ACADEMY HALL

Academy Hall, completed in the fall of 1857, was regarded as one of the finest structures of the period. It measured 40 by 50 feet with two wings, 10 by 24 feet, for entrances and stairways. The six rooms were well arranged for light, heat and ventilation.

In its original location, the building, set back 150 feet from Meadville Street, was nestled among stately pines, oak and maple trees.

In 1880, the Building Committee completed its recommendation for repairing and remodeling existing buildings and the erection of an additional classroom building – on the lot where Academy Hall stood. To accomplish this, the building had to be moved. During the spring of that year, wide-eyed youngsters watched and adult sidewalk superintendents offered advice as old Academy Hall was raised by crude jacks and huge hand-cut logs were carefully placed under the structure. Strong rope cables were attached to the building, and the strange cargo was then harnessed to a team of draught horses. Slowly and cautiously, the team pulled the structure around Normal Hall to rest in its current location. While most youngsters were content in their role as spectators, several others jumped aboard and rode the building to its destination.

PRESIDENTS' MESSAGES

The start of fall semester at Edinboro University also marks the start of our year-long Sesquicentennial celebration. Our 150th anniversary year is becoming one of the busiest construction years in the University's history. No less than five major construction projects have been taking place this year, with one to soon follow.

The University Center is in the midst of an expansion that will nearly double its size. Between the U.C. and McComb Fieldhouse, the plaza that will be the permanent site of the Fighting Scot statue is nearing completion. The named bricks purchased by hundreds of friends and alumni for the site are now in place.

On the other side of campus, Academy Hall is nearing completion of a wonderful restoration project that is transforming our original building into a showcase for visitors to the University. Right next door, a new state-of-the-art music building is rising behind the former music building, Heather Hall. A new parking lot has been completed immediately behind Reeder Hall, replacing the smaller lot behind Doucette Hall which has been converted into green space. And next year, construction is expected to start on the Institute for Human Services and Civility.

All of these projects are taking place to accommodate the needs and expectations of our students today and for years to come. While the construction is creating some temporary inconvenience, these works will result in long-lasting, permanent improvements to the University campus.

Over the past few years, nearly every aspect of the University has been upgraded. Hamilton Hall and residence halls Rose, Dearborn and Earp have been completely remodeled. The old Crawford Gym has been remodeled and expanded to become the Crawford Center for Health & Physical Education and Disability Resources. Memorial Auditorium has been refurbished to become the Louis C. Cole Auditorium – Memorial Hall. The R. Benjamin Wiley Arts & Sciences Center and the new East Hall have been constructed. Baron-Forness Library has been expanded and improved, and many other upgrades have been made to the campus infrastructure.

All of these improvements to our facilities are taking place to match the continuous improvements to our academic offerings. We continue to hire the highest qualified faculty to complement our already outstanding educators. We have added new degree and certificate programs in women's studies, Latin American studies and in palliative care. In addition to our recent re-accreditations from Middle States and NCATE, we are actively pursuing accreditations for our individual academic departments.

All of these projects – facilities and academics – are being done with one objective in mind: to position the University to support our students to become outstanding leaders in their fields in the 21st century.

I hope you will enjoy this issue of the Edinboro News.

Frank G. Pogue
President, Edinboro University

Edinboro University has reached an important milestone – the Sesquicentennial anniversary of our establishment. It is an anniversary not many American universities have achieved.

In 1857, only 81 years after this country became an independent nation, and 70 years after Pennsylvania achieved statehood, the Edinboro Academy was established. The role of that forerunner of Edinboro University was to educate young people who would help civilize the frontier of Pennsylvania.

Thanks to our founders, we embraced the liberal arts approach that has remained throughout our history.

Our institution has been known by various names and has had a variety of missions over the past 150 years. Throughout the changes, Edinboro University has been willing to accept its role as a leader in higher education and adapt successfully to 'new' times.

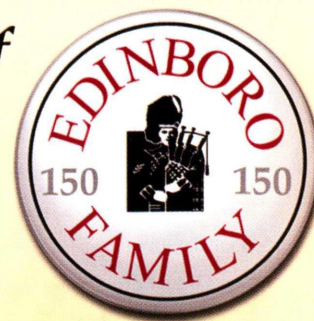

As we celebrate one of the most important years in the history of our alma mater, our goal is to use the Sesquicentennial to strengthen our relations with alumni. The 2006-2007 academic year will be the perfect occasion to enhance that relationship. This is a birthday for all of us.

Please join us for the many special events and observances that will mark our Sesquicentennial celebration, and we look forward to sharing this special time with you.

The Sesquicentennial

Celebrating 150 years of Academic Excellence

During a luncheon on Founder's Day, September 15, 2006, the University paid tribute to the families of those individuals for whom our campus buildings and landmarks were named. Featured here are just a few of those people.

BARON-FORNESS LIBRARY

Established 1976

"What greater honor could fall to any individual than to have the center of the academic community named for you?"

The rhetorical query, posed by author Russell Vance in his authoritative and comprehensive, A Portrait of Edinboro, 1876-1976, referenced not simply one individual, but two: Justina Baron and Mildred Forness.

The two women, who dedicated their lives to serving Edinboro students as librarians during the early days of Edinboro State Normal School, could not have imagined technological advances that decades later would influence monumental changes in library science.

In 1976, the largest and most comprehensive library facility in northwestern Pennsylvania was built at a cost of $3.5 million and dedicated to honor the two librarians who were so much a part of the University. Today, a seven-story state-of-the-art research facility, complete with computerized databases linking the library with state and national information hubs, Baron-Forness Library houses nearly a half million bound volume equivalents and 300 linear feet of archival material.

In 2005, the University completed major renovations, including architectural and access enhancements.

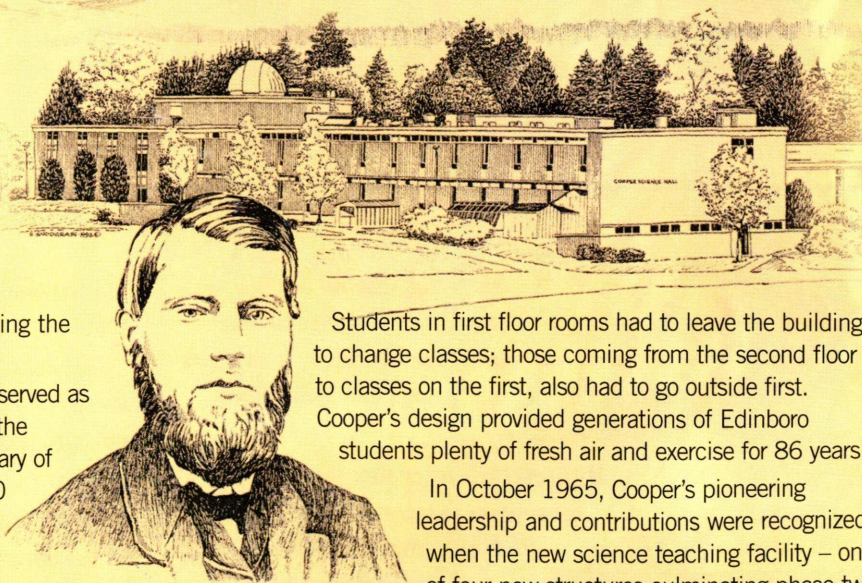

COOPER HALL

Constructed 1965

During those tenuous, often contentious early days of Northwestern State Normal School at Edinboro, historians credit Joseph Aldrich Cooper as, by far, the most important figure in putting the institution on a firm administrative and academic foundation, setting the tone for the academic excellence to come.

In 1863, the Board of Trustees elected Cooper – who served as vice principal since his arrival in Edinboro in 1861 – as the school's third principal. Initially hired for the unusual salary of one dollar for each student per term, not to exceed $200 annually, he supplemented his income raising hogs and hatching chickens. Within several years, however, he was pulling down a respectable salary of $1,200 as principal.

Cooper hit the ground running, first rebuilding a faculty greatly depleted by the Civil War, then tending to the school's academic and financial needs. By 1880, Cooper's ingenuity and innovative spirit were evident when he designed a new brick building to comply with his belief that students should get exercise and fresh air between classes. His new two-storied building, opened that November and later called Recitation Hall, contained first floor classrooms that could be entered only through outside doors.

Students in first floor rooms had to leave the building to change classes; those coming from the second floor to classes on the first, also had to go outside first. Cooper's design provided generations of Edinboro students plenty of fresh air and exercise for 86 years!

In October 1965, Cooper's pioneering leadership and contributions were recognized when the new science teaching facility – one of four new structures culminating phase two of Edinboro's master plan for expansion – was named Cooper Hall.

Constructed for $692,000, today Cooper Hall continues to house departmental offices for various science faculty, lecture halls and classrooms, as well as the planetarium, observatory, instructional laboratories and a greenhouse. Extensive interior renovations were completed subsequent to the 1986-89 capital campaign, and plans are now underway for another major renovation and expansion, ensuring Cooper Hall's future as a state-of-the-art facility for teaching the physical sciences.

DOUCETTE HALL

Constructed 1973

Aimé Doucette was flamboyant!

Dressed in the fashion of the day, wearing a straw hat, Aimé H. Doucette's arrival in 1923 took Edinboro State Normal School and the town by storm. Joining Waldo Bates to become the second member of the small Art Department that Professor Doucette would live to see become internationally famous, he worked his artistic magic at Edinboro for 38 years.

Professor Doucette retired in 1960, but returned for an additional year to serve as acting chairman of the Art Department.

In 1971, Haven Hall – a women's dormitory constructed in the early 1900s – was demolished to make room for a modern classroom building. The structure, completed in 1973 for $1.7 million, was dedicated in 1974 to Aimé Doucette for his many years of leadership.

The structure now accommodates the Art Department, with its studios, offices, animation and art laboratories and classrooms, and the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science.

Bruce Gallery, which houses the University's permanent art collections and hosts local, regional and national art exhibitions, is appropriately situated in the building named for the flamboyant and beloved Aimé Doucette.

CRAWFORD CENTER FOR HEALTH & PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND DISABILITY RESOURCES

Established 1940

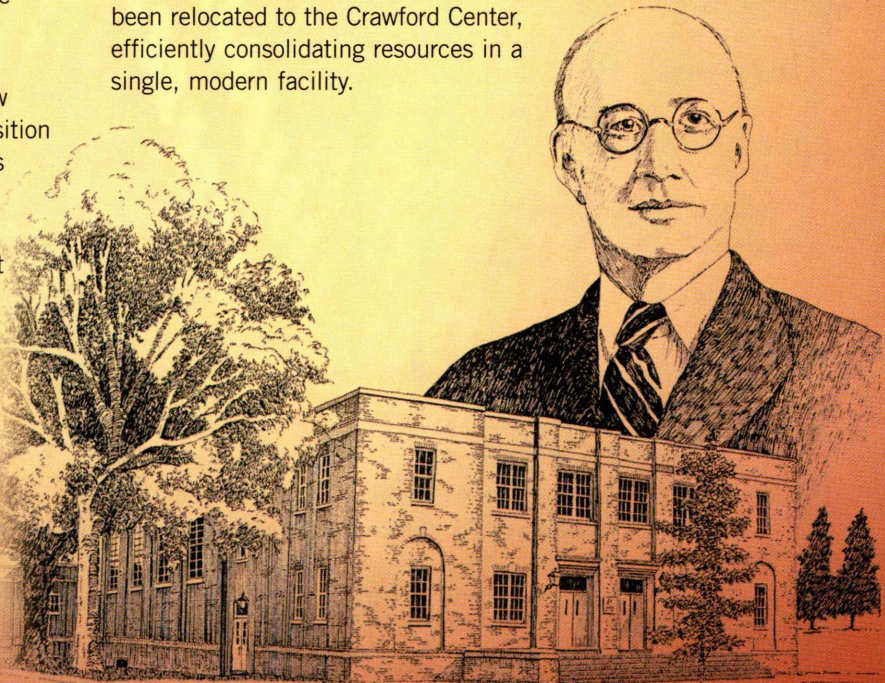

By all accounts, Clarence C. Crawford was one of Edinboro's most admired administrators during the first half of the 20th century. After only four years, when then Principal Arthur G. Crane resigned in 1922 to become president of Wyoming University, Dr. Crawford was named the Normal School's ninth principal and, before the end of that decade, Edinboro State Teachers College's first president.

Respected by faculty and students alike as a scholar and administrator, it was Crawford who led the school to the new horizon of college status, then directed Edinboro in its transition from normal school to degree-granting institution, as well as through major curricular changes and building projects.

Failing health forced his resignation from office in 1934, but he continued to teach social studies until his retirement in 1940. Former students and faculty members, understanding Crawford's use of personal funds to help them survive the Depression had deprived him from participating in the Teachers Retirement Fund, raised $4,000 to provide the former president with $137 monthly pension.

What's more, in 1940, recognizing President Crawford's contributions on so many levels, the college dedicated its new, $242,000 gymnasium in his honor. The building was the sole campus gymnasium for 30 years until McComb Fieldhouse was completed in 1970.

Crawford Gym, now called the Crawford Center for Health & Physical Education and Disability Resources, underwent an extensive renovation and expansion program that was completed in 2002. The building currently houses an enhanced gymnasium and physical education facility used by the Health and Physical Education Department and the Office for Students with Disabilities. Department offices have been relocated to the Crawford Center, efficiently consolidating resources in a single, modern facility.

GHERING HEALTH AND WELLNESS CENTER

Constructed 1968

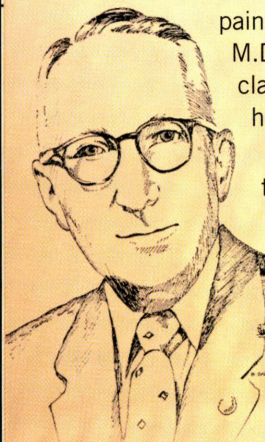

Measles, mumps, chicken pox, influenza, aches and pains and strains and sprains: The brothers Ghering, M.D.s – Harold A. and Boyd W. – helped keep 27 classes of Edinboro students and faculty members healthy and above the weather.

The two brothers, both Edinboro grads themselves, cared for the medical needs of the Edinboro family from 1932 to 1959, treating ailments from headaches and the common cold to garden variety illnesses of the day that sometimes mandated quarantine.

Harold A. Ghering was the college physician from 1932 until he retired in 1953. Boyd W. Ghering filled the position and remained until 1959. The brothers also ran a private hospital on Meadville Street from 1925 to 1937.

Built in 1968 for $365,196, today the Ghering Health and Wellness Center serves as the campus health care facility, with a fully-equipped outpatient treatment clinic and a five-bed capacity. Interior renovations were completed in 2001 to create a “one-stop shop” for student health and wellness services, including counseling and psychological services.

EDINBORO UNIVERSITY IN ERIE – THE PORRECO CENTER

Established 1988

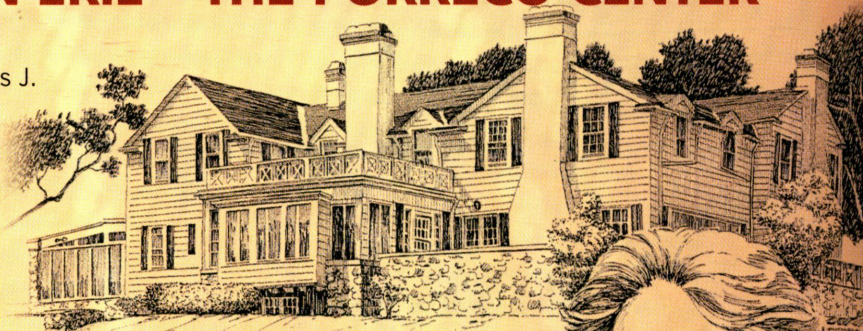

From humble beginnings on Erie's lower east side, Louis J. Porreco rose to become one of Erie's most respected entrepreneurs. Despite his success in business and as a community leader, Mr. Porreco never forgot the value of education instilled in him by his beloved aunt, Mary Porreco, a two-time Edinboro graduate who not only raised young Louis, but a woman who dedicated her life to teaching and public education in Erie for more than 40 years.

Fulfilling a lifelong ambition to honor his Aunt Mary, in 1986 Mr. Porreco donated his 27-acre pastoral estate to Edinboro University.

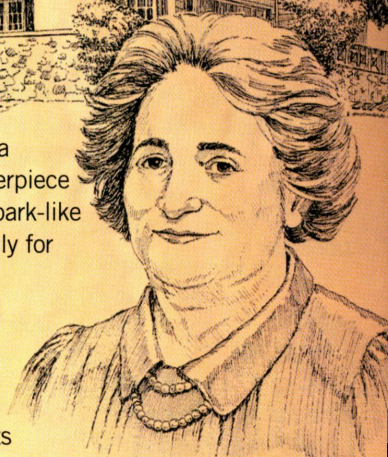

The original estate mansion, now Mary Porreco Hall, was built in the mid-19th century on 400 beautiful countryside acres situated in Millcreek Township just west of the City of Erie.

In addition to the estate's main house being named for Mary Porreco, at the University's May 1988 graduation ceremony she was awarded an honorary doctorate for her many years of service in education.

Today, Mary Porreco Hall – with its 12 rooms (six with fireplaces), a large living area, library and lounge, conference rooms and dining facilities with a fully-equipped kitchen – is centerpiece in the Porreco Center's pristine park-like setting. It has been used primarily for executive seminars, retreat conferences, cultural events and professional gatherings. The Porreco Center itself includes a dozen buildings that have drawn more than 10,000 students to its classrooms since Edinboro University consolidated its academic offerings at that one convenient Erie location in 1988.

Descriptions of buildings and those for whom they were named is a compilation of work authored by Mr. Jeff Pinski, Associate Director of Public Relations and Marketing, using the following references and sources:

THE ART OF LIFE

Written by:
Brian K. Pitzer

Robert Jensen is one of those people who does things he shouldn't be able to do. The 30-year-old graduate student is studying for his MFA in metals at Edinboro University while raising his young daughter as a single parent and performing in an avant-garde rock band. And, according to art professors Sue Amendolara and Cappy Counard, he may be one of the most talented students they have ever taught.

Jensen is also a quadriplegic.

But the limited use of his arms and legs doesn't stop him from doing what he wants to do.

"He doesn't dwell on his disability," said Amendolara. "He is a determined human being."

Jensen's story of the power of the human will begins when he was a 17-year-old student at Fairview High School. A classmate told Jensen he didn't like his haircut and threw him up against a wall, breaking his back. The incident resulted in partial paralysis in Jensen's legs and hands. He is able to stand but depends on a wheelchair for getting around, and he has difficulty grasping things in his hands. He creates his works of art by using adaptive tools and simply by finding other ways of doing things.

His art career didn't begin until he enrolled at Edinboro University at the age of 21 as a part-time student.

He was taking six credits and working at the old Peninsula drive-in theater. He eventually earned his BFA and spent the next 18 months creating and repairing jewelry. Then, at an exhibit of his work in the Uraro Gallery in Erie, he ran into Amendolara and Counard. With their encouragement, he returned to Edinboro as a graduate student in January 2005.

Now studying with a full-time assistantship, Jensen has become a role model to his students by not only creating phenomenal artwork, but by sharing his skill with other students.

"He does things better than anyone who has come through here," said Counard. "He knows what he is doing and pushes himself. As a graduate student he came back more focused and a lot more expressive."

"He never complains or gets upset," said Amendolara. "His disabilities have never entered into the picture – they are never an issue."

"He doesn't dwell on his disability...
He is a determined human being."

Jensen's works are what really catches people's attention. His pieces tend to be large-scale, three-dimensional figures using metal as the primary medium along with precious metals, fabric and, yes, animal parts such as bones, beaks and talons.

He uses figurines extensively in his work including dolls, marionettes and fantasy creatures. The pieces are often unsettling in that they combine elements that produce opposite reactions.

"There is duality in every piece," explains Jensen – "dark and light, whimsy and fear, pleasant and unpleasant. They involve universal themes of love, fear and death."

Jensen is not above incorporating religious themes in his works, even if his interpretation makes the viewer uncomfortable.

His unique perspective on art is also reflected in his band, Pegasus Unicorn. It features two guitarists, a bassist and a mandolin player, in addition to the harmonic and electronic music that Jensen programs.

He said he likes to create a visual environment with his artwork and a sound environment with his music.

Jensen looks forward to teaching at some level after completing his graduate degree in December of 2007. Amendolara and Counard praise him for his ability to work with students and his almost innate ability to share his knowledge effectively. They note, however, that he has little tolerance for those who make excuses for not applying themselves to their tasks.

That's hardly surprising for someone who can balance his education, his family, and his music, despite having what some people would call a disability.

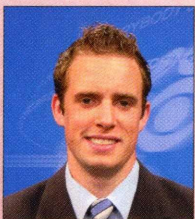

A NEW GENERATION OF SUCCESSFUL MEDIA GRADUATES

WRITTEN BY: DR. TONY PEYRONEL

NBC correspondent Andrea Mitchell's appearance as the featured speaker at the seventh annual Frank G. Pogue Scholarship Luncheon last March was fitting given Edinboro University's tradition of training successful broadcast journalists.

That point was made clear by the videotaped introduction that preceded Mitchell's talk. A bevy of successful broadcast journalism graduates appeared on the video, offering their own personal welcomes to NBC's chief foreign affairs correspondent. The speakers ranged from Erie broadcasting veterans like Lou Baxter, news director at WJET-TV, and Mike Ruzzi, sports director at WICU-TV, to those who work in larger markets far and near, including Valerie Lego, an anchor/reporter with WZZM-TV in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and Connie Moser, a news producer with WTAE-TV in Pittsburgh.

One thing all of the alumni on that tape had in common is that they are seasoned broadcast journalism professionals. If that left some of the attendees wondering how Edinboro's more recent media graduates are doing, the question could ironically have been answered by an Edinboro student who shared the podium with Andrea Mitchell that afternoon. Just weeks after serving as an emcee for the luncheon, junior broadcast journalism major K.C. Kantz was hired as weekend sports anchor at WSEE-TV, Erie's CBS affiliate.

That Kantz is already a working broadcast journalism professional, even though he's still a full-time Edinboro student, is quite an accomplishment – and it demonstrates that talent, hard work, and good timing can be a winning combination. It also demonstrates the importance of becoming involved in Edinboro's student media organizations and taking advantage of the opportunities they provide.

Kantz is a great example of Edinboro's "new generation" of successful journalism graduates, and he has a lot of company. In fact, he has been joined at WSEE by Kim Thomas, a 2006 broadcast journalism graduate. Thomas interned at WSEE in the spring of 2006 and was immediately hired as a news reporter.

Recent graduates are also doing well behind the camera. Brady Dick, a 2006 speech communication graduate, has been hired as a news photographer/editor at WICU-TV, Erie's NBC affiliate. Dick served as general manager of WFSE-FM, Edinboro's campus radio station, during the 2005-2006 year.

Jim Wertz, the man who hired Dick at WICU, is a successful, young Edinboro alum himself, having graduated in 2002 with a dual degree in speech communication and history.

Jim Wertz

"To be honest, Brady's references were so strong that I was a little bit skeptical," says Wertz, who is serving as WICU's production manager at the age of 27. "Everyone kept saying that Brady's technical skills were phenomenal, but he's turned out to be as good as his references said he was, and he's been a great addition to our staff."

Wertz is an interesting story himself. Like K.C. Kantz, he was already working professionally in the Erie media while still an Edinboro student. He says the smaller size of the Erie television market is an asset for Edinboro students who want to work in the media.

After graduating from Edinboro, Wertz earned a master's degree in history from American University, and then returned to WICU. He has also taught television production as an adjunct professor here at Edinboro, and he served as a technical consultant, working with Dr. Joe Laythe to design the history department's Oral History Studio.

The print journalism major was consolidated into the new Department of Communication and Media Studies as part of a departmental restructuring which officially took place on May 1, 2006. And recent print journalism graduates are enjoying the same success as their broadcast counterparts.

In fact, Stella Vealey, a junior print journalism major and graduate of Maplewood High School, served as editor of the Spectator, Edinboro's student newspaper in 2005-2006, and spent this summer interning at the Meadville Tribune. Vealey so impressed the Tribune editors that she was immediately hired as a full-time page designer, even though she still has a year to go before graduation.

"Stella knows how to create pages that speak to readers," says Ed Mailliard, the Tribune's assistant managing editor and a 1979 Edinboro graduate.

The success enjoyed by K.C. Kantz, Kim Thomas, Brady Dick and Stella Vealey also speaks volumes about the importance of internships and in being willing to take on leadership positions in Edinboro's various campus media organizations, where students can gain skills on campus that prepare them for the ultra-competitive media workplace.

As organizations, WFSE, the Spectator and E-TV have changed quite a bit over the years. Many older alumni likely remember trudging across a cold, snowy campus at 5:30 a.m. several times a semester to prepare for a morning drive show at WFSE, because failing to do so might result in a failing grade for their old "Radio I" course. In recent years, however, the University has come to view the campus media organizations more as student activities and less as laboratories supporting classroom activities. The change in philosophies presented new challenges, and a lot of work has gone into trying to strike a balance between the two models.

However, the potential benefits of the campus media organizations clearly outweigh the struggles and challenges they sometimes present. After all, it was the opportunity to hone their skills at the campus media organizations that helped enable Kantz, Thomas, Dick and Vealey to move directly from a college classroom into professional newsrooms.

Katie Collett, a 2003 speech communication graduate, is another great example of the value of campus media organizations and the importance of internships. Collett, who currently co-anchors the Channel 6 News Sunrise program at WJAC-TV, the NBC affiliate in

Katie Collett

Johnstown, was heavily involved in E-TV as a student and went on to intern with Cox Broadcasting in Washington, DC.

"E-TV has been the key to my success in television news so far," she says. "I was so over-prepared for my internship at Cox that they actually ended up changing the job description."

Experiences gained working at campus media organizations also prove valuable in fields other than the media. Matthew Cummings, a 2000 graduate in speech communication, has made a successful and seemingly seamless transition from radio to educational public relations.

Matthew Cummings

Cummings is currently the director of communications for the Gateway School District, an award-winning public K-12 school system in suburban Pittsburgh with more than 4,000 students and a budget of nearly $60 million. He is the chief communications strategist for the system, reporting directly to Dr.

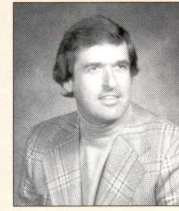

Cleveland Steward Jr., the district's superintendent.

As an Edinboro student, Cummings served as general manager of WFSE and the Spectator's web master. He also worked in Erie media while a student, announcing and producing at WXKC-FM. After graduation, Cummings spent a year working at WJET-FM in Erie before accepting a public relations position with the Millcreek School District. In 2003, at age 24, he was hired as director of communications with the Penn Hills School District, one of the largest public school districts in Allegheny County.

Cummings' success in public relations helps to illustrate at least three important points. Public relations is typically the most popular area of study for speech communication majors at Edinboro. In addition, many graduates work in the media before making the transition to public relations. Thirdly, the skills gained working for campus media organizations are applicable to just about any professional situation.

"You learn leadership skills, and a big part of that is learning to deal with all different types of people, including people who can be difficult," Cummings says. "Those skills are certainly transferable to work in just about any type of organization that I can think of."

That point is nothing new. In fact, it's something that has been emphasized at Edinboro since Dr. Gary Christiansen, WFSE's founding advisor, was using razor blades to edit audio tape. Just as computer software has replaced razor blades in an editing process that is now digital, some things have changed over the years – from faculty members and curriculum to organizational policies and procedures. Fortunately, one constant is that our students continue to enjoy a large measure of professional success after (and sometimes before) graduation.

For more than 30 years, Dr. Bob Wallace, department of communication and media studies, was instrumental in the success of our media graduates. In Bob's honor, Ken White ('83 and '90) and his wife, Christa, established the Dr. Bob Wallace Communication Scholarship which is awarded to an undergraduate student majoring in speech and communication studies. Preference will be given to a freshman with a concentration in Radio/TV News or Media Management/Production.

An award-winning sports anchor and reporter in the Erie area, Ken currently serves as Vice President for Communication and Marketing at the Darden School of Business, University of Virginia. He recently returned to the Edinboro campus as part of the University's Business Speaker Series. At that time, faculty of the Department of Communication and Media Studies, as well as other Edinboro employees, contributed an additional $1,000 to the scholarship fund.

This scholarship was created to recognize Dr. Wallace for his guidance to not only Christa and Ken, but to countless Edinboro students over the years.

For more information about donating to the Dr. Bob Wallace scholarship, contact the Development Office at 814-732-2992, email mgoellner@edinboro.edu or log on to www.edinboro.edu, keyword: giving.

Dr. Tony Peyronel, a 1983 Edinboro University graduate, is chair of the Department of Communication and Media Studies. As a student, he was program director of WFSE and a Spectator reporter.

Unfortunately, he is far too old to have worked at E-TV, which was founded in 1991 as the Edinboro News Network.

Undoubtedly, we have overlooked some of our graduates in the preparation of this story. We apologize for that. The Department of Communication and Media Studies is trying to update information on our graduates. Please e-mail the department chair (a Peyronel@edinboro.edu) or the Alumni Office (eup_alumni@edinboro.edu) with your current information.

The University Center is undergoing a $16 million expansion that will nearly double the size of the existing building. Improvements will include expanded basketball courts, running track and multi-purpose room, and a new multi-purpose theater.

One of the highlights of the Sesquicentennial will be the reopening and rededication of the University's original building, Academy Hall. Constructed in 1857, the 150-year-old building has been undergoing a $2.4 million renovation for the past year. The University will officially reopen the building with a rededication ceremony at noon on Thursday, January 18.

Workers are putting the finishing touches on the brick plaza between the University Center and McComb Fieldhouse. When the facility is completed, the bronze statue of the Fighting Scot will tower approximately 17' above the plaza, offering support to Edinboro's athletic teams as they do battle on the University's courts and fields.

The statue itself is nearing completion at U.S. Bronze Foundry and Machine Inc. in Meadville under the direction of former Alumni Association President Dan Higham. It will be placed on its pedestal in the plaza and dedicated sometime in 2007.

Construction projects are transforming the Edinboro University campus.

CONSTRUCTION

Written by Brian K. Pitzer

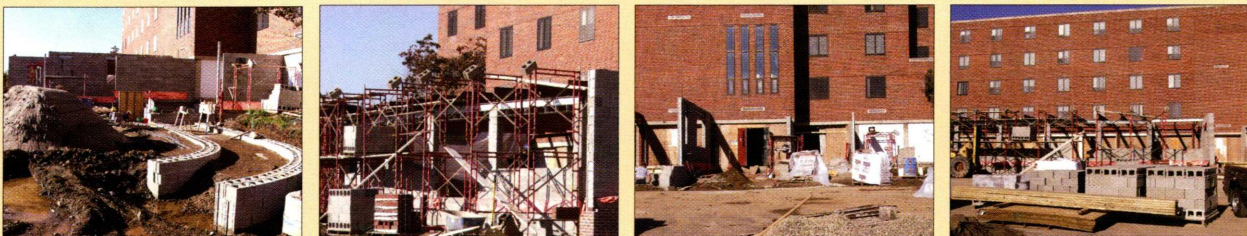

The University is also constructing a new music building behind Heather Hall. The yet unnamed $4.4 million music building will contain approximately 19,000 square feet and include a new recital hall, as well as more practice rooms and lab space.

Unlike the current music building, Heather Hall, which was originally built as a residence hall, the new building is environmentally designed for music and is expected to have a significant, positive impact on the University's 70 music majors and 20 music faculty members. Construction is expected to be finished in the fall of 2007.

Over the summer, the University moved forward in the next step of its master plan with the construction of a new parking lot behind Reeder Hall. The new lot, which opened in mid August, provides parking spaces for nearly 150 vehicles and replaces the somewhat smaller lot located behind Doucette Hall. Access to the lot is from a new drive between Doucette Hall and the Diebold Center for the Performing Arts connecting with Meadville Street. The circular driveway in front of Reeder Hall also connects to the new drive ensuring that all vehicles from this area of campus will exit onto Meadville Street at the same location.

The new parking lot was constructed to allow the existing lot to be converted into green space in the form of a quad shared by the Crawford Center and Doucette, Heather, and Loveland halls. That area is now much more pedestrian friendly as it greatly reduces much of the pedestrian-vehicle interaction. It has also significantly reduced the amount of traffic being routed onto Normal Street and Ontario Street.

Finally, the food court in Rose Hall is undergoing a $2 million expansion and renovation that will include the installation of state-of-the-art equipment and will offer students a wider variety of menu choices.

JANET BOWKER TO OVERSEE PORRECO CENTER

President Frank G. Pogue recently appointed Janet L. Bowker '84 to a position that will include oversight of Edinboro University in Erie – the Porreco Center. In addition to overseeing current operations, Bowker will expand community outreach to encourage additional alumni, community and business use of the facility. She will collaborate with admissions and work with the local schools to encourage not only traditional student attendance, but that of area teachers who need to earn credits toward Act 148. She will also interact with the academic deans in an effort to offer courses desired by the community. In anticipation of future plans for the facility, Bowker will collaborate with the development office to secure funding for facilities and programming.

Bowker graduated from Edinboro with a BA in Speech Communications. Following graduation, she spent more than four years as assistant director of admissions before becoming the assistant director of development (annual fund) for another four years. She then served as director of alumni affairs for ten years and was appointed director for corporate and foundation relations for two years prior to the Porreco appointment.

"I'm excited about the potential of the Porreco Center," Bowker said. "This is an exciting time for the Center and I look forward to the opportunity to help guide it into the future."

PROGRAM IN END-OF-LIFE CARE ANNOUNCED

A new program to train college graduates to work with terminally ill individuals will soon be offered through the nursing department at Edinboro University. The graduate certificate program in palliative and end-of-life care will prepare graduate students in nursing, social work, speech pathology and other programs to provide for the needs of individuals in the last days and weeks of their lives.

The multidisciplinary program is unique in northwestern Pennsylvania and among the 14 universities that make up the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education. It will offer three courses and a clinical experience in a variety of clinical and home care settings.

The need for professionals trained in end-of-life care is expected to grow significantly in the coming years. Pennsylvania has the second highest number of senior citizens in the nation – a number projected to increase by 20 percent over the next decade. By 2011, the year when the first baby boomers reach the age of 65, the Pennsylvania Center of Health Careers estimates a state-wide shortage of 16,000 registered nurses, with even fewer practicing nurses trained in end-of-life care.

To help compensate for that coming shortage, the Edinboro program will train professionals in fields other than nursing who are also involved with terminally ill individuals. Hospice organizations, for example, also use social workers to help optimize financial resources of patients and families, and speech pathologists to manage nutritional and swallowing difficulties.

For more information on the graduate program, contact the Edinboro University nursing department at 814-732-2900, or the office of graduate studies and research at 814-732-2856.

UNIVERSITY TO OFFER 30 AWARDS FROM SCHOLARS IN SERVICE TO PENNSYLVANIA

As many as 30 students at Edinboro University will receive monetary awards for their community service during the 2006-2007 academic year. Scholars in Service to Pennsylvania is an AmeriCorps Education Award program that recognizes college students' deep commitments to community service. Students involved in the program complete 450 hours of service in one year and receive a $1,250 Education Award from the Corporation for National and Community Service. They also receive leadership training and help recruit additional volunteers.

Dr. Denise Finazzo, director of Edinboro's Community Outreach Center, said the University was recognized last year by Scholars in Service to Pennsylvania as one of the most successful campuses. Edinboro had the largest number of Scholars in Service to Pennsylvania groups; those students performed 6,530 hours of service for at least 16 different area organizations, meeting needs such as child care and after-school programs.

Scholars in Service to Pennsylvania is administered by the Philadelphia Higher Education Network for Neighborhood Development and is monitored by PennSERVE: the Governor's Office of Citizen Service. AmeriCorps is a program of the Corporation for National and Community Service.

NURSING STUDENT RETENTION GROWING

The number of nursing students returning for their sophomore year at Edinboro University is up significantly this year, and officials are crediting growing sources of financial aid as the likely reason for the increase.

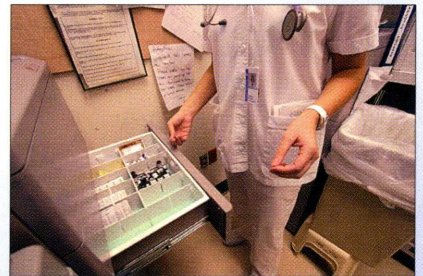

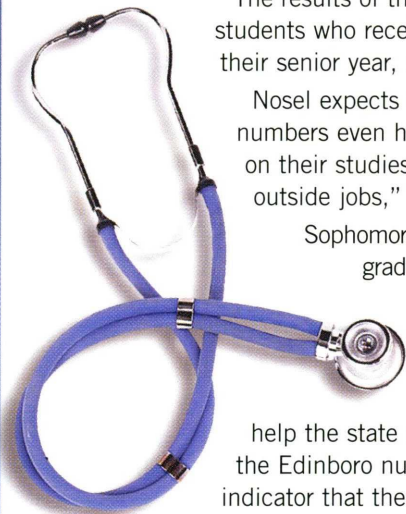

Nursing department chair Pat Nosel said 54 nursing students will be returning for their sophomore year this fall, an increase from 41 last year. She attributes this gain largely to more money being available for nursing students. In particular, she points to the $417,000 gift from the estate of the late Shirley Roth, who designated that her funds be used to create nursing scholarships. In addition, the Pennsylvania Higher Education Foundation has given the University more than $278,000 over the past four years, including a $79,000 grant this year.

The results of the latter grant have been impressive. Of those students who received the grant from their sophomore year through their senior year, nearly 90 percent have graduated.

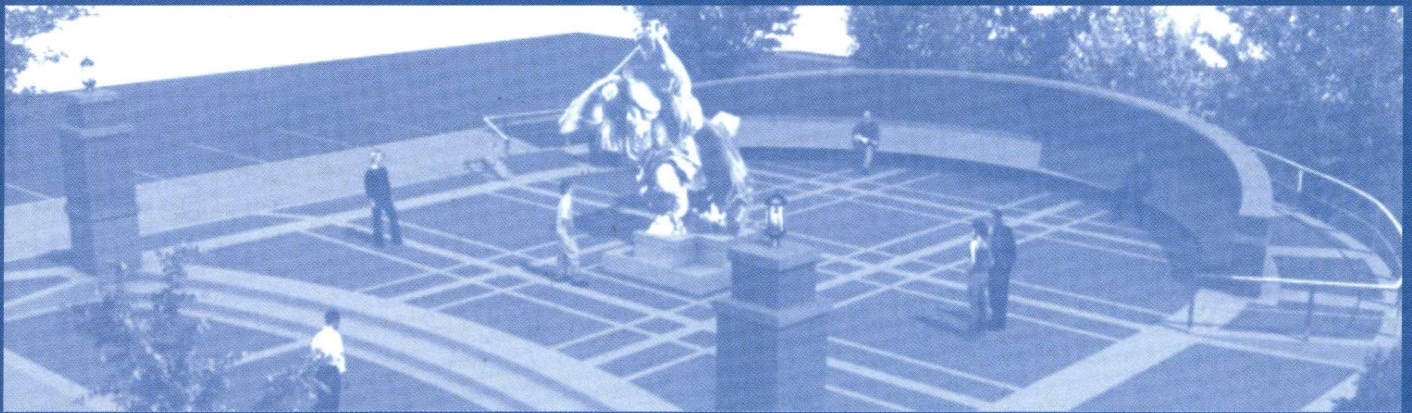

Nosel expects that the increased financial support will push these numbers even higher. "It allows the nursing students to concentrate on their studies without having to depend as much on working at outside jobs," she said.

Sophomore nursing students are required to maintain a 2.75 grade point average. Nosel said that approximately 80 percent of Edinboro nursing students are maintaining a 3.00 GPA.

The Pennsylvania Higher Education Foundation student aid program was created to help the state meet an expected nursing shortage. The success of the Edinboro nursing program in graduating its students is one indicator that the investment is paying off.

The eagerly anticipated home of the Fighting Scot statue is becoming a reality brick by brick on the Edinboro campus.

Edinboro Alumni Association Director Jon Pulice reports more than 850 bricks, 70 small pavers and 200 large pavers have been purchased by friends and alumni of the University and are now being set permanently in the plaza.

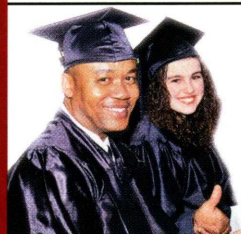

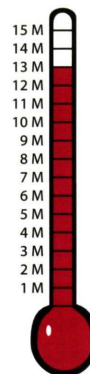

"The Fighting Scot plaza provided an excellent opportunity to honor a graduate, memorialize a loved one, perpetuate a personal name and pay tribute to someone who has made a difference in your life," said Pulice. "The plaza will definitely serve as a central gathering place for Edinboro University students, alumni and friends for decades to come."

CAMPAIGN —FOR— EXCELLENCE

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania is committed to improving access to quality education for all students. The campaign initiatives represent the progress and growth that distinguish Edinboro University as a community leader in higher education.

We're now at 87%!
Please make a contribution so we can reach our goal of $15 million for the Campaign for Excellence.

STUDENT ENDOWMENTS

Nearly 80 percent of all students enrolled at Edinboro University receive financial aid. It is essential for the University to increase the student endowment to guarantee continued and improved access to higher education for deserving students. The endowment fund will promote academic excellence by targeting a variety of classroom needs. From art to zoology, animation to sociology, teaching facilities and equipment will be strengthened through endowment gifts.

Edinboro University is widely recognized for outstanding programs in fine arts, music and theater. With support from the Campaign for Excellence, the University plans to augment these programs with a Performing Arts Series that will provide opportunities to experience unique art exhibits, exciting performances and stimulating lectures. Featuring appearances by a variety of celebrated guest performers and speakers, the series will complement the classroom experience by challenging students and community to appreciate the riches of other cultures.

CULTURAL ENDOWMENTS

ATHLETICS

As an institution of higher learning, Edinboro University provides a well-rounded education that leads students to develop strength of body and spirit as well as strength of mind. Our athletic programs augment classroom learning by teaching real-life lessons in leadership, teamwork, discipline and goal setting.

The Campaign for Excellence will also strengthen the University's athletic scholarship program. Scholarships for student-athletes help Edinboro University attract the best and brightest students.

CRAWFORD CENTER FOR HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND DISABILITY RESOURCES

After 25 years of successfully serving the higher education needs of students with disabilities, Edinboro University has initiated a project of renovation and construction that will improve upon its nationally recognized services offered by the Office for Students with Disabilities.

The Crawford Center for Health and Physical Education and Disability Resources will provide a central location where services, programs and adaptive sports and recreation can be accessed. Designed to promote interaction among all students, the new center will provide facilities for physical education classes and accommodate a wide variety of athletic and leisure activities.

ACADEMY HALL

Having served as a center of learning for the Northwestern State Normal School, Academy Hall is believed to be the oldest Normal School building in America.

Academy Hall served the University for more than a century; it provided vital classroom space through the early 1970s and office space until 1992 when deteriorating conditions forced its closure.

Contributions to the Campaign for Excellence can help restore Academy Hall to its original splendor.

PRECISION INDUSTRIES

Northwestern Pennsylvania is home to some of the nation's most diverse and progressive manufacturing industries. To meet the needs of this vital industry, Edinboro University has planned a Precision Industries Education, Design and Manufacturing Technology Center to provide research and specialized training in those fields to support a critical portion of the region's economy.

Alumni Annual Fund

An Important Connection!

One of the measures of a successful university is maintaining a strong connection with alumni and friends.

The students who conduct the Edinboro University Phonathon play a key role in maintaining that connection – updating records, hearing concerns, and facilitating donations. The Phonathon callers learn firsthand how their education is impacted by the generous donations of thousands of alumni and friends by interacting with donors on a one-to-one basis.

Edinboro's Phonathon raises significant funds for the University and employs approximately 30 students during the fall and spring. This group of committed students takes to the phones in an effort to raise participation in the Annual Fund. Gifts to Edinboro's Annual Fund directly benefit each and every student, providing increased funding to alumni scholarships, enhancing academic programs, funding student programs and activities throughout the year, and providing additional resources needed to maintain a high-caliber university.

We hope you enjoy hearing from our student callers. The next time you receive a call from a student, please share your Edinboro University enthusiasm and experiences!

WHAT YOU SAY MATTERS!

Here are some comments we've received from our alumni after they spoke to our callers.

- Of all the requests I've had over the years, Sarah was, by far, the most pleasant caller to date. Keep up the good work!
- We had a great "life" conversation. Thanks Matt!!
- Kelsey could not have been more pleasant. A great representative for Edinboro University.
- She was great to talk to! An asset to your staff!
- I needed information about the computer department, and she took the time to find out for me.
- Matt was very personable and comfortable to speak with; I requested additional information about a specific scholarship and he promptly responded.
- Thanks for the update on Centennial Hall and the Alumni sticker.
- He was cheerful, warm, and caring. Best call I've received from a student.
- Kendra was excellent! Who else could remind someone their 40th reunion is next year and make them feel good about it?
- She was kind to listen to the memories of an "old" alumnus.
- Lovelle's enthusiasm made it impossible to say "NO"!!
- Thank you, Mathieu, for your friendliness and insight into campus development!
- I enjoyed talking to Martin and reminiscing about the good old days at Edinboro!

SCHOLARSHIPS & ENDOWMENTS

MEET THE DONOR Miriam McKinley

Mrs. Miriam McKinley has a great deal of compassion for the students of Edinboro University.

In 1991, she established the Dr. James McKinley Memorial Scholarship in loving memory and honor of her husband of 45 years and to make a difference for students who may not have the financial means to pursue higher education.

There is more to the story of this remarkable family. Finances were tight when Dr. McKinley went to college. In fact, there was no money. Thanks to the GI Bill and lots of hard work, he paid his way through school. His perseverance paid off and led to a rewarding teaching career. Dr. McKinley was a professor for 35 years and later became an administrator, including an appointment as Provost at Edinboro University. Mrs. McKinley graduated from Indiana University of Pennsylvania and taught there for several years before moving to Edinboro. The couple lived a life of academia, and has also passed that love for education to their children. The McKinleys and their four children have a variety of degrees from nine different universities.

Mrs. McKinley notes that her husband was "a very honest, straight-forward person, who was admired by both students and colleagues." The Dr. James McKinley Memorial Scholarship will allow Dr. McKinley's dedication and love for education to be continued through generations of students at Edinboro University. She feels that her annual contributions are the best way she can help students who have a passion for learning, as she and her husband both did.

Mrs. Miriam McKinley, her son, Robert, and daughter-in-law, Esther Ng. Robert is the Associate Vice President for the Institute of Economic Development at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

But her generosity does not stop there. In 2002, Mrs. McKinley had a permanent bench installed near the Clock Tower on the Edinboro campus dedicated in Dr. McKinley's honor and she has been a loyal supporter of the Academy Hall restoration project as well as other memorial funds. Her generosity and support are inspirational, and she selflessly gives to the University "to honor the life of a fine man who had a love for education and students."

MEET THE STUDENT Courtney Hoffman

Courtney Hoffman, a sophomore honors student majoring in mathematics, is the recipient of the USI Academic Excellence Scholarship, Marquette Savings Bank Scholarship, and the Verizon Honors Scholarship. These scholarships are awarded to honor students who must complete a minimum of six honors credits each academic year with a grade of A or B and maintain a minimum overall grade point average of 3.5.

A 2005 graduate of General McLane High School, Courtney was a member of the diving team and was the first female from General McLane to qualify for districts. She also holds the record for discus throwing at 119 feet, 7 inches. In addition to her athletic abilities, Courtney also excelled in the classroom, graduating in the top 10 percent of her class.

At Edinboro University, Courtney is an enthusiastic member of the cheerleading squad and this past summer studied abroad at the University of North Hampton in England. That six-week course provided her with an experience and opportunity of a lifetime, rooming with students from other universities, meeting new people and traveling to cities in England and Paris.

Courtney is no stranger to traveling, however. She spent most of her childhood living in different locations around the world, such as Hawaii and Japan, because her father was a member of the Marine Corps. The family moved to Edinboro in 1998, and Edinboro University was the ideal choice for Courtney. "I like the smaller community environment and the ability to get to know so many other students. Everyone is friendly and there are opportunities to make connections." Courtney is thankful for her scholarships, since she is paying for college herself and says that the financial assistance she receives through scholarships "is the backbone of my education."

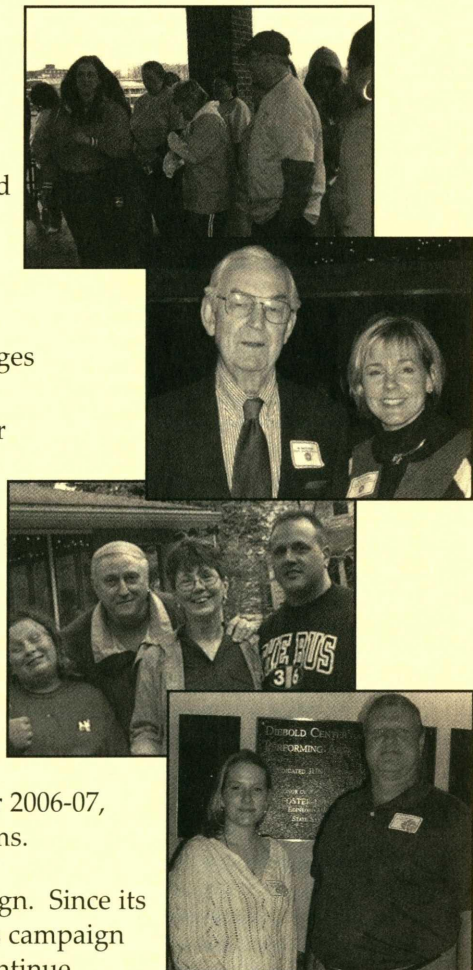

Thank You!

Because of you, Edinboro University had its best fundraising year in our history! On behalf of our students, faculty, and staff, please accept our heartfelt gratitude to all listed in the following pages for your unprecedented support and generosity.

We are grateful for your belief in Edinboro University and its mission, and I am proud to share with you several milestones from 2005-2006:

- Your gifts totaled $2,692,279 representing an $825,063 (44.19 percent) increase over last fiscal year;
- Current and retired faculty and staff raised $500,000 in gifts and pledges through the Endowment Challenge Match;
- Pledges and gifts from parents raised $23,950 for the library and other initiatives;
- Student giving increased 92 percent;
- 26 new scholarships were established;
- An historic planned gift of $417,853 was received for incoming and current nursing students;
- The Royal Stewart Legacy Society has added five additional members, bringing our total planned giving commitments to over $5.5 million;
- The average Phonathon gift increased from $42 to $45;
- Scholarship awards will total $1,076,853 for students in academic year 2006-07, including awards made possible through athletic fundraising programs.

This Sesquicentennial year also marks the final year of our capital campaign. Since its kickoff, the Campaign for Excellence has been more about impact than dollars. This campaign is about our students and providing this great institution with the resources to continue changing lives far into the future. As the percentage of our operating costs covered by state funds has declined, our enrollment and other needs have increased. Without private donations, that shortfall will have an effect on those who can least afford to bear it – the very students we are trying to help. Simply put, we can't do it without you. Thank you for your continued generosity.

Bruce Q. Whitehair '73

Vice President for Development and Marketing

Dr. and Mrs. Pogue congratulated Hugh Keelan as he celebrated his final performance with the Erie Philharmonic Orchestra at Edinboro University.

Lifetime cumulative giving over $100,000

In 1857, the Edinboro Academy was established in the Borough of Edinboro for the education of youth in the learned languages, visual areas and sciences, and general literature. Academy Hall, completed in the fall of 1857 and undergoing a $2.5 million renovation, was the first classroom building on campus. We honor those donors who have generously and loyally provided gifts to Edinboro University.

Edinboro University is grateful to its many benefactors who help support the University through their generous gifts. This Donor Report recognizes individuals, businesses and organizations that made gifts to Edinboro University from July 1, 2005 to June 30, 2006.

Is your name missing? The reason may be:

- You made your gift prior to July 1, 2005 or after June 30, 2006;
- You made a pledge instead of a gift. The donor listing includes only gifts received. Please note if you made a pledge during our 2005-2006 annual fund campaign and elected not to begin payment until after June 30, 2006, you will be listed in next year's donor report; or
- Sorry, we made a mistake! Great care has been taken to ensure the accuracy of this Donor Report. We regret any errors or omissions.

If your name is missing, misspelled or misplaced, please feel free to call 1-800-526-0117. We continue to update last-name changes as provided; all revisions may not have been made as we go to press.

Loyal Giving Society

The Loyal Giving Society recognizes those donors who have consistently and steadfastly made gifts each year, for 15 or more years. Commitment has a special meaning to this group of individuals, and it is with pleasure that we honor them for their dedication to Edinboro University and its students. We thank these donors for their continued support, generosity and loyalty.

2005-2006 DESIGNATION OF GIFTS

Leadership Giving Societies

Our Leadership Giving Societies provide exclusive acknowledgement to Edinboro University benefactors who make annual gifts of $100 or more. Our giving clubs are the foundation of annual private charitable support to Edinboro University and together with tuition and grants, these gifts to the Annual Fund help bridge the funding gap.

I would like to thank you for the honor of this award. The scholarship made me feel very accomplished. I did not expect the award and receiving it motivated me to continue working hard. It was so nice to be recognized for doing well academically. The award was also a great help to me financially. I would not be able to go to college if it wasn't for the financial aid that I have received.

As this year's recipient of the Photography Award, I would like to give you my sincere thanks for this generous contribution. Between an approaching internship and the continual creation of new works, this scholarship will surely be put to its best use. To my recent surprise and joy, I will be doing an internship under David Heald, a photographer at the Guggenheim. Thank you.

I would like to thank you for generously supporting my education. Being a pre-medical student is very stressful with the constant need to maintain high grades, perform research and to participate in many other extracurricular activities. Receiving this gift helps relieve some of the stress I am carrying as I work towards my goal.

With your generous gift I was able to concentrate on my studies without having to worry about how I would financially make it through the semester. I am thankful for this scholarship to further my nursing education and I hope that some day I will be able to help future students as your kindness helped me.

Royal Stewart Legacy Society

The Royal Stewart Legacy Society was created to formally recognize distinguished members of the Edinboro Family for their generosity and lasting commitment to tomorrow's students. The Society recognizes all alumni and friends, who with vision and generosity, have made provision for Edinboro University through a bequest in their will or trust, deferred gift, charitable remainder trust or life income gift.

I cannot tell you how much I appreciate the financial help I received this year. I am facing an exciting internship in Pittsburgh this summer at Pittsburgh Filmmakers. It marks the first time I will be truly on my own and responsible for myself financially, and that has really taught me to value the prestige of earning a scholarship. Thank you so much for your contribution to my education.

I thank you very much because the money will be going directly toward my tuition which will enable me to start saving for graduate school. Everything that I have learned in the Physics Department at Edinboro will help me strive for my goal of achieving my doctorate degree. I can honestly say that I never thought I would be attending graduate school when I was sitting in physics orientation. Thank you once again for providing me with this scholarship as a reward for all of my hard work and to assist me in achieving my goals.

IN LOVING HONOR AND MEMORY

Near the newly renovated Butterfield Hall, a permanent bench and beautiful shade tree have been lovingly dedicated to Philip Pelton and his late daughter, Linda. These memorials are confirmation of the Pelton family's strong commitment to education. Ron Pelton ('79), and his wife, Imogene, joined Philip at the dedication, along with Ruth Stoltz, a recipient of the Philip Pelton and Linda Pelton Special Education Scholarship, created in 2000.

Philip W. Pelton established this scholarship in honor of his daughter, Linda, to encourage and support the training of professionals in the area of special education. The endowment is used for scholarships for students enrolled in the special education/elementary education or special education programs, who plan to become educators. More than $42,000 in awards have been made to 20 deserving students.

GOODWINE-BASKIN SCHOLARSHIP

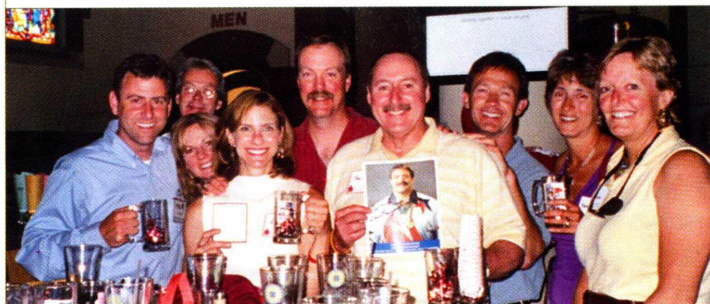

A pioneering figure in America's civil rights movement has been honored with the establishment of a journalism scholarship. The Willie Mae Goodwine and Inez J. Baskin Scholarship of Journalism has been established by Amos Goodwine Jr., and Leroy Goodwine of Erie County to honor Mrs. Baskin and their mother, the late Mrs. Goodwine.

Inez Baskin was at the front lines of the civil rights movement in the 1950s and 1960s. As a reporter, she covered the Rosa Parks Montgomery bus boycott. She is godmother to LaWanda Bender Goodwine of North East, who is the wife of Amos Goodwine Jr.

RAISING THE STEIN

"Raising a Stein" in support of the Edinboro University Pittsburgh alumni fund-raising event are, from left Dr. Gary Grant, chairman of the music department; Lee Rexrode, ceramics faculty; Dee Dee Thompson; Ann Grant; Shawn Reagan, health and physical education faculty; Tony Keim; Tim Thompson, communication and media studies faculty; Karen Reagan; and Ginny Keim ('80).

IRA CHARITABLE ROLLOVER

On August 17, 2006, President Bush signed the Pension Protection Act of 2006 (PPA 2006). One of the features of this act will permit individuals at age 70.5+ to make IRA rollovers directly to a nonprofit organization without having to report it as income. Rollovers during 2006 or 2007 may be made in any amount up to $100,000 and shall be called "qualified charitable distributions."

The IRA rollover is effective immediately. IRA owners should contact their IRA custodian to direct transfers to qualified public charities. The IRA distribution to charity will be similar to non-charitable rollovers in that the distribution will not be included in the donor's federal taxable income.

While there is no charitable income tax deduction for the IRA rollover, the distribution is not included in the donor's taxable income, thus simplifying the donor's tax return and saving some tax. An added bonus is that an IRA rollover by December 31 of this year will qualify for all or part of the IRA owner's required minimum distribution for 2006.

If you would like additional information, please contact your IRA custodian or the Edinboro University Development and Marketing Office at (814) 732-2992; bwhitehair@edinboro.edu.

VISITING OUR ALUMNI

Michael DeMarco ('73) relocated to Santa Fe three years ago after realizing that he could run his martial arts publishing business anywhere he wanted. Today, he is publisher and editor-in-chief of The Journal of Asian Martial Art which is translated into several languages and sold around the world. He has studied martial arts in China and India, and gave the keynote address at the First World Congress on Combat Sports and Martial Arts in Amiens, France. Michael was a philosophy major at Edinboro.

Col. Lansing Dickinson, USAF ('74, '75) and wife Jody (Freed) Dickinson ('75) make their home near Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Alabama. Lance served as a B52G navigator at Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Michigan in 1979. He is currently responsible for all functions relating to cadet personnel actions. He directs the development and execution of plans and policies for recruitment, enrollment and commissioning of more than 13,000 cadets at 144 geographically separated units, managing a scholarship budget in excess of $70 million. At Edinboro, Lance worked as a statistician in the Sports Information Office and was a member of Theta Chi fraternity. Jody earned her B.A. in geography and was an Edinboro cheerleader. Lance's work has taken him to Armenia, Saudi Arabia, Azerbaijan, Jordan, Bahrain, England and Germany. Lance and Jody have two grown children, Casey and Amy.

Daniel J. Zolnier ('74), director of human resources and safety for Sun Country Industries, Inc., in Albuquerque, met with Vice President Bruce Whitehair ('73). Sun Country Industries is New Mexico's largest independent aerospace contract manufacturing firm. In his spare time, Dan refurbishes vintage motorcycles.

Dr. Dennis R. Chamberlain ('72)

is vice president for student affairs at Gordon College in Barnesville, Georgia. He has worked for 27 years in education as an administrator, in such positions as superintendent, principal, assistant principal, and teacher. He received his doctorate in administration from the University of Georgia in 1992, a master's and specialist's degree from Georgia Southern University, and he holds a bachelor's degree in social studies from Edinboro.

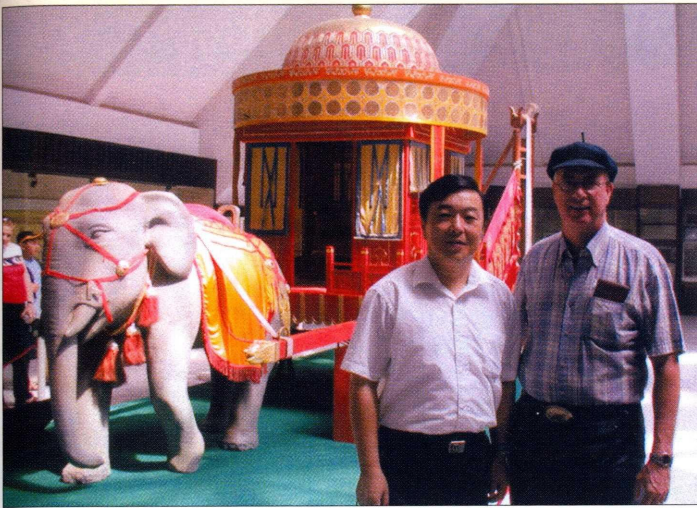

While at Edinboro, Dennis was parliamentarian of Theta Chi fraternity. He was also involved with the judo club, WJKB radio, the history club, student government, softball, swimming, track, basketball, co-chairman of the judicial board, resident assistant, and was named to the dean's list.

Brian Henry, Esq., ('84) is senior counsel at Coca Cola North America for competition/retail and distribution in the corporate legal division based in Atlanta, Georgia. A cum laude graduate of Edinboro's criminal justice program, he received his law degree magna cum laude at Case Western Reserve University.

Following a two-year federal clerkship for the Chief Judge of United States Federal District Court of Western District of Pennsylvania, he worked for seven years as an associate with Jones Day and at Collier Shannon, Rill and Scott where he was a partner.

Brian has over nine years of in-house experience with premier consumer product companies, including the Coca Cola Company and Michelin North America, Inc. He uses his extensive experience with legal and business issues relating to managing and selling through diverse and complex distribution systems. Brian will be hosting an Atlanta alumni event at the new Coke World Building in the fall of 2007.

On a recent trip to China, Joe Mineo ('73, '78) met with Fu Jun, the vice director of the Zibo Municipal Foreign Affairs Office, in Zibo, China. Joe presented a letter to Fu on behalf of President Pogue, along with gifts from the University and the Alumni Association. They are pictured here at the Museum of Ancient Chinese Chariots and Horses in the Linza District of Zibo. You may contact Fu Jun at: 60 West Renmin Road, Zhangdian District Zibo City, Shandong Province, China 255033. His email address is: fujun65@tom.com

Dr. Betty (Tarazano) Steege ('54) recently retired as an investment advisor from Eq Financial Consultants, Inc. She has served on the Board of Trustees of the Community College of Beaver County and was named "Woman of the Year" in 1988 by the Upper Beaver Valley Jaycees. That same year, she was the fund-raising campaign chairwoman for the United Way of Beaver County and became the first female president of the county's United Way Board. Betty started the first Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges Job Bank and designed and wrote the first national grant to fund a project for upward mobility for female administrators in community colleges. The recipient of a 1990 Edinboro University Distinguished Alumni Award for public service, Betty and her husband, Peter, have five children.

Dr. Deborah A. Good ('72) is pictured near the flower garden of her Albuquerque home. The owner of Family Therapy of Albuquerque, Inc., Deborah manages an active clinical practice, lectures, publishes and teaches worldwide. She is the director of the Art Therapy Credentials Board and a registered art therapist and clinical advisor. Deborah was awarded the Distinguished Alumni Award in arts and humanities in 1996. She earned her B.S. in Art Education from Edinboro in 1972 and her Ph.D. in counseling with a minor in art therapy at the University of New Mexico in 1996.

Leo Whalen ('79), manager of Sak's Fifth Avenue Parisian Store in Atlanta, has worked for many of the major retail department stores in the United States. He received a B.S. degree in art education from Edinboro.

The first Educator Ambassador dinner was held on the Edinboro campus in August. Eight Ambassadors, all Edinboro graduates who work in school districts and serve as contacts for prospective students, were recognized for their commitment and dedication.

Healthcare Veteran
John A. Calderone

Olympia Medical Center's board of directors announced the appointment of John A. Calderone, Ph.D., as the hospital's new chief executive officer.

Calderone brings to Olympia 25 years of experience in healthcare management, the past 17 of which have been spent as CEO for three different Southern California hospitals: Corona Regional Medical Center, College Hospital in Costa Mesa and Coastal Communities Hospital in Santa Ana. He also served as COO for Doctors Hospital of Santa Ana & Santa Ana Hospital Medical Center. His background also includes serving as the corporate marketing, planning and development director for Summit Health Ltd.

"John's expertise in operating hospitals efficiently and providing the best possible care for the community is unsurpassed," said Dr. Sharham Ravan, Olympia Medical Center's chairman of the board.

A three-time Edinboro graduate, John earned a bachelor's degree in 1970, a master's in secondary guidance in 1971, and a master's in school psychology in 1982. He holds a doctorate in counseling psychology from the University of Pittsburgh and completed a post-doctorate advanced certification program in psychology at Edinboro.

Established in 1948, Olympia Medical Center has 204 licensed beds, nearly 600 affiliated physicians on staff, and is accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations. The medical center's specialty programs include the Los Angeles Center for Spine Care and Research, the California Digestive Diseases Institute, the Center for Geriatric Health, the Joint Replacement Program, Southern California Sports Medicine Institute, the Surgical Weight Control Center and 24-hour emergency care.

Sorry I missed the TKE golf outing. Just to prove I was really in Kenya, I'm sending a shot of the Masi ladies and myself. I was teaching them to sing "Sweetheart of TKE." This was a very successful and eye-opening trip. Five of us went, and since then we have gained sponsors for twenty children and their total school needs and also twenty ladies for their sewing school expenses and machines. We have also found a sponsor for drilling a well on the church property, for water not oil. Next major objective is helping to build an outreach center that will have classrooms and clinics. I'll see you at one of the get togethers at Greek's and will also try to make Homecoming this year. Noel Watson '71

Ron Kerr ('91) graduated from Edinboro with a B.A. in business. He currently serves as director of merchandising for Home Depot headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia. He and his wife, Carol, have a daughter, Chelsea, and a son, Gregory.

The Official Guide to Office Wellness may just be the newest diet and exercise trend to hit the streets of Edinboro... or maybe not. However, William Vitanyi's latest work is guaranteed to give your stomach muscles a workout from laughter. Using nearly 100 Edinboro staff, students, and alumni, Vitanyi shows the kind of "exercises" one can accomplish in their cubicle, or any other small and constricting work space. Vitanyi has kept busy since graduating from Edinboro in 1985 with a bachelor's degree in Russian language. Not only is he a member of the Edinboro staff, he has written and published three books, and established Bayla Publishing.

"You find inspiration where you are," Vitanyi states. And in the case of his three published works, that encouraging advice holds true. His first book, Palm Sunday, is a technological thriller about the invasion of your online privacy. Kyuboria follows the story of a computer programmer who tries to get fired from his job to receive a grant to start his own company.

Vitanyi is also a family man. Both his wife and son, Will, are Edinboro graduates and his son, Sean, came to Edinboro last fall as a freshman. Vitanyi will be participating in the Erie Barnes & Noble Regional Author Roundup, as well as the University's Sesquicentennial Authors of Autumn this fall.

For more information about The Official Guide to Office Wellness, which comes out in October 2006, visit www.baylapublishing.com.

WE HEAR FROM OUR ALUMNI!

From Terry Perich ('70):

I attended Edinboro from 1966 to 1970 and can honestly say they were wonderful years. My memories of Edinboro are very important to me, and I will treasure them forever. I made lifelong friends, got the best possible education and truly enjoyed every minute I attended Edinboro. I did my graduate work through Penn State and can honestly say it couldn't compare to Edinboro.

I will never be able to find the words to describe the summers at Edinboro. My parents used to visit Edinboro two weeks each summer and stay at the motel on the outskirts of town. There were several of my friends who also stayed through the summers, and we had the time of our lives. I don't know how Edinboro has changed, but the faculty back then treated us as friends in the summer, inviting us for meals or coffee. They were always there for us.

My wife, Kathy, and I both retired from the Penn Trafford School District after 33 years of teaching. We have made many trips to Edinboro over the years and spent several summers at the lake.

Editor's Note: Terry's newest book, The Postcard History Series, Cambridge Springs and Edinboro, was published by Arcadia in June.

From Deborah Hurley ('04):

I am a 40-year-old single mother of two. I received my bachelor's degree from Edinboro in December 2004, and started my master's in counseling in January 2005. I have just completed my last class and will do my internship in the fall. To say I am pleased with my education from Edinboro University would be an understatement.

I would like to take a moment to acknowledge the educators I had for class: Dr. Susan Norton, Dr. Susan Packard, Dr. Kenneth Adams, Dr. Jody Gallagher, Dr. Tammy Mitten, and Dr. Gary Connell. These educators not only provide their students with empirically-based knowledge, they challenge their students to become more than they thought they could be. The professors at Edinboro have taught me to be a lifelong learner, respect/embrace diversity, commit myself to excellence, be civically active, and to hold myself to the highest standards. I can now move forward and become a vital member of my community and society. I am proud to say I'm a graduate of Edinboro University!

From Ken Counasse ('72):

A group of former Edinboro students owes you a large debt of gratitude. Last March, I explored the alumni website and found several friends who had shared an apartment with me. Due to starting families, making ends meet, time and distance, we had lost contact with each other. On Saturday, July 29, George Glover ('74), Lynn Yeager and Ken Counasse ('72) met at the home of Ken Gaydos ('72). The friendships, after a 34-year interruption, were renewed in person. Your efforts in setting up the website allowed us to pick up again where we had left off. We now plan to meet on a yearly basis!

KELLY RICHARDS & JULIE NEMERGUT

AWARDED NCAA POSTGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

Edinboro cross country and track & field coach Doug Watts loves to talk about the 'Boro running tradition. The venerable coach knows it all too well, as he is in his fourth decade as the Fighting Scots' head coach.

Through the years he has produced countless outstanding student athletes. Another chapter was written this past year thanks to the efforts of a pair of female runners. Without question, Watts has had better runners than Julie Nemergut and Kelly Richards, but not that many.

Consider the combination of athletics and academics, and they are indeed a rare duo. "There are other women in our program's history who have helped pave the way for their success – but I don't know if we've ever had two roommates who were as dedicated to being the best they can be and struck such a tremendous balance of superior academic success – 'All-American' level running and a full and rich social life," said Watts.

"I'm sure there are a number of young men with broken hearts and confusion in their souls," he joked.

For Julie and Kelly, the loves in their lives were running and academics. As runners competing in cross country in the fall and track & field in the spring, they are multiple All-Americans. And in the classroom, they achieved a status far exceeding other Edinboro athletes.

This past spring capped brilliant careers for the two, and the NCAA agreed. Both Richards and Nemergut were awarded NCAA Postgraduate Scholarships, worth $7,500, to continue graduate studies. Nemergut received one of just 58 scholarships awarded in the fall, with only 12 distributed to Division II student athletes. One of 58 spring honorees,

KELLY RICHARDS

JULIE NEMERGUT

Richards was one of only nine Division II recipients. Even more impressive, the two Edinboro student athletes were the only members of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference to receive the postgraduate scholarships in 2005-06.

To qualify for an NCAA postgraduate scholarship, a student athlete must have an overall grade-point average of 3.2 (on a 4.0 scale) and must have performed with distinction as a member of the varsity team in the sport in which the student athlete was nominated. The student athlete must have behaved, both on and off the field, in a manner that brought credit to the student athlete, the institution and intercollegiate athletics. The student athlete must also plan to continue academic work beyond the baccalaureate degree as a full-time or part-time graduate student.

Richards and Nemergut were recently named to ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America Women's Track & Field/Cross Country First Team. It marks the second straight year both were named to the Academic All-America team by members of CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America). A year ago Richards was named to the second team, while Nemergut was accorded a spot on the third team.

The duo also recently accounted for one-fifth of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference 2006 Spring Top 10 Ten Award winners. It marked the fourth time Nemergut had earned PSAC Top Ten honors, while Richards is now a three-time honoree.

"It is rare that two young women inherently geared to strong independence, find kinship, identity and comfort in each other's intimate presence," Watts pointed out. "Julie and Kelly, roommates from their first day on campus at Edinboro, share that comfortable existence with each other. More than that, the same mature presence is intertwined in their relationships with their athletic program, teammates, and even their coach."

Richards graduated with a 3.98 GPA while majoring in Health and Physical Education, with a minor in Coaching/Health & Wellness Management. She will continue her studies at Springfield College in Massachusetts, working on her master's degree in Sports Management.

A year ago Richards started the Fast Foot Frenzy, a local 10K run, to raise money for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. Her father was diagnosed with leukemia in July 2004.

Nemergut was recognized as Edinboro's Nancy Acker Award winner, presented to the top senior female athlete. She capped the year with her second All-American performance in track and field, thanks to a seventh place finish in the 10,000 meter run (37:23.05). She also reached the finals in the 5,000 meter run, but was unable to complete the difficult double, placing 11th in the finals.

A special education/elementary education major with a 3.91 GPA, she will continue her studies at Edinboro and has one season's eligibility remaining in track/field, and intends to compete at Edinboro next spring.

RAE SHERRED RECEIVES 2006 SPORTSMANSHIP AWARD

Edinboro women's basketball player Rae Sherred has been awarded a 2006 NCAA Sportsmanship Award. Sherred was one of two student athletes from the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference to receive the prestigious award.

Nominees for the awards are reviewed by the NCAA's Committee on Sportsmanship and Ethical Conduct with expectations of carrying out the values of respect, caring, fairness and civility. The NCAA recognizes a male and a female in each of its three divisions and chooses an overall winner for each gender among those six honorees.

Sherred, a sophomore for coach Stan Swank's Fighting Scots, was recognized for her courage and sportsmanship during the PSAC Women's Basketball Championships.

"March 4 was the hardest day of my whole sports career," Sherred explained in her nomination. "Cal had the ball. They tried to pass the ball in down low to the girl I was defending. I tipped the ball away and dove after it to grab the ball. Immediately I called a timeout so we retain possession with a chance to win the game with seven seconds to go."

Rae Sherred

"When I got up I thought I had just made an awesome play when my teammates came up to me and said that we did not have any timeouts left. Then it hit me and I knew that I had just lost the PSAC title game all by myself."

While the play itself will likely be etched in her mind for many years, it is the courage she showed at the conclusion of the game that spoke volumes.

Sherred was requested to appear at the post-game press conference.

"When we got into the locker room, my coach told me even worse news," she recalled. "They were requesting me for the post-game press conference. I knew if I went they were going to ask me to talk about calling the timeout. I got up enough courage to stop crying and go up and talk to the press and tell them my own account of what happened."

Sherred will be featured in the September issue of The NCAA News. She will be presented with her award during a home athletic event in January of 2007.

BAUMGARTNER BOBBLEHEAD DOLL A BIG HIT AT MINOR LEAGUE GAME

Edinboro hosted "Bruce Baumgartner Bobblehead Doll Night" at Jerry Uht Park as the Erie SeaWolves took on the New Hampshire Fisher Cats early in August. The giveaway was in conjunction with Edinboro Community Day.

The SeaWolves are a Double A affiliate of the Detroit Tigers and a member of the Eastern League.

In addition to the bobblehead doll giveaway, Baumgartner, a four-time Olympic medalist, held an autograph session prior to the game and threw out the first pitch.

Baumgartner serves as Edinboro's Director of Athletics, a position he has held since 1997. He is regarded as one of the greatest American wrestlers ever, affirming his status as the greatest freestyle wrestler in American history by winning the bronze medal at the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta. It was his fourth Olympic medal and record-setting 13th world-level medal. Baumgartner was honored by his fellow United States

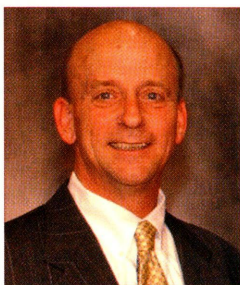

Olympic athletes when he was chosen to carry the American flag for the opening ceremonies.

He won his first gold medal in Los Angeles in 1984, America's first in 60 years of super heavyweight wrestling. Next came a silver medal performance at the 1988 Games in Seoul, Korea, followed by a second gold medal in Barcelona, Spain in '92. He became the first American wrestler to ever medal in three consecutive Olympics.

Honored as the winner of the James E. Sullivan Award in 1995 as the outstanding amateur athlete in the United States, Baumgartner had not lost to an American wrestler from 1981 through his retirement from competition in 1998. He has been inducted into numerous Hall of Fames, including the Wrestling Hall of Fame in 2002 and the Pennsylvania Hall of Fame in 2005.

WALCAVICH ANNOUNCES THE ADDITION OF FOUR RECRUITS

Edinboro University men's basketball coach Greg Walcavich announced the addition of four incoming players for the 2006-07 season. The Fighting Scots finished the 2005-06 campaign with a 21-10 record, their second straight 20-win campaign, and made the NCAA Division II Playoffs for the second straight year.

"We are excited to have all four of the newcomers join our program," said Walcavich. "We look for all of them to have an immediate positive impact."

With the loss of perimeter players – Torry Mitchell, Chris Ravello and Dan Grabill – a major emphasis was replenishing the backcourt. Three of the four recruits address that need. Kyree Brown, a transfer from Eastern Illinois University, Joe Jones, a former local standout who previously played at Roberts Wesleyan, and freshman Dan Walsh are expected to provide immediate help at guard. In addition, Vald Kovalesky, one of the top power forwards in Canada, gives the frontcourt depth.

Brown is a 6'3", 175 lb. guard who played as a true freshman a year ago at Division I Eastern Illinois. While he saw limited action for the Panthers, his high school credentials are quite impressive. Brown played in 18 games a year ago, scoring eight points and pulling down 12 rebounds. He made 3 of 13 field goals, including 1 of 5 three-pointers, and was 1 of 2 from the free throw line.

"Kyree is ready to play right now," Walcavich exclaimed. "We tried hard to sign him out of high school but couldn't get it done. He is a basketball player, with good ball skills, a decent shooter, and a good athlete. He is from the same AAU program that sent Tyrone Mason, Philip Melton and Kenny Tate to Edinboro. We are looking for Kyree to be a very good player for us."

A former standout at nearby Cathedral Prep, Jones has blossomed into a 6'2", 175 lb. sophomore. After redshirting in 2004-05, Jones helped Roberts Wesleyan to an 18-15 record while earning third team All-American Mideast Conference honors. The Raiders reached the NCCA Final Four before losing to two-time defending champion Spring Arbor and finishing fourth.

Jones finished as the second-leading scorer at 13.5 ppg., ranked fourth in rebounding at 4.2 rpg., and led the team in assists (149) and steals (56). He shot 43.1 percent from the floor (168 of 390), making 49 of 155 three-pointers, and shot 68.9 percent from the line (62 of 90). Jones paced the raiders in scoring ten times, including a 24-point outing against Seton Hill.

Walsh was a multi-sport standout at Moon Area High School who earned third team PIAA All-State honors after leading the Tigers to a 24-6 record as a senior. A 6'3" guard, he averaged 12.5 ppg. with 6 assists per game.

A two-year starter and four-year letterwinner with over 800 career points, Walsh helped Moon to a 96-23 record during his four seasons. He was part of the 2003-04 team which defeated Holy Ghost Prep to win the PIAA Class AAA state championship, and helped the Tigers to three WPIAL championships.

"Dan is an outstanding player from a championship-caliber program," said Walcavich. "He has proven he will do the work required to win. He is good already, and I anticipate he will get better quickly as the season progresses."

Kovalesky brings size to the equation. The 6'7" forward was rated the ninth-best power forward by HoopLife.ca after averaging 21 ppg., 9 rpg. and 3 assists for Vaughan Secondary School. He was a three-year starter and earned first team All-York Region honors all three seasons.

He competed for Canada in the Maccabiah Games in 2005, leading the team in scoring. Kovalesky chose Edinboro over the likes of the University of Montana, Arkansas Tech, VMI, Texas State and Alderson-Broaddus.

"Vald will bring size and toughness up front," said Walcavich. "The experience he gained playing internationally should help him become acclimated quickly. He'll have the opportunity to come in and earn minutes up front immediately, and should improve in the years to come."

Edinboro enters the upcoming season seeking its third straight Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference championship after becoming the first team since Cheyney in 1982-83 to win two consecutive league titles. Cheyney was also the last team to win three PSAC championships in a row, as the Wolves won five straight from 1976-80.

"We are excited to have all four of the newcomers join our program," said Walcavich.

ALEX CLEMSSEN NAMED TO NWCA ALL-ACADEMIC TEAM

Edinboro University's Alex Clemssen was named to the National Wrestling Coaches Association (NWCA) Division I All-Academic Team. A total of 68 wrestlers were recognized for their academic prowess, as well as their wrestling abilities.

To qualify for selection, wrestlers must (a) have a grade point average (GPA) of 3.20 and be an NCAA qualifier or have won 60 percent of his total schedule and must have competed in 60 percent of a team's schedule, or (b) have a 3.00 GPA and earn All-American honors.

Clemssen is a business administration-marketing major with a 3.63 GPA. He was a key reason Edinboro enjoyed one of its finest seasons in school history on the mats, finishing with a perfect 12-0 record.

In addition to earning NWCA All-Academic honors, Clemssen was recently selected to the PSAC Winter Top Ten.

DAREN TIELSCH TO RETURN IN 2006-07

NCAA AWARDS BASKETBALL STANDOUT SIXTH YEAR OF ELIGIBILITY

After earlier announcing the addition of four recruits, Edinboro University head basketball coach Greg Walcavich received a pleasant surprise when the school was notified that the NCAA has granted men's basketball player Daren Tielsch a sixth year of eligibility.

Tielsch, a 6'8", 240 lb. forward, has played two seasons at Edinboro, helping the Fighting Scots to the PSAC Championship and the NCAA Division II Playoffs both years. He played his freshman season at Penn State in 2001-02, then transferred to Robert Morris and sat out the 2002-03 campaign per NCAA transfer rules. He played just one game for the Colonials in 2003-04 before suffering a serious leg injury. He joined the Fighting Scots in 2004-05.

"If applicable, the extension request is an option for all student athletes, and we are very pleased that the NCAA saw fit to grant Daren this opportunity," said Associate Director of Athletics Todd Jay. "In recent years, the NCAA has really addressed student-welfare issues, and they obviously looked very closely at this particular case. The entire process was months in the making, but the conclusion makes it all worthwhile."

The additional year does come with a catch. The NCAA concluded that Tielsch must sit out one game after participating in the inaugural Division II All-Star Game earlier this year. "It was a unique case for the NCAA," Jay noted. "It took them 12 days to determine whether an actual violation had even occurred because when he played in the all-star game he had exhausted his eligibility; thus making it an allowable contest for the student athlete."

"After he was granted the additional year, we self-reported what was potentially the extra benefit. We respect the NCAA's stance and accept their ruling (one-game penalty). Now it is time to move on and leave all this behind us." Tielsch will be forced to miss the November 15 season opener at West Virginia Wesleyan.

In his first season as a Fighting Scot, Tielsch averaged 13.4 ppg. and 7.2 rpg. while playing in 25 contests, with Edinboro finishing 24-7. He has played in 55 career games, scoring 1,029 career points.

JORDIE SOSO NAMED ASSISTANT WOMEN'S BASKETBALL COACH

Edinboro University Director of Athletics Bruce Baumgartner announced the hiring of Jordie Soso as assistant women's basketball coach. Soso replaces Yvette Sparks who resigned at the conclusion of the 2005-06 campaign.

A native of Melbourne, Australia, Soso joins the Edinboro coaching staff after serving for the past two years as a graduate assistant at Christian Brothers University, a Division II institution in Memphis.

Soso played two seasons at the University of Memphis after transferring from Okaloosa Walton Community College. As a freshman she attended Grayson (TX) County College. As a senior for the Lady Tigers in 2003-04, she helped Memphis to a 21-10 record and a trip to the Women's National Invitational Tournament. She averaged 6.4 ppg. and 4.0 rpg., and was a preseason All-Conference USA honorable mention choice. She ranked fourth on the Lady Tigers in scoring as a junior with an average of 6.8 ppg., and was second in rebounding at 4.2 rpg. She also led Memphis with 20 blocked shots.

"Coach Soso brings youth and enthusiasm to our program," said head coach Stan Swank. "She has excellent communication skills and is a very personable individual. Her playing experiences at the University of Memphis, along with her recent graduate assistant coaching position at Christian Brothers University of the Gulf South Conference, provide our program with a person of basketball skill and knowledge.

"I believe Jordie will have an immediate impact on our program. She has a personality that will relate well with our players. She has very good knowledge of the game and what it takes to be successful. I envision her being able to hit the ground running hard on the recruiting trail identifying the type of player we are looking for and being able to relate to the student athlete as well as her parents. I like her belief in Edinboro University and the women's basketball program. She will definitely be a great asset to our program."

Sosa graduated from Memphis with a bachelor's degree in Sports Management in 2004, and is completing work on her master's degree in education from Christian Brothers.

Edinboro finished the 2005-06 campaign with a 21-10 record. The Fighting Scots reached the PSAC Championship game before suffering a narrow loss to California (Pa.), and qualified for the NCAA Division II Playoffs for the first time since 1996-97.

"Coach Soso brings youth and enthusiasm to our program."

STAN SWANK ANNOUNCES 2006-07 RECRUITING CLASS

Edinboro women's basketball coach Stan Swank recently announced his 2006-07 recruiting class. Swank will add four players – three freshmen and a junior college transfer – to a team which finished 21-10 a year ago, playing in the PSAC championship game and making the NCAA Division II Northeast Regional.

Leading the way is Lacey Heiar, a 5'5" guard from Preston, Iowa, who played two seasons at Williston State (ND) Junior College. Swank expects Heiar to step in and replace All-American Callie Iorfido at point guard.

In addition, the veteran coach brought in three freshmen. Kelsey Conklin, a 6'1" forward, is from nearby General McLane High School. The backcourt will be bolstered with the addition of Samantha Reimer, a 5'8" guard from Altoona (Pa.) High School, and 5'7" wing Janine McDonald, who starred at Sharon (Pa.) High School.

"We think this is a very solid recruiting class," said Swank. "We lost two backcourt players in Callie Iorfido and Jessi Montie, so it was imperative to fill needs there. Callie was a great player for us, but I think Lacey Heiar will come in and continue the type of point guard play we've had. All of the players are athletic and hard workers. I think they'll fit in very well."

WRESTLING RECRUITING CLASS RANKED 19th BY W.I.N. MAGAZINE

After one of the finest seasons in school history, Edinboro wrestling coach Tim Flynn is now building for the future. The veteran Fighting Scot mentor is off to a good start, with W.I.N. Magazine rating Edinboro's 2006 recruiting class 19th in its Top 25 Recruiting Classes.

Flynn listed a total of 12 incoming wrestlers for the 2006-07 season and is excited to add this contingent to a roster that includes two returning All-Americans. "We're really happy with this group and their work ethic," said Flynn. "This group will help us in our quest to be a top five program."

The Fighting Scots weren't far from that a year ago, finishing eighth at the NCAA Division I National Championships while finishing with a perfect 12-0 record, the only undefeated team in Division I. Edinboro captured both the EWL and PSAC championships.

The list of 2006-07 recruits includes the following: Lewis Baker (King of Prussia, PA/Upper Merion) at 141 lbs.;

Adam Bearden (St. Louis, MO/Lindbergh) at 157 lbs.; Daryl Cocozzo (River Edge, NJ/River Dell), who was third at the High School nationals and will compete at 141 lbs.; Shawn Fendone (Salem, NH/Central Catholic (Mass.)), the brother of current 197 lb. starter Joe Fendone and a three-time Massachusetts placewinner at 184 lbs.;

Kyle Fluke (State College, PA/State College), a four-time PIAA placewinner who will wrestle at 125 lbs.; Kory Hiner (Wattsburg, PA/Fort LeBoeuf), a two-time PIAA placewinner who will compete at 125 lbs.; Eric Morrill

(Sandown, NH/Timberlane), a three-time New Hampshire state champion; Travis Popham (Mt. Vernon, OH/Mt. Vernon), who finished second twice in the Ohio state tournament and will compete at 165 lbs.; Ricky Saxton (Ft. Belvoir, VA/Mt. Vernon), a Virginia placewinner who will compete at 157 lbs.; Cory Slater (Greenville, PA/Commodore Perry) at 149 lbs.; Lee Vanella (Mt. Pleasant, PA/Mt. Pleasant Area) a two-time PIAA placewinner, who will compete at 133 lbs.; and Dan Whitenak (Middle River, MD/Mount St. Joseph), a three-time state champion out of Maryland who will compete at 125 lbs.

"This group will help us in our quest to be a top five program."

EDINBORO PICKED SECOND IN PSAC WEST

The Edinboro University football team has been picked second in the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference Coaches' Preseason Poll. The Fighting Scots enter their first season under head coach Scott Browning, a long-time assistant who was named Edinboro's 13th head coach on January 5.

Here's a look at how the coaches view the season in the PSAC West:

2006 PSAC Western Division Coaches Preseason Poll

- 1 California (Pa.) 8-2, 5-1
- 2 EDINBORO 8-2, 5-1
- 3 Slippery Rock 5-5, 4-2
- 4 Indiana (Pa.) 5-5, 4-2
- 5 Shippensburg 4-7, 2-4
- 6 Clarion 3-7, 1-5
- 7 Lock Haven 2-9, 0-6

BRADFORD FEATURED IN AMERICAN FOOTBALL MONTHLY

Don't look for the Edinboro football team to step up to the Big 12 and play Baylor anytime soon. But the August edition of American Football Monthly, a magazine designed for football coaches, showcased such a duel.

Wayne Bradford

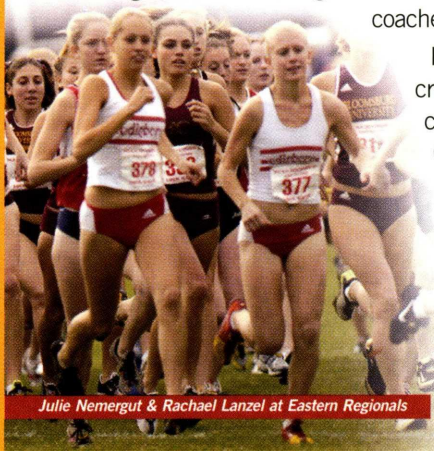

The Point-Counterpoint section featured Edinboro defensive coordinator Wayne Bradford squaring off against Baylor offensive coordinator. The topic was "Defending the Two-Minute Offense."

Bradford is in his eighth year at Edinboro. This is the latest of several articles Bradford has had published.

CROSS COUNTRY, SWIMMING TEAMS EARN ACADEMIC ALL-AMERICA HONORS

The Edinboro University athletic teams earned great success in the classroom as well as on the playing fields, and several were recognized as Academic All-America Teams this past year.

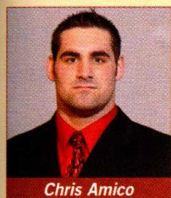

The swimming team was named an Academic All-America Swimming Team by the College Swim Coaches Association of America. To qualify for this award, the entire swimming team must average at least a 2.80 on a 4.0 scale. The Fighting Scots are coached by former Edinboro All-American Chris Rhodes.

Julie Nemergut & Rachael Lanzel at Eastern Regionals

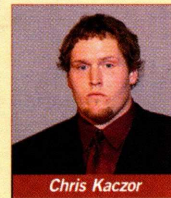

In addition, the track & field teams joined the cross country teams as All-Academic Teams as chosen by the U.S. Track and Field and Cross Country Coaches Association. Both the men's and women's track teams were honored, with a total of 23 men's teams and 49 women's teams recognized in Division II. Teams had to maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or higher.

Individually, the women had three honorees – Rachael Lanzel, Julie Nemergut and Kelly Richards.

Chris Amico

EDINBORO RANKED 18th IN FOOTBALL GAZETTE PRESEASON POLL

Chris Kaczor

The Edinboro University football team will enter its first season under new head coach Scott Browning with some high expectations.

The Fighting Scots are nationally-ranked in two preseason publications, standing 15th in Lindy's Magazine NCAA Division II Preseason Top 25 and ranked 18th in the 2006 Football Gazette NCAA Division II Pre-Season Top 40. Edinboro finished the 2005 campaign with an 8-2 record and won its third straight PSAC West title.

In the Football Gazette poll, Edinboro is one of five teams ranked from the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference, and the Fighting Scots will face the other four squads at some point in 2006. Edinboro opens the season on Saturday, September 2 against West Chester, a team which was 8-4 a year ago and made the NCAA Division II Playoffs. The Golden Rams are ranked 38th. Week number three finds the Fighting Scots hosting Bloomsburg, last year's PSAC East champion and a team which is ranked seventh in Football Gazette's preseason poll. The Huskies were 11-1 a year ago, losing to East Stroudsburg in the regional semifinals.

East Stroudsburg is the highest-ranked PSAC team. The Warriors are ranked fifth after posting an 11-3 record a year ago, winning the Northeast Region title before losing to Grand Valley

Scott Browning

State in the Division II semifinals. East Stroudsburg visits Sox Harrison Stadium on October 14.

California (Pa.) is ranked 23rd by Football Gazette. Edinboro tied the Vulcans for the PSAC West title, with California (Pa.) also finishing with an 8-2 record. The Fighting Scots welcome Cal for Homecoming on October 7.

"We go right into the fire!" said Browning. "We're honored to be so highly-regarded. But we have some key positions that need to be filled, and we're going to be filling them with players who have no game experience."

The Fighting Scots return 38 letterwinners, with seven starters returning to a defense that was ranked number one in three statistical categories. Edinboro led Division II in scoring defense (9.3 ppg.), rushing defense (53.7 ypg.), and total defense (211.2 ypg.). Five starters are back on offense.

In addition to the lofty rankings, a pair of Fighting Scots were accorded first team preseason All-American honors by Lindy's. Chris Amico was named to the first team as a defensive lineman, while Chris Kaczor was chosen as a first team offensive lineman.

ALUMNI, BOOSTERS AND FRIENDS OF EDINBORO UNIVERSITY NCAA RECRUITING RULES YOU SHOULD KNOW

Edinboro University is committed to full compliance with all NCAA and Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference rules and regulations. It is our responsibility to ensure that boosters are in compliance with the NCAA guidelines. Please take a moment to read this article carefully. It is important to Edinboro University and the student-athletes.

If Edinboro University and/or anyone associated with the University (e.g., booster, alumnus, faculty, staff or coach) violates an NCAA rule, the following penalties may be applied:

- The student-athlete may be declared ineligible to represent Edinboro in intercollegiate athletics
- Edinboro may have to forfeit a conference and/or NCAA title
- The NCAA may place Edinboro on probation (i.e., ineligible for championship participation)

GENERAL RECRUITING RULES

Division I (Edinboro's Wrestling Program): Only coaches are permitted to be involved in the off-campus recruitment process. No one else is permitted to contact a prospective student athlete or members of his/her family by telephone, letter or in person for the purpose of encouraging participation in athletics at Edinboro University.

Division II (All Edinboro programs except wrestling): Only coaches and certified athletics department staff are permitted to recruit off-campus. Telephone calls and correspondence from individuals outside the athletics department must be coordinated by the coaching staff of each individual program.
