As we move through the semester, it's important to maintain our vigilance in the fight against COVID. The message below outlines proper mask wearing, provides testing options, and provides links to Clarion-specific information. The Fall 2021 COVID page lists testing and quarantine numbers, information for Faculty and Staff, and recommends actions to take if you're notified that you may have been exposed to someone who has tested positive.

Resources include a Student Decision Tree and an Employee Decision Tree to determine next steps if you're experiencing symptoms or you've been identified as a close contact of someone who has COVID-19.

If you have tested positive for COVID, time is essential to begin contact tracing.

- Employees: Do not report to work and notify your supervisor as soon as you can. Supervisors should notify Human Resources of positive test results. All of this information will be held confidential.
- Students: Do not attend class and notify the Center for Wellness at 814-393-2121 as soon as possible.

Please remember that regardless of vaccination status, employees, students and visitors are required to wear a mask that covers their nose and mouth when inside all campus buildings. Masks are not required for those employees who are alone in their offices or work spaces, students in their living spaces, anyone actively eating or drinking, or in most outdoor settings. If you see individuals not properly wearing a mask indoors, please kindly ask them to do so. If someone alerts you that your mask is being worn improperly, please respond kindly.

Proper masks, according to the CDC, are those that:

- Have two or more layers of washable, breathable fabric.
- Completely cover your nose and mouth.

The best way to protect yourself and everyone else is to be vaccinated. The university will host a vaccination clinic from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Sept. 23. The clinic will be outside the south entrance of Suites on Main South (parking lot side). In the event of rain, the clinic will move to conference rooms in Suites on Main South. The clinic is open to students, employees and their family members. Registration will be done through the Primary Health Network website; a link and confirmed information will be sent to employees and students next week.

Please mask up and vaccinate to keep yourself and others safe.

With the start of the fall semester and the rise of the delta variant, there are some expectations and procedures that must be observed by students, faculty and staff.

SAFETY EXPECTATIONS:

- Masks/face shields, covering the nose and mouth, must be worn while in any campus building, including libraries, classrooms and labs. Masks also are recommended for all outside spaces where social distancing is not possible. Updated signs about the masking requirement will be placed in all buildings and communicated to students and their families upon their arrival.
- Masks include disposable or double-layered cloth face masks. Both the nose and mouth should be covered at all times while in a class or in a campus building.
- Students who cannot wear masks or shields because of a disability must seek an accommodation through the Office of Disability Services. If such an accommodation has been granted, this will be listed on the accommodation sheet that is provided to faculty members.
- Faculty and staff are expected to use masks/face shields in all campus buildings, including during classes and meetings during office hours. The only time masks are not required is when a person is working alone in a private office.
- Faculty may conduct office hours in person or via zoom. If using the zoom option, the zoom address should be available to students via the syllabus or a link on D2L.
- Physical distancing will not be required, but faculty are strongly encouraged to spread out students as much as possible throughout the classroom space.
- Faculty are strongly encouraged to include a statement on their syllabi about mask wearing and the consequences of improper use of or lack of masking. Such a statement might include "We are a community of learners and, as such, we treat each other with civility and respect. Part of that respect is protecting each other from harm. Per University policy, masks covering the mouth and nose are required to be worn at all times during class. Students who are not masked or who do not cover their mouth and nose with the mask will be asked to leave the class. This will be counted as an unexcused absence."
- How long do COVID Tests take to get results when they are administered through AMI on campus or the campus health center? These are PCR tests and it will take typically 24-48 business hours to receive results.

ENFORCING THE EXPECTATION

- If a student arrives at class or the libraries without a mask and does not have an approved accommodation, the following steps may be taken:
 1. Before the student takes a seat in the class or the library, remind the student of the expectation and ask the student to put on a mask.
 2. If the student does not have a mask with them, tell the student to go to the departmental office and get one.
 3. If the student refuses to wear a mask, the faculty or staff member can refuse entry to the class or ask the student to leave the class or library.
 4. If the unmasked student will not leave, the faculty member may dismiss the class. In this case, the faculty member should report the incident to the Office of Student Conduct which will address the problem directly with the student.
 5. If the student becomes argumentative, the faculty member should leave the class without further engaging with the student. In this case, the faculty or staff member should report the incident to the Office of Student Conduct, which will address the problem directly with the student. If at any time the faculty member or other students feel threatened, Public Safety may be summoned.

QUARANTINE/ISOLATION CIRCUMSTANCES

- Quarantine applies to people who have been exposed; isolation applies to people who have tested positive.
- If a faculty member must quarantine or be in isolation and cannot be present for in-person classes, the faculty member may teach the course remotely during the quarantine/isolation period but must work with their chair and dean on this arrangement.
- If the faculty member cannot or does not wish to teach remotely during their quarantine/isolation, the faculty member must submit a request for sick leave. In this case, the department chair will arrange for alternative coverage of classes until the return of the faculty member; the course will be taught using the same delivery modality as defined in the schedule.
- If a student in your class is in quarantine or isolation, the student will be treated as any other student who has an extended illness. The student should reach out to their faculty to inform them that they will be missing an extended illness. The student should reach out to their faculty to inform them that they will be missing classes for a period of time. The faculty member should inform the student of coursework that will be missed and how to best stay current in their studies. In addition, faculty are encouraged to be flexible in accommodating scheduled assignments and exams.

- Faculty are strongly encouraged to include a statement on their syllabi about quarantined or isolated students, i.e., "If you are required to quarantine or isolate due to exposure to or diagnosis of COVID-19, please let me know immediately. While we can be flexible [elaborate on how flexible you will be], students are still required to complete all work for the class."
- How are students being fed when they are asked to quarantine? If a student has to quarantine and they live within campus housing and are on a meal plan, we will work with that student to have meals delivered according to the plan they have. We will also work out any dietary concerns. If they live in Reinhard Villages, a part of our campus housing that does not require a meal plan and they do not have a plan, we can still deliver food but will arrange charges to be added to the student account. This goes the same for those students that may be positive and have to isolate in Suites on Main North to be away from roommates.

If you feel you may have symptoms of COVID-19, please follow the COVID-19 student decision tree. Any student can get tested Monday and Wednesday from noon to 2:00 p.m. in Eagle Commons 107/108.

STUDENT LIFE *UPDATED 9/3/2021

The university has taken steps for organizations to return to a sense of normal operations for on- and off-campus events which an RSO or RUO may wish to participate in/host. We request that all organizations be diligent and strongly encourage students to become vaccinated to COVID-19 as the pandemic is ongoing. Organizations are also asked to, when at all possible, utilize larger spaces for events and encourage events to be held outdoors if that is feasible.

We know from a student survey that roughly 70 percent of students who took the survey indicated being vaccinated.

This responsible behavior makes it possible for us to allow our students to engage in in-person events and once again hold in person meetings.

We look forward to you continuing to 'Protect the Nest' while enjoying making friends, having fun, and once again returning to more programming and meeting opportunities.

Please note that Clarion University reserves the right to deny, cancel, postpone or re-locate on-campus and off-campus University events based on health and safety considerations.

Quarantine and Isolation Guidelines for Teaching

What should you do when a student is quarantined or is in isolation?

(rev. 9.13.21)

What should you, as a faculty member, do when students provide information that they have been quarantined or are in isolation?

As a reminder, students who are quarantined have had significant exposure to someone who tested positive. They are not sick or ill, but they will be monitoring their symptoms for the 10-14 days in which they are required to quarantine. Students who are in isolation have tested positive; they may be experiencing symptoms that make it difficult to do the day-to-day work of the class. If students tell you they have tested positive, remind them to inform the University by contacting Jim McGee.

- If the class is online:
 - No special provisions need to be made for the students who are quarantined since they are not ill.
 - Work with the isolated student as you would any other student who is ill and as outlined in your syllabus.
- If the class is multi-modal:
 - Students who are quarantined should attend the class virtually; these students can be held to the same standards as all of the other students who are attending the class virtually.
 - Work with the isolated student as you would any other student who is ill and as outlined in your syllabus.
- If the class is face-to-face:
 - Students who are quarantined or isolated should not attend the class face-to-face. You may choose to zoom the class if:
 - You deem the content “zoom friendly.” We recognize that hands-on activities are much more difficult to deliver via zoom than are lectures and discussions.
 - You are zooming only to quarantined or isolated students. Students who enrolled in face-to-face classes signed up for a face-to-face class and expected to attend class in person, so zooming to the entire class should be reserved for exceptional circumstances.

- Work with the isolated student as you would any other student who is ill and as outlined in your syllabus. The students have an illness that has been documented by the Health Center.

What should you do when you, as a faculty member, are quarantined or in isolation?

Please notify your department chair and HR if you have tested positive or if you are being required to quarantine. As a reminder, faculty who are in quarantine are not sick or ill but should monitor symptoms during the time they are required to quarantine. Faculty who are in isolation have tested positive. Symptoms may vary from very mild to those that make it difficult or impossible to do the day-to-day work of teaching the class.

- If the class is online:
 - If you are quarantined, do not come to campus but continue to teach online. No other special provisions need to be made since you are quarantined and are not ill.
 - If you have been asked to isolate, you have tested positive, and your symptoms may be mild enough that you can continue to work from home. If your symptoms interfere with your ability to work, however, contact your chair to make arrangements for your course to be covered. Take sick leave, personal leave, or leave without pay for the days on which you have scheduled classes or office hours. If you have no sick leave left, you may request leave from the APSCUF Sick Leave Bank by contacting Jan Walters.
- If the class is multi-modal:
 - If you are quarantined, do not come to campus. Teach the class via zoom or online and inform the students that you will not be teaching face-to-face until the quarantine period is over.
 - If you have been asked to isolate, your symptoms may be mild enough that you can continue to work and teach your class via zoom or online from home. Inform the students that you will not be teaching face-to-face until you test negative, you go 24 hours without a fever, or 10 days have passed since your positive test.

You can do this for no more than 20% of the class sessions since 21% is the point at which instruction officially becomes hybrid. Inform the students that you will not be teaching the class face-to-face and provide them instructions for zoom or D2L access.
