, Pa., agrees. "I enjoy hearing donors tell me about the days they spent at Edinboro University," she said. She likes dealing with the public and knows how important it is to be prepared and have excellent communication skills.

Thanks to our generous alumni, parents and friends, the Phonathon continues to grow each year. Their support has provided scholarship monies to students who might not have had the opportunity to experience college life at Edinboro. When the phone rings and a young voice is on the other end calling on behalf of Edinboro University, it is a chance for you to become reacquainted with Edinboro University today. Pause from your busy schedule and take a few minutes to talk with them. The conversation will bring back memories. Ask about campus life and share what it was like in the "good old days."

Edinboro Faculty Research... World-Wide Implications

Contributing Writer ~ Dianna W. Allen

Professor involves students in local research; carries out relevant watershed research at home and abroad

On March 26, 2004, Dr. Eric Straffin, a professor in the geosciences department at Edinboro University, presented a paper at the Northeastern Section (39th Annual) and Southeastern Section (53rd Annual) Joint Meeting of the Geological Society of America (GSA), in Washington, D. C. The paper was titled "Involving Undergraduates in Research: Short Term, Inquiry-Based Projects with Long Term Goals." The paper discussed the benefits of involving undergraduate students in ongoing research. Students gain experience with research methods, and they have a field location from which they can collect data and formulate hypotheses. In the classroom, then, students are able to analyze results, test their hypotheses, and receive feedback on their projects and conclusions. Straffin puts this idea into practice in his teaching.

One project that he uses in this way is an ongoing study of Edinboro Lake. The students climb aboard the University-owned pontoon boat and, using a bathymetrical map created by geosciences department chairman Dr. Brian Zimmerman, take core samples from sediment at various locations on the lake bottom. Zimmerman has been researching Edinboro Lake for many years in an effort to verify reports that the lake has been in-filling rapidly. The deepest core they generally collect is four to five meters (approximately 12 - 15 feet). The samples are examined for the pattern and types of sediment, which can tell the researcher rates of material deposits before and during urbanization and agricultural development.

The research is exploring the hypothesis that urbanization has negatively impacted the lake quality, resulting in rapid in-filling. According to results collected and analyzed by Straffin and his students, however, changes in the lake quality are related to the natural processes of eutrophication, organic sedimentation, and soil-erosion. Although human land-use patterns can accelerate the processes involved in eutrophication, sampling at Edinboro Lake suggests that the rate of sedimentation appears to have been uniform over the past 2,000 years. One of Straffin's students, Andrea Winger, also presented a paper detailing her research on the topic at the GSA meeting in Washington.

Straffin believes the inclusion of fieldwork tends to increase enthusiasm of students regarding their educational experience. And he should know. He began his undergraduate career at Clarion University working toward a B.S. degree in biology, but became a little frustrated by all the slide work. At the same time, he began going on field trips with his geology classes. He made the switch to geosciences and never looked back, although he continues to work closely with biologists and environmentalists in his current research. He continued his education with an M.S. degree in geology from Northern Arizona University, and his Ph.D. in geology from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Straffin joined the Edinboro University faculty in 2000, after completing his dissertation.

His students have recently benefited from his enthusiasm, field of expertise, and teaching style by going out on a field trip to see the "cool flood deposits" on the Conneauttee Creek below the Edinboro dam resulting from the aftermath of Hurricane Frances in September.

Regionally, Straffin recently completed work on The State of the Stream Report, French Creek, Pennsylvania (2003), in conjunction with the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy, the French Creek Project, and others. The purpose of this report is to gather baseline data about French Creek and the surrounding watershed in an effort to determine the effects of human land-use, and to keep the public informed on the health of this pristine, unique ecological resource.

Straffin has collected data on the physical conditions of French Creek to establish baselines to be used in future monitoring projects. For example, he has examined the physical attributes of the streambed (geomorphology); the velocity, flow,

In the classroom,
then, students are results, test their hypotheses, and

and clarity of the water (hydrology); and sediment types and patterns (sedimentology). This information will be used, along with the biological data compiled by other parties involved in the research, to establish the current state of French Creek and allow the team to monitor changes over time as land-use patterns change. The researchers hope that this study will identify ways in which land-owners influence the watershed, and ways to minimize threats to the ecological health of the region through recommendations for better land-use management practices. For more information see <http://www.paconserve.org/rc/pdfs/fcsos1.pdf>.

Along with local and regional projects, Straffin has also been working for the past four summers in central France. He has been continuing the work of his dissertation, Fluvial Response to Climate Change and Human Activities, Burgundy, France (University of Nebraska-Lincoln, 2000), which focused on a 60-mile area in the Loire and Arroux River Valleys in central France. According to Straffin, this latest project is part of a larger, National Science Foundation-funded project directed by Dr. M. Blum, from Louisiana State University. This research expanded to include the Garonne and Rhone River Valleys, and is examining ways in which climate and sea-level changes have affected river dynamics. The implications of this research include predictions or insights into how river systems may respond to global warming.

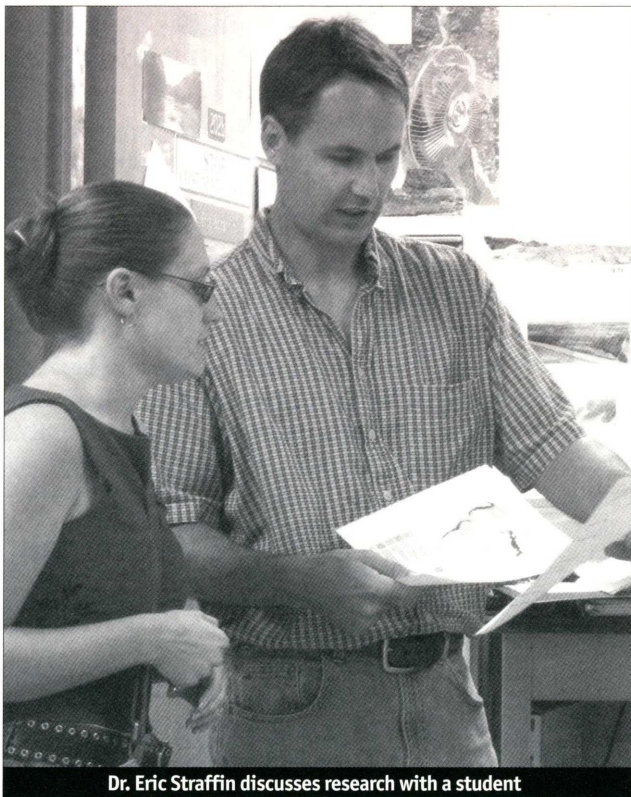

Like El Niño or La Niña on the Pacific, changes in the Atlantic atmosphere have affected the European climate in the past, which has, in turn, affected the dynamics of rivers.

Dr. Straffin examined the physical effects from these climate shifts, human land use and urbanization, and tectonics by analyzing sedimentation and then compared his findings with land-use and climate records. France has a long history of meticulous record-keeping – ask any medievalist. That was one reason the Loire Valley was selected for this research.

Straffin's research project in the Loire Valley suggests that as the climate in central Europe shifted over the past 140,000 years, the course, velocity, and condition of the Loire and Arroux rivers changed. These changes can be traced to climate shifts as the human land-use in the region has changed very little, even over the past few hundred years. His conclusions in this research demonstrate that shifts in the river dynamics correlate with big climate changes. This suggests potential for change in river systems in response to global warming, along with predicting some specific changes that might be expected. This, of course, has world-wide implications due to the current trend toward global warming.

Straffin has taught numerous courses in his four years at Edinboro, including Dynamic Earth, Intro to Earth Environments, Earth History, Field Geology, Geology of San Salvador, Bahamas, Stratigraphy/Sedimentation, and Soil Geomorphology. If you are interested in learning more about his research, visit his web page, <http://www.edinboro.edu/cwis/geosci/straffin/straffinhome.html> or sign up for a class with him next semester. Enthusiasm is a prerequisite.

With the help of students, Dr. Straffin's research has shown changes in the Lake's quality are related to natural processes rather than urbanization. Sampling suggests that the rate of sedimentation appears to have been uniform over the past 2,000 years.

Dave Similie

Innovation in Nuclear Medicine

At first glance, Dave Similie ('79) does not fit the stereotype of a CEO of a multi-million dollar corporation. More often than not, Similie's business attire is a sport shirt and blue jeans, belying his role as executive vice president of CDL Nuclear Technologies, a rapidly growing company on the verge of dominating the nuclear cardiac imaging industry.

Ten years ago, Similie joined long-time friend Keith Loiselle as a partner in his new company that provided mobile diagnostic services to hospitals, medical practices and clinics. Starting with just two other employees – a truck driver and a technologist – the company quickly grew to more than 20 workers.

CDL found a niche market in the health care industry. By putting MRI, CAT scan, lithotripsy and Positron Emission Tomography (PET scan) and other diagnostic services on trucks, smaller hospitals and medical facilities were able to offer their patients the same testing services as larger hospitals. The concept was a hit, and within ten years the company had more than 150 employees and hundreds of customers in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, New York and Connecticut.

Success, however, became a mixed blessing. While the bottom line was good, the challenge of managing a company that large was not as rewarding.

"It was simply getting too big," said Similie.

Because they wanted to keep the business at a more manageable size, Similie and Loiselle split the company in August of 2003, retaining the nuclear medicine division and selling the rest to a competitor for $50 million.

The core of their new enterprise is what Similie calls nuclear cardiology imaging. Most people become familiar with it when their doctor orders a stress test of their heart or through cardiac catheterization. Those tests typically involve radioactive dyes that may reveal clogged arteries leading to reduced blood flow to the heart.

Like the original business, the service is portable, meaning the equipment can be easily wheeled right into a doctor's office.

Shortly after the new company was formed, CDL's technical personnel put their heads together and came up with a design for a new nuclear camera called the CDLCAM nuclear camera. Similie says it is faster, easier to use, and provides better diagnostic information than any other camera on the market.

The camera is used primarily for cardiac stress testing. It takes a snapshot of fluid passing through the heart in what Similie calls "first pass imaging." That's the brief period of time when the radioactive dye first makes its way through the heart's chambers and valves.

The CDLCAM camera takes sharper images with more useful information for cardiologists than any previous camera. The whole process takes only about 30 seconds – a big improvement over previous testing protocols.

Similie said their product is FDA approved and has been beta tested at medical facilities in Florida, South Carolina, Ohio and Pennsylvania. They placed eight cameras in the first six months of operation and had more than 30 in the field by the end of a year.

The camera is being built by GVI Technologies of Cleveland. CDL Nuclear Technologies is the exclusive distributor of the camera. Their strategy for marketing the camera is nearly as brilliant as the camera itself. Instead of selling each camera for several hundred thousand dollars, Similie said they are giving the camera to medical facilities at no cost. The revenue will come from charging a fee per scan. Similie estimates there are more than 3,000 potential customers for the camera nationwide. With each camera generating thousands of dollars in revenue per month, the potential income for their company is staggering.

Similie's success did not come overnight. He and Loiselle routinely put in 14-hour days, seven days a week with their original company. Once their new company is established, Simile hopes to take some time off and perhaps retire early.

Their strategy for marketing the camera is nearly as brilliant as the camera is itself.

"I want to travel extensively and see the world," said Simile. "I'll still maintain a home here (in the Pittsburgh area) but I would like to relocate part of the year to Florida."

Participation in sports has always been an important part of his life. Recently, he has become involved in motorsports as a hobby, competing in a racing circuit this summer in Beaver County. He also enters his Dodge Viper in "driving instruction" events at race courses such as Watkins Glen and Mid Ohio.

High on his list of things to do is become reacquainted with Edinboro University. His desire is fueled by many great memories of his life as a student at his alma mater. Simile and his brother Robert visited the campus as guests of President Frank Pogue in September when Edinboro hosted West Virginia Tech. Coincidentally, Robert Simile is a professor in that school's art department, and is a graduate of Indiana State University, the same school that produced Edinboro Athletic Director Bruce Baumgartner.

"Edinboro was a blast," said Simile. He remembers fondly being on his own, establishing lifelong relationships and especially the house he and his friends shared on Lakeside Drive.

After graduating from Shaler High School in 1974, Simile enrolled at West Virginia Wesleyan for a year and a half. He decided to transfer to Edinboro because many of his friends went there, and he would have the chance to play football. He joined the Fighting Scots as a walk-on, but by his junior year he was starting at running back and played for two years before graduating in 1979 with a degree in business.

In less than a year he got a job selling photocopiers. He eventually joined the Sharp corporation where he became a sales manager and regional distribution manager before joining Loiselle in 1994.

When he is not spending time on his wooded, 11-acre homestead outside of Zelienople, Simile likes to join several of his friends skiing, golfing, whitewater rafting, or deep-sea fishing, which they do two or three times a year in places like Costa Rica and Cabo San Lucas.

Simile's success – whether it has been selling copiers, creating a multi-million dollar business, or competing on the racetrack or the gridiron – can in large part be credited to his optimism about life. "I've always had a positive attitude about everything I do," he said. "You get out of life what you put into it."

CAMPUS CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS

Louis C. Cole Auditorium – Memorial Hall

Following completion of major internal renovations to Memorial Hall, the University recently put the finishing touches on the exterior of the building with installation of glass doors and arched windows in the entranceway. Cost: $60,000.

Dearborn Hall

The complete renovation of Dearborn Hall is underway which, like its sister residence hall Earp, will result in a greatly enhanced living environment for students. The most noticeable change to the building is the relocation of the main entrance to the campus side of the building. Cost: $3.9 million.

Butterfield Hall

MARI K. EDER... A Leader by Example

It was cold and dark on the flight line at Dover Air Force Base the night of November 17th. A Marine officer, an Air Force officer and Mari K. Eder stood at attention and saluted as 24 Marines, soldiers and civilians made their final return to American soil from battlefields half a world away. As the senior Department of the Army representative, Brigadier General Eder and the other officers rendered honors along with the Army, Marine and Air Force Honor Guards and an Air Force chaplain as one by one, the 24 flag-draped coffins were carried from the plane.

Typically, no one else attends this simple, dignified arrival ceremony. There are no welcoming crowds, no music. The Department of the Army calls this ceremony for the repatriation of remains one of rendering dignified honors. It is a tough duty and on this night the ceremony itself seemed particularly long. Everyone was stiff from standing at the position of attention for nearly three hours as the evening chill settled in. "It was more than my duty to be there that evening," Eder said. "It was a privilege and I am proud to have represented the Army at the honors ceremony."

Eder, a native of Stoneboro, Pa., in Mercer County, recently became the highest ranking female officer (Deputy Chief) in the U.S. Army's Department of Public Affairs. As she saluted the fallen soldiers, Eder thought of a poster she stops to look at every day in one of the large corridors near her office in the Pentagon. It contains photos of Army Reserve soldiers killed in Afghanistan and Iraq. Above the photos on the poster is a simple phrase: "We memorialize these soldiers' lives by the actions we take as leaders."

Since her days as yearbook editor at Edinboro University to her current roles in the upper echelons of the Pentagon, Eder has always been a leader by example.

Eder came to Edinboro University in 1971 after graduating from Lakeview High School. She earned a B.A. degree in English and graduated cum laude in 1975, and received her master's degree in English with honors in 1976. In addition to serving on the yearbook staff, Eder worked in the sports information office under Paul Newman ('64). One of her earliest assignments was taking photos at football games and writing sports press releases. She also joined a sorority – Zeta Tau Alpha – and became its historian.

...(Eder) is the highest ranking female officer (Deputy Chief) in the U.S. Army's Department of Public Affairs.

"I never wanted to leave Edinboro," said Eder. "I couldn't imagine leaving. I loved the college, the lake, the people, everything but the weather."

But after obtaining her master's degree she was influenced by several friends from Edinboro to join the Army because of their positive experiences in the service.

In April of 1977 she was commissioned as a 2nd Lt. in the Women's Army Corps and began her steady upward climb through the ranks. Eder was promoted to 1st Lt. two years later and became Capt. in the spring of 1981, before leaving the Active Army in September 1982. She was promoted to Maj. in 1989, Lt. Col. in 1996 and full Col. in April of 2001.

As part of her ongoing training, Eder enrolled in the U.S. Army War College in Carlisle, Pa., in 1999. Two years of distance education and 30 papers later she obtained a Master of Strategic Studies degree (MSS). In the midst of this she found time to reprise her Edinboro days as a member of the War College's yearbook staff.

Currently Eder holds two positions. In addition to her role in the Army Reserves as Deputy Chief of Public Affairs, she also holds the civilian post of Director of Strategic Communications for the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Homeland Defense, which is the Department of Defense's part of the national program at the Department of Homeland Security.

The past six months have been a whirlwind for Eder as the Army's demands have grown during the conflict in Iraq. In May she traveled to Qatar to assess the U.S. Central Command's strategic communications, spoke at the University of Maryland commissioning ceremony, spoke at the Pacific Command's public affairs conference in Honolulu, and participated in other events at the War College and the Army's Missile and Munitions command in Huntsville, Alabama.

Eder's military career began in Alabama at Fort McClellan. Although she wanted to go into public affairs initially, she learned those positions aren't available to new officers. Instead, she joined the Military Police and held a number of positions at Fort McClellan and Fort Meade, Maryland.

From 1982 until 2001 Eder served in Army Reserve units. Her first assignment with a Public Affairs unit came in 1984 with the 80th Division in Richmond, Va. She was mobilized and returned to active duty in the initial wave of callups following September 11, 2001. She served full time then in what had been her part-time position, as Assistant Director of Public Affairs at the United States European Command in Stuttgart, Germany. In September of 2002 she became senior policy advisor, then Chief of Staff in the office of the Secretary of Defense, Reserve Forces Policy Board in Washington, D.C. In an unusual move, she also served as commander of a Reserve Training Brigade during that time.

Eder's service has not gone unrecognized by the Army. During her 27-year career she has received the Meritorious Service Medal with five Oak Leaf Clusters, the Joint Service Commendation Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Army Commendation Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Joint Service Achievement Medal and the Army Achievement Medal.

Perhaps the most ironic thing about Eder's service is that she never consciously decided to make the Army her career. After leaving active duty the first time in 1982 she joined the reserves with the intention of staying only as long as it was fun. If a public affairs position hadn't been open in 1984 she might have left then.

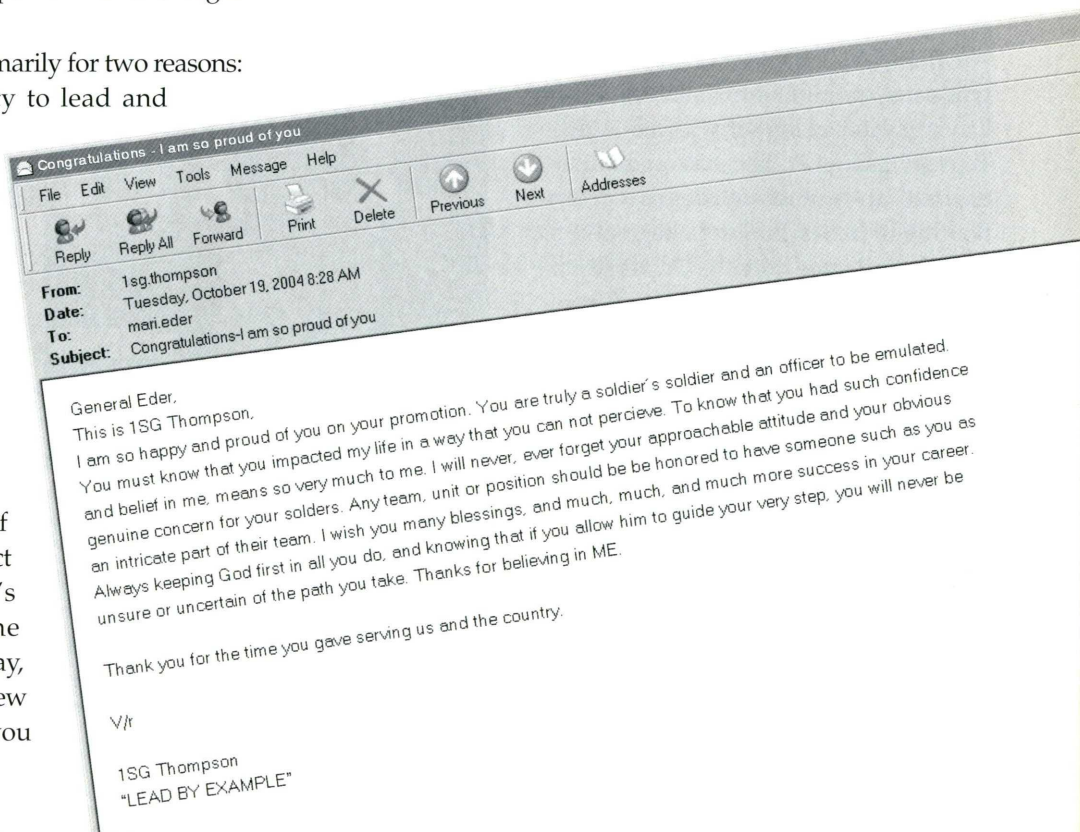

But she has stayed with the Army primarily for two reasons: the relationships and the opportunity to lead and command. She has met people from all over the country and from all walks of life. At her promotion ceremony to Brigadier General in October, friends from Illinois, Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Alabama came to show their support. Edinboro University was represented by Terry Carlin, assistant vice president for admissions and his wife, Jerri, who was Eder's roommate in college.

Eder said the most rewarding part of her job is having a positive leadership affect on the people she commands. "It's rewarding to see people become successful," said Eder. "It's the ability to say, 'Let me share with you what I wish I knew when I was in your position.' Then you watch them apply it and succeed."

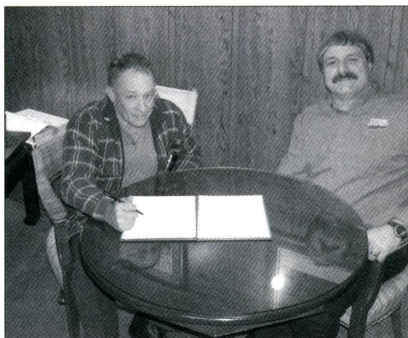

Eder's career – both as a civilian and an officer – has been marked by increasing levels of leadership and responsibility. Her more notable assignments have included:

- Serving as Director of Public Affairs at the George C. Marshall European Center for Security Studies where she conducted international press relations and built a major training program from the ground up. She traveled to more than 23 countries in this position and taught media relations in the Balkans, Russia and to the Baltic nations in Stockholm Sweden.
- Serving as Deputy Director for Communications and Public Information at the Transportation Security Administration.
- Establishing communications policy for all U.S. forces in Europe as Deputy Director of Public Affairs for the U.S. European Command.
- Serving as senior Reserve component policy advisor to the chairman of the OSD Reserve Forces Policy Board and its 24-member general officer member board.

Mr. John VanLaningham and Director of Athletics Mr. Bruce Baumgartner

VanLaningham. Dr. Leland W. VanLaningham served Edinboro State College as Director of Student Teaching from 1949 until 1967. The scholarship has consistently provided annual awards to a freshman student who has shown outstanding high school academic achievement.

We are pleased to announce that John VanLaningham, an Edinboro resident, has established a new endowed scholarship. The VanLaningham Athletic Scholarship will provide an annual award to a student athlete who must meet minimum NCAA requirements and maintain NCAA eligibility. The award will rotate in the following order: football, women's basketball and men's basketball.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT AWARDS SCHOLARSHIP

Penni Sue Schaefer of Waterford, Pa., is the recipient of the 2004 Foreign Language Studies Scholarship awarded by the Department of Foreign Languages of Edinboro University. A non-traditional student with simultaneous majors in Spanish and journalism, Schaefer is a member of Phi Sigma Iota, the international foreign language honor society. She is pictured here with Margot Koczan, chairperson of the scholarship committee and French professor at Edinboro University.

Founded in 1998, the Foreign Language Studies Scholarship assists outstanding students of foreign languages with their educational expenses and is exclusively funded through donations from current and emeritus department faculty. Eligible students must be foreign language majors or minors with a minimum 3.0 grade point average in foreign language study, as well as in all university coursework, and must have completed 64 credit hours by the end of the semester preceding the scholarship award date. Students must complete an application, secure a letter of recommendation from a faculty member of the foreign language department, and submit an essay on the importance of foreign language study.

Ruth and Dewey Davis Graduate Endowment

Dr. and Mrs. Dewey Davis are both graduates of Edinboro University. Ruth Davis graduated in 1966 with a master's degree in English. She had previously earned an associate degree from Southwest Texas Junior College and a bachelor's degree from the University of Texas Austin. Dewey graduated from Edinboro in 1949 with a bachelor's degree in secondary science and social studies. He served in the army during the Korean War, and proceeded to get his master's degree and Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin. Dewey continued with a wide variety of additional studies throughout his teaching career. He is a Lifetime Fellow in the Texas Academy of Science, a lifetime member of the National Science Teachers Association, and a member of many other science and education associations. Both Ruth and Dewey enjoyed long, successful careers in the classroom. Dewey was granted emeritus status upon his retirement from the University of Texas at San Antonio, where he helped to build the University upon its founding.

The Davises are extremely compassionate and humble people and wish to provide opportunities for students to improve their academic strength through this generous scholarship. Dewey was able to begin his higher education at Edinboro (then State Teacher's College) only because he was awarded a $100 scholarship by the Millcreek PTA. At that time he vowed to return "one hundred fold" the financial aid he received to support students with financial needs. This vow has been accomplished "several hundred fold" for this is not the only scholarship the Davises have established for higher education.

Ruth and Dewey have endowed this scholarship in honor of each of their mothers, Beulah C. Rice Tubbs and Helen Saterlee Davis. Without the stability provided by their mothers, it is unlikely that either of them would have received a college education.

ERIN BULLOCK WINS FOREIGN LANGUAGE SCHOLARSHIP

Erin Alva-Lorraine Bullock, a 2004 graduate of Edinboro University, received one of 11 scholarships awarded in an international competition sponsored by Phi Sigma Iota, the international foreign language honor society. The award is based on scholastic achievement in the study of foreign languages and service to the society's local chapter.

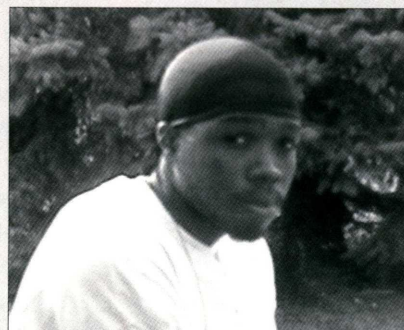

Erin served as the 2002-2003 and 2003-2004 vice president of Edinboro's Beta Pi chapter. Her scholarship marks the sixth Phi Sigma Iota award granted to an Edinboro University student since the chapter's inception in spring 1993.

She received a bachelor of arts degree in Spanish with minors in chemistry, psychology, earth sciences, and environmental studies. Her immediate plans include serving with the Ameri-Corps program in a Spanish-speaking country.

Erin is the daughter of Dr. Ben and Mrs. Connie Bullock of Cambridge Springs, Pa.

MEET JAMES PARKS SANTELLI DIVERSITY ENDOWMENT RECIPIENT

James Parks, 2004-05 Recipient of the Santelli Diversity Endowment award.

James Parks is a sophomore, majoring in computer animation. He was born in New York, N.Y., and attended Peabody High School in Pittsburgh, Pa.

What receiving this scholarship means to him:

This scholarship gave James the ability to pursue a college education full time.

What he likes about Edinboro University:

He enjoys what he does – animation. "I don't see anything better than animation. It's not work to me – it's fun! It's a joy to be here on campus and away from home. It's a different experience you can't get anywhere else!"

Future Goals:

James would like to create animation for video games and for movies similar to films produced by Pixar Studios. One of his goals is a collaborative project/program with the Manchester Craftsmen's Guild, a multi-discipline, minority directed, center for arts and learning that uses the visual and performing arts to foster a sense of accomplishment and hope in the urban community, located in Pittsburgh.

The Santelli Diversity Endowment was established by Patrick and Patricia Santelli in 2000.

The Santellis believe there are many people from diverse backgrounds who face significant barriers to a college education. They are committed to provide financial assistance and, through this scholarship award, a confident sense of motivation and support to students deserving of educational opportunity.

The purpose of the Santelli Diversity Endowment is to promote educational access with preference to people in diverse groups, including but not limited to racial and ethnic minorities; single parents and female heads-of-household with children; non-traditional (i.e., older adults, displaced workers, senior citizens); or people with learning or physical disabilities.

Dana Bushnell Memorial Tree Dedication

On a beautiful fall day in September, several colleagues and friends of Dr. Dana Bushnell gathered to pay tribute to Dana and conduct a dedication ceremony for a flowering crabtree planted in her memory near Ross Hall. As Dr. Robert C. Weber, Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, stated, "I met Dr. Bushnell during my first weeks as dean of liberal arts and was immediately impressed with her enthusiasm for teaching. She loved students. She loved teaching. She touched everyone with whom she came in contact in a positive way. I will always remember her as one of the best teachers I have ever known."

Edinboro University and the Women's Studies Committee are proud to announce that the Dana Bushnell Women's Studies Scholarship has reached the endowment level and the first award is expected to be made during academic year 2005-06.

KEN KOPIN ART SCHOLARSHIP

Julie and John Chacona look on as Mr. Barry Grossman and President Pogue sign the Ken Kopin Art Scholarship.

Mr. Ken Kopin was a beloved art teacher in the Erie School District for many years, having taught in both junior and senior high schools. He received the Teacher of the Year award in 1989. He also coached girl's basketball at Strong Vincent High School, and he developed and directed the visual arts program for the School for the Performing and Visual Arts.

Ken graduated from Strong Vincent High School in Erie and earned a bachelor's degree in art education from Edinboro University in 1961. Ken remained true to his own art, participating in local and national juried shows throughout the years. His work appears in permanent collections at colleges, more than 50 private collections, the Erie Art Museum, and the American Kennel Club in New York City.

He was well known for his love of beauty in all forms – art, human, music and fine food. He was an avid fly fisherman, tennis player and was an internationally recognized judge for the American Kennel Club certified in Old English Sheep dogs.

Unfortunately, Ken passed away on September 23, 2002. He was posthumously awarded the Edinboro University 2003 Distinguished Alumni Award in Education.

This scholarship was established to honor and remember Ken Kopin, to provide financial assistance for students, and to encourage their commitment to education and art as demonstrated by Ken during his lifetime.

Debra Hudek Memorial Scholarship

This scholarship was established as a memorial to Debra Hudek, who died on March 30, 2004. Debra graduated from Edinboro with a bachelor of arts in psychology in 1976; received a master's degree in educational psychology in 1977 and completed the school psychology certificate program in 1979. Her husband, Stephen, established this scholarship to honor and memorialize Debra and to encourage the same commitment to education she demonstrated during her life.

Debra was born on August 17, 1954 and raised in Hanover, Pa.

She was a woman of many virtues. She conducted her life in a peaceful and dignified manner. Her sweet and gentle soul always knew the perfect kind word or friendly gesture to brighten someone's day. Her fortitude in battling cancer had a calming influence on everyone around her. Being unassuming, she would not have been concerned with being remembered in any public manner. Many times, words of praise for some are conceived after their life is over, however, she was cherished during her lifetime and was told so many times.

Deb spent her career helping special education students in New Jersey. She was proud of her service to the community and was respected for her kindness and caring heart that was evident in her dedication to every child who was under her care. She always tried to be a spokesperson for their needs.

Debbie had countless fond memories of her years at Edinboro State College. The many lessons she learned about life and her profession always served her well. She and her husband both treasured their time at Edinboro because they met, fell in love and became engaged while attending Edinboro.

Even though she is missed desperately by family and friends, she left her legacy in love and deeds, not in possessions. Her reward would be to know that she lifted the lives of those she touched.

ALUMNI ANNUAL FUND and CAPITAL CAMPAIGN UPDATE

has reached its final phase, the phase where we ask you, our proud alumni, to ensure that the Edinboro experience will be as rich for future generations as it was for you. We are counting on your continued support of Edinboro University through the annual giving program and hope that you'll also consider a gift this year to the Campaign for Excellence to support our University Scholarship Program.

Did you know?

- Last fiscal year only 11% of our alumni made a gift to Edinboro University. We call that "alumni participation" and we rank behind other public universities.
- Giving consistently each year is more important than how much you give.
- Corporate donors, foundations, prospective students, parents, faculty and media focus on the percentage of alumni who give annually as a reliable means of measuring Edinboro University's credibility and well being.

Please help us achieve Edinboro University's 15% alumni giving goal this year.
Your participation is important to the future of Edinboro University!

LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES SYMPOSIUM

On Thursday, September 23, 2004, President Pogue, along with members of the history and anthropology department and the Latin American Studies Committee, hosted Edinboro University's first Latin American Studies Symposium featuring Raul Urteaga Trani, economic counselor for the Embassy of Mexico, NAFTA Office of Representation of the Secretary of Economy in Washington, D.C. He provided an enlightening presentation on the impact of NAFTA on the United States and Mexico.

Urteaga was one of the Mexican delegates in the NAFTA negotiating process covering several provisions of the agreement. His current responsibilities include being co-lead Mexican negotiator of the U.S.-Mexico Bilateral Safety Aviation Agreement. He is also involved in the promotion of the NAFTA in the United States and in the development of U.S.-Mexico business expansion and investment.

The featured presentation was followed by a lively open forum and dialogue on a variety of NAFTA issues. Guests were treated to a delicious and exotic hors d'oeuvres buffet featuring an assortment of foods native to Latin America. The symposium concluded with a fast-paced, live auction of more than 25 items, including wine and cheese baskets, Latin American art, photographs, apparel, pottery, exotic coffees, and much more. All proceeds benefited the newly created Latin American Studies Scholarship.

The grand auction prize was a two-week stay in a fully-furnished apartment in beautiful Trieste, Italy. The package included complimentary lodging in a one-bedroom apartment in the Adriatic port city of Trieste. We are pleased to announce that Edinboro University student Kenneth Quinn was the successful bidder for the trip which will be used as his honeymoon destination next year.

The symposium was free and open to the public, and featured several displays of Latin American art, history, music and food. More than 200 faculty, students and friends were in attendance. The symposium was held in support of Edinboro University's rapidly growing undergraduate degree program in Latin American Studies which, in less than one year, has more than ten majors. Latin American Studies is an undergraduate degree program that offers a specialized and integrative approach to preparation for competing in the international job market. The newly established Latin American Studies Scholarship provides financial support for students in this program. The first student recipient of the scholarship, Ms. Ashley Gunn, was announced at the symposium.

The Latin American Studies Committee is pleased to announce that as a result of the Latin American Studies symposium Auction and the Pittsburgh/Erie Cabaret Auction, (which also offered an additional two-week stay in Trieste, Italy), the Latin American Studies Scholarship has reached the $10,000 endowment level.

HONORS PROGRAM NAMED FOR PROVOST

By Mary Hill. Reprinted with permission of Times Publishing Company, Erie, PA. Copyright 2004

Jessica Wilson was pleased to see Robert Weber, Ph.D., honored by his peers.

"I think that naming the program after him is the perfect way to thank him for all of his service to the university," Wilson said. "Dr. Weber's previous experience as a professor and teacher made him an excellent university staff member because of his ability to relate to student and faculty concerns."

Wilson, of Saegertown, is a sophomore biology major at Edinboro. She is also an honors student pleased with the University's decision to re-name its program the Dr. Robert C. Weber Honors Program.

University President Frank Pogue unveiled a large plaque to re-name the program during Fall Convocation and Founder's Day ceremonies held recently at Earp Hall.

"This program opens a lot of doors," Wilson said. "We have opportunities to travel abroad and take accelerated courses."

Weber was gratified by the accolades. "This is truly an unexpected honor," he said. "I look around and see things pretty much the same as they were when I started here."

Weber is university provost and vice president for academic affairs. He recently announced that he will retire from the university this December.

He will leave behind quite a legacy. During his tenure as provost, Weber led a systematic enhancement of the University honors program. He also worked on ways to increase funding for the honors scholarship program. The scholarship began in 1989 and has since awarded more than $30,000.

In addition, Weber implemented master's degree programs in social work, secondary and middle level instruction and information technology and a collaborative master's in curriculum and instruction through the Northern Tier Educational Initiative.

He was also instrumental in creating baccalaureate programs in print journalism, broadcast journalism, Latin American studies, and forensic chemistry, as well as minors in Latin American studies, critical thinking, applied computer technology and applied mathematics.

And all of that, Weber said, was done with students in mind. "Is this the best decision for students," Weber said, was always his starting question.

Weber grew up on the south side of Pittsburgh, one of 11 children in his family. "College wasn't something that was talked about," he said, in his youth. "I was the first in my family to go to college."

At that time, Weber was fortunate that the state subsidized 90 percent of his education. "Now the state subsidizes about 40 percent," he said. "We need public higher education, and we need the support."

The former professor arrived at Edinboro University in 1989 as dean of liberal arts. He was appointed interim provost and vice president of academic affairs in 1995. A year later, he was appointed to those posts permanently.

During the Founder's Day celebration, former honors students spoke about Weber's dedication to education and students.

Ross Markle, who graduated in May with a degree in psychology, was especially pleased to see Weber recognized. "Dr. Weber cherished the honors program," Markle said. "Everyone is worried about the 'No Child Left Behind Law,' and Dr. Weber did his best to make sure students moved ahead."

DR. PEARL BARTELT NAMED PROVOST

President Pogue recently announced the appointment of Dr. Pearl W. Bartelt to the position of Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs effective January 3, 2005. Dr. Bartelt currently serves as senior fellow at the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AAC&U). She will replace Provost Robert Weber who will retire in December.

"It is an honor to have a scholar and administrator with Dr. Bartelt's credentials join the Edinboro Family," said Dr. Pogue. "Her experience as a professor, dean, and provost at the university level, coupled with her work at AAC&U will be highly valuable in advancing the mission of the University."

Dr. Bartelt was educated at Ohio State University where she received a B.S. degree in education and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in sociology. She began her career at the collegiate level as an assistant professor at the Community College of Philadelphia. She later served as assistant, associate and full professor at Glassboro State College (now Rowan University) in New Jersey. She was appointed dean of liberal arts and sciences at Rowan University in 1991; became vice president for academic affairs at Central Connecticut State University in 1999 and provost in 2001; and joined AAC&U in 2003. She also served as a visiting senior research fellow at England's University of Surrey from 1985 to 1986.

Her memberships include the American Association of Higher Education, a board member of the American Conference of Academic Deans, the American Sociological Association, the Council of Colleges of Arts and Sciences, board member and past president of the International Communal Societies Association, and past board member and treasurer of the Communal Societies Association.

In her letter of application, Dr. Bartelt expressed her life-long support for public education at all levels, stating, "A public university provides higher education access, intellectual capital and a significant institutional asset to both the immediate community and to the state as a whole. I firmly believe that the community strengthens the university and the university strengthens the community."

DON APEL JOINS EDINBORO UNIVERSITY IN MEADVILLE

Don C. Apel of Meadville has been appointed the outreach coordinator for Edinboro University of Pennsylvania in Meadville. Located in the former Bessemer site, Edinboro University in Meadville provides access to affordable post-secondary education for the residents of Crawford and nearby counties in northwestern Pennsylvania. Apel will be responsible for developing, coordinating and planning education and training programs at this location.

In announcing the appointment, Edinboro President Frank G. Pogue noted Apel's experience in cooperative educational programs. "Don has worked closely with the local NTMA and school faculty over the years to bring technology programs into Meadville High School and in developing summer internships for students interested in entering technology and tooling careers. His leadership will be invaluable as Edinboro University continues to expand its educational offerings in Meadville and Crawford County."

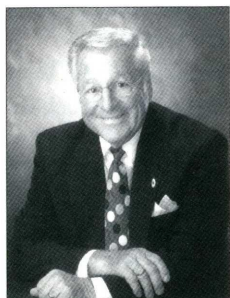

Prior to his appointment, Apel was the director of secondary guidance for the Crawford Central School District where he was employed for 33 years holding the positions of teacher, coach and guidance counselor. He has worked closely with the Meadville community and business leaders while serving on numerous community, school, and agency committees and advisory boards.

In his new position, Apel will have an opportunity to use his experience and knowledge of the community to continue making contributions to the educational development of the Meadville area.

He also has completed several courses in student personnel services and school administration at Edinboro.

Don resides in Meadville with his wife, Patty, a health and physical education teacher at Meadville High School.

John A. Pulice Appointed Trustee

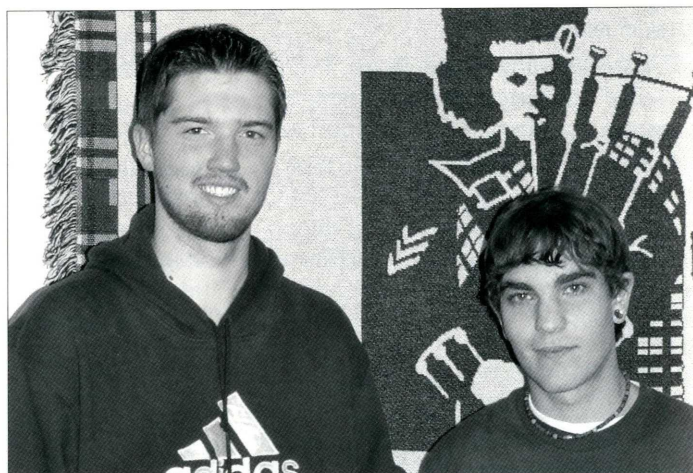

Pennsylvania Gov. Edward Rendell recently appointed Erie resident John A. Pulice to Edinboro University's Council of Trustees. Pulice is retired from his position as the Erie area manager for the Department of Revenue-Pennsylvania State Lottery. His appointment to the Council of Trustees was effective on September 21, 2004.

In his position for the Pennsylvania State Lottery, Pulice managed the revenue operations for ten counties in northwestern Pennsylvania which generate approximately $12 million in revenue annually.

A resident of Millcreek Township for more than 50 years, Pulice received an honorable discharge from the Korean War and later served in the United States Navy holding the position of first class ship serviceman from 1952 to 1954 and serving in the active reserve from 1955 to 1965.

For the past five years he has served as the Millcreek Planning and Zoning Commissioner. He was a member of the Millcreek School Board from 1980 to 1998, during which time he served as president, vice president, chairman of the budget committee, the finance committee, the instructional committee, and the personnel committee.

Trustees at Edinboro University and the other 13 institutions in the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education are nominated and appointed to six-year terms of office by the governor of the Commonwealth with the advice and consent of the State Senate.

STUDENT FILM COMPETITION

Film students Charles Santini of Erie and Chris LaFollette of Dansville, New York, are among ten finalists in "Film Your Issue" (FYI), a national college film competition. Supported by the American Democracy Project and the Association of American State Colleges and Universities, in addition to Rock the Vote, mtvU, Americans for the Arts and The Film Foundation, the contest selected the best short Public Service Announcements on issues facing society today. Santini and LaFollette's award-winning video, "Anti-Anti Smoking," moved on to the next step in the competition which involved public voting on the MSNBC Video website and subsequent voting by the VIP jury of Hollywood Filmmakers, including noted horror-film director Wes Craven.

Santini and LaFollette were among 30 Edinboro students in Dr. Frank Rybicki's advanced video production class who produced videos for the national competition.

PHIL WOODS

Friday, February 4

PHIL WOODS has had his own sound since the mid-1950s and stuck to his musical guns through a remarkably productive career. There has never been a doubt that he is one of the top alto saxophonists alive, and he has lost neither his enthusiasm nor his creativity through the years. Woods, himself, says "I'm so lucky to be a jazz musician!"

THE SECOND CITY

Wednesday, March 2

It all started in a converted Chinese laundry on Chicago's north side in 1959. No one could know that by the next century, the Second City would have established itself as the premier training ground for the comedy world's best and brightest, including Alan Arkin, Joan Rivers, Robert Klein, Peter Boyle, John Belushi, Dan Aykroyd, Bill Murray, Gilda Radner, George Wendt, Martin Short, John Candy, Shelley Long, Ryan Stiles, Chris Farley, Mike Myers, Rachel Dratch, Tina Fey and countless others.

No topic or subject matter is off limits – if your parents asked you not to speak about it at the dinner table, chances are it will be made fun of in an evening with The Second City.

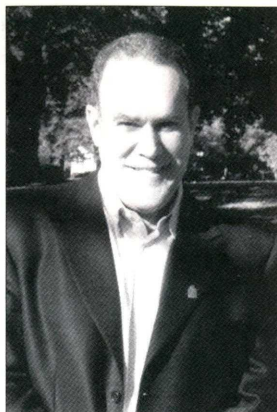

PERCUSSION GROUP CINCINNATI

Tuesday, April 26

In 1979, PERCUSSION GROUP CINCINNATI set out to awaken concert audiences to the dynamic aural and visual delights of a wider world of music. Since then, these "master musicians" have sparked the imaginations of audiences everywhere, using anything from amplified cactus needles, newspapers and garbage cans to the traditional sounds of drums, cymbals and bells from around the world. "Some of the most beautiful music . . . a performance of remarkable intensity and far wider range than the usual chamber music fare." – The Washington Post

A Letter from JEFF ABRAHAM

I was recently given the opportunity to speak at Edinboro University as a distinguished alumnus. As is typical, things got very hectic the week before, business-wise, and I contemplated having to cancel the trip. I am so glad that I made the time to spend that time at the "Boro".

I have talked a lot recently with other alumni who had contacted me after a feature was written in the Alumni News. I have met with some Edinboro friends who contacted me during trips to California, but nothing compares to touring the campus and driving through town. The difference between talking about it and seeing it is literally like watching conventional television versus high definition T.V. I hadn't set foot on the campus since my graduation day 25 years ago, and, although I have very fond memories of Edinboro, I didn't realize how much my time there meant until I returned. It is remarkable how much is virtually untouched. Although you realize once you enter each classroom and lecture hall and see how many terminals exist and how everything is now "wired," the external structures are unchanged and on a beautiful mid October afternoon, it was something to see.

I was wondering if places I lived were still there and what they would be called now. I went back on Darrow Road and went to drive by "Shetland 32." Low and behold it is still there and still Shetland 32. Seeing all the students coming in and out of the buildings it almost seemed like I had taken a nap and woken up, and, although the faces were different, nothing had changed. I was flooded with very warm feelings about a time that had somehow been filed away as a four-year blur that was "fun" and that I had enjoyed. Faces and names came to mind, and I realized in my rush to leave and get on with my life at graduation I hadn't savored what a truly relaxed and non-stressed period of my life that was.

I will attempt to make contact with some of those folks that came to mind during that visit. I will also remember each day from now on to try and recapture some of "those" days where enjoying the simple part of life mattered.

I heartily endorse any of you who haven't returned to make a point of it if you are in the area. You can still have lunch or dinner at the dinor, have a beer at the Boro or Hotel or go to the student union for a sandwich and video game or foosball. There is an alumni building on campus, and there are a lot of memories there in the basement. I am back in California enjoying my life but have a much brighter smile thinking about my four years at Edinboro.

EDINBORO RECEIVES FIVE-YEAR CFP BOARD-REGISTERED PROGRAM RENEWAL

Edinboro University's financial services curriculum in business administration and economics has received a five-year renewal from June 1, 2004 until May 31, 2009, with Certified Financial Planning Board of Standards Inc. (CFP Board). Graduates of a registered financial planning program meet the educational requirements to take the CFP® Certification Examination.

To earn the CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ certification, one must meet its educational standards, pass the CFP® Certification Examination, satisfy a work experience requirement and agree to abide by CFP Board's Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility and Financial Planning Practice Standards.

The financial services program at Edinboro is a concentration within the bachelor of science in business administration major. It is designed to prepare students for careers in investment planning and management in such fields as insurance, real estate, and securities and commodities investment.

In Edinboro's course of study, students learn principles of money and banking, tax accounting, investments, personal financial planning, retirement planning, risk management, estate planning and business law.

Edinboro University does not certify individuals to use the CFP® CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™, and CFP (with flame logo)® marks. CFP certification is granted solely by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards Inc. to individuals who, in addition to completing an educational requirement such as this CFP Board-Registered Program, have met its ethics, experience and examination requirements. Only persons registered with CFP Board are permitted to sit for the CFP® Certification Examination. Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards Inc. owns the marks CFP®, CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™, and CFP (with flame logo)®, which it awards to individuals who successfully complete initial and ongoing certification requirements.

For more information on Edinboro's program, call the Department of Business Administration and Economics at 814-732-2407.

DESIGN TEAM WINS AWARD

The University and College Designers Association (UCDA) selected Chimera, Edinboro's journal of literature and art, as a winning entry in its 34th Annual Design Competition. One of 199 winners selected from more than 1,300 entries, Chimera was on display at the 34th Annual UCDA Conference this fall in Vail, Colorado.

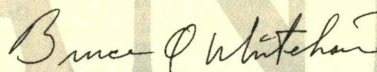

Chimera won in the category of student-published work. Supervised by faculty advisor Shelle Barron, the design team of Billy Dale and Justin DuBois created a design concept that comments on the exhaustion of decoration in this era.

This year's version of Chimera is scheduled for release during Arts Week on April 4, 2005.

Private support for Edinboro University continued to reach impressive levels in 2003-04, for which the entire Edinboro Family is extraordinarily grateful. During 2003-04, nearly 5,700 alumni, parents and other friends provided more than $2 million in contributions to support Edinboro University. Of this total, more than $1.2 million was designated for scholarships, capital improvements and academic programs, enabling the most motivated students to attend Edinboro in an environment that enhances their learning.

All of this generosity has helped to build the Campaign for Excellence, our multi-year effort to raise $10 million for Edinboro's capital and endowment needs. From our first $1 million gift from alumnus Louis C. Cole, to gifts received this year from members of the Class of 2008, the alumni and friends of Edinboro stepped forward to support the Campaign for Excellence. As of this writing, $9 million has been pledged as the campaign heads for home.

Only through the generosity of alumni, parents and other friends of Edinboro are we able to meet the needs and fulfill the mission of Edinboro University. We are pleased to recognize those individuals, corporations, foundations, and organizations that have helped strengthen Edinboro and its service to the community through their philanthropic support this past year.

"Words can't express how much I appreciate this honor and the financial assistance the donor has so generously offered to myself and other Edinboro students in his daughter's honor. Thank you! I truly appreciate this scholarship... it made my Christmas! I'm sure this is one Christmas gift I'll remember for the rest of my life. My mother passed away last January and I know she would have been so thrilled and honored for me! She always taught us it was better to give than to receive...but I'm not sure on this one....it was such a surprise and honor."

"I am writing to express a very sincere gratitude to you upon receiving this scholarship award. I transferred to Edinboro and followed what I truly wanted to follow – a passion. After making the move, I had the final feeling that I was following a life career. As I am paying for school myself this is quite a hardship. I was quite overjoyed to be able to cancel my loans for this year and finally concentrate on studies instead of worrying how much debt I am accruing. I am also very elated that my effort to keep a 4.0 throughout college has been rewarded, and this scholarship has given the motivation to continue this endeavor, when I had previously begun to be discouraged. After graduating from Edinboro, I plan on teaching and to then continue on to grad school. Thank you again for your kindness and generosity."

"I am currently a junior attending Edinboro University. I wish to extend to you my utmost appreciation for the financial aid that I have received through the Alumni Admissions Grant. It allows me to focus more on my studying and working at school rather than working on coming up with money so I have school to study at. I am majoring in animation here at Edinboro, the school has quite an impressive program and I really enjoy it. Again, my deepest thanks to you for your altruistic donations." - Zachary

"I am writing to express my sincere gratitude to you for providing me with extra financial help through the Early Childhood Education Scholarship. I can honestly tell you that I did not think that I would be able to continue to afford this major, but would have continued anyway. It has been the greatest gift to me that you have given. As an advocate for young children, this gift will continue to keep giving. The most precious gifts of both time and education, I promise, will be given to the children of today and for generations to come."

"This award has been very helpful to me as I pursue a degree in nursing. It has also provided an additional incentive to remain dedicated to my students. After graduation, I plan to work in the emergency room. My ultimate goal is to continue my education and achieve my CRNA. My return to school has allowed me to show the importance of school to my three children.

"I am writing this note to formally thank all of you for giving me the Music Department award for this year. I work very hard at my two jobs in the summer and over breaks to continue coming to school here and I greatly appreciate the help this award has given me this year. I love studying here at Edinboro and learning from the variety of faculty in the department. I feel that with the help and guidance of the wonderful faculty in the department, that I will be able to attain my goal of a doctorate degree someday in the future. Once again, thank you greatly for the award and I hope and aim to not let any of you down in your expectations of me."

"I can't thank you enough for the help you've given me. I work every chance I can and sometimes I come up short; so every kind of financial assistance is much appreciated. My parents are preparing to send my little sister to college as well, they certainly appreciate your gift as much as I do. You have blessed my life by helping me get through school, without your help I may not have had enough money for this semester." - Gillian

PEYRONEL PUBLISHES ARTICLE IN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Dr. Anthony Peyronel, a member of Edinboro's speech and communication studies department, published an article in the February 2004 issue of The Case International Journal of Educational Advancement. The article, titled "Media Scrutiny of Higher Education: An Ongoing Challenge and Long-Term Trend," builds on Peyronel's dissertation study that examined public relations management in the State System of Higher Education.

In the article, Peyronel dismisses the idea that negative media coverage of higher education is a new trend, pointing out that colleges and universities have been subjected to increasing levels of media scrutiny for the last 20 years. He recommends that college and university public relations professionals include media relations as part of their integrated marketing efforts.

Peyronel is program coordinator of the undergraduate programs in speech communication and broadcast journalism. He also serves as faculty advisor to the Edinboro University chapter of the Public Relations Student Society of America.

Edinboro University Faculty Member Receives National Science Foundation Grant

Edinboro professor Dr. Elisabeth Joyce was awarded a $31,360 grant from the National Science Foundation to study Human-Computer Interaction (HCI).

HCI is the study of how people interact with computers, how the computers make them feel and whether the computers' designs fit their physical, psychological and mental needs and capabilities. Considering the growing importance of computers in our everyday lives, HCI aims to make products more user-friendly.

Joyce's project, "Stickiness: Predicting Continued Participation in Newsgroups," will study what constitutes loyalty among members of online communities and how these communities are formed through the medium of computers. The NSF Grant will allow Joyce to expand her study and work with a broader sampling of communities and a larger database of statistics.

The National Science Foundation is an independent agency of the United States Government, created in 1950. The purpose of the Foundation is to promote progress in science, advance national health, prosperity and welfare and secure the national defense. The Foundation, located in North Arlington, Virginia, consists of 24 part-time members and a director. All are appointed by the President of the United States and approved by the Senate.

Edinboro Receives Record Amount in External Grants

Edinboro University received more than $2.5 million in externally funded grants during the 2003-04 fiscal year, making it the highest amount received in the history of the University. A total of 88 new and ongoing grant proposals and projects were awarded totaling $2,653,362, a 26 percent increase over the previous year's funding of $1,826,487.

"We are proud of this success as it exemplifies our efforts to assist the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in funding the University's aspirations" said President Pogue. "Our faculty and staff are committed to doing all that is possible to ensure that students have access to excellent programs, research opportunities, and related services."

"Edinboro University faculty and staff have worked tirelessly to secure extramural funding during the 2003-04 academic year," said Dr. Mary M. Bevevino, dean of graduate studies and research. "Their efforts and the results are both impressive and commendable."

Twelve grants were awarded from federal funding agencies totaling $920,456. Edinboro University received the largest number of external grants from state funding agencies – 37 in the amount of $1,207,275; and 20 grants in the amount of $425,631 were received from private funding agencies.

Federal grant dollars have allowed Edinboro to partner with other education institutions in bringing educational programming to elementary students and college students at Warren Elementary School, Edinboro University, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, and Slippery Rock University. Grants have enabled several rural and city high school students to participate in a variety of programs to enhance their studies while at the same time encouraging them to further their education in a post-secondary setting. Several faculty from Edinboro have also been awarded money for research, and a variety of concerts, lectures and conferences were held on campus that were funded by grants.

TRUSTEES RECOMMEND CONTRACT EXTENSION

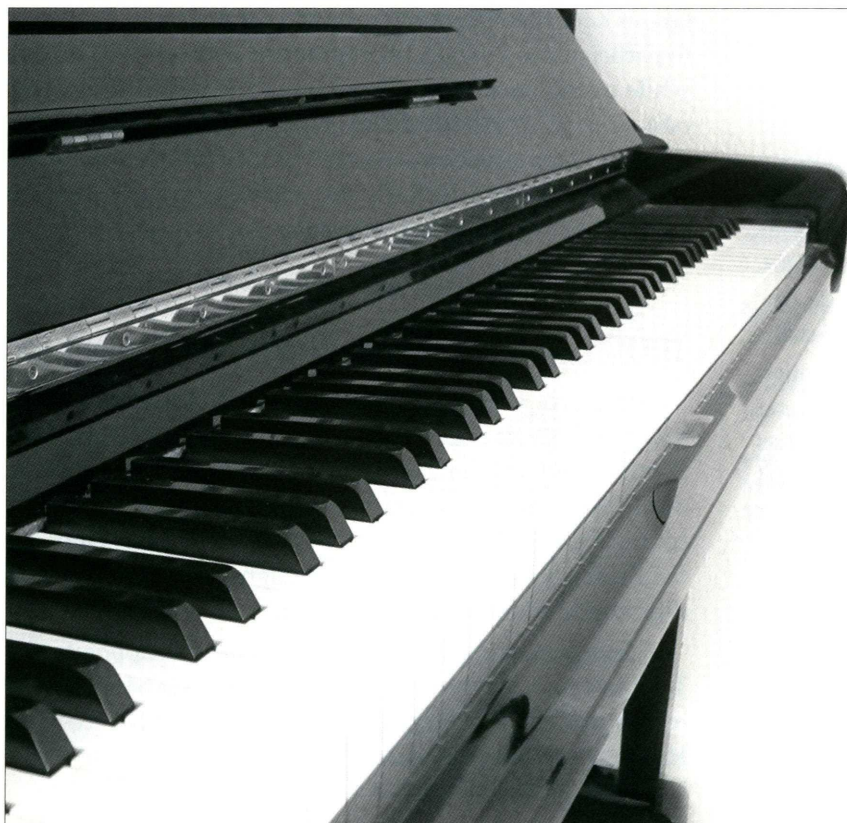

Edinboro University's Council of Trustees voted unanimously to recommend the extension of President Pogue's contract by one year to 2007. This vote came following the Trustees' annual review of presidential leadership that is conducted as called for in Act 188, the enabling legislation for the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education, and as directed by Board of Governors policy.

A four-person presidential review committee appointed by Trustee Chair Harry Thomas provided leadership for the review process. The committee was composed of Trustees John Horan, C. Richard Johnston, Jordan Ritter, and Catherine Manning, S.S.J., who served as chair.

Edinboro University Marks Record Graduate Enrollment

Edinboro University has set an all-time high enrollment in its graduate programs. Dr. Peg Bevevino, dean of graduate studies, said enrollment is at a record high 1,038 students. Bevevino credits a wider variety of graduate programs, five online programs, and greater outreach as reasons for continuing growth in the University's graduate programs.

This is the second year in a row Edinboro has had record enrollment in its graduate programs. Last year saw an increase of 20 percent from 2002. Edinboro's graduate studies program has students from 70 undergraduate institutions in 15 states and several countries.

New Graduate Programs Announced

Edinboro University is now offering several new graduate-level programs and alternative delivery methods for other successful campus-based graduate programs.

A new post-master's program has been developed for school administrators who wish to become a superintendent or assistant superintendent of a school district, or executive director of an Intermediate Unit. The program will lead students in the program to become qualified for Pennsylvania's Letter of Eligibility and is open to graduate students who have a Master of Education degree and hold a Pennsylvania principal or supervisor certificate.

The new program is being offered at Edinboro University in Erie – The Porreco Center and Edinboro University in Meadville. Graduate students can now enroll at Edinboro and transition seamlessly from the Master of Education in educational leadership to the post-master's program in K-12 principal certification, and finish with the new Letter of Eligibility program.

Speech and Communication Studies – The Department of Speech and Communication Studies is now offering a 12-credit Conflict Management Certificate program designed especially for those working in organizations and institutions where ongoing conflict or a crisis event impede the realization of goals and objectives and undermine productive relationship development internally and externally.

Elementary Education – The Instructional Technology Specialist I certification program was developed in response to an increasing demand to assist teachers and administrators in the integration of technology in the classrooms. The program provides a second certification to those candidates who already hold a teaching certificate. The program was designed to meet the needs of educators by providing instruction to students and teachers in the design of instructional strategies and their implementation and evaluation, adapting existing materials and assisting teachers in the design and production of original materials to meet specific instructional goals; and assisting administrators by providing pre-service programs for staff.

Professional Studies – In addition to the traditional campus-based offering of K-12 principal certification coursework, a post-master's certification program is also available online. Beginning in January 2005, the University will be offering the M.Ed. in Educational Leadership online.

Secondary Education – The Department of Secondary Education is pleased to announce the online Master of Education in Middle and Secondary Instruction, in addition to the traditional campus-based program. The online program was designed to incorporate the Behavior Management Certificate as part of the planned program of study. The inclusion of this certificate provides students with the opportunity for an area of concentration or specialization as part of the master's degree.

Special Education and School Psychology – The Department of Special Education and School Psychology began its third online Master of Education in Special Education cohort this past fall.

Editor's Note: We recently received a note from Dave Weinkauff, retired professor of animation.

Hi, I just thought you'd like to know I heard from two former students recently.

Two nights ago, Patrick Zentis ('89) called me from London to share some news with me. As you might remember, he was on campus meeting with several of you, making a presentation to the Cinema students and meeting with Mike [Genz] and I in my studio. At the time, he was on his way to London to work on Harry Potter and King Arthur. As it turned out, he didn't work on Harry Potter, but did a lot of work as a matte painter for King Arthur. He is currently working on concept drawings for a new film, Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy.

He also got engaged to be married since he was last here.

Dawn Lohmeyer ('94) e-mailed me from Detroit where she is a computer designer and animator for General Motors. Dawn animated the Titanic for the Discovery Channel and worked for animation companies in Pennsylvania and other states. She and Steve Carpenter were just about the only students working in 3D computer animation at Edinboro at the time. We've come a long way since then, haven't we? In any event, she tells me that General Motors plans to hire about 50 digital and clay sculptors in the near future.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON PARTY

"I had a great time – thanks for asking me!" was the response from most of the celebrity bartenders at the first "Total Eclipse of the Moon" party held at the Paper Moon restaurant in Erie. Close to $3,000 was raised for student scholarships through bartender tips and a Yankee auction.

Cyndy Patton, Rubye Jenkins-Husband and Bruce Baumgartner served as celebrity bartenders at the Edinboro fundraiser.

Dennis Ranalli must have served the best drinks, since he received the most money in tips!

FIGHTING SCOT STATUE UPDATE

Many of you have been inquiring about the progress of the Fighting Scot statue project....and rightly so. Begun in the spring of 2001, there have been a series of developments regarding the scope of the project. However, rest assured that the Fighting Scot statue will be installed on the Edinboro campus.

We began selling bricks and pavers as a way to introduce this project to alumni, students, employees and friends of Edinboro University. Soon after, prints of the proposed statue were made available, and several updates appeared in the Alumni News.

The latest development for funding includes utilizing a bond to enable the expansion of the University Center. (Details of the University Center expansion will appear in a future issue of the Edinboro News.) The Alumni Association would pay its share of the bond at no additional cost to the University Center project. Additionally, the two projects can be incorporated from an aesthetic standpoint and, possibly, at some reduced costs.

President Pogue recently stated that this is a big project that will become a symbol for many generations to come. The Alumni Association Board and Dr. Pogue are committed to seeing this project through to completion. It may take a little longer than originally expected, but you will see your bricks and pavers surrounding the larger-than-life Fighting Scot. You will also be notified when the project is completed and ready to be dedicated.

Thank you all for your support and patience. If you haven't purchased a brick or paver yet, please log on to <http://www.edinboro.edu/cwis/alumni/statue/index.html> or call the Alumni Office for a brochure.

SETH FRAGALE NAMED PSAC WEST DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Eleven Fighting Scots Named to All-PSAC West Football Squads

Seth Frangale

Justin Bouch

Justin Lipscomb

Greg Bzorek

A total of 11 Edinboro football players were named to the All-PSAC West teams. Edinboro currently has a 9-2 record after defeating Bentley, 47-44, in the first round of the NCAA Division II Northeast Regional on Saturday. The Fighting Scots finished with a share of the PSAC West crown for the second straight year.

Leading the Edinboro contingent was junior Seth Frangale who was recognized as the Defensive Player of the Year. Frangale is a 6'2", 217-lb. outside linebacker who leads the Fighting Scots with 92 tackles, including 11 for losses of 69 yards, with a team-high 5.5 sacks, a pair of interceptions and 2 fumble recoveries. He spearheads an Edinboro defense which ranks among the Division II leaders in rushing defense, giving up just 92.0 ypg. Frangale was a second team All-PSAC West choice a year ago.

In all, seven Fighting Scots were named to the first team. The aerial tandem of Justin Bouch and Justin Lipscomb were named to the first team for the second straight year. In addition, Greg Bzorek moved up from the second team to a spot on the first team, while Chris Kaczor and Chris Avery were named to the second team for the second consecutive season.

Bouch repeated as the first team quarterback. The 6'3", 200 lb. junior has completed 156 of 273 passes for 2,152 yards with 18 TDs and 10 INTs, adding 111 yards rushing and 2 TDs. He needs just 58 yards to set the single season record for yards passing, and 33 yards in total offense for the single season total offense standard. Bouch ranks third in career passing yards with 5,376 yards.

Lipscomb, a 6'0", 190 lb. junior wide receiver, has tied the school record for receptions with 50, good for 735 yards and 8 TDs. He has caught at least one pass in 33 straight games, and like Bouch ranks highly in the career statistics. Lipscomb is fifth in career receptions (112), third in career yards receiving (1,932), and fourth in career TD receptions (16).

Andre Burke rounds out the contingent of Edinboro's offensive players on the first team. The 5'10", 205 lb. junior is a finalist for the Harlon Hill Trophy and is nearing Edinboro's season rushing record. He has rushed for 1,675 yards on 274 carries with 18 TDs. He needs 24 yards to set the season rushing record currently held by Gerald Thompson with 1,698 yards, while also ranking second in rushing touchdowns and tied for third in carries. Burke has topped the 100-yard mark in eight games this season, including three straight games with 200-or-more yards.

On the defensive side, sophomore A.J. Cousins earned a spot on the first team in his first season as a starter. The 6'1", 270 lb. noseguard has 47 tackles, with 8 for losses of 26 yards, and 4 sacks.

The seventh Edinboro player voted to the first team is placekicker Kody Robertson. The sophomore has made 11 of 13 field goals and 43 of 46 extra points for 76 points. His 11 field goals are tied for third on the season charts.

Bzorek and Kaczor have paced an Edinboro offensive line which has been outstanding this season after losing two All-Americans from a year ago. The 6'6", 318 lb. Bzorek is in his second year as the starter at right tackle and in his third season as a starter, starting in 34 of 35 games. Kaczor was named to the second team while playing left guard a year ago, and this season moved to center. He has started all 23 games in his career. The duo has helped Edinboro average 206.5 ypg. on the ground while allowing just 8 sacks. The line has only given up three sacks in the last eight games.

In addition to Kaczor, three other Fighting Scots were named to the second team, all on defense. Even more encouraging for the Fighting Scots, two are redshirt freshman. Chris Amico is a 6'0", 250 lb. redshirt freshman who has started all 11 games at defensive tackle. He leads the Edinboro interior linemen with 48 tackles, and is also tops on the squad with 12 tackles for losses of 62 yards. He ranks second with 4.5 sacks.

Two members of the secondary – both ranked among the Division II leaders in interceptions – complete the Edinboro honorees. Avery is a repeat performer, ranking second on the team with 6 interceptions and tied for the team lead with 5 passes broken up. The 5'9", 175 lb. junior cornerback has 37 tackles. He's joined by 6'1", 184 lb. redshirt freshman Tom Davidson. Davidson took over at free safety in the first game after All-American Raji El-Amin went down with an injury. He has proceeded to come up with 8 interceptions, one shy of El-Amin's school record of 9 set a year ago, for 117 yards and a touchdown. Davidson also has 31 tackles.

"In all, seven Fighting Scots were named to the first team."

ASHLEY PULMAN NAMED PSAC WEST WOMEN'S SOCCER ROOKIE OF THE YEAR

Edinboro women's soccer coach Gary Kagiavas suffered through his first losing season since 1998, as his Fighting Scots finished with a 6-9-3 record. Despite four losses and a tie in the final six contests, Kagiavas liked what he saw in his young Fighting Scots, and apparently the rest of the PSAC coaches agreed.

Three Edinboro players were named to the 2004 All-PSAC West Women's Soccer Teams. Ashley Pulman landed a spot on the first team, and was also recognized as the Rookie of the Year. She is the first Fighting Scot player to win one of the PSAC's major awards. Elise Falatach, like Pulman a freshman, landed a spot on the second team along with junior Kathy Lantzy.

Pulman, a midfielder/forward, was a highly-regarded recruit a year ago who was forced to sit out the 2003 season after undergoing knee surgery during the summer. She was well worth the wait, leading the Fighting Scots with 5 goals and 6 assists for 16 points.

Falatach played in the midfield, as well. She finished as the third-leading scorer with 3 goals and 4 assists for 10 points. Lantzy is a defender who helped the Fighting Scots play solid defense. She keyed a defense which recorded five shutouts and gave up just 25 goals.

FOOTBALL, SOCCER PLAYERS RECOGNIZED AS DISTRICT ACADEMIC ALL-AMERICANS

A total of five Edinboro University athletes were recognized by CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America) as District II Academic All-Americans. The list included three football players and two members of the women's soccer team.

For the football team, junior outside linebacker Seth Fragale was named to the CoSIDA District II Academic All-America College Division Football first team, while junior tight end Nate Eimer and sophomore center Chris Kaczor were selected to the second team. Fragale now goes on the national ballot, with the Division II Academic All-America team announced on December 1.

Junior defender Becky Hostettler was named to the CoSIDA District II Academic All-America College Division Women's Soccer second team, while junior midfielder Kathy Lantzy was selected to the third team.

Voting was conducted among members of the College Sports Information Directors of America for District II, comprising New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

WRESTLING TEAM HIGHLY-RANKED ENTERING 2004-05 SEASON

Yetzer, Bunch and Hennis Among Ranked Individuals

The Edinboro University wrestling team entered the 2004-05 season ranking as one of the top teams in the country. The Fighting Scots are ranked 19th in the NWCA/InterMat NCAA Division I Coaches Preseason Poll, while W.I.N. Magazine lists Edinboro 20th and The Wrestling Mall 22nd.

Edinboro finished the 2003-04 season with a 10-3 record, tying West Virginia for first place at the Eastern Wrestling League Tournament and winning the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference crown. The Fighting Scots went on to finish 24th at the NCAA Division I National Championships.

In addition to the team rankings, a number of individuals rank among the national leaders in their respective weight classes. Leading the way is Nate Yetzer. The senior wrestled at 174 lbs. a year ago, finishing with a 37-6 record and earning All-American honors with an eighth place finish. He moves down to 165 lbs. this year, with head coach Tim Flynn seeing him as a contender for the national championship. A year ago Matt King finished third at 165 lbs.

Yetzer is ranked fifth by InterMat, is sixth in the Amateur Wrestling News rankings, fourth according to W.I.N. Magazine, and is sixth in The Wrestling Mall poll, but at 174 lbs.

Shawn Bunch was redshirted a year ago and now returns seeking his third trip to Nationals. Bunch fell one win shy of All-American honors at 125 lbs. as a freshman, then lost two of three matches as a sophomore at 133 lbs. He is expected to challenge for All-American honors this year at 133 lbs., and is ranked seventh by InterMat and tenth by Amateur Wrestling News. W.I.N. Magazine has Bunch ranked seventh in its preseason poll, while The Wrestling Mall has him 11th. Bunch was 30-14 as a sophomore.

Heavyweight Joe Hennis made his first trip to Nationals a year ago. He lost both of his matches to finish 27-12. Hennis is ranked 18th in the InterMat poll, 19th by Amateur Wrestling News, 20th by The Wrestling Mall, and 17th by W.I.N. Magazine.

Eric Ring and Deonte Penn also appear in the national rankings, although in both instances that will change. Ring, a junior who was 11-15 a year ago while competing at 157 lbs., jumps up two weight classes to 174 lbs. W.I.N. Magazine has him ranked 20th at 157 lbs. Penn made his first trip to Nationals a year ago at 149 lbs., ending the year with a 27-13 record. A junior, he will redshirt this season while competing at 165 lbs. in open tournaments. Penn shows up in The Wrestling Mall rankings in the 20th position at 149 lbs.

JAKIM DONALDSON EARNS STREET & SMITH PRESEASON ALL-AMERICAN HONORS

Senior Forward Named to Honorable Mention Team

Edinboro's Jakim Donaldson was named to the Street & Smith's 2004 College Basketball Preview All-American Team. The 6'8", 200 lb. forward was accorded preseason honorable mention All-American honors. He is the only player from the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference to earn All-American honors.

Donaldson helped Edinboro to a 14-14 finish a year ago, but the Fighting Scots finished second in the PSAC West with an 8-4 ledger. He earned first team All-PSAC West honors for the second straight year, was an all-region choice, and was a second team Daktronics Division II All-East Region choice.

The senior averaged a double-double for the second straight year at 14.8 ppg. and 11.5 ppg.. He led the PSAC in rebounding while finishing second nationally, and was eighth in the PSAC in scoring and 11th in field goal percentage (51.5 pct.). In addition, he blocked 62 shots a year ago, good for second in the conference and 14th in Division II. All told, Donaldson finished with a PSAC-leading 17 double-doubles.

ANDRE BURKE ONE OF 26 CANDIDATES FOR HARLAN HILL TROPHY

Edinboro University tailback Andre Burke has been named one of six Northeast Regional finalists for the Harlan Hill Trophy as the NCAA Division II College Football Player of the Year. Burke is one of 26 candidates still in the running for Division II's equivalent of the Heisman Trophy.

Head coach Lou Tepper was pleased that Burke was gaining the recognition he deserves. "Andre's made a dramatic impact on our season," related Tepper. "His combination of balance, acceleration, strength and humility I think are very rare."

Burke has been one of the true success stories of 2004. The 5'10", 205 lb. junior had not played football prior to this year, attending California (Pa.) for a year but not playing for the Vulcans, then attending a junior college before joining Edinboro a year ago. He sat out the 2003 season, and while coming out of spring practices as the starter at tailback, head coach Lou Tepper and his staff weren't sure what they had.

All Burke has done is enjoy one of the greatest seasons ever by an Edinboro back. He ranks eighth in Division II in rushing with 1,675 yards on 274 carries with 18 TDs. Those numbers also put him in 15th in scoring and tied for 17th in all-purpose yardage. He has moved within 24 yards of breaking Gerald Thompson's single-season rushing record of 1,698 yards.

DELIBERATO SETS SCHOOL RECORD FOR CAREER DIGS

Senior Marissa DeLiberato was one of the bright spots for a young Edinboro University volleyball team that suffered its first losing season since 1995. The Fighting Scots finished the season with a 13-19 record, but along the way DeLiberato set school records for digs in a season and a career.

The 5'7" DeLiberato had 664 digs for the season, including 35 against Mercyhurst. The latter figure set a new standard for a four-game match and was just one dig shy of the record for all matches. Her season dig total broke the previous record of 568 held by Stephanie Burner. DeLiberato also broke Burner's career record for digs, as well, finishing with 1,722. Burner had held the record with 1,707.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM PICKED THIRD IN PSAC WEST PRESEASON POLL

The Edinboro University women's basketball team was picked for third place in the 2004-05 Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference Western Division Coaches preseason poll. The Fighting Scots finished the 2003-04 season with an 18-10 record, and were third in the Western Division with a 6-6 ledger.

To no one's surprise, defending national champion California (Pa.) was the preseason favorite with three starters returning.

Edinboro returns two players who started all 28 games a year ago, and head coach Stan Swank will also welcome back a pair of guards who missed considerable time due to injury. Maria DiVecchio enters her third season as a starter. She'll start at forward along with Megan Zitner, who is now fully recovered from a knee injury that forced her to miss the 2002-03 season.

Senior Jodi Calderone missed the entire PSAC West portion of the season a year ago due to a broken hand. The 5'5" guard is a strong defender and the team's top three-point threat. Junior Callie Iorfido takes over at point guard for Courtney Thompson. She ranked among the PSAC leaders in assists (100), steals (57) and assist-turnover ratio (100-56).

Junior guard Jessi Montie is sure to see plenty of playing time after averaging 7.0 ppg. last year. The guard corps is further bolstered with the addition of Calderone's sister, Kelly. A transfer from the University at Buffalo, the 5'8" sophomore is another strong outside shooter who averaged 5.1 ppg. with 18 three-pointers a year ago.

Edinboro opened the 2004-05 campaign on Friday, November 19, in the Millersville Classic.

MEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM PICKED THIRD IN PSAC WEST PRESEASON POLL

Donaldson, Sims Named To All-PSAC West Preseason Team

The Edinboro men's basketball team was picked for third place in the 2004-05 Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference Western Division Coaches Preseason Poll. The Fighting Scots finished with a 14-14 record last season and were second in the Western Division with an 8-4 ledger.

Edinboro returns three starters, led by two-time All-PSAC West first team performer Jakim Donaldson. The 6'8" senior forward averaged a double-double for the second straight year at 14.8 ppg. and 11.5 rpg. Donaldson led the PSAC in rebounding and ranked second in Division II. He also ranked second in the PSAC in blocked shots with 62. Donaldson was chosen a Street & Smith's preseason honorable mention All-American. He stands ninth in career rebounds with 694, is fifth in career blocked shots with 133, and 31st in career scoring (850).

Donaldson and teammate Rob Sims were named to the All-PSAC West Preseason Team. Sims, a 6'3" guard, was a first team All-PSAC West choice two years ago and earned second team accolades a year ago. The senior averaged 14.4 ppg. while battling a season-long shooting slump. He added 4.8 rpg. with 59 assists. As a sophomore Sims averaged 17.0 ppg.

Dan Grabill returns alongside Sims in the backcourt. A 5'10" junior, Grabill averaged 8.2 ppg. with a team-leading 45 three-pointers after sitting out the 2002-03 season. He also paced the Scots with 65 assists.

The Fighting Scots should benefit greatly from the addition of three transfers. Torry Mitchell and Chris Ravello transferred from Mercyhurst and Canisius, respectively, and will bolster the backcourt. Mitchell is a 5'10" junior who averaged 6.3 ppg. a year ago for the Lakers, but as a freshman was at 14.1 ppg. with 70 three-pointers. Ravello is a 6'3" junior who sat out the 2003-04 campaign. A strong defensive performer, he averaged 4.1 ppg. for the Griffs as a sophomore but may need some time to shake off the rust.

Another player who may battle court rust is Daren Tielsch, a 6'8", 235 lb. junior who began his career at Penn State, then played one game at Robert Morris a year ago. Tielsch averaged 4.0 ppg. and 3.4 rpg. in x28 for the Nittany Lions in 2001-02.

Edinboro opened the 2004-05 campaign on Saturday, November 13, playing at West Virginia Wesleyan.

FIGHTING SCOTS ADVANCE IN NCAA PLAYOFFS WITH WIN AT BENTLEY

Suffer Heartbreaking Loss At East Stroudsburg

What a difference a week can make. The Edinboro University football team, selected for the NCAA Division II Playoffs for the second straight year, found that out the hard way in the Northeast Regional semifinal game. The Fighting Scots came up with a late defensive stand to stave off Bentley, 47-44, in the first round of the playoffs. But in week number two, events didn't go Edinboro's way, as East Stroudsburg's Mike Terwilliger completed a 17-yard touchdown pass to Ben Culver on a 4th-and-10 play to give the Warriors a 36-32 win over Edinboro.

For Edinboro, the playoff drama unfolded just after 1 p.m. on Sunday, November 6, with the announcement of the NCAA Division II Playoff field on ESPNNews. There was Edinboro, listed as the sixth seed in the Northeast Region, set to play at third-seeded Bentley. It was everything head coach Lou Tepper could have hoped for. A second consecutive trip to the NCAA Playoffs and a trip long enough to require a plane flight to Waltham, Massachusetts.

Even Tepper wasn't prepared for what came next. First was approximately a five-inch snowfall that fell on the Boston suburb. With an artificial surface, Bentley Field was in perfect shape for the game, although temperatures in the mid-30s and a strong wind would factor into the contest. Second was a shootout that would leave the defensive strategist shaking his head.

The first half featured an incredible ebb and flow, with the score tied at 34-34 at intermission. The second quarter alone saw 47 points scored, with an average of one touchdown every two minutes. At one point the two teams lit the scoreboard on seven of eight possessions. The statistics were as incredible as the score. The two teams combined for 722 total yards. Bentley's standout quarterback, Marc Eddy, threw for 383 yards in the first 30 minutes.

When Bentley intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown on the first play of the second half, things didn't look good for the Fighting Scots, trailing for the first time, 41-34. But the Edinboro defense stepped up in the second half and limited the Falcons to just a third quarter field goal the rest of the half. Edinboro answered the Bentley interception return with a two-yard TD run by Matt Phillips to tie the score.

Edinboro scored the winning touchdown on a 23-yard pass from Justin Bouch to Nate Eimer with 5:26 to play. The Fighting Scots forced two more fumbles after that, but Bentley still had one final chance to score with just over two minutes remaining. The Falcons drove to the Edinboro 33, and it wasn't until a blitzing Brandon Banas harried Eddy into an incomplete pass on fourth down that the Fighting Scots could celebrate their first playoff win since 1990.

As luck would have it, it would be Banas who figured as the centerpiece in the second game, as well. While there was no snow in East Stroudsburg, a light rain and cool temperatures left the field slick, but the Warrior offense didn't seem to mind. Working behind Terwilliger, the PSAC East Player of the Year for the second straight season, Stroudsburg piled up 474 yards in total offense, but it was the final 29 that hurt the Scots the most.

Leading 32-29 with less than three minutes to play, Edinboro was forced to punt. Culver returned the punt 36 yards to the Edinboro 40. The Scot defense stiffened, and East Stroudsburg eventually faced a 4th-and-11 from the 29 with a minute to play. Pressured, Terwilliger threw up a prayer which was answered. As he was being hauled down from behind, the ball went through Banas' hands, hit his shoulder pad and bounced over his head, with Warrior wide receiver Evan Prall catching the ball while on his back at the 17.

East Stroudsburg had new life and four fresh downs, but the first three resulted in incomplete passes. After having three kicks blocked during the day, Stroudsburg head coach Denny Douds eschewed a game-tying field goal and instead went for it on 4th-and-10. Terwilliger scrambled free and hit Culver with a 17-yard TD pass with 22 seconds left.

Despite the loss, Edinboro enjoyed a record-tying and breaking season. The Fighting Scots have now recorded back-to-back 9-3 campaigns, tying the record for wins in a season and also matching the standard for victories in a two-year period.

Individually, Andre Burke shattered the single-season rushing record with 1,713 yards. He was well on his way to another big day when he suffered an injury late in the first quarter of the East Stroudsburg game and did not return. Justin Bouch passed for a season-record 2,281 yards, and his leading receiver, Justin Lipscomb, set a new season record for receptions with 53.

The Sixth Annual Frank G. Pogue Honors Scholarship Luncheon

Former Supreme Allied Commander
General Wesley K. Clark

General Wesley K. Clark retired as one of the nation's most highly decorated military officers since General Dwight D. Eisenhower. His leadership experiences have taken him from Vietnam to Latin America and ultimately to the position of NATO's Supreme Allied Commander, where he led a unified force to victory in NATO's first major combat action. Clark commanded all NATO forces to success in the important Kosovo conflict, saving 1.5 million Albanians from ethnic cleansing without a single Allied casualty.

During the second Gulf War, Clark was seen frequently on all the major news networks, providing expert commentary on the occupation of Iraq, the war on terrorism and American foreign policy. He is the author of the Washington Post best seller, Waging Modern War, which recounts his experience leading NATO's forces to a victory in Kosovo. Since September 11, 2001, it has become clear that the lessons of Kosovo are directly applicable to the war against terrorism and the nations that sponsor it. As the Los Angeles Times noted, now more than ever this book's "lessons are highly relevant... Gen. Clark has performed another service by highlighting [the] problems at a crucial moment in American history." Clark's latest book is Winning Modern Wars, a thoughtful critique of U.S. geo-strategy and a gripping narrative of events in the world's most modern theater of war.
