Newyopercussion

...is a new contemporary percussion quartet out of Youngstown, OH. Founding members Dean Anshutz, Matt Hayes and Bob Young are all alumni of the Dana School of Music at Youngstown State University. They formed this ensemble in order to professionally continue their passion for creating and performing percussion chamber music. Newyopercussion emerges from Northeast Ohio to excite and entertain audiences from all walks of life with performances that not only include contemporary repertoire, but masterworks from the past, and groundbreaking newly commissioned pieces. In addition to public performances, Newyo strongly believes in supporting arts education in the community and throughout academia by offering residencies, clinics, and master classes at various schools and other institutions of public learning.

Dean Anshutz

Through versatility, skill, and creativity, Dean Anshutz has established himself as a young talent and total percussionist. Crafting a career that has taken him from underground rock clubs to the concert hall and everything in between, there isn't much he hasn't experienced. Coming from North East Ohio, Dean earned a Bachelors degree in classical performance from Youngstown State University. While in school, he had the privilege to give the world premiere of Ziggurat by jazz drummer and composer John Hollenbeck at the Whitney Art Museum in NYC, retained an aggressive schedule with Matrix indoor percussion ensemble, and won the principle percussion chair with the Ohio Light Opera Orchestra. Immediately following his tenure with the OLO, Dean began work on a project as drummer and musical director of The Daughters of Intention, a band playing the music of Frank Zappa. He finished his degree and took the caption head position writing, and instructing the YSU Drum Line. Soon after graduation, Dean was asked to join national touring act, Red Wanting Blue. The band keeps an active touring scheduled with over 100 shows per year nationally and has played along with Brandi Carlisle, John Prine, Kacey Musgraves, The Flaming Lips, OAR, and many other major acts. Dean with Red Wanting Blue have performed on The Late Show with David Letterman, VH1's Big Morning Buzz, NPR's Mountain Stage and headlined venues and festivals all over the country. Along with nonstop touring, writing, recording with RWB, Dean is co-founder of the Newyopercussion Quartet, active member of the Youngstown Scoring Stage, member of Nouveau rock band The Zou, auxiliary percussionist with experimental rock band Sam Goodwill and active freelance percussionist. Drawing on such a diverse musical background, Dean's blend of all styles of drumming, complemented by his creative use of auxiliary percussion, create a unique sound that defines Dean in the music industry.

Matthew Hayes

Matthew Hayes grew up in Coshocton, Ohio and graduated from River View High School. In 2001, he began pursuing a music education degree at Capital University where he studied percussion under Bob Breithaupt. He left in 2004 and began teaching percussion back at River View, where he was hired as the Director of Percussion and directed marching, concert, and indoor percussion rehearsals, directed, composed, and arranged for the Caribbean Percussion Ensemble, and taught private lessons. In 2006, Matt was a member of Matrix Indoor Percussion Ensemble under the direction of Rob Ferguson.

In 2008, Matt began his studies at Youngstown State University under Dr. Glenn Schaft, where he performed with numerous jazz, chamber, and large ensembles. A recent graduate of YSU's Dana School of Music, he is currently a freelance professional musician in the Youngstown area and is performing with such groups as The Youngstown Scoring Stage, The All-Ohio State Fair Youth Choir, and The Labra Brothers. Outside of music, Matt dreams of hiking the Appalachian Trail and growing a beard.

Bob Young

Born and raised in the Youngstown area, Bob Young has established and maintained a strong foundation in the region as a percussionist and educator. Bob received a Bachelors degree in Music Education from Youngstown State University's Dana School of Music. In that time, he served in many of the top ensembles crossing a variety of music atmospheres. Also serving as president of the Youngstown Percussion Collective, Bob led the commission and world premier of faculty composer Dave Morgan's Forms of Things Unknown, traveled and performed with both Matrix Indoor Marching Percussion Ensemble and Glassmen Drum and Bugle Corps, and served as auxiliary percussionist in the YSU Frank Zappa Ensemble. Bob also maintained an active studio of private percussion students, and held a number of drum line and front ensemble instructor positions ranging from Youngstown to the Akron area, including one season instructing the YSU Marching Pride Drum line.

Since graduation, Bob has expanded his private percussion studio, teaching students from the Youngstown area and Chagrin Falls, Ohio as well as working with several marching bands each season. Maintaining an active performance schedule, he is an active member of the Youngstown Scoring Stage, and performs numerous musicals with the Youngstown Playhouse and various other area theaters. Bob is a co-founder of the Newyopercussion Quartet and also performs, writes, and records with regionally touring experimental rock band Sam Goodwill.
