About the Department of Performing Arts – Theatre Division

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Theatre combines a liberal arts education with practical theatre production experience. Students study drama theory and forms of theatrical productions from a historical and contemporary approach. Not only do students study acting techniques, scenic, lighting, costume and stage make-up design, they also have opportunities in creative dramatics, directing, and children's theatre. To provide students with ample hands-on experience, the academic program is coupled with the practical experience component in all of the collaborative roles associated with a theatre production.

Outside the class environment, students may participate in activities such as the University Players, the student drama organization, which produces two or three main stage productions and two to four studio productions each academic year. The national honorary theatre fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega, has an official chapter on the LHU campus. Internship opportunities are also available and can be customized to meet student's goals. Through the department, guest professionals in theatre visit to share their expertise with students, direct productions, and conduct workshops in the classroom.
